fathers have not hidden. ¹⁹To them alone the earth was given, and no stranger came upon them. ²⁰All the life of the ungodly is spent in care, and the years granted to the oppressor are numbered. ²¹And his terror is in his ears: just when he seems to be at peace, his overthrow will come. ²²Let him not trust that he shall return from darkness, for he has been already made over to the power of the sword. ²³And he has been appointed to be food for vultures; and he knows within himself that he is doomed to be a carcass: and a dark day shall carry him away as with a whirlwind. ²⁴Distress also and anguish shall come upon him: he shall fall as a captain in the first rank. ²⁵For he has lifted his hands against the Lord, and he has hardened his neck against the Almighty Lord. ²⁶And he has run against him with insolence, on the thickness of the back of his shield. ²⁷For he has covered his face with his fat, and made layers of fat upon his thighs. ²⁸And let him lodge in desolate cities, and enter into houses without inhabitant: and what they have prepared, others shall carry away. ²⁹Neither shall he at all grow rich, nor shall his substance remain: he shall not cast a shadow upon the earth. ³⁰Neither shall he in any wise escape the darkness: let the wind blast his blossom, and let his flower fall off. ³¹Let him not think that he shall endure; for his end shall be vanity. ³²His harvest shall perish before the time, and his branch shall not flourish.

Job

³³And let him be gathered as the unripe grape before the time, and let him fall as the blossom of the olive. ³⁴For death is the witness of an ungodly man, and fire shall burn the houses of them that receive gifts. ³⁵And he shall conceive sorrows, and his end shall be vanity, and his belly shall bear deceit.

Chapter 16

¹But Job answered and said, ²I have heard many such things: poor comforters are ye all. ³What! is there any reason in vain words? or what will hinder thee from answering? ⁴I also will speak as ye do: if indeed your soul were in my soul's stead, ⁵then would I insult you with words, and I would shake my head at you. ⁶And would there were strength in my mouth, and I would not spare the movement of my lips. ⁷For if I should speak, I shall not feel the pain of my wound: and if I should be silent, how shall I be wounded the less? ⁸But now he has made me weary, and a worn-out fool; and thou hast laid hold of me. ⁹My falsehood has become a testimony, and has risen up against me: it has confronted me to my face. ¹⁰In his anger he has cast me down; he has gnashed his teeth upon me: the weapons of his robbers have fallen upon me. ¹¹He has attacked me with the keen glances of his eyes; with his sharp spear he has smitten me down upon my knees; and they have run upon me with one accord. ¹²For the Lord has delivered me into the hands of unrighteous men, and thrown me upon the ungodly. ¹³When I was at peace he distracted me: he took me by the hair of the head, and plucked it out: he set me up as a mark. ¹⁴They surrounded me with spears, aiming at my reins: without sparing me they poured out my gall upon the ground. ¹⁵They overthrew me with fall upon fall: they ran upon me in their might. ¹⁶They sewed sackcloth upon my skin, and my strength has been spent on the ground. ¹⁷My belly has been parched with wailing, and darkness is on my eyelids. ¹⁸Yet there was no injustice in my hands, and my prayer is pure. ¹⁹Earth, cover not over the blood of my flesh, and let my cry have no place. ²⁰And now, behold, my witness is in heaven, and my advocate is on high. ²¹Let my supplication come to the Lord, and let mine eye weep before him. ²²Oh that a man might plead before the Lord, even as the son of man with his neighbor! ²³But my years are numbered and their end come, and I shall go by the way by which I shall not return.

¹I perish, carried away by the wind, and I seek for burial, and obtain it not. ²Weary I intreat; and what have I done? and strangers have stolen my goods. ³Who is this? let him join hands with me. ⁴For thou hast hid their heart from wisdom; therefore thou shalt not exalt them. ⁵He shall promise mischief to his companions: but their eyes have failed for their children. ⁶But thou has made me a byword amount the nations, and I am become a scorn to them. ⁷For my eyes are dimmed through pain; I have been grievously beset by all. ⁸Wonder has seized true men upon this; and let the just rise up against the transgressor. ⁹But let the faithful hold on his own way, and let him that is pure of hands take courage. ¹⁰Howbeit, do ye all strengthen yourselves and come now, for I do not find truth in you. ¹¹My days have passed in groaning, and my heart-strings are broken. ¹²I have turned the night into day: the light is short because of darkness. ¹³For if I remain, Hades is my habitation: and my bed has been made in darkness. ¹⁴I have called upon death to be my father, and corruption to be my mother and sister. ¹⁵Where then is yet my hope? or where shall I see my good? ¹⁶Will they go down with me to Hades, or shall we go down together to the tomb?

¹Then Baldad the Sauchite answered and said, ²How long wilt thou continue? forbear, that we also may speak. ³For wherefore have we been silent before thee like brutes? ⁴Anger has possessed thee: for what if thou shouldest die; would the earth under heaven be desolate? or shall the mountains be overthrown from their foundations? ⁵But the light of the ungodly shall be quenched, and their flame shall not go up. ⁶His light shall be darkness in his habitation, and his lamp shall be put out with him. ⁷Let the meanest of men spoil his goods, and let his counsel deceive him. ⁸His foot also has been caught in a snare, and let it be entangled in a net. ⁹And let snares come upon him: he shall strengthen those that thirst for his destruction. ¹⁰His snare is hid in the earth, and that which shall take him is by the path. ¹¹Let pains destroy him round about, and let many enemies come about him, ¹²*vex him* with distressing hunger: and a signal destruction has been prepared for him. ¹³Let the soles of his feet be devoured: and death shall consume his beauty. ¹⁴And let health be utterly banished from his tabernacle, and let distress seize upon him with a charge from the king. ¹⁵It shall dwell in his tabernacle in his night: his excellency shall be sown with brimstone. ¹⁶His roots shall be dried up from beneath, and his crop shall fall away from above. ¹⁷Let his memorial perish out of the earth, and his name shall be publicly cast out. ¹⁸Let one drive him from light into darkness. ¹⁹He shall not be known among his people, nor his house preserved on the earth. ²⁰But strangers shall dwell in his possessions: the last groaned for him, and wonder seized the first. ²¹These are the houses of the unrighteous, and this is the place of them that know not the Lord.

¹Then Job answered and said, ²How long will ye vex my soul, and destroy me with words? only know that the Lord has dealt with me thus. ³Ye speak against me; ye do not feel for me, but bear hard upon me. ⁴Yea verily, I have erred in truth, (but the error abides with myself) in having spoken words which it was not right to speak; and my words err, and are unreasonable. ⁵But alas! for ye magnify yourselves against me, and insult me with reproach. ⁶Know then that it is the Lord that has troubled me, and has raised his bulwark against me. ⁷Behold, I laugh at reproach; I will not speak: or I will cry out, but there is nowhere judgment. ⁸I am fenced round about, and can by no means escape: he has set darkness before my face. ⁹And he has stripped me of my glory, and has taken the crown from my head. ¹⁰He has torn me around about, and I am gone: and he has cut off my hope like a tree. ¹¹And he has dreadfully handled me in anger, and has counted me for an enemy. ¹²His troops also came upon me with one accord, liars in wait compassed my ways. ¹³My brethren have stood aloof from me; they have recognized strangers rather than me: and my friends have become pitiless. ¹⁴My nearest of kin have not acknowledged me, and they that knew my name, have forgotten me. ¹⁵*As for* my household, and my maid-servants, I was a stranger before them. ¹⁶I called my servant, and he hearkened not; and my mouth intreated him. ¹⁷And I besought my wife, and earnestly intreated the sons of my concubines. ¹⁸But they rejected me for ever; whenever I rise up, they speak against me. ¹⁹They that saw me abhorred me:

the very persons whom I had loved, rose up against me. ²⁰My flesh is corrupt under my skin, and my bones are held in my teeth. ²¹Pity me, pity me, O friends; for it is the hand of the Lord that has touched me. ²²Wherefore do ye persecute me as also the Lord does, and are not satisfied with my flesh? ²³For oh that my words were written, and that they were recorded in a book forever, ²⁴with an iron pen and lead, or graven in the rocks! ²⁵For I know that he is eternal who is about to deliver me, ²⁶*and* to raise up upon the earth my skin that endures these sufferings: for these things have been accomplished to me of the Lord; ²⁷which I am conscious of in myself, which mine eye has seen, and not another, but all have been fulfilled to me in my bosom. ²⁸But if ye shall also say, What shall we say before him, and so find the root of the matter in him? ²⁹Do ye also beware of deceit: for wrath will come upon transgressors; and then shall they know where their substance is.

¹Then Sophar the Minaean answered and said, ²I did not suppose that thou wouldest answer thus: neither do ye understand more than I. ³I will hear my shameful reproach; and the spirit of my understanding answers me. ⁴Hast thou not known these things of old, from the time that man was set upon the earth? ⁵But the mirth of the ungodly is a signal downfall, and the joy of transgressors is destruction:

Job

⁶although his gifts should go up to heaven, and his sacrifice reach the clouds. ⁷For when he shall seem to be now established, then he shall utterly perish: and they that knew him shall say, Where is he? ⁸Like a dream that has fled away, he shall not be found; and he has fled like a vision of the night. ⁹The eye has looked upon him, but shall not see him again; and his place shall no longer perceive him. ¹⁰Let his inferiors destroy his children, and let his hands kindle the fire of sorrow. ¹¹His bones have been filled with vigour of his youth, and it shall lie down with him in the dust. ¹²Though evil be sweet in his mouth, though he will hide it under his tongue; ¹³though he will not spare it, and will not leave it, but will keep it in the midst of his throat: ¹⁴yet he shall not at all be able to help himself; the gall of an asp is in his belly. ¹⁵*His* wealth unjustly collected shall be vomited up; a messenger of wrath shall drag him out of his house. ¹⁶And let him suck the poison of serpents, and let the serpent's tongue slay him. ¹⁷Let him not see the milk of the pastures, nor the supplies of honey and butter. ¹⁸He has laboured unprofitably and in vain, for wealth of which he shall not taste: it is as a lean thing, unfit for food, which he cannot swallow. ¹⁹For he has broken down the houses of many mighty men: and he has plundered an habitation, though he built it not. ²⁰There is no security to his possessions; he shall not be saved by his desire. ²¹There is nothing remaining of his provisions; therefore his goods shall not flourish. ²²But when he shall seem to be just satisfied, he shall be straitened; and all distress shall come upon him. ²³If by any means he would fill his belly, let God send upon him the fury of wrath; let him bring a torrent of pains upon him. ²⁴And he shall by no means escape from the power of the sword; let the brazen bow wound him. ²⁵And let the arrow pierce through his body; and let the stars be against his dwelling-place: let terrors come upon him. ²⁶And let all darkness wait for him: a fire that burns not out shall consume him; and let a stranger plague his house. ²⁷And let the heaven reveal his iniquities, and the earth rise up against him. ²⁸Let destruction bring his house to an end; let a day of wrath come upon him. ²⁹This is the portion of an ungodly man from the Lord, and the possession of his goods appointed him by the all-seeing God.

¹But Job answered and said, ²Hear ye, hear ye my words, that I may not have this consolation from you. ³Raise me, and I will speak; then ye shall not laugh me to scorn. ⁴What! is my reproof of man? and why should I not be angry? ⁵Look upon me, and wonder, laying your hand upon your cheek. ⁶For even when I remember, I am alarmed, and pains seize my flesh. ⁷Wherefore do the ungodly live, and grow old even in wealth? ⁸Their seed is according to their desire, and their children are in their sight. ⁹Their houses are prosperous, neither have they any where cause for fear, neither is there a scourge from the Lord upon them. ¹⁰Their cow does not cast her calf, and their beast with young is safe, and does not miscarry. ¹¹And they remain as an unfailing flock, and their children play before them, taking up the psaltery and harp; ¹²and they rejoice at the voice of a song. ¹³And they spend their days in wealth, and fall asleep in the rest of the grave. ¹⁴Yet such a man says to the Lord, Depart from me; I desire not to know thy ways. ¹⁵What is the Mighty One, that we should serve him? and what profit is there that we should approach him? ¹⁶For their good things were in their hands, but he regards not the works of the ungodly. ¹⁷Nevertheless, the lamp of the ungodly also shall be put out, and destruction shall come upon them, and pangs of vengeance shall seize them. ¹⁸And they shall be as chaff before the wind, or as dust which the storm has taken up. ¹⁹Let his substance fail to supply his children: God shall recompense him, and he shall know it. ²⁰Let his eyes see his own destruction, and let him not be saved by the Lord. ²¹For his desire is in his house with him, and the number of his months has been suddenly cut off. ²²Is it not the Lord who teaches understanding and knowledge? and does not he judge murders? ²³One shall die in his perfect strength, and wholly at ease and prosperous; ²⁴and his inwards are full of fat, and his marrow is diffused throughout him. ²⁵And another dies in bitterness of soul, not eating any good thing. ²⁶But they lie down in the earth together, and corruption covers them. ²⁷So I know you, that ye presumptuously attack me: ²⁸so that ye will say, Where is the house of the prince? and where is the covering of the tabernacles of the ungodly? ²⁹Ask those that go by the way, and do not disown their tokens. ³⁰For the wicked hastens to the day of destruction: they shall be led away for the day of his vengeance. ³¹Who will tell him his way to his face, whereas he has done it? who shall recompense him? ³²And he has been led away to the tombs, and he has watched over the heaps. ³³The stones of the valley have been sweet to him, and every man shall depart after him, and there are innumerable ones before him. ³⁴How then do ye comfort me in vain? whereas I have no rest from your molestation.

¹Then Eliphaz the Thaemanite answered and said, ²Is it not the Lord that teaches understanding and knowledge? ³For what matters it to the Lord, if thou wert blameless in thy works? or is it profitable that thou shouldest perfect thy way? ⁴Wilt thou maintain and plead thine own cause? and will he enter into judgment with thee? ⁵Is not thy wickedness abundant, and thy sins innumerable? ⁶And thou hast taken security of thy brethren for nothing, and hast taken away the clothing of the naked. ⁷Neither hast thou given water to the thirsty to drink, but hast taken away the morsel of the hungry. ⁸And thou hast accepted the persons of some; and thou hast established those that were already settled on the earth. ⁹But thou hast sent widows away empty, and has afflicted orphans. ¹⁰Therefore snares have compassed thee, and disastrous war has troubled thee. ¹¹The light has proved darkness to thee, and water has covered thee on thy lying down. ¹²Does not he that dwells in the high places observe? and has he not brought down the proud? ¹³And thou has said, What does the Mighty One know? does he judge in the dark? ¹⁴A cloud is his hiding-place, and he shall not be seen; and he passes through the circle of heaven. ¹⁵Wilt thou not mark the old way, which righteous men have trodden? ¹⁶who were seized before their time: their foundations are as an overflowing stream. ¹⁷Who say, What will the Lord do to us? or what will the Almighty bring upon us? ¹⁸Yet he filled their houses with good things: but the counsel for the wicked is far from him. ¹⁹The righteous have seen it, and laughed, and the blameless one has derided them. ²⁰Verily their substance has been utterly destroyed, and the fire shall devour what is left of their property. ²¹Be firm, I pray thee, if thou canst endure; then thy fruit shall prosper. ²²And receive a declaration from his mouth, and lay up his words in thine heart. ²³And if thou shalt turn and humble thyself before the Lord, thou hast thus removed unrighteousness far from thy habitation. ²⁴Thou shalt lay up for thyself treasure in a heap on the rock; and Sophir shall be as the rock of the torrent. ²⁵So the Almighty shall be thy helper from enemies, and he shall bring thee forth pure as silver that has been tried by fire. ²⁶Then shalt thou have boldness before the Lord, looking up cheerfully to heaven. ²⁷And he shall hear thee when thou prayest to him, and he shall grant thee power to pay thy vows. ²⁸And he shall establish to thee again a habitation of righteousness and there shall be light upon thy paths. ²⁹Because thou hast humbled thyself; and thou shalt say, Man has behaved proudly, but he shall save him that is of lowly eyes. ³⁰He shall deliver the innocent, and do thou save thyself by thy pure hands.

¹Then Job answered and said, ²Yea, I know that pleading is out of my reach; and his hand has been made heavy upon my groaning. ³Who would then know that I might find him, and come to an end of the matter? ⁴And I would plead my own cause, and he would fill my mouth with arguments. ⁵And I would know the remedies which he would speak to me, and I would perceive what he would tell me. ⁶Though he should come on me in his great strength, then he would not threaten me; ⁷for truth and reproof are from him; and he would bring forth my judgment to an end. ⁸For if I shall go first, and exist no longer, still what do I know concerning the latter end? ⁹When he wrought on the left hand, then I observed it not: his right hand shall encompass me but I shall not see it. ¹⁰For he knows already my way; and he has tried me as gold. ¹¹And I will go forth according to his commandments, for I have kept his ways; and I shall not turn aside from his commandments, ¹²neither shall I transgress; but I have hid his words in my bosom. ¹³And if too he has thus judged, who is he that has contradicted, for he has both willed a thing and done it. ¹⁵Therefore am I troubled at him; and when I was reproved, I thought of him. Therefore let me take good heed before him: I will consider, and be afraid of him. ¹⁶But the Lord has softened my heart, and the Almighty has troubled me. ¹⁷For I knew not that darkness would come upon me, and thick darkness has covered me before my face.

¹But why have the seasons been hidden from the Lord, ²while the ungodly have passed over the bound, carrying off the flock with the shepherd? ³They have led away, the ass of the fatherless, and taken the widow's ox for a pledge. ⁴They have turned aside the weak from the right way: and the meek of the earth have hidden themselves together. ⁵And they have departed like asses in the field, having gone forth on my account according to their own order: his bread is sweet to his little ones. ⁶They have reaped a field that was not their own before the time: the poor have laboured in the vineyards of the ungodly without pay and without food. ⁷They have caused many naked to sleep without clothes, and they have taken away the covering of their body. ⁸They are wet with the drops of the mountains: they have embraced the rock, because they had no shelter. ⁹They have snatched the fatherless from the breast, and have afflicted the outcast. ¹⁰And they have wrongfully caused others to sleep without clothing, and taken away the morsel of the hungry. ¹¹They have unrighteously laid wait in narrow places, and have not known the righteous way. ¹²Who have cast forth the poor from the city and their own houses, and the soul of the children has groaned aloud. ¹³Why then has he not visited these? forasmuch as they were upon the earth, and took no notice, and they knew not the way of righteousness, neither have they walked in their appointed paths? ¹⁴But having known their works, he delivered them into darkness: and in the night one will be as a thief: ¹⁵and the eye of the adulterer has watched for the darkness, saying, Eye shall not perceive me, and he puts a covering on his face. ¹⁶In darkness he digs through houses: by day they conceal themselves securely: they know not the light. ¹⁷For the morning is to them all as the shadow of death, for each will be conscious of the terror of the shadow of death.¹⁸ He is swift on the face of the water: let his portion be cursed on the earth; and let their plants be laid bare.¹⁹ Let them be withered upon the earth; for they have plundered the sheaves of the fatherless.²⁰ Then is his sin brought to remembrance, and he vanishes like a vapour of dew: but let what he has done be recompensed to him, and let every unrighteous one be crushed like rotten wood.²¹ For he has not treated the barren woman well, and has had no pity on a feeble woman.²² And in wrath he has overthrown the helpless: therefore when he has arisen, a man will not feel secure of his own life.²³ When he has fallen sick, let him not hope to recover: but let him perish by disease.²⁴ For his exaltation has hurt many; but he has withered as mallows in the heat, or as an ear of corn falling off of itself from the stalk.²⁵ But if not, who is he that says I speak falsely, and will make my words of no account?

¹Then Baldad the Sauchite answered and said, ²What ^{*}beginning or fear is his—even he that makes all things in the highest? ³For let none think that there is a respite for robbers: and upon whom will there not come a snare from him? ⁴For how shall a mortal be just before the Lord? or who that is born of a woman shall purify himself? ⁵If he gives an order to the moon, then it shines not; and the stars are not pure before him. ⁶But alas! man is corruption, and the son of man a worm.

Chapter 26

¹But Job answered and said, ²To whom dost thou attach thyself, or whom art thou going to assist? is it not he that has much strength, and he who has a strong arm? ³To whom hast thou given counsel? is it not to him who has all wisdom? whom wilt thou follow? is it not one who has the greatest power? ⁴To whom hast thou uttered words? and whose breath is it that has come forth from thee? ⁵Shall giants be born from under the water and the inhabitants thereof? ⁶Hell is naked before him, and destruction has no covering. ⁷He stretches out the north wind upon nothing, and he upon nothing hangs the earth; ⁸binding water in his clouds, and the cloud is not rent under it. ⁹He keeps back the face of his throne, stretching out his cloud upon it. ¹⁰He has encompassed the face of the water by an appointed ordinance, until the end of light and darkness. ¹¹The pillars of heaven are prostrate and astonished at his rebuke. ¹²He has calmed the sea with his might, and by his wisdom the whale has been overthrown. ¹³And the barriers of heaven fear him, and by a command he has slain the apostate dragon. ¹⁴Behold, these are parts of his way; and we will hearken to him at the least intimation of his word: but the strength of his thunder who knows, when he shall employ it?

¹And Job further continued and said in his ^{*}parable, ²As God lives, who has thus judge me; and the Almighty, who has embittered my soul; ³verily, while my breath is yet in me, and the breath of God which remains to me is in my nostrils, ⁴my lips shall not speak evil words, neither shall my soul meditate unrighteous thoughts. ⁵Far be it from me that I should justify you till I die; for I will not let go my innocence, ⁶but keeping fast to my righteousness I will by no means let it go: for I am not conscious to myself of having done any thing amiss. ⁷Nay rather, but let mine enemies be as the overthrow of the ungodly, and they that rise up against me, as the destruction of transgressors. ⁸For what is the hope of the ungodly, that he holds to it? will he indeed trust in the Lord and be saved? ⁹Will God hear his prayer? or, when distress has come upon him, ¹⁰has he any confidence before him? or will God hear him as he calls upon him? ¹¹Yet now I will tell you what is in the hand of the Lord: I will not lie concerning the things which are with the Almighty. ¹²Behold, ye all know that ye are adding vanity to vanity. ¹³This is the portion of an ungodly man from the Lord, and the possession of oppressors shall come upon them from the Almighty. ¹⁴And if their children be many, they shall be for slaughter: and if they grow up, they shall beg. ¹⁵And they that survive of him shall utterly perish, and no one shall pity their widows. ¹⁶Even if he should gather silver as earth, and prepare gold as clay; ¹⁷All these things shall the righteous gain, and the truehearted shall possess his wealth. ¹⁸And his house is gone like moths, and like a spider's web. ¹⁹The rich man shall lie down, and shall not continue: he has opened his eyes, and he is not. ²⁰Pains have come upon him as water, and darkness has carried him away by night. ²¹And a burning wind shall catch him, and he shall depart, and it shall utterly drive him out of his place. ²²And God shall cast trouble upon him, and not spare: he would fain flee out of his hand. ²³He shall cause men to clap their hands against them, and shall hiss him out of his place.

¹For there is a place for the silver, whence it comes, and a place for the gold, whence it is refined. ²For iron comes out of the earth, and brass is hewn out like stone. ³He has set a bound to darkness, and he searches out every limit: a stone is darkness, and the shadow of death. ⁴There is a cutting off the torrent by reason of dust: so they that forget the right way are weakened; they are removed from among men. ⁵As for the earth, out of it shall come bread: under it has been turned up as it were fire. ⁶Her stones are the place of the sapphire: and her

dust supplies man with gold. ⁷*There is* a path, the fowl has not known it, neither has the eye of the vulture seen it: ⁸neither have the sons of the proud trodden it, a lion has not passed upon it. ⁹He has stretched forth his hand on the sharp rock, and turned up mountains by the roots: ¹⁰and he has interrupted the whirlpools of rivers, and mine eye has seen every precious thing. ¹¹And he has laid bare the depths of rivers, and has brought his power to light. ¹²But whence has wisdom been discovered? and what is the place of knowledge? ¹³A mortal has not known its way, neither indeed has it been discovered among men. ¹⁴The depth said, It is not in me: and the sea said, It is not with me. ¹⁵One shall not give fine gold instead of it, neither shall silver be weighed in exchange for it. ¹⁶Neither shall it be compared with gold of Sophir, with the precious onyx and sapphire. ¹⁷Gold and crystal shall not be equalled to it, neither shall vessels of gold be its exchange. ¹⁸Coral and fine pearl shall not be mentioned: but do thou esteem wisdom above the most precious things. ¹⁹The topaz of Ethiopia shall not be equalled to it; it shall not be compared with pure gold. ²⁰Whence then is wisdom found? and of what kind is the place of understanding? ²¹It has escaped the notice of every man, and has been hidden from the birds of the sky. ²²Destruction and Death said, We have heard the report of it. ²³God has well ordered the way of it, and he knows the place of it. ²⁴For he surveys the whole earth under heaven, knowing the things in the earth: ²⁵all that he has made; the weight of the winds, the measures of the water. ²⁶When he made them, thus he saw and numbered them, and made a way for the pealing of the thunder. ²⁷Then he saw it, and declared it: he prepared it and traced it out. ²⁸And he said to man, Behold, godliness is wisdom: and to abstain from evil is understanding.

Chapter 29

¹And Job continued and said in his parable, ²Oh that I were as in months past, wherein God preserved me! ³As when his lamp shone over my head; when by his light I walked through darkness. ⁴As when I steadfastly pursued my ways, when God took care of my house. ⁵When I was very fruitful, and my children were about me; ⁶when my ways were moistened with butter, and the mountains flowed for me with milk. ⁷When I went forth early in the city, and the seat was placed for me in the streets. ⁸The young men saw me, and hid themselves: and all the old men stood up. ⁹And the great men ceased speaking, and laid their finger on their mouth. ¹⁰And they that heard me blessed me, and their tongue clave to their throat. ¹¹For the ear heard, and blessed me; and the eye saw me, and turned aside. ¹²For I saved the poor out of the hand of the oppressor, and helped the fatherless who had no helper. ¹³Let the blessing of the perishing one come upon me; yea, the mouth of the widow has blessed me.

¹⁴Also I put on righteousness, and clothed myself with judgment like a mantle. ¹⁵I was the eye of the blind, and the foot of the lame. ¹⁶I was the father of the helpless; and I searched out the cause which I knew not. ¹⁷And I broke the jaw-teeth of the unrighteous; I plucked the spoil out of the midst of their teeth. ¹⁸And I said, My age shall continue as the stem of a palm-tree; I shall live a long while.

¹⁹My root was spread out by the water, and the dew would lodge on my crop.

²⁰My glory was fresh in me, and by bow prospered in his hand. ²¹Men heard me, and gave heed, and they were silent at my counsel. ²²At my word they spoke not again, and they were very glad whenever I spoke to them. ²³As the thirsty earth expecting the rain, so they waited for my speech.

²⁴Were I to laugh on them, they would not believe it; and the light of my face has not failed. ²⁵I chose out their way, and sat chief, and dwelt as a king in the midst of warriors, as one comforting mourners.

Chapter 30

¹But now the youngest have laughed me to scorn, now they reprove me in their turn, whose fathers I set at nought; whom I did not deem worthy to be with my shepherd dogs. ²Yea, why had I the strength of their hands? for them the full term of life was lost.

distress and misery of drought. ⁴Who compass the salt places on the sounding shore, who had salt herbs for their food, and were dishonorable and of no repute, in want of every good thing; who also ate roots of trees by reason of great hunger. ⁵Thieves have risen up against me, ⁶whose houses were the caves of the rocks, who lived under the wild shrubs. ⁷They will cry out among the rustling bushes. ⁸*They are* sons of fools and vile men, whose name and glory are quenched from off the earth. ⁹But now I am their music, and they have me for a by-word. ¹⁰And they stood aloof and abhorred me, and spared not to spit in my face. ¹¹For he has opened his quiver and afflicted me: they also have cast off the restraint of my presence. ¹²They have risen up against me on the right hand of their offspring; they have stretched out their foot, and directed against me the ways of their destruction. ¹³My paths are ruined; for they have stripped off my raiment: he has shot at me with his weapons. ¹⁴And he has pleaded against me as he will: I am overwhelmed with pains. ¹⁵My pains return upon me; my hope is gone like the wind, and my safety as a cloud. ¹⁶Even now my life shall be poured forth upon me; and days of anguish seize me. ¹⁷And by night my bones are confounded; and my sinews are relaxed. ¹⁸With great force my disease has taken hold of my garment: it has compassed me as the collar of my coat. ¹⁹And thou hast counted me as clay; my portion in dust and ashes. ²⁰And I have cried to thee, but thou hearest me not: but they stood still, and observed me. ²¹They attacked me also without mercy: thou hast scourged me with a strong hand. ²²And thou hast put me to grief, and hast cast me away from safety. ²³For I know that death will destroy me: for the earth is the house appointed for every mortal. ²⁴Oh then that I might lay hands upon myself, or at least ask another, and he should do this for me. ²⁵Yet I wept over every helpless man; I groaned when I saw a man in distress. ²⁶But I, when I waited for good things, behold, days of evils came the more upon me. ²⁷My belly boiled, and would not cease: the days of poverty prevented me. ²⁸I went mourning without restraint: and I have stood and cried out in the assembly. ²⁹I am become a brother of monsters, and a companion of ostriches. ³⁰And my skin has been greatly blackened, and my bones are burned with heat. ³¹My harp also has been turned into mourning, and my song into my weeping.

¹I made a covenant with mine eyes, and I will not think upon a virgin. ²Now what portion has God given from above? and is there an inheritance given of the Mighty One from the highest? ³Alas! destruction to the unrighteous, and rejection to them that do iniquity. ⁴Will he not see my way, and number all my steps? ⁵But if I had gone with scorners, and if too my foot has hastened to deceit: ⁶(for I am weighed in a just balance, and the Lord knows my innocence:) ⁷if my foot has turned aside out of the way, or if mine heart has followed mine eye, and if too I have touched gifts with my hands; ⁸then let me sow, and let others eat; and let me be uprooted on the earth. ⁹If my heart has gone forth after another man's wife, and if I laid wait at her doors; ¹⁰then let my wife also please another, and let my children be brought low. ¹¹For the rage of anger is not to be controlled, in the case of defiling another man's wife. ¹²For it is a fire burning on every side, and whomsoever it attacks, it utterly destroys. ¹³And if too I despised the judgment of my servant or my handmaid, when they pleaded with me; ¹⁴what then shall I do if the Lord should try me? and if also he should at all visit me, can I make an answer? ¹⁵Were not they too formed as I also was formed in the womb? yea, we were formed in the same womb. ¹⁶But the helpless missed not whatever need they had, and I did not cause the eye of the widow to fail. ¹⁷And if too I ate my morsel alone, and did not impart of it to the orphan; ¹⁸(for I nourished them as a father from my youth and guided them from my mother's womb.) ¹⁹And if too I overlooked the naked as he was perishing, and did not clothe him; ²⁰and if the poor did not bless me, and their shoulders were not warmed with the fleece of my lambs; ²¹if I lifted my hand against an orphan, trusting that my strength was far superior to his:

Job

²²let them my shoulder start from the blade-bone, and my arm be crushed off from the elbow. ²³For the fear of the Lord constrained me, and I cannot bear up by reason of his burden. ²⁴If I made gold my treasure, and if too I trusted the precious stone; ²⁵and if too I rejoiced when my wealth was abundant, and if too I laid my hand on innumerable treasures: ²⁶(do we not see the shining sun eclipsed, and the moon waning? for they have not power to continue:) ²⁷and if my heart was secretly deceived, and if I have laid my hand upon my mouth and kissed it: ²⁸let this also then be reckoned to me as the greatest iniquity: for I should have lied against the Lord Most High. ²⁹And if too I was glad at the fall of mine enemies, and mine heart said, Aha! ³⁰let then mine ear hear my curse, and let me be a byword among my people in my affliction. ³¹And if too my handmaids have often said, Oh that we might be satisfied with his flesh; (whereas I was very kind: ³²for the stranger did not lodge without, and my door was opened to every one that came:) ³³or if too having sinned unintentionally, I hid my sin; ³⁴(for I did not stand in awe of a great multitude, so as not to declare boldly before them:) and if too I permitted a poor man to go out of my door with an empty bosom: ³⁵(Oh that I had a hearer,) and if I had not feared the hand of the Lord; and as to the written charge which I had against any one, ³⁶I would place it as a chaplet on my shoulders, and read it. ³⁷And if I did not read it and return it, having taken nothing from the debtor: ³⁸If at any time the land groaned against me, and if its furrows mourned together; ³⁹and if I ate its strength alone without price, and if I too grieved the heart of the owner of the soil, by taking ought from him: ⁴⁰then let the nettle come up to me instead of wheat, and a bramble instead of barley. And Job ceased speaking.

Chapter 32

¹And his three friends also ceased any longer to answer Job: for Job was righteous before them. ²Then Elius the son of Barachiel, the Buzite, of the kindred of Ram, of the country of Ausis, was angered: and he was very angry with Job, because he justified himself before the Lord. ³And he was also very angry with his three friends, because they were not able to return answers to Job, yet set him down for an ungodly man. ⁴But Elius had forborne to give an answer to Job, because they were older than he. ⁵And Elius saw that there was no answer in the mouth of the three men; and he was angered in his wrath. ⁶And Elius the Buzite the son of Barachiel answered and said, I am younger in age, and ye are elder, wherefore I kept silence, fearing to declare to you my own knowledge. ⁷And I said, It is not time that speaks, though in many years men know wisdom: ⁸but there is a spirit in mortals; and the inspiration of the Almighty is that which teaches.

Job

⁹The long-lived are not wise as such; neither do the aged know judgment. ¹⁰Wherefore I said, Hear me, and I will tell you what I know. ¹¹Hearken to my words; for I will speak in your hearing, until ye shall have tried the matter with words: ¹²and I shall understand as far as you; and, behold, there was no one of you that answered Job his words in argument, ¹³lest ye should say, We have found that we have added wisdom to the Lord. ¹⁴And ye have commissioned a man to speak such words. ¹⁵They were afraid, they answered no longer; they gave up their speaking. ¹⁶I waited, (for I had not spoken,) because they stood still, they answered not. ¹⁷And Elius continued, and said, I will again speak, ¹⁸for I am full of words, for the spirit of my belly destroys me. ¹⁹And my belly is as a skin of sweet wine, bound up and ready to burst; or as a brazier's labouring bellows. ²⁰I will speak, that I may open my lips and relieve myself. ²¹For truly I will not be awed because of man, nor indeed will I be confounded before a mortal. ²²For I know not how to respect persons: and if otherwise, even the moths would eat me.

Chapter 33

¹Howbeit hear, Job, my words, and hearken to my speech. ²For behold, I have opened my mouth, and my tongue has spoken. ³My heart shall be found pure by my words; and the understanding of my lips shall meditate purity. ⁴The Divine Spirit is that which formed me, and the breath of the Almighty that which teaches me. ⁵If thou canst, give me an answer: wait therefore; stand against me, and I will stand against thee. ⁶Thou art formed out of the clay as also I: we have been formed out of the same substance. ⁷My fear shall not terrify thee, neither shall my hand be heavy upon thee. ⁸But thou hast said in mine ears, (I have heard the voice of thy words;) because thou sayest, I am pure, not having sinned; ⁹I am blameless, for I have not transgressed. ¹⁰Yet he has discovered a charge against me, and he has reckoned me as an adversary. ¹¹And he has put my foot in the stocks, and has watched all my ways. ¹²For how sayest thou, I am righteous, yet he has not hearkened to me? for he that is above mortals is eternal. ¹³But thou sayest, Why has he not heard every word of my cause? ¹⁴For when the Lord speaks once, or a second time, ¹⁵*sending* a dream, or in the meditation of the night; (as when a dreadful alarm happens to fall upon men, in slumberings on the bed:) ¹⁶then opens he the understanding of men: he scares them with such fearful visions: ¹⁷to turn a man from unrighteousness, and he delivers his body from a fall. ¹⁸He spares also his soul from death, and suffers him not to fall in war. ¹⁹And again, he chastens him with sickness on his bed, and the multitude of his bones is benumbed. ²⁰And he shall not be able to take any food, though his soul shall desire meat; ²¹until his flesh shall be consumed, and he shall shew his bones bare. ²²His soul also draws nigh to death, and his life is in Hades. ²³Though there should be a thousand messengers of death, not one of them shall wound him: if he should purpose in his heart to turn to the Lord, and declare to man his fault, and shew his folly; ²⁴he will support him, that he should not perish, and will restore his body as fresh plaster upon a wall; and he will fill his bones with morrow. ²⁵And he will make his flesh tender as that of a babe, and he will restore him among men in his full strength. ²⁶And he shall pray to the Lord, and his prayer shall be accepted of him; he shall enter with a cheerful countenance, with a full expression of praise: for he will render to men their due. ²⁷Even then a man shall blame himself, saying, What kind of things have I done? and he has not punished me according to the full amount of my sins. ²⁸Deliver my soul, that it may not go to destruction, and my life shall see the light. ²⁹Behold, all these things, the Mighty One works in a threefold manner with a man. ³⁰And he has delivered my soul from death, that my life may praise him in the light. ³¹Hearken, Job, and hear me: be silent, and I will speak. ³²If thou hast words, answer me: speak, for I desire thee to be justified. ³³If not, do thou hear me: be silent, and I will teach thee.

Chapter 34

¹And Elius continued, and said, ²Hear me, ye wise men; hearken, ye that have knowledge. ³For the ear tries words, and the mouth tastes meat. ⁴Let us choose judgment to ourselves: let us know amount ourselves what is right. ⁵For Job has said, I am righteous: the Lord has removed my judgment. ⁶And he has erred in my judgment: my wound is severe without unrighteousness of mine. ⁷What man is as Job, drinking scorning like water? ⁸saying, I have not sinned, nor committed ungodliness, nor had fellowship with workers of iniquity, to go with the ungodly. ⁹For thou shouldest not say, There shall be no visitation of a man, whereas there is a visitation on him from the Lord. ¹⁰Wherefore hear me, ye that are wise in heart: far be it from me to sin before the Lord, and to pervert righteousness before the almighty. ¹¹Yea, he renders to a man accordingly as each of them does, and in a man's path he will find him. ¹²And thinkest thou that the Lord will do wrong, or will the Almighty who made the earth wrest judgment? ¹³And who is he that made the whole world under heaven, and all things therein? ¹⁴For if he would confine, and restrain his spirit with himself; ¹⁵all flesh would die together, and every mortal would return to the earth, whence also he was formed. ¹⁶Take heed lest he rebuke thee: hear this, hearken to the voice of words. ¹⁷Behold then the one that hates iniquities, and that destroys the wicked, who is for ever just. ¹⁸*He is* ungodly that says to a king, Thou art a

transgressor, that says to princes, O most ungodly one. ¹⁹*Such a one* as would not reverence the face of an honourable man, neither knows how to give honour to the great, so as that their persons should be respected. ²⁰But it shall turn out vanity to them, to cry and beseech a man; for they dealt unlawfully, the poor being turned aside from their right. ²¹For he surveys the works of men, and nothing of what they do has escaped him. ²²Neither shall there be a place for the workers of iniquity to hide themselves. ²³For he will not lay upon a man more than right. ²⁴For the Lord looks down upon all men, who comprehends unsearchable things, glorious also and excellent things without number. ²⁵Who discovers their works, and will bring night about upon them, and they shall be brought low. ²⁶And he quite destroys the ungodly, for they are seen before him. ²⁷Because they turned aside from the law of God, and did not regard his ordinances, ²⁸so as to bring before him the cry of the needy; for he will hear the cry of the poor. ²⁹And he will give quiet, and who will condemn? and he will hide his face, and who shall see him? whether it be done against a nation, or against a man also: ³⁰causing a hypocrite to be king, because of the waywardness of the people. ³¹For there is one that says to the Mighty One, I have received blessings; I will not take a pledge: ³²I will see apart from myself: do thou shew me if I have done unrighteousness; I will not do so any more. ³³Will he take vengeance for it on thee, whereas thou wilt put it far from thee? for thou shalt choose, and not I; and what thou knowest, speak thou. ³⁴Because the wise in heart shall say this, and a wise man listens to my word. ³⁵But Job has not spoken with understanding, his words are not uttered with knowledge. ³⁶Howbeit do thou learn, Job: no longer make answer as the foolish: ³⁷that we add not to our sins: for iniquity will be reckoned against us, if we speak many words before the Lord.

¹And Elius resumed and said, ²What is this that thou thinkest to be according to right? who art thou that thou hast said, I am righteous before the Lord? ³I will answer thee, and thy three friends. ⁴Look up to the sky and see; and consider the clouds, how high they are above thee. ⁵If thou hast sinned, what wilt thou do? ⁶and if too thou hast transgressed much, what canst thou perform? ⁷And suppose thou art righteous, what wilt thou give him? or what shall he receive of thy hand? ⁸Thy ungodliness may affect a man who is like to thee; or thy righteousness a son of man. ⁹They that are oppressed of a multitude will be ready to cry out; they will call for help because of the arm of many. ¹⁰But none said, Where is God that made me, who appoints the night-watches; ¹¹who makes me to differ from the four-footed beasts of the earth, and from the birds of the sky? ¹²There they shall cry, and none shall hearken, even because of the insolence of wicked men. ¹³For the Lord desires not to look on error, for he is the Almighty One. ¹⁴He beholds them that perform lawless deeds, and he will save me: and do thou plead before him, if thou canst praise him, as it is possible even now. ¹⁵For he is not now regarding his wrath, nor has he noticed severely any trespass. ¹⁶Yet Job vainly opens his mouth, in ignorance he multiplies words.

Chapter 36

¹And Elius further continued, and said, ²Wait for me yet a little while, that I may teach thee: for there is yet speech in me. ³Having fetched my knowledge from afar, and according to my works, ⁴I will speak just things truly, and thou shalt not unjustly receive unjust words. ⁵But know that the Lord will not cast off an innocent man: being mighty in strength of wisdom, ⁶he will not by any means save alive the ungodly: and he will grant the judgment of the poor. ⁷He will not turn away his eyes from the righteous, but they shall be with kings on the throne: and he will establish them in triumph, and they shall be exalted. ⁸But they that are bound in fetters shall be holden in cords of poverty. ⁹And he shall recount to them their works, and their transgressions, for such will act with violence. ¹⁰But he will hearken to the righteous: and he has said that they shall turn from unrighteousness. ¹¹If they should hear and serve him, they shall spend their days in prosperity, and their years in honour. ¹²But he preserves not the ungodly; because they are not willing to know the Lord, and because when reproved they were disobedient. ¹³And the hypocrites in heart will array wrath against themselves; they will not cry, because he has bound them. ¹⁴Therefore let their soul die in youth, and their life be wounded by messengers of death. ¹⁵Because they afflicted the weak and helpless: and he will vindicate the judgment of the meek. ¹⁶And he has also enticed thee out of the mouth of the enemy: ¹⁷*there is* a deep gulf and a rushing stream beneath it, and thy table came down full of fatness. Judgment shall not fail from the righteous; ¹⁸but there shall be wrath upon the ungodly, by reason of the ungodliness of the bribes which they received for iniquities. ¹⁹Let not thy mind willingly turn thee aside from the petition of the feeble that are in distress. ²⁰And draw not forth all the mighty men by night, so that the people should go up instead of them. ²¹But take heed lest thou do that which is wrong: for of this thou has made choice because of poverty. ²²Behold, the Mighty One shall prevail by his strength: for who is powerful as he is? ²³And who is he that examines his works? or who can say, he has wrought injustice? ²⁴Remember that his works are great beyond those which men have attempted. ²⁵Every man has seen in himself, how many mortals are wounded. ²⁶Behold, the Mighty One is great, and we shall not know him: the number of his years is even infinite. ²⁷And the drops of rain are numbered by him, and shall be poured out in rain to form a cloud. ²⁸The ancient heavens shall flow, and the clouds overshadow innumerable mortals: he has fixed a time to cattle, and they know the order of rest. Yet by all these things thy understanding is not astonished, neither is thy mind disturbed in thy body. ²⁹And though one should understand the outspreadings of the clouds, or the measure of his tabernacle; ³⁰behold he will stretch his bow against him, and he covers the bottom of the sea. ³¹For by them he will judge the nations: he will give food to him that has strength. ³²He has hidden the light in his hands, and given charge concerning it to the interposing cloud. ³³The Lord will declare concerning this to his friend: but there is a portion also for unrighteousness.

¹At this also my heart is troubled, and moved out of its place. ²Hear thou a report by the anger of the Lord's wrath, and a discourse shall come out of his mouth. ³His dominion is under the whole heaven, and his light is at the extremities of the earth. ⁴After him shall be a cry with a loud voice; he shall thunder with the voice of his excellency, yet he shall not cause men to pass away, for one shall hear his voice. ⁵The Mighty One shall thunder wonderfully with his voice: for he has done great things which we knew not; ⁶commanding the snow, Be thou upon the earth, and the stormy rain, and the storm of the showers of his might. ⁷He seals up the hand of every man, that every man may know his own weakness. ⁸And the wild beasts come in under the covert, and rest in their lair. ⁹Troubles come on out of the secret chambers, and cold from the mountain-tops. ¹⁰And from the breath of the Mighty One he will send frost; and he guides the water in whatever way he pleases. ¹¹And if a cloud obscures what is precious to him, his light will disperse the cloud. ¹²And he will carry round the encircling clouds by his governance, to perform their works: whatsoever he shall command them, ¹³this has been appointed by him on the earth, whether for correction, or for his land, or if he shall find him an object for mercy. ¹⁴Hearken to this, O Job: stand still, and be admonished of the power of the Lord. ¹⁵We know that god has disposed his works, having made light out of darkness. ¹⁶And he knows the divisions of the clouds, and the signal overthrows of the ungodly. ¹⁷But thy robe is warm, and there is quiet upon the land. ¹⁸Wilt thou establish with him foundations for the ancient heavens? they are strong as a molten mirror. ¹⁹Wherefore teach me, what shall we say to him? and let us cease from saying much. ²⁰Have I a book or a scribe my me, that I may stand and put man to silence? ²¹But the light is not visible to all: it shines afar off in the heavens, as that which is from him in the clouds. ²²From the north come the clouds shining like gold: in these great are the glory and honour of the Almighty; ²³and we do not find another his equal in strength: as for him that judges justly, dost thou not think that he listens? ²⁴Wherefore men shall fear him; and the wise also in heart shall fear him.

¹And after Elius had ceased from speaking, the Lord spoke to Job through the whirlwind and clouds, saying, ²Who is this that hides counsel from me, and confines words in his heart, and thinks to conceal them from me? ³Gird thy loins like a man; and I will ask thee, and do thou answer me. ⁴Where wast thou when I founded the earth? tell me now, if thou hast knowledge, ⁵who set the measures of it, if thou knowest? or who stretched a line upon it? ⁶On what are its rings fastened? and who is he that laid the corner-stone upon it? ⁷When the stars were made, all my angels praised me with a loud voice. ⁸And I shut up the sea with gates, when it rushed out, coming forth out its mother's womb. ⁹And I made a cloud its clothing, and swathed it in mist. ¹⁰And I set bounds to it, surrounding it with bars and gates. ¹¹And I said to it, Hitherto shalt thou come, but thou shalt not go beyond, but thy waves shall be confined within thee. ¹²Or did I order the morning light in thy time; and did the morning star then first see his appointed place; ¹³to lay hold of the extremities of the earth, to cast out the ungodly out of it? ¹⁴Or didst thou take clay of the ground, and form a living creature, and set it with the power of speech upon the earth? ¹⁵And hast thou removed light from the ungodly, and crushed the arm of the proud? ¹⁶Or hast thou gone to the source of the sea, and walked in the tracks of the deep? ¹⁷And do the gates of death open to thee for fear; and did the porters of hell quake when they saw thee? ¹⁸And hast thou been instructed in the breadth of the whole earth under heaven? tell me now, what is the extent of it? ¹⁹And in what kind of a land does the light dwell? and of what kind is the place of darkness? ²⁰If thou couldest bring me to their utmost boundaries, and if also thou knowest their paths; ²¹I know then that thou wert born at that time, and the number of thy years is great. ²²But hast thou gone to the treasures of snow? and hast thou seen the treasures of hail? ²³And is there a store of them, for thee against the time of thine enemies, for the day of wars and battle? ²⁴And whence proceeds the frost? or whence is the south wind dispersed over the whole world under heaven? ²⁵And who prepared a course for the violent rain, and a way for the thunders; ²⁶to rain upon the land where there is no man, the wilderness, where there is not a man in it; so as to feed the untrodden and uninhabited land,²⁷ and cause it to send forth a crop of green herbs?²⁸ Who is the rain's father? and who has generated the drops of dew?²⁹ And out of whose womb comes the ice? and who has produced the frost in the sky,³⁰ which descends like flowing water? who has terrified the face of the ungodly?³¹ And dost thou understand the band of Pleias, and hast thou opened the barrier of Orion?³² Or wilt thou reveal Mazuroth in his season, and the evening star with his rays? Wilt thou guide them?³³ And knowest thou the changes of heaven, or the events which take place together under heaven?³⁴ And wilt thou call a cloud with thy voice, and will it obey thee with a violent shower of much rain?³⁵ And wilt thou send lightnings, and they shall go? and shall they say to thee, What is thy pleasure?³⁶ And who has given to women skill in weaving, or knowledge of embroidery?³⁷ And who is he that numbers the clouds in wisdom, and has bowed the heaven down to the earth?³⁸ For it is spread out as dusty earth, and I have cemented it as one hewn stone to another.³⁹ And wilt thou hunt a prey for the lions? and satisfy the desires of the serpents?⁴⁰ For they fear in their lairs, and lying in wait couch in the woods.⁴¹ And who has prepared food for the raven? for its young ones wander and cry to the Lord, in search of food.

¹Say if thou knowest the time of the bringing forth of the wild goats of the rock, and if thou hast marked the calving of the hinds:² and if thou has hast numbered the full months of their being with young, and if thou hast relieved their pangs:³ and hast reared their young without fear; and wilt thou loosen their pangs?⁴ Their young will break forth; they will be multiplied with offspring: their young will go forth, and will not return to them.⁵ And who is he that sent forth the wild ass free? and who loosed his bands?⁶ whereas I made his habitation the wilderness, and the salt land his coverts.⁷ He laughs to scorn the multitude of the city, and hears not the chiding of the tax-gatherer.⁸ He will survey the mountains as his pasture, and he seeks after every green thing.⁹ And will the unicorn be willing to serve thee, or to lie down at thy manger?¹⁰ And wilt thou bind his yoke with thongs, or will he plough furrows for thee in the plain?¹¹ And dost thou trust him, because his strength is great? and wilt thou commit thy works to him?¹² And wilt thou believe that he will return to thee thy seed, and bring it in to thy threshing-floor?¹³ The peacock has a beautiful wing: if the stork and the ostrich conceive, it is worthy of notice,¹⁴ for the ostrich will leave her eggs in the ground, and warm them on the dust,¹⁵ and has forgotten that the foot will scatter them, and the wild beasts of the field trample them.¹⁶ She has hardened herself against her young ones, as though she bereaved not herself: she labours in vain without fear. ¹⁷For God has witholden wisdom from her, and not given her a portion in understanding. ¹⁸In her season she will lift herself on high; she will scorn the horse and his rider. ¹⁹Hast thou invested the horse with strength, and clothed his neck with terror? ²⁰And hast thou clad him in perfect armour, and made his breast glorious with courage? ²¹He paws exulting in the plain, and goes forth in strength into the plain. ²²He laughs to scorn a king as he meets him, and will by no means turn back from the sword. ²³The bow and sword resound against him; and his rage will swallow up the ground: ²⁴and he will not believe until the trumpet sounds. ²⁵And when the trumpet sounds, he says, Aha! and afar off he smells the war with prancing and neighing.

²⁶And does the hawk remain steady by thy wisdom, having spread out her wings unmoved, looking toward the region of the south? ²⁷And does the eagle rise at thy command, and the vulture remain sitting over his nest, ²⁸on a crag of a rock, and in a secret place? ²⁹Thence he seeks food, his eyes observe from far. ³⁰And his young ones roll themselves in blood, and wherever the carcasses may be, immediately they are found.

³¹And the Lord God answered Job, and said, ³²Will any one pervert judgment with the Mighty One? and he that reproves God, let him return it for answer. ³³And Job answered and said to the Lord, ³⁴Why do I yet plead? being rebuked even while reproving the Lord: hearing such things, whereas I am nothing: and what shall I answer to these arguments? I will lay my hand upon my mouth. ³⁵I have spoken once; but I will not do so a second time.

¹And the Lord yet again answered and spoke to Job out of the cloud, saying, ²Nay, gird up now thy loins like a man; and I will ask thee, and do thou answer me. ³Do not set aside my judgment: and dost thou think that I have dealt with thee in any other way, than that thou mightest appear to be righteous? ⁴Hast thou an arm like the Lord's? or dost thou thunder with a voice like his? ⁵Assume now a lofty bearing and power; and clothe thyself with glory and honour. ⁶And send forth messengers with wrath; and lay low every haughty one. ⁷Bring down also the proud man; and consume at once the ungodly. ⁸And hide them together in the earth; and fill their faces with shame. ⁹*Then* will I confess that thy right hand can save thee.

¹⁰But now look at the wild beasts with thee; they eat grass like oxen. ¹¹Behold now, his strength is in his loins, and his force is in the navel of his belly. ¹²He sets up his tail like a cypress; and his nerves are wrapped together. ¹³His sides are sides of brass; and his backbone is as cast iron. ¹⁴This is the chief of the creation of the Lord; made to be played with by his angels.

¹⁵And when he has gone up to a steep mountain, he causes joy to the quadrupeds in the deep. ¹⁶He lies under trees of every kind, by the papyrus, and reed, and bulrush. ¹⁷And the great trees make a shadow over him with their branches, and so do the bushes of the field. ¹⁸If there should be a flood, he will not perceive it; he trust that Jordan will rush up into his mouth. ¹⁹*Yet one* shall take him in his sight; one shall catch him with a cord, and pierce his nose.

²⁰But wilt thou catch the serpent with a hook, and put a halter about his nose? ²¹Or wilt thou fasten a ring in his nostril, and bore his lip with a clasp? ²²Will he address thee with a petition? softly, with the voice of a suppliant? ²³And will he make a covenant with thee? and wilt thou take him for a perpetual servant? ²⁴And wilt thou play with him as with a bird? or bind him as a sparrow for a child? ²⁵And do the nations feed upon him, and the nations of the Phoenicians share him? ²⁶And all the ships come together would not be able to bear the mere skin of his tail; neither shall they carry his head in fishing-vessels. ²⁷But thou shalt lay thy hand upon him once, remembering the war that is waged by his mouth; and let it not be done any more.

¹Hast thou not seen him? and hast thou not wondered at the things said of him? Dost thou not fear because preparation has been made by me? for who is there that resists me? ²Or who will resist me, and abide, since the whole world under heaven is mine? ³I will not be silent because of him: though because of his power one shall pity his antagonist. ⁴Who will open the face of his garment? and who can enter within the fold of his breastplate? ⁵Who will open the doors of his face? terror is round about his teeth. ⁶His inwards are as brazen plates, and the texture of his skin as a smyrite stone. ⁷*One part* cleaves fast to another, and the air cannot come between them. ⁸They will remain united each to the other: they are closely joined, and cannot be separated. ⁹At his sneezing a light shines, and his eyes are as the appearance of the morning star. ¹⁰Out of his mouth proceed as it were burning lamps, and as it were hearths of fire are cast abroad. ¹¹Out of his nostrils proceeds smoke of a furnace burning with fire of coals. ¹²His breath is as live coals, and a flame goes out of his mouth. ¹³And power is lodged in his neck, before him destruction runs. ¹⁴The flesh also of his body is joined together: if one pours violence upon him, he shall not be moved. ¹⁵His heart is firm as a stone, and it stands like an unyielding anvil. ¹⁶And when he turns, he is a terror to the four-footed wild beasts which leap upon the earth. ¹⁷If spears should come against him, men will effect nothing, either with the spear or the breast-plate. ¹⁸For he considers iron as chaff, and brass as rotten wood. ¹⁹The bow of brass shall not would him, he deems a slinger as grass. ²⁰Mauls are counted as stubble; and he laughs to scorn the waving of the firebrand. ²¹His lair is formed of sharp points; and all the gold of the sea under him is an immense quantity of clay. ²²He makes the deep boil like a brazen caldron; and he regards the sea as a pot of ointment, ²³and the lowest part of the deep as a captive: he reckons the deep as his range. ²⁴There is nothing upon the earth like to him, formed to be sported with by my angels. ²⁵He beholds every high thing: and he is king of all that are in the waters.

¹Then Job answered and said to the Lord, ²I know that thou canst do all things, and nothing is impossible with thee. ³For who is he that hides counsel from thee? or who keeps back his words, and thinks to hide them from thee? and who will tell me what I knew not, great and wonderful things which I understood not? ⁴But hear me, O Lord, that I also may speak: and I will ask thee, and do thou teach me. ⁵I have heard the report of thee by the ear before; but now mine eye has seen thee. ⁶Wherefore I have counted myself vile, and have fainted: and I esteem myself dust and ashes.

⁷And it came to pass after the Lord had spoken all these words to Job, that the Lord said to Eliphaz the Thaemanite, Thou hast sinned, and thy two friends: for ye have not said anything true before me, as my servant

Job has. ⁸Now then take seven bullocks, and seven rams, and go to my servant Job, and he shall offer a burnt-offering for you. And my servant Job shall pray for you, for I will only accept him: for but his sake, I would have destroyed you, for ye have not spoken the truth against my servant Job. ⁹So Eliphaz the Thaemanite, and Baldad the Sauchite, and Sophar the Minaean, went and did as the Lord commanded them: and he pardoned their sin for the sake of Job. ¹⁰And the Lord prospered Job: and when he prayed also for his friends, he forgave them their sin: and the Lord gave Job twice as much, even the double of what he had before. ¹¹And all his brethren and his sisters heard all that had happened to him, and they came to him, and so did all that had known him from the first: and they ate and drank with him, and comforted him, and wondered at all that the Lord had brought upon him: and each one gave him a lamb, and four drachms' weight of gold, even of unstamped gold. ¹²And the Lord blessed the latter end of Job, more than the beginning: and his cattle were fourteen thousand sheep, six thousand camels, a thousand yoke of oxen, a thousand she-asses of the pastures. ¹³And there were born to him seven sons and three daughters. ¹⁴And he called the first Day, and the second Casia, and the third Amalthaea's horn. ¹⁵And there were not found in comparison with the daughters of Job, fairer women than they in all the world: and their father gave them an inheritance among their brethren. ¹⁶And Job lived after his affliction a hundred and seventy years: and all the years he lived were two hundred and forty: and Job saw his sons and his sons' sons, the fourth generation. ¹⁷And Job died, an old man and full of days: and it is written that he will rise again with those whom the Lord raises up.

This man is described in the Syriac book as living in the land of Ausis, on the borders of Idumea and Arabia: and his name before was Jobab; and having taken an Arabian wife, he begot a son whose name was Ennon. And he himself was the son of his father Zare, one of the sons of Esau, and of his mother Bosorrhah, so that he was the fifth from Abraam. And these were the kings who reigned in Edom, which country he also ruled over: first, Balac, the son of Beor, and the name of his city was Dennaba: but after Balac, Jobab, who is called Job, and after him Asom, who was governor out of the country of Thaeman: and after him Adad, the son of Barad, who destroyed Madiam in the plain of Moab; and the name of his city was Gethaim. And his friends who came to him were Eliphaz, of the children of Esau, king of the Thaemanites, Baldad sovereign the Sauchaeans, Sophar king of the Minaeans.

Psalms

¹Blessed is the man who has not walked in the counsel of the ungodly, and has not stood in the way of sinners, and has not sat in the seat of evil men. ²But his pleasure is in the law of the Lord; and in his law will he meditate day and night. ³And he shall be as a tree planted by the brooks of waters, which shall yield its fruit in its season, and its leaf shall not fall off; and whatsoever he shall do shall be prospered. ⁴Not so the ungodly; —not so: but rather as the chaff which the wind scatters away from the face of the earth. ⁵Therefore the ungodly shall not rise in judgment, nor sinners in the counsel of the just. ⁶For the Lord knows the way of the righteous; but the way of the ungodly shall perish.

Psalm 2

ordinance of the Lord: the Lord said to me, Thou art my Son, to-day have I begotten thee. ⁸Ask of me, and I will give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the ends of the earth for thy possession. ⁹Thou shalt rule them with a rod of iron; thou shalt dash them in pieces as a potter's vessel. ¹⁰Now therefore understand, ye kings: be instructed, all ye that judge the earth. ¹¹Serve the Lord with fear, and rejoice in him with trembling. ¹²Accept correction, lest at any time the Lord be angry, and ye should perish from the righteous way: whensoever his wrath shall be suddenly kindled, blessed are all they that trust in him.

A Psalm of David, when he fled from the presence of his son Abessalom.

¹O Lord, why are they that afflict me multiplied? many rise up against me. ²Many say concerning my soul, There is no deliverance for him in his God. Pause. ³But thou, O Lord, art my helper: my glory, and the one that lifts up my head. ⁴I cried to the Lord with my voice, and he heard me out of his holy mountain. Pause. ⁵I lay down and slept; I awaked; for the Lord will help me. ⁶I will not be afraid of ten thousands of people, who beset me round about. ⁷Arise, Lord; deliver me, my God: for thou hast smitten all who were without cause mine enemies; thou hast broken the teeth of sinners.⁸ Deliverance is the Lord's, and thy blessing is upon thy people.

Psalms

Psalm 4

For the End, a Song of David among the Psalms.

¹When I called upon him, the God of my righteousness heard me: thou hast made room for me in tribulation; pity me, and hearken to my prayer. ²O ye sons on men, how long will ye be slow of heart? wherefore do ye love vanity, and seek falsehood? Pause. ³But know ye that the Lord has done wondrous things for his holy one: the Lord will hear me when I cry to him. ⁴Be ye angry, and sin not; feel compunction upon your beds for what ye say in your hearts. Pause. ⁵Offer the sacrifice of righteousness, and trust in the Lord. ⁶Many say, Who will shew us good things? the light of thy countenance, O Lord, has been manifested towards us. ⁷Thou hast put gladness into my heart: they have been satisfied with the fruit of their corn and wine and oil. ⁸I will both lie down in peace and sleep: for thou, Lord, only hast caused me to dwell securely.

For the end, a Psalm of David, concerning her that inherits.

¹Hearken to my words, O Lord, attend to my cry. ²Attend to the voice of my supplication, my King, and my God: for to thee, O Lord, will I pray. ³In the morning thou shalt hear my voice: in the morning will I wait upon thee, and will look up. ⁴For thou art not a god that desires iniquity; neither shall the worker of wickedness dwell with thee. ⁵Neither shall the transgressors continue in thy sight: thou hatest, O Lord, all them that work iniquity. ⁶Thou wilt destroy all that speak falsehood: the Lord abhors the bloody and deceitful man. ⁷But I will enter into thine house in the multitude of thy mercy: I will worship in thy fear toward thy holy temple. ⁸Lead me, O Lord, in thy righteousness because of mine enemies; make my way plain before thy face. ⁹For there is no truth in their mouth; their heart is vain; their throat is an open sepulchre; with their tongues they have used deceit. ¹⁰Judge them, O God; let them fail of their counsels: cast them out according to the abundance of their ungodliness; for they have provoked thee, O Lord. ¹¹But let all that trust on thee be glad in thee: they shall exult for ever, and thou shalt dwell among them; and all that love thy name shall rejoice in thee. ¹²For thou, Lord, shalt bless the righteous: thou hast compassed us as with a shield of favour.

Psalm 6

For the End, a Psalm of David among the Hymns for the eighth.

Psalms

¹O Lord, rebuke me not in thy wrath, neither chasten me in thine anger. ²Pity me, O Lord; for I am weak: heal me, O Lord; for my bones are vexed. ³My soul also is grievously vexed: but thou, O Lord, how long? ⁴Return, O Lord, deliver my soul: save me for thy mercy's sake. ⁵For in death no man remembers thee: and who will give thee thanks in Hades? ⁶I am wearied with my groaning; I shall wash my bed every night; I shall water my couch with tears. ⁷Mine eye is troubled because of my wrath; I am worn out because of all my enemies. ⁸Depart from me, all ye that work iniquity; for the Lord has heard the voice of my weeping. ⁹The Lord has hearkened to my petition; the Lord has accepted my prayer. ¹⁰Let all mine enemies be put to shame and sore troubled: let them be turned back and grievously put to shame speedily.

Psalm 7

A Psalm of David, which he sang to the Lord because of the words of Chusi the Benjamite.

¹O Lord my God, in thee have I trusted: save me from all them that persecute me, and deliver me. ²Lest at any time the enemy seize my soul as a lion, while there is none to ransom, nor to save. ³O Lord my God, if I have done this; (if there is unrighteousness in my hands;) ⁴if I have requited with evil those who requited me with good;

may I then perish empty by means of my enemies. ⁵Let the enemy persecute my soul, and take it; and let him trample my life on the ground, and lay my glory in the dust. Pause. ⁶Arise, O Lord, in thy wrath; be exalted in the utmost boundaries of mine enemies: awake, O Lord my God, according to the decree which thou didst command. ⁷And the congregation of the nations shall compass thee: and for this cause do thou return on high. ⁸The Lord shall judge the nations: judge me, O Lord, according to my righteousness, and according to my innocence that is in me. ⁹Oh let the wickedness of sinners come to an end; and then thou shalt direct the righteous, O God that searchest the hearts and reins. ¹⁰My help is righteous, coming from God who saves the upright in heart. ¹¹God is a righteous judge, and strong, and patient, not inflicting vengeance every day. ¹²If ye will not repent, he will furbish his sword; he has bent his bow, and made it ready. ¹³And on it he has fitted the instruments of death; he has completed his arrows for the raging ones. ¹⁴Behold, he has travailed with unrighteousness, he has conceived trouble, and brought forth iniquity. ¹⁵He has opened a pit, and dug it up, and he shall fall into the ditch which he has made. ¹⁶His trouble shall return on his own head, and his unrighteousness shall come down on his own crown. ¹⁷I will give thanks to the Lord according to his righteousness; I will sing to the name of the Lord most high.

For the end, concerning the wine-presses, a Psalm of David.

¹O Lord, our Lord, how wonderful is thy name in all the earth! for thy magnificence is exalted above the heavens. ²Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings hast thou perfected praise, because of thine enemies; that thou mightest put down the enemy and avenger. ³For I will regard the heavens, the work of thy fingers; the moon and stars, which thou hast established. ⁴What is man, that thou art mindful of him? or the son of man, that thou visitest him? ⁵Thou madest him a little less than angels, thou hast crowned him with glory and honour; ⁶and thou hast set him over the works of thy hands: thou hast put all things under his feet: ⁷sheep and all oxen, yea and the cattle of the field; ⁸the birds of the sky, and the fish of the sea, whatever passes through the paths of the sea. ⁹O Lord our Lord, how wonderful is thy name in all the earth!

For the end, a Psalm of David, concerning the secrets of the Son.

¹I will give thanks to thee, O Lord, with my whole heart; I will recount all thy wonderful works. ²I will be glad and exult in thee: I will sing to thy name, O thou Most High. ³When mine enemies are turned back, they shall be feeble and perish at thy presence. ⁴For thou hast maintained my cause and my right; thou satest on the throne, that judgest righteousness. ⁵Thou hast rebuked the nations, and the ungodly one has perished; thou hast blotted out their name for ever, even for ever and ever. ⁶The swords of the enemy have failed utterly; and thou hast destroyed cities: their memorial has been destroyed with a noise, ⁷but the Lord endures for ever: he has prepared his throne for judgment. ⁸And he will judge the world in righteousness, he will judge the nations in uprightness. ⁹The Lord also is become a refuge for the poor, a seasonable help, in affliction. ¹⁰And let them that know thy name hope in thee: for thou, O Lord, hast not failed them that diligently seek thee. ¹¹Sing praises to the Lord, who dwells in Sion: declare his dealings among the nations. ¹²For he remembered them, in making inquisition for blood: he has not forgotten the supplication of the poor. ¹³Have mercy upon me, O Lord; look upon my affliction which I suffer of mine enemies, thou that liftest me up from the gates of death: ¹⁴that I may declare all thy praises in the gates of the daughter of Sion: I will exult in thy salvation. ¹⁵The heathen are caught in the destruction which they planned: in the very snare which they hid is their foot taken. ¹⁶The Lord is known as executing judgments: the sinner is taken in the works of his hands. A song of Pauses. ¹⁷Let sinners be driven away into Hades, even all the nations that forget God. ¹⁸For the poor shall not be forgotten for ever: the patience of the needy ones shall not perish for ever. ¹⁹Arise, O Lord, let not man prevail: let the heathen be judged before thee. ²⁰Appoint, O Lord, a lawgiver over them: let the heathen know that they are men. Pause.* (10) ¹Why standest thou afar off, O Lord? why dost thou overlook us in times of need, in affliction? ²While the ungodly one acts proudly, the poor is hotly pursued: the wicked are taken in the crafty counsels which they imagine. ³Because the sinner praises himself for the desires of his heart; and the unjust one blesses himself. ⁴The sinner has provoked the Lord: according to the abundance of his pride he will not seek after him: God is not before him. ⁵His ways are profane at all times; thy judgments are removed from before him: he will gain the mastery over all his enemies. ⁶For he has said in his heart, I shall not be moved, continuing without evil from generation to generation. ⁷Whose mouth is full of cursing, and bitterness, and fraud: under his tongue are trouble and pain. ⁸He lies in wait with rich men in secret places, in order to slay the innocent: his eyes are set against the poor. ⁹He lies in wait in secret as a lion in his den: he lies in wait to ravish the poor, to ravish the poor when he draws him after him: he will bring him down in his snare. ¹⁰He will bow down and fall when he has mastered the poor. ¹¹For he has said in his heart, God has forgotten: he has turned away his face so as never to look. ¹²Arise, O Lord God; let thy hand be lifted up: forget not the poor. ¹³Wherefore, has the wicked provoked God? for he has said in his heart, He will not require it. ¹⁴Thou seest it; for thou dost observe trouble and wrath, to deliver them into thy hands: the poor has been left to thee; thou wast a helper to the orphan. ¹⁵Break thou the arm of the sinner and wicked man: his sin shall be sought for, and shall not be found. ¹⁶The Lord shall reign for ever, even for ever and ever: ye Gentiles shall perish out his land. ¹⁷The Lord has heard the desire of the poor: thine ear has inclined to the preparation of their heart; ¹⁸to plead for the orphan and afflicted, that man may no more boast upon the earth.

For the end, a Psalm of David.

¹In the Lord I have put my trust: how will ye say to my soul, ²Flee to the mountains as a sparrow? ³For behold the sinners have bent their bow, they have prepared their arrows for the quiver, to shoot privily at the upright in heart. ⁴For they have pulled down what thou didst frame, but what has the righteous done? ⁵The Lord is in his holy temple, as for the Lord, his throne is in heaven: his eyes look upon the poor, his eyelids try the sons of men. ⁶The Lord tries the righteous and the ungodly: and he that loves unrighteousness hates his own soul. ⁷He shall rain upon sinners snares, fire, and brimstone, and a stormy blast shall be the portion of their cup. ⁸For the Lord is righteous, and loves righteousness; his face beholds uprightness.

For the end, A Psalm of David, upon the eighth.

¹Save me, O Lord; for the godly man has failed; for truth is diminished from among the children of men. ²Every one has spoken vanity to his neighbour: their lips are deceitful, they have spoken with a double heart. ³Let the Lord destroy all the deceitful lips, and the tongue that speaks great words: ⁴who have said, We will magnify our tongue; our lips are our own: who is Lord of us? ⁵Because of the misery of the poor, and because of the sighing of the needy, now will I arise, says the Lord, I will set them in safety; I will speak to them thereof openly. ⁶The oracles of the Lord are pure oracles; as silver tried in the fire, proved in a furnace of earth, purified seven times. ⁷Thou, O Lord, shalt keep us, and shalt preserve us, from this generation, and for ever. ⁸The ungodly walk around: according to thy greatness thou has greatly exalted the sons of men.

Psalm 12 (13)

For the end, a Psalm of David.

¹How long, O Lord, wilt thou forget me? for ever? how long wilt thou turn away thy face from me? ²How long shall I take counsel in my soul, having sorrows in my heart daily? how long shall my enemy be exalted over me? ³Look on me, hearken to me, O Lord my God: lighten mine eyes, lest I sleep in death; ⁴lest at any time mine enemy say, I have prevailed against him: my persecutors will exult if ever I should be moved. ⁵But I have hoped in thy mercy; my heart shall exult in thy salvation. ⁶I will sing to the Lord who has dealt bountifully with me, and I will sing psalms to the name of the Lord most high.

For the end, Psalm of David.

¹The fool has said in his heart, There is no God. They have corrupted themselves, and become abominable in their devices; there is none that does goodness, there is not even so much as one. ²The Lord looked down from heaven upon the sons of men, to see if there were any that understood, or sought after god. ³They are all gone out of the way, they are together become good for nothing, there is none that does good, no not one. Their throat is an open sepulchre; with their tongues they have used deceit; the poison of asps is under their lips: whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness; their feet are swift to shed blood: destruction and misery are in their ways; and the way of peace they have not known: there is no fear of God before their eyes. ⁴Will not all the workers of iniquity know, who eat up my people as they would eat bread? they have not called upon the Lord. ⁵There were they alarmed with fear, where there was no fear; for God is in the righteous generation. ⁶Ye have shamed the counsel of the poor, because the Lord is his hope. ⁷Who will bring the salvation of Israel out of Sion? when the Lord brings back the captivity of his people, let Jacob exult, and Israel be glad.

Psalms 14 (15)

A Psalm of David.

¹O Lord, who shall sojourn in thy tabernacle? and who shall dwell in thy holy mountain? ²He that walks blameless, and works righteousness, who speaks truth in his heart. ³Who has not spoken craftily with his tongue, neither has done evil to his neighbour, nor taken up a reproach against them that dwelt nearest to him. ⁴In his sight an evil-worker is set at nought, but he honours them that fear the Lord. He swears to his neighbour, and disappoints him not. ⁵He has not lent his money on usury, and has not received bribes against the innocent. He that does these things shall never be moved.

Psalms 15 (16)

A writing of David.

¹Keep me, O Lord; for I have hoped in thee. ²I said to the Lord, Thou art my Lord; for thou has no need of my goodness. ³On behalf of the saints that are in his land, he has magnified all his pleasure in them. ⁴Their weaknesses have been multiplied; afterward they hastened. I will by no means assemble their bloody meetings, neither will I make mention of their names with my lips. ⁵The Lord is the portion of mine inheritance and of my cup: thou art he that restores my inheritance to me. ⁶The lines have fallen to me in the best places, yea, I have a most excellent heritage. ⁷I will bless the Lord who has instructed me; my reins too have chastened me even till night. ⁸I foresaw the Lord always before my face; for he is on my right hand, that I should not be moved. ⁹Therefore my heart rejoiced and my tongue exulted; moreover also my flesh shall rest in hope: ¹⁰because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption. ¹¹Thou hast made known to me the ways of life; thou wilt fill me with joy with thy countenance: at thy right hand there are delights for ever.

Psalms

Psalm 16 (17)

A prayer of David.

¹Hearken, O Lord of my righteousness, attend to my petition; give ear to my prayer not uttered with deceitful lips. ²Let my judgment come forth from thy presence; let mine eyes behold righteousness. ³Thou has proved mine heart; thou hast visited me by night; thou hast tried me as with fire, and unrighteousness has not been found in me: I am purposed that my mouth shall not speak amiss. ⁴As for the works of men, by the words of thy lips I have guarded myself from hard ways. ⁵Direct my steps in thy paths, that my steps slip not. ⁶I have cried, for thou heardest me, O God: incline thine ear to me, and hearken to my words. ⁷Shew the marvels of thy mercies, thou that savest them that hope in thee. ⁸Keep me as the apple of the eye from those that resist thy right hand: thou shalt screen me by the covering of thy wings, ⁹from the face of the ungodly that have afflicted me: mine enemies have compassed about my soul. ¹⁰They have enclosed themselves with their own fat: their mouth has spoken pride. ¹¹They have now cast me out and compassed me round about: they have set their eyes so as to bow them down to the ground. ¹²They laid wait for me as a lion ready for prey, and like a lion's whelp dwelling in secret places. ¹³Arise, O Lord, prevent them, and cast them down: deliver my soul from the ungodly: draw thy sword, ¹⁴because of the enemies of thine hand: O Lord, destroy them from the earth; scatter them in their life, though their belly has been filled with thy hidden treasures: they have been satisfied with uncleanness, and have left the remnant of their possessions to their babes. ¹⁵But I shall appear in righteousness before thy face: I shall be satisfied when thy glory appears.

For the end, a Psalm of David, the servant of the Lord; the words which he spoke to the Lord, even the words of this Song, in the day in which the Lord delivered him out the hand of all his enemies, and out the hand of Saul: and he said:

¹I will love thee, O Lord, my strength. ²The Lord is my firm support, and my refuge, and my deliverer; my God is my helper, I will hope in him; he is my defender, and the horn of my salvation, and my helper. ³I will call upon the Lord with praises, and I shall be saved from mine enemies. ⁴The pangs of death compassed me, and the torrents of ungodliness troubled me exceedingly. ⁵The pangs of hell came round about me: the snares of death prevented me. ⁶And when I was afflicted I called upon the Lord, and cried to my God: he heard my voice out of this holy temple, and my cry shall enter before him, even into his ears. ⁷Then the earth shook and quaked, and the foundations of the mountains were disturbed, and were shaken, because God was angry with them. ⁸There went up a smoke in his wrath, and fire burst into a flame at his presence: coals were kindled at it. ⁹And he bowed the heaven, and came down: and thick darkness was under his feet. ¹⁰And he mounted on cherubs and flew: he flew on the wings of winds. ¹¹And he made darkness his secret place: round about him was his tabernacle, even dark water in the clouds of the air. ¹²At the brightness before him the clouds passed, hail and coals of fire. ¹³The Lord also thundered from heaven, and the Highest uttered his voice. ¹⁴And he sent forth his weapons, and scattered them; and multiplied lightnings, and routed them. ¹⁵And the springs of waters appeared, and the foundations of the world were exposed, at thy rebuke, O Lord, at the blasting of the breath of thy wrath. ¹⁶He sent from on high and took me, he drew me to himself out of many waters. ¹⁷He will deliver me from my mighty enemies, and from them that hate me; for they are stronger than I. ¹⁸They prevented me in the day of mine affliction: but the Lord was my stay against them. ¹⁹And he brought me out into a wide place: he will deliver me, because he has pleasure in me. ²⁰And the Lord will recompense me according to my righteousness; even according to the purity of my hands will he recompense me. ²¹For I have kept the way of the Lord and have not wickedly departed from my God. ²²For all his judgments were before me, and his ordinances departed not from me. ²³And I shall be blameless with hem, and shall keep myself from mine iniquity. ²⁴And the Lord shall recompense me according to my righteousness, and according to the purity of my hands before his eyes. ²⁵With the holy thou wilt be holy; and with the innocent man thou wilt be innocent. ²⁶And with the excellent man thou wilt be excellent; and with the perverse thou wilt shew frowardness. ²⁷For thou wilt save the lowly people, and wilt humble the eyes of the proud. ²⁸For thou, O Lord, wilt light my lamp: my God, thou wilt lighten my darkness. ²⁹For by thee shall I be delivered from a troop; and by my God I will pass over a wall. ³⁰*As for* my God, his way is perfect: the oracles of the Lord are tried in the fire; he is a protector of all them that hope in him. ³¹For who is God but the Lord? and who is a God except our God? ³²*It is* God that girds me with strength, and has made my way blameless: ³³who strengthens my feet as hart's feet, and sets me upon high places. ³⁴He instructs my hands for war: and thou hast made my arms as a brazen bow. ³⁵And thou hast made me secure in my salvation: and thy right hand has helped me, and thy correction has upheld me to the end; yea, thy correction itself shall instruct me. ³⁶Thou has made room for my goings under me, and by footsteps did not fail.

Psalms

³⁷I will pursue mine enemies, and overtake them; and I will not turn back until they are consumed. ³⁸I will dash them to pieces and they shall not be able to stand: they shall fall under my feet. ³⁹For thou hast girded me with strength for war: thou hast beaten down under me all that rose up against me. ⁴⁰And thou has made mine enemies turn their backs before me; and thou hast destroyed them that hated me. ⁴¹They cried, but there was no deliverer: even to the Lord, but he hearkened not to them. ⁴²I will grind them as the mud of the streets: and I will beat them small as dust before the wind. ⁴³Deliver me from the gain sayings of the people: thou shalt make me head of the Gentiles: a people whom I knew not served me, ⁴⁴at the hearing of the ear they obeyed me: the strange children lied to me. ⁴⁵The strange children waxed old, and fell away from their paths through lameness. ⁴⁶The Lord lives; and blessed be my God; and let the God of my salvation be exalted. ⁴⁷*It is* God that avenges me, and has subdued the nations under me; ⁴⁸my deliverer from angry enemies: thou shalt set me on high above them that rise up against me: thou shalt deliver me from the unrighteous man. ⁴⁹Therefore will I confess to thee, O Lord, among the Gentiles, and sing to thy name. ⁵⁰*God* magnifies the deliverances of his king; and deals mercifully with David his anointed, and his seed, for ever.

Psalm 18 (19)

For the end, a Psalm of David.

¹The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament proclaims the work of his hands. ²Day to day utters speech, and night to night proclaims knowledge. ³There are no speeches or words, in which their voices are not heard. ⁴Their voice is gone out into all the earth, and their words to the ends of the world. ⁵In the sun he has set his tabernacle; and he comes forth as a bridegroom out of his chamber: he will exult as a giant to run his course. ⁶His going forth is from the extremity of heaven, and his circuit to the other end of heaven: and no one shall be hidden from his heat. ⁷The law of the Lord is perfect, converting souls: the testimony of the Lord is faithful, instructing babes. ⁸The ordinances of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of the Lord is bright, enlightening the eyes. ⁹The fear of the Lord is pure, enduring for ever and ever: the judgments of the Lord are true, and justified altogether. ¹⁰To be desired more than gold, and much precious stone: sweeter also than honey and the honey-comb. ¹¹For thy servant keeps to them: in the keeping of them there is great reward. ¹²Who will understand his transgressions? purge thou me from my secret sins. ¹³And spare thy servant the attack of strangers: if they do not gain the dominion over me, then shall I be blameless, and I shall be clear from great sin. ¹⁴So shall the sayings of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be pleasing continually before thee, O Lord my helper, and my redeemer.

Psalm 19 (20)

For the end, a Psalm of David.

¹The Lord hear thee in the day of trouble; the name of the God of Jacob defend thee. ²Send thee help from the sanctuary, and aid thee out of Sion. ³Remember all thy sacrifice, and enrich thy whole-burnt-offering. Pause. ⁴Grant thee according to thy heart, and fulfill all thy desire. ⁵We will exult in thy salvation, and in the name of our God shall we be magnified: the Lord fulfil all thy petitions. ⁶Now I know that the Lord has saved his Christ: he shall hear him from his holy heaven: the salvation of his right hand is mighty. ⁷Some glory in chariots, and some in horses: but we will glory in the name of the Lord our God. ⁸They are overthrown and fallen: but we are risen, and have been set upright. ⁹O Lord, save the king: and hear us in whatever day we call upon thee.

For the end, a Psalm of David.

¹O Lord, the king shall rejoice in thy strength; and in thy salvation he shall greatly exult. ²Thou hast granted him the desire of his soul, and hast not withheld from him the request of his lips. Pause. ³For thou hast prevented him with blessings of goodness: thou has set upon his head a crown of precious stone. ⁴He asked life of thee, and thou gavest him length of days for ever and ever. ⁵His glory is great in thy salvation: thou wilt crown him with glory and majesty. ⁶For thou wilt give him a blessing for ever and ever: thou wilt gladden him with joy with thy countenance. ⁷For the king trusts in the Lord, and through the mercy of the Highest he shall not be moved. ⁸Let thy hand be found by all thine enemies: let thy right hand find all that hate thee. ⁹Thou shalt make them as a fiery oven at the time of thy presence: the Lord shall trouble them in his anger, and fire shall devour them. ¹⁰Thou shalt destroy their fruit from the earth, and their seed from among the sons of men. ¹¹For they intended evils against thee; they imagined a device which they shall by no means be able to perform. ¹²For thou shalt make them turn their back in thy latter end, thou wilt prepare their face. ¹³Be thou exalted, O Lord, in thy strength: we will sing and praise thy mighty acts.

For the end, concerning the morning aid, a Psalm of David.

¹O God, my God, attend to me: why hast thou forsaken me? the account of my transgressions is far from my salvation. ²O my God, I will cry to thee

by day, but thou wilt not hear: and by night, and it shall not be accounted for folly to me. ³But thou, the praise of Israel, dwellest in a sanctuary. ⁴Our fathers hoped in thee; they hoped, and thou didst deliver them. ⁵They cried to thee, and were saved: they hoped in thee, and were not ashamed. ⁶But I am a worm, and not a man; a reproach of men, and scorn of the people. ⁷All that saw me mocked me: they spoke with their lips, they shook the head, saying, ⁸He hoped in the Lord: let him deliver him, let him save him, because he takes pleasure in him. ⁹For thou art he that drew me out of the womb; my hope from my mother's breasts. ¹⁰I was cast on thee from the womb: thou art my God from my mother's belly. ¹¹Stand not aloof from me; for affliction is near; for there is no helper. ¹²Many bullocks have compassed me: fat bulls have beset me round. ¹³They have opened their mouth against me, as a ravening and roaring lion. ¹⁴I am poured out like water, and all my bones are loosened: my heart in the midst of my belly is become like melting wax. ¹⁵My strength is dried up, like a potsherd; and my tongue is glued to my throat; and thou hast brought me down to the dust of death. ¹⁶For many dogs have compassed me: the assembly of the wicked doers has beset me round: they pierced my hands and my feet. ¹⁷They counted all my bones; and they observed and looked upon me. ¹⁸They parted my garments among themselves, and cast lots upon my raiment. ¹⁹But thou, O Lord, remove not my help afar off: be ready for mine aid. ²⁰Deliver my soul from the sword; my only-begotten one from the power of the dog. ²¹Save me from the lion's mouth; and regard my lowliness from the horns of the unicorns. ²²I will declare thy name to my brethren: in the midst of the church will I sing praise to thee. ²³Ye that fear the Lord, praise him; all ye seed of Jacob, glorify him: let all the seed of Israel fear him. ²⁴For he has not despised nor been angry at the supplication of the poor; nor turned away his face from me; but when I cried to him, he heard me. ²⁵My praise is of thee in the great congregation: I will pay my vows before them that fear him. ²⁶The poor shall eat and be satisfied; and they shall praise the Lord that seek him: their heart shall live for ever. ²⁷All the ends of the earth shall remember and turn to the Lord: and all the kindreds of the nations shall worship before him. ²⁸For the kingdom is the Lord's; and he is the governor of the nations. ²⁹All the fat ones of the earth have eaten and worshipped: all that go down to the earth shall fall down before him: my soul also lives to him. ³⁰And my seed shall serve him: the generation that is coming shall be reported to the Lord. ³¹And they shall report his righteousness to the people that shall be born, whom the Lord has made.

Psalms

Psalm 22 (23)

A Psalm of David.

¹The Lord tends me as a shepherd, and I shall want nothing. ²In a place of green grass, there he has made me dwell: he has nourished me by the water of rest. ³He has restored my soul: he has guided me into the paths of righteousness, for his name's sake. ⁴Yea, even if I should walk in the midst of the shadow of death, I will not be afraid of evils: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff, these have comforted me. ⁵Thou has prepared a table before me in presence of them that afflict me: thou hast thoroughly anointed my head with oil; and thy cup cheers me like the best wine. ⁶Thy mercy also shall follow me all the days of my life: and my dwelling shall be in the house of the Lord for a very long time.

Psalm 23 (24)

A Psalm for David on the first day of the week.

¹The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof; the world, and all that dwell in it. ²He has founded it upon the seas, and prepared it upon the rivers. ³Who shall go up to the mountain of the Lord, and who shall stand in his holy place? ⁴He that is innocent in his hands and pure in his heart; who has not lifted up his soul to vanity, nor sworn deceitfully to his neighbour. ⁵He shall receive a blessing from the Lord, and mercy from God his Saviour. ⁶This is the generation of them that seek him, that seek the face of the God of Jacob. Pause. ⁷Lift up your gates, ye princes, and be ye lifted up, ye everlasting doors; and the king of glory shall come in. ⁸Who is this king of Glory? the Lord strong and mighty, the Lord mighty in battle. ⁹Lift up your gates, ye princes; and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors; and the king of glory shall come in. ¹⁰Who is this king of glory? The Lord of hosts, he is this king of glory.

A Psalm of David.

¹To thee, O Lord, have I lifted up my soul. ²O my God, I have trusted in thee: let me not be confounded, neither let mine enemies laugh me to scorn. ³For none of them that wait on thee shall in any wise be ashamed: let them be ashamed that transgress without cause. ⁴Shew me thy ways, O Lord; and teach me thy paths. ⁵Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art God my Saviour: and I have waited on thee all the day. ⁶Remember thy compassions, O Lord, and thy mercies, for they are from everlasting. ⁷Remember not the sins of my youth, nor my sins of ignorance: remember me according to thy mercy, for thy goodness' sake, O Lord. ⁸Good and upright is the Lord: therefore will he instruct sinners in the way. ⁹The meek will he guide in judgment: the meek will he teach his ways. ¹⁰All the ways of the Lord are mercy and truth to them that seek his covenant and his testimonies. ¹¹For thy name's sake, O Lord, do thou also be merciful to my sin; for it is great. ¹²Who is the man that fears the Lord? he shall instruct him in the way which he has chosen. ¹³His soul shall dwell in prosperity; and his seed shall inherit the earth. ¹⁴The Lord is the strength of them that fear him; and his covenant is to manifest truth to them. ¹⁵Mine eyes are continually to the Lord; for he shall draw my feet out of the snare. ¹⁶Look upon me, and have mercy upon me; for I am an only child and poor. ¹⁷The afflictions of my heart have been multiplied; deliver me from my distresses. ¹⁸Look upon mine affliction and my trouble; and forgive all my sins. ¹⁹Look upon mine enemies; for they have been multiplied; and they have hated me with unjust hatred. ²⁰Keep my soul, and deliver me: let me not be ashamed; for I have hoped in thee. ²¹The harmless and upright joined themselves to me: for I waited for thee, O Lord. ²²Deliver Israel, O God, out of all his afflictions.

Psalm 25 (26)

A Psalm of David.

¹Judge me, O Lord; for I have walked in my innocence: and hoping in the Lord I shall not be moved. ²Prove me, O Lord, and try me; purify as with fire my reins and my heart.

³For thy mercy is before mine eyes: and I am well pleased with thy truth. ⁴I have not sat with the council of vanity, and will in nowise enter in with transgressors. ⁵I have hated the assembly of wicked doers; and will not sit with ungodly men. ⁶I will wash my hands in innocence, and compass thine altar, O Lord: ⁷to hear the voice of praise, and to declare all thy wonderful works. ⁸O Lord, I have loved the beauty of thy house, and the place of the tabernacle of thy glory. ⁹Destroy not my soul together with the ungodly, nor my life with bloody men: ¹⁰in whose hands are iniquities, and their right hand is filled with bribes. ¹¹But I have walked in my innocence: redeem me, and have mercy upon me. ¹²My foot stands in an even place: in the congregations will I bless thee, O Lord.

Psalm 26 (27)

A Psalm of David, before he was anointed.

¹The Lord is my light and my Saviour; whom shall I fear? the Lord is the defender of my life; of whom shall I be afraid? ²When evil-doers drew nigh against me to eat up my flesh, my persecutors and mine enemies, they fainted and fell. ³Though an army should set itself in array against me, my heart shall not be afraid: though war should rise up against me, in this am I confident. ⁴One thing have I asked of the Lord, this will I earnestly seek: that I should dwell in the house of the Lord, all the days of my life, that I should behold the fair beauty of the Lord, and survey his temple. ⁵For in the day of mine afflictions he hid me in his tabernacle: he sheltered me in the secret of his tabernacle; he set me up on a rock. ⁶And now, behold, he has lifted up mine head over mine enemies: I went round and offered in his tabernacle the sacrifice of joy; I will sing even sing psalms to the Lord.

⁷Hear, O Lord, my voice which I have uttered aloud: pity me, and hearken to me. ⁸My heart said to thee, I have diligently sought thy face: thy face, O Lord, I will seek. ⁹Turn not thy face away from me, turn not thou away from thy servant in anger: be thou my helper, forsake me not; and, O God my Saviour, overlook me not. ¹⁰For my father and my mother have forsaken me, but the Lord has taken me to himself. ¹¹Teach me, O Lord, in thy way, and guide me in a right path, because of mine enemies. ¹²Deliver me not over to the desire of them that afflict me; for unjust witnesses have risen up against me, and injustice has lied within herself. ¹³I believe that I shall see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living. ¹⁴Wait on the Lord: be of good courage, and let thy heart be strengthened: yea wait on the Lord.

Psalm 27 (28)

A Psalm of David.

¹To thee, O Lord, have I cried; my God, be not silent toward me: lest thou be silent toward me, and so I should be likened to them that go down to the pit. ²Hearken to the voice of my supplication, when I pray to thee, when I lift up my hands toward thy holy temple. ³Draw not away my soul with sinners, and destroy me not with the workers of iniquity, who speak peace with their neighbours, but evils are in their hearts. ⁴Give them according to their works, and according to the wickedness of their devices: give them according to the works of their hands; render their recompense unto them. ⁵Because they have not attended to the works of the Lord, even to the works of his hands, thou shalt pull them down, and shalt not build them up.

⁶Blessed be the Lord, for he has hearkened to the voice of my petition. ⁷The Lord is my helper and my defender; my heart has hoped in him, and I am helped: my flesh has revived, and willingly will I give praise to him. ⁸The Lord is the strength of his people, and the saving defender of his anointed.

⁹Save thy people, and bless thine inheritance: and take care of them, and lift them up for ever.

Psalm 28 (29)

A Psalm of David on the occasion of the solemn assembly of the Tabernacles.

Psalms

¹Bring to the Lord, ye sons of God, bring to the Lord young rams; bring to the Lord glory and honour. ²Bring to the Lord glory, due to his name; worship the lord in his holy court. ³The voice of the Lord is upon the waters: the God of glory has thundered: the Lord is upon many waters. ⁴The voice of the Lord is mighty; the voice of the Lord is full of majesty. ⁵*There is* the voice of the Lord who breaks the cedars; the Lord will break the cedars of Libanus. ⁶And he will beat them small, even Libanus itself, like a calf; and the beloved one is as a young unicorn. ⁷*There is* a voice of the Lord who divides a flame of fire. ⁸A voice of the Lord who shakes the wilderness; the Lord will shake the wilderness of Cades. ⁹The voice of the Lord strengthens the hinds, and will uncover the thickets: and in his temple every one speaks of his glory. ¹⁰The Lord will dwell on the waterflood: and the Lord will sit a king for ever. ¹¹The Lord will give strength to his people; the Lord will bless his people with peace.

Psalm 29 (30)

For the end, a Psalm and Song at the dedication of the house of David.

¹I will exalt thee, O Lord; for thou hast lifted me up, and not caused mine enemies to rejoice over me. ²O Lord my God, I cried to thee, and thou didst heal me. ³O Lord, thou hast brought up my soul from Hades, thou hast delivered me from among them that go down to the pit. ⁴Sing to the Lord, ye his saints, and give thanks for the remembrance of his holiness. ⁵For anger is in his wrath, but life in his favour: weeping shall tarry for the evening, but joy shall be in the morning. ⁶And I said in my prosperity, I shall never be moved. ⁷O Lord, in thy good pleasure thou didst add strength to my beauty: but thou didst turn away thy face, and I was troubled. ⁸To thee, O Lord, will I cry; and to my God will I make supplication. ⁹What profit is there in my blood, when I go down to destruction? Shall the dust give praise to thee? or shall it declare thy truth? ¹⁰The Lord heard, and had compassion upon me; the Lord is become my helper. ¹¹Thou hast turned my mourning into joy for me: thou hast rent off my sackcloth, and girded me with gladness; ¹²that my glory may sing praise to thee, and I may not be pierced with sorrow. O Lord my God, I will give thanks to thee for ever.

For the end, a Psalm of David, an utterance of extreme fear.

¹O Lord, I have hoped in thee; let me never be ashamed: deliver me in thy righteousness and rescue me. ²Incline thine ear to me; make haste to rescue me: be thou to me for a protecting God, and for a house of refuge to save me. ³For thou art my strength and my refuge; and thou shalt guide me for thy name's sake, and maintain me. ⁴Thou shalt bring me out of the snare which they have hidden for me; for thou, O Lord, art my defender. ⁵Into thine hands I will commit my spirit: thou hast redeemed me, O Lord God of truth. ⁶Thou hast hated them that idly persist in vanities: but I have hoped in the Lord. ⁷I will exult and be glad in thy mercy: for thou hast looked upon mine affliction; thou hast saved my soul from distresses. ⁸And thou hast not shut me up into the hands of the enemy: thou hast set my feet in a wide place. ⁹Pity me, O Lord, for I am afflicted: my eye is troubled with indignation, my soul and by belly. ¹⁰For my life is spent with grief, and my years with groanings: my strength has been weakened through poverty, and my bones are troubled. ¹¹I became a reproach among all mine enemies, but exceedingly so to my neighbours, and a fear to mine acquaintance: they that saw me without fled from me. ¹²I have been forgotten as a dead man out of mind: I am become as a broken vessel. ¹³For I heard the slander of many that dwelt round about: when they were gathered together against me, they took counsel to take my life. ¹⁴But I hoped in thee, O Lord: I said, Thou art my God. ¹⁵My lots are in thy hands: deliver me from the hand of mine enemies, ¹⁶and from them that persecute me. Make thy face to shine upon thy servant: save me in thy mercy. ¹⁷O Lord, let me not be ashamed, for I have called upon thee: let the ungodly be ashamed, and brought down to Hades. ¹⁸Let the deceitful lips become dumb, which speak iniquity against the righteous with pride and scorn. ¹⁹How abundant is the multitude of thy goodness, O Lord, which thou hast laid up for them that fear thee! thou hast wrought it out for them that hope on thee, in the presence of the sons of men. ²⁰Thou wilt hide them in the secret of thy presence from the vexation of man: thou wilt screen them in a tabernacle from the contradiction of tongues. ²¹Blessed be the Lord: for he has magnified his mercy in a fortified city. ²²But I said in my extreme fear, I am cast out from the sight of thine eyes: therefore thou didst hearken, O Lord, to the voice of my supplication when I cried to thee. ²³Love the Lord, all ye his saints: for the Lord seeks for truth, and renders a reward to them that deal very proudly. ²⁴Be of good courage, and let your heart be strengthened, all ye that hope in the Lord.

A Psalm of instruction by David.

¹Blessed are they whose transgressions are forgiven, and whose sins are covered. ²Blessed is the man to whom the Lord will not impute sin, and whose mouth there is no guile. ³Because I kept silence, my bones waxed old, from my crying all the day.

Psalms

⁴For day and night thy hand was heavy upon me: I became thoroughly miserable while a thorn was fastened in me. Pause. ⁵I acknowledged my sin, and hid not mine iniquity: I said, I will confess mine iniquity to the Lord against myself; and thou forgavest the ungodliness of my heart. Pause. ⁶Therefore shall every holy one pray to thee in a fit time: only in the deluge of many waters they shall not come nigh to him. ⁷Thou art my refuge from the affliction that encompasses me; my joy, to deliver me from them that have compassed me. Pause. ⁸I will instruct thee and guide thee in this way wherein thou shalt go: I will fix mine eyes upon thee. ⁹Be ye not as horse and mule, which have no understanding; but thou must constrain their jaws with bit and curb, lest they should come nigh to thee. ¹⁰Many are the scourges of the sinner: but him that hopes in the Lord mercy shall compass about. ¹¹Be glad in the Lord, and exult, ye righteous: and glory, all ye that are upright in heart.

Psalm 32 (33)

A Psalm of David.

¹Rejoice in the Lord, ye righteous; praise becomes the upright. ²Praise the Lord on the harp; plasy to him on a psaltery of ten strings. ³Sing to him a new song; play skillfully with a loud noise. ⁴For the word of the Lord is right; and all his works are faithful. ⁵He loves mercy and judgment; the earth is full the mercy of the Lord. ⁶By the word of the Lord the heavens were established; and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth. ⁷Who gathers the waters of the sea as in a bottle; who lays up the deeps in treasures. ⁸Let all the earth fear the Lord; and let all that dwell in the world be moved because of him. ⁹For he spoke, and they were made; he commanded, and they were created. ¹⁰The Lord frustrates the counsels of the nations; he brings to nought also the reasonings of the peoples, and brings to nought the counsels of princes. ¹¹But the counsel of the Lord endures for ever, the thoughts of his heart from generation to generation. ¹²Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord; the people whom he has chosen for his own inheritance. ¹³The Lord looks out of heaven; he beholds all the sons of men. ¹⁴He looks from his prepared habitation on all the dwellers on the earth; ¹⁵who fashioned their hearts alone; who understands all their works. ¹⁶A king is not saved by reason of a great host; and a giant shall not be delivered by the greatness of his strength. ¹⁷A horse is vain for safety; neither shall he be delivered by the greatness of his power. ¹⁸Behold, the eyes of the Lord are on them that fear him, those that hope in his mercy; ¹⁹to deliver their souls from death, and to keep them alive in famine. ²⁰Our soul waits on the Lord; for he is our helper and defender. ²¹For our heart shall rejoice in him, and we have hoped in his holy name. ²²Let thy mercy, O Lord, be upon us, according as we have hoped in thee.

Psalm 33 (34)

A Psalm of David, when he changed his countenance before Abimelech; and he let him go, and he departed.

¹I will bless the Lord at all times: his praise shall be continually in my mouth. ²My soul shall boast herself in the Lord: let the meek hear, and rejoice. ³Magnify ye the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together. ⁴I sought the Lord diligently, and he hearkened to me, and delivered me from all my sojournings. ⁵Draw near to him, and be enlightened: and your faces shall not by any means be ashamed. ⁶This poor man cried, and the Lord hearkened to him, and delivered him out of all his afflictions. ⁷The angel of the Lord will encamp round about them that fear him, and will deliver them. ⁸Taste and see that the Lord is good: blessed is the man who hopes in him. ⁹Fear the Lord, all ye his saints: for there is no want to them that fear him. ¹⁰The rich have become poor and hungry: but they that seek the Lord diligently shall not want any good thing. Pause. ¹¹Come, ye children, hear me: I will teach you the fear of the Lord. ¹²What man is there that desires life, loving to see good days? ¹³Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips from speaking guile. ¹⁴Turn away from evil, and do good; seek peace, and pursue it. ¹⁵The eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open to their prayer: ¹⁶but the face of the Lord is against them that do evil, to destroy their memorial from the earth. The righteous cried, and the Lord hearkened to them, ¹⁷and delivered them out of all their afflictions. ¹⁸The Lord is near to them that are of a contrite heart; and will save the lowly in spirit. ¹⁹Many are the afflictions of the righteous: but out of them all Lord will deliver them. ²⁰He keeps all their bones: not one of them shall be broken. ²¹The death of sinners is evil: and they that hate righteousness will go wrong. ²²The Lord will redeem the souls of his servants: and none of those that hope in him shall go wrong.

Psalm 34 (35)

A Psalm of David.

¹Judge thou, O Lord, them that injure me, fight against them that fight against me. ²Take hold of shield and buckler, and arise for my help. ³Bring forth a sword, and stop the way against them that persecute me: say to my soul, I am thy salvation. ⁴Let them that seek my soul be ashamed and confounded: let them that devise evils against me be turned back and put to shame. ⁵Let them be as dust before the wind, and an angel of the Lord afflicting them. ⁶Let their way be dark and slippery, and an angel of the Lord persecuting them. ⁷For without cause they have hid for me their destructive snare: without a cause they have reproached my soul. ⁸Let a snare which they know not come upon them; and the gin which they hid take them; and let them fall into the very same snare. ⁹But my soul shall exult in the Lord: it shall delight in his salvation. ¹⁰All my bones shall say, O Lord, who is like to thee? delivering the poor out of the hand of them that are stronger than he, yea, the poor and needy one from them that spoil him. ¹¹Unjust witnesses arose, and asked me of things I new not. ¹²They rewarded me evil for good, and bereavement to my soul. ¹³But I, when they troubled me, put on sackcloth, and humbled my soul with fasting: and my prayer shall return to my own bosom. ¹⁴I behaved agreeably towards them as if it had been our neighbour or brother: I humbled myself as one mourning and sad of countenance. ¹⁵Yet they rejoiced against me, and plagues were plentifully brought against me, and I knew it not: they were scattered, but repented not. ¹⁶They tempted me, they sneered at me most contemptuously, they gnashed their teeth upon me. ¹⁷O Lord, when wilt thou look upon me? Deliver my soul from their mischief, mine only-begotten one from the lions. ¹⁸I will give thanks to thee even in a great congregation: in an abundant people I will praise thee. ¹⁹Let not them that are mine enemies without a cause rejoice against me; who hate me for nothing, and wink with their eyes.

²⁰For to me they spoke peaceably, but imagined deceits in their anger. ²¹And they opened wide their mouth upon me; they said Aha, aha, our eyes have seen it. ²²Thou hast seen it, O Lord: keep not silence: O Lord, withdraw not thyself from me. ²³Awake, O Lord, and attend to my judgment, even to my cause, my God and my Lord. ²⁴Judge me, O Lord, according to thy righteousness, O Lord my God; and let them not rejoice against me. ²⁵Let them not say in their hearts, Aha, aha, it is pleasing to our soul: neither let them say, We have devoured him. ²⁶Let them be confounded and ashamed together that rejoice at my afflictions: let them be clothed with shame and confusion that speak great swelling words against me. ²⁷Let them that rejoice in my righteousness exult and be glad: and let them say continually, The Lord be magnified, who desire the peace of his servant. ²⁸And my tongue shall meditate on thy righteousness, and on thy praise all the day.

For the end, by David the servant of the Lord.

¹The transgressor, that he may sin, says within himself, that there is no fear of God before his eyes. ²For he has dealt craftily before him, to discover his iniquity and hate it. ³The words of his mouth are transgression and deceit: he is not inclined to understand how to do good. ⁴He devises iniquity on his bed; he gives himself to every evil way; and does not abhor evil. ⁵O Lord, thy mercy is in the heaven; and thy truth reaches to the clouds. ⁶Thy righteousness is as the mountains of God, thy judgments are as a great deep: O Lord, thou wilt preserve men and beasts. ⁷How hast thou multiplied thy mercy, O God! so the children of men shall trust in the shelter of thy wings. ⁸They shall be fully satisfied with the fatness of thine house; and thou shalt cause them to drink of the full stream of thy delights. ⁹For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light we shall see light.

¹⁰Extend thy mercy to them that know thee; and thy righteousness to the upright in heart. ¹¹Let not the foot of pride come against me, and let not the hand of sinners move me.

¹²There have all the workers of iniquity fallen: they are cast out, and shall not be able to stand.

Psalm 36 (37)

A Psalm of David.

¹Fret not thyself because of evil-doers, neither be envious of them that do iniquity. ²For they shall soon be withered as the grass, and shall soon fall away as the green herbs. ³Hope in the Lord, and do good; and dwell on the land, and thou shalt be fed with the wealth of it. ⁴Delight thyself in the Lord; and he shall grant thee the requests of thine heart. ⁵Disclose thy way to the Lord, and hope in him; and he shall bring it to pass. ⁶And he shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light, and thy judgment as the noon-day. ⁷Submit thyself to the Lord, and supplicate him: fret not thyself because of him that prospers in his way, at the man that does unlawful deeds. ⁸Ease from anger, and forsake wrath: fret not thyself so as to do evil. ⁹For evil-doers shall be destroyed: but they that wait on the Lord, they shall inherit the land. ¹⁰And yet a little while, and the sinner shall not be, and thou shalt seek for his place, and shalt not find it. ¹¹But the meek shall inherit the earth; and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace. ¹²The sinner will watch for the righteous, and gnash his teeth upon him. ¹³But the Lord shall laugh at him: for he foresees that his day will come. ¹⁴Sinners have drawn their swords, they have bent their bow, to cast down the poor and needy one, and to slay the upright in heart. ¹⁵Let their sword enter into their own heart, and their bows be broken. ¹⁶A little is better to the righteous than abundant wealth of sinners. ¹⁷For the arms of sinners shall be broken; but the Lord supports the righteous. ¹⁸The Lord knows the ways of the perfect; and their inheritance shall be for ever. ¹⁹They shall not be ashamed in an evil time; and in days of famine they shall be satisfied. ²⁰For the sinners shall perish; and the enemies of the Lord at the moment of their being honoured and exalted have utterly vanished like smoke. ²¹The sinner borrows, and will not pay again:

but the righteous has compassion, and gives. ²²For they that bless him shall inherit the earth; and they that curse him shall be utterly destroyed. ²³The steps of a man are rightly ordered by the Lord: and he will take pleasure in his way. ²⁴When he falls, he shall not be ruined: for the Lord supports his hand. ²⁵I was once young, indeed I am now old; yet I have not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed seeking bread. ²⁶He is merciful, and lends continually; and his seed shall be blessed. ²⁷Turn aside from evil, and do good; and dwell for ever. ²⁸For the Lord loves judgment, and will not forsake his saints; they shall be preserved for ever: the blameless shall be avenged, but the seed of the ungodly shall be utterly destroyed. ²⁹But the righteous shall inherit the earth, and dwell upon it for ever. ³⁰The mouth of the righteous will meditate wisdom, and his tongue will speak of judgment. ³¹The law of his God is in his heart; and his steps shall not slide. ³²The sinner watches the righteous, and seeks to slay him. ³³But the Lord will not leave him in his hands, nor by any means condemn him when he is judged. ³⁴Wait on the Lord, and keep his way, and he shall exalt thee to inherit the land: when the wicked are destroyed, thou shalt see it. ³⁵I saw the ungodly very highly exalting himself, and lifting himself up like the cedars of Libanus. ³⁶Yet I passed by, and lo! he was not: and I sought him, but his place was not found. ³⁷Maintain innocence, and behold uprightness: for there is a remnant to the peaceable man. ³⁸But the transgressors shall be utterly destroyed together: the remnants of the ungodly shall be utterly destroyed. ³⁹But the salvation of the righteous is of the Lord; and he is their defender in the time of affliction. ⁴⁰And the Lord shall help them, and deliver them: and he shall rescue them from sinners, and save them, because they have hoped in him.

A Psalm of David for remembrance concerning the Sabbath-day.

¹O Lord, rebuke me not in thy wrath, neither chasten me in thine anger. ²For thy weapons are fixed in me, and thou hast pressed thy hand heavily upon me. ³For there is no health in my flesh because of thine anger; there is no peace to my bones because of my sins. ⁴For my transgressions have gone over mine head: they have pressed heavily upon me like a weighty burden. ⁵My bruises have become noisome and corrupt, because of my foolishness. ⁶I have been wretched and bowed down continually: I went with a mourning countenance all the day. ⁷For my soul is filled with mockings; and there is no health in my flesh. ⁸I have been afflicted and brought down exceedingly: I have roared for the groaning of my heart. ⁹But all my desire is before thee; and my groaning is not hidden from thee. ¹⁰My heart is troubled, my strength has failed me; and the light of mine eyes is not with me. ¹¹My friends and my neighbours drew near before me, and stood still; and my nearest of kin stood afar off. ¹²While they pressed hard upon me that sought my soul: and they that sought my hurt spoke vanities, and devised deceits all the day. ¹³But I, as a deaf man, heard not; and was as a dumb man not opening his mouth. ¹⁴And I was as a man that hears not, and who has no reproofs in his mouth. ¹⁵For I hoped in thee, O Lord: thou wilt hear, O Lord my God. ¹⁶For I said, Lest mine enemies rejoice against me: for when my feet were moved, they spoke boastingly against me. ¹⁷For I am ready for plagues, and my grief is continually before me. ¹⁸For I will declare mine iniquity, and be distressed for my sin. ¹⁹But mine enemies live, and are mightier than I: and they that hate me unjustly are multiplied. ²⁰They that reward evil for good slandered me; because I followed righteousness. ²¹Forsake me not, O Lord my God: depart not from me. ²²Draw nigh to my help, O Lord of my salvation.

Psalm 38 (39)

For the end, a Song of David, to Idithun.

¹I said, I will take heed to my ways, that I sin not with my tongue: I set a guard on my mouth, while the sinner stood in my presence. ²I was dumb, and humbled myself, and kept silence from good words; and my grief was renewed. ³My heart grew hot within me, and a fire would kindle in my meditation: I spoke with my tongue, ⁴O Lord, make me to know mine end, and the number of my days, what it is; that I may know what I lack. ⁵Behold, thou hast made my days old; and my existence is as nothing before thee: nay, every man living is altogether vanity. Pause. ⁶Surely man walks in a shadow; nay, he is disquieted in vain: he lays up treasures, and knows not for whom he shall gather them. ⁷And now what is my expectation? is it not the Lord? and my ground of hope is with thee. Pause. ⁸Deliver me from all my transgressions: thou hast made me a reproach to the foolish. ⁹I was dumb, and opened not my mouth; for thou art he that made me. ¹⁰Remove thy scourges from me: I have fainted by reason of the strength of thine hand. ¹¹Thou chastenest man with rebukes for iniquity, and thou makest his life to consume away like a spider's web; nay, every man is disquieted in vain. Pause. ¹²O Lord, hearken to my prayer and my supplication: attend to my tears: be not silent, for I am a sojourner in the land, and a stranger, as all my fathers were. ¹³Spare me, that I may be refreshed, before I depart, and be no more.

Psalms

Psalm 39 (40)

For the end, a Psalm of David.

¹I waited patiently for the Lord; and he attended to me, and hearkened to my supplication. ²And he brought me up out of a pit of misery, and from miry clay: and he set my feet on a rock, and ordered my goings aright. ³And he put a new song into my mouth, even a hymn to our God: many shall see it, and fear, and shall hope in the Lord. ⁴Blessed is the man whose hope is in the name of the Lord, and who has not regarded vanities and false frenzies. ⁵O Lord my God, thou hast multiplied thy wonderful works, and in thy thoughts there is none who shall be likened to thee: I declared and spoke of them: they exceeded number. ⁶Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not; but a body hast thou prepared me: whole-burnt-offering and sacrifice for sin thou didst not require. ⁷Then I said, Behold, I come: in the volume of the book it is written concerning me, ⁸I desired to do thy will, O my God, and thy law in the midst of mine heart. ⁹I have preached righteousness in the great congregation; lo! I will not refrain my lips; O Lord, thou knowest my righteousness. ¹⁰I have not hid thy truth within my heart, and I have declared thy salvation; I have not hid thy mercy and thy truth from the great congregation. ¹¹But thou, Lord, remove not thy compassion far from me; thy mercy and thy truth have helped me continually. ¹²For innumerable evils have encompassed me; my transgressions have taken hold of me, and I could not see; they are multiplied more than the hairs of my head; and my heart has failed me. ¹³Be pleased, O Lord, to deliver me; O Lord, draw nigh to help me. ¹⁴Let those that seek my soul, to destroy it, be ashamed and confounded together; let those that wish me evil be turned backward and put to shame. ¹⁵Let those that say to me, Aha, aha, quickly receive shame for their reward. ¹⁶Let all those that seek thee, O Lord, exult and rejoice in thee; and let them that love thy salvation say continually, The Lord be magnified. ¹⁷But I am poor and needy; the Lord will take care of me; thou art my helper, and my defender, O my God, delay not.

For the end, a Psalm of David.

¹Blessed is the man who thinks, on the poor and needy: the Lord shall deliver him in an evil day. ²May the Lord preserve him and keep him alive, and bless him on the earth, and not deliver him into the hands of his enemy. ³May the Lord help him upon the bed of his pain; thou hast made all his bed in his sickness. ⁴I said, O Lord, have mercy upon me; heal my soul; for I have sinned against thee. ⁵Mine enemies have spoken evil against me, saying, When shall he die, and his name perish? ⁶And if he came to see me, his heart spoke vainly; he gathered iniquity to himself; he went forth and spoke in like manner. ⁷All my enemies whispered against me; against me they devised my hurt. ⁸They denounced a wicked word against me, saying, Now that he lies, shall he not rise up again? ⁹For even the man of my peace, in whom I trusted, who ate my bread, lifted up his heel against me. ¹⁰But thou, O Lord, have compassion upon me, and raise me up, and I shall requite them. ¹¹By this I know that thou hast delighted in me, because mine enemy shall not rejoice over me. ¹²But thou didst help me because of mine innocence, and hast established me before thee for ever. ¹³Blessed be the Lord God of Israel from everlasting, and to everlasting. So be it, so be it.

Psalms 41 (42)

For the end, a Psalm for instruction, for the sons of Core.

¹As the hart earnestly desires the fountains of water, so my soul earnestly longs for thee, O God. ²My soul has thirsted for the living God: when shall I come and appear before God? ³My tears have been bread to me day and night, while they daily said to me, Where is thy God? ⁴I remembered these things, and poured out my soul in me, for I will go to the place of thy wondrous tabernacle, even to the house of God, with a voice of exultation and thanksgiving and of the sound of those who keep festival.

⁵Wherefore art thou very sad, O my soul? and wherefore dost thou trouble me? hope in God; for I will give thanks to him; he is the salvation of my countenance. ⁶O my God, my soul has been troubled within me: therefore will I remember thee from the land of Jordan, and of the Ermonites, from the little hill. ⁷Deep calls to deep at the voice of thy cataracts: all thy billows and thy waves have gone over me. ⁸By day the Lord will command his mercy, and manifest it by night: with me is prayer to the God of my life. ⁹I will say to God, Thou art my helper; why hast thou forgotten me? wherefore do I go sad of countenance, while the enemy oppresses me? ¹⁰While my bones were breaking, they that afflicted me reproached me; while they said to me daily, Where is thy God? ¹¹Wherefore art thou very sad, O my soul? and wherefore dost thou trouble me? hope in God; for I will give thanks to him; he is the health of my countenance, and my God.

A Psalm of David.

¹Judge me, o God, and plead my cause, against an ungodly nation: deliver me from the unjust and crafty man. ²For thou, O God, art my strength: wherefore hast thou cast me off? and why do I go sad of countenance, while the enemy oppresses me? ³Send forth thy light and thy truth: they have led me, and brought me to thy holy mountain, and to thy tabernacles. ⁴And I will go in to the altar of God, to God who gladdens my youth: I will give thanks to thee on the harp, O God, my God. ⁵Wherefore art thou very sad, O my soul? and wherefore dost thou trouble me? Hope in God; for I will give thanks to him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God.

Psalm 43 (44)

For the end, a Psalm for instruction, for the sons of Kore.

¹O God, we have heard with our ears, our fathers have told us, the work which thou wroughtest in their days, in the days of old. ²Thine hand utterly destroyed the heathen, and thou didst plant them: thou didst afflict the nations, and cast them out. ³For they inherited not the land by their own sword, and their own arm did not deliver them; but thy right hand, and thine arm, and the light of thy countenance, because thou wert well pleased in them.

⁴Thou art indeed my King and my God, who commandest deliverances for Jacob. ⁵In thee will we push down our enemies, and in thy name will we bring to nought them that rise up against us. ⁶For I will not trust in my bow, and my sword shall not save me. ⁷For thou hast saved us from them that afflicted us, and hast put to shame them that hated us. ⁸In God will we make our boast all the day, and to thy name will we give thanks for ever. Pause. ⁹But now thou hast cast off, and put us to shame; and thou wilt not go forth with our hosts. ¹⁰Thou hast turned us back before our enemies; and they that hated us spoiled for themselves. ¹¹Thou madest us as sheep for meat; and thou scatteredst us among the nations. ¹²Thou hast sold thy people without price, and there was no profit by their exchange. ¹³Thou hast made us a reproach to our neighbours, a scorn and derision them that are round about us. ¹⁴Thou hast made us a proverb among the Gentiles, a shaking of the head among the nations. ¹⁵All the day my shame is before me, and the confusion of my face has covered me, ¹⁶because of the voice of the slanderer and reviler; because of the enemy and avenger. ¹⁷All these things are come upon us: but we have not forgotten thee, neither have we dealt unrighteously in thy covenant. ¹⁸And our heart has not gone back; but thou hast turned aside our paths from thy way. ¹⁹For thou hast laid us low in a place of affliction, and the shadow of death has covered us. ²⁰If we have forgotten the name of our God, and if we have spread out our hands to a strange god; shall not God search these things out? ²¹for he knows the secrets of the heart. ²²For, for thy sake we are killed all the day long; we are counted as sheep for slaughter. ²³Awake, wherefore sleepest thou, O Lord? arise, and do not cast us off for ever. ²⁴Wherefore turnest thou thy face away, and forgettest our poverty and our affliction? ²⁵For our soul has been brought down to the dust; our belly has cleaved to the earth. ²⁶Arise, O Lord, help us, and redeem us for thy name's sake.

Psalm 44 (45)

For the end, for alternate strains by the sons of Core; for instruction, a Song concerning the beloved.

¹My heart has uttered a good matter: I declare my works to the king: my tongue is the pen of a quick writer. ²Thou art more beautiful than the sons of men: grace has been shed forth on thy lips: therefore God has blessed thee for ever. ³Gird thy sword upon thy thigh, O Mighty One, in thy comeliness, and in thy beauty; ⁴and bend thy bow, and prosper, and reign, because of truth and meekness and righteousness; and thy right hand shall guide thee wonderfully. ⁵Thy weapons are sharpened, Mighty One, (the nations shall fall under thee)

they are in the heart of the king's enemies. ⁶Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: the sceptre of thy kingdom is a sceptre of righteousness. ⁷Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity: therefore God, thy God, has anointed thee with the oil of gladness beyond thy fellows. ⁸Myrrh, and stacte, and cassia are exhaled from thy garments, and out of the ivory palaces, ⁹with which kings' daughters have gladdened thee for thine honour:

the queen stood by on thy right hand, clothed in vesture wrought with gold, and arrayed in divers colours. ¹⁰Hear, O daughter, and see, and incline thine ear; forget also thy people, and thy father's house. ¹¹Because the king has desired thy beauty; for he is thy Lord. ¹²And the daughter of Tyre shall adore him with gifts; the rich of the people of the land shall supplicate thy favour. ¹³All her glory is that of the daughter of the king of Esebon, robed as she is in golden fringed garments, ¹⁴in embroidered clothing: virgins shall be brought to the king after her: her fellows shall be brought to thee. ¹⁵They shall be brought with gladness and exultation: they shall be led into the king's temple. ¹⁶Instead of thy fathers children are born to thee: thou shalt make them princes over all the earth. ¹⁷They shall make mention of thy name from generation to generation: therefore shall the nations give thanks to thee for ever, even for ever and ever.

For the end, for the sons of Core; a Psalm concerning secret things.

¹God is our refuge and strength, a help in the afflictions that have come heavily upon us. ²Therefore will we not fear when the earth is troubled, and the mountains are removed into the depths of the seas. ³Their waters have roared and been troubled, the mountains have been troubled by his might. Pause. ⁴The flowings of the river gladden the city of God: the Most High has sanctified his tabernacle. ⁵God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved: God shall help her with his countenance. ⁶The nations were troubled, the kingdoms tottered: he uttered his voice, the earth shook. ⁷The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our helper. Pause.

⁸Come, and behold the works of the Lord, what wonders he has achieved on the earth. ⁹Putting an end to wars as for the ends of the earth; he will crush the bow, and break in pieces the weapon, and burn the bucklers with fire. ¹⁰Be still, and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the nations, I will be exalted in the earth. ¹¹The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our helper.

Psalm 46 (47)

For the end, a Psalm for the sons of Core.

¹Clap your hands, all ye nations; shout to God with a voice of exultation. ²For the Lord most high is terrible; he is a great king over all the earth. ³He has subdued the peoples under us, and the nations under our feet. ⁴He has chosen out his inheritance for us, the beauty of Jacob which he loved. Pause.

⁵God is gone up with a shout, the Lord with a sound of a trumpet. ⁶Sing praises to our God, sing praises: sing praises to our King, sing praises. ⁷For

God is king of all the earth: sing praises with understanding. ⁸God reigns over the nations: God sits upon the throne of his holiness. ⁹The rulers of the people are assembled with the God of Abraam: for God's mighty ones of the earth have been greatly exalted.

Psalm 47 (48)

A Psalm of praise for the sons of Core on the second day of the week.

¹Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised in the city of our God, in his holy mountain. ²The city of the great King is well planted on the mountains of Sion, with the joy of the whole earth, on the sides of the north. ³God is known in her palaces, when he undertakes to help her. ⁴For, behold the kings of the earth were assembled, they came together. ⁵They saw, and so they wondered: they were troubled, they were moved. ⁶Trembling took hold on them: there were the pangs as of a woman in travail. ⁷Thou wilt break the ships of Tharsis with a vehement wind. ⁸As we have heard, so have we also seen, in the city of the Lord of hosts, in the city of our God: God has founded it for ever. Pause. ⁹We have thought of thy mercy, O God, in the midst of thy people. ¹⁰According to thy name, O God, so is also thy praise to the ends of the earth: thy right hand is full of righteousness. ¹¹Let mount Sion rejoice, let the daughters of Judaea exult, because of thy judgments, O

Psalms

Lord. ¹²Go round about Sion, and encompass her: tell ye her towers. ¹³Mark ye well her strength, and observe her palaces; that ye may tell the next generation. ¹⁴For this is our God for ever and ever: he will be our guide for evermore.

Psalm 48 (49)

For the end, a Psalm for the sons of Core.

¹Hear these words, all ye nations, hearken, all ye that dwell upon the earth: ²both the sons of mean men, and sons of great men; the rich and poor man together. ³My mouth shall speak of wisdom; and the meditation of my heart shall bring forth understanding. ⁴I will incline mine ear to a parable: I will open my riddle on the harp. ⁵Wherefore should I fear in the evil day? the iniquity of my heel shall compass me. ⁶They that trust in their strength, and boast themselves in the multitude of their wealth— ⁷A brother does not redeem, shall a man redeem? he shall not give to God a ransom for himself, ⁸or the price of the redemption of his soul, though he labour for ever, ⁹and live to the end, so that he should not see corruption. ¹⁰When he shall see wise men dying, the fool and the senseless one shall perish together; and they shall leave their wealth to strangers. ¹¹And their sepulchres are their houses for ever, even their tabernacles to all generations: they have called their lands after their own names. ¹²And man being in honour, understands not: he is compared to the senseless cattle, and is like to them. ¹³This their way is an offence to them: yet afterwards men will commend their sayings. Pause. ¹⁴They have laid them as sheep in Hades; death shall feed on them; and the upright shall have dominion over them in the morning, and their help shall fail in Hades from their glory. ¹⁵But God shall deliver my soul from the power of Hades, when he shall receive me. Pause. ¹⁶Fear not when a man is enriched, and when the glory of his house is increased. ¹⁷For he shall take nothing when he dies; neither shall his glory descend with him. ¹⁸For his soul shall be blessed in his life: he shall give thanks to thee when thou dost well to him. ¹⁹*Yet* he shall go in to the generation of his fathers; he shall never see light. ²⁰Man that is in honour, understands not: he is compared to the senseless cattle, and is like them.

Psalm 49 (50)

A Psalm for Asaph.

¹The God of gods, the Lord, has spoken, and called the earth from the rising of the sun to the going down thereof. ²Out of Sion comes the excellence of his beauty. ³God, our God, shall come manifestly, and shall not keep silence: a fire shall be kindled before him, and round about him there shall be a very great tempest. ⁴He shall summon the heaven above, and the earth, that he may judge his people.

⁵Assemble ye his saints to him, those that have engaged in a covenant with him upon sacrifices. ⁶And the heavens shall declare his righteousness: for God is judge. Pause. ⁷Hear, my people, and I will speak to thee, O Israel: and I will testify to thee: I am God, thy God.

⁸I will not reprove thee on account of thy sacrifices; for thy whole-burnt-offerings are before me continually. ⁹I will take no bullocks out of thine house, nor he-goats out of thy flocks.

¹⁰For all the wild beasts of the thicket are mine, the cattle on the mountains, and oxen. ¹¹I know all the birds of the sky; and the beauty of the field is mine. ¹²If I should be hungry, I will not tell thee: for the world is mine, and the fullness of it. ¹³Will I eat the flesh of bulls, or drink the blood of goats?

¹⁴Offer to God the sacrifice of praise; and pay thy vows to the Most High.

¹⁵And call upon me in the day of affliction; and I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me. Pause. ¹⁶But to the sinner God has said, Why dost thou declare my ordinances, and take up my covenant in thy mouth?

¹⁷Whereas thou hast hated instruction, and hast cast my words behind thee.

¹⁸If thou sawest a thief, thou rannest along with him, and hast cast in thy lot with adulterers. ¹⁹Thy mouth has multiplied wickedness, and thy tongue has framed deceit. ²⁰Thou didst sit and speak against thy brother, and didst scandalize thy mother's son. ²¹These things thou didst, and I kept silence: thou thoughtest wickedly that I should be like thee, but I will reprove thee, and set thine offences before thee. ²²Now consider these things, ye that forget God, lest he rend you, and there is no deliverer. ²³The sacrifice of praise will glorify me: and that is the way wherein I will shew to him the salvation of God.

Psalm 50 (51)

For the end, a Psalm of David, when Nathan the prophet came to him, when he had gone to Beersabee.

¹Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy great mercy; and according to the multitude of thy compassions blot out my transgression. ²Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin. ³For I am conscious of mine iniquity; and my sin is continually before me. ⁴Against thee only have I sinned, and done evil before thee: that thou mightest be justified in thy sayings, and mightest overcome when thou art judged. ⁵For, behold, I was conceived in iniquities, and in sins did my mother conceive me. ⁶For, behold, thou lovest truth: thou hast manifested to me the secret and hidden things of thy wisdom. ⁷Thou shalt sprinkle me with hyssop, and I shall be purified: thou shalt wash me, and I shall be made whiter than snow. ⁸Thou shalt cause me to hear gladness and joy: the afflicted bones shall rejoice. ⁹Turn away thy face from my sins, and blot out all mine iniquities. ¹⁰Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit in my inward parts. ¹¹Cast me not away from thy presence; and remove not thy holy Spirit from me. ¹²Restore to me the joy of thy salvation: establish me with thy directing Spirit. ¹³Then will I teach transgressors thy ways; and ungodly men shall turn to thee. ¹⁴Deliver me from blood-guiltiness, O God, the God of my salvation: and my tongue shall joyfully declare thy righteousness. ¹⁵O Lord, thou shalt open my lips; and my mouth shall declare thy praise. ¹⁶For if thou desiredst sacrifice, I would have given it: thou wilt not take pleasure in whole-burnt-offerings. ¹⁷Sacrifice to God is a broken spirit: a broken and humbled heart God will not despise.

¹⁸Do good, O Lord, to Sion in thy good pleasure; and let the walls of Jerusalem be built. ¹⁹Then shalt thou be pleased with a sacrifice of righteousness, offering, and whole-burnt-sacrifices: then shall they offer calves upon thine altar.

Psalm 51 (52)

For the end, a Psalm of instruction by David, when Doeg the Idumean came and told Saul, and said to him, David is gone to the house of Abimelech.

¹Why dost thou, O mighty man, boast of iniquity in thy mischief? All the day ²thy tongue has devised unrighteousness; like a sharpened razor thou hast wrought deceit. ³Thou hast loved wickedness more than goodness; unrighteousness better than to speak righteousness. Pause. ⁴Thou has loved all words of destruction, and a deceitful tongue. ⁵Therefore may God destroy thee for ever, may he pluck thee up and utterly remove thee from thy dwelling, and thy root from the land of the living. Pause. ⁶And the righteous shall see, and fear, and shall laugh at him, and say, ⁷Behold the man who made not God his help; but trusted in the abundance of his wealth, and strengthened himself in his vanity. ⁸But I am as a fruitful olive in the house of God: I have trusted in the mercy of God for ever, even for evermore. ⁹I will give thanks to thee for ever, for thou hast done well to me: and I will wait on thy name; for it is good before thy saints.

For the end, a Psalm of David upon Maeleth, of instruction.

¹The fool has said in his heart, There is no God. They have corrupted themselves, and become abominable in iniquities: there is none that does good. ²God looked down from heaven upon the sons of men, to see if there were any that understood, or sought after God. ³They have all gone out of the way, they are together become unprofitable; there is none that does good, there is not even one. ⁴Will none of the workers of iniquity know, who devour my people as they would eat bread? they have not called upon God. There were they greatly afraid, where there was no fear: ⁵for God has scattered the bones of the men-pleasers; they were ashamed, for God despised them. ⁶Who will bring the salvation of Israel out of Sion? When the Lord turns the captivity of his people, Jacob shall exult, and Israel shall be glad.

Psalm 53 (54)

For the end, among Hymns of instruction by David, when the Ziphites came and said to Saul, Lo, is not David hid with us?

¹Save me, O God, by thy name, and judge me by thy might. ²O God, hear my prayer; hearken to the words of my mouth. ³For strangers have risen up against me, and mighty men have sought my life: they have not set God before them. Pause. ⁴For lo! God assists me; and the Lord is the helper of my soul. ⁵He shall return evil to mine enemies; utterly destroy them in thy truth. ⁶I will willingly sacrifice to thee: I will give thanks to thy name, O Lord; for it is good. ⁷For thou hast delivered me out of all affliction, and mine eye has seen my desire upon mine enemies.

For the end, among Hymns of instruction by David.

¹Hearken, O God, to my prayer; and disregard not my supplication. ²Attend to me, and hearken to me: I was grieved in my meditation, and troubled; ³because of the voice of the enemy, and because of the oppression of the sinner: for they brought iniquity against me, and were wrathfully angry with me. ⁴My heart was troubled within me; and the fear of death fell upon me. ⁵Fear and trembling came upon me, and darkness covered me. ⁶And I said, O that I had wings as those of a dove! then would I flee away, and be at rest. ⁷Lo! I have fled afar off, and lodged in the wilderness. Pause. ⁸I waited for him that should deliver me from distress of spirit and tempest. ⁹Destroy, O Lord, and divide their tongues: for I have seen iniquity and gain saying in the city. ¹⁰Day and night he shall go round about it upon its walls: iniquity and sorrow and unrighteousness are in the midst of it; ¹¹and usury and craft have not failed from its streets. ¹²For if an enemy had reproached me, I would have endured it; and if one who hated me had spoken vauntingly against me, I would have hid myself from him. ¹³But thou, O man like minded, my guide, and my acquaintance, ¹⁴who in companionship with me sweetened our food: we walked in the house of God in concord. ¹⁵Let death come upon them, and let them go down alive into Hades, for iniquity is in their dwellings, in the midst of them. ¹⁶I cried to God, and the Lord hearkened to me. ¹⁷Evening, and morning, and at noon I will declare and make known my wants: and he shall hear my voice. ¹⁸He shall deliver my soul in peace from them that draw nigh to me: for they were with me in many cases. ¹⁹God shall hear, and bring them low, even he that has existed from eternity. Pause. For they suffer no reverse, and therefore they have not feared God. ²⁰He has reached forth his hand for retribution; they have profaned his covenant. ²¹They were scattered at the anger of his countenance, and his heart drew nigh them. His words were smoother than oil, yet are they darts. ²²Cast thy care upon the Lord, and he shall sustain thee; he shall never suffer the righteous to be moved. ²³But thou, O God, shalt bring them down to the pit of destruction; bloody and crafty men shall not live out half their days; but I will hope in thee, O Lord.

Psalms

Psalm 55 (56)

For the end, concerning the people that were removed from the sanctuary, by David for a memorial, when the Philistines caught him in Geth.

¹Have mercy upon me, O God; for man has trodden me down; all the day long he has warred against me and afflicted me. ²Mine enemies have trodden me down all the day from the dawning of the day; for there are many warring against me. ³They shall be afraid, but I will trust in thee. ⁴In God I will praise my words; all the day have I hoped in God; I will not fear what flesh shall do to me. ⁵All the day long they have abominated my words; all their devices are against me for evil. ⁶They will dwell near and hide themselves; they will watch my steps, accordingly as I have waited patiently in my soul. ⁷Thou wilt on no account save them; thou wilt bring down the people in wrath. ⁸O God, I have declared my life to thee; thou has set my tears before thee, even according to thy promise. ⁹Mine enemies shall be turned back, in the day wherein I shall call upon thee; behold, I know that thou art my God. ¹⁰In God, will I praise his word; in the Lord will I praise his saying. ¹¹I have hoped in God; I will not be afraid of what man shall do to me. ¹²The vows of thy praise, O God, which I will pay, are upon me. ¹³For thou hast delivered my soul from death, and my feet from sliding, that I should be well-pleasing before God in the land of the living.

Psalm 56 (57)

For the end. Destroy not: by David, for a memorial, when he fled from the presence of Saul to the cave.

¹Have mercy, upon me, O God, have mercy upon me: for my soul has trusted in thee: and in the shadow of thy wings will I hope, until the iniquity have passed away. ²I will cry to God most high; the God who has benefited me. Pause. ³He sent from heaven and saved me; he gave to reproach them that trampled on me: God has sent forth his mercy and his truth; ⁴and he has delivered my soul from the midst of lions' whelps: I lay down to sleep, though I had been troubled. As for the sons of men, their teeth are arms and missile weapons, and their tongue a sharp sword. ⁵Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens; and thy glory above all the earth. ⁶They have prepared snares for my feet, and have bowed down my soul: they have dug a pit before my face, and fallen into it themselves. Pause. ⁷My heart, O God, is ready, my heart is ready: I will sing, yea will sing psalms. ⁸Awake, my glory; awake, psaltery and harp: I myself will awake early. ⁹O Lord, I will give thanks to thee among the nations: I will sing to thee among the Gentiles. ¹⁰For thy mercy has been magnified even to the heavens, and thy truth to the clouds. ¹¹Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens; and thy glory above all the earth.

For the end. Destroy not: by David, for a memorial.

¹If ye do indeed speak righteousness, then do ye judge rightly, ye sons of men. ²For ye work iniquities in your hearts in the earth: your hands plot unrighteousness.

³Sinners have gone astray from the womb: they go astray from the belly: they speak lies. ⁴Their venom is like that of a serpent; as that of a deaf asp, and that stops her ears; ⁵which will not hear the voice of charmers, nor heed the charm prepared skillfully by the wise. ⁶God has crushed their teeth in their mouth: God has broken the cheek-teeth of the lions. ⁷They shall utterly pass away like water running through: he shall bend his bow till they shall fail. ⁸They shall be destroyed as melted wax: the fire has fallen and they have not seen the sun. ⁹Before your thorns feel the white thorn, he shall swallow you up as living, as in his wrath. ¹⁰The righteous shall rejoice when he sees the vengeance of the ungodly: he shall wash his hands in the blood of the sinner. ¹¹And a man shall say, Verily then there is a reward for the righteous: verily there is a God that judges them in the earth.

Psalm 58 (59)

For the end. Destroy not: by David for a memorial, when Saul sent, and watched his house to kill him.

¹Deliver me from mine enemies, O God; and ransom me from those that rise up against me. ²Deliver me from the workers of iniquity, and save me from bloody men. ³For, behold, they have hunted after my soul; violent men have set upon me: neither is it my iniquity, nor my sin, O Lord. ⁴Without iniquity I ran and directed my course aright: awake to help me, and behold. ⁵And thou, Lord God of hosts, the God of Israel, draw nigh to visit all the heathen; pity not any that work iniquity. Pause. ⁶They shall return at evening, and hunger like a dog, and go round about the city. ⁷Behold, they shall utter a voice with their mouth, and a sword is in their lips; for who, say they, has heard? ⁸But thou, Lord, wilt laugh them to scorn; thou wilt utterly set at nought all the heathen. ⁹will keep my strength, looking to thee; for thou, O God, art my helper. ¹⁰As for my God, his mercy shall go before me: my God will show me vengeance on mine enemies. ¹¹Slay them not, lest they forget thy law; scatter them by thy power; and bring them down, O Lord, my defender. ¹²For the sin of their mouth, and the word of their lips, let them be even taken in their pride. ¹³And for their cursing and falsehood shall utter destruction be denounced against them: they shall fall by the wrath of utter destruction, and shall not be; so shall they know that the God of Jacob is Lord of the ends of the earth. Pause. ¹⁴They shall return at evening, and be hungry as a dog, and go round about the city. ¹⁵They shall be scattered hither and thither for meat; and if they be not satisfied, they shall even murmur. ¹⁶But I will sing to thy strength, and in the morning will I exult in thy mercy; for thou hast been my supporter, and my refuge in the day of mine affliction. ¹⁷*Thou art* my helper; to thee, my God, will I sing; thou art my supporter, O my God, and my mercy.

Psalms

Psalm 59 (60)

For the end, for them that shall yet be changed; for an inscription by David for instruction, when he had burned Mesopotamia of Syria, and Syria Sobat, and Joab had returned and smote in the valley of salt even twelve thousand.

¹O God, thou hast rejected and destroyed us; thou hast been angry, yet hast pitied us. ²Thou hast shaken the earth, and troubled it; heal its breaches, for it has been shaken. ³Thou hast shewn thy people hard things: thou has made us drink the wine of astonishment. ⁴Thou hast given a token to them that fear thee, that they might flee from the bow. Pause. ⁵That thy beloved ones may be delivered; save with thy right hand, and hear me. ⁶God has spoken in his holiness; I will rejoice, and divide Sicima, and measure out the valley of tents. ⁷Galaad is mine, and Manasse is mine; and Ephraim is the strength of my head; ⁸Judas is my king; Moab is the caldron of my hope; over Idumea will I stretch out my shoe; the Philistines have been subjected to me. ⁹Who will lead me into the fortified city? who will guide me as far a Idumea? ¹⁰Wilt not thou, O God, who hast cast us off? and wilt not thou, O God, go forth with our forces? ¹¹Give us help from trouble: for vain is the deliverance of man. ¹²In God will we do valiantly; and he shall bring to nought them that harass us.

Psalm 60 (61)

For the end, among the Hymns of David.

¹O God, hearken to my petition; attend to my prayer. ²From the ends of the earth have I cried to thee, when my heart was in trouble: thou liftedst me up on a rock, thou didst guide me: ³because thou wert my hope, a tower of strength from the face of the enemy. ⁴I will dwell in thy tabernacle for ever; I will shelter myself under the shadow of thy wings. Pause. ⁵For thou, o God, hast heard my prayers; thou hast given an inheritance to them that fear thy name. ⁶Thou shalt add days to the days of the king; thou shalt lengthen his years to all generations. ⁷He shall endure for ever before God: which of them will seek out his mercy and truth? ⁸So will I sing to thy name for ever and ever, that I may daily perform my vows.

Psalm 61 (62)

For the end, a Psalm of David for Idithun.

¹Shall not my soul be subjected to God? for of him is my salvation. ²For he is my God, and my saviour; my helper, I shall not be moved very much. ³How long will ye assault a man? ye are all slaughtering as with a bowed wall and a broken hedge. ⁴They only took counsel to set at nought mine honour: I ran in thirst: with their mouth they blessed, but with their heart they cursed. Pause. ⁵Nevertheless do thou, my soul, be subjected to God; for of him is my patient hope. ⁶For he is my God and my Saviour; my helper, I shall not be moved. ⁷In God is my salvation and my glory: he is the God of my help, and my hope is in God. ⁸Hope in him, all ye congregation of the people; pour out your hearts before him, for God is our helper. Pause. ⁹But the sons of men are vain; the sons of men are false, so as to be deceitful in the balances; they are all alike formed out of vanity. ¹⁰Trust not in unrighteousness, and lust not after robberies: if wealth should flow in, set not your heart upon it. ¹¹God has spoken once, and I have heard these two things, that power is of God; ¹²and mercy is thine, O Lord; for thou wilt recompense every one according to his works.

Psalm 62 (63)

A Psalm of David, when he was in the wilderness of Idumea.

¹O God, my God, I cry to thee early; my soul has thirsted for thee: how often has my flesh longed after thee, in a barren and trackless and dry land! ²Thus have I appeared before thee in the sanctuary, that I might see thy power and thy glory. ³For thy mercy is better than life: my lips shall praise thee. ⁴Thus will I bless thee during my life: I will lift up my hands in thy name. ⁵Let my soul be filled as with marrow and fatness; and my joyful lips shall praise thy name. ⁶Forasmuch as I have remembered thee on my bed: in the early seasons I have meditated on thee. ⁷For thou hast been my helper, and in the shelter of thy wings will I rejoice. ⁸My soul has kept very close behind thee: thy right hand has upheld me. ⁹But they vainly sought after my soul; they shall go into the lowest parts o the earth. ¹⁰They shall be delivered up to the power of the sword; they shall be portions for foxes. ¹¹But the king shall rejoice in God; every one that swears by him shall be praised; for the mouth of them that speak unjust things has been stopped.

For the end, a Psalm of David.

¹Hear my prayer, O God, when I make my petition to thee; deliver my soul from fear of the enemy. ²Thou hast sheltered me from the conspiracy of them that do wickedly; from the multitude of them that work iniquity; ³who have sharpened their tongues as a sword; they have bent their bow maliciously; ⁴to shoot in secret at the blameless; they will shoot him suddenly, and will not fear. ⁵They have set up for themselves an evil matter, they have given counsel to hide snares; they have said, Who shall see them?

⁶They have searched out iniquity; they have wearied themselves with searching diligently, a man shall approach and the heart is deep, ⁷and God shall be exalted, their wounds were caused by the weapon of the foolish children, ⁸and their tongues have set him at nought, all that saw them were troubled; ⁹and every man was alarmed, and they related the works of God, and understood his deeds. ¹⁰The righteous shall rejoice in the Lord, and hope on him, and all the upright in heart shall be praised.

Psalm 64 (65)

For the end, a Psalm and Song of David.

¹Praise becomes thee, O God, in Sion; and to thee shall the vow be performed. ²Hear my prayer; to thee all flesh shall come. ³The words of transgressors have overpowered us; but do thou pardon our sins. ⁴Blessed is the man whom thou hast chosen and adopted; he shall dwell in thy courts; we shall be filled with the good things of thy house; thy temple is holy. ⁵*Thou art* wonderful in righteousness. Harken to us, O God our Saviour; the hope of all the ends of the earth, and of them that are on the sea afar off: ⁶who dost establish the mountains in thy strength, being girded about with power; ⁷who troublest the depth of the sea, the sounds of its waves. ⁸The nations shall be troubled, and they that inhabit the ends of the earth shall be afraid of thy signs; thou wilt cause the outgoings of morning and evening to rejoice. ⁹Thou hast visited the earth, and saturated it; thou hast abundantly enriched it. The river of God is filled with water; thou hast prepared their food, for thus is the preparation of it. ¹⁰Saturate her furrows, multiply her fruits; the crop springing up shall rejoice in its drops. ¹¹Thou wilt bless the crown of the year because of thy goodness; and thy plains shall be filled with fatness. ¹²The mountains of the wilderness shall be enriched; and the hills shall gird themselves with joy. ¹³The rams of the flock are clothed with wool, and the valleys shall abound in corn; they shall cry aloud, yea they shall sing hymns.

Psalm 65 (66)

For the end, a Song of a Psalm of resurrection.

¹Shout unto God, all the earth. ²O sing praises to his name; give glory to his praise. ³Say unto God, How awful are thy works! through the greatness of thy power thine enemies shall lie to thee. ⁴Let all the earth worship thee, and sing to thee; let them sing to thy name. Pause. ⁵Come and behold the works of God; he is terrible in his counsels beyond the children of men. ⁶Who turns the sea into dry land; they shall go through the river on foot; there shall we rejoice in him, ⁷who by his power is Lord over the age, his eyes look upon the nations; let not them that provoke him be exalted in themselves. Pause. ⁸Bless our God, ye Gentiles, and make the voice of his praise to be heard; ⁹who quickens my soul in life, and does not suffer my feet to be moved. ¹⁰For thou, O God, has proved us; thou hast tried us with fire as silver is tried. ¹¹Thou broughtest us into the snare; thou laidest afflictions on our back. ¹²Thou didst mount men upon our heads; we went through the fire and water; but thou broughtest us out into a place of refreshment. ¹³I will go into thine house with whole-burnt-offerings; I will pay thee my vows, ¹⁴which my lips framed, and my mouth uttered in my affliction. ¹⁵I will offer to thee whole-burnt-sacrifices full of marrow, with incense and rams; I will sacrifice to thee oxen with goats. Pause. ¹⁶Come, hear, and I will tell, all ye that fear God, how great things he has done for my soul. ¹⁷I cried to him with my mouth, and exalted him with my tongue. ¹⁸If I have regarded iniquity in my heart, let not the Lord hearken to me. ¹⁹Therefore God has hearkened to me; he has attended to the voice of my prayer. ²⁰Blessed be God, who has not turned away my prayer, nor his mercy from me.

Psalm 66 (67)

For the end, a Psalm of David among the Hymns.

¹God be merciful to us, and bless us; and cause his face to shine upon us. Pause. ²That men may know thy way on the earth, thy salvation among all nations. ³Let the nations, O God, give thanks to thee; let all the nations give thanks to thee. ⁴Let the nations rejoice and exult, for thou shalt judge the peoples in equity, and shalt guide the nations on the earth. Pause. ⁵Let the peoples, O God, give thanks to thee; let all the peoples give thanks to thee. ⁶The earth has yielded her fruit; let God, our God bless us. ⁷Let God bless us; and let all the ends of the earth fear him.

Psalms 67 (68)

For the end, a Psalm of a Song by David.

¹Let God arise, and let his enemies be scattered; and let them that hate him flee from before him. ²As smoke vanishes, let them vanish: as wax melts before the fire, so let the sinners perish from before God. ³But let the righteous rejoice; let them exult before God: let them be delighted with joy. ⁴Sing to God, sing praises to his name: make a way for him that rides upon the west the Lord is his name, and exult before him. They shall be troubled before the face of him, ⁵*who is* the father of the orphans, and judge of the widows: so is God in his holy place. ⁶God settles the solitary in a house; leading forth prisoners mightily, also them that act provokingly, even them that dwell in tombs. ⁷O God, when thou wentest forth before thy people, when thou wentest through the wilderness; Pause: ⁸the earth quaked, yea, the heavens dropped water at the presence of the God of Sina, at the presence of the God of Israel. ⁹O God, thou wilt grant to thine inheritance a gracious rain; for it was weary, but thou didst refresh it. ¹⁰Thy creatures dwell in it: thou hast in thy goodness prepared for the poor. ¹¹The Lord God will give a word to them that preach it in a great company. ¹²The king of the forces of the beloved, of the beloved, will even grant them for the beauty of the house to divide the spoils. ¹³Even if ye should lie among the lots, ye shall have the wings of a dove covered with silver, and her breast with yellow gold. ¹⁴When the heavenly One scatters kings upon it, they shall be made snow-white in Selmon. ¹⁵The mountain of God is a rich mountain; a swelling mountain, a rich mountain. ¹⁶Wherefore do ye conceive evil, ye swelling mountains? this is the mountain which God has delighted to dwell in; yea, the Lord will dwell in it for ever. ¹⁷The chariots of God are ten thousand fold, thousands of rejoicing ones: the Lord is among them, in Sina, in the holy place. ¹⁸Thou art gone up on high, thou hast led captivity captive, thou hast received gifts for man, yea, for they were rebellious, that thou mightest dwell among them. ¹⁹Blessed be the Lord God, blessed be the Lord daily; and the God of our salvation shall prosper us. Pause. ²⁰Our God is the God of salvation; and to the Lord belong the issues from death.

Psalms

²¹But God shall crust the heads of his enemies; the hairy crown of them that go on in their trespasses. ²²The Lord said, I will bring again from Basan, I will bring my people again through the depths of the sea. ²³That thy foot may be dipped in blood, and the tongue of thy dogs be stained with that of thine enemies. ²⁴Thy goings, O God, have been seen; the goings of my God, the king, in the sanctuary. ²⁵The princes went first, next before the players on instruments, in the midst of damsels playing on timbrels. ²⁶Praise God in the congregations, the Lord from the fountains of Israel. ²⁷There is Benjamin the younger one in ecstasy, the princes of Juda their rulers, the princes of Zabulon, the princes of Nephthali. ²⁸O God, command thou thy strength: strengthen, O God, this which thou hast wrought in us. ²⁹Because of thy temple at Jerusalem shall kings bring presents to thee. ³⁰Rebuke the wild beasts of the reed: let the crowd of bulls with the heifers of the nations be rebuked, so that they who have been proved with silver may not be shut out: scatter thou the nations that wish for wars. ³¹Ambassadors shall arrive out of Egypt; Ethiopia shall hasten to stretch out her hand readily to God. ³²Sing to God, ye kingdoms of the earth; sing psalms to the Lord. Pause. ³³Sing to God that rides on the heaven of heaven, eastward: lo, he will utter a mighty sound with his voice. ³⁴Give ye glory to God: his excellency is over Israel, and his power is in the clouds.

³⁵God is wonderful in his holy places, the God of Israel: he will give power and strength to his people: blessed be God.

Psalm 68 (69)

For the end, a Psalm of David, for alternate strains.

¹Save me, O God; for the waters have come in to my soul. ²I am stuck fast in deep mire, and there is no standing: I am come in to the depths of the sea, and a storm has overwhelmed me. ³I am weary of crying, my throat has become hoarse; mine eyes have failed by my waiting on my God. ⁴They that hate me without a cause are more than the hairs of my head: my enemies that persecute me unrighteously are strengthened: then I restored that which I took not away. ⁵O God, thou knowest my foolishness; and my transgressions are not hidden from thee. ⁶Let not them that wait on thee, O Lord of hosts, be ashamed on my account: let not them that seek thee, be ashamed on my account, O God of Israel. ⁷For I have suffered reproach for thy sake; shame has covered my face. ⁸I became strange to my brethren, and a stranger to my mother's children. ⁹For the zeal of thine house has eaten me up; and the reproaches of them that reproached thee are fallen upon me. ¹⁰And I bowed down my soul with fasting, and that was made my reproach. ¹¹And I put on sackcloth for my covering; and I became a proverb to them. ¹²They that sit in the gate talked against me, and they that drank wine sang against me.

¹³But I will cry to thee, O Lord, in my prayer; O God, it is a propitious time: in the multitude of thy mercy hear me, in the truth of thy salvation. ¹⁴Save me from the mire, that I stick not in it: let me be delivered from them that hate me, and from the deep waters. ¹⁵Let not the waterflood drown me, nor let the deep swallow me up; neither let the well shut its mouth upon me. ¹⁶Hear me, O Lord; for thy mercy is good: according to the multitude of thy compassions look upon me. ¹⁷And turn not away thy face from thy servant; for I am afflicted: hear me speedily.

¹⁸Draw nigh to my soul and redeem it: deliver me because of mine enemies. ¹⁹For thou knowest my reproach, and my shame, and my confusion; all that afflict me are before thee. ²⁰My soul has waited for reproach and misery; and I waited for one to grieve with me, but there was none; and for one to comfort me, but I found none. ²¹They gave me also gall for my food, and made me drink vinegar for my thirst.

²²Let their table before them be for a snare, and for a recompense, and for a stumbling-block. ²³Let their eyes be darkened that they should not see; and bow down their back continually.

²⁴Pour out thy wrath upon them, and let the fury of thine anger take hold on them. ²⁵Let their habitation be made desolate; and let there be no inhabitant in their tents: ²⁶Because they persecuted him whom thou hast smitten; and they have added to the grief of my wounds. ²⁷Add iniquity to their iniquity; and let them not come into thy righteousness. ²⁸Let them be blotted out of the book of the living, and let them not be written with the righteous. ²⁹I am poor and sorrowful; but the salvation of thy countenance has helped me. ³⁰I will praise the name of my God with a song, I will magnify him with praise; ³¹and this shall please God more than a young calf having horns and hoofs. ³²Let the poor see and rejoice; seek the Lord diligently, and ye shall live. ³³For the Lord hears the poor, and does not set at nought his fettered ones. ³⁴Let the heavens and the earth raise him, the sea, and all things moving in them. ³⁵For God will save Sion, and the cities of Judea shall be built; and men shall dwell there, and inherit it. ³⁶And the seed of his servants shall possess it, and they that love his name shall dwell therein.

For the end, by David for a remembrance, that the Lord may save me.

¹Draw nigh, O God, to my help. ²Let them be ashamed and confounded that seek my soul: let them be turned backward and put to shame, that wish me evil. ³Let them that say to me, Aha, aha, be turned back and put to shame immediately. ⁴Let all that seek thee exult and be glad in thee: and let those that love thy salvation say continually, Let God be magnified. ⁵But I am poor and needy; O God, help me: thou art my helper and deliverer, O Lord, delay not.

Psalm 70 (71)

By David, a Psalm sung by the sons of Jonadab, and the first that were taken captive.

¹O Lord, I have hoped in thee: let me never be put to shame. ²In thy righteousness deliver me and rescue me: incline thine ear to me, and save me. ³Be to me a protecting God, and a strong hold to save me: for thou art my fortress and my refuge. ⁴Deliver me, O my God, from the hand of the sinner, from the hand of the transgressor and unjust man. ⁵For thou art my support, O Lord; O Lord, thou art my hope from my youth. ⁶On thee have I been stayed from the womb: from the belly of my mother thou art my protector: of thee is my praise continually. ⁷I am become as it were a wonder to many:
but thou art my strong helper. ⁸Let my mouth be filled with praise, that I may hymn thy glory, and thy majesty all the day. ⁹Cast me not off at the time of old age; forsake me not when my strength fails. ¹⁰For mine enemies have spoken against me; and they that lay wait for my soul have taken counsel together, ¹¹saying, God has forsaken him: persecute ye and take him; for there is none to deliver him. ¹²O God, go not far from me, O my God, draw nigh to my help. ¹³Let those that plot against my soul be ashamed and utterly fail: let those that seek my hurt be clothed with shame and dishonour.

¹⁴But I will hope continually, and will praise thee more and more. ¹⁵My mouth shall declare thy righteousness openly, and thy salvation all the day; for I am not acquainted with the affairs of men. ¹⁶I will go on in the might of the Lord: O Lord, I will make mention of thy righteousness only. ¹⁷O God, thou hast taught me from my youth, and until now will I declare thy wonders; ¹⁸even until I am old and advanced in years. O God, forsake me not; until I shall have declared thine arm to all the generation that is to come: ¹⁹even thy power and thy righteousness, O God, up to the highest heavens, even the mighty works which thou has done: O God, who is like to thee? ²⁰What afflictions many and sore hast thou showed me!
yet thou didst turn and quicken me, and broughtest me again from the depths of the earth. ²¹Thou didst multiply thy righteousness, and didst turn and comfort me, and broughtest me again out of the depths of the earth.
²²I will also therefore give thanks to thee, O God, because of thy truth, on an instrument of psalmody: I will sing psalms to thee on the harp, O Holy
One of Israel. ²³My lips shall rejoice when I sing to thee; and my soul, which thou hast redeemed. ²⁴Moreover also my tongue shall dwell all the day upon thy righteousness; when they shall be ashamed and confounded that seek my hurt.

Psalms

Psalm 71 (72)

For Solomon.

¹O God, give thy judgment to the king, and thy righteousness to the king's son; ²*that he may* judge thy people with righteousness, and thy poor with judgment. ³Let the mountains and the hills raise peace to thy people: ⁴he shall judge the poor of the people in righteousness, and save the children of the needy; and shall bring low the false accuser. ⁵And he shall continue as long as the sun, and before the moon for ever. ⁶He shall come down as rain upon a fleece; and as drops falling upon the earth. ⁷In his days shall righteousness spring up; and abundance of peace till the moon be removed. ⁸And he shall have dominion from sea to sea, and from the river to the ends of the earth. ⁹The Ethiopians shall fall down before him; and his enemies shall lick the dust. ¹⁰The kings of Tharsis, and also the isles, shall bring presents: the kings of the Arabians and Saba shall offer gifts. ¹¹And all kings shall worship him; all the Gentiles shall serve him. ¹²For he has delivered the poor from the oppressor; and the needy who had no helper. ¹³He shall spare the poor and needy, and shall deliver the souls of the needy. ¹⁴He shall redeem their souls from usury and injustice: and their name shall be precious before him. ¹⁵And he shall live, and there shall be given him of the gold of Arabia: and men shall pray for him continually; and all the day shall they praise him. ¹⁶There shall be an establishment on the earth on the tops of the mountains: the fruit thereof shall be exalted above Libanus, and they of the city shall flourish as grass of the earth. ¹⁷Let his name be blessed for ever: his name shall endure longer than the sun: and all the tribes of the earth shall be blessed in him: all nations shall call him blessed. ¹⁸Blessed is the Lord God of Israel, who alone does wonders. ¹⁹And blessed is his glorious name for ever, even for ever and ever: and all the earth shall be filled with his glory. So be it, so be it. ²⁰The hymns of David the son of Jessæ are ended.

Psalm 72 (73)

A Psalm for Asaph.

¹How good is God to Israel, to the upright in heart! ²But my feet were almost overthrown; my goings very nearly slipped. ³For I was jealous of the transgressors, beholding the tranquility of sinners. ⁴For there is no sign of reluctance in their death: and they have firmness under their affliction. ⁵They are not in the troubles of other men; and they shall not be scourged with other men. ⁶Therefore pride has possessed them; they have clothed themselves with their injustice and ungodliness. ⁷Their injustice shall go forth as out of fatness: they have fulfilled their intention. ⁸They have taken counsel and spoken in wickedness: they have uttered unrighteousness loftily. ⁹They have set their mouth against heaven, and their tongue has gone through upon the earth. ¹⁰Therefore shall my people return hither: and full days shall be found with them. ¹¹And they said, How does God know? and is there knowledge in the Most High? ¹²Behold, these are the sinners, and they that prosper always: they have possessed wealth. ¹³And I said, Verily in vain have I justified my heart, and washed my hands in innocence. ¹⁴For I was plagued all the day, and my reproof was every morning. ¹⁵If I said, I will speak thus; behold, I should have broken covenant with the generation of thy children. ¹⁶And I undertook to understand this, but it is too hard for me, ¹⁷until I go into the sanctuary of God; and so understand the latter end. ¹⁸Surely thou hast appointed judgments to them because of their crafty dealings: thou hast cast them down when they were lifted up. ¹⁹How have they become desolate! suddenly they have failed: they have perished because of their iniquity. ²⁰As the dream of one awakening, O Lord, in thy city thou wilt despise their image. ²¹For my heart has rejoiced, and my reins have been gladdened. ²²But I was vile and knew not: I became brutish before thee. ²³Yet I am continually with thee: thou hast holden my right hand. ²⁴Thou hast guided me by thy counsel, and thou hast taken me to thyself with glory. ²⁵For what have I in heaven but thee? and what have I desired upon the earth beside thee? ²⁶My heart and my flesh have failed: but God is the strength of my heart, and God is my portion for ever. ²⁷For, behold, they that remove themselves far from thee shall perish: thou hast destroyed every one that goes a whoring from thee. ²⁸But it is good for me to cleave close to God, to put my trust in the Lord; that I may proclaim all thy praises in the gates of the daughter of Sion.

A Psalm of instruction for Asaph.

¹Wherefore hast thou rejected us, O God, for ever? wherefore is thy wrath kindled against the sheep of thy pasture? ²Remember thy congregation which thou hast purchased from the beginning; thou didst ransom the rod of thine inheritance; this mount Sion wherein thou hast dwelt. ³Lift up thine hands against their pride continually; because of all that the enemy has done wickedly in thy holy places. ⁴And they that hate thee have boasted in the midst of thy feast; they have set up their standards for signs, ⁵ignorantly as it were in the entrance above; ⁶they cut down its doors at once with axes as in a wood of trees; they have broken it down with hatchet and stone cutter. ⁷They have burnt thy sanctuary with fire to the ground; they have profaned the habitation of thy name. ⁸They have said in their heart, even all their kindred together, Come, let us abolish the feasts of the Lord from the earth. ⁹We have not seen our signs; there is no longer a prophet; and God will not know us any more. ¹⁰How long, O God, shall the enemy reproach? shall the enemy provoke thy name forever? ¹¹Wherefore turnest thou away thine hand, and thy right hand from the midst of thy bosom for ever? ¹²But God is our King of old; he has wrought salvation in the midst of the earth. ¹³Thou didst establish the sea, in thy might, thou didst break to pieces the heads of the dragons in the water. ¹⁴Thou didst break to pieces the heads of the dragon; thou didst give him for meat to the Ethiopian nations. ¹⁵Thou didst cleave fountains and torrents; thou driedst up mighty rivers. ¹⁶The day is thine, and the night is thine; thou hast prepared the sun and the moon. ¹⁷Thou hast made all the borders of the earth; thou hast made summer and spring. ¹⁸Remember this thy creation: an enemy has reproached the Lord, and a foolish people has provoked thy name. ¹⁹Deliver not to the wild beasts a soul that gives praise to thee: forget not for ever the souls of thy poor. ²⁰Look upon thy covenant: for the dark ones of the earth are filled with the habitations of iniquity. ²¹let not the afflicted and shamed one be rejected: the poor and needy shall praise thy name. ²²Arise, O God, plead thy cause: remember thy reproaches that come from the foolish one all the day. ²³Forget not the voice of thy suppliants: let the pride of them that hate thee continually ascend before thee.

Psalm 74 (75)

For the end, Destroy not, a Psalm of a Song for Asaph.

¹We will give thanks to thee, O God, we will give thanks, and call upon thy name: I will declare all thy wonderful works. ²When I shall take a set time, I will judge righteously. ³The earth is dissolved, and all that dwell in it: I have strengthened its pillars. Pause. ⁴I said unto the transgressors, Do not transgress; and to the sinners, Lift not up the horn. ⁵Lift not up your horn on high; speak not unrighteousness against God. ⁶For good comes neither from the east, nor from the west, nor from the desert mountains. ⁷For God is the judge; he puts down one, and raises up another. ⁸For there is a cup in the hand of the Lord, full of unmingled wine; and he has turned it from side to side, but its dregs have not been wholly poured out; all the sinners of the earth shall drink them. ⁹But I will exult for ever: I will sing praises to the God of Jacob. ¹⁰And I will break all the horns of sinners; but the horns of the righteous one shall be exalted.

Psalms

Psalm 75 (76)

For the end, among the Hymns, a Psalm for Asaph; a Song for the Assyrian.

¹God is known in Judea: his name is great in Israel. ²And his place has been in peace, and his dwelling-place in Sion. ³There he broke the power of the bows, the shield, and the sword, and the battle. Pause. ⁴Thou dost wonderfully shine forth from the everlasting mountains. ⁵All the simple ones in heart were troubled; all the men of wealth have slept their sleep, and have found nothing in their hands. ⁶At thy rebuke, O God of Jacob, the riders on horses slumbered. ⁷Thou art terrible; and who shall withstand thee, because of thine anger? ⁸Thou didst cause judgment to be heard from heaven; the earth feared, and was still, ⁹when God arose to judgment, to save all the meek in heart. Pause. ¹⁰For the inward thought of man shall give thanks to thee: and the memorial of his inward thought shall keep a feast to thee. ¹¹Vow, and pay your vows to the Lord our God; all that are round about him shall bring gifts, even to him that is terrible, ¹²and that takes away the spirits of princes; to him that is terrible among the kings of the earth.

For the end, for Idithun, a Psalm of Asaph.

¹I cried to the Lord with my voice, yea, my voice was addressed to God; and he gave heed to me. ²In the day of mine affliction I earnestly sought the Lord; even with my hands by night before him, and I was not deceived; my soul refused to be comforted. ³I remembered God, and rejoiced; I poured out my complaint, and my soul fainted. Pause. ⁴All mine enemies set a watch against me: ⁵I was troubled, and spoke not. I considered the days of old, and remembered ancient years. ⁶And I meditated; I communed with my heart by night, and diligently searched my spirit, saying, ⁷Will the Lord cast off for ever? and will he be well pleased no more? ⁸Will he cut off his mercy for ever, even for ever and ever? ⁹Will God forget to pity? or will he shut up his compassions in his wrath? Pause. ¹⁰And I said, Now I have begun; this is the change of the right hand of the Most High. ¹¹I remembered the works of the Lord; for I will remember thy wonders from the beginning. ¹²And I will meditate on all thy works, and will consider thy doings. ¹³O God, thy way is in the sanctuary; who is a great God as our God? ¹⁴Thou art the God that doest wonders; thou hast made known thy power among the nations. ¹⁵Thou hast with thine arm redeemed thy people, the sons of Jacob and Joseph. Pause. ¹⁶The waters saw thee, O God, the waters saw thee, and feared; and the depths were troubled. ¹⁷*There was* an abundant sound of waters: the clouds uttered a voice; for thine arrows went abroad. ¹⁸The voice of thy thunder was abroad, and around thy lightnings appeared to the world; the earth trembled and quaked. ¹⁹Thy way is in the sea, and thy paths in many waters, and thy footsteps cannot be known. ²⁰Thou didst guide thy people as sheep by the hand of Moses and Aaron.

Psalm 77 (78)

A Psalm of instruction for Asaph.

¹Give heed, O my people, to my law: incline your ear to the words of my mouth. ²I will open my mouth in parables: I will utter dark sayings which have been from the beginning. ³All which we have heard and known, and our fathers have declared to us. ⁴They were not hid from their children to a second generations; the fathers declaring the praises of the Lord, and his mighty acts, and his wonders which he wrought. ⁵And he raised up a testimony in Jacob, and appointed a law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers, to make it known to their children: ⁶that another generation might know, even the sons which should be born; and they should arise and declare them to their children. ⁷That they might set their hope on God, and not forget the works of God, but diligently seek his commandments. ⁸That they should not be as their fathers, a perverse and provoking generation; a generation which set not its heart aright, and its spirit was not steadfast with God. ⁹The children of Ephraim, bending and shooting with the bow, turned back in the day of battle. ¹⁰They kept not the covenant of God, and would not walk in his law. ¹¹And they forgot his benefits, and his miracles which he had showed them; ¹²the miracles which he wrought before their fathers, in the land of Egypt, in the plain of Tanes. ¹³He clave the sea, and led them through: he made the waters to stand as in a bottle. ¹⁴And he guided them with a cloud by day, and all the night with a light of fire. ¹⁵he clave a rock in the wilderness, and made them drink as in a great deep. ¹⁶And he brought water out of the rock, and caused waters to flow down as rivers. ¹⁷And they sinned yet more against him; they provoked the Most High in the wilderness. ¹⁸And they tempted God in their hearts, in asking meat for the desire of their souls. ¹⁹They spoke also against God, and said, Will God be able to prepare a table in the wilderness? ²⁰Forasmuch as he smote the rock, and the waters flowed, and the torrents ran abundantly; will he be able also to give bread, or prepare a table for his people? ²¹Therefore the Lord heard, and was provoked: and fire was kindled in Jacob, and wrath went up against Israel. ²²Because they believed not in God, and trusted not in his salvation. ²³Yet he commanded the clouds from above, and opened the doors of heaven, ²⁴and rained upon them manna to eat, and gave them the bread of heaven. ²⁵Man ate angels' bread; he sent them provision to the full. ²⁶He removed the south wind from heaven; and by his might he brought in the south-west wind. ²⁷And he rained upon them flesh like dust, and feathered birds like the sand of the seas. ²⁸And they fell into the midst of their camp, round about their tents. ²⁹So they ate, and were completely filled; and he gave them their desire. ³⁰They were not disappointed of their desire: but when their food was yet in their mouth, ³¹then the indignation of God rose up against them, and slew the fattest of them, and overthrew the choice men of Israel. ³²In the midst of all this they sinned yet more, and believed not his miracles. ³³And their days were consumed in vanity, and their years with anxiety. ³⁴When he slew them, they sought him: and they returned and called betimes upon God. ³⁵And they remembered that God was their helper, and the most high God was their redeemer. ³⁶Yet they loved him only with their mouth, and lied to him with their tongue. ³⁷For their heart was not right with him, neither were they steadfast in his covenant. ³⁸But he is compassionate, and will forgive their sins, and will not destroy them: yea, he will frequently turn away his wrath, and will not kindle all his anger. ³⁹And he remembered that they are flesh; a wind that passes away, and returns not. ⁴⁰How often did they provoke him in the wilderness, and anger him in a dry land! ⁴¹Yea, they turned back, and tempted God, and provoked the Holy One of Israel. ⁴²They remembered not his hand, the day in which he delivered them from the hand of the oppressor. ⁴³How he had wrought his signs in Egypt, and his wonders in the field of Tanes: ⁴⁴and had changed their rivers into blood; and their streams, that they should not drink. ⁴⁵He sent against them the dog-fly, and it devoured them; and the frog, and it spoiled them. ⁴⁶And he gave their fruit to the canker worm, and their labours to the locust. ⁴⁷He killed their vines with hail, and their sycamores with frost. ⁴⁸And he gave up their cattle to hail, and their substance to the fire. ⁴⁹He sent out against them the fury of his anger, wrath, and indignation, and affliction, a message by evil angels. ⁵⁰He made a way for his wrath; he spared not their souls from death, but consigned their cattle to death; ⁵¹and smote every first-born in the land of Egypt; the first-fruits of their labours in the tents of Cham. ⁵²And he removed his people like sheep; he led them as a flock in the wilderness. ⁵³And he guided them with hope, and they feared not: but the sea covered their enemies. ⁵⁴And he brought them in to the mountain of his sanctuary, this mountain which his right hand had purchased. ⁵⁵And he cast out the nations from before them, and made them to inherit by a line of inheritance, and made the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tents. ⁵⁶Yet they tempted and provoked the most high

God, and kept not his testimonies.
⁵⁷And they turned back, and broke covenant, even as also their fathers: they became like a crooked bow. ⁵⁸And they provoked him with their high places, and moved him to jealousy with their graven images. ⁵⁹God heard and lightly regarded them, and greatly despised Israel. ⁶⁰And he rejected the tabernacle of Selom, his tent where he dwelt among men. ⁶¹And he gave their strength into captivity, and their beauty into the enemy's hand. ⁶²And he gave his people to the sword; and disdained his inheritance. ⁶³Fire devoured their young men; and their virgins mourned not. ⁶⁴Their priests fell by the sword; and their widows shall not be wept for. ⁶⁵So the Lord awaked as one out of sleep, and as a mighty man who has been heated with wine. ⁶⁶And he smote his enemies in the hinder parts: he brought on them a perpetual reproach. ⁶⁷And he rejected the tabernacle of Joseph, and chose not the tribe of Ephraim; ⁶⁸but chose the tribe of Juda, the mount Sion which he loved. ⁶⁹And he built his sanctuary as the place of unicorns; he founded it for ever on the earth. ⁷⁰He chose David also his servant, and took him up from the flocks of sheep. ⁷¹He took him from following the ewes great with young, to be the shepherd of Jacob his servant, and Israel his inheritance. ⁷²So he tended them in the innocence of his heart; and guided them by the skillfulness of his hands.

A Psalm for Asaph.

¹O God, the heathen are come into thine inheritance; they have polluted thy holy temple; they have made Jerusalem a storehouse of fruits. ²They have given the dead bodies of thy servants to be food for the birds of the sky, the flesh of thy holy ones for the wild beasts of the earth. ³They have shed their blood as water, round about Jerusalem; and there was none to bury them. ⁴We are become a reproach to our neighbours, a scorn and derision to them that are round about us. ⁵How long, O Lord? wilt thou be angry for ever? shall thy jealousy burn like fire? ⁶Pour out thy wrath upon the heathen that have not known thee, and upon the kingdoms which have not called upon thy name. ⁷For they have devoured Jacob, and laid his place waste. ⁸Remember not our old transgressions; let thy tender mercies speedily prevent us; for we are greatly impoverished. ⁹Help us, O God our Saviour; for the glory of thy name, O Lord, deliver us; and be merciful to our sins, for thy name's sake. ¹⁰Lest haply they should say among the heathen, Where is their God? and let the avenging of thy servant's blood that has been shed be known among the heathen before our eyes. ¹¹Let the groaning of the prisoners come in before thee; according to the greatness of thine arm preserve the sons of the slain ones. ¹²Repay to our neighbours sevenfold into their bosom their reproach, with which they have reproached thee, O Lord. ¹³For we are thy people and the sheep of thy pasture; we will give thee thanks for ever; we will declare thy praise throughout all generations.

Psalms

Psalm 79 (80)

For the end, for alternate strains, a testimony for Asaph, a Psalm concerning the Assyrian.

¹Attend, O Shepherd of Israel, who guidest Joseph like a flock; thou who sittest upon the cherubs, manifest thyself; ²before Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasse, stir up thy power, and come to deliver us. ³Turn us, O God, and cause thy face to shine; and we shall be delivered. ⁴O Lord God of hosts, how long art thou angry with the prayer of thy servant? ⁵Thou wilt feed us with bread of tears; and wilt cause us to drink tears by measure. ⁶Thou has made us a strife to our neighbours; and our enemies have mocked at us. ⁷Turn us, O Lord God of hosts, and cause thy face to shine; and we shall be saved. Pause. ⁸Thou hast transplanted a vine out of Egypt: thou hast cast out the heathen, and planted it. ⁹Thou madest a way before it, and didst cause its roots to strike, and the land was filled with it. ¹⁰Its shadow covered the mountains, and its shoots equalled the goodly cedars. ¹¹It sent forth its branches to the sea, and its shoots to the river. ¹²Wherefore hast thou broken down its hedge, while all that pass by the way pluck it? ¹³The boar out of the wood has laid it waste, and the wild beast has devoured it. ¹⁴O God of hosts, turn, we pray thee: look on us from heaven, and behold and visit this vine; ¹⁵and restore that which thy right hand has planted: and look on the son of man whom thou didst strengthen for thyself. ¹⁶*It is* burnt with fire and dug up: they shall perish at the rebuke of thy presence. ¹⁷Let thy hand be upon the man of thy right hand, and upon the son of man whom thou didst strengthen for thyself. ¹⁸So will we not depart from thee: thou shalt quicken us, and we will call upon thy name. ¹⁹Turn us, O Lord God of hosts, and make thy face to shine; and we shall be saved.

For the end, a Psalm for Asaph, concerning the wine-presses.

¹Rejoice ye in God our helper; shout aloud to the God of Jacob. ²Take a psalm, and produce the timbrel, the pleasant psaltery with the harp. ³Blow the trumpet at the new moon, in the glorious day of your feast. ⁴For this is an ordinance for Israel, and a statute of the God of Jacob. ⁵He made it to be a testimony in Joseph, when he came forth out of the land of Egypt: he heard a language which he understood not. ⁶He removed his back from burdens: his hands slaved in making the baskets. ⁷Thou didst call upon me in trouble, and I delivered thee; I heard thee in the secret place of the storm: I proved thee at the water of Strife. Pause. ⁸Hear, my people, and I will speak to thee, O Israel; and I will testify to thee: if thou wilt hearken to me; ⁹there shall be no new god in thee; neither shalt thou worship a strange god. ¹⁰For I am the Lord thy God, that brought thee out of the land of Egypt: open thy mouth wide, and I will fill it. ¹¹But my people hearkened not to my voice; and Israel gave no heed to me. ¹²So I let them go after the ways of their own hearts: they will go on in their own ways. ¹³If my people had hearkened to me, if Israel had walked in my ways, ¹⁴I should have put down their enemies very quickly, and should have laid my hand upon those that afflicted them. ¹⁵The Lord's enemies should have lied to him: but their time shall be for ever. ¹⁶And he fed them with the fat of wheat; and satisfied them with honey out of the rock.

Psalm 81 (82)

A Psalm for Asaph.

¹God stands in the assembly of gods; and in the midst of them will judge gods. ²How long will ye judge unrighteously, and accept the persons of sinners? Pause. ³Judge the orphan and poor: do justice to the low and needy. ⁴Rescue the needy, and deliver the poor out of the hand of the sinner. ⁵They know not, nor understand; they walk on in darkness: all the foundations of the earth shall be shaken. ⁶I have said, Ye are gods; and all of you children of the Most High. ⁷But ye die as men, and fall as one of the princes. ⁸Arise, O God, judge the earth: for thou shalt inherit all nations.

Psalm 82 (83)

A Song of a Psalm for Asaph.

¹O God, who shall be compared to thee? be not silent, neither be still, O God. For behold, thine enemies have made a noise; and they that hate thee have lifted up the head. ³Against thy people they have craftily imagined a device, and have taken counsel against thy saints. ⁴They have said, Come, and let us utterly destroy them out of the nation; and let the name of Israel be remembered no more at all. ⁵For they have taken counsel together with one consent: they have made a confederacy against thee; ⁶even the tents of the Idumeans, and the Ismaelites; Moab, and the Agarenes; ⁷Gebal, and Ammon, and Amalec; the Philistines also, with them that dwell at Tyre. ⁸Yea, Assur too is come with them: they have become a help to the children of Lot. Pause. ⁹Do thou to them as to Madiam, and to Sisera; as to Jabin at the brook of Kison. ¹⁰They were utterly destroyed at Aendor: they became as dung for the earth. ¹¹Make their princes as Oreb and Zeb, and Zebree and Salmana; even all their princes: ¹²who said, let us take to ourselves the altar of God as an inheritance. ¹³O my God, make them as a wheel; as stubble before the face of the wind. ¹⁴As fire which shall burn up a wood, as the flame may consume the mountains; ¹⁵so shalt thou persecute them with thy tempest, and trouble them in thine anger. ¹⁶Fill their faces with dishonour; so shall they seek thy name, O Lord. ¹⁷Let them be ashamed and troubled for evermore; yea, let them be confounded and destroyed. ¹⁸And let them know that thy name is Lord; that thou alone art Most High over all the earth.

Psalm 83 (84)

For the end, a Psalm for the sons of Core, concerning the wine-presses.

¹How amiable are thy tabernacles, O Lord of hosts! ²My soul longs, and fains for the courts of the Lord: my heart and my flesh have exulted in the living god. ³Yea, the sparrow has found himself a home, and the turtle-dove a nest for herself, where she may lay her young, even thine altars, O Lord of hosts, my King, and my God. ⁴Blessed are they that dwell in thy house: they will praise thee evermore. Pause. ⁵Blessed is the man whose help is of thee, O Lord; in his heart he has purposed to go up ⁶the valley of weeping, to the place which he has appointed, for there the law-giver will grant blessings. ⁷They shall go from strength to strength: the God of gods shall be seen in Sion. ⁸O Lord God of hosts, hear my prayer: hearken, O God of Jacob. Pause. ⁹Behold, O God our defender, and look upon the face of thine anointed. ¹⁰For one day in thy courts is better than thousands. I would rather be an abject in the house of God, than dwell in the tents of sinners. ¹¹For the Lord loves mercy and truth: God will give grace and glory: the Lord will not withhold good things from them that walk in innocence. ¹²O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusts in thee.

Psalm 84 (85)

For the end, a Psalm for the sons of Core.

¹O Lord, thou has taken pleasure in thy land: thou hast turned back the captivity of Jacob. ²Thou hast forgiven thy people their transgressions; thou has covered all their sins. Pause. ³Thou has caused all thy wrath to cease: thou hast turned from thy fierce anger. ⁴Turn us, O God of our salvation, and turn thy anger away from us. ⁵Wouldest thou be angry with us for ever? or wilt thou continue thy wrath from generation to generation? ⁶O God, thou wilt turn and quicken us; and thy people shall rejoice in thee. ⁷Shew us thy mercy, O Lord, and grant us thy salvation. ⁸I will hear what the Lord God will say concerning me: for he shall speak peace to his people, and to his saints, and to those that turn their heart toward him. ⁹Moreover his salvation is near them that fear him; that glory may dwell in our land.

Psalms

¹⁰Mercy and truth are met together: righteousness and peace have kissed each other. ¹¹Truth has sprung out of the earth; and righteousness has looked down from heaven. ¹²For the Lord will give goodness; and our land shall yield her fruit. ¹³Righteousness shall go before him; and shall set his steps in the way.

Psalm 85 (86)

A Prayer of David.

¹O Lord, incline thine ear, and hearken to me; for I am poor and needy. ²Preserve my soul, for I am holy; save thy servant, O God, who hopes in thee. ³Pity me, O Lord: for to thee will I cry all the day. ⁴Rejoice the sold of thy servant: for to thee, O Lord, have I lifted up my soul. ⁵For thou, O Lord, art kind, and gentle; and plenteous in mercy to all that call upon thee. ⁶Give ear to my prayer, o Lord; and attend to the voice of my supplication. ⁷In the day of my trouble I cried to thee: for thou didst hear me. ⁸There is none like to thee, O Lord, among the god; and there are no works like to thy works. ⁹All nations whom thou hast made shall come, and shall worship before thee, O Lord; and shall glorify thy name. ¹⁰For thou art great, and doest wonders: thou art the only and the great God. ¹¹Guide me, O Lord, in thy way, and I will walk in thy truth: let my heart rejoice, that I may fear thy name. ¹²I will give thee thanks, O Lord my God, with all my heart; and I will glorify thy name for ever. ¹³For thy mercy is great toward me; and thou hast delivered my soul from the lowest hell. ¹⁴O God, transgressors have risen up against me, and an assembly of violent men have sought my life; and have not set thee before them. ¹⁵But thou, O Lord God, art compassionate and merciful, long-suffering, and abundant in mercy and true. ¹⁶Look thou upon me, and have mercy upon me: give thy strength to thy servant, and save the son of thine handmaid. ¹⁷Establish with me a token for good; and let them that hate me see it and be ashamed; because thou, O Lord, hast helped me, and comforted me.

Psalm 86 (87)

A Psalm of a Song for the sons of Core.

¹His foundations are in the holy mountains. ²The Lord loves the gates of Sion, more than all the tabernacles of Jacob. ³Glorious things have been spoken of thee, O city of God. Pause.

⁴I will make mention of Raab and Babylon to them that know me: behold also the Philistines, and Tyre, and the people of the Ethiopians: these were born there. ⁵A man shall say, Sion is my mother; and such a man was born in her; and the Highest himself has founded her. ⁶The Lord shall recount it in the writing of the people, and of these princes that were born in her.

Psalms

Pause. ⁷The dwelling of all within thee is as the dwelling of those that rejoice.

Psalm 87 (88)

A song of a Psalm for the sons of Core for the end, upon Maeleth for responsive strains, of instruction for Æman the Israelite.

¹O Lord God of my salvation, I have cried by day and in the night before thee. ²Let my prayer come in before thee; incline thine ear to my supplication, O Lord. ³For my soul is filled with troubles, and my life has drawn nigh to Hades. ⁴I have been reckoned with them that go down to the pit; I became as a man without help; ⁵free among the dead, as the slain ones cast out, who sleep in the tomb; whom thou rememberest no more; and they are rejected from thy hand. ⁶They laid me in the lowest pit, in dark places, and in the shadow of death. ⁷Thy wrath has pressed heavily upon me, and thou hast brought upon me all thy billows. Pause. ⁸Thou hast removed my acquaintance far from me; they have made me an abomination to themselves; I have been delivered up, and have not gone forth. ⁹Mine eyes are dimmed from poverty; but I cried to thee, O Lord, all the day; I spread forth my hands to thee. ¹⁰Wilt thou work wonders for the dead? or shall physicians raise them up, that they shall praise thee? ¹¹Shall any one declare thy mercy in the tomb? and thy truth in destruction?

¹²Shall thy wonders be known in darkness? and thy righteousness in a forgotten land? ¹³But I cried to thee, O Lord; and in the morning shall my prayer prevent thee. ¹⁴Wherefore, O Lord, dost thou reject my prayer, and turn thy face away from me? ¹⁵I am poor and in troubles from my youth; and having been exalted, I was brought low and into despair. ¹⁶Thy wrath has passed over me; and thy terrors have greatly disquieted me. ¹⁷They compassed me like water; all the day they beset me together. ¹⁸Thou hast put far from me every friend, and mine acquaintances because of my wretchedness.

A Psalm of instruction for Ætham the Israelite.

¹I will sing of thy mercies, O Lord, for ever: I will declare thy truth with my mouth to all generations. ²For thou hast said, Mercy shall be built up for ever: thy truth shall be established in the heavens. ³I made a covenant with my chosen ones, I swore unto David my servant. ⁴I will establish thy seed for ever, and build up thy throne to all generations. Pause. ⁵The heavens shall declare thy wonders, O Lord; and thy truth in the assembly of the saints. ⁶For who in the heavens shall be compared to the Lord? and who shall be likened to the Lord among the sons of God? ⁷God is glorified in the council of the saints; great and terrible toward all that are round about him. ⁸O Lord God of hosts, who is like to thee? thou art mighty, O Lord, and thy truth is round about thee. ⁹Thou rulest the power of the sea; and thou calmest the tumult of its waves. ¹⁰Thou has brought down the proud as one that is slain; and with the arm of thy power thou has scattered thine enemies. ¹¹The heavens are thine, and the earth is thine: thou hast founded the world, and the fullness of it. ¹²Thou hast created the north and the west: Thabor and Hermon shall rejoice in thy name. ¹³Thine is the mighty arm: let thy hand be strengthened, let thy right hand be exalted. ¹⁴Justice and judgment are the establishment of thy throne: mercy and truth shall go before thy face. ¹⁵Blessed is the people that knows the joyful sound: they shall walk, O Lord, in the light of thy countenance. ¹⁶And in thy name shall they rejoice all the day: and in thy righteousness shall they be exalted. ¹⁷For thou art the boast of their strength; and in thy good pleasure shall our horn be exalted, ¹⁸for our help is of the Lord; and of the Holy One of Israel, our king. ¹⁹Then thou spakest in vision to thy children, and saidst, I have laid help on a mighty one; I have exalted one chosen out of my people. ²⁰I have found David my servant; I have anointed him by my holy mercy. ²¹For my hand shall support him; and mine arm shall strengthen him. ²²The enemy shall have no advantage against him; and the son of transgression shall not hurt him again. ²³And I will hew down his foes before him, and put to flight those that hate him. ²⁴But my truth and my mercy shall be with him; and in my name shall his horn be exalted. ²⁵And I will set his hand in the sea, and his right hand in the rivers. ²⁶He shall call upon me, saying, Thou art my Father, my God, and the helper of my salvation. ²⁷And I will make him my first-born, higher than the kings of the earth. ²⁸I will keep my mercy for him for ever, and my covenant shall be firm with him. ²⁹And I will establish his seed for ever and ever, and his throne as the days of heaven. ³⁰If his children should forsake my law, and walk not in my judgments; ³¹if they should profane my ordinances, and not keep my commandments; ³²I will visit their transgressions with a rod, and their sins with scourges. ³³But my mercy I will not utterly remove from him, nor wrong my truth. ³⁴Neither will I by any means profane my covenant; and I will not make void the things that proceed out of my lips. ³⁵Once have I sworn by my holiness, that I will not lie to David. ³⁶His see shall endure for ever, and his throne as the sun before me; ³⁷and as the moon that is established for ever, and as the faithful witness in heaven. Pause. ³⁸But thou hast cast off and set at nought, thou has rejected thine anointed. ³⁹Thou hast overthrown the covenant of thy servant; thou has profaned his sanctuary, casting it to the ground. ⁴⁰Thou hast broken down all his hedges; thou hast made his strong holds a terror. ⁴¹All that go by the way have spoiled him: he is become a reproach to his neighbours. ⁴²Thou hast exalted the right hand of his enemies; thou hast made all his enemies to rejoice. ⁴³Thou hast turned back the help of his sword, and hast not helped him in the battle. ⁴⁴Thou hast deprived him of glory: thou hast broken down his throne to the ground. ⁴⁵Thou hast shortened the days of his throne: thou hast poured shame upon him. Pause. ⁴⁶How long, O Lord, wilt thou turn away, for ever? shall thine anger flame out as fire? ⁴⁷Remember what my being is: for hast thou created all the sons of men in vain? ⁴⁸What man is there who shall live, and not see death? shall any one deliver his soul from the hand of Hades? Pause. ⁴⁹Where are thine ancient mercies, O Lord, which thou swarest to David in thy truth? ⁵⁰Remember, O Lord, the reproach of thy servants, which I have borne in my bosom, even the reproach of many nations; ⁵¹wherewith thine enemies have reviled, O Lord: wherewith they have reviled the recompense of thine anointed. ⁵²Blessed be the Lord for ever. So be it, so be it.

Psalm 89 (90)

A Prayer of Moses the man of God.

¹Lord, thou hast been our refuge in all generations. ²Before the mountains existed, and before the earth and the world were formed, even from age to age, Thou art. ³Turn not man back to his low place, whereas thou saidst, Return, ye sons of men? ⁴For a thousand years in thy sight are as the yesterday which is past, and as a watch in the night. ⁵Years shall be vanity to them: let the morning pass away as grass. ⁶In the morning let it flower, and pass away: in the evening let it droop, let it be withered and dried up. ⁷For we have perished in thine anger, and in thy wrath we have been troubled. ⁸Thou hast set our transgressions before thee: our age is in the light of thy countenance. ⁹For all our days are gone, and we have passed away in thy wrath: our years have spun out their tale as a spider. ¹⁰*As for* the days of our years, in them are seventy years; and if men should be in strength, eighty years: and the greater part of them would be labour and trouble; for weakness overtakes us, and we shall be chastened. ¹¹Who knows the power of thy wrath? ¹²*and who knows how* to number his days because of the fear of thy wrath? So manifest thy right hand, and those that are instructed in wisdom in the heart. ¹³Return, O Lord, how long? and be intreated concerning thy servants. ¹⁴We have been satisfied in the morning with thy mercy; and we did exult and rejoice: ¹⁵let us rejoice in all our days, in return for the days wherein thou didst afflict us, the years wherein we saw evil. ¹⁶And look upon thy servants, and upon thy works; and guide their children. ¹⁷And let the brightness of the Lord our God be upon us: and do thou direct for us the works of our hands.

Psalm 90 (91)

Praise of a Song, by David.

¹He that dwells in the help of the Highest, shall sojourn under the shelter of the God of heaven. ²He shall say to the Lord, Thou art my helper and my refuge: my God; I will hope in him. ³For he shall deliver thee from the snare of the hunters, from every troublesome matter. ⁴He shall overshadow thee with his shoulders, and thou shalt trust under his wings: his truth shall cover thee with a shield. ⁵Thou shalt not be afraid of terror by night; nor of the arrow flying by day; ⁶*nor* of the evil thing that walks in darkness; nor of calamity, and the evil spirit at noon-day. ⁷A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee. ⁸Only with thine eyes shalt thou observe and see the reward of sinners. ⁹For thou, O Lord, art my hope: thou, my soul, hast made the Most High thy refuge. ¹⁰No evils shall come upon thee, and no scourge shall draw nigh to thy dwelling. ¹¹For he shall give his angels charge concerning thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. ¹²They shall bear thee up on their hands, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone. ¹³Thou shalt tread on the asp and basilisk: and thou shalt trample on the lion and dragon. ¹⁴For he has hoped in me, and I will deliver him: I will protect him, because he has known my name. ¹⁵He shall call upon me, and I will hearken to him: I am with him in affliction; and I will deliver him, and glorify him. ¹⁶I will satisfy him with length of days, and shew him my salvation.

Psalm 91 (92)

A Psalm of a Song for the Sabbath-day.

¹It is a good thing to give thanks to the Lord, and to sing praises to thy name, O thou Most High; ²to proclaim thy mercy in the morning, and thy truth by night, ³on a psaltery of ten strings, with a song on the harp. ⁴For thou, O Lord, hast made me glad with thy work: and in the operations of thy hands will I exult. ⁵How have thy works been magnified, O Lord! thy thoughts are very deep. ⁶A foolish man will not know, and a senseless man will not understand this. ⁷When the sinners spring up as the grass, and all the workers of iniquity have watched; it is that they may be utterly destroyed for ever. ⁸But thou, O Lord, art most high for ever. ⁹For, behold, thine enemies shall perish; and all the workers of iniquity shall be scattered. ¹⁰But my horn shall be exalted as the horn of a unicorn; and mine old age with rich mercy. ¹¹And mine eye has seen mine enemies, and mine ear shall hear the wicked that rise up against me. ¹²The righteous shall flourish as a palm-tree: he shall be increased as the cedar in Libanus. ¹³They that are planted in the house of the Lord shall flourish in the courts of our God. ¹⁴Then shall they be increased in a fine old age; and they shall be prosperous; that they may declare praise to God. ¹⁵That the Lord my God is righteous, and there is no iniquity in him.

For the day before the Sabbath, when the land was first inhabited, the praise of a Song by David.

¹The Lord reigns; he has clothed himself with honour: the Lord has clothed and girded himself with strength; for he has established the world, which shall not be moved. ²Thy throne is prepared of old: thou art from everlasting. ³The rivers have lifted up, O Lord, the rivers have lifted up their voices, ⁴at the voices of many waters: the billows of the sea are wonderful: the Lord is wonderful in high places. ⁵Thy testimonies are made very sure: holiness becomes thine house, O Lord, for ever.

Psalm 93 (94)

A Psalm of David for the fourth day of the week.

¹The Lord is a God of vengeance; the God of vengeance has declared himself. ²Be thou exalted, thou that judgest the earth: render a reward to the proud. ³How long shall sinners, O

Lord, how long shall sinners boast? ⁴They will utter and speak unrighteousness; all the workers of iniquity will speak so. ⁵They have afflicted thy people, O Lord, and hurt thine heritage. ⁶They have slain the widow and fatherless, and murdered the stranger. ⁷And they said, The Lord shall not see, neither shall the God of Jacob understand. ⁸Understand now, ye simple among the people; and ye fools, at length be wise. ⁹He that planted the ear, does he not hear? or he that formed the eye, does not he perceive? ¹⁰He that chastises the heathen, shall not he punish, even he that teaches man knowledge? ¹¹The Lord knows the thoughts of men, that they are vain. ¹²Blessed is the man whomsoever thou shalt chasten, O Lord, and shalt teach him out of thy law; ¹³to give him rest from evil days, until a pit be digged for the sinful one. ¹⁴For the Lord will not cast off his people, neither will he forsake his inheritance; ¹⁵until righteousness return to judgment, and all the upright in heart shall follow it. Pause. ¹⁶Who will rise up for me against the transgressors? or who will stand up with me against the workers of iniquity? ¹⁷If the Lord had not helped me, my soul had almost sojourned in Hades. ¹⁸If I said, My foot has been moved; ¹⁹thy mercy, O Lord, helped me. O Lord, according to the multitude of my griefs within my heart, thy consolation have soothed my soul. ²⁰Shall the throne of iniquity have fellowship with thee, which frames mischief by an ordinance? ²¹They will hunt for the soul of the righteous, and condemn innocent blood. ²²But the Lord was my refuge; and my God the helper of my hope. ²³And he will recompense to them their iniquity and their wickedness: the Lord our God shall utterly destroy them.

Psalm 94 (95)

The praise of a Song by David.

¹Come, let us exult in the Lord; let us make a joyful noise to God our Saviour. ²Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving, and make a joyful noise to him with psalms. ³For the Lord is a great God, and a great king over all gods: for the Lord will not cast off his people. ⁴For the ends of the earth are in his hands; and the heights of the mountains are his. ⁵For the sea is his, and he made it: and is hands formed the dry land.

⁶Come, let us worship and fall down before him; and weep before the Lord that made us. ⁷For he is our God; and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand. ⁸To-day, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, according to the day of irritation in the wilderness: ⁹where your fathers tempted me, proved me, and saw my works. ¹⁰Forty years was I grieved with this generation, and said, They do always err in their heart, and they have not known my ways. ¹¹So I swear in my wrath, They shall not enter into my rest.

Psalm 95 (96)

When the house was built after the Captivity, a Song of David.

¹Sing to the Lord a new song; sing to the Lord, all the earth. ²Sing to the Lord, bless his name: proclaim his salvation from day to day. ³Publish his glory among the Gentiles, his wonderful works among all people. ⁴For the Lord is great, and greatly to be praised: he is terrible above all gods. ⁵For all the gods of the heathen are devils: but the Lord made the heavens. ⁶Thanksgiving and beauty are before him: holiness and majesty are in his sanctuary. ⁷Bring to the Lord, ye families of the Gentiles, bring to the Lord glory and honour. ⁸Bring to the Lord the glory becoming his name: take offerings, and go into his courts. ⁹Worship the Lord in his holy court: let all the earth tremble before him. ¹⁰Say among the heathen, The Lord reigns: for he has established the world so that it shall not be moved: he shall judge the people in righteousness. ¹¹Let the heavens rejoice, and the earth exult; let the sea be moved, and the fullness of it. ¹²The plains shall rejoice, and all things in them: then shall all the trees of the wood exult before the presence of the Lord: ¹³for he comes, for he comes to judge the earth; he shall judge the world in righteousness, and the people with his truth.

Psalms

Psalm 96 (97)

For David, when his land is established.

¹The Lord reigns, let the earth exult, let many islands rejoice. ²Cloud, and darkness are round about him; righteousness and judgment are the establishment of his throne. ³Fire shall go before him, and burn up his enemies round about. ⁴His lightnings appeared to the world; the earth saw, and trembled. ⁵The mountains melted like wax at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the Lord of the whole earth. ⁶The heavens have declared his righteousness, and all the people have seen his glory. ⁷Let all that worship graven images be ashamed, who boast of their idols; worship him, all ye his angels. ⁸Sion heard and rejoiced; and the daughters of Judea exulted, because of thy judgments, O Lord. ⁹For thou art Lord most high over all the earth; thou art greatly exalted above all gods. ¹⁰Ye that love the Lord, hate evil; the Lord preserves the souls of his saints; he shall deliver them from the hand of sinners. ¹¹Light is sprung up for the righteous, and gladness for the upright in heart. ¹²Rejoice in the Lord, ye righteous; and give thanks for a remembrance of his holiness.

Psalm 97 (98)

A Psalm of David.

¹Sing to the Lord a new song; for the Lord has wrought wonderful works, his right hand, and his holy arm, have wrought salvation for him. ²The Lord has made known his salvation, he has revealed his righteousness in the sight of the nations. ³He has remembered his mercy to Jacob, and his truth to the house of Israel; all the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God. ⁴Shout to God, all the earth; sing, and exult, and sing psalms. ⁵Sing to the Lord with a harp, with a harp, and the voice of a psalm. ⁶With trumpets of metal, and the sound of a trumpet of horn make a joyful noise to the Lord before the king. ⁷Let the sea be moved, and the fullness of it; the world, and they that dwell in it. ⁸The rivers shall clap their hands together; the mountains shall exult. ⁹For he is come to judge the earth; he shall judge the world in righteousness, and the nations in uprightness.

Psalm 98 (99)

A Psalm of David.

¹The Lord reigns;—let the people rage; it is he that sits upon the cherubs, let the earth be moved. ²The Lord is great in Sion, and is high over all the people. ³Let them give thanks to thy great name; for it is terrible and holy. ⁴And the king's honour loves judgment; thou hast prepared equity, thou hast wrought judgment and justice in Jacob. ⁵Exalt ye the Lord our God, and worship at his footstool; for he is holy. ⁶Moses and Aaron among his priests, and Samuel among them that call upon his name; they called upon the Lord, and he heard them. ⁷He spoke to them in a pillar of cloud; they kept his testimonies, and the ordinances which he gave them. ⁸O Lord our God, thou heardest them; O God, thou becamest propitious to them, though thou didst take vengeance on all their devices. ⁹Exalt ye the Lord our God, and worship at his holy mountain; for the Lord our God is holy.

Psalm 99 (100)

A Psalm for Thanksgiving.

¹Make a joyful noise to the Lord, all the earth. ²Serve the Lord with gladness; come before his presence with exultation. ³Know that the Lord he is God; he made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture. ⁴Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and his courts with hymns; give thanks to him, praise his name. ⁵For the Lord is good, his mercy is for ever; and his truth endures to generation and generation.

Psalm 100 (101)

A Psalm of David.

¹I will sing to thee, O Lord, of mercy and judgment; I will sing a psalm, ²and I will be wise in a blameless way. When wilt thou come to me? I walked in the innocence of my heart, in the midst of my house. ³I have not set before mine eyes any unlawful thing; I have hated transgressors. ⁴A perverse heart has not cleaved to me; I have not known an evil man, forasmuch as he turns away from me. ⁵Him that privily speaks against his neighbour, him have I driven from me: he that is proud in look and insatiable in heart,—with him I have not eaten. ⁶Mine eyes shall be upon the faithful of the land, that they may dwell with me: he that walked in a perfect way, the same ministered to me. ⁷The proud doer dwelt not in the midst of my house; the unjust speaker prospered not in my sight. ⁸Early did I slay all the sinners of the land, that I might destroy out of the city of the Lord all that work iniquity.

Psalm 101 (102)

A Prayer for the Poor; when he is deeply afflicted, and pours out his supplication before the Lord.

¹Hear my prayer, O Lord, and let my cry come to thee. ²Turn not away thy face from me: in the day when I am afflicted, incline thine ear to me: in the day when I shall call upon thee, speedily hear me. ³For my days have vanished like smoke, and my bones have been parched like a stick. ⁴I am blighted like grass, and my heart is dried up; for I have forgotten to eat my bread. ⁵By reason of the voice of my groaning, my bone has cleaved to my flesh. ⁶I have become like a pelican of the wilderness; ⁷I have become like an owl in a ruined house. I have watched, and am become as a sparrow dwelling alone on a roof. ⁸All the day long mine enemies have reproached me; and they that praised me have sworn against me. ⁹For I have eaten ashes as it were bread, and mingled my drink with weeping; ¹⁰because of thine anger and thy wrath: for thou hast lifted me up, and dashed me down. ¹¹My days have declined like a shadow; and I am withered like grass. ¹²But thou, Lord, endurest for ever, and thy memorial to generation and generation. ¹³Thou shalt arise, and have mercy upon Sion: for it is time to have mercy upon her, for the set time is come. ¹⁴For thy servants have taken pleasure in her stones, and they shall pity her dust. ¹⁵So the nations shall fear thy name, O Lord, and all kings thy glory. ¹⁶For the Lord shall build up Sion, and shall appear in his glory. ¹⁷He has had regard to the prayer of the lowly, and has not despised their petition. ¹⁸Let this be written for another generation; and the people that shall be created shall praise the Lord. ¹⁹For he has looked out from the height of his sanctuary; the Lord looked upon the earth from heaven;

²⁰to hear the groaning of the fettered ones, to loosen the sons of the slain; ²¹to proclaim the name of the Lord in Sion, and his praise in Jerusalem; ²²when the people are gathered together, and the kings, to serve the Lord. ²³He answered him in the way of his strength: tell me the fewness of my days. ²⁴Take me not away in the midst of my days: thy years are through all generations. ²⁵In the beginning thou, O Lord, didst lay the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the works of thine hands. ²⁶They shall perish, but thou remainest: and they all shall wax old as a garment; and as a vesture shalt thou fold them, and they shall be changed. ²⁷But thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail. ²⁸The children of thy servants shall dwell securely, and their seed shall prosper for ever.

Psalm 102 (103)

A Psalm of David.

¹Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name. ²Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his praises: ³who forgives all thy transgressions, who heals all thy diseases; ⁴who redeems thy life from corruption; who crowns thee with mercy and compassion; ⁵who satisfies thy desire with good things: so that thy youth shall be renewed like that of the eagle. ⁶The Lord executes mercy and judgment for all that are injured. ⁷He made known his ways to Moses, his will to the children of Israel. ⁸The Lord is compassionate and pitiful, long-suffering, and full of mercy. ⁹He will not be always angry; neither will he be wrathful for ever. ¹⁰He has not dealt with us according to our sins, nor recompensed us according to our iniquities. ¹¹For as the heaven is high above the earth, the Lord has so increased his mercy toward them that fear him. ¹²As far as the east is from the west, so far has he removed our transgressions from us. ¹³As a father pities his children, the Lord pities them that fear him. ¹⁴For he knows our frame: remember that we are dust. ¹⁵As for man, his days are as grass; as a flower of the field, so shall he flourish. ¹⁶For the wind passes over it, and it shall not be; and it shall know its place no more. ¹⁷But the mercy of the Lord is from generation to generation upon them that fear him, and his righteousness to children's children; ¹⁸to them that keep his covenant, and remember his commandments to do them. ¹⁹The Lord has prepared his throne in the heaven; and his kingdom rules over all. ²⁰Bless the Lord, all ye his angels, mighty in strength, who perform his bidding, ready to hearken to the voice of his words. ²¹Bless the Lord, all ye his hosts; ye ministers of his that do his will. ²²Bless the Lord, all his works, in every place of his dominion: bless the Lord, O my soul.

Psalm 103 (104)

A Psalm of David.

¹Bless the Lord, O my soul. O Lord my God, thou art very great; thou hast clothed thyself with praise and honour: ²who dost robe thyself with light as with a garment; spreading out the heaven as a curtain. ³Who covers his chambers with waters; who makes the clouds his chariot; who walks on the wings of the wind. ⁴Who makes his angels spirits, and his ministers a flaming fire. ⁵Who establishes the earth on her sure foundation: it shall not be moved for ever. ⁶The deep, as it were a garment, is his covering: the waters shall stand on the hills. ⁷At thy rebuke they shall flee; at the voice of thy thunder they shall be alarmed. ⁸They go up to the mountains, and down to the plains, to the place which thou hast founded for them. ⁹Thou hast set a bound which they shall not pass, neither shall they turn again to cover the earth. ¹⁰He sends forth his fountains among the valleys: the waters shall run between the mountains. ¹¹They shall give drink to all the wild beasts of the field: the wild asses shall take of them to quench their thirst. ¹²By them shall the birds of the sky lodge: they shall utter a voice out of the midst of the rocks. ¹³He waters the mountains from his chambers: the earth shall be satisfied with the fruit of thy works. ¹⁴He makes grass to grow for the cattle, and green herb for the service of men, to bring bread out of the earth; ¹⁵and wine makes glad the heart of man, to make his face cheerful with oil: and bread strengthens man's heart. ¹⁶The trees of the plain shall be full of sap; even the cedars of Libanus which he has planted. ¹⁷There the sparrows will build their nests; and the house of the heron takes the lead among them. ¹⁸The high mountains are a refuge for the stags, and the rock for the rabbits. ¹⁹He appointed the moon for seasons: the sun knows his going down. ²⁰Thou didst make darkness, and it was night; in it all the wild beasts of the forest will be abroad: ²¹*even* young lions roaring for prey, and to seek meat for themselves from God. ²²The sun arises, and they shall be gathered together, and shall lie down in their dens. ²³Man shall go forth to his work, and to his labour till evening. ²⁴How great are thy works, O Lord! in wisdom hast thou wrought them all: the earth is filled with thy creation. ²⁵*So is* this great and wide sea: there are things creeping innumerable, small animals and great. ²⁶There go the ships; and this dragon whom thou hast made to play in it. ²⁷All wait upon thee, to give them their food in due season. ²⁸When thou hast given it them, they will gather it; and when thou hast opened thine hand, they shall all be filled with good. ²⁹But when thou hast turned away thy face, they shall be troubled: thou wilt take away their breath, and they shall fail, and return to their dust. ³⁰Thou shalt send forth thy Spirit, and they shall be created; and thou shalt renew the face of the earth. ³¹Let the glory of the Lord be for ever: the Lord shall rejoice in his works; ³²who looks upon the earth, and makes it tremble; who touches the mountains, and they smoke. ³³I will sing to the Lord while I live; I will sing praise to my God while I exist. ³⁴Let my meditation be sweet to him: and I will rejoice in the Lord. ³⁵Let the sinners fail from off the earth, and transgressors, so that they shall be no more. Bless the Lord, O my soul.

everlasting covenant; ¹¹saying To thee will I give the land of Chanaan, the line of your inheritance: ¹²when they were few in number, very few, and sojourners in it. ¹³And they went from nation to nation, and from one kingdom to another people. ¹⁴He suffered no man to wrong them; and he rebuked kings for their sakes: ¹⁵*saying*, Touch not my anointed ones; and do my prophets no harm. ¹⁶Moreover he called for a famine upon the land; he broke the whole support of bread. ¹⁷He sent a man before them; Joseph was sold for a slave. ¹⁸They hurt his feet with fetters; his soul passed into iron, ¹⁹until the time that his cause came on; the word of the Lord tried him as fire. ²⁰The king sent and loosed him; even the prince of the people, and let him go free. ²¹He made him Lord over his house, and ruler of all his substance; ²²to chastise his rulers at his pleasure, and to teach his elders wisdom. ²³Israel also came into Egypt, and Jacob sojourned in the land of Cham. ²⁴And he increased his people greatly, and made them stronger than their enemies. ²⁵And he turned their heart to hate his people, to deal craftily with his servants. ²⁶He sent forth Moses his servant, and Aaron whom he had chosen. ²⁷He established among them his signs, and his wonders in the land of Cham. ²⁸He sent forth darkness, and made it dark; yet they rebelled against his words. ²⁹He turned their waters into blood, and slew their fish. ³⁰Their land produced frogs abundantly, in the chambers of their kings. ³¹He spoke, and the dog-fly came, and lice in all their coasts. ³²He turned their rain into hail, and sent flaming fire in their land. ³³And he smote their vines and their fig trees; and broke every tree of their coast. ³⁴He spoke, and the locust came, and caterpillars innumerable, ³⁵and devoured all the grass in their land, and devoured the fruit of the ground. ³⁶He smote also every first-born of their land, the first-fruits of all their labour. ³⁷And he brought them out with silver and gold; and there was not a feeble one among their tribes. ³⁸Egypt rejoiced at their departing; for the fear of them fell upon them. ³⁹He spread out a cloud for a covering to them, and fire to give them light by night. ⁴⁰They asked, and the quail came, and he satisfied them with the bread of heaven. ⁴¹He clave the rock, and the waters flowed, rivers ran in dry places. ⁴²For he remembered his holy word, which he promised to Abraam his servant. ⁴³And he brought out his people with exultation, and his chosen with joy; ⁴⁴and gave them the lands of the heathen; and they inherited the labours of the people; ⁴⁵that they might keep his ordinances, and diligently seek his law.

Psalms

²Who shall tell the mighty acts of the Lord? who shall cause all his praises to be heard? ³Blessed are they that keep judgment, and do righteousness at all times. ⁴Remember us, O Lord, with the favour thou hast to thy people: visit us with thy salvation; ⁵that we may behold the good of thine elect, that we may rejoice in the gladness of thy nation, that we may glory with thine inheritance. ⁶We have sinned with our fathers, we have transgressed, we have done unrighteously. ⁷Our fathers in Egypt understood not thy wonders, and remembered not the multitude of thy mercy; but provoked him as they went up by the Red Sea. ⁸Yet he saved them for his name's sake, that he might cause his mighty power to be known. ⁹And he rebuked the Red Sea, and it was dried up: so he led them through the deep as through the wilderness. ¹⁰And he saved them out of the hand of them that hated them, and redeemed them out of the hand of the enemy. ¹¹The water covered those that oppressed them: there was not one of them left. ¹²Then they believed his words, and celebrated his praise. ¹³They made haste, they forgot his works; they waited not for his counsel. ¹⁴And they lusted exceedingly in the wilderness, and tempted God in the dry land. ¹⁵And he gave them their request, and sent fullness into their souls. ¹⁶They provoked Moses also in the camp, and Aaron the holy one of the Lord. ¹⁷The earth opened and swallowed up Dathan, and closed upon the congregation of Abiron. ¹⁸And a fire was kindled in their congregation, and a flame burnt up the sinners. ¹⁹And they made a calf in Choreb, and worshipped the graven image, ²⁰and they changed their glory into the similitude of a calf that feeds on grass. ²¹They forgot God that saved them, who had wrought great deeds in Egypt; ²²wondrous works in the land of Cham, and terrible things at the Red Sea. ²³So he said that he would have destroyed them, had not Moses his chosen stood before him in the breach, to turn him away from the fierceness of his anger, so that he should not destroy them. ²⁴Moreover they set at nought the desirable land, and believed not his word. ²⁵And they murmured in their tents: they hearkened not to the voice of the Lord. ²⁶So he lifted up his hand against them, to cast them down in the wilderness; ²⁷and to cast down their seed among the nations, and to scatter them in the countries. ²⁸They were joined also to Beelphegor, and ate the sacrifices of the dead. And they provoked him with their devices; ²⁹and destruction, was multiplied among them. ³⁰Then Phinees stood up, and made atonement: and the plague ceased. ³¹And it was counted to him for righteousness, to all generations for ever. ³²They provoked him also at the water of Strife, and Moses was hurt for their sakes; ³³for they provoked his spirit, and he spoke unadvisedly with his lips. ³⁴They destroyed not the nations which the Lord told them to destroy; ³⁵but were mingled with the heathen, and learned their works. ³⁶And they served their graven images; and it became an offence to them. ³⁷And they sacrificed their sons and their daughters to devils, ³⁸and shed innocent blood, the blood of their sons and daughters, whom they sacrificed to the idols of Chanaan; and the land was defiled with blood. ³⁹and was polluted with their works; and they went a whoring with their own devices. ⁴⁰So the Lord was very angry with his people, and he abhorred his inheritance. ⁴¹And he delivered them into the hands of their enemies; and they that hated them ruled over them. ⁴²Ands their enemies oppressed them, and they were brought down under their hands. ⁴³Many a time he delivered them; but they provoked him by their counsel, and they were brought low by their iniquities. ⁴⁴Ye the Lord looked upon their affliction, when he heard their petition. ⁴⁵And he remembered his covenant, and repented according to the multitude of his mercy. ⁴⁶And he caused them to be pitied in the sight of all who carried them captive. ⁴⁷Save us, O Lord our God, and gather us from among the heathen, that we may give thanks to thy holy name, that we may glory in thy praise. ⁴⁸Blessed be the Lord God of Israel from everlasting and to everlasting; and all the people shall say, Amen, Amen.

to pieces the brazen gates, and crushed the iron bars. ¹⁷He helped them out of the way of their iniquity; for they were brought low because of their iniquities. ¹⁸Their soul abhorred all meat; and they drew near to the gates of death. ¹⁹Then they cried to the Lord in their affliction, and he saved them out of their distresses. ²⁰He sent his word, and healed them, and delivered them out of their destructions. ²¹Let them acknowledge to the Lord his mercies, and his wonderful works to the children of men. ²²And let them offer to him the sacrifice of praise, and proclaim this works with exultation. ²³They that go down to the sea in ships, doing business in many waters; ²⁴these men have seen the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep. ²⁵He speaks, and the stormy wind arises, and its waves are lifted up. ²⁶They go up to the heavens, and go down to the depths; their soul melts because of troubles. ²⁷They are troubled, they stagger as a drunkard, and all their wisdom is swallowed up. ²⁸Then they cry to the Lord in their affliction, and he brings them out of their distresses. ²⁹And he commands the storm, and it is calmed into a gentle breeze, and its waves are still. ³⁰And they are glad, because they are quiet; and he guides them to their desire haven. ³¹Let them acknowledge to the Lord his mercies, and his wonderful works to the children of men. ³²Let them exalt him in the congregation of the people, and praise him in the seat of the elders. ³³He turns rivers into a desert, and streams of water into a dry land; ³⁴a fruitful land into saltness, for the wickedness of them that dwell in it. ³⁵He turns a wilderness into pools of water, and a dry land into streams of water. ³⁶And there he causes the hungry to dwell, and they establish for themselves cities of habitation. ³⁷And they sow fields, and plant vineyards, and they yield fruit of increase. ³⁸And he blesses them, and they multiply exceedingly, and he diminishes not the number of their cattle. ³⁹Again they become few, and are brought low, by the pressure of evils and pain. ⁴⁰Contempt is poured upon their princes, and he causes them to wander in a desert and trackless land. ⁴¹But he helps the poor out of poverty, and makes him families as a flock. ⁴²The upright shall see and rejoice; and all iniquity shall stop her mouth. ⁴³Who is wise, and will observe these things, and understand the mercies of the Lord?

Psalm 107 (108)

Song of a Psalm by David.

¹O God, my heart is ready, my heart is ready; I will sing and sing psalms with my glory. ²Awake, psaltery and harp; I will awake early. ³I will give thanks to thee, O Lord, among the people; I will sing praise to thee among the Gentiles. ⁴For thy mercy is great above the heavens, and thy truth reaches to the clouds. ⁵Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens; and thy glory above all the earth. ⁶That thy beloved ones may be delivered, save with thy right hand, and hear me. God has spoken in his sanctuary; ⁷I will be exalted, and will divide Sicima, and will measure out the valley of tents. ⁸Galaad is mine; and Manasses is mine; and Ephraim is the help of mine head; Judas is my king; ⁹Moab is the caldron of my hope; over Idumea will I cast my sandal; the Philistines are made subject to me. ¹⁰Who will bring me into the fortified city? or who will guide me to Idumea? ¹¹Wilt not thou, O God, who hast rejected us? and wilt not thou, O God, go forth with our hosts? ¹²Give us help from tribulation: for vain is the help of man. ¹³Through God we shall do valiantly; and he will bring to nought our enemies.

For the end, a Psalm of David.

¹O God, pass not over my praise in silence; ²for the mouth of the sinner and the mouth of the crafty man have been opened against me: they have spoken against me with a crafty tongue. ³And they have compassed me with words of hatred; and fought against me without a cause. ⁴Instead of loving me, they falsely accused me: but I continued to pray. ⁵And they rewarded me evil for good, and hatred for my love. ⁶Set thou a sinner against him; and let the devil stand at his right hand. ⁷When he is judged, let him go forth condemned: and let his prayer become sin. ⁸Let his days be few: and let another take his office of overseer. ⁹Let his children be orphans, and his wife a widow. ¹⁰Let his children wander without a dwelling-place, and beg: let them be cast out of their habitations. ¹¹Let his creditor exact all that belongs to him: and let strangers spoil his labours. ¹²Let him have no helper; neither let there be any one to have compassion on his fatherless children. ¹³Let his children be given up to utter destruction: in one generation let his name be blotted out. ¹⁴Let the iniquity of his fathers be remembered before the Lord; and let not the sin of his mother be blotted out. ¹⁵Let them be before the Lord continually; and let their memorial be blotted out from the earth. ¹⁶Because he remembered not to shew mercy, but persecuted the needy and poor man, and that to slay him that was pricked in the heart. ¹⁷He loved cursing also, and it shall come upon him; and he took not pleasure in blessing, so it shall be removed far from him. ¹⁸Yea, he put on cursing as a garment, and it is come as water into his bowels, and as oil into his bones. ¹⁹Let it be to him as a garment which he puts on, and as a girdle with which he girds himself continually. ²⁰This is the dealing of the Lord with those who falsely accuse me, and of them that speak evil against my soul. ²¹But thou, O Lord, Lord, deal mercifully with me, for thy name's sake: for thy mercy is good. ²²Deliver me, for I am poor and needy; and my heart is troubled within me. ²³I am removed as a shadow in its going down: I am tossed up and down like locusts. ²⁴My knees are weakened through fasting, and my flesh is changed by reason of the want of oil. ²⁵I became also a reproach to them: when they saw me they shook their heads. ²⁶Help me, O Lord my God; and save me according to thy mercy. ²⁷And let them know that this is thy hand; and that thou, Lord, hast wrought it. ²⁸Let them curse, but thou shalt bless: let them that rise up against me be ashamed, but let thy servant rejoice. ²⁹Let those that falsely accuse me be clothed with shame, and let them cover themselves with their shame as with a mantle. ³⁰I will give thanks to the Lord abundantly with my mouth; and in the midst of many I will praise him. ³¹For he stood on the right hand of the poor, to save me from them that persecute my soul.

Psalm 109 (110)

A Psalm of David.

¹The Lord said to my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool. ²The Lord shall send out a rod of power for thee out of Sion: rule thou in the midst of thine enemies. ³With thee is dominion in the day of thy power, in the splendours of thy saints: I have begotten thee from the womb before the morning. ⁴The Lord swear, and will not repent, Thou art a priest for ever, after the order of Melchisedec. ⁵The Lord at thy right hand has dashed in pieces kings in the day of his wrath. ⁶He shall judge among the nations, he shall fill up the number of corpses, he shall crush the heads of many on the earth. ⁷He shall drink of the brook in the way; therefore shall he lift up the head.

Psalm 110 (111)

Alleluia.

¹I will give thee thanks, O Lord, with my whole heart, in the council of the upright, and in the congregation. ²The works of the Lord are great, sought out according to all his will. ³His work is worthy of thanksgiving and honour: and his righteousness endures for ever and ever. ⁴He has caused his wonderful works to be remembered: the Lord is merciful and compassionate. ⁵He has given food to them that fear him: he will remember his covenant for ever. ⁶He has declared to his people the power of his works, to give them the inheritance of the heathen. ⁷The works of his hands are truth and judgment: all his commandments are sure: ⁸established for ever and ever, done in truth and uprightness. ⁹He sent redemption to his people: he commanded his covenant for ever: holy and fearful is his name. ¹⁰The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and all that act accordingly have a good understanding; his praise endures for ever and ever.

Psalms

Psalm 111 (112)

Alleluia.

¹Blessed is the man that fears the Lord: he will delight greatly in his commandments. ²His seed shall be mighty in the earth: the generation of the upright shall be blessed. ³Glory and riches shall be in his house; and his righteousness endures for evermore. ⁴To the upright light has sprung up in darkness: he is pitiful, and merciful, and righteous. ⁵The good man is he that pities and lends: he will direct his affairs with judgment. ⁶For he shall not be moved for ever; the righteous shall be in everlasting remembrance. ⁷He shall not be afraid of any evil report: his heart is ready to trust in the Lord. ⁸His heart is established, he shall not fear, till he shall see his desire upon his enemies. ⁹He has dispersed abroad; he has given to the poor; his righteousness endures for evermore: his horn shall be exalted with honour. ¹⁰The sinner shall see and be angry, he shall gnash his teeth, and consume away: the desire of the sinner shall perish.

Psalm 112 (113)

Alleluia.

¹Praise the Lord, ye servants of his, praise, the name of the Lord. ²Let the name of the Lord be blessed, from this present time and for ever. ³From the rising of the sun to his setting, the name of the Lord is to be praised. ⁴The

Lord is high above all the nations; his glory is above the heavens. ⁵Who is as the Lord our God? who dwells in the high places, ⁶and yet looks upon the low things in heaven, and on the earth: ⁷who lifts up the poor from the earth, and raises up the needy from the dunghill; ⁸to set him with princes, even with the princes of his people: ⁹who settles the barren woman in a house, as a mother rejoicing over children.

Psalm 113 (114)

Alleluia.

¹At the going forth of Israel from Egypt, of the house of Jacob from a barbarous people, ²Judea became his sanctuary, and Israel his dominion. ³The sea saw and fled: Jordan was turned back. ⁴The mountains skipped like rams, and the hills like lambs. ⁵What ailed thee, O sea, that thou fleddest? and thou Jordan, that thou wast turned back? ⁶*Ye* mountains, that ye skipped like rams, and ye hills, like lambs? ⁷The earth trembled at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the God of Jacob; ⁸who turned the rock into pools of water, and the flint into fountains of water. (115)

Not to us, O Lord, not to us, but to thy name give glory, because of thy mercy and thy truth; ²lest at any time the nations should say, Where is their God? ³But our God has done in heaven and on earth, whatsoever he has pleased.

Psalms

⁴The idols of the nations are silver and gold, the works of men's hands. ⁵They have a mouth, but they cannot speak; they have eyes, but they cannot see: ⁶they have ears, but they cannot hear; they have noses, but they cannot smell; ⁷they have hands, but they cannot handle; they have feet, but they cannot walk: they cannot speak through their throat. ⁸Let those that make them become like to them, and all who trust in them.

⁹The house of Israel trusts in the Lord: he is their helper and defender.

¹⁰The house of Aaron trusts in the Lord: he is their helper and defender.

¹¹They that fear the Lord trust in the Lord: he is their helper and defender.

¹²The Lord has remembered us, and blessed us: he has blessed the house of Israel, he has blessed the house of Aaron. ¹³He has blessed them that fear the Lord, both small and great. ¹⁴The

Lord add blessings to you and to your children. ¹⁵Blessed are ye of the Lord, who made the heaven and the earth.

¹⁶The heaven of heavens belongs to the Lord: but he has given the earth to the sons of men. ¹⁷The dead shall not praise thee, O Lord, nor any that go down to Hades. ¹⁸But we, the living, will bless the Lord, from henceforth and for ever.

Psalm 114 (116)

Alleluia.

¹I am well pleased, because the Lord will hearken to the voice of my supplication. ²Because he has inclined his ear to me, therefore will I call upon him while I live. ³The pangs of death compassed me; the dangers of hell found me: I found affliction and sorrow. ⁴Then I called on the name of the Lord: O Lord, deliver my soul. ⁵The Lord is merciful and righteous; yea, our God has pity. ⁶The Lord preserves the simple: I was brought low, and he delivered me.

⁷Return to thy rest, O my soul; for the Lord has dealt bountifully with thee. ⁸For he has delivered my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling. ⁹I shall be well-pleasing before the Lord in the land of the living.

Alleluia:

¹⁰I believed, wherefore I have spoken: but I was greatly afflicted. ¹¹And I said in mine amazement, Every man is a liar. ¹²What shall I render to the Lord for all the things wherein he has rewarded me? ¹³I will take the cup of salvation, and call upon the name of the Lord. ¹⁴I will pay my vows to the Lord, in the presence of all his people. ¹⁵Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints. ¹⁶O Lord, I am thy servant; I am thy servant, and the son of thine handmaid: thou hast burst by bonds asunder. ¹⁷I will offer to thee the sacrifice of praise, and will call upon the name of the Lord. ¹⁸I will pay my vows unto the Lord, in the presence of all his people, ¹⁹in the courts of the Lord's house, in the midst of thee, Jerusalem.

Psalm 116 (117)

Alleluia.

¹Praise the Lord, all ye nations: praise him, all ye peoples. ²For his mercy has been abundant toward us: and the truth of the Lord endures for ever.

Psalm 117 (118)

Alleluia.

¹Give thanks to the Lord; for he is good: for his mercy endures for ever. ²Let now the house of Israel say, that he is good: for his mercy endures for ever. ³Let now the house of Aaron say, that he is good: for his mercy endures for ever. ⁴Let now all that fear the Lord say, that he is good: for his mercy endures for ever. ⁵I called on the Lord out of affliction: and he hearkened to me, so as to bring me into a wide place. ⁶The Lord is my helper; and I will not fear what man shall do to me. ⁷The Lord is my helper; and I shall see my desire upon mine enemies. ⁸*It is* better to trust in the Lord than to trust in man. ⁹It is better to hope in the Lord, than to hope in princes. ¹⁰All nations compassed me about: but in the name of the Lord I repulsed them. ¹¹They completely compassed me about: but in the name of the Lord I repulsed them. ¹²They compassed me about as bees do a honeycomb, and they burst into flame as fire among thorns: but in the name of the Lord I repulsed them. ¹³I was thrust, and sorely shaken, that I might fall: but the Lord helped me. ¹⁴The Lord is my strength and my song, and is become my salvation. ¹⁵The voice of exultation and salvation is in the tabernacles of the righteous: the right hand of the Lord has wrought mightily. ¹⁶The right hand of the Lord has exalted me: the right hand of the Lord has wrought powerfully. ¹⁷I shall not die, but live, and recount the works of the Lord. ¹⁸The Lord has chastened me sore: but he has not given me up to death. ¹⁹Open to me the gates of righteousness: I will go into them, and give praise to the Lord. ²⁰This is the gate of the Lord: the righteous shall enter by it. ²¹I will give thanks to thee; because thou hast heard me, and art become my salvation. ²²The stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner. ²³This has been done of the Lord; and it is wonderful in our eyes. ²⁴This is the day which the Lord has made: let us exult and rejoice in it. ²⁵O Lord, save now: O Lord, send now prosperity. ²⁶Blessed is he that comes in the name of the Lord: we have blessed you out of the house of the Lord. ²⁷God is the Lord, and he has shined upon us: celebrate the feast with thick branches, binding the victims even to the horns of the altar. ²⁸Thou art my God, and I will give thee thanks: thou art my God,

Psalm 118 (119)

Alleluia.

¹Blessed are the blameless in the way, who walk in the law of the Lord. ²Blessed are they that search out his testimonies: they will diligently seek him with the whole heart. ³For they that work iniquity have not walked in his ways. ⁴Thou hast commanded us diligently to keep thy precepts. ⁵O that my ways were directed to keep thine ordinances. ⁶Then shall I not be ashamed, when I have respect to all thy commandments. ⁷I will give thee thanks with uprightness of heart, when I have learnt the judgments of thy righteousness. ⁸I will keep thine ordinances: O forsake me not greatly. ⁹Wherewith shall a young man direct his way? by keeping thy words. ¹⁰With my whole heart have I diligently sought thee: cast me not away from thy commandments. ¹¹I have hidden thine oracles in my heart, that I might not sin against thee. ¹²Blessed art thou, O Lord: teach me thine ordinances. ¹³With my lips have I declared all the judgments of thy mouth. ¹⁴I have delighted in the way of thy testimonies, as much as in all riches. ¹⁵I will meditate on thy commandments, and consider thy ways. ¹⁶I will meditate on thine ordinances: I will not forget thy words. ¹⁷Render a recompense to thy servant: so shall I live, and keep thy words. ¹⁸Unveil thou mine eyes, and I shall perceive wondrous things of thy law. ¹⁹I am a stranger in the earth: hide not thy commandments from me. ²⁰My soul has longed exceedingly for thy judgments at all times. ²¹Thou has rebuked the proud: cursed are they that turn aside from thy commandments. ²²Remove from me reproach and contempt; for I have sought out thy testimonies. ²³For princes sat and spoke against me: but thy servant was meditating on thine ordinances. ²⁴For thy testimonies are my meditation, and thine ordinances are my counsellors. ²⁵My soul has cleaved to the ground; quicken thou me according to thy word. ²⁶I declared my ways, and thou didst hear me: teach me thine ordinances. ²⁷Instruct me in the way of thine ordinances; and I will meditate on thy wondrous works. ²⁸My soul has slumbered for sorrow; strengthen thou me with thy words. ²⁹Remove from me the way of iniquity; and be merciful to me by thy law. ³⁰I have chosen the way of truth; and have not forgotten thy judgments. ³¹I have cleaved to thy testimonies, O Lord; put me not to shame. ³²I ran the way of thy commandments, when thou didst enlarge my heart. ³³Teach me, O Lord, the way of thine ordinances, and I will seek it out continually. ³⁴Instruct me, and I will search out thy law, and will keep it with my whole heart. ³⁵Guide me in the path of thy commandments; for I have delighted in it. ³⁶Incline mine heart to thy testimonies, and not to covetousness. ³⁷Turn away mine eyes that I may not behold vanity: quicken thou me in thy way. ³⁸Confirm thine oracle to thy servant, that he may fear thee. ³⁹Take away my reproach which I have feared: for thy judgments are good. ⁴⁰Behold, I have desired thy commandments: quicken me in thy righteousness. ⁴¹And let thy mercy come upon me, O Lord; even thy salvation, according to thy word. ⁴²And so I shall render an answer to them that reproach me: for I have trusted in thy words. ⁴³And take not the word of truth utterly out of my mouth; for I have hoped in thy judgments. So shall I keep thy law continually, for ever and ever. ⁴⁵I walked also at large: for I sought out thy commandments. ⁴⁶And I spoke of thy testimonies before kings, and was not ashamed. ⁴⁷And I meditated on thy commandments, which I loved exceedingly. ⁴⁸And I lifted up my hands to thy commandments which I loved; and I meditated in thine ordinances. ⁴⁹Remember thy words to thy servant, wherein thou hast made me hope. ⁵⁰This has comforted me in mine affliction: for thine oracle has quickened me. ⁵¹The proud have transgressed exceedingly; but I swerved not from thy law. ⁵²I remembered thy judgements of old, O Lord; and was comforted. ⁵³Despair took hold upon me, because of the sinners who forsake thy law. ⁵⁴Thine ordinances were my songs in the place of my sojourning. ⁵⁵I remembered thy name, O Lord, in the night, and kept thy law. ⁵⁶This I had, because I diligently sought thine ordinances. ⁵⁷Thou art my portion, O Lord: I said that I would keep thy law. ⁵⁸I besought thy favour with my whole heart: have mercy upon me according to thy word. ⁵⁹I thought on thy ways, and turned my feet to thy testimonies. ⁶⁰I prepared myself, (and was not terrified,) to keep thy commandments. ⁶¹The snares of sinners entangled me: but I forgot not thy law. ⁶²At midnight I arose, to give thanks to thee for the judgments of thy righteousness. ⁶³I am a companion of all them that fear thee, and of them that keep thy commandments. ⁶⁴O Lord, the earth is full of thy mercy: teach me thine ordinances. ⁶⁵Thou hast wrought kindly with thy servant, o Lord, according to thy word. ⁶⁶Teach me kindness, and instruction, and knowledge: for I have believed thy commandments. ⁶⁷Before I was afflicted, I transgressed; therefore have I kept thy word. ⁶⁸Good art thou, O Lord; therefore in thy goodness teach me thine ordinances. ⁶⁹The injustice of the proud has been multiplied against me: but I will search out thy commandments with all my heart. ⁷⁰Their heart has been curdled like milk; but I have meditated on thy law. ⁷¹*It is good for me that thou hast* afflicted me; that I might learn thine ordinances. ⁷²The law of thy mouth is better to me than thousands of gold and silver. ⁷³Thy hands have made me, and fashioned me: instruct me, that I may learn thy commandments. ⁷⁴They that fear thee will see me and rejoice: for I have hoped in thy words. ⁷⁵I know, O Lord, that thy judgments are righteousness, and that thou in truthfulness hast afflicted me. ⁷⁶Let, I pray thee, thy mercy be to comfort me, according to thy word to thy servant. ⁷⁷Let thy compassions come to me, that I may live: for thy law is my meditation. ⁷⁸Let the proud be ashamed; for they transgressed against me unjustly: but I will meditate in thy commandments. ⁷⁹Let those that fear thee, and those that know thy testimonies, turn to me. ⁸⁰Let mine heart be blameless in thine ordinances, that I may not be ashamed. ⁸¹My soul faints for thy salvation: I have hoped in thy words. ⁸²Mine eyes failed in waiting for thy word, saying, When wilt thou comfort me? ⁸³For I am become as a bottle in the frost: yet I have not forgotten thine ordinances. ⁸⁴How many are the days of thy servant? when wilt thou execute judgment for me on them that persecute me? ⁸⁵Transgressors told me idle tales; but not according to thy law, O Lord. ⁸⁶All thy commandments are truth; they persecuted me unjustly; help thou me. ⁸⁷They nearly made an end of me in the earth; but I forsook not thy commandments. ⁸⁸Quicken me according to thy mercy; so shall I keep the testimonies of thy mouth. ⁸⁹Thy word, O Lord, abides in heaven for ever. ⁹⁰Thy truth endures to all generations; thou hast founded the earth, and it abides. ⁹¹The day continues by thy arrangement; for all things are thy servants. ⁹²Were it not that thy law is my meditation, then I should have perished in mine affliction. ⁹³I will never forget thine ordinances; for with them thou hast quickened me. ⁹⁴I am thine, save me; for I have sought out thine ordinances. ⁹⁵Sinners laid wait for me to destroy me; but I understood thy testimonies. ⁹⁶*but* have seen an end of all perfection; but thy commandment is very broad. ⁹⁷How I have loved thy law, O Lord! it is my meditation all the day. ⁹⁸Thou hast made me wiser than mine enemies in thy commandment; for it is mine for ever. ⁹⁹I have more understanding than all my teachers; for thy testimonies are my medication. ¹⁰⁰I understand more that the aged; because I have sought out thy commandments. ¹⁰¹I have kept back my feet from every evil way, that I might keep thy words. ¹⁰²I have not declined from thy judgments; for thou hast instructed me.

¹⁰³How sweet are thine oracles to my throat! more so than honey to my mouth! ¹⁰⁴I gain understanding by thy commandments: therefore I have hated every way of unrighteousness. ¹⁰⁵Thy law is a lamp to my feet, and a light to my paths. ¹⁰⁶I have sworn and determined to keep the judgments of thy righteousness. ¹⁰⁷I have been very greatly afflicted, O Lord: quicken me, according to thy word. ¹⁰⁸Accept, I pray thee, O Lord, the freewill-offerings of my mouth, and teach me thy judgments. ¹⁰⁹My soul is continually in thine hands; and I have not forgotten thy law. ¹¹⁰Sinners spread a snare for me; but I erred not from thy commandments. ¹¹¹I have inherited thy testimonies for ever; for they are the joy of my heart. ¹¹²I have inclined my heart to perform thine ordinances for ever, in return for thy mercies. ¹¹³I have hated transgressors; but I have loved thy law. ¹¹⁴Thou art my helper and my supporter; I have hoped in thy words. ¹¹⁵Depart from me, ye evil-doers; for I will search out the commandments of my God. ¹¹⁶Uphold me according to thy word, and quicken me; and make me not ashamed of my expectation. ¹¹⁷Help me, and I shall be saved; and I will meditate in thine ordinances continually. ¹¹⁸Thou hast brought to nought all that depart from thine ordinances; for their inward thought is unrighteous. ¹¹⁹I have reckoned all the sinners of the earth as transgressors; therefore have I loved thy testimonies. ¹²⁰Penetrate my flesh with thy fear; for I am afraid of thy judgments. ¹²¹I have done judgment and justice; deliver me not up to them that injure me. ¹²²Receive thy servant for good: let not the proud accuse me falsely. ¹²³Mine eyes have failed for thy salvation, and for the word of thy righteousness. ¹²⁴Deal with thy servant

according to thy mercy, and teach me thine ordinances. ¹²⁵I am thy servant; instruct me, and I shall know thy testimonies. ¹²⁶*It is* time for the Lord to work: they have utterly broken thy law. ¹²⁷Therefore have I loved thy commandments more than gold, or the topaz. ¹²⁸Therefore I directed myself according to all thy commandments: I have hated every unjust way.

¹²⁹Thy testimonies are wonderful: therefore my soul has sought them out. ¹³⁰The manifestation of thy words will enlighten, and instruct the simple. ¹³¹I opened my mouth, and drew breath: for I earnestly longed after thy commandments. ¹³²Look upon me and have mercy upon me, after the manner of them that love thy name. ¹³³Order my steps according to thy word: and let not any iniquity have dominion over me. ¹³⁴Deliver me from the false accusation of men: so will I keep thy commandments. ¹³⁵Cause thy face to shine upon thy servant: and teach me thine ordinances. ¹³⁶Mine eyes have been bathed in streams of water, because I kept not thy law. ¹³⁷Righteous art thou, O Lord, and upright are thy judgments. ¹³⁸Thou has commanded righteousness and perfect truth, as thy testimonies. ¹³⁹Thy zeal has quite wasted me: because mine enemies have forgotten thy words. ¹⁴⁰Thy word has been very fully tried; and thy servant loves it. ¹⁴¹I am young and despised: yet I have not forgotten thine ordinances. ¹⁴²Thy righteousness is an everlasting righteousness, and thy law is truth. ¹⁴³Afflictions and distresses found me: but thy commandments were my meditation.

¹⁴⁴Thy testimonies are an everlasting righteousness: instruct me, and I shall live. ¹⁴⁵I cried with my whole heart; hear me, O Lord: I will search out thine ordinances. ¹⁴⁶I cried to thee;

save me, and I will keep thy testimonies. ¹⁴⁷I arose before the dawn, and cried: I hoped in thy words.

¹⁴⁸Mine eyes prevented the dawn, that I might meditate on thine oracles.

¹⁴⁹Hear my voice, O Lord, according to thy mercy; quicken me according to thy judgment. ¹⁵⁰They have drawn nigh who persecuted me unlawfully; and they are far removed from thy law.

¹⁵¹Thou art near, O Lord; and all thy ways are truth. ¹⁵²I have known of old concerning thy testimonies, that thou hast founded them for ever. ¹⁵³Look upon mine affliction, and rescue me; for I have not forgotten thy law. ¹⁵⁴Plead my cause, and ransom me: quicken me because of thy word.

¹⁵⁵Salvation is far from sinners: for they have not searched out thine ordinances. ¹⁵⁶Thy mercies, O Lord, are many: quicken me according to thy judgment. ¹⁵⁷Many are they that persecute me and oppress me: but I have not declined from thy testimonies. ¹⁵⁸I beheld men acting foolishly, and I pined away; for they kept not thine oracles. ¹⁵⁹Behold, I have loved thy commandments, O Lord: quicken me in thy mercy. ¹⁶⁰The beginning of thy words is truth; and all the judgments of thy righteousness endure for ever. ¹⁶¹Princes persecuted me without a cause, but my heart feared because of thy words. ¹⁶²I will exult because of thine oracles, as one that finds much spoil. ¹⁶³I hate and abhor unrighteousness; but I love thy law. ¹⁶⁴Seven times in a day have I praised thee because of the judgments of thy righteousness. ¹⁶⁵Great peace have they that love thy law: and there is no stumbling-block to them. ¹⁶⁶I waited for thy salvation, O Lord, and have loved thy commandments. ¹⁶⁷My soul has kept thy testimonies, and loved them exceedingly. ¹⁶⁸I have kept thy commandments and thy testimonies; for all my ways are before thee, O Lord. ¹⁶⁹Let my supplication come near before thee, O Lord; instruct me according to thine oracle. ¹⁷⁰Let my petition come in before thee, O Lord; deliver me according to thine oracle. ¹⁷¹Let my lips utter a hymn, when thou shalt have taught me thine ordinances. ¹⁷²Let my tongue utter thine oracles; for all thy commandments are righteous. ¹⁷³Let thine hand be prompt to save me; for I have chosen thy commandments. ¹⁷⁴I have longed after thy salvation, O Lord; and thy law is my meditation. ¹⁷⁵My soul shall live, and shall praise thee; and thy judgments shall help me. ¹⁷⁶I have gone astray like a lost sheep; seek thy servant; for I have not forgotten thy commandments.

Psalm 119 (120)

A Song of Degrees.

¹In mine affliction I cried to the Lord, and he hearkened to me. ²Deliver my soul, O Lord, from unjust lips, and from a deceitful tongue. ³What should be given to thee, and what should be added to thee, for thy crafty tongue? ⁴Sharpened weapons of the mighty, with coals of the desert. ⁵Woe is me, that my sojourning is prolonged; I have tabernacled among the tents of Kedar. ⁶My soul has long been a sojourner; ⁷I was peaceable among them that hated peace; when I spoke to them, they warred against me without a cause.

Psalm 120 (121)

A Song of Degrees.

¹I lifted up mine eyes to the mountains, whence my help shall come. ²My help shall come from the Lord, who made the heaven and the earth. ³Let not thy foot be moved; and let not thy keeper slumber. ⁴Behold, he that keeps Israel shall not slumber nor sleep. ⁵The Lord shall keep thee: the Lord is thy shelter upon thy right hand. ⁶The sun shall not burn thee by day, neither the moon by night. ⁷May the Lord preserve thee from all evil: the Lord shall keep thy soul. ⁸The Lord shall keep thy coming in, and thy going out, from henceforth and even for ever.

Psalm 121 (122)

A Song of Degrees.

¹I was glad when they said to me, Let us go into the house of the Lord. ²Our feet stood in thy courts, O Jerusalem. ³Jerusalem is built as a city whose fellowship is complete. ⁴For thither the tribes went up, the tribes of the Lord, as a testimony for Israel, to give thanks unto the name of the Lord. ⁵For there are set thrones for judgement, even thrones for the house of David. ⁶Pray now for the peace of Jerusalem: and let there be prosperity to them that love thee. ⁷Let peace, I pray, be within thine host, and prosperity in thy palaces. ⁸For the sake of my brethren and my neighbours, I have indeed spoken peace concerning thee. ⁹Because of the house of the Lord our God, I have diligently sought thy good.

Psalm 122 (123)

A Song of Degrees.

¹Unto thee who dwellest in heaven have I lifted up mine eyes. ²Behold, as the eyes of servants are directed to the hands of their masters, and as the eyes of a maidservant to the hands of her mistress; so our eyes are directed to the Lord our God, until he have mercy upon us. ³Have pity upon us, O Lord, have pity upon us: for we are exceedingly filled with contempt. ⁴*Yea*, our soul has been exceedingly filled with it: let the reproach be to them that are at ease, and contempt to the proud.

Psalm 123 (124)

A Song of Degrees.

¹If it had not been that the Lord was among us, let Israel now say; ²if it had not been that the Lord was among us, when men rose up against us; ³verily they would have swallowed us up alive, when their wrath was kindled against us: ⁴verily the water would have drowned us, our soul would have gone under the torrent. ⁵Yea, our soul would have gone under the overwhelming water.

⁶Blessed be the Lord, who has not given us for a prey to their teeth. ⁷Our soul has been delivered as a sparrow from the snare of the fowlers: the snare is broken, and we are delivered. ⁸Our help is in the name of the Lord, who made heaven and earth.

Psalm 124 (125)

A Song of Degrees.

¹They that trust in the Lord shall be as mount Sion: he that dwells in Jerusalem shall never be moved. ²The mountains are round about her, and so the Lord is round about his people, from henceforth and even for ever. ³For the Lord will not allow the rod of sinners to be upon the lot of the righteous; lest the righteous should stretch forth their hands to iniquity. ⁴Do good, O Lord, to them that are good, and to them that are upright in heart. ⁵But them that turn aside to crooked ways the Lord will lead away with the workers of iniquity: but peace shall be upon Israel.

Psalm 125 (126)

A Song of Degrees.

¹When the Lord turned the captivity of Sion, we became as comforted ones. ²Then was our mouth filled with joy, and our tongue with exultation: then would they say among the Gentiles, ³The Lord has done great things among them. The Lord has done great things for us, we became joyful. ⁴Turn, O Lord, our captivity, as the steams in the south. ⁵They that sow in tears shall reap in joy. ⁶They went on and wept as they cast their seeds; but they shall surely come with exultation, bringing their sheaves with them.

Psalm 126 (127)

A Song of Degrees.

¹Except the Lord build the house, they that build labour in vain: except the Lord keep the city, the watchman watches in vain. ²It is vain for you to rise early: ye rise up after resting, ye that eat the bread of grief; while he gives sleep to his beloved.

³Behold, the inheritance of the Lord, children, the reward of the fruit of the womb. ⁴As arrows in the hand of a mighty man; so are the children of those who were outcasts. ⁵Blessed is the man who shall satisfy his desire with them: they shall not be ashamed when they shall speak to their enemies in the gates.

Psalm 127 (128)

A Song of Degrees.

¹Blessed are all they that fear the Lord; who walk in his ways. ²Thou shalt eat the labours of thy hands: blessed art thou, and it shall be well with thee. ³Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine on the sides of thy house: thy children as young olive-plants round about thy table. ⁴Behold, thus shall the man be blessed that fears the Lord. ⁵May the Lord bless thee out of Sion; and mayest thou see the prosperity of Jerusalem all the days of thy life. ⁶And mayest thou see thy children's children. Peace be upon Israel.

Psalm 128 (129)

A Song of Degrees.

¹Many a time have they warred against me from my youth, let Israel now say: ²Many a time have they warred against me from my youth: and yet they prevailed not against me. ³The sinners wrought upon my back: they prolonged their iniquity. ⁴The righteous Lord has cut asunder the necks of sinners. ⁵Let all that hate Sion be put to shame and turned back. ⁶Let them be as the grass of the house-tops, which withers before it is plucked up.

⁷Wherewith the reaper fills not his hand, nor he that makes up the sheaves, his bosom. ⁸Neither do they that go by say, The blessing of the Lord be upon you: we have blessed you in the name of the Lord.

Psalm 129 (130)

A Song of Degrees.

¹Out of the depths have I cried to thee, O Lord. ²O Lord, hearken to my voice; let thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplication. ³If thou, O Lord, shouldest mark iniquities, O Lord, who shall stand? ⁴For with thee is forgiveness: for thy name's sake ⁵have I waited for thee, O Lord, my soul has waited for thy word. ⁶My soul has hoped in the Lord; from the morning watch till night. ⁷Let Israel hope in the Lord: for with the Lord is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption. ⁸And he shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities.

Psalm 130 (131)

A Song of Degrees.

¹O Lord, my heart is not exalted, neither have mine eyes been haughtily raised: neither have I exercised myself in great matters, nor in things too wonderful for me. ²*I shall have sinned* if I have not been humble, but have exulted my soul: according to the relation of a weaned child to his mother, so wilt thou recompense my soul. ³Let Israel hope in the Lord, from henceforth and for ever.

Psalm 131 (132)

A Song of Degrees.

¹Lord, remember David, and all his meekness: ²how he swore to the Lord, and vowed to the God of Jacob, saying, ³I will not go into the tabernacle of my house; I will not go up to the couch of my bed; ⁴I will not give sleep to mine eyes, nor slumber to mine eyelids, nor rest to my temples, ⁵until I find a place for the Lord, a tabernacle for the God of Jacob. ⁶Behold, we heard of it in Ephratha; we found it in the fields of the wood. ⁷Let us enter into his tabernacles: let us worship at the place where his feet stood. ⁸Arise, O Lord, into thy rest; thou, and the ark of thine holiness. ⁹Thy priests shall clothe themselves with righteousness; and thy saints shall exult. ¹⁰For the sake of thy servant David turn not away the face of thine anointed. ¹¹The Lord swore in truth to David, and he will not annul it, saying, Of the fruit of thy body will I set a king upon thy throne. ¹²If thy children will keep my covenant, and these my testimonies which I shall teach them, their children also shall sit upon thy throne for ever. ¹³For the Lord has elected Sion, he has chosen her for a habitation for himself, saying, ¹⁴This is my rest for ever: here will I dwell; for I have chosen it. ¹⁵I will surely bless her provision: I will satisfy her poor with bread. ¹⁶I will clothe her priests with salvation; and her saints shall greatly exult. ¹⁷There will I cause to spring up a horn to David: I have prepared a lamp for mine anointed. ¹⁸His enemies will I clothe with a shame; but upon himself shall my holiness flourish.

Psalm 132 (133)

A Song of Degrees.

¹See now! what is so good, or what so pleasant, as for brethren to dwell together? ²*It is* as ointment on the head, that ran down to the beard, even the beard of Aaron; that ran down to the fringe of his clothing. ³As the dew of Aermón, that comes down on the mountains of Sion: for there, the Lord commanded the blessing, even life for ever.

Psalm 133 (134)

A Song of Degrees.

¹Behold now, bless ye the Lord, all the servants of the Lord, who stand in the house of the Lord, in the courts of the house of our God. ²Lift up your hands by night in the sanctuaries, and bless the Lord. ³May the Lord, who made heaven and earth, bless thee out of Sion.

Psalms

Psalm 134 (135)

Alleluia.

¹Praise ye the name of the Lord; praise the Lord, ye his servants, ²who stand in the house of the Lord, in the courts of the house of our God. ³Praise ye the Lord; for the Lord is good: sing praises to his name; for it is good. ⁴For the Lord has chosen Jacob for himself, and Israel for his peculiar treasure. ⁵For I know that the Lord is great, and our Lord is above all gods; ⁶all that the Lord willed, he did in heaven, and on the earth, in the sea, and in all deeps. ⁷Who brings up clouds from the extremity of the earth: he has made lightnings for the rain: he brings winds out of his treasures. ⁸Who smote the first-born of Egypt, both of man and beast. ⁹He sent signs and wonders into the midst of thee, O Egypt, on Pharaoh, and on all his servants. ¹⁰Who smote many nations, and slew mighty kings; ¹¹Seon king of the Amorites, and Og king of Basan, and all the kingdoms of Chanaan: ¹²and gave their land for an inheritance, an inheritance to Israel his people. ¹³O Lord, thy name endures for ever, and thy memorial to all generations. ¹⁴For the Lord shall judge his people, and comfort himself concerning his servants. ¹⁵The idols of the heathen are silver and gold, the works of men's hands. ¹⁶They have a mouth, but they cannot speak; they have eyes, but they cannot see; ¹⁷they have ears, but they cannot hear; for there is no breath in their mouth. ¹⁸Let those who make them be made like to them; and all those who trust in them.

¹⁹O house of Israel, bless ye the Lord: O house of Aaron, bless ye the Lord: ²⁰O house of Levi, bless ye the Lord: ye that fear the Lord, bless the Lord. ²¹Blessed in Sion be the Lord, who dwells in Jerusalem.

Psalm 135 (136)

Alleluia.

¹Give thanks to the Lord: for he is good: for his mercy endures for ever. ²Give thanks to the God of gods; for his mercy endures for ever. ³Give thanks to the Lord of lords: for his mercy endures for ever. ⁴To him who along has wrought great wonders: for his mercy endures for ever. ⁵To him who made the heavens by understanding; for his mercy endures for ever. ⁶To him who established the earth on the waters; for his mercy endures for ever. ⁷To him who alone made great lights; for his mercy endures for ever. ⁸The sun to rule by day; for his mercy endures for ever. ⁹The moon and the stars to rule the night; for his mercy endures for ever. ¹⁰To him who smote Egypt with their first-born; for his mercy endures for ever. ¹¹And brought Israel out of the midst of them; for his mercy endures for ever: ¹²with a strong hand, and a high arm: for his mercy endures for ever. ¹³To him who divided the Red Sea into parts: for his mercy endures for ever: ¹⁴and brought Israel through the midst of it: for his mercy endures for ever: ¹⁵and overthrew Pharaoh and his host in the Red Sea: for his mercy endures for ever. ¹⁶To him who led his people through the wilderness: for his mercy endures for ever. ¹⁷To him who smote great kings: for his mercy endures for ever: ¹⁸and slew mighty kings; for his mercy endures for ever: ¹⁹Seon king of the Amorites: for his mercy endures for ever: ²⁰and Og king of Basan: for his mercy endures for ever: ²¹and gave their land for an inheritance: for his mercy endures for ever: ²²even an inheritance to Israel his servant: for his mercy endures for ever. ²³For the Lord remembered us in our low estate; for his mercy endures for ever: ²⁴and redeemed us from our enemies; for his mercy endures for ever. ²⁵Who gives food to all flesh; for his mercy endures for ever. ²⁶Give thanks to the God of heaven; for his mercy endures for ever.

Psalm 136 (137)

For David, a Psalm of Jeremias.

¹By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat; and wept when we remembered Sion. ²We hung our harps on the willows in the midst of it. ³For there they that had taken us captive asked of us the words of a song; and they that had carried us away asked a hymn, saying, Sing us one of the songs of Sion. ⁴How should we sing the Lord's song in a strange land? ⁵If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget its skill. ⁶May my tongue cleave to my throat, if I do not remember thee; if I do not prefer Jerusalem as the chief of my joy. ⁷Remember, O Lord, the children of Edom in the day of Jerusalem; who said, Rase it, rase it, even to its foundations. ⁸Wretched daughter of Babylon! blessed shall he be who shall reward thee as thou hast rewarded us. ⁹Blessed shall he be who shall seize and dash thine infants against the rock.

Psalm 137 (138)

A Psalm for David, of Aggaeus and Zacharias.

¹I will give thee thanks, O Lord, with my whole heart; and I will sing psalms to thee before the angels; for thou hast heard all the words of my mouth. ²I will worship toward thy holy temple, and give thanks to thy name, on account of thy mercy and thy truth; for thou hast magnified thy holy name above every thing. ³In whatsoever day I shall call upon thee, hear me speedily; thou shalt abundantly provide me with thy power in my soul. ⁴Let all the kings of the earth, O Lord, give thanks unto thee; for they have heard all the words of thy mouth. ⁵And let them sing in the ways of the Lord; for great is the glory of the Lord. ⁶For the Lord is high, and yet regards the lowly; and he knows high things from afar off. ⁷Though I should walk in the midst of affliction, thou wilt quicken me; thou hast stretched forth thine hands against the wrath of mine enemies, and thy right hand has saved me. ⁸O Lord, thou shalt recompense them on my behalf: thy mercy, O Lord, endures for ever: overlook not the works of thine hands.

Psalm 138 (139)

For the end, a Psalm of David.

¹O Lord, thou hast proved me, and known me. ²Thou knowest my down-sitting and mine up-rising: thou understandest my thoughts long before. ³Thou hast traced my path and my bed, and hast foreseen all my ways. ⁴For there is no unrighteous word in my tongue: behold, O Lord, thou hast known all things, ⁵the last and the first: thou hast fashioned me, and laid thine hand upon me. ⁶The knowledge of thee is too wonderful for me; it is very difficult, I cannot attain to it. ⁷Whither shall I go from thy Spirit? and whither shall I flee from my presence? ⁸If I should go up to heaven, thou art there: if I should go down to hell, thou art present. ⁹If I should spread my wings to fly straight forward, and sojourn at the extremity of the sea, it would be vain, ¹⁰for even there thy hand would guide me, and thy right hand would hold me. ¹¹When I said, Surely the darkness will cover me; even the night was light in my luxury. ¹²For darkness will not be darkness with thee; but night will be light as day: as its darkness, so shall its light be to thee. ¹³For thou, O Lord, hast possessed my reins; thou hast helped me from my mother's womb.

¹⁴I will give thee thanks; for thou art fearfully wondrous; wondrous are thy works; and my soul knows it well.

¹⁵My bones, which thou madest in secret were not hidden from thee, nor my substance, in the lowest parts of the earth. ¹⁶Thine eyes saw my unwrought substance, and all men shall be written in thy book; they shall be formed by day, though there should

for a time be no one among them.

¹⁷But thy friends, O God, have been greatly honoured by me; their rule has been greatly strengthened. ¹⁸I will number them, and they shall be multiplied beyond the sand; I awake, and am still with thee. ¹⁹Oh that thou wouldest slay the wicked, O God; depart from me, ye men of blood. ²⁰For thou wilt say concerning their thought, that they shall take thy cities in vain. ²¹Have I not hated them, O Lord, that hate thee? and wasted away because of thine enemies? ²²I have hated them with perfect hatred; they were counted my enemies. ²³Prove me, O God, and know my heart; examine me, and know my paths; ²⁴and see if there is any way of iniquity in me, and lead me in an everlasting way.

Psalm 139 (140)

For the end, a Psalm of David.

¹Rescue me, O Lord, from the evil man; deliver me from the unjust man.

²Who have devised injustice in their hearts; all the day they prepared war.

³They have sharpened their tongue as the tongue of a serpent; the poison of asps is under their lips. Pause. ⁴Keep me, O Lord, from the hand of the sinner; rescue me from unjust men; who have purposed to overthrow my goings. ⁵The proud have hid a snare for me, and have stretched out ropes for snares for my feet; they set a stumbling-block for me near the path. Pause. ⁶I said to the Lord, Thou art my God; hearken, O Lord, to the voice of my supplication. ⁷O Lord God, the strength of my salvation; thou hast screened my head in the day of battle. ⁸Deliver me not, O Lord, to the sinner, according to my desire: they have devised mischief against me; forsake me not, lest they should be exalted. Pause. ⁹*As for* the head of them that compass me, the mischief of their lips shall cover them. ¹⁰Coals of fire shall fall upon them on the earth; and thou shalt cast them down in afflictions: they shall not bear up under them. ¹¹A talkative man shall not prosper on the earth: evils shall hunt the unrighteous man to destruction. ¹²I know that the Lord will maintain the cause of the poor, and the right of the needy ones. ¹³Surely the righteous shall give thanks to thy name: the upright shall dwell in thy presence.

Psalm 140 (141)

A Psalm of David.

¹O Lord, I have cried to thee; hear me: attend to the voice of my supplication, when I cry to thee. ²Let my prayer be set forth before thee as incense; the lifting up of my hands as an evening sacrifice. ³Set a watch, O Lord, on my mouth, and a strong door about by lips. ⁴Incline not my heart to evil things, to employ pretexts for sins, with me who work iniquity: and let me not unite with their choice ones. ⁵The righteous shall chasten me with mercy, and reprove me: but let not the oil of the sinner anoint my head: for yet shall my prayer also be in their pleasures. ⁶Their mighty ones have been swallowed up near the rock: they shall hear my words, for they are sweet. ⁷As a lump of earth is crushed upon the ground, our bones have been scattered by the mouth of the grave. ⁸For mine eyes are to thee, O Lord God: I have hoped in thee; take not away my life. ⁹Keep me from the snare which they have set for me, and from the stumbling blocks of them that work iniquity. ¹⁰Sinners shall fall by their own net: I am alone until I shall escape.

Psalms

Psalm 141 (142)

A Psalm of instruction for David, when he was in the cave, —a Prayer.

¹I cried to the Lord with my voice; with my voice I made supplication to the Lord. ²I will pour out before him my supplication: I will declare before him mine affliction. ³When my spirit was fainting within me, then thou knewest my paths; in the very way wherein I was walking, they hid a snare for me. ⁴I looked on my right hand, and behold, for there was none that noticed me; refuge failed me; and there was none that cared for my soul. ⁵I cried unto thee, O Lord, and said, Thou art my hope, my portion in the land of the living. ⁶Attend to my supplication, for I am brought very low; deliver me from them that persecute me; for they are stronger than I. ⁷Bring my soul out of prison, that I may give thanks to thy name, O Lord; the righteous shall wait for me, until thou recompense me.

A Psalm of David, when his son pursued him.

¹O Lord, attend to my prayer: hearken to my supplication in thy truth; hear me in thy righteousness. ²And enter not into judgment with thy servant, for in thy sight shall no man living be justified. ³For the enemy has persecuted my soul; he has brought my life down to the ground; he has made me to dwell in a dark place, as those that have been long dead. ⁴Therefore my spirit was grieved in me; my heart was troubled within me. ⁵I remembered the days of old; and I meditated on all thy doings: yea, I meditated on the works of thine hands. ⁶I spread forth my hands to thee; my soul thirsts for thee, as a dry land. Pause. ⁷Hear me speedily, O Lord; my spirit has failed; turn not away thy face from me, else I shall be like to them that go down to the pit. ⁸Cause me to hear thy mercy in the morning; for I have hoped in thee; make known to me, O Lord, the way wherein I should walk; for I have lifted up my soul to thee. ⁹Deliver me from mine enemies, O Lord; for I have fled to thee for refuge. ¹⁰Teach me to do thy will; for thou art my God; thy good Spirit shall guide me in the straight way. ¹¹Thou shalt quicken me, O Lord, for thy name's sake; in thy righteousness thou shalt bring my soul out of affliction. ¹²And in thy mercy thou wilt destroy mine enemies, and wilt destroy all those that afflict my soul; for I am thy servant.

Psalm 143 (144)

A Psalm of David concerning Goliad.

¹Blessed be the Lord my God, who instructs my hands for battle, and my fingers for war. ²My mercy, and my refuge; my helper, and my deliverer; my protector, in whom I have trusted; who subdues my people under me.

³Lord, what is man, that thou art made known to him? or the son of man, that thou takest account of him? ⁴Man is like to vanity: his days pass as a shadow. ⁵O Lord, bow thy heavens, and come down: touch the mountains, and they shall smoke. ⁶Send lightning, and thou shalt scatter them: send forth thine arrows, and thou shalt discomfit them. ⁷Send forth thine hand from on high; rescue me, and deliver me out of great waters, out of the hand of strange children; ⁸whose mouth has spoken vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of iniquity. ⁹O God, I will sing a new song to thee: I will play to thee on a psaltery of ten strings. ¹⁰*Even* to him who gives salvation to kings: who redeems his servant David from the hurtful sword. ¹¹Deliver me, and rescue me from the hand of strange children, whose mouth has spoken vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of iniquity; ¹²whose children are as plants, strengthened in their youth: their daughters are beautiful, sumptuously adorned after the similitude of a temple. ¹³Their garners are full, and bursting with one kind of store after another; their sheep are prolific, multiplying in their streets. ¹⁴Their oxen are fat: there is no falling down of a hedge, nor going out, nor cry in their folds. ¹⁵Men bless the people to whom this lot belongs, but blessed is the people whose God is the Lord.

Psalm 144 (145)

David's Psalm of praise.

¹I will exalt thee, my God, my king; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever. ²Every day will I bless thee, and I will praise thy name for ever and ever. ³The Lord is great, and greatly to be praised; and there is no end to his greatness. ⁴Generation after generation shall praise thy works, and tell of thy power. ⁵And they shall speak of the glorious majesty of thy holiness, and recount thy wonders. ⁶And they shall speak of the power of thy terrible acts; and recount thy greatness. ⁷They shall utter the memory of the abundance of thy goodness, and shall exult in thy righteousness. ⁸The Lord is compassionate, and merciful; long suffering, and abundant in mercy. ⁹The Lord is good to those that wait on him; and his compassions are over all his works. ¹⁰Let all thy works, O Lord, give thanks to thee; and let thy saints bless thee. ¹¹They shall speak of the glory of thy kingdom, and talk of thy dominion; ¹²to make known to the sons of men thy power, and the glorious majesty of thy kingdom. ¹³Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endures through all generations. The Lord is faithful in his words, and holy in all his works. ¹⁴The Lord supports all that are falling, and sets up all that are broken down. ¹⁵The eyes of all wait upon thee; and thou givest them their food in due season. ¹⁶Thou openest thine hands, and fillest every living thing with pleasure. ¹⁷The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works. ¹⁸The Lord is near to all that call upon him, to all that call upon him in truth. ¹⁹He will perform the desire of them that fear him: and he will hear their supplication, and save them. ²⁰The Lord preserves all that love him: but all sinners he will utterly destroy. ²¹My mouth shall speak the praise of the Lord: and let all flesh bless his holy name for ever and ever.

Psalms

Psalm 145 (146)

Alleluia, a Psalm of Aggaeus and Zacharias.

¹My soul, praise the Lord. ²While I live will I praise the Lord: I will sing praises to my God as long as I exist. ³Trust not in princes, nor in the children of men, in whom there is no safety. ⁴His breath shall go forth, and he shall return to his earth; in that day all his thoughts shall perish. ⁵Blessed is he whose helper is the God of Jacob, whose hope is in the Lord his God: ⁶who made heaven, and earth, the sea, and all things in them: who keeps truth for ever: ⁷who executes judgment for the wronged: who gives food to the hungry. The Lord looses the fettered ones: ⁸the Lord gives wisdom to the blind: The Lord sets up the broken down: the Lord loves the righteous: the Lord preserves the strangers; ⁹he will relieve the orphan and widow: but will utterly remove the way of sinners.

¹⁰The Lord shall reign for ever, even thy God, O Sion, to all generations.

Psalm 146 (147)

Alleluia, a Psalm of Aggaeus and Zacharias.

¹Praise ye the Lord: for psalmody is a good thing; let praise be sweetly sung to our God. ²The Lord builds up Jerusalem; and he will gather together the dispersed of Israel. ³He heals the broken in heart, and binds up their wounds. ⁴He numbers the multitudes of stars; and calls them all by names. ⁵Great is our Lord, and great is his strength; and his understanding is infinite. ⁶The Lord lifts up the meek; but brings sinners down to the ground. ⁷Begin the song with thanksgiving to the Lord; sing praises on the harp to our God: ⁸who covers the heaven with clouds, who prepares rain for the earth, who causes grass to spring up on the mountains, [and green herb for the service of men;] ⁹and gives cattle their food, and to the young ravens that call upon him. ¹⁰He will not take pleasure in the strength of a horse; neither is he well-pleased with the legs of a man. ¹¹The Lord takes pleasure in them that fear him, and in all that hope in his mercy.

Psalms

¹Alleluia, a Psalm of Aggaeus and Zacharias.

¹²Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem; praise thy God, O Sion. ¹³For he has strengthened the bars of thy gates; he has blessed thy children within thee. ¹⁴He makes thy borders peaceful, and fills thee with the flour of wheat. ¹⁵He sends his oracle to the earth: his word will run swiftly. ¹⁶He gives snow like wool: he scatters the mist like ashes. ¹⁷Casting forth his ice like morsels: who shall stand before his cold? ¹⁸He shall send out his word, and melt them: he shall blow with his wind, and the waters shall flow. ¹⁹He sends his word to Jacob, his ordinances and judgments to Israel. ²⁰He has not done so to any other nation; and he has not shown them his judgments.

¹Alleluia, a Psalm of Aggaeus and Zacharias.

¹Praise ye the Lord from the heavens: praise him in the highest. ²Praise ye him, all his angels: praise ye him, all his hosts. ³Praise him, sun and moon; praise him, all ye stars and light. ⁴Praise him, ye heavens of heavens, and the water that is above the heavens. ⁵Let them praise the name of the Lord: for he spoke, and they were made; he commanded, and they were created. ⁶He has established them for ever, even for ever and ever: he has made an ordinance, and it shall not pass away. ⁷Praise the Lord from the earth, ye serpents, and all deeps. ⁸Fire, hail, snow, ice, stormy wind; the things that perform his word. ⁹Mountains, and all hills; fruitful trees, and all cedars: ¹⁰wild beasts, and all cattle; reptiles, and winged birds: ¹¹kings of the earth, and all peoples; princes, and all judges of the earth: ¹²young men and virgins, old men with youths: ¹³let them praise the name of the Lord: for his name only is exalted; his praise is above the earth and heaven, ¹⁴and he shall exalt the horn of his people, there is a hymn for all his saints, even of the children of Israel, a people who draw near to him.

¹Alleluia.

¹Sing to the Lord a new song: his praise is in the assembly of the saints. ²Let Israel rejoice in him that made him; and let the children of Sion exult in their king. ³Let them praise his name in the dance: let them sing praises to him with timbrel and psaltery. ⁴For the Lord takes pleasure in his people; and will exalt the meek with salvation. ⁵The saints shall rejoice in glory; and shall exult on their beds. ⁶The high praises of God shall be in their throat, and two-edged swords in their hands; ⁷to execute vengeance on the nations, and punishments among the peoples; ⁸to bind their kings with fetters, and their nobles with manacles of iron; ⁹to execute on them the judgment written:

this honour have all his saints.

¹Alleluia.

¹Praise God in his holy places:
praise him in the firmament of his

This Psalm is a genuine one of David, though supernumerary, composed when he fought in single combat with Goliad.

¹I was small among my brethren, and youngest in my father's house: I tended my father's sheep. ²My hands formed a musical instrument, and my fingers tuned a psaltery. ³And who shall tell my Lord? the Lord himself, he himself hears. ⁵He sent forth his angel, and took me from my father's sheep, and he anointed me with the oil of his anointing. ⁵My brothers were handsome and tall; but the Lord did not take pleasure in them. ⁶I went forth to meet the Philistine; and he cursed me by his idols. ⁷But I drew his own sword, and beheaded him, and removed reproach from the children of Israel.

The Proverbs of Solomon

Chapter 1

¹The Proverbs of Solomon son of David, who reigned in Israel; ²to know wisdom and instruction, and to perceive words of understanding; ³to receive also hard saying, and to understand true justice, and how to direct judgement; ⁴that he might give subtlety to the simple, and to the young man discernment and understanding. ⁵For by the hearing of these a wise man will be wiser, and man of understanding will gain direction; ⁶and will understand a parable, and a dark speech; the saying of the wise also, and riddles. ⁷The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; and there is good understanding to all that practise it: and piety toward God is the beginning of discernment; but the ungodly will set at nought wisdom and instruction. ⁸Hear, my son, the instruction of thy father, and reject not the rules of thy mother. ⁹For thou shalt receive for thine head a crown of graces, and a chain of gold round thy neck. ¹⁰My son, let not ungodly men lead thee astray, neither consent thou to them. ¹¹If they should exhort thee, saying, Come with us, partake in blood, and let us unjustly hide the just man in the earth: ¹²and let us swallow him alive, as Hades would, and remove the memorial of him from the earth: ¹³let us seize on his valuable property, and let us fill our houses with spoils: ¹⁴but do thou cast in thy lot with us, and let us all provide a common purse, and let us have one pouch: ¹⁵go not in the way with them, but turn aside thy foot from their paths: ¹⁶for nets are not without cause spread for birds. ¹⁷For they that are concerned in murder store up evils for themselves; and the overthrow of transgressors is evil. ¹⁸These are the ways of all that perform lawless deeds; for by ungodliness they destroy their own life. ¹⁹Wisdom sings aloud in passages, and in the broad places speaks boldly. ²⁰And she makes proclamation on the top of the walls, and sits by the gates of princes; and at the gates of the city boldly says, ²¹So long as the simple cleave to justice, they shall not be ashamed: but the foolish being lovers of haughtiness, having become ungodly have hated knowledge, and are become subject to reproofs. ²²Behold, I will bring forth to you the utterance of my breath, and I will instruct you in my speech. ²³Since I called, and ye did not hearken; and I spoke at length, and ye gave no heed; ²⁴but ye set at nought my counsels, and disregarded my reproofs; ²⁵therefore I also will laugh at your destruction; and I will rejoice against you when ruin comes upon you: ²⁶yea when dismay suddenly comes upon you, and your overthrow shall arrive like a tempest; and when tribulation and distress shall come upon you, or when ruin shall come upon you. ²⁸For it shall be that when ye call upon me, I will not hearken to you: wicked men shall seek me, but shall not find me. ²⁹For they hated wisdom, and did not choose the word of the Lord: ³⁰neither would they attend to my counsels, but derided my reproofs. ³¹Therefore shall they eat the fruits of their own way, and shall be filled with their own ungodliness. ³²For because they wronged the simple, they shall be slain; and an inquisition shall ruin the ungodly. ³³But he that hearkens to me shall dwell in confidence, and shall rest securely from all evil.

¹My son, if thou wilt receive the utterance of my commandment, and hide it with thee; ²thine ear shall hearken to wisdom; thou shalt also apply thine heart to understanding, and shalt apply it to the instruction of thy son. ³For it thou shalt call to wisdom, and utter thy voice for understanding; ⁴and if thou shalt seek it as silver, and search diligently for it as for treasures; ⁵then shalt thou understand the fear of the Lord, and find the knowledge of God. ⁶For the Lord gives wisdom; and from his presence come knowledge and understanding, ⁷and he treasures up salvation for them that walk uprightly: he will protect their way; ⁸that he may guard the righteous ways: and he will preserve the way of them that fear him. ⁹Then shalt thou understand righteousness, and judgement; and shalt direct all thy course aright. ¹⁰For if wisdom shall come into thine understanding, and discernment shall seem pleasing to thy soul, ¹¹good counsel shall guard thee, and holy understanding shall keep thee; ¹²to deliver thee from the evil way, and from the man that speaks nothing faithfully. ¹³Alas for those who forsake right paths, to walk in ways of darkness; ¹⁴who rejoice in evils, and delight in wicked perverseness; ¹⁵whose paths are crooked, and their courses winding; ¹⁶to remove thee far from the straight way, and to estrange thee from a righteous purpose. My son, let not evil counsel overtake thee, ¹⁷*of her* who has forsaken the instruction of her youth, and forgotten the covenant of God. ¹⁸For she has fixed her house near death, and guided her wheels near Hades with the giants. ¹⁹None that go by her shall return, neither shall they take hold of right paths, for they are not apprehended of the years of life. ²⁰For had they gone in good paths, they would have found the paths of righteousness easy. ²¹For the upright shall dwell in the earth, and the holy shall be left behind in it. ²²The paths of the ungodly shall perish out of the earth, and transgressors shall be driven away from it.

¹My son, forget not my laws; but let thine heart keep my words: ²for length of existence, and years of life, and peace, shall they add to thee. ³Let not mercy and truth forsake thee; but bind them about thy neck: ⁴so shalt thou find favour: and do thou provide things honest in the sight of the Lord, and of men. ⁵Trust in God with all thine heart; and be not exalted in thine own wisdom. ⁶In all thy ways acquaint thyself with her, that she may rightly direct thy paths. ⁷Be not wise in thine own conceit; but fear God, and depart from all evil. ⁸Then shall there be health to thy body, and good keeping to thy bones. ⁹Honour the Lord with thy just labours, and give him the first of thy fruits of righteousness: ¹⁰that thy storehouses may be completely filled with corn, and that thy presses may burst forth with wine. ¹¹My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord; nor faint when thou art rebuked of him: ¹²for whom the Lord loves, he rebukes, and scourges every son whom he receives. ¹³Blessed is the man who has found wisdom, and the mortal who knows prudence. ¹⁴For it is better to traffic for her, than for treasures of gold and silver. ¹⁵And she is more valuable than precious stones: no evil thing shall resist her: she is well known to all that approach her, and no precious thing is equal to her in value. ¹⁶For length of existence and years of life are in her right hand; and in her left hand are wealth and glory: out of her mouth proceeds righteousness, and she carries law and mercy upon her tongue. ¹⁷Her ways are good ways, and all her paths are peaceful. ¹⁸She is a tree of life to all that lay hold upon her; and she is a secure help to all that stay themselves on her, as on the Lord. ¹⁹God by wisdom founded the earth, and by prudence he prepared the heavens. ²⁰By understanding were the depths broken up, and the clouds dropped water. ²¹My son, let them not pass from thee, but keep my counsel and understanding: ²²that thy soul may live, and that there may be grace round thy neck; and it shall be health to thy flesh, and safety to thy bones: ²³that thou mayest go confidently in peace in all thy ways, and that thy foot may not stumble. ²⁴For if thou rest, thou shalt be undismayed; and if thou sleep, thou shalt slumber sweetly. ²⁵And thou shalt not be afraid of alarm coming upon thee, neither of approaching attacks of ungodly men. ²⁶For the Lord shall be over all thy ways, and shall establish thy foot that thou be not moved. ²⁷Forbear not to do good to the poor, whensoever thy hand may have power to help him. ²⁸Say not, Come back another time, to-morrow I will give; while thou art able to do him good: for thou knowest not what the next day will bring forth. ²⁹Devise not evil against thy friend, living near thee and trusting in thee. ³⁰Be not ready to quarrel with a man without a cause, lest he do thee some harm. ³¹Procure not the reproaches of bad men, neither do thou covet their ways. ³²For every transgressor is unclean before the Lord; neither does he sit among the

¹Hear, ye children, the instruction of a father, and attend to know understanding. ²For I give you a good gift; forsake ye not my law. ³For I also was a son obedient to my father, and loved in the sight of my mother: ⁴who spoke and instructed me, saying, Let our speech be fixed in thine heart, keep our commandments, forget them not: ⁵and do not neglect the speech of my mouth. ^{6*}And forsake it not, and it shall cleave to thee: love it, and it shall keep thee. ⁸Secure it, and it shall exalt thee: honour it, that it may embrace thee; ⁹that it may give unto thy head a crown of graces, and may cover thee with a crown of delight. ¹⁰Hear, my son, and receive my words; and the years of thy life shall be increased, that the resources of thy life may be many. ¹¹For I teach thee the ways of wisdom; and I cause thee to go in right paths. ¹²For when thou goest, thy steps shall not be straitened; and when thou runnest, thou shalt not be distressed. ¹³Take hold of my instruction; let it not go, —but keep it for thyself for thy life. ¹⁴Go not in the ways of the ungodly, neither covet the ways of transgressors.¹⁵ In whatever place they shall pitch their camp, go not thither; but turn from them, and pass away.¹⁶ For they cannot sleep, unless they have done evil: their sleep is taken away, and they rest not. ¹⁷For these live upon the bread of ungodliness, and are drunken with wine of transgression. ¹⁸But the ways of the righteous shine like light; they go on and shine, until the day be fully come. ¹⁹But the ways of the ungodly are dark; they know not how they stumble. ²⁰*My* son, attend to my speech; and apply thine ear to my words: ²¹that thy fountains may not fail thee; keep them in thine heart. ²²For they are life to those that find them, and health to all their flesh. ²³Keep thine heart with the utmost care; for out of these are the issues of life. ²⁴Remove from thee a froward mouth, and put far away from thee unjust lips. ²⁵Let thine eyes look right on, and let thine eyelids assent to that which is just. ²⁶Make straight paths for thy feet, and order thy ways aright. ²⁷Turn not aside to the right hand nor to the left, but turn away thy foot from an evil way: [for God knows the ways on the right hand, but those on the left are crooked:] and he will make thy ways straight, and will guide thy steps in peace.

woman; ³for honey drops from the lips of a harlot, who for a season pleases thy palate: ⁴but afterwards thou wilt find her more bitter than gall, and sharper than a two-edged sword. ⁵For the feet of folly lead those who deal with her down to the grave with death; and her steps are not established. ⁶For she goes not upon the paths of life; but her ways are slippery, and not easily known. ⁷Now then, my son, hear me, and make not my words of none effect. ⁸Remove thy way far from her; draw not near to the doors of her house: ⁹lest thou give away thy life to others, and thy substance to the merciless: ¹⁰lest strangers be filled with thy strength, and thy labours come into the houses of strangers; ¹¹And thou repent at last, when the flesh of thy body is consumed, ¹²and thou shalt say, How have I hated instruction, and my heart avoided reproofs! ¹³I heard not the voice of him that instructed me, and taught me, neither did I apply mine ear. ¹⁴I was almost in all evil in the midst of the congregation and assembly. ¹⁵Drink waters out of thine own vessels, and out of thine own springing wells. ¹⁶Let not waters out of thy fountain be spilt by thee, but let thy waters go into thy streets. ¹⁷Let them be only thine own, and let no stranger partake with thee. ¹⁸Let thy fountain of water be truly thine own; and rejoice with the wife of thy youth. ¹⁹Let thy loving hart and thy graceful colt company with thee, and let her be considered thine own, and be with thee at all times; for ravished with her love thou shalt be greatly increased. ²⁰Be not intimate with a strange woman, neither fold thyself in the arms of a woman not thine own. ²¹For the ways of a man are before the eyes of God, and he looks on all his paths. ²²Iniquities ensnare a man, and every one is bound in the chains of his own sins. ²³Such a man dies with the uninstructed; and he is cast forth from the abundance of his own substance, and has perished through folly.

Chapter 6

¹My son, if thou become surety for thy friend, thou shalt deliver thine hand to an enemy. ²For a man's own lips become a strong snare to him, and he is caught with the lips of his own mouth. ³My son, do what I command thee, and deliver thyself; for on thy friend's account thou art come into the power of evil men: faint not, but stir up even thy friend for whom thou art become surety. ⁴Give not sleep to thine eyes, nor slumber with thine eyelids; ⁵that thou mayest deliver thyself as a doe out of the toils, and as a bird out of a snare. ⁶Go to the ant, O sluggard; and see, and emulate his ways, and become wiser than he. ⁷For whereas he has no husbandry, nor any one to compel him, and is under no master, ⁸he prepares food for himself in the summer, and lays by abundant store in harvest. Or go to the bee, and learn how diligent she is, and how earnestly she is engaged in her work; whose labours kings and private men use for health, and she is desired and respected by all: though weak in body, she is advanced by honouring wisdom. ⁹How long wilt thou lie, O sluggard? and when wilt thou awake out of sleep? ¹⁰Thou sleepest a little, and thou retest a little, and thou slumberest a short time, and thou foldest thine arms over thy breast a little. ¹¹Then poverty comes upon thee as an evil traveller, and want as a swift courier: but if thou be diligent, thine harvest shall arrive as a fountain, and poverty shall flee away as a bad courier. ¹²A foolish man and a transgressor goes in ways that are not good. ¹³And the same winks with the eye, and makes a sign with his foot, and teaches with the beckonings of his fingers. ¹⁴*His* perverse heart devises evils: at all times such a one causes troubles to a city. ¹⁵Therefore his destruction shall come suddenly; overthrow and irretrievable ruin. ¹⁶For he rejoices in all things which God hates, and he is ruined by reason of impurity of soul. ¹⁷*The following are objects of hatred to God:*— the eye of the haughty, a tongue unjust, hands shedding the blood of the just; ¹⁸and a heart devising evil thoughts, and feet hastening to do evil. ¹⁹An unjust witness kindles falsehoods, and brings on quarrels between brethren. ²⁰*My* son, keep the laws of thy father, and reject not the ordinances of thy mother: ²¹but bind them upon thy soul continually, and hang them as a chain about thy neck. ²²Whosoever thou walkest, lead this along and let it be with thee; that it may talk with thee when thou wakest. ²³For the commandment of the law is a lamp and a light; a way of life; reproof also and correction: ²⁴to keep thee continually from a married woman, and from the calumny of a strange tongue. ²⁵Let not the desire of beauty overcome thee, neither be thou caught by thine eyes, neither be captivated with her eyelids. ²⁶For the value of a harlot is as much as of one loaf; and a woman hunts for the precious souls of men. ²⁷Shall any one bind fire in his bosom, and not burn his garments? ²⁸or will any one walk on coals of fire, and not burn his feet? ²⁹So is he that goes in to a married woman; he shall not be held guiltless, neither any one that touches her. ³⁰It is not to be wondered at if one should be taken stealing, for he steals that when hungry he may satisfy his soul: ³¹but if he should be taken, he shall repay sevenfold, and shall deliver himself by giving all his goods. ³²But the adulterer through want of sense procures destruction to his soul. ³³He endures both pain and disgrace, and his reproach shall never be wiped off. ³⁴For the soul of her husband is full of jealousy: he will not spare in the day of vengeance. ³⁵He will not forego his enmity for any ransom: neither will he be reconciled for many gifts.

¹*My* son, keep my words, and hide with thee my commandments. My son, honour the Lord, and thou shalt be strong; and fear none but him: ²keep my commandments, and thou shalt live; and keep my words as the pupils of thine eyes. ³And bind them on thy fingers, and write them on the table of thine heart. ⁴Say that wisdom is thy sister, and gain prudence as an acquaintance for thyself; ⁵that she may keep thee from the strange and wicked woman, if she should assail thee with flattering words. ⁶For she looks from a window out of her house into the streets, at one whom she may see of the senseless ones, a young man void of understanding, ⁷passing by the corner in the passages near her house, ⁸and speaking, in the dark of the evening, ⁹when there happens to be the stillness of night and of darkness: ¹⁰and the woman meets him having the appearance of a harlot, that causes the hearts of young men to flutter. ¹¹And she is fickle, and debauched, and her feet abide not at home. ¹²For at one time she wanders without, and at another time she lies in wait in the streets, at every corner. ¹³Then she caught him, and kissed him, and with an impudent face said to him, ¹⁴I have a peace-offering; today I pay my vows: ¹⁵therefore I came forth to meet thee, desiring thy face; and I have found thee. ¹⁶I have spread my bed with sheets, and I have covered it with double tapestry from Egypt. ¹⁷I have sprinkled my couch with saffron, and my house with cinnamon. ¹⁸Come, and let us enjoy love until the morning;

come, and let us embrace in love. ¹⁹For my husband is not at home, but is gone on a long journey, ²⁰having taken in his hand a bundle of money: after many days he will return to his house. ²¹So with much converse she prevailed on him to go astray, and with the snares of her lips forced him from the right path. ²²And he followed her, being gently led on, and that as an ox is led to the slaughter, and as a dog to bonds, or as a hart shot in the liver with an arrow: ²³and he hastens as a bird into a snare, not knowing that he is running for his life. ²⁴Now then, my son, hearken to me, and attend to the words of my mouth. ²⁵Let not thine heart turn aside to her ways: ²⁶for she has wounded and cast down many, and those whom she has slain are innumerable. ²⁷Her house is the way of hell, leading down to the chambers of death.

shall meditate truth; and false lips are an abomination before me. ⁸All the words of my mouth are in righteousness; there is nothing in them wrong or perverse. ⁹They are all evident to those that understand, and right to those that find knowledge. ¹⁰Receive instruction, and not silver; and knowledge rather than tried gold. ¹¹For wisdom is better than precious stones; and no valuable substance is of equal worth with it. ¹²I wisdom have dwelt with counsel and knowledge, and I have called upon understanding. ¹³The fear of the Lord hates unrighteousness, and insolence, and pride, and the ways of wicked men; and I hate the perverse ways of bad men. ¹⁴Counsel and safety are mine; prudence is mine, and strength is mine. ¹⁵By me kings reign, and princes decree justice. ¹⁶By me nobles become great, and monarchs by me rule over the earth. ¹⁷I love those that love me; and they that seek me shall find me. ¹⁸Wealth and glory belong to me; yea, abundant possessions and righteousness. ¹⁹*It is* better to have my fruit than to have gold and precious stones; and my produce is better than choice silver. ²⁰I walk in ways of righteousness, and am conversant with the paths of judgement; ²¹that I may divide substance to them that love me, and may fill their treasures with good things. If I declare to you the things that daily happen, I will remember also to recount the things of old. ²²The Lord made me the beginning of his ways for his works. ²³He established me before time was in the beginning, before he made the earth: ²⁴even before he made the depths; before the fountains of water came forth: ²⁵before the mountains were settled, and before all hills, he begets me. ²⁶The Lord made countries and uninhabited tracks, and the highest inhabited parts of the world. ²⁷When he prepared the heaven, I was present with him; and when he prepared his throne upon the winds: ²⁸and when he strengthened the clouds above; and when he secured the fountains of the earth: ^{29*} and when he strengthened the foundations of the earth: ³⁰I was by him, suiting myself to him, I was that wherein he took delight; and daily I rejoiced in his presence continually. ³¹For he rejoiced when he had completed the world, and rejoiced among the children of men. ³²Now then, my son, hear me: [†]blessed is the man who shall hearken to me, and the mortal who shall keep my ways; ³⁴watching daily at my doors, waiting at the posts of my entrances. ³⁵For my outgoings are the outgoings of life, and in them is prepared favour from the Lord. ³⁶But they that sin against me act wickedly against their own souls: and they that hate me love death.

has killed her beasts; she has mingled her wine in a bowl, and prepared her table. ³She has sent forth her servants, calling with a loud proclamation to the feast, saying, ⁴Whoso is foolish, let him turn aside to me: and to them that want understanding she says, ⁵Come, eat of my bread, and drink wine which I have mingled for you. ⁶Leave folly, that ye may reign for ever; and seek wisdom, and improve understanding by knowledge. ⁷He that reproves evil men shall get dishonour to himself; and he that rebukes an ungodly man shall disgrace himself. ⁸Rebuke not evil men, lest they should hate thee: rebuke a wise man, and he will love thee. ⁹Give an opportunity to a wise man, and he will be wiser: instruct a just man, and he will receive more instruction. ¹⁰The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and the counsel of saints is understanding: for to know the law is the character of a sound mind. ¹¹For in this way thou shalt live long, and years of thy life shall be added to thee. ¹²Son, if thou be wise for thyself, thou shalt also be wise for thy neighbours; and if thou shouldest prove wicked, thou alone wilt bear the evil. He that stays himself upon falsehoods, attempts to rule the winds, and the same will pursue birds in their fight: for he has forsaken the ways of his own vineyard, and he has caused the axles of his own husbandry to go astray; and he goes through a dry desert, and a land appointed to drought, and he gathers barrenness with his hands. ¹³A foolish and bold woman, who knows not modesty, comes to want a morsel. ¹⁴She sits at the doors of her house, on a seat openly in the streets, ¹⁵calling to passers by, and to those that are going right on their ways; ¹⁶saying, Whoso is most senseless of you, let him turn aside to me; and I exhort those that want prudence, saying, ¹⁷Take and enjoy secret bread, and the sweet water of theft. ¹⁸But he knows that mighty men die by her, and he falls in with a snare of hell. But hasten away, delay not in the place, neither fix thine eye upon her: for thus shalt thou go through strange water; but do thou abstain from strange water, and drink not of a strange fountain, that thou mayest live long, and years of life may be added to thee.

¹A wise son makes his father glad: but a foolish son is a grief to his mother. ²Treasures shall not profit the lawless: but righteousness shall deliver from death. ³The Lord will not famish a righteous soul: but he will overthrow the life of the ungodly. ⁴Poverty brings a man low: but the hands of the vigorous make rich. A son who is instructed shall be wise, and shall use the fool for a servant. ⁵A wise son is saved from heat: but a lawless son is blighted of the winds in harvest. ⁶The blessing of the Lord is upon the head of the just: but untimely grief shall cover the mouth of the ungodly. ⁷The memory of the just is praised; but the husband; but as a worm in wood, so a bad woman destroys her husband. ⁵The thoughts of the righteous are true judgments; but ungodly men devise deceits. ⁶The words of ungodly men are crafty; but the mouth of the upright shall deliver them. ⁷When the ungodly is overthrown, he vanishes away; but the houses of the just remain. ⁸The mouth of an understanding man is praised by a man; but he that is dull of heart is had in derision. ⁹Better is a man in dishonour serving himself, than one honouring himself and wanting bread. ¹⁰A righteous man has pity for the lives of his cattle; but the bowels of the ungodly are unmerciful. ¹¹He that tills his own land shall be satisfied with bread; but they that pursue vanities are void of understanding. He that enjoys himself in banquets of wine, shall leave dishonour in his own strong holds. ¹²The desires of the ungodly are evil; but the roots of the godly are firmly set. ¹³For the sin of his lips a sinner falls into snare; but a righteous man escapes from them. He whose looks are gentle shall be pitied, but he that contends in the gates will afflict souls. ¹⁴The soul of a man shall be filled with good from the fruits of his mouth; and the recompence of his lips shall be given to him. ¹⁵The ways of fools are right in their own eyes; but a wise man hearkens to counsels. ¹⁶A fool declares his wrath the same day; but a prudent man hides his own disgrace. ¹⁷A righteous man declares the open truth; but an unjust witness is deceitful. ¹⁸Some wound as they speak, like swords; but the tongues of the wise heal. ¹⁹True lips establish testimony; but a hasty witness has an unjust tongue. ²⁰*There is* deceit in the heart of him that imagines evil; but they that love peace shall rejoice. ²¹No injustice will please a just man; but the ungodly will be filled with mischief. ²²Lying lips are a abomination to the Lord; but he that deals faithfully is accepted with him. ²³An understanding man is a throne of wisdom; but the heart of fools shall meet with curses. ²⁴The hand of chosen men shall easily obtain rule; but the deceitful shall be for a prey. ²⁵A terrible word troubles the heart of a righteous man; but a good message rejoices him. ²⁶A just arbitrator shall be his own friend; but mischief shall pursue sinners; and the way of ungodly men shall lead them astray. ²⁷A deceitful man shall catch no game; but a blameless man is a precious possession. ²⁸In the ways of righteousness is life; but the ways of those that remember injuries lead to death.

Chapter 13

¹A wise son is obedient to his father: but a disobedient son will be destroyed. ²A good man shall eat of the fruits of righteousness: but the lives of transgressors shall perish before their time. ³He that keeps his own mouth keeps his own life: but he that is hasty with his lips shall bring terror upon himself. ⁴Every slothful man desires, but the hands of the active are diligent.

Proverbs

⁵A righteous man hates an unjust word: but an ungodly man is ashamed, and will have no confidence. ^{*} ⁷There are some who, having nothing, enrich themselves: and there are some who bring themselves down in the midst of much wealth. ⁸A man's own wealth is the ransom of his life: but the poor endures not threatening. ⁹The righteous always have light: but the light of the ungodly is quenched. Crafty souls go astray in sins: but just men pity, and are merciful. ¹⁰A bad man does evil with insolence: but they that are judges of themselves are wise. ¹¹Wealth gotten hastily with iniquity is diminished: but he that gathers for himself with godliness shall be increased. The righteous is merciful, and lends. ¹²Better is he that begins to help heartily, than he that promises and leads another to hope: for a good desire is a tree of life. ¹³He that slights a matter shall be slighted of it: but he that fears the commandment has health of soul. To a crafty son there shall be nothing good: but a wise servant shall have prosperous doings, and his way shall be directed aright. ¹⁴The law of the wise is fountain of life: but the man void of understanding shall die by a snare. ¹⁵Sound discretion gives favour, and to know the law is the part of a sound understanding: but the ways of scorners tend to destruction. ¹⁶Every prudent man acts with knowledge: but the fool displays his own mischief. ¹⁷A rash king shall fall into mischief: but a wise messenger shall deliver him. ¹⁸Instruction removes poverty and disgrace: but he that attends to reproofs shall be honoured. ¹⁹The desires of the godly gladden the soul, but the works of the ungodly are far from knowledge. ²⁰If thou walkest with wise men thou shalt be wise: but he that walks with fools shall be known. ²¹Evil shall pursue sinners; but good shall overtake the righteous. ²²A good man shall inherit children's children; and the wealth of ungodly men is laid up for the just. ²³The righteous shall spend many years in wealth: but the unrighteous shall perish suddenly. ²⁴He that spares the rod hates his son: but he that loves, carefully chastens him. ²⁵A just man eats and satisfies his soul: but the souls of the ungodly are in want.

foolish man; but wise lips are the weapons of discretion.⁸The wisdom of the prudent will understand their ways; but the folly of fools leads astray.⁹The houses of transgressors will need purification; but the houses of the just are acceptable.¹⁰*If* a man's mind is intelligent, his soul is sorrowful; and when he rejoices, he has no fellowship with pride.¹¹The houses of ungodly men shall be utterly destroyed; but the tabernacles of them that walk uprightly shall stand.¹²There is a way which seems to be right with men, but the ends of it reach to the depths of hell.¹³Grief mingles not with mirth; and joy in the end comes to grief.¹⁴A stout-hearted man shall be filled with his own ways; and a good man with his own thoughts.¹⁵The simple believes every word: but the prudent man betakes himself to after-thought.¹⁶A wise man fears, and departs from evil; but the fool trusts in himself, and joins himself with the transgressor.¹⁷A passionate man acts inconsiderately; but a sensible man bears up under many things.¹⁸Fools shall have mischief for their portion; but the prudent shall take fast hold of understanding.¹⁹Evil men shall fall before the good; and the ungodly shall attend at the gates of the righteous.²⁰Friends will hate poor friends; but the friends of the rich are many.²¹He that dishonours the needy sins: but he that has pity on the poor is most blessed.²²They that go astray devise evils: but the good devise mercy and truth. The framers of evil do not understand mercy and truth: but compassion and faithfulness are with the framers of good.²³With every one who is careful there is abundance: but the pleasure-taking and indolent shall be in want.²⁴A prudent man is the crown of the wise: but the occupation of fools is evil.²⁵A faithful witness shall deliver a soul from evil: but a deceitful man kindles falsehoods.²⁶In the fear of the Lord is strong confidence: and he leaves his children a support.²⁷The commandment of the Lord is a fountain of life; and it causes men to turn aside from the snare of death.²⁸In a populous nation is the glory of a king: but in the failure of people is the ruin of a prince.²⁹A man slow to wrath abounds in wisdom: but a man of impatient spirit is very foolish.³⁰A meek-spirited man is a healer of the heart: but a sensitive heart is a corruption of the bones.³¹He that oppresses the needy provokes his Maker: but he that honours him has pity upon the poor.³²The ungodly shall be driven away in his wickedness: but he who is secure in his own holiness is just.³³There is wisdom in the good heart of a man: but in the heart of fools it is not discerned.³⁴Righteousness exalts a nation: but sins diminish tribes.³⁵An understanding servant is acceptable to a king; and by his good behaviour he removes disgrace.

¹Anger slays even wise men; yet a submissive answer turns away wrath:

Proverbs

but a grievous word stirs up anger. ²The tongue of the wise knows what is good; but the mouth of the foolish tells out evil things. ³The eyes of the Lord behold both the evil and the good in every place. ⁴The wholesome tongue is a tree of life, and he that keeps it shall be filled with understanding. ⁵A fool scorns his father's instruction; but he that keeps his commandments is more prudent. In abounding righteousness is great strength: but the ungodly shall utterly perish from the earth. ⁶In the houses of the righteous is much strength: but the fruits of the ungodly shall perish. ⁷The lips of the wise are bound by discretion: but the hearts of the foolish are not safe. ⁸The sacrifices of the ungodly are an abomination to the Lord; but the prayers of them that walk honestly are acceptable with him. ⁹The ways of an ungodly man are an abomination to the Lord; but he loves those that follow after righteousness. ¹⁰The instruction of the simple is known by them that pass by; but they that hate reproofs die disgracefully. ¹¹Hell and destruction are manifest to the Lord; how shall not also be the hearts of men? ¹²An uninstructed person will not love those that reprove him; neither will he associate with the wise. ¹³When the heart rejoices the countenance is cheerful; but when it is in sorrow, the countenance is sad. ¹⁴An upright heart seeks discretion; but the mouth of the uninstructed will experience evils. ¹⁵The eyes of the wicked are always looking for evil things; but the good are always quiet. ¹⁶Better is a small portion with the fear of the Lord, than great treasures without the fear of the Lord. ¹⁷Better is an entertainment of herbs with friendliness and kindness, than a feast of calves, with enmity. ¹⁸A passionate man stirs up strife; but he that is slow to anger appeases even a rising one. A man slow to anger will extinguish quarrels; but an ungodly man rather stirs them up. ¹⁹The ways of sluggards are strewn with thorns; but those of the diligent are made smooth. ²⁰A wise son gladdens his father; but a foolish son sneers at his mother. ²¹The ways of a foolish man are void of sense; but a wise man proceeds on his way aright. ²²They that honour not councils put off deliberation; but counsel abides in the hearts of counsellors. ²³A bad man will by no means attend to counsel; neither will he say anything seasonable, or good for the common weal. ²⁴The thoughts of the wise are ways of life, that he may turn aside and escape from hell. ²⁵The Lord pulls down the houses of scorers; but he establishes the border of the widow. ²⁶An unrighteous thought is abomination to the Lord; but the sayings of the pure are held in honour. ²⁷A receiver of bribes destroys himself; but he that hates the receiving of bribes is safe. [By alms and by faithful dealings sins are purged away;] but by the fear of the Lord every one departs from evil. ²⁸The hearts of the righteous meditate faithfulness; but the mouth of the ungodly answers evil things. The ways of righteous men are acceptable with the Lord; and through them even enemies become friends. ²⁹God is far from the ungodly; but he hearkens to the prayers of the righteous. Better are small receipts with righteousness, than abundant fruits with unrighteousness.

Chapter 16

¹Let the heart of a man think justly, that his steps may be rightly ordered of God. The eye that sees rightly rejoices the heart; and a good report fattens the bones. ³¹³²He that rejects instruction hates himself; but he that mind reproofs loves his soul. ³³The fear of the Lord is instruction and wisdom; and the highest honour will correspond therewith. All the works of the humble man are manifest with God; but the ungodly shall perish in an evil day. ⁵Every one that is proud in heart is unclean before God, and he that unjustly strikes hands with hand shall not be held guiltless. The beginning of a good way is to do justly; and it is more acceptable with God than to offer sacrifices. He that seeks the Lord shall find knowledge with righteousness: and they that rightly seek him shall find peace. All of the works of the Lord are done with righteousness; and the ungodly man is kept for the evil day. ¹⁰*There is* an oracle upon the lips of a king; and his mouth shall not err in judgement. ¹¹The poise of the balance is righteousness with the Lord; and his works are righteous measures. ¹²An evil-doer is an abomination to a king; for the throne of rule is established by righteousness. ¹³Righteous lips are acceptable to a king; and he loves right words. ¹⁴The anger of a king is a messenger of death; but a wise man will pacify him. ¹⁵The son of a king is in the light of life; and they that are in favour with him are as a cloud of latter rain. ¹⁶The brood of wisdom is more to be chosen than gold, and the brood of prudence more to be chosen than silver. ¹⁷The paths of life turn aside from evil; and the ways of righteousness are length of life. He that receives instruction shall be in prosperity; and he that regards reproofs shall be made wise. He that keeps his ways, preserves his own soul; and he that loves his life will spare his mouth. ¹⁸Pride goes before destruction, and folly before a fall. ¹⁹Better is a meek-spirited man with lowliness, than one who divides spoils with the proud. ²⁰*He who is* skillful in business finds good; but he that trusts in God is most blessed. ²¹*Men* call the wise and understanding evil: but they that are pleasing in speech shall hear more. ²²Understanding is a fountain of life to its possessors; but the instruction of fools is evil. ²³The heart of the wise will discern the things which proceed from his own mouth; and on his lips he will wear knowledge. ²⁴Good words are honeycombs, and the sweetness thereof is a healing of the soul. ²⁵There are ways that seem to be right to a man, but the end of them looks to the depth of hell. ²⁶A man who labours, labours for himself, and drives from him his own ruin. ²⁷But the perverse bears destruction upon his own mouth: a foolish man digs up evil for himself, and treasures fire on his own lips. ²⁸A perverse man spreads mischief, and will kindle a torch of deceit with mischiefs; and he separates friends. ²⁹A transgressor tries to ensnare friends, and leads them in ways that are not good. ³⁰And the man that fixes his eyes devises perverse things, and marks out with his lips all evil: he is a furnace of wickedness. ³¹Old age is a crown of honour, but it is found in the ways of righteousness. ³²A man slow to anger is better than a strong man; and he that governs his temper better than he that takes a city. ³³All evils come upon the ungodly into their bosoms; but all righteous things come of the Lord.

Chapter 17

¹Better is a morsel with pleasure in peace, than a house full of many good things and unjust sacrifices, with strife. ²A wise servant shall have rule over foolish masters, and shall divide portions among brethren. ³As silver and gold are tried in a furnace, so are choice hearts with the Lord. ⁴A bad man hearkens to the tongue of transgressors: but a righteous man attends not to false lips. ⁵He that laughs at the poor provokes him that made him; and he that rejoices at the destruction of another shall not be held guiltless: but he that has compassion shall find mercy. ⁶Children's children are the crown of old men; and their fathers are the glory of children. The faithful has the whole world full of wealth; but the faithless not even a farthing. ⁷Faithful lips will not suit a fool; nor lying lips a just man. ⁸Instruction is to them that use it a gracious reward; and whithersoever it may turn, it shall prosper. ⁹He that conceals injuries seeks love; but he that hates to hide them separates friends and kindred. ¹⁰A threat breaks down the heart of a wise man; but a fool, though scourged, understands not. ¹¹Every bad man stirs up strifes: but the Lord will send out against him an unmerciful messenger. ¹²Care may befall a man of understanding; but fools will meditate evils. ¹³Whoso rewards evil for good, evil shall not be removed from his house. ¹⁴Rightful rule gives power to words; but sedition and strife precede poverty. ¹⁵He that pronounces the unjust just, and the just unjust, is unclean and abominable with God. ¹⁶Why has the fool wealth? for a senseless man will not be able to purchase wisdom. He that exalts his own house seeks ruin; and he that turns aside from instruction shall fall into mischief. ¹⁷Have thou a friend for every time, and let brethren be useful in distress; for on this account are they born. ¹⁸A foolish man applauds and rejoices over himself, as he also that becomes surety would make himself responsible for his own friends. ¹⁹A lover of sin rejoices in strifes; ²⁰and the hard-hearted man comes not in for good. A man of a changeful tongue will fall into mischiefs; ²¹and the heart of a fool is grief to its possessor. A father rejoices not over an uninstructed son; but a wise son gladdens his mother. ²²A glad heart promotes health; but the bones of a sorrowful man dry up. ²³The ways of a man who unjustly receives gifts in his bosom do not prosper; and an ungodly man perverts the ways of righteousness. ²⁴The countenance of a wise man is sensible; but the eyes of a fool go to the ends of the earth. ²⁵A foolish son is a cause of anger to his father, and grief to her that bore him. ²⁶*It is* not right to punish a righteous man, nor is it holy to plot against righteous princes. ²⁷He that forbears to utter a hard word is discreet, and a patient man is wise. ²⁸Wisdom shall be imputed to a fool who asks after wisdom: and he who holds his peace shall seem to be sensible.

Chapter 18

¹A man who wishes to separate from friends seeks excuses; but at all times he will be liable to reproach. ²A senseless man feels no need of wisdom, for he is rather led by folly. ³When an ungodly man comes into a depth of evils, he despises them; but dishonour and reproach come upon him. ⁴A word in the heart of a man is a deep water, and a river and fountain of life spring forth. ⁵*It is* not good to accept the person of the ungodly, nor is it holy to pervert justice in judgment. ⁶The lips of a fool bring him into troubles, and his bold mouth calls for death. ⁷A fool's mouth is ruin to him, and his lips are a snare to his soul. ⁸Fear casts down the slothful; and the souls of the effeminate shall hunger. ⁹A man who helps not himself by his labour is brother of him that ruins himself. ¹⁰The name of the Lord is of great strength; and the righteous running to it are exalted. ¹¹The wealth of a rich man is a strong city; and its glory casts a broad shadow. ¹²Before ruin a man's heart is exalted, and before honour it is humble. ¹³Whoso answers a word before he hears a cause, it is folly and reproach to him. ¹⁴A wise servant calms a man's anger; but who can endure a faint-hearted man? ¹⁵The heart of the sensible man purchases discretion; and the ears of the wise seek understanding. ¹⁶A man's gift enlarges him, and seats him among princes. ¹⁷A righteous man accuses himself at the beginning of his speech, but when he has entered upon the attack, the adversary is reprov'd. ¹⁸A silent man quells strifes, and determines between great powers. ¹⁹A brother helped by a brother is as a strong and high city; and is as strong as a well-founded palace. ²⁰A man fills his belly with the fruits of his mouth; and he shall be satisfied with the fruits of his lips. ²¹Life and death are in the power of the tongue; and they that rule it shall eat the fruits thereof. ²²He that has found a good wife has found favours, and has received gladness from God. [He that puts away a good wife, puts away a good thing, and he that keeps an adulteress is foolish and ungodly.] ³The folly of a man spoils his ways: and he blames God in his heart.

⁴Wealth acquires many friends; but the poor is deserted even of the friend he has. ⁵A false witness shall not be unpunished, and he that accuses unjustly shall not escape. ⁶Many court the favour of kings; but every bad man becomes a reproach to another man. ⁷Every one who hates his poor brother shall also be far from friendship. Good understanding will draw near to them that know it, and a sensible man will find it. He that does much harm perfects mischief; and he that used provoking words shall not escape. ⁸He that procures wisdom loves himself; and he that keeps wisdom shall find good. ⁹A false witness shall not be unpunished; and whosoever shall kindle mischief shall perish by it. ¹⁰Delight does not suit a fool, nor is it seemly if a servant should begin to rule with haughtiness. ¹¹A merciful man is long-suffering; and his triumph overtakes transgressors. ¹²The threatening of a king is like the roaring of a lion; but as dew on the grass, so is his favour. ¹³A foolish son is a disgrace to his father: vows paid out of the hire of a harlot are not pure. ¹⁴Fathers divide house and substance to their children: but a wife is suited to a man by the Lord. ¹⁵Cowardice possesses the effeminate man; and the soul of the sluggard shall hunger. ¹⁶He that keeps the commandment keeps his own soul; but he that despises his ways shall perish. ¹⁷He that has pity on the poor lends to the Lord; and he will recompense to him according to his gift. ¹⁸Chasten thy son, for so he shall be hopeful; and be not exalted in thy soul to haughtiness. ¹⁹A malicious man shall be severely punished, and if he commit injury, he shall also lose his life. ²⁰Hear, son, the instruction of thy father, that thou mayest be wise at thy latter end. ²¹*There are* many thoughts in a man's heart; but the counsel of the Lord abides for ever. ²²Mercy is a fruit to a man: and a poor man is better than a rich liar. ²³The fear of the Lord is life to a man: and he shall lodge without fear in places where knowledge is not seen. ²⁴He that unjustly hides his hands in his bosom, will not even bring them up to his mouth. ²⁵When a pestilent character is scourged, a simple man is made wiser: and if thou reprove a wise man, he will understand discretion. ²⁶He that dishonours his father, and drives away his mother, shall be disgraced and shall be exposed to reproach. ²⁷A son who ceases to attend to the instruction of a father will cherish evil designs. ²⁸He that becomes surety for a foolish child will despise the ordinance: and the mouth of ungodly men shall drink down judgement. ²⁹Scourges are preparing for the intemperate, and punishments likewise for fools.

Proverbs

¹Wine is an intemperate thing, and strong drink full of violence: but every fool is entangled with them. ²The threat of a king differs not from the rage of a lion; and he that provokes him sins against his own soul. ³*It is* a glory to a man to turn aside from railing; but every fool is entangled with such matters. ⁴A sluggard when reproached is not ashamed: so also he who borrows corn in harvest. ⁵Counsel in a man's heart is deep water; but a prudent man will draw it out. ⁶A man is valuable, and a merciful man precious: but it is hard to find a faithful man. ⁷He that walks blameless in justice, shall leave his children blessed. ⁸Whenever a righteous king sits on the throne, no evil thing can stand before his presence. ⁹Who will boast that he has a pure heart? or who will boldly say that he is pure from sins? ²⁰The lamp of him that reviles father or mother shall be put out, and his eyeballs shall see darkness. ²¹A portion hastily gotten at first shall not be blessed in the end. ²²Say not, I will avenge myself on my enemy; but wait on the Lord, that he may help thee. ¹⁰A large and small weight, and divers measures, are even both of them unclean before the Lord; and so is he that makes them. ¹¹A youth when in company with a godly man, will be restrained in his devices, and then his way will be straight. ¹²The ear hears, and the eye sees: even both of them are the Lord's work. ¹³Love not to speak ill, lest thou be cut off: open thine eyes, and be filled with bread. ²³A double weight is an abomination to the Lord; and a deceitful balance is not good in his sight. ²⁴A man's goings are directed of the Lord: how then can a mortal understand his ways? ²⁵It is a snare to a man hastily to consecrate some of his own property: for in that case repentance comes after vowing. ²⁶A wise king utterly crushes the ungodly, and will bring a wheel upon them. ²⁷The spirit of man is a light of the Lord, who searches the inmost parts of the belly. ²⁸Mercy and truth are a guard to a king, and will surround his throne with righteousness. ²⁹Wisdom is an ornament to young men; and grey hairs are the glory of old men. ³⁰Bruises and contusions befall bad men; and plagues shall come in the inward parts of their belly.

¹As a rush of water, so is the king's heart in God's hand: he turns it whithersoever he may desire to point out. ²Every man seems to himself righteous; but the Lord directs the hearts. ³To do justly and to speak truth, are more pleasing to God than the blood of sacrifices. ⁴A high-minded man is stout-hearted in his pride; and the lamp of the wicked is sin. ⁵⁶He that gathers treasures with a lying tongue pursues vanity on to the snares of death. ⁷Destruction shall lodge with the ungodly; for they refuse to do justly. ⁸To the froward God sends froward ways; for his works are pure and right. ⁹*It is* better to dwell in a corner on the house-top, than in plastered rooms with unrighteousness, and in an open house. ¹⁰The soul of the ungodly shall not be pitied by any man. ¹¹When an intemperate man is punished the simple becomes wiser: and a wise man understanding will receive knowledge. ¹²A righteous man understands the hearts of the ungodly: and despises the ungodly for their wickedness. ¹³He that stops his ears from hearing the poor, himself also shall cry, and there shall be none to hear him. ¹⁴A secret gift calms anger: but he that forbears to give stirs up strong wrath. ¹⁵*It is* the joy of the righteous to do judgement: but a holy man is abominable with evil-doers. ¹⁶A man that wanders out of the way of righteousness, shall rest in the congregation of ^{*}giants. ¹⁷A poor man loves mirth, loving wine and oil in abundance; ¹⁸and a transgressor is the abomination of a righteous man. ¹⁹*It is* better to dwell in a wilderness than with a quarrelsome and talkative and passionate woman. ²⁰A desirable treasure will rest on the mouth of the wise; but foolish men will swallow it up. ²¹The way of righteousness and mercy will find life and glory. ²²A wise man assaults strong cities, and demolishes the fortress in which the ungodly trusted. ²³He that keeps his mouth and his tongue keeps his soul from trouble. ²⁴A bold and self-willed and insolent man is called a pest: and he that remembers injuries is a transgressor. ²⁵Desires kill the sluggard; for his hands do not choose to do anything. ²⁶An ungodly man entertains evil desires all the day: but the righteous is unsparingly merciful and compassionate. ²⁷The sacrifices of the ungodly are abomination to the Lord, for they offer them wickedly. ²⁸A false witness shall perish; but an obedient man will speak cautiously. ²⁹An ungodly man impudently withstands with his face; but the upright man himself understands his ways. ³⁰There is no wisdom, there is no courage, there is no counsel against the ungodly. ³¹A horse is prepared for the day of battle; but help is of the Lord.

¹A fair name is better than much wealth, and good favour is above silver and gold. ²The rich and the poor meet together; but the Lord made them both. ³An intelligent man seeing a bad man severely punished is himself instructed, but fools pass by and are punished. ⁴The fear of the Lord is the offspring of wisdom, and wealth, and glory, and life. ⁵Thistles and snares are in perverse ways; but he that keeps his soul will refrain from them. ⁶⁷The rich will rule over the poor, and servants will lend to their own masters. ⁸He that sows wickedness shall reap troubles; and shall fully receive the punishment of his deeds. God loves a cheerful and liberal man; but a man shall fully prove the folly of his works.

Proverbs

⁹He that has pity on the poor shall himself be maintained; for he has given of his own bread to the poor. He that gives liberally secures victory an honour; but he takes away the life of them that possess them. ¹⁰Cast out a pestilent person from the council, and strife shall go out with him; for when he sits in the council he dishonours all. ¹¹The Lord loves holy hearts, and all blameless persons are acceptable with him: a king rules with his lips. ¹²But the eyes of the Lord preserve discretion; but the transgressor despises wise words. ¹³The sluggard makes excuses, and says, There is a lion in the ways, and murderers in the streets. ¹⁴The mouth of a transgressor is a deep pit; and he that is hated of the Lord shall fall into it. Evil ways are before a man, and he does not like to turn away from them; but it is needful to turn aside from a perverse and bad way. ¹⁵Folly is attached to the heart of a child, but the rod and instruction are then far from him. ¹⁶He that oppresses the poor, increases his own substance, yet gives to the rich so as to make it less. ¹⁷Incline thine ear to the words of wise men: hear also my word, and apply thine heart, ¹⁸that thou mayest know that they are good: and if thou lay them to heart, they shall also gladden thee on thy lips. ¹⁹That thy hope may be in the Lord, and he may make thy way known to thee. ²⁰And do thou too repeatedly record them for thyself on the table of thine heart, for counsel and knowledge. ²¹I therefore teach thee truth, and knowledge good to hear; that thou mayest answer words of truth to them that question thee. ²²Do no violence to the poor, for he is needy: neither dishonour the helpless man in the gates. ²³For the Lord will plead his cause, and thou shalt deliver thy soul in safety. ²⁴Be not companion to a furious man; neither lodge with a passionate man: ²⁵lest thou learn of his ways, and get snares to thy soul. ²⁶Become not surety from respect of a man's person. ²⁷For if those have not whence to give compensation, they will take the bed that is under thee. ²⁸Remove not the old landmarks, which thy fathers placed. ²⁹It is fit that an observant man and one diligent in his business should attend on kings, and not attend on slothful men.

¹If thou sit to sup at the table of a prince, consider attentively the things set before thee: ²and apply thine hand, knowing that it behoves thee to prepare such meats: but if thou art very insatiable, ³desire not his provisions; for these belong to a false life. ⁴If thou art poor, measure not thyself with a rich man; but refrain thyself in thy wisdom. ⁵If thou shouldst fix thine eye upon him, he will disappear; for wings like an eagle's are prepared for him, and he returns to the house of his master. ⁶Sup not with an envious man, neither desire thou his meats: ⁷so he eats and drinks as if any one should swallow a hair, and do not bring him in to thyself, nor eat thy morsel with him: ⁸for he will vomit it up, and spoil thy fair words. ⁹Say nothing in the ears of a fool, lest at any time he sneer at thy wise words. ¹⁰Remove not the ancient landmarks; and enter not upon the possession of the fatherless: ¹¹for the Lord is their redeemer; he is mighty, and will plead their cause with thee. ¹²Apply thine heart to instruction, and prepare thine ears for words of discretion. ¹³Refrain not from chastening a child; for if thou beat him with the rod, he shall not die. ¹⁴For thou shalt beat him with the rod, and shalt deliver his soul from death. ¹⁵Son, if thy heart be wise, thou shalt also gladden my heart; ¹⁶and thy lips shall converse with my lips, if they be right. ¹⁷Let not thine heart envy sinners: but be thou in the fear of the Lord all the day. ¹⁸For if thou shouldest keep these things, thou shalt have posterity; and thine hope shall not be removed. ¹⁹Hear, my son, and be wise, and rightly direct the thoughts of thine heart. ²⁰Be not a wine-bibber, neither continue long at feasts, and purchases of flesh: ²¹for every drunkard and whoremonger shall be poor; and every sluggard shall clothe himself with tatters and ragged garments. ²²Hearken, my son, to thy father which begot thee, and despise not thy mother because she is grown old. ²⁴A righteous father brings up his children well; and his soul rejoices over a wise son. ²⁵Let thy father and thy mother rejoice over thee, and let her that bore thee be glad. ²⁶*My son*, give me thine heart, and let thine eyes observe my ways. ²⁷For a strange house is a vessel full of holes; and a strange well is narrow. ²⁸For such a one shall perish suddenly; and every transgressor shall be cut off. ²⁹Who has woe? who trouble? who has quarrels? and who vexations and disputes? who has bruises without a cause? whose eyes are livid? ³⁰Are not those of them that stay long at wine? are not those of them that haunt the places where banquets are? Be not drunk with wine; but converse with just men, and converse with them openly. ³¹For if thou shouldest set thine eyes on bowls and cups, thou shalt afterwards go more naked than a pestle. ³²But at last such a one stretches himself out as one smitten by a serpent, and venom is diffused through him as by a horned serpent. ³³Whenever thine eyes shall behold a strange woman, then thy mouth shall speak perverse things. ³⁴And thou shalt lie as in the midst of the sea, and as a pilot in a great storm. ³⁵And thou shalt say, They smote me, and I was not pained; and they mocked me, and I knew it not: when will it be morning, that I may go and seek those with whom I may go in company?

¹*My son*, envy not bad men, nor desire to be with them. ²For their heart meditates falsehoods, and their lips speak mischiefs. ³A house is built by wisdom, and is set up by understanding. ⁴By discretion the chambers are filled with all precious and excellent wealth. ⁵A wise man is better than a strong man; and a man who has prudence than a large estate. ⁶War is carried on with generalship, and aid is supplied to the heart of a counsellor. ⁷Wisdom and good understanding are in the gates of the wise: the wise turn not aside from the mouth of the Lord, ⁸but deliberate in council. Death befalls uninstructed men. ⁹The fools also dies in sins; and uncleanness attaches to a pestilent man. ¹⁰He shall be defiled in the evil day, and in the day of affliction, until he be utterly consumed. ¹¹Deliver them that are led away to death, and redeem them that are appointed to be slain; spare not thy help. ¹²But if thou shouldest say, I know not this man; know that the Lord knows the hearts of all; and he that formed breath for all, he knows all things, who renders to every man according to his works. ¹³My son, eat honey, for the honeycomb is good, that thy throat may be sweetened. ¹⁴Thus shalt thou perceive wisdom in thy soul: for if thou find it, thine end shall be good, and hope shall not fail thee. ¹⁵Bring not an ungodly man into the dwelling of the righteous: neither be deceived by the feeding of the belly. ¹⁶For a righteous man will fall seven times, and rise again: but the ungodly shall be without strength in troubles. ¹⁷If thine enemy should fall, rejoice not over him, neither be elated at his overthrow. ¹⁸For the Lord will see it, and it will not please him, and he will turn away his wrath from him. ¹⁹Rejoice not in evil-doers, neither be envious of sinners. ²⁰For the evil man shall have no posterity: and the light of the wicked shall be put out. ²¹My son, fear God and the king; and do not disobey either of them. ²²For they will suddenly punish the ungodly, and who can know the vengeance inflicted by both? Chapter 29 ²⁷[A son that keeps the commandment shall escape destruction; for such an one has fully received it. Let no falsehood be spoken by the king from the tongue; yea, let no falsehood proceed from his tongue. The king's tongue is a sword, and not one of flesh; and whosoever shall be given up to it shall be destroyed: for if his wrath should be provoked, he destroys men with cords, and devours men's bones, and burns them up as a flame, so that they are not even fit to be eaten by the young eagles. My son, reverence my words, and receive them, and repent.] Chapter 30 ¹These things says the man to them that trust in God; and I cease. ²For I am the most simple of all men, and there is not in me the wisdom of men. ³God has taught me wisdom, and I know the knowledge of the holy. ⁴Who has gone up to heaven, and come down? who has gathered the winds in his bosom? who has wrapped up the waters in a garment? who has dominion of all the ends of the earth? what is his name? or what is the name of his children? ⁵For all the words of God are tried in the fire, and he defends those that reverence him. ⁶Add not unto his words, lest he reprove thee, and thou be made a liar. ⁷Two things I ask of thee; take not favour from me before I die. ⁸Remove far from me vanity and falsehood: and give me not wealth or poverty; but appoint me what is needful and sufficient: ⁹lest I be filled and become false, and say, Who sees me? or be poor and steal, and swear vainly by the name of God. ¹⁰Deliver not a servant into the hands of his master, lest he curse thee, and thou be utterly destroyed. ¹¹A wicked generation curse their father, and do not bless their mother. ¹²A wicked generation judge themselves to be just, but do not cleanse their way. ¹³A wicked generation have lofty eyes, and exalt themselves with their eyelids. ¹⁴A wicked generation have swords for teeth and jaw-teeth as knives, so as to destroy and devour the lowly from the earth, and the poor of them from among men. Chapter 24 ²³And this thing I say to you that are wise for you to learn: It is not good to have respect of persons in judgment. ²⁴He that says of the ungodly, He is righteous, shall be cursed by peoples, and hateful among the nations. ²⁵But they that reprove him shall appear more excellent, and blessing shall come upon them; ²⁶and men will kiss lips that answer well. ²⁷Prepare thy works for thy going forth, and prepare thyself for the field; and come after me, and thou shalt rebuild thine house. ²⁸Be not a false witness against thy fellow citizen, neither exaggerate with thy lips. ²⁹Say not, As he has treated me, so will I treat him, and I will avenge myself on him for that wherein he has injured me. ³⁰A foolish man is like a farm, and a senseless man is like a vineyard. ³¹If thou let him alone, he will altogether remain barren and covered with weeds; and he becomes destitute, and his stone walls are broken down. ³²Afterwards I reflected, I looked that I might receive instruction. ³³*The sluggard says*, I slumber a little, and I sleep a little, and for a little while I fold my arms across my breast. ³⁴But if thou do this, thy poverty will come speedily; and thy want like a swift courier. Chapter 30 ¹⁵The horse-leech had three dearly-beloved daughters: and these three did not satisfy her; and the fourth was not contented so as to say, Enough. ¹⁶The grave, and the love of a woman, and the earth not filled with water; water also and fire will not say, It is enough. ¹⁷The eye that laughs to scorn a father, and dishonours the old age of a mother, let the ravens of the valleys pick it out, and let the young eagles devour it. ¹⁸Moreover there are three things impossible for me to comprehend, and the fourth I know not: ¹⁹the track of a flying eagle; and the ways of a serpent on a rock; and the paths of a ship passing through the sea; and the ways of a man in youth. ²⁰Such is the way of an adulterous woman, who having washed herself from what she has done, says she has done nothing amiss. ²¹By three thing the earth is troubled, and the fourth it cannot bear: ²²if a servant reign; or a fool be filled with food; ²³or if a maid-servant should cast out her own mistress; and if a hateful woman should marry a good man. ²⁴And there are four very little things upon the earth, but these are wiser than the wise: ²⁵the ants which are weak, and yet prepare their food in summer; ²⁶the rabbits also are a feeble race, who make their houses in the rocks. ²⁷The locusts have no king, and yet march orderly at one command. ²⁸And the eft, which supports itself by its hands, and is easily taken, dwells in the fortresses of kings. ²⁹And there are three things which go well, and a fourth which passes along finely. ³⁰A lion's whelp, stronger than all other beasts, which turns not away, nor fears any beast; ³¹and a cock walking in boldly among the hens, and the goat leading the herd; and a king publicly speaking before a nation. ³²If thou abandon thyself to mirth, and stretch forth thine hand in a quarrel, thou shalt be disgraced. ³³Milk out milk, and there shall be butter, and if thou wing one's nostrils there shall come out blood: so if thou extort words, there will come forth quarrels and strifes. Chapter 31 ¹My words have been spoken by God—the oracular answer of a king, whom his mother instructed. ²What wilt thou keep, my son, what? the words of God. My firstborn son, I speak to thee: what? son of my womb? what? son of my vows? ³Give not thy wealth to women, nor thy mind and living to remorse. Do all things with counsel: drink wine with counsel. ⁴Princes are prone to anger: let them then not drink wine: ⁵lest they drink, and forget wisdom, and be not able to judge the poor rightly. ⁶Give strong drink to those that are in sorrow, and the wine to drink to those in pain: ⁷that they may forget their poverty, and may not remember their troubles any more. ⁸Open thy mouth with the word of God, and judge all fairly. ⁹Open thy mouth and judge justly, and plead the cause of the poor and weak.

¹These are the miscellaneous instructions of Solomon, which the friends of Ezekias king of Judea copied out. ²The glory of God conceals a matter: but the glory of a king honours business. ³Heaven is high, and earth is deep, and a king's heart is unsearchable. ⁴Beat the drossy silver, and it shall be made entirely pure. ⁵Slay the ungodly from before the king, and his throne shall prosper in righteousness. ⁶Be not boastful in the presence of the king, and remain not in the places of princes; ⁷for it is better for thee that it should be said, Come up to me, than that one should humble thee in the presence of the prince;

heart. ⁸Get not suddenly into a quarrel, lest thou repent at last. ⁹Whenever thy friend shall reproach thee, retreat backward, despise him not; ¹⁰lest thy friend continue to reproach thee, so thy quarrel and enmity shall not depart, but shall be to thee like death. Favour and friendship set a man free, which do thou keep for thyself, lest thou be made liable to reproach; but take heed to thy ways peaceably. ¹¹As a golden apple in a necklace of sardius, so is it to speak a wise word. ¹²In an ear-ring of gold a precious sardius is also set; so is a wise word to an obedient ear. ¹³As a fall of snow in the time of harvest is good against heat, so a faithful messenger refreshes those that send him; for he helps the souls of his employers. ¹⁴As winds and clouds and rains are most evident objects, so is he that boasts of a false gift. ¹⁵In long-suffering is prosperity to kings, and a soft tongue breaks the bones. ¹⁶Having found honey, eat only what is enough, lest haply thou be filled, and vomit it up. ¹⁷Enter sparingly into thy friend's house, lest he be satiated with thy company, and hate thee. ¹⁸As a club, and a dagger, and a pointed arrow, so also is a man who bears false witness against his friend. ¹⁹The way of the wicked and the foot of the transgressor shall perish in an evil day. ²⁰As vinegar is bad for a sore, so trouble befalling the body afflicts the heart. As a moth in a garment, and a worm in wood, so the grief of a man hurts the heart. ²¹If thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink; ²²for so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head, and the Lord shall reward thee with good. ²³The north wind raises clouds; so an impudent face provokes the tongue. ²⁴*It is* better to dwell on a corner of the roof, than with a railing woman in an open house. ²⁵As cold water is agreeable to a thirsting soul, so is a good message from a land far off. ²⁶As if one should stop a well, and corrupt a spring of water, so is it unseemly for a righteous man to fall before an ungodly man. ²⁷*It is* not good to eat much honey; but it is right to honour venerable sayings. ²⁸As a city whose walls are broken down, and which is unfortified, so is a man who does anything without counsel.

¹As dew in harvest, and as rain in summer, so honour is not seemly for a fool. ²As birds and sparrows fly, so a curse shall not come upon any one without a cause. ³As a whip for a horse, and a goad for an ass, so is a rod for a simple nation. ⁴Answer not a fool according to his folly, lest thou become like him. ⁵Yet answer a fool according to his folly, lest he seem wise in his own conceit. ⁶He that sends a message by a foolish messenger procures for himself a reproach from his own ways. ⁷*As well* take away the motion of the legs, as transgression from the mouth of fools. ⁸He that binds up a stone in a sling, is like one that gives glory to a fool. ⁹Thorns grow in the hand of a drunkard, and servitude in the hand of fools. ¹⁰All the flesh of fools endures much hardship; for their fury is brought to nought. ¹¹As when a dog goes to his own vomit, and becomes abominable, so is fool who returns in his wickedness to his own sin. [There is a shame that brings sin: and there is a shame that is glory and grace.] ¹²I have seen a man who seemed to himself to be wise; but a fool had more hope than he. ¹³A sluggard when sent on a journey says, There is a lion in the ways, and there are murderers in the streets. ¹⁴As a door turns on the hinge, so does a sluggard on his bed. ¹⁵A sluggard having hid his hand in his bosom, will not be able to bring it up to his mouth. ¹⁶A sluggard seems to himself wiser than one who most satisfactorily brings back a message. ¹⁷As he that lays hold of a dog's tail, so is he that makes himself the champion of another's cause. ¹⁸As those who need correction put forth fair words to men, and he that first falls in with the proposal will be overthrown; ¹⁹so are all that lay wait for their own friends, and when they are discovered, say, I did it in jest. ²⁰With much wood fire increases; but where there is not a double-minded man, strife ceases. ²¹A hearth for coals, and wood for fire; and railing man for the tumult of strife. ²²The words of cunning knaves are soft; but they smite even to the inmost parts of the bowels. ²³Silver dishonestly given is to be considered as a potsherd: smooth lips cover a grievous heart. ²⁴A weeping enemy promises all things with his lips, but in his heart he contrives deceit. ²⁵Though thine enemy intreat thee with a loud voice, consent not: for there are seven abominations in his heart. ²⁶He that hides enmity frames deceit: but being easily discerned, exposes his own sins in the public assemblies. ²⁷He that digs a pit for his neighbour shall fall into it: and he that rolls a stone, rolls it upon himself. ²⁸A lying tongue hates the truth; and an unguarded mouth causes tumults.

¹Boast not of to-morrow; for thou knowest not what the next day shall bring forth. ²Let thy neighbour, and not thine own mouth, praise thee; a stranger, and not thine own lips. ³A stone is heavy, and sand cumbersome; but a fool's wrath is heavier than both. ⁴Wrath is merciless, and anger sharp: but envy can bear nothing. ⁵Open reproofs are better than secret love. ⁶The wounds of a friend are more to be trusted than the spontaneous kisses of an enemy. ⁷A full soul scorns honeycombs; but to a hungry soul even bitter things appear sweet. ⁸As when a bird flies down from its own nest, so a man is brought into bondage whenever he estranges himself from his own place. ⁹The heart delights in ointments and wines and perfumes: but the soul is broken by calamities. ¹⁰Thine own friend, and thy father's friend, forsake not; and when thou art in distress go not into thy brother's house: better is a friend that is near than a brother living far off. ¹¹Son, be wise, that thy heart may rejoice; and remove thou from thyself reproachful words. ¹²A wise man, when evils are approaching, hides himself; but fools pass on, and will be punished. ¹³Take away the man's garment, (for a scorner has passed by) whoever lays waste another's goods. ¹⁴Whosoever shall bless a friend in the morning with a loud voice, shall seem to differ nothing from one who curses him. ¹⁵On a stormy day drops of rain drive a man out of his house; so also does a railing woman drive a man out of his own house. ¹⁶The north wind is sharp, but it is called by name propitious. ¹⁷Iron sharpens iron; and a man sharpens his friend's countenance. ¹⁸He that plants a fig-tree shall eat the fruits of it: so he that waits on his own master shall be honoured. ¹⁹As faces are not like other faces, so neither are the thoughts of men. ²⁰Hell and destruction are not filled; so also are the eyes of men insatiable. [He that fixes his eye is an abomination to the Lord; and the uninstructed do not restrain their tongue.] ²¹Fire is the trial for silver and gold; and a man is tried by the mouth of them that praise him. The heart of the transgressor seeks after mischiefs; but an upright heart seeks knowledge. ²²Though thou scourge a fool, disgracing him in the midst of the council, thou wilt still in no wise remove his folly from him. ²³Do thou thoroughly know the number of thy flock, and pay attention to thine herds. ²⁴For a man has not strength and power for ever; neither does he transmit it from generation to generation. ²⁵Take care of the herbage in the field, and thou shalt cut grass, and gather the mountain hay; ²⁶that thou mayest have wool of sheep for clothing: pay attention to the land, that thou mayest have lambs. ²⁷My son, thou hast from me words very useful for thy life, and for the life of thy servants.

Chapter 28

¹The ungodly man flees when no one pursues: but the righteous is confident as a lion. ²By reason of the sins of ungodly men quarrels arise; but a wise man will quell them. ³A bold man oppresses the poor by ungodly deeds. As an impetuous and profitable rain, ⁴so they that forsake the law praise ungodliness; but they that love the law fortify themselves with a wall. ⁵Evil men will not understand judgement: but they that seek the Lord will understand everything. ⁶A poor man walking in truth is better than a rich liar. ⁷A wise son keeps the law: but he that keeps up debauchery dishonours his father. ⁸He that increases his wealth by usuries and unjust gains, gathers it for him that pities the poor. ⁹He that turns away his ear from hearing the law, even he has made his prayer abominable. ¹⁰He that causes upright men to err in an evil way, himself shall fall into destruction:

Proverbs

transgressor also shall pass by prosperity, but shall not enter into it.

¹¹A rich man is wise in his own conceit; but an intelligent poor man will condemn him. ¹²By reason of the help of righteous men great glory arises: but in the places of the ungodly men are caught. ¹³He that covers his own ungodliness shall not prosper: but he that blames himself shall be loved.

¹⁴Blessed is the man who religiously fears always: but the hard of heart shall fall into mischiefs. ¹⁵A hungry lion and a thirsty wolf is he, who, being poor, rules over a poor nation.

¹⁶A king in need of revenues is a great oppressor: but he that hates injustice shall live a long time. ¹⁷He that becomes surety for a man charged with murder shall be an exile, and not in safety. Chasten thy son, and he shall love thee, and give honour to thy soul: he shall not obey a sinful nation. ¹⁸He that walks justly is assisted: but he that walks in crooked ways shall be entangled therein. ¹⁹He that tills his own land shall be satisfied with bread: but he that follows idleness shall have plenty of poverty. ²⁰A man worthy of credit shall be much blessed: but the wicked shall not be unpunished. ²¹He that reverences not the persons of the just is not good: such a one will sell a man for a morsel of bread. ²²An envious man makes haste to be rich, and knows not that the merciful man will have the mastery over him. ²³He that reproves a man's ways shall have more favour than he that flatters with the tongue. ²⁴He that casts off father or mother, and thinks he sins not; the same is partaker with an ungodly man.

²⁵An unbelieving man judges rashly: but he that trusts in the Lord will act carefully. ²⁶He that trusts to a bold heart, such an one is a fool: but he that walks in wisdom shall be safe. ²⁷He that gives to the poor shall not be in want: but he that turns away his eye from him shall be in great distress. ²⁸In the places of ungodly men the righteous mourn: but in their destruction the righteous shall be multiplied.

Chapter 29

¹A reprover is better than a stiff-necked man: for when the latter is suddenly set on fire, there shall be no remedy. ²When the righteous are praised, the people will rejoice: but when the ungodly rule, men mourn. ³When a man loves wisdom, his father rejoices: but he that keeps harlots will waste wealth. ⁴A righteous king establishes a country: but a transgressor destroys it. ⁵He that prepares a net in the way of his own friend, entangles his own feet in it. ⁶A great snare is spread for a sinner: but the righteous shall be in joy and gladness. ⁷A righteous man knows how to judge for the poor: but the ungodly understands not knowledge; and the poor man has not an understanding mind. ⁸Lawless men burn down a city: but wise men turn away wrath. ⁹A wise man shall judge nations: but a worthless man being angry laughs and fears not. ¹⁰Bloody men hate a holy person, but the upright will seek his soul. ¹¹A fool utters all is mind: but the wise reserves his in part. ¹²When a king hearkens to unjust language, all his subjects are transgressors. ¹³When the creditor and debtor meet together, the Lord oversees them both. ¹⁴When a king judges the poor in truth, his throne shall be established for a testimony. ¹⁵Stripes and reproofs give wisdom: but an erring child disgraces his parents. ¹⁶When the ungodly abound, sins abound: but when they fall, the righteous are warned. ¹⁷Chasten thy son, and he shall give thee rest; and he shall give honour to thy soul. ¹⁸There shall be no interpreter to a sinful nation: but he that observes the law is blessed. ¹⁹A stubborn servant will not be reprov'd by words: for even if he understands, still he will not obey. ²⁰If thou see a man hasty in his words, know that the fool has hope rather than he. ²¹He that lives wantonly from a child, shall be a servant, and in the end shall grieve over himself. ²²A furious man stirs up strife, and a passionate man digs up sin. ²³Pride brings a man low, but the Lord upholds the humble-minded with honour. ²⁴He that shares with a thief, hates his own soul: and if any having heard an oath uttered tell not of it, ²⁵*they* fearing and reverencing men unreasonably have been overthrown, but he that trusts in the Lord shall rejoice. Ungodliness causes a man to stumble: but he that trusts in his master shall be safe. ²⁶Many wait on the favour of rulers; but justice comes to a man from the Lord. ²⁷A righteous man is an abomination to an unrighteous man, and the direct way is an abomination to the sinner. ¹⁰Who shall find a virtuous woman? for such a one is more valuable than precious stones. ¹¹The heart of her husband trusts in her: such a one shall stand in no need of fine spoils. ¹²For she employs all her living for her husband's good. ¹³Gathering wool and flax, she makes it serviceable with her hands. ¹⁴She is like a ship trading from a distance: so she procures her livelihood. ¹⁵And she rises by night, and gives food to her household, and appointed tasks to her maidens. ¹⁶She views a farm, and buys it: and with the fruit of her hands she plants and a possession. ¹⁷She strongly girds her loins, and strengthens her arms for work. ¹⁸And she finds by experience that working is good; and her candle goes not out all night. ¹⁹She reaches forth her arms to needful works, and applies her hands to the spindle. ²⁰And she opens her hands to the needy, and reaches out fruit to the poor. ²¹Her husband is not anxious about those at home when he tarries anywhere abroad: for all her household are clothed. ²²She makes for her husband clothes of double texture, and garments for herself of fine linen and scarlet. ²³And her husband becomes a distinguished person in the gates, when he sits in council with the old inhabitants of the land. ²⁴She makes fine linens, and sells girdles to the Chananites: she opens her mouth heedfully and with propriety, and controls her tongue. ²⁵She puts on strength and honour; and rejoices in the last days. ²⁶But she opens her mouth wisely, and according to law. ²⁷The ways of her household are careful, and she eats not the bread of idleness. ²⁸And her kindness to them sets up her children for them, and they grow rich, and her husband praises her. ²⁹Many daughters have obtained wealth, many have wrought valiantly; but thou hast exceeded, thou hast surpassed all. ³⁰Charms are false, and woman's beauty is vain: for it is a wise woman that is blessed, and let her praise the fear the Lord. ³¹Give her of the fruit of her lips; and let her husband be praised in the gates.

The Preacher

(Also known as Chapter 31 Ecclesiastes)

Chapter 1

¹THE words of the Preacher, the son of David, king of Israel in Jerusalem. ²Vanity of vanities, said the Preacher, vanity of vanities; all is vanity. ³What advantage is there to a man in all his labour that he takes under the sun? ⁴A generation goes, and a generation comes: but the earth stands for ever. ⁵And the sun arises, and the sun goes down and draws toward its place; ⁶arising there it proceeds southward, and goes round toward the north. The wind goes round and round, and the wind returns to its circuits. ⁷All the rivers run into the sea; and yet the sea is not filled: to the place whence the rivers come, thither they return again. ⁸All things are full of labour; a man will not be able to speak of them: neither shall the eye be satisfied with seeing, neither shall the ear be filled with hearing. ⁹What is that which has been? the very thing which shall be: and what is that which has been done? the very thing which shall be done: and there is no new thing under the sun. ¹⁰*Who is he* that shall speak and say, Behold, this is new? it has already been in the ages that have passed before us. ¹¹There is no memorial to the first things; neither to the things that have been last shall their memorial be with them that shall at the last time.

¹²I the Preacher was king over Israel in Jerusalem. ¹³And I applied my heart to seek out and examine by wisdom concerning all things that are done under heaven, for God has given to the sons of men an evil trouble to be troubled therewith. ¹⁴I beheld all the works that were wrought under the sun; and, beheld, all were vanity and waywardness of spirit. ¹⁵That which is crooked cannot be made straight: and deficiency cannot be numbered. ¹⁶I spoke in my heart, saying, Behold, I am increased, and have acquired wisdom beyond all who were before me in Jerusalem: also I applied my heart to know wisdom and knowledge. ¹⁷And my heart knew much—wisdom, and knowledge, parables and understanding: I perceived that this also is waywardness of spirit. ¹⁸For in the abundance of wisdom is abundance of knowledge; and he that increases knowledge will increase sorrow.

¹I said in my heart, Come now, I will prove thee with mirth, and behold thou good: and, behold, this is also vanity. ²I said to laughter, Madness: and to mirth, Why doest thou this: ³And I examined whether my heart would excite my flesh as with wine, (though my heart guided me in wisdom,) and I desired to lay hold of mirth, until I should see of what kind is the good to the sons of men, which they should do under the sun all the days of their life. ⁴I enlarged my work; I built me houses; I planted me vineyards. ⁵I made me gardens and orchards, and planted in them every kind of fruit-tree. ⁶I made me pools of water, to water from them the timber-bearing wood. ⁷I got servants and maidens, and servants were born to me in the house: also I had abundant possession of flocks and herds, beyond all who were before me in Jerusalem. ⁸Moreover I collected for myself both silver and gold also, and the peculiar treasures of kings and provinces: I procured me singing men and singing women, and delights of the sons of men, a butler and female cupbearers. ⁹So I became great, and advanced beyond all that were before in Jerusalem: also my wisdom was established to me. ¹⁰And whatever mine eyes desired, I withheld not from them, I withheld not my heart from all my mirth: for my heart rejoiced in all my labour; and this was my portion of all my labour. ¹¹And I looked on all my works which my hands had wrought, and on my labour which I laboured to perform: and behold, all was vanity and waywardness of spirit, and there is no advantage under the sun.

¹²Then I looked on to see wisdom, and madness, and folly: for who is the man who will follow after counsel, in all things where in he employs it? ¹³And I saw that wisdom excels folly, as much as light excels darkness. ¹⁴The wise man's eyes are in his head; but the fool walks in darkness: and I perceived, even I, that one event shall happen to them all. ¹⁵And I said in my heart, As the event of the fool is, so shall it be to me, even to me: and to what purpose have I gained wisdom? I said moreover in my heart, This is also vanity, because the fool speaks of his abundance. ¹⁶For there is no remembrance of the wise man with the fool for ever; forasmuch as now in the coming days all things are forgotten: and how shall the wise man die with the fool? ¹⁷So I hated life; because the work that was wrought under the sun was evil before me: for all is vanity and waywardness of spirit. ¹⁸And I hated the whole of my labour which I took under the sun; because I must leave it to the man who will come after me. ¹⁹And who knows whether he will be a wise man or a fool? and whether he will have power over all my labour in which I laboured, and wherein I grew wise under the sun? this is also vanity. ²⁰so I went about to dismiss from my heart all my labour wherein I had laboured under the sun. ²¹For there is such a man that his labour is in wisdom, and in knowledge, and in fortitude; yet this man shall give his portion to one who has not laboured therein. This is also vanity and great evil. ²²For it happens to a man in all his labour, and in the purpose of his heart wherein he labours under the sun. ²³For all his days are days of sorrows, and vexation of spirit is his; in the night also his heart rests not. This is also vanity. ²⁴A man has nothing really good to eat, and to drink, and to shew his soul as good in his trouble. This also I saw, that it is from the hand of God. ²⁵For who shall eat, or who shall drink, without him? ²⁶For God has given to the man who is good in his sight, wisdom, and knowledge, and joy: but he has given to the sinner trouble, to add and to heap up, that he may give to him that is good before God; for this is also vanity and waywardness of spirit.

¹To all things there is a time, and a season for every matter under heaven. ²A time of birth, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up what has been planted; ³a time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to pull down, and a time to build up; ⁴a time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to lament, and a time to dance; ⁵a time to throw stones, and a time to gather stones together; a time to embrace, and a time to abstain from embracing; ⁶a time to seek, and a time to lose; a time to keep, and a time to cast away; ⁷a time to rend, and a time to sew; a time to be silent, and a time to speak; ⁸a time to love, and a time to hate; a time of war, and a time of peace.

⁹What advantage has he that works in those things wherein he labours? ¹⁰I have seen all the trouble, which God has given to the sons of men to be troubled with. ¹¹All the things which he has made are beautiful in his time:

he has also set the whole world in their heart, that man might not find out the work which God has wrought from the beginning even to the end. ¹²I know that there is no good in them, except for a man to rejoice, and to do good in his life. ¹³Also in the case of every man who shall eat and drink, and see good in all his labour, this is a gift of God. ¹⁴I know that whatsoever things God has done, they shall be for ever: it is impossible to add to it, and it is impossible to take away from it: and God has done it, that men may fear before him. ¹⁵That which has been is now; and whatever things are appointed to be have already been; and God will seek out that which is past. ¹⁶And moreover I saw under the sun the place of judgement, there was the ungodly one; and the place of righteousness, there was the godly one. ¹⁷And I said in my heart, God will judge the righteous and the ungodly: for there is a time there for every action and for every work. ¹⁸I said in my heart, concerning the speech of the sons of man, God will judge them, and that to shew that they are breasts. ¹⁹Also to them is the event of the sons of man, and the event of the brute; one event befalls them: as is the death of the one, so also the death of the other; and there is one breath to all: and what has the man more than the brute? nothing; for all is vanity. ²⁰All go to one place; all were formed of the dust, and all will return to dust. ²¹And who has seen the spirit of the sons of man, whether it goes upward? and the spirit of the beast, whether it goes downward to the earth?²² And I saw that there was no good, but that wherein a man shall rejoice in his works, for it is his portion, for who shall bring him to see any thing of that which shall be after him?

The Preacher

Chapter 4

¹So I returned, and saw all the oppressions that were done under the sun: and behold the tear of the oppressed, and they had no comforter; and on the side of them that oppressed them was power; but they had no comforter: ²and I praised all the dead that had already died more than the living, as many as are alive until now. ³Better also than both these is he who has not yet been, who has not seen all the evil work that is done under the sun. ⁴And I saw all labour, and all the diligent work, that this is a man's envy from his neighbour. This is also vanity and waywardness of spirit. ⁵The fool folds his hands together, and eats his own flesh. ⁶Better is a handful of rest than two handfuls of trouble and waywardness of spirit.

⁷So I returned, and saw vanity under the sun. ⁸There is one alone, and there is not a second; yea, he has neither son nor brother: yet there is no end to all his labour; neither is his eye satisfied with wealth; and for whom do I labour, and deprive my soul of good? this is also vanity, and an evil trouble. ⁹Two are better than one, seeing they have a good reward for their labour.

¹⁰For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but woe to him that is alone when he falls, and there is not a second to lift him up. ¹¹Also if two should lie together, they also get heat: but how shall one be warmed alone? ¹²And if one should prevail against him, the two shall withstand him; and a threefold cord shall not be quickly broken.

¹³Better is a poor and wise child than an old and foolish king, who knows not how to take heed any longer. ¹⁴For he shall come forth out of the house of the prisoners to reign, because he also that was in his kingdom has become poor. ¹⁵I beheld all the living who were walking under the sun, with the second youth who shall stand up in each one's place. ¹⁶There is no end to all the people, to all who were before them: and the last shall not rejoice in him: for this also is vanity and waywardness of spirit.

¹⁷Keep thy foot, whensoever thou goest to the house of God; and when thou art near to hear, let thy sacrifice be better than the gift of fools: for they know not that they are doing evil.

Chapter 5

¹Be not hasty with thy mouth, and let not thine heart be swift to utter anything before God; for God is in heaven above, and thou upon earth: therefore let thy words be few. ²For through the multitude of trial a dream comes; and a fool's voice is with a multitude of words. ³Whenever thou shalt vow a vow to God, defer not to pay it; for he has no pleasure in fools:

The Preacher

pay thou therefore whatsoever thou shalt have vowed. ⁴*It is* better that thou shouldest not vow, than that thou shouldest vow and not pay. ⁵Suffer not thy mouth to lead thy flesh to sin; and say not in the presence of God, It was an error: lest God be angry at thy voice, and destroy the works of thy hands. ⁶For there is evil in a multitude of dreams and vanities and many words: but fear thou God.

⁷If thou shouldest see the oppression of the poor, and the wresting of judgment and of justice in the land, wonder not at the matter: for there is a high one to watch over him that is high, and high ones over them. ⁸Also the abundance of the earth is for every one: the king is dependent on the tilled field. ⁹He that loves silver shall not be satisfied with silver: and who has loved gain, in the abundance thereof? this is also vanity. ¹⁰In the multitude of good they are increased that eat it: and what virtue has the owner, but the right of beholding it with his eyes?

¹¹The sleep of a servant is sweet, whether he eat little or much: but to one who is satiated with wealth, there is none that suffers him to sleep.

¹²There is an infirmity which I have seen under the sun, namely, wealth kept for its owner to his hurt. ¹³And that wealth shall perish in an evil trouble: and the man begets a son, and there is nothing in his hand. ¹⁴As he came forth naked from his mother's womb, he shall return back as he came, and he shall receive nothing for his labour, that it should go with him in his hand. ¹⁵And this is also an evil infirmity: for as he came, so also shall he return: and what is his gain, for which he vainly labours? ¹⁶Yea, all his days are in darkness, and in mourning, and much sorrow, and infirmity, and wrath. ¹⁷Behold, I have seen good, that it is a fine thing for a man to eat and to drink, and to see good in all his labour in which he may labour under the sun, all the number of the days of his life which God has given to him: for it is his portion. ¹⁸Yea, and as for every man to whom God has given wealth and possessions, and has given him power to eat thereof, and to receive his portion, and to rejoice in his labour; this is the gift of God. ¹⁹For he shall not much remember the days of his life; for God troubles him in the mirth of his heart.

Chapter 6

¹There is an evil which I have seen under the sun, and it is abundant with man: ²a man to whom God shall give wealth, and substance, and honour, and he wants nothing for his soul of all things that he shall desire, yet God shall not give him power to eat of it, for a stranger shall devour it: this is vanity, and an evil infirmity. ³If a man beget a hundred children, and live many years, yea, however abundant the days of his years shall be, yet if his soul shall not be satisfied with good, and also he have no burial; I said, An untimely birth is better than he. ⁴For he came in vanity, and departs in darkness, and his name shall be covered in darkness.⁵ Moreover he has not seen the sun, nor known rest: there is no more rest to this one than another.⁶ Though he has lived to the return of a thousand years, yet he has seen no good: do not all go to one place? ⁷All the labour of a man is for his mouth, and yet the appetite shall not be satisfied.⁸ For what advantage has the wise man over the fool, since even the poor knows how to walk in the direction of life? ⁹The sight of the eyes is better than that which wanders in soul: this is also vanity, and waywardness of spirit.¹⁰ If anything has been, its name has already been called: and it is known what man is; neither can he contend with him who is stronger than he.¹¹ For there are many things which increase vanity.

¹What advantage has a man? for who knows what is good for a man in his life, during the number of the life of the days of his vanity? and he has spent them as a shadow; for who shall tell a man what shall be after him under the sun? ²A good name is better than good oil; and the day of death than the day of birth.³ It is better to go to the house of mourning, than to go to the banquet house: since this is the end of every man; and the living man will apply good warning to his heart.⁴ Sorrow is better than laughter: for by the sadness of the countenance the heart will be made better.⁵ The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning;

but the heart of fools is in the house of mirth.⁶ It is better to hear a reproof of a wise man, than for a man to hear the song of fools.⁷ As the sound of thorns under a caldron, so is the laughter of fools: this is also vanity.⁸ For oppression makes a wise man mad, and destroys his noble heart.⁹ The end of a matter is better than the beginning thereof: the patient is better than the high-minded.¹⁰ Be not hasty in thy spirit to be angry: for anger will rest in the bosom of fools.¹¹ Say not, What has happened, that the former days were better than these? for thou dost not enquire in wisdom concerning this.¹² Wisdom is good with an inheritance: and there is an advantage by it to them that see the sun.¹³ For wisdom in its shadow is as the shadow of silver: and the excellence of the knowledge of wisdom will give life to him that has it.¹⁴ Behold the works of God: for who shall be able to straighten him whom God has made crooked? ¹⁵In the day of prosperity live joyfully, and consider in the day of adversity: consider, I say, God also has caused the one to agree with the other for this reason, that man should find nothing after him.¹⁶ I have seen all things in the days of my vanity: there is a just man perishing in his justice, and there is an ungodly man remaining in his wickedness.¹⁷ Be not very just; neither be very wise: lest thou be confounded.¹⁸ Be not very wicked; and be not stubborn: lest thou shouldest die before thy time.¹⁹ It is well for thee to hold fast by this; also by this defile not thine hand: for to them that fear God all things shall come forth well. ²⁰Wisdom will help the wise man more than ten mighty men which are in the city. ²¹For there is not a righteous man in the earth, who will do good, and not sin ²²Also take no heed to all the words which ungodly men shall speak; lest thou hear thy servant cursing thee. ²³For many times he shall trespass against thee, and repeatedly shall he afflict thine heart; for thus also hast thou cursed others. ²⁴All these things have I proved in wisdom: I said, I will be wise; but it was far from me. ²⁵*That which is* far beyond what was, and a great depth, who shall find it out? ²⁶I and my heart went round about to know, and to examine, and to seek wisdom, and the account of things, and to know the folly and trouble and madness of the ungodly man. ²⁷And I find her to be, and I will pronounce to be more bitter than death the woman which is a snare, and her heart nets, who has a band in her hands: he that is good in the sight of God shall be delivered from her; but the sinner shall be caught by her. ²⁸Behold, this have I found, said the Preacher, seeking by one at a time to find out the account, ²⁹which my soul sought after, but I found not: for I have found one man of a thousand; but a woman in all these I have not found. ³⁰But, behold, this have I found, that God made man upright; but they have sought out many devices.

Who knows the wise? and who knows the interpretation of a saying?

Chapter 8

¹A man's wisdom will lighten his countenance; but a man of shameless countenance will be hated. ²Observe the commandment of the king, and that because of the word of the oath of God. ³Be not hasty; thou shalt go forth out of his presence: stand not in an evil matter; for he will do whatsoever he shall please, ⁴even as a king having power: and who will say to him, What doest thou? ⁵He that keeps the commandment shall not know an evil thing: and the heart of the wise knows the time of judgement. ⁶For to every thing there is time and judgement; for the knowledge of a man is great to him. ⁷For there is no one that knows what is going to be: for who shall tell him how it shall be? ⁸There is no man that has power over the spirit to retain the spirit; and there is no power in the day of death: and there is no discharge in the day of the battle; neither shall ungodliness save her votary. ⁹So I saw all this, and I applied my heart to every work that has been done under the sun; all the things wherein man has power over man to afflict him. ¹⁰And then I saw the ungodly carried into the tombs, and that out of the holy place: and they departed, and were praised in the city, because they had done thus: this also is vanity. ¹¹Because there is no contradiction made on the part of those who do evil quickly, therefore the heart of the children of men is fully determined in them to do evil. ¹²He that has sinned has done evil from that time, and long from beforehand: nevertheless I know, that it is well with them that fear God, that they may fear before him: ¹³but it shall not be well with the ungodly, and he shall not prolong his days, which are as a shadow; forasmuch as he fears not before God. ¹⁴There is a vanity which is done upon the earth; that there are righteous persons to whom it happens according to the doing of the ungodly; and there are ungodly men, to whom it happens according to the doing of the just: I said, This is also vanity. ¹⁵Then I praised mirth, because there is no good for a man under the sun, but to eat, and drink, and be merry: and this shall attend him in his labour all the days of his life, which God has given him under the sun.

The Preacher

¹⁶Whereupon I set my heart to know wisdom, and to perceive the trouble that was wrought upon the earth: for there is that neither by day nor night sees sleep with his eyes. ¹⁷And I beheld all the works of God, that a man shall not be able to discover the work which is wrought under the sun; whatsoever things a man shall endeavour to seek, however a man may labour to seek it, yet he shall not find it; yea, how much soever a wise man may speak of knowing it, he shall not be able to find it: for I applied all this to my heart, and my heart has seen all this.

¹*I saw* that the righteous, and the wise, and their works, are in the hand of God: yea, there is no man that knows either love or hatred, though all are before their face. ²Vanity is in all: there is one event to the righteous, and to the wicked; to the good, and to the bad; both to the pure, and to the impure; both to him that sacrifices, and to him that sacrifice not: as is the good, so is the sinner: as is the swearer, even so is he that fears an oath. ³There is this evil in all that is done under the sun, that there is one event to all: yea, the heart of the sons of men is filled with evil, and madness is in their heart during their life, and after that they go to the dead. ⁴for who is he that has fellowship with all the living? there is hope of him: for a living dog is better than a dead lion. ⁵For the living will know that they shall die: but the dead know nothing, and there is no longer any reward to them; for their memory is lost. ⁶also their love, and their hatred, and their envy, have now perished; yea, there is no portion for them any more for ever in all that is done under the sun. ⁷Go, eat thy bread with mirth, and drink thy wine with a joyful heart; for now God has favourably accepted thy works. ⁸Let thy garments be always white; and let not oil be wanting on thine head. ⁹And see life with the wife whom thou lovest all the days of the life of thy vanity, which are given thee under the sun: for that is thy portion in thy life, and in thy labour wherein thou labourest under the sun. ¹⁰Whatsoever thine hand shall find to do, do with all thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in Hades wither thou goest.

¹¹I returned, and saw under the sun, that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, nor yet bread to the wise, nor yet wealth to men of understanding, nor yet favour to men of knowledge; for time and chance will happen to them all. ¹²For surely man also knows not his time: as fishes that are taken in an evil net, and as birds that are caught in a snare; even thus the sons of men are snared at an evil time, when it falls suddenly upon them. ¹³This I also saw to be wisdom under the sun, and it is great before me: ¹⁴*suppose there were* a little city, and few men in it; and there should come against it a great king, and surround it, and build great mounds against it; ¹⁵and should find in it a poor wise man, and he should save the city through his wisdom: yet no man would remember that poor man. ¹⁶And I said Wisdom is better than power: yet the wisdom of the poor man is set at nought, and his words not listened to. ¹⁷The words of the wise are heard in quiet more than the cry of them that rule in folly. ¹⁸Wisdom is better than weapons of war: and one sinner will destroy much good.

¹Pestilent flies will corrupt a preparation of sweet ointment: and a little wisdom is more precious than great glory of folly. ²A wise man's heart is at his right hand; but a fool's heart at his left. ³Yea, and whenever a fool walks by the way, his heart will fail him, and all that he thinks of is folly.

⁴If the spirit of the ruler rise up against thee, leave not thy place; for soothing will put an end to great offences. ⁵There is an evil which I have seen under the sun, wherein an error has proceeded from the ruler. ⁶The fool has been set in very high places, while rich men would sit in a low one. ⁷I have seen servants upon horses, and princes walking as servants on the earth.

⁸He that digs a pit shall fall into it; and him that breaks down a hedge a serpent shall bite. ⁹He that removes stones shall be troubled thereby; he that cleaves wood shall be endangered thereby. ¹⁰If the axe-head should fall off, then the man troubles his countenance, and he must put forth more strength: and in that case skill is of no advantage to a man. ¹¹If a serpent bite when there is no charmer's whisper, then there is no advantage to the charmer. ¹²The words of a wise mouth are gracious: but the lips of a fool will swallow him up. ¹³The beginning of the words of his mouth is folly: and the end of his talk mischievous madness. ¹⁴A fool moreover multiplies words: man knows not what has been, nor what will be: who shall tell him what will come after him? ¹⁵The labour of fools will afflict them, as that of one who knows not to go to the city. ¹⁶Woe to thee, O city, whose king is young, and thy princes eat in the morning! ¹⁷Blessed art thou, O land, whose king is a son of nobles, and whose princes shall eat seasonably, for strength, and shall not be ashamed. ¹⁸By slothful neglect a building will be brought low: and by idleness of the hands the house will fall to pieces. ¹⁹Men prepare bread for laughter, and wine and oil that the living should rejoice: but to money all things will humbly yield obedience. ²⁰Even in thy conscience, curse not the king; and curse not the rich in thy bedchamber: for a bird of the air shall carry thy voice, and that which has wings shall report thy speech.

Chapter 11

¹Send forth thy bread upon the face of the water: for thou shalt find it after many days. ²Give a portion to seven, and also to eight; for thou knowest not what evil there shall be upon the earth. ³If the clouds be filled with rain, they pour it out upon the earth: and if a tree fall southward, or if it fall northward, in the place where the tree shall fall, there it shall be. ⁴He that observes the wind sows not; and he that looks at the clouds will not reap. ⁵Among whom none knows what is the way of the wind: as the bones are hid in the womb of a pregnant woman, so thou shalt not know the works of God, even all things whatsoever he shall do. ⁶In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening let not thine hand be slack: for thou knowest not what sort shall prosper, whether this or that, or whether both shall be good alike.

⁷Moreover the light is sweet, and it is good for the eyes to see the sun. ⁸For even if a man should live many years, and rejoice in them all; yet let him remember the days of darkness; for they shall be many. All that comes is vanity. ⁹Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth; and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth, and walk in the ways of thy heart blameless, but not in the sight of thine eyes: yet know that for all these things God will bring thee into judgement. ¹⁰Therefore remove sorrow from thy heart, and put away evil from thy flesh: for youth and folly are vanity.

Chapter 12

¹And remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth, before the days of evil come, and the years overtake thee in which thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them. ²While the sun and light are not darkened, nor the moon and the stars; nor the clouds return after the rain: ³in the day wherein the keepers of the house shall tremble, and the mighty men shall become bent, and the grinding women cease because they have become few, and the women looking out at the windows be dark; ⁴and they shall shut the doors in the market-place, because of the weakness of the voice of her that grinds at the mill; and he shall rise up at the voice of the sparrow, and all the daughters of

song shall be brought low; ⁵and they shall look up, and fears shall be in the way, and the almond tree shall blossom, and the locust shall increase, and the caper shall be scattered: because man has gone to his eternal home, and the mourners have gone about the market: ⁶before the silver cord be let go, or the choice gold be broken, or the pitcher be broken at the fountain, or the wheel run down to the cistern; ⁷*before* the dust also return to the earth as it was, and the spirit return to God who gave it. ⁸Vanity of vanities, said the Preacher; all is vanity. ⁹And because the Preacher was wise above others, so it was that he taught man excellent knowledge, and the ear will trace out the parables. ¹⁰The Preacher sought diligently to find out acceptable words, and a correct writing, even words of truth. ¹¹The words of the wise are as goads, and as nails firmly fastened, which have been given from one shepherd by agreement. ¹²And moreover, my son, guard thyself by means of them: of making many books there is no end; and much study is a weariness of the flesh. ¹³Hear the end of the matter, the sun: Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole man. ¹⁴For God will bring every work into judgment, with everything that has been overlooked, whether it be good, or whether it be evil.

The Song

Chapter 1

¹THE song of songs, which is Solomon's. ²Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth: for thy breasts are better than wine. ³And the smell of thine ointments is better than all spices: thy name is ointment poured forth; therefore do the young maidens love thee. ⁴They have drawn thee: we will run after thee, for the smell of thine ointments: the king has brought me into closet: let us rejoice and be glad in thee; we will love thy breasts more than wine: righteousness loves thee. ⁵I am black, but beautiful, ye daughters of Jerusalem, as the tents of Kedar, as the curtains of Solomon. ⁶Look not upon me, because I am dark, because the sun has looked unfavourably upon me: my mother's sons strove with me; they made me keeper in the vineyards; I have not kept my own vineyard. ⁷Tell me, thou whom my soul loves, where thou tendest thy flock, where thou causest them to rest at noon, lest I become as one that is veiled by the flocks of thy companions. ⁸If thou know not thyself, thou fair one among women, go thou forth by the footsteps of the flocks, and feed thy kids by the shepherd's tents. ⁹I have likened thee, my companion, to my horses in the chariots of Pharaoh. ¹⁰How are thy cheeks beautiful as those of a dove, thy neck as chains! ¹¹We will make thee figures of gold with studs of silver.

¹²So long as the king was at table, my spikenard gave forth its smell. ¹³My kinsman is to me a bundle of myrrh; he shall lie between my breasts. ¹⁴My kinsman is to me a cluster of camphor in the vineyards of Engaddi. ¹⁵Behold, thou art fair, my companion; behold, thou art fair; thine eyes are doves. ¹⁶Behold, thou art fair, my kinsman, yea, beautiful, overshadowing our bed. ¹⁷The beams of our house are cedars, our ceilings are of cypress.

Chapter 2

¹I am a flower of the plain, a lily of the valleys. ²As a lily among thorns, so is my companion among the daughters. ³As the apple among the trees of the wood, so is my kinsman among the sons. I desired his shadow, and sat down, and his fruit was sweet in my throat. ⁴Bring me into the wine house; set love before me. ⁵Strengthen me with perfumes, stay me with apples: for I am wounded with love. ⁶His left hand shall be under my head, and his right hand shall embrace me. ⁷I have charged you, ye daughters of Jerusalem, by the powers and by the virtues of the field, that ye do not rouse or wake my love, until he please. ⁸The voice of my kinsman! behold, he comes leaping over the mountains, bounding over the hills. ⁹My kinsman is like a roe or a young hart on the mountains of Bæthel: behold, he is behind our wall, looking through the windows, peeping through the lattices. ¹⁰My kinsman answers, and says to me, Rise up, come, my companion, my fair one, my dove. ¹¹For, behold, the winter is past, the rain is gone, it has departed. ¹²The flowers are seen in the land; the time of pruning has arrived; the voice of the turtle-dove has been heard in our land. ¹³The fig-tree has put forth its young figs, the vines put forth the tender grape, they yield a smell: arise, come, my companion, my fair one, my dove; yea, come.

¹⁴Thou art my dove, in the shelter of the rock, near the wall: shew me thy face, and cause me to hear thy voice; for thy voice is sweet, and thy countenance is beautiful. ¹⁵Take us the little foxes that spoil the vines: for our vines put forth tender grapes. ¹⁶My kinsman is mine, and I am his: he feeds his flock among the lilies. ¹⁷Until the day dawn, and the shadows depart, turn, my kinsman, be thou like to a roe or young hart on the mountains of the ravines.

¹By night on my bed I sought him whom my soul loves: I sought him, but found him not; I called him, but he hearkened not to me. ²I will rise now, and go about in the city, in the market-places, and in the streets, and I will seek him whom my soul loves: I sought him, but I found him not. ³The watchmen who go their rounds in the city found me. I said, Have ye seen him whom my soul loves? ⁴*It was* as a little while after I parted from them, that I found him whom my soul loves: I held him, and did not let him go, until I brought him into my mother's house, and into the chamber of her that conceived me. ⁵I have charged you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the powers and by the virtues of the field, that ye rouse not nor awake my love, until he please.

⁶Who is this that comes up from the wilderness as pillars of smoke, perfumed with myrrh and frankincense, with all powders of the perfumer? ⁷Behold Solomon's bed; sixty mighty men of the mighty ones of Israel are round about it. ⁸They all hold a sword, being expert in war: every man has his sword upon his thigh because of fear by night. ⁹King Solomon made himself a litter of woods of Lebanon. ¹⁰He made the pillars of it silver, the bottom of it gold, the covering of it scarlet, in the midst of it a pavement of love, for the daughters of Jerusalem. ¹¹Go forth, ye daughters of Sion, and behold king Solomon, with the crown wherewith his mother crowned him, in the day of his espousals, and in the day of the gladness of his heart.

¹Behold, thou art fair, my companion; behold, thou art fair; thine eyes are doves, beside thy veil: thy hair is as flocks of goats, that have appeared from Galaad. ²Thy teeth are as flocks of shorn sheep, that have gone up from the washing; all of them bearing twins, and there is not a barren one among them. ³Thy lips are as a thread of scarlet, and thy speech is comely: like the rind of a pomegranate is thy cheek without thy veil. ⁴Thy neck is as the tower of David, that was built for an armoury: a thousand shields hang upon it, and all darts of mighty men. ⁵Thy two breasts are as two twin fawns, that feed among the lilies. ⁶Until the day dawn, and the shadows depart, I will betake me to the mountain of myrrh, and to the hill of frankincense. ⁷Thou art all fair, my companion, and there is no spot in thee.

⁸Come from Libanus, my bride, come from Libanus: thou shalt come and pass from the top of Faith, from the top of Sanir and Hermon, from the lions' dens, from the mountains of the leopards. ⁹My sister, my spouse, thou hast ravished my heart; thou hast ravished my heart with one of thine eyes, with one chain of thy neck. ¹⁰How beautiful are thy breasts, my sister, my spouse! how much more beautiful are thy breasts than wine, and the smell of thy garments than all spices! ¹¹Thy lips drop honeycomb, my spouse: honey and milk are under thy tongue; and the smell of thy garments is as the smell of Libanus. ¹²My sister, my spouse is a garden enclosed; a garden enclosed, a fountain sealed. ¹³Thy shoots are a garden of pomegranates, with the fruit of choice berries; camphor, with spikenard: ¹⁴spikenard and saffron, calamus and cinnamon; with all woods of Libanus, myrrh, aloes, with all chief spices: ¹⁵a fountain of a garden, and a well of water springing and gurgling from Libanus.

¹⁶Awake, O north wind; and come, O south; and blow through my garden, and let my spices flow out.

Chapter 5

¹Let my kinsman come down into his garden, and eat the fruit of his choice berries. I am come into my garden, my sister, my spouse: I have gathered my myrrh with my spices; I have eaten my bread with my honey; I have drunk my wine with my milk. Eat, O friends, and drink; yea, brethren, drink abundantly. ²I sleep, but my heart is awake: the voice of my kinsman knocks at the door, saying, Open, open to me, my companion, my sister, my dove, my perfect one: for my head is filled with dew, and my locks with the drops of the night. ³I have put off my coat; how shall I put it on? I have washed my feet, how shall I defile them? ⁴My kinsman put forth his hand by the hole of the door, and my belly moved for him. ⁵I rose up to open to my kinsman; my hands dropped myrrh, my fingers choice myrrh, on the handles of the lock. ⁶I opened to my kinsman; my kinsman was gone: my soul failed at his speech: I sought him, but found him not; I called him, but he answered me not. ⁷The watchman that go their rounds in the city found me, they smote me, they wounded me; the keepers of the walls took away my veil from me. ⁸I have charged you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the powers and the virtues of the field: if ye should find my kinsman, what are ye to say to him? That I am wounded with love.

⁹What is thy kinsman more than another kinsman, O thou beautiful among women? what is thy kinsman more than another kinsman, that thou hast so charged us? ¹⁰My kinsman is white and ruddy, chosen out from myriads. ¹¹His head is as very fine gold, his locks are flowing, black as a raven. ¹²His eyes are as doves, by the pools of waters, washed with milk, sitting by the pools. ¹³His cheeks are as bowls of spices pouring forth perfumes: his lips are lilies, dropping choice myrrh. ¹⁴His hands are as turned gold set with beryl: his belly is an ivory tablet on a sapphire stone. ¹⁵His legs are marble pillars set on golden sockets: his form is as Libanus, choice as the cedars. ¹⁶His throat is most sweet, and altogether desirable. This is my kinsman, and this is my companion, O daughters of Jerusalem. ¹⁷Whither is thy kinsman gone, thou beautiful among women? whither has thy kinsman turned aside? tell us, and we will seek him with thee.

¹My kinsman is gone down to his garden, to the beds of spice, to feed his flock in the gardens, and to gather lilies. ²I am my kinsman's, and my kinsman is mine, who feeds among the lilies. ³Thou art fair, my companion, as Pleasure, beautiful as Jerusalem, terrible as armies set in array. ⁴Turn away thine eyes from before me, for they have ravished me: thy hair is as flocks of goats which have appeared from Galaad. ⁵Thy teeth are as flocks of shorn sheep, that have gone up from the washing, all of them bearing twins, and there is none barren among them: thy lips are as a thread of scarlet, and thy speech is comely. ⁶Thy cheek is like the rind of a pomegranate, being seen without thy veil. ⁷There are sixty queens, and eighty concubines, and maidens without number. ⁸My dove, my perfect one is one; she is the only one of her mother; she is the choice of her that bore her. The daughters saw her, and the queens will pronounce her blessed, yea, and the concubines, and they will praise her. ⁹Who is this that looks forth as the morning, fair as the moon, choice as the sun, terrible as armies set in array?

¹⁰I went down to the garden of nuts, to look at the fruits of the valley, to see if the vine flowered, if the pomegranates blossomed. ¹¹There I will give thee my breasts: my soul knew it not: it made me as the chariots of Aminadab. ¹²Return, return, O Sunamite; return, return, and we will look at thee. What will ye see in the Sunamite? She comes as bands of armies.

The Song

Chapter 7

¹Thy steps are beautiful in shoes, O daughter of the prince: the joints of thy thighs are like chains, the work of the craftsman. ²Thy navel is as a turned bowl, not wanting liquor; thy belly is as a heap of wheat set about with lilies. ³Thy two breasts are as two twin fawns. ⁴Thy neck is as an ivory tower; thine eyes are as pools in Esebon, by the gates of the daughter of many: thy nose is as the tower of Libanus, looking toward Damascus. ⁵Thy head upon thee is as Carmel, and the curls of thy hair like scarlet; the king is bound in the galleries. ⁶How beautiful art thou, and how sweet art thou, my love! ⁷This is thy greatness in thy delights: thou wast made like a palm tree, and thy breasts to cluster. ⁸I said, I will go up to the palm tree, I will take hold of its high boughs: and now shall thy breasts be as clusters of the vine, and the smell of thy nose of apples; ⁹and thy throat as good wine, going well with my kinsman, suiting my lips and teeth.

¹⁰I am my kinsman's, and his desire is toward me. ¹¹Come, my kinsman, let us go forth into the field; let us lodge in the villages. ¹²Let us go early into the vineyards; let us see if the vine has flowered, if the blossoms have appeared, if the pomegranates have blossomed; there will I give thee my breasts. ¹³The mandrakes have given a smell, and at our doors are all kinds of choice fruits, new and old. O my kinsman, I have kept them for thee.

Chapter 8

¹I would that thou, O my kinsman, wert he that sucked the breasts of my mother; when I found thee without, I would kiss thee; yea, they should not despise me. ²I would take thee, I would bring thee into my mother's house, and into the chamber of her that conceived me; I would make thee to drink of spiced wine, of the juice of my pomegranates. ³His left hand should be under my head, and his right hand should embrace me. ⁴I have charged you, ye daughters of Jerusalem, by the virtues of the field, that ye stir not up, nor awake my love, until he please. ⁵Who is this that comes up all white, leaning on her kinsman? I raised thee up under an apple-tree; there thy mother brought thee forth; there she that bore thee brought thee forth.

⁶Set me as a seal upon thy heart, as a seal upon thine arm; for love is strong as death; jealousy is cruel as the grave, her shafts are shafts of fire, even the flames thereof.

⁷Much water will not be able to quench love, and rivers shall not drown it; if a man would give all his substance for love, men would utterly despise it. ⁸Our sister is little, and has no breasts; what shall we do for our sister, in the day wherein she shall be spoken for? ⁹If she is a wall, let us build upon her silver bulwarks; and if she is a door, let us carve for her cedar panels. ¹⁰I am a wall, and my breasts are as towers; I was in their eyes as one that found peace. ¹¹Solomon had a vineyard in Beelamon; he let his vineyard to keepers; every one was to bring for its fruit a thousand pieces of silver. ¹²My vineyard, even mine, is before me; Solomon shall have a thousand, and they that keep its fruit two hundred. ¹³Thou that dwellest in the gardens, the companions hearken to thy voice: make me hear it. ¹⁴Away, my kinsman, and be like a doe or a fawn on the mountains of spices.

Esaias

(Isaiah)

Chapter 1

¹THE vision which Esaias the son of Amos saw, which he saw against Juda, and against Jerusalem, in the reign of Ozias, and Joatham, and Achaz, and Ezekias, who reigned over Judea. ²Hear, O heaven, and hearken, O earth: for the Lord has spoken, saying, I have begotten and reared up children, but they have rebelled against me. ³The ox knows his owner, and the ass his master's crib: but Israel does not know me, and the people has not regarded me. ⁴Ah sinful nation, a people full of sins, an evil seed, lawless children: ye have forsaken the Lord, and provoked the Holy One of Israel. ⁵Why should ye be smitten any more, transgressing more and more? the whole head is pained, and the whole heart sad. ⁶From the feet to the head, there is no soundness in them; neither wound, nor bruise, nor festering ulcer are healed: it is not possible to apply a plaister, nor oil, nor bandages. ⁷Your land is desolate, your cities burned with fire: your land, strangers devour it in your presence, and it is made desolate, overthrown by strange nations. ⁸The daughter of Sion shall be deserted as a tent in a vineyard, and as a storehouse of fruits in a garden of cucumbers, as a besieged city. ⁹And if the Lord of Sabaoth had not left us a seed, we should have been as Sodom, and we should have been made like Gomorrha. ¹⁰Hear the word of the Lord, ye rulers of Sodoma; attend to the law of God, thou people of Gomorrha. ¹¹Of what value to me is the abundance of your sacrifices? says the Lord: I am full of whole-burnt-offerings of rams; and I delight not in the fat of lambs, and the blood of bulls and goats: ¹²neither shall ye come with these to appear before me; for who has required these things at your hands? Ye shall no more tread my court. ¹³Though ye bring fine flour, it is vain; incense is an abomination to me; I cannot bear your new moons, and your sabbaths, and the great day; ¹⁴*your* fasting, and rest from work, your new moons also, and your feasts my soul hates: ye have become loathsome to me; I will no more pardon your sins. ¹⁵When ye stretch forth your hands, I will turn away mine eyes from you: and though ye make many supplications, I will not hearken to you; for your hands are full of blood. ¹⁶Wash you, be clean; remove your iniquities from your souls before mine eyes; cease from your iniquities; ¹⁷learn to do well; diligently seek judgement, deliver him that is suffering wrong, plead for the orphan, and obtain justice for the widow. ¹⁸And come, let us reason together, says the Lord: and though your sins be as purple, I will make them white as snow; and though they be as scarlet, I will make them white as wool. ¹⁹And if ye be willing, and hearken to me, ye shall eat the good of the land: ²⁰but if ye be not willing, nor hearken to me, a sword shall devour you: for the mouth of the Lord has spoken this.

Easias

²¹How has the faithful city Sion, once full of judgement, become a harlot! wherein righteousness lodged, but now murderers. ²²Your silver is worthless, thy wine merchants mix the wine with water. ²³Thy princes are rebellious, companions of thieves, loving bribes, seeking after rewards; not pleading for orphans, and not heeding the cause of widows.

²⁴Therefore thus says the Lord, the Lord of hosts, Woe to the mighty men of Israel; for my wrath shall not cease against mine adversaries, and I will execute judgement on mine enemies.

²⁵And I will bring my hand upon thee, and purge thee completely, and I will destroy the rebellious, and will take away from thee all transgressors. ²⁶And I will establish thy judges as before, and thy counsellors as at the beginning: and afterward thou shalt be called the city of righteousness, the faithful mother-city of Sion. ²⁷For her captives shall be saved with judgement, and with mercy. ²⁸And the transgressors and the sinners shall be crushed together, and they that forsake the Lord shall be utterly consumed.

²⁹For they shall be ashamed of their idols, which they delighted in, and they are made ashamed of the gardens which they coveted. ³⁰For they shall be as a turpentine tree that has cast its leaves, and as a garden that has no water. ³¹And their strength shall be as a thread of tow, and their works as sparks, and the transgressors and the sinners shall be burnt up together, and there shall be none to quench them.

Chapter 2

¹The word which came to Esaias the son of Amos concerning Judea, and concerning Jerusalem. ²For in the last days the mountain of the Lord shall be glorious, and the house of God shall be on the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall come to it. ³And many nations shall go and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will tell us his way, and we will walk in it: for out of Sion shall go forth the law, and the word of the Lord out of Jerusalem. ⁴And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into plow-shares, and their spears into sickles: and nation shall not take up sword against nation, neither shall they learn to war any more. ⁵And now, O house of Jacob, come, and let us walk in the light of the Lord. ⁶For he has forsaken his people the house of Israel, because their land is filled as at the beginning with divinations, as the land of the

*Philistines, and many strange children were born to them. ⁷For their land is filled with silver and gold, and there was no number of their treasures; their land also is filled with horses, and there was no number of chariots. ⁸And the land is filled with abominations, even the works of their hands; and they have worshipped the works which their fingers made. ⁹And the mean man bowed down, and the great man was humbled: and I will not pardon them.

¹⁰Now therefore enter ye into the rocks, and hide yourselves in the earth, for fear of the Lord, and by reason of the glory of his might, when he shall arise to strike terribly the earth. ¹¹For the eyes of the Lord are high, but man is low; and the haughtiness of men shall be brought low, and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day. ¹²For the day of the Lord of hosts shall be upon every one that is proud and haughty, and upon every one that is high and towering, and they shall be brought down; ¹³and upon every cedar of Libanus, of them that are high and towering, and upon every oak of Basan, ¹⁴and upon every high mountain, and upon every high hill, ¹⁵and upon every high tower, and upon every high wall, ¹⁶and upon every ship of the sea, and upon every display of fine ships. ¹⁷And every man shall be brought low, and the pride of men shall fall: and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day. ¹⁸And they shall hide all idols made with hands, ¹⁹having carried them into the caves, and into the clefts of the rocks, and into the caverns of the earth, for fear of the Lord, and by reason of the glory of his might, when he shall arise to strike terribly the earth. ²⁰For in that day a man shall cast forth his silver and gold abominations, which they made in order to worship vanities and bats; ²¹to enter into the caverns of the solid rock, and into the clefts of the rocks, for fear of the Lord, and by reason of the glory of his might, when he shall arise to strike terribly the earth.

¹Behold now, the Lord, the Lord of hosts, will take away from Jerusalem and from Judea the mighty man and mighty woman, the strength of bread, and the strength of water, ²the great and mighty man, the warrior and the judge, and the prophet, and the counsellor, and the elder, ³the captain of fifty also, and the honourable counsellor, and the wise artificer, and the intelligent hearer. ⁴And I will make youths their princes, and mockers shall have dominion over them. ⁵And the people shall fall, man upon man, and every man upon his neighbor: the child shall insult the elder man, and the base the honourable. ⁶For a man shall lay hold of his brother, as one of his father's household, saying, Thou hast raiment, be thou our ruler, and let my meat be under thee. ⁷And he shall answer in that day, and say, I will not be thy ruler; for I have no bread in my

* See Appendix.

house, nor raiment: I will not be the ruler of this people.⁸ For Jerusalem is ruined, and Judea has fallen, and their tongues have spoken with iniquity, disobedient as they are towards the Lord.⁹ Wherefore now their glory has been brought low, and the shame of their countenance has withstood them, and they have proclaimed their sin as Sodom, and made it manifest.¹⁰ Woe to their soul, for they have devised an evil counsel against themselves, saying against themselves, Let us bind the just, for he is burdensome to us: therefore shall they eat the fruits of their works.¹¹ Woe to the transgressor! evils shall happen to him according to the works of his hands.¹² O my people, your exactors strip you, and extortioners rule over you: O my people, they that pronounce you blesses lead you astray, and pervert the path of your feet.¹³ But now the Lord will stand up for judgement, and will enter into judgement with his people.¹⁴ The Lord himself shall enter into judgement with the elders of the people, and with their rulers: but why have ye set my vineyard on fire, and why is the spoil of the poor in your houses?¹⁵ Why do ye wrong my people, and shame the face of the poor?

¹⁶ Thus says the Lord, Because the daughters of Sion are haughty, and have walked with an outstretched neck, and with winking of the eyes, and motion of the feet, at the same time drawing their garments in trains, and at the same time sporting with their feet:¹⁷ therefore the Lord will humble the chief daughters of Sion, and the Lord will expose their form in that day;¹⁸ and the Lord will take away the glory of their raiment, the curls and the fringes, and the crescents,¹⁹ and the chains, and the ornaments of their faces,²⁰ and the array of glorious ornaments, and the armlets, and the bracelets, and the wreathed work, and the finger-rings, and the ornaments for the right hand,²³ and the ear-rings, and the garments with scarlet borders, and the garments with purple grounds, and the shawls to be worn in the house, and the Spartan transparent dresses, and those made of fine linen, and the purple ones, and the scarlet ones, and the fine linen, interwoven with gold and purple, and the light coverings for couches.²⁴ And there shall be instead of a sweet smell, dust; and instead of a girdle, thou shalt gird thyself with a rope; and instead of a golden ornament for the head, thou shalt have baldness on account of thy works; and instead of a tunic with a scarlet ground, thou shalt gird thyself with sackcloth.²⁵ And thy most beautiful son whom thou lovest shall fall by the sword; and your mighty men shall fall by the sword, and shall be brought low.²⁶ And the stores of your ornaments shall mourn, and thou shalt be left alone, and shalt be levelled with the ground.

¹ And seven women shall take hold of one man, saying, We will eat our own bread, and wear our own raiment: only let thy name be called upon us, and take away our reproach. ²And in that day God shall shine gloriously in counsel on the earth, to exalt and glorify the remnant of Israel. ³And it shall be, that the remnant left in Sion, and the remnant left in Jerusalem, even all that are appointed to life in Jerusalem, shall be called holy. ⁴For the Lord shall wash away the filth of the sons and daughters of Sion, and shall purge out the blood from the midst of them, with the spirit of judgement, and the spirit of burning. ⁵And he shall come, and it shall be with regard to every place of mount Sion, yea, all the region round about it shall a cloud overshadow by day, and there shall be as it were the smoke and light of fire burning by night: and upon all the glory shall be a defence. ⁶And it shall be for a shadow from the heat, and as a shelter and a hiding place from inclemency of weather and from rain.

Chapter 5

¹Now I will sing to my beloved a song of my beloved concerning my vineyard. My beloved had a vineyard on a high hill in a fertile place. ²And I made a hedge round it, and dug a trench, and planted a choice vine, and built a tower in the midst of it, and dug a place for the wine-vat in it: and I waited for it to bring forth grapes, and it brought forth thorns. ³And now, ye dwellers in Jerusalem, and every man of Juda, judge between me and my vineyard. ⁴What shall I do any more to my vineyard, that I have not done to it? Whereas I expected it to bring forth grapes, but it has brought forth thorns. ⁵And now I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard: I will take away its hedge, and it shall be for a spoil; and I will pull down its walls, and it shall be left to be trodden down. ⁶And I will forsake my vineyard; and it shall not be pruned, nor dug, and thorns shall come up upon it as on barren land; and I will command the clouds to rain no rain upon it. ⁷For the vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel, and the men of Juda his beloved plant: I expected it to bring forth judgement, and it brought forth iniquity; and not righteousness, but a cry. ⁸Woe to them that join house to house, and add field to field, that they may take away something of their neighbor's: will ye dwell alone upon the land? ⁹For these things have reached the ears of the Lord of hosts: for though many houses should be built, many and fair houses shall be desolate, and there shall be no inhabitants in them. ¹⁰For where ten yoke of oxen plough the land shall yield one jar-full, and he that sows six homers shall produce three measures. ¹¹Woe to them that rise up in the morning, and follow strong drink; who wait at it till evening: for the wine shall inflame them. ¹²For they drink wine with harp, and psaltery, and drums, and pipes: but they regard not the works of the Lord, and consider not the works of his hands. ¹³Therefore my people have been taken captive, because they know not the Lord: and there has been a multitude of dead bodies, because of hunger and of thirst for water. ¹⁴Therefore hell has enlarged its desire and opened its mouth without ceasing: and her glorious and great, and her rich and her pestilent men shall go down into it. ¹⁵And the mean man shall be brought low, and the great man shall be disgraced, and the lofty eyes shall be brought low. ¹⁶But the Lord of hosts shall be exalted in judgement, and the holy God shall be glorified in righteousness. ¹⁷And they that were spoiled shall be fed as bulls, and lambs shall feed on the waste places of them that are taken away. ¹⁸Woe to them that draw sins to them as with a long rope, and iniquities as with a thong of the heifer's yoke: ¹⁹who say, Let him speedily hasten what he will do, that we may see it: and let the counsel of the Holy One of Israel come, that we may know it. ²⁰Woe to them that call evil good, and good evil; who make darkness light, and light darkness; who make bitter sweet, and sweet bitter. ²¹Woe to them that are wise in their own conceit, and knowing in their own sight. ²²Woe to the strong ones of you that drink wine, and the mighty ones that mingle strong drink: ²³who justify the ungodly for rewards, and take away the righteousness of the righteous. ²⁴Therefore as stubble shall be burnt by a coal of fire, and shall be consumed by a violent flame, their root shall be as chaff, and their flower shall go up as dust: for they rejected the law of the Lord of hosts, and insulted the word of the Holy One of Israel. ²⁵Therefore the Lord of hosts was greatly angered against his people, and he reached forth his hand upon them, and smote them: and the mountains were troubled, and their carcasses were as dung in the midst of the way: yet for all this his anger has not been turned away, but his hand is yet raised. ²⁶Therefore shall he lift up a signal to the nations that are afar, and shall hiss for them from the end of the earth; and, behold, they are coming very quickly. ²⁷They shall not hunger nor be weary, neither shall they slumber nor sleep; neither shall they loose their girdles from their loins, neither shall their shoe-latchets be broken. ²⁸Whose arrows are sharp, and their bows bent; their horses' hoofs are counted as solid rock: their chariot-wheels are as a storm. ²⁹They rage as lions, and draw nigh as a lion's whelps: and he shall seize, and roar as a wild beast, and he shall cast them forth, and there shall be none to deliver them. ³⁰And he shall roar on account of them in that day, as the sound of the swelling sea; and they shall look to the land, and, behold, there shall be thick darkness in their perplexity.

Chapter 6

¹And it came to pass in the year in which king Ozias died, that I saw the Lord sitting on a high and exalted throne, and the house was full of his glory. ²And seraphs stood round about him: each one had six wings: and with two they covered their face, and with two they covered their feet, and with two they flew. ³And one cried to the other, and they said, Holy, holy, holy is the Lord of hosts: the whole earth is full of his glory. ⁴And the lintel shook at the voice they uttered, and the house was filled with smoke. ⁵And I said, Woe is me, for I am pricked to the heart; for being a man, and having unclean lips, I dwell in the midst of a people having unclean lips; and I have seen with mine eyes the King, the Lord of hosts. ⁶And there was sent to me one of the seraphs, and he had in his hand a coal, which he had taken off the altar with the tongs: ⁷and he touched my mouth, and said, Behold, this has touched thy lips, and will take away thine iniquities, and will purge off thy sins. ⁸And I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go to this people? And I said, behold, I am here, send me. And he said, Go, and say to this people, ⁹Ye shall hear indeed, but ye shall not understand; and ye shall see indeed, but ye shall not perceive. ¹⁰For the heart of this people has become gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes have they closed; lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and be converted, and I should heal them. ¹¹And I said, How long, O Lord? And he said, Until cities be deserted by reason of their not being inhabited, and the houses by reason of there being no men, and the land shall be left desolate. ¹²And after this God shall remove the men far off, and they that are left upon the land shall be multiplied. ¹³And yet there shall be a tenth upon it, and again it shall be for a spoil, as a turpentine tree, and as an acorn when it falls out of its husk.

Chapter 7

¹And it came to pass in the days of Achaz the son of Joatham, the son of Ozias, king of Juda, there came up Rasim king of Aram, and Phakee son of Romelias, king of Israel, against Jerusalem to war against it, but they could not take it. ²And a message was brought to the house of David, saying, Aram has conspired with Ephraim. And his soul was amazed, and the soul of his people, as in a wood a tree is moved by the wind. ³And the Lord said to Esaias, Go forth to meet Achaz, thou, and thy son Jasub who is left, to the pool of the upper way of the fuller's field. ⁴And thou shalt say to him, Take care to be quiet, and fear not, neither let thy soul be disheartened because of these two smoking firebrands: for when my fierce anger is over, I will heal again. ⁵And as for the son of Aram, and the son of Romelias, forasmuch as they have devised an evil counsel, saying, ⁶We will go up against Judea, and having conferred with them we will turn them away to our side, and we will make the son of Tabeel king of it; ⁷thus says the Lord of hosts, This counsel shall not abide, nor come to pass. ⁸But the head of Aram is Damascus, and the head of Damascus, Rasim; and yet within sixty and five years the kingdom of Ephraim shall cease from being a people. ⁹And the head of Ephraim is Somoron, and the head of Somoron the son of Romelias: but if ye believe not, neither will ye at all understand.

¹⁰And the Lord again spoke to Achaz, saying, ¹¹Ask for thyself a sign of the Lord thy God, in the depth or in the height. ¹²And Achaz said, I will not ask, neither will I tempt the Lord. ¹³And he said, Hear ye now, O house of David; is it a little thing for you to contend against? and how do ye contend against the Lord? ¹⁴Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; behold, a virgin shall conceive in the womb, and shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Emmanuel.

¹⁵Butter and honey shall he eat, before he knows either to prefer evil or choose the good. ¹⁶For before the child shall know good or evil, he refuses evil, to choose the good; and the land shall be forsaken which thou art afraid of because of the two kings. ¹⁷But God shall bring upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon the house of thy father, days which have never come, from the day that Ephraim took away from Juda the king of the Assyrians.

¹⁸And it shall come to pass in that day that the Lord shall hiss for the flies, which insect shall rule over a part of the river of Egypt, and for the bee which is in the land of the Assyrians. ¹⁹And they all shall enter into the clefts of the land, and into the holes of the rocks, and into the caves, and into every ravine. ²⁰In that day the Lord shall shave with the hired razor of the king of Assyria beyond the river the head, and the hairs of the feet, and will remove the beard. ²¹And it shall come to pass in that day, that a man shall rear a heifer, and two sheep. ²²And it shall come to pass from their drinking an abundance of milk, that every one that is left on the land shall eat butter and honey. ²³And it shall come to pass in that day, for every place where there shall be a thousand vines at a thousand shekels, they shall become barren land and thorns. ²⁴*Men* shall enter thither with arrow and bow; for all the land shall be barren ground and thorns. ²⁵And every mountain shall be certainly ploughed: there shall no fear come thither: for there shall be from among the barren ground and thorns that whereon cattle shall feed and oxen shall tread.

¹And the Lord said to me, Take to thyself a volume of a great new book, and write in it with a man's pen concerning the making a rapid plunder of spoils; for it is near at hand. ²And make me witnesses of faithful men, Urias, and Zacharias the son of Barachias. ³And I went in to the prophetess; and she conceived, and bore a son. And the Lord said to me, Call his name, Spoil quickly, plunder speedily. ⁴For before the child shall know how to call his father or his mother, one shall take the power of Damascus and the spoils of Samaria before the king of the Assyrians. ⁵And the Lord spoke to me yet again, saying, ⁶Because this people chooses not the water of Siloam that goes softly, but wills to have Rassin, and the son of Romelias to be king over you; ⁷therefore, behold, the Lord brings up upon you the water of the river, strong and abundant, even the king of the Assyrians, and his glory: and he shall come up over every valley of yours, and shall walk over every wall of yours: ⁸and he shall take away from Juda every man who shall be able to lift up his head, and every one able to accomplish anything; and his camp shall fill the breadth of thy land, O God with us. ⁹Know, ye Gentiles, and be conquered; hearken ye, even to the extremity of the earth: be conquered, after ye strengthened yourselves; for even if ye should again strengthen yourselves, ye shall again be conquered. ¹⁰And whatsoever counsel ye shall take, the Lord shall bring it to nought; and whatsoever word ye shall speak, it shall not stand among you: for God is with us. ¹¹Thus says the Lord, With a strong hand they revolt from the course of the way of this people, saying, ¹²Let them not say, It is hard, for whatsoever this people says, is hard: but fear not ye their fear, neither be dismayed. ¹³Sanctify ye the Lord himself; and he shall be thy fear. ¹⁴And if thou shalt trust in him, he shall be to thee for a sanctuary; and ye shall not come against him as against a stumbling-stone, neither as against the falling of a rock: but the houses of Jacob are in a snare, and the dwellers in Jerusalem in a pit. ¹⁵Therefore many among them shall be weak, and fall, and be crushed; and they shall draw nigh, and men shall be taken securely. ¹⁶Then shall those who seal themselves that they may not learn the law be made manifest. ¹⁷And one shall say, I will wait for God, who has turned away his face from the house of Jacob, and I will trust in him. ¹⁸Behold I and the children which God has given me: and they shall be for signs and wonders in the house of Israel from the Lord of hosts, who dwells in mount Sion.

¹⁹And if they should say to you, Seek those who have in them a divining spirit, and them that speak out of the earth, them that speak vain words, who speak out of their belly: shall not a nation diligently seek to their God? why do they seek to the dead concerning the living? ²⁰For he has given the law for a help, that they should not speak according to this word, concerning which there are no gifts to give for it. ²¹And famine shall come sorely upon you, and it shall come to pass, that when ye shall be hungry, ye shall be grieved, and ye shall speak ill of the prince and your fathers' ordinances: and they shall look up to heaven above, ²²and they shall look on the earth below, and behold severe distress, and darkness, affliction, and anguish, and darkness so that one cannot see; and he that is in anguish shall not be distressed only for a time.

Chapter 9

¹Drink this first. Act quickly, O land of Zabulon, land of Nephthalim, and the rest inhabiting the sea-coast, and the land beyond Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles. ²O people walking in darkness, behold a great light: ye that dwell in the region and shadow of death, a light shall shine upon you. ³The multitude of the people which thou hast brought down in thy joy, they shall even rejoice before thee as they that rejoice in harvest, and as they that divide the spoil. ⁴Because the yoke that was laid upon them has been taken away, and the rod that was on their neck: for he has broken the rod of the exactors, as in the day of Madiam. ⁵For they shall compensate for every garment that has been acquired by deceit, and all raiment with restitution; and they shall be willing, even if they were burnt with fire. ⁶For a child is born to us, and a son is given to us, whose government is upon his shoulder: and his name is called the Messenger of great counsel: for I will bring peace upon the princes, and health to him. ⁷His government shall be great, and of his peace there is no end: it shall be upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to establish it, and to support it with judgement and with righteousness, from henceforth and forever. The seal of the Lord of hosts shall perform this.

⁸The Lord has sent death upon Jacob, and it has come upon Israel. ⁹And all the people of Ephraim, and they that dwelt in Samaria shall know, who say in their pride and lofty heart, ¹⁰The bricks are fallen down, but come, let us hew stones, and cut down sycamores and cedars, and let us build for ourselves a tower. ¹¹And God shall dash down them that rise up against him on mount Sion, and shall scatter his enemies; ¹²*even* Syria from the rising of the sun, and the Greeks from the setting of the sun, who devour Israel with open mouth. For all this his anger is not turned away, but still his hand is exalted. ¹³But the people turned not until they were smitten, and they sought not the Lord. ¹⁴So the Lord took away from Israel the head and tail, great and small, in one day: ¹⁵the old man, and them that respect persons, this is the head; and the prophet teaching unlawful things, he is the tail. ¹⁶And they that pronounce this people blessed shall mislead them; and they mislead them that they may devour them. ¹⁷Therefore the Lord shall not take pleasure in their young men, neither shall he have pity on their orphans or on their widows: for they are all transgressors and wicked, and every mouth speaks unjustly. For all this his anger is not turned away, but his hand is yet exalted. ¹⁸And iniquity shall burn as fire, and shall be devoured by fire as dry grass: and it shall burn in the thickets of the wood, and shall devour all that is round about the hills. ¹⁹The whole earth is set on fire because of the fierce anger of the Lord, and the people shall be as men burnt by fire: no man shall pity his brother. ²⁰But one shall turn aside to the right hand, for he shall be hungry; and shall eat on the left, and a man shall by no means be satisfied with eating the flesh of his own arm. ²¹For Manasses shall eat the flesh of Ephraim, and Ephraim the flesh of Manasses; for they shall besiege Juda together. For all this his anger is not turned away, but his hand is yet exalted.

Chapter 10

¹Woe to them that write wickedness; for when they write they do write wickedness, ²perverting the cause of the poor, violently wresting the judgement of the needy ones of my people, that the widow may be a prey to them, and the orphan a spoil. ³And what will they do in the day of visitation? for affliction shall come to you from afar: and to whom will ye flee for help? and where will ye leave your glory, ⁴that ye may not fall into captivity? For all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is yet exalted.

⁵Woe to the Assyrians; the rod of my wrath, and anger are in their hands. ⁶I will send my wrath against a sinful nation, and I will charge my people to take plunder and spoil, and to trample the cities, and to make them dust. ⁷But he meant not thus, neither did he devise thus in his soul: but his mind shall change, and that to destroy nations not a few. ⁸And if they should say to him, Thou alone art ruler; ⁹then shall he say, Have I not taken the country above Babylon and Chalanes, where the tower was built? and have I not taken Arabia, and Damascus, and Samaria? ¹⁰As I have taken them, I will also take all the kingdoms: howl, ye idols in Jerusalem, and in Samaria. ¹¹For as I did to Samaria and her idols, so will I do also to Jerusalem and her idols. ¹²And it shall come to pass, when the Lord shall have finished doing all things on Mount Sion and Jerusalem, that I will visit upon the proud heart, even upon the ruler of the Assyrians, and upon the boastful haughtiness of his eyes. ¹³For he said, I will act in strength, and in the wisdom of my understanding I will remove the boundaries of nations, and will spoil their strength. ¹⁴And I will shake the inhabited cities: and I will take with my hand all the world as a nest: and I will even take them as eggs that have been left; and there is none that shall escape me, or contradict me. ¹⁵Shall the axe glorify itself without him that hews with it? or shall the saw lift up itself without him that uses it, as if one should lift a rod or staff? but it shall not be so; ¹⁶but the Lord of hosts shall send dishonour upon thine honour, and burning fire shall be kindled upon thy glory. ¹⁷And the light of Israel shall be for a fire, and he shall sanctify him with burning fire, and it shall devour the wood as grass. ¹⁸In that day the mountains shall be consumed, and the hills, and the forests, and fire shall devour both soul and body: and he that flees shall be as one fleeing from burning flame. ¹⁹And they that are left of them shall be a small number, and a child shall write them. ²⁰And it shall come to pass in that day that the remnant of Israel shall no more join themselves with, and the saved of Jacob shall no more trust in, them that injured them; but they shall trust in the Holy God of Israel, in truth. ²¹And the remnant of Jacob shall trust on the mighty God. ²²And though the people of Israel be as the sand of the sea, a remnant of them shall be saved. ²³He will finish the work, and cut it short in righteousness: because the Lord will make a short work in all the world.

²⁴Therefore thus says the Lord of hosts, Be not afraid, my people who dwell in Sion, of the Assyrians, because he shall smite thee with a rod: for I am bringing a stroke upon thee, that thou mayest see the way of Egypt. ²⁵For yet a little while, and the indignation shall cease: but my wrath shall be against their council. ²⁶And God will stir up enemies against them, according to the stroke of Madiam in the place of affliction: and his wrath shall be by the way of the sea, even to the way that leads to Egypt. ²⁷And it shall come to pass in that day, that his yoke shall be taken away from thy shoulder, and his fear from thee, and the yoke shall be destroyed from off your shoulders. ²⁸For he shall arrive at the city of Angai, and shall pass on to Maggedo, and shall lay up his stores in Machmas. ²⁹And he shall pass by the valley, and shall arrive at Angai: fear shall seize upon Rama, the city of Saul. ³⁰The daughter of Gallim shall flee; Laisa shall hear; one shall hear in Anathoth. ³¹Madebena also is amazed, and the inhabitants of Gibbir. ³²Exhort ye them to-day to remain in the way: exhort ye beckoning with the hand the mountain, the daughter of Sion, even ye hills that are in Jerusalem. ³³Behold, the Lord, the Lord of hosts, will mightily confound the glorious ones; and the haughty in pride shall be crushed, and the lofty shall be brought low: ³⁴and the lofty ones shall fall by the sword, and the Libanus shall fall with his lofty ones.

¹And there shall come forth a rod out of the root of Jesse, and a blossom shall come up from his root: ²and the Spirit of God shall rest upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and strength, the spirit of knowledge and godliness shall fill him; ³the spirit of the fear of God. He shall not judge according to appearance, nor reprove according to report: ⁴but he shall judge the cause of the lowly, and shall reprove the lowly of the earth: and he shall smite the earth with the word of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he destroy the ungodly one. ⁵And he shall have his loins girt with righteousness, and his sides clothed with truth. ⁶And the wolf shall feed with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the young calf and bull and lion shall feed together; and a little child shall lead them. ⁷And the ox and bear shall feed together; and their young shall be together: and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. ⁸And an infant shall put his hand on the holes of asps, and on the nest of young asps. ⁹And they shall not hurt, nor shall they at all be able to destroy any one on my holy mountain: for the whole world is filled with the knowledge of the Lord, as much water covers the seas.

¹⁰And in that day there shall be a root of Jesse, and he that shall arise to rule over the Gentiles; in him shall the Gentiles trust, and his rest shall be glorious. ¹¹And it shall be in that day, that the Lord shall again shew his hand, to be zealous for the remnant that is left of the people, which shall be left by the Assyrians, and that from Egypt, and from the country of Babylon, and from Ethiopia, and from the Elamites, and from the rising of the sun, and out of Arabia. ¹²And he shall lift up a standard for the nations, and he shall gather the lost ones of Israel, and he shall gather the dispersed of Juda from the four corners of the earth. ¹³And the envy of Ephraim shall be taken away, and the enemies of Juda shall perish: Ephraim shall not envy Juda, and Juda shall not afflict Ephraim. ¹⁴And they shall fly in the ships of the Philistines: they shall at the same time spoil the sea, and them that come from the east, and Idumea: and they shall lay their hands on Moab first; but the children of Ammon shall first obey them. ¹⁵And the Lord shall make desolate the sea of Egypt; and he shall lay his hand on the river with a strong wind, and he shall smite the seven channels, so that men shall pass through it dry-shod. ¹⁶And there shall be a passage for my people that is left in Egypt: and it shall be to Israel as the day when he came forth out of the land of Egypt.

Chapter 12

¹And in that day thou shalt say, I will bless thee, O Lord; for thou wast angry with me, but thou hast turned aside thy wrath, and hast pitied me. ²Behold, my God is my Saviour; I will trust in him, and not be afraid: for the Lord is my glory and my praise, and is become my salvation. ³Draw ye therefore water with joy out of the wells of salvation. ⁴And in that day thou shalt say, sing to the Lord, call aloud upon his name, proclaim his glorious deeds among the Gentiles; make mention that his name is exalted. ⁵Sing praise to the name of the Lord; for he has done great things: declare this in all the earth. ⁶Exalt and rejoice, ye that dwell in Sion: for the Holy One of Israel is exalted in the midst of her.

Chapter 13

¹THE VISION WHICH ESAIAS SON OF AMOS SAW CONCERNING BABYLON.

²Lift up a standard on the mountain of the plain, exalt the voice to them, beckon with the hand, open the gates, ye rulers. ³I give command, and I bring them: giants are coming to fulfil my wrath, rejoicing at the same time and insulting. ⁴A voice of many nations on the mountains, even like to that of many nations; a voice of kings and nations gathered together: the Lord of hosts has given command to a war-like nation, ⁵to come from a land afar off, from the utmost foundation of heaven; the Lord and his warriors are coming to destroy all the world. ⁶Howl ye, for the day of the Lord is near, and destruction from God shall arrive. ⁷Therefore every hand shall become powerless, and every soul of man shall be dismayed. ⁸The elders shall be troubled, and pangs shall seize them, as of a woman in travail: and they shall mourn one to another, and shall be amazed, and shall change their countenance as a flame. ⁹For behold! the day of the Lord is coming which cannot be escaped, a day of wrath and anger, to make the world desolate, and to destroy sinners out of it. ¹⁰For the stars of heaven, and Orion, and all the host of heaven, shall not give their light; and it shall be dark at sunrise, and the moon shall not give her light. ¹¹And I will command evils for the whole world, and will visit their sins on the ungodly: and I will destroy the pride of transgressors, and will bring low the pride of the haughty. ¹²And they that are left shall be more precious than gold tried in the fire; and a man shall be more precious than the stone that is in Suphir. ¹³For the heaven shall be enraged, and the earth shall be shaken from her foundation, because of the fierce anger of the Lord of hosts, in the day in which his wrath shall come on. ¹⁴And they that are left shall be as a fleeing fawn, and as a stray sheep, and there shall be none to gather them: so that a man shall turn back to his people, and a man shall flee to his own land. ¹⁵For whosoever shall be taken shall be overcome; and they that are gathered together shall fall by the sword. ¹⁶And they shall dash their children before their eyes; and they shall spoil their houses, and shall take their wives. ¹⁷Behold, I will stir up against you the Medes, who do not regard silver, neither have they need of gold. ¹⁸They shall break the bows of the young men; and they shall have no mercy on your children; nor shall their eyes spare thy children. ¹⁹And Babylon, which is called glorious by the king of the Chaldeans, shall be as when God overthrew Sodoma, and Gomorrha. ²⁰It shall never be inhabited, neither shall any enter into it for many generations: neither shall the Arabians pass through it; nor shall shepherds at all rest in it. ²¹But wild beasts shall rest there; and the houses shall be filled with howling; and monsters shall rest there, and devils shall dance there, ²²and satyrs shall dwell there; and hedgehogs shall make their nests in their houses. It will come soon, and will not tarry.

Chapter 14

¹And the Lord will have mercy on Jacob, and will yet choose Israel, and they shall rest on their land: and the stranger shall be added to them, yea, shall be added to the house of Jacob.

²And the Gentiles shall take them, and bring them into their place: and they shall inherit them, and they shall be multiplied upon the land for servants and handmaidens: and they that took them captives shall become captives to them; and they that had lordship over them shall be under their rule. ³And it shall come to pass in that day, that the Lord shall give thee rest from thy sorrow and vexation, and from thy hard servitude wherein thou didst serve them. ⁴And thou shalt take up this lamentation against the king of Babylon,

How has the extortioner ceased, and the taskmaster ceased! ⁵The Lord has broken the yoke of sinners, the yoke of princes. ⁶Having smitten a nation in wrath, with an incurable plague, smiting a nation with a wrathful plague, which spared them not, he rested in quiet. ⁷All the earth cries aloud with joy: ⁸the trees also of Libanus rejoice against thee, and the cedar of Libanus, saying, From the time that thou hast been laid low, no one has come up to cut us down. ⁹Hell from beneath is provoked to meet thee: all the great ones that have ruled over the earth have risen up together against thee, they that have raised up from their thrones all the kings of the nations. ¹⁰All shall answer and say to thee, Thou also hast been taken, even as we; and thou art numbered amongst us. ¹¹Thy glory has come down to Hades, and thy great mirth: under thee they shall spread corruption, and the worm shall be thy covering. ¹²How has Lucifer, that rose in the morning, fallen from heaven! He that sent orders to all the nations is crushed to the earth. ¹³But thou saidst in thine heart, I will go up to heaven, I will set my throne above the stars of heaven: I will sit on a lofty mount, on the lofty mountains toward the north: ¹⁴I will go up above the clouds: I will be like the Most High. ¹⁵But now thou shalt go down to hell, even to the foundations of the earth. ¹⁶They that see thee shall wonder at thee, and say, This is the man that troubled the earth, that made kings to shake; ¹⁷that made the whole world desolate, and destroyed its cities; he loosed not those who were in captivity. ¹⁸All the kings of the nations lie in honour, every man in his house. ¹⁹But thou shalt be cast forth on the mountains, as a loathed carcase, with many dead who have been pierced with swords, going down to the grave. ²⁰As a garment defiled with blood shall not be pure, so neither shalt thou be pure; because thou hast destroyed my land, and hast slain my people: thou shalt not endure for ever, —thou an evil seed. ²¹Prepare thy children to be slain for the sins of their father; that they arise not, and inherit the earth, nor fill the earth with wars. ²²And I will rise up against them, says the Lord of hosts, and I will destroy their name, and remnant, and seed: thus says the Lord. ²³And I will make the region of Babylon desert, so that hedgehogs shall dwell there, and it shall come to nothing: and I will make it a pit of clay for destruction.

²⁴Thus says the Lord of hosts, As I have said, so it shall be: and as I have purposed, so the matter shall remain: ²⁵*even* to destroy the Assyrians upon my land, and upon my mountains: and they shall be for trampling; and their yoke shall be taken away from them, and their glory shall be taken away from their shoulders. ²⁶This is the purpose which the Lord has purposed upon the whole earth: and this the hand that is uplifted against all the nations. ²⁷For what the Holy God has purposed, who shall frustrate? and who shall turn back his uplifted hand? ²⁸In the year in which king Achaz died this word came. ²⁹Rejoice not, all ye Philistines, because the yoke of him that smote you is broken: for out of the seed of the serpent shall come forth the young asps, and their young shall come forth flying serpents, ³⁰And the poor shall be fed by him, and poor men shall rest in peace: but he shall destroy thy seed with hunger, and shall destroy thy remnant. ³¹Howl, ye gates of cities; let the cities be troubled and cry, even all the Philistines: for smoke is coming from the north, and there is no possibility of living. ³²And what shall the kings of the nations answer? That the Lord has founded Sion, and by him the poor of the people shall be saved.

¹THE WORD AGAINST THE LAND OF MOAB.

By night the land of Moab shall be destroyed; for by night the wall of the land of Moab shall be destroyed. ²Grieve for yourselves; for even Debon, where your altar is, shall be destroyed: thither shall ye go up to weep, over Nabau of the land of Moab: howl ye: baldness shall be on every head, and all arms shall be wounded. ³Gird yourselves with sackcloth in her streets: and lament upon her roofs, and in her streets, and in her ways; howl all of you with weeping. ⁴For Esebon and Eleale have cried: their voice was heard to Jassa: therefore the loins of the region of Moab cry aloud; her soul shall know. ⁵The heart of the region of Moab cries within her to Segor; for it is as a heifer of three years old: and on the ascent of Luith they shall go up to thee weeping by the way of Aroniim: she cries, Destruction, and trembling. ⁶The water of Nemerim shall be desolate, and the grass thereof shall fail: for there shall be no green grass. ⁷Shall Moab even thus be delivered? for I will bring the

Easias

Arabians upon the valley, and they shall take it. ⁸For the cry has reached the border of the region of Moab, even of Agalim; and her howling has gone as far as the well of Ælim. ⁹And the water of Dimon shall be filled with blood: for I will bring Arabians upon Dimon, and I will take away the seed of Moab, and Ariel, and the remnant of Adama.

Chapter 16

¹I will send as it were reptiles on the land: is not the mount of the daughter of Sion a desolate rock? ²For thou shalt be as a young bird taken away from a bird that has flown: even thou shalt be so, daughter of Moab: and then do thou, O Arnon, ³take farther counsel, and continually make thou a shelter from grief: they flee in darkness at mid-day; they are amazed; be not thou led captive. ⁴The fugitives of Moab shall sojourn with thee; they shall be to you a shelter from the face of the pursuer: for thine alliance has been taken away, and the oppressing ruler has perished from off the earth. ⁵And a throne shall be established with mercy; and one shall sit upon it with truth in the tabernacle of David, judging, and earnestly seeking judgements, and hasting righteousness.

⁶We have heard of the pride of Moab; he is very proud. I have cut off his pride: thy prophecy shall not be thus, no not thus. ⁷Moab shall howl; for all shall howl in the land of Moab: but thou shalt care for them that dwell in Seth, and thou shalt not be ashamed.

¹⁰And gladness and rejoicing shall be taken away from the vineyards; and they shall not at all tread wine into the vats; for the vintage has ceased.

¹¹Therefore my belly shall sound as a harp for Moab, and thou hast repaired my inward parts as a wall. ¹²And it shall be to thy shame, (for Moab is wearied at the altars,) that he shall go in to the idols thereof to pray, but they shall not be at all able to deliver him.

¹³This is the word which the Lord spoke against Moab, when he spoke.

¹⁴And now I say, in three years, of the years of an hireling, the glory of Moab shall be dishonoured with all his great wealth; and he shall be left few in number, and not honoured.

Chapter 17

¹THE WORD AGAINST DAMASCUS.

Behold, Damascus shall be taken away from among cities, and shall become a ruin; ²abandoned for ever, to be a fold and resting-place for flocks, and there shall be none to go after them. ³And she shall no longer be a strong place for Ephraim to flee to, and there shall no longer be a kingdom in Damascus, or a remnant of Syrians; for thou art no better than the children of Israel, even than their glory; thus says the Lord of hosts. ⁴There shall be in that day a failure of the glory of Jacob, and the riches of his glory shall be shaken. ⁵And it shall be as if one should gather standing corn, and reap the grain of the ears; and it shall be as if one should gather ears in a rich valley; ⁶and as if there should be left stubble therein, or as it were the berries of an olive tree, two or three on the topmost bough, or as if four or five should be left on their branches; thus says the Lord, the God of Israel. ⁷In that day a man shall trust in him that made him, and his eyes shall have respect to the Holy One of Israel. ⁸And they shall not at all trust in their altars, nor in the works of their hands, which their fingers made; and they shall not look to the trees, nor to their abominations. ⁹In that day thy cities shall be deserted, as the Amorites and the Evaeans deserted theirs, because the of children of Israel; and they shall be desolate. ¹⁰Because thou hast forsaken God thy Saviour, and hast not been mindful of the Lord thy helper; therefore shalt thou plant a false plant, and a false seed. ¹¹In the day wherein thou shalt plant thou shalt be deceived; but if thou sow in the morning, the seed shall spring up for a crop in the day wherein thou shalt obtain an inheritance, and as a man's father, thou shalt obtain an inheritance for thy sons. ¹²Woe to the multitude of many nations, as the swelling sea, so shall ye be confounded; and the force of many nations shall sound like water; ¹³many nations like much water, as when much water rushes violently: and they shall drive him away, and pursue him afar, as the dust of chaff when men winnow before the wind, and as a storm whirling the dust of the wheel. ¹⁴Toward evening, and there shall be grief; before the morning, and he shall not be. This is the portion of them that spoiled you, and the inheritance to them that robbed you of your inheritance.

¹Woe to you, ye wings of the land of ships, beyond the rivers of Ethiopia. ²He sends messengers by the sea, and paper letters on the water: for swift messengers shall go to a lofty nation, and to a strange and harsh people. Who is beyond it? a nation not looked for, and trodden down. ³Now all the rivers of the land shall be inhabited as an inhabited country; their land shall be as when a signal is raised from a mountain; it shall be audible as the sound of a trumpet. ⁴For thus said the Lord to me, There shall be security in my city, as the light of noonday heat, and it shall be as a cloud of dew in the day of harvest. ⁵Before the reaping time, when the flower has been completely formed, and the unripe grape has put forth its flower and blossomed, then shall he take away the little clusters with pruning-hooks, and shall take away the small branches, and cut them off; ⁶And he shall leave them together to the birds of the sky, and to the wild beasts of the earth: and the fowls of the sky shall be gathered upon them, and all the beasts of the land shall come upon him. ⁷In that time shall presents be brought to the Lord of hosts from a people afflicted and peeled, and from a people great from henceforth and for ever; a nation hoping and yet trodden down, which is in a part of a river of his land, to the place where is the name of the Lord of hosts, the mount Sion.

¹THE VISION OF EGYPT.

Behold, the Lord sits on a swift cloud, and shall come to Egypt: and the idols of Egypt shall be moved at his presence, and their heart shall faint within them. ²And the Egyptians shall be stirred up against the Egyptians: and a man shall fight against his brother, and a man against his neighbor, city against city, and law against law. ³And the spirit of the Egyptians shall be troubled within them; and I will frustrate their counsel: and they shall enquire of their gods and their images, and them that speak out of the earth, and them that have in them a divining spirit. ⁴And I will deliver Egypt into the hands of men, of cruel lords; and cruel kings shall rule over them: thus says the Lord of hosts. ⁵And the Egyptians shall drink the water that is by the sea, but the river shall fail, and be dried up. ⁶And the streams shall fail, and the canals of the river; and every reservoir of water shall be dried up, in every marsh also of reed and papyrus. ⁷And all the green herbage round about the river, and everything sown by the side of the river, shall be blasted with the wind and dried up. ⁸And the fishermen shall groan, and all that cast a hook into the river shall groan; they also that cast nets, and the anglers shall mourn. ⁹And shame shall come upon them that work fine flax, and them that make fine linen. ¹⁰And they that work at them shall be in pain, and all that make beer shall be grieved, and be pained in their souls. ¹¹And the princes of Tanis shall be fools: as for the king's wise counsellors, their counsel shall be turned into folly: how will ye say to the king, we are sons of wise men, sons of ancient kings? ¹²Where are now thy wise men? and let them declare to thee, and say, What has the Lord of hosts purposed upon Egypt? ¹³The princes of Tanis have failed, and the princes of Memphis are lifted up with pride, and they shall cause Egypt to wander by tribes. ¹⁴For the Lord has prepared for them a spirit of error, and they have caused Egypt to err in all their works, as one staggers who is drunken and vomits also. ¹⁵And there shall be no work to the Egyptians, which shall make head or tail, or beginning or end. ¹⁶But in that day the Egyptians shall be as women, in fear and in trembling because of the hand of the Lord of hosts, which he shall bring upon them.¹⁷ And the land of the Jews shall be for a terror to the Egyptians: whosoever shall name it to them, they shall fear, because of the counsel which the Lord of hosts has purposed concerning it.¹⁸ In that day there shall be five cities in Egypt speaking the language of Chanaan, and swearing by the name of the Lord of hosts; one city shall be called the city of Asedec.¹⁹ In that day there shall be an altar to the Lord in the land of the Egyptians, and a pillar to the Lord by its border.²⁰ And it shall be for a sign to the Lord for ever in the land of Egypt: for they shall presently cry to the Lord by reason of them that afflict them, and he shall send them a man who shall save them; he shall judge and save them.²¹ And the Lord shall be known to the Egyptians, and the Egyptians shall know the Lord in that day; and they shall offer sacrifices, and shall vow vows to the Lord, and pay them.²² And the Lord shall smite the Egyptians with a stroke, and shall completely heal them: and they shall return to the Lord, and he shall hear them, and thoroughly heal them.²³ In that day there shall be a way from Egypt to the Assyrians, and the Assyrians shall enter into Egypt, and the Egyptians shall go to the Assyrians, and the Egyptians shall serve the Assyrians.²⁴ In that day shall Israel be third with the Egyptians and the Assyrians, blessed in the land which the Lord of hosts has blessed,²⁵ saying, Blessed be my people that is in Egypt, and that is among the Assyrians, and Israel mine inheritance.

Chapter 20

¹In the year when Tanathan came to Azotus, when he was sent by Arna king of the Assyrians, and warred against Azotus, and took it;² then the Lord spoke to Esaias the son of Amos, saying, Go and take the sackcloth off thy loins, and loose thy sandals from off thy feet, and do thus, going naked and barefoot.³ And the Lord said, As my servant Esaias has walked naked and barefoot three years, there shall be three years for signs and wonders to the Egyptians and Ethiopians;⁴ for thus shall the king of the Assyrians lead the captivity of Egypt and the Ethiopians, young men and old, naked and barefoot, having the shame of Egypt exposed.⁵ And the Egyptians being defeated shall be ashamed of the Ethiopians, in whom they had trusted; for they were their glory.⁶ And they that dwell in this island shall say in that day, Behold, we trusted to flee to them for help, who could not save themselves from the king of the Assyrians: and how shall we be saved?

¹THE VISION OF THE DESERT.

As though a whirlwind should pass through the desert, coming from a desert, even from such a land,² so a fearful and a grievous vision was declared to me: he that is treacherous deals treacherously, the transgressor transgresses. The Elamites are upon me, and the ambassadors of the Persians come against me: now will I groan and comfort myself. ³Therefore are my loins filled with feebleness, and pangs have seized me as a travailing woman: I dealt wrongfully that I might not hear; I hasted that I might not see. ⁴My heart wanders, and transgression overwhelms me; my soul is occupied with fear. ⁵Prepare the table, eat, drink: arise, ye princes, and prepare your shields. ⁶For thus said the Lord to me, Go and station a watchman for thyself, and declare whatever thou shalt see. ⁷And I saw two mounted horsemen, and a rider on an ass, and a rider on a camel. ⁸Hearken with great attention, and call thou Urias to the watch-tower: the Lord has spoken. I stood continually during the day, and I stood in the camp all night: ⁹and, behold, he comes riding in a chariot and pair: and he answered and said, Babylon is fallen, is fallen; and all her images and her idols have been crushed to the ground. ¹⁰Hear, ye that are left, and ye that are in pain, hear what things I have heard of the Lord of hosts which the God of Israel has declared to us.

THE VISION OF IDUMEA.

¹¹Call to me out of Seir; guard ye the bulwarks. ¹²I watch in the morning and the night: if thou wouldest enquire, enquire, and dwell by me.

¹³Thou mayest lodge in the forest in the evening, or in the way of Daedan. ¹⁴Ye that dwell in the country of Thaeman, bring water to meet him that is thirsty; ¹⁵meet the fugitives with bread, because of the multitude of the slain, and because of the multitude of them that lose their way, and because of the multitude of swords, and because of the multitude of bent bows, and because of the multitude of them that have fallen in war. ¹⁶For thus said the Lord to me, Yet a year, as the year of an hireling, and the glory of the sons of Kedar shall fail: ¹⁷and the remnant of the strong bows of the sons of Kedar shall be small: for the Lord God of Israel has spoken it.

¹THE WORD OF THE VALLEY OF SION.

What has happened to thee, that now ye are all gone up to the housetops which help you not? ²The city is filled with shouting men: thy slain are not slain with swords, nor are thy dead those who have died in battle. ³All thy princes have fled, and thy captives are tightly bound, and the mighty men in thee have fled far away. ⁴Therefore I said, Let me alone, I will weep bitterly; labour not to comfort me for the breach of the daughter of my people. ⁵For it is a day of trouble, and of destruction, and of treading down, and there is perplexity sent from the Lord of hosts: they wander in the valley of Sion; they wander from the least to the greatest on the mountains. ⁶And the Elamites took their quivers, and there were men mounted on horses, and there was a gathering for battle. ⁷And it shall be that thy choice valleys shall be filled with chariots, and horsemen shall block up thy gates. ⁸And they shall uncover the gates of Juda, and they shall look in that day on the choice houses of the city. ⁹And they shall uncover the secret places of the houses of the citadel of David: and they saw that they were many, and that one had turned the water of the old pool into the city; ¹⁰and that they had pulled down the houses of Jerusalem, to fortify the wall of the city. ¹¹And ye procured to yourselves water between the two walls within the ancient pool: but ye looked not to him that made it from the beginning, and regarded not him that created it. ¹²And the Lord, the Lord of hosts, called in that day for weeping, and lamentation, and baldness, and for girding with sackcloth: ¹³but they engaged in joy and gladness, slaying calves, and killing sheep, so as to eat flesh, and drink wine; saying, Let us eat and drink; for to-morrow we die. ¹⁴And these things are revealed in the ears of the Lord of hosts: for this sin shall not be forgiven you, until ye die. ¹⁵Thus says the Lord of hosts, Go into the chamber, to Somnas the treasurer, and say to him, Why art thou here? ¹⁶and what hast thou to do here, that thou hast here hewn thyself a sepulchre, and madest thyself a sepulchre on high, and hast graven for thyself a dwelling in the rock? ¹⁷Behold now, the Lord of hosts casts forth and will utterly destroy such a man, and will take away thy robe and thy glorious crown, ¹⁸and will cast thee into a great and unmeasured land, and there thou shalt die: and he will bring thy fair chariot to shame, and the house of thy prince to be trodden down. ¹⁹And thou shalt be removed from thy stewardship, and from thy place.

²⁰And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will call my servant Eliakim the son of Chelcias: ²¹and I will put on him thy robe, and I will grant him thy crown with power, and I will give thy stewardship into his hands: and he shall be as a father to them that dwell in Jerusalem, and to them that dwell in Juda. ²²And I will give him the glory of David; and he shall rule, and there shall be none to speak against him: and I will give him the key of the house of David upon his shoulder; and he shall open, and there shall be none to shut; and he shall shut, and there shall be none to open. ²³And I will make him a ruler in a sure place, and he shall be for a glorious throne of his father's house. ²⁴And every one that is glorious in the house of his father shall trust in him, from the least to the greatest; and they shall depend upon him in that day. ²⁵Thus says the Lord of hosts, The man that is fastened in the sure place shall be removed and be taken away, and shall fall; and the glory that is upon him shall be utterly destroyed:

for the Lord has spoken it.

Chapter 23

¹THE WORD OF TYRE.

Howl, ye ships of Carthage; for she has perished, and men no longer arrive from the land of the Citians: she is led captive. ²To whom are the dwellers in the island become like, the merchants of Phoenice, passing over the sea ³in great waters, a generation of merchants? as when the harvest is gathered in, so are these traders with the nations. ⁴Be ashamed, O Sidon: the sea has said, yea, the strength of the sea has said, I have not travailed, nor brought forth, nor have I brought up young men, nor reared virgins. ⁵Moreover when it shall be heard in Egypt, sorrow shall seize them for Tyre. ⁶Depart ye to Carthage; howl, ye that dwell in this island. ⁷Was not this your pride from the beginning, before she was given up? ⁸Who has devised this counsel against Tyre? Is she inferior? or has she no strength? her merchants were the glorious princes of the earth. ⁹The Lord of hosts has purposed to bring down all the pride of the glorious ones, and to disgrace every glorious thing on the earth. ¹⁰Till thy land; for ships no more come out of Carthage. ¹¹And thy hand prevails no more by sea, which troubled kings: the Lord of hosts has given a command concerning Chanaan, to destroy the strength thereof. ¹²And men shall say, Ye shall no longer at all continue to insult and injure the daughter of Sidon: and if thou depart to the Citians, neither there shalt thou have rest. ¹³And if thou depart to the land of the Chaldeans, this also is laid waste by the Assyrians, for her wall is fallen. ¹⁴Howl, ye ships of Carthage: for your strong hold is destroyed. ¹⁵And it shall come to pass in that day, that Tyre shall be left seventy years, as the time of a king, as the time of a man: and it shall come to pass after seventy years, that Tyre shall be as the song of a harlot. ¹⁶Take a harp, go about, O city, thou harlot that hast been forgotten; play well on the harp, sing many songs, that thou mayest be remembered.

¹⁷And it shall come to pass after the seventy years, that God will visit Tyre, and she shall be again restored to her primitive state, and she shall be a mart for all the kingdoms of the world on the face of the earth. ¹⁸And her trade and her gain shall be holiness to the Lord: it shall not be gathered for them, but for those that dwell before the Lord, even all her trade, to eat and drink and be filled, and for a covenant and a memorial before the Lord.

¹Behold, the Lord is about to lay waste the world, and will make it desolate, and will lay bare the surface of it, and scatter them that dwell therein. ²And the people shall be as the priest, and the servant as the lord, and the maid as the mistress; the buyer shall be as the seller, the lender as the borrower, and the debtor as his creditor. ³The earth shall be completely laid waste, and the earth shall be utterly spoiled: for the mouth of the Lord has spoken these things. ⁴The earth mourns, and the world is ruined, the lofty ones of the earth are mourning. ⁵And she has sinned by reason of her inhabitants; because they have transgressed the law, and changed the ordinances, even the everlasting covenant. ⁶Therefore a curse shall consume the earth, because the inhabitants thereof have sinned: therefore the dwellers in the earth shall be poor, and few men shall be left. ⁷The wine shall mourn, the vine shall mourn, all the merry-hearted shall sigh. ⁸The mirth of timbrels has ceased, the sound of the harp has ceased. ⁹They are ashamed, they have not drunk wine; strong drink has become bitter to them that drink it. ¹⁰All the city has become desolate: one shall shut his house so that none shall enter. ¹¹There is a howling for the wine everywhere; all the mirth of the land has ceased, all the mirth of the land has departed. ¹²And cities shall be left desolate, and houses being left shall fall to ruin. ¹³All this shall be in the land in the midst of the nations, as if one should strip an olive tree, so shall they strip them; but when the vintage is done, ¹⁴these shall cry aloud; and they that are left on the land shall rejoice together in the glory of the Lord: the water of the sea shall be troubled. ¹⁵Therefore shall the glory of the Lord be in the isles of the sea; the name of the Lord shall be glorious. ¹⁶O Lord God of Israel, from the ends of the earth we have heard wonderful things, and there is hope to the godly: but they shall say, Woe to the despisers, that despise the law. ¹⁷Fear, and a pit, and a snare, are upon you that dwell on the earth. ¹⁸And it shall come to pass, that he that flees from the fear shall fall into the pit; and he that comes up out of the pit shall be caught by the snare: for windows have been opened in heaven, and the foundations of the earth shall be shaken, ¹⁹the earth shall be utterly confounded, and the earth shall be completely perplexed. ²⁰It reels as a drunkard and one oppressed with wine, and the earth shall be shaken as a storehouse of fruits; for iniquity has prevailed upon it, and it shall fall, and shall not be able to rise. ²¹And God shall bring his hand upon the host of heaven, and upon the kings of the earth. ²²And they shall gather the multitude thereof into prisons, and they shall shut them into a strong hold: after many generations they shall be visited. ²³And the brick shall decay, and the wall shall fall; for the Lord shall reign from out of Sion, and out of Jerusalem, and shall be glorified before his elders.

¹O Lord God, I will glorify thee, I will sing to thy name; for thou hast done wonderful things, even an ancient and faithful counsel. So be it. ²For thou hast made cities a heap, even cities made strong that their foundations should not fall: the city of ungodly men shall not be built for ever. ³Therefore shall the poor people bless thee, and cities of injured men shall bless thee. ⁴For thou hast been a helper to every lowly city, and a shelter to them that were disheartened by reason of poverty: thou shalt deliver them from wicked men: thou hast been a shelter of them that thirst, and a refreshing air to injured men. ⁵*We were* as faint-hearted men thirsting in Sion, by reason of ungodly men to whom thou didst deliver us. ⁶And the Lord of hosts shall make a feast for all the nations: on this mount they shall drink gladness, they shall drink wine: ⁷they shall anoint themselves with ointment in this mountain. Impart thou all these things to the nations; for this is God's counsel upon all the nations. ⁸Death has prevailed and swallowed men up; but again the Lord God has taken away every tear from every face. He has taken away the reproach of his people from all the earth: for the mouth off the Lord has spoken it. ⁹And in that day they shall say, behold our God in whom we have trusted, and he shall save us: this is the Lord; we have waited for him, and we have exulted, and will rejoice in our salvation. ¹⁰God will give rest on this mountain, and the country of Moab shall be trodden down, as they tread the floor with waggons. ¹¹And he shall spread forth his hands, even as he also brings down man to destroy him: and he shall bring low his pride in regard to the thing on which he has laid his hands. ¹²And he shall bring down the height of the refuge of the wall, and it shall come down even to the ground.

Chapter 26

¹In that day they shall sing this song in the land of Judea; Behold a strong city; and he shall make salvation its wall and bulwark. ²Open ye the gates, let the nation enter that keeps righteousness, and keeps truth, ³supporting truth, and keeping peace: for on thee, O Lord, ⁴they have trusted with confidence for ever, the great, the eternal God; ⁵who hast humbled and brought down them that dwell on high thou shalt cast down strong cities, and bring them to the ground. ⁶And the feet of the meek and lowly shall trample them. ⁷The way of the godly is made straight: the way of the godly is also prepared. ⁸For the way of the Lord is judgement: we have hoped in thy name, and on the remembrance of thee, ⁹which our soul longs for: my spirit seeks thee very early in the morning, O God, for thy commandments are a light on the earth: learn righteousness, ye that dwell upon the earth. ¹⁰For the ungodly one is put down: no one who will not learn righteousness on the earth, shall be able to do the truth: let the ungodly be taken away, that he see not the glory of the Lord. ¹¹O Lord, thine arm is exalted, yet they knew it not: but when they know they shall be ashamed: jealously shall seize upon an untaught nation, and now fire shall devour the adversaries. ¹²O Lord our God, give us peace: for thou hast rendered to us all things. ¹³O Lord our God, take possession of us: O Lord, we know not any other beside thee: we name thy name. ¹⁴But the dead shall not see life, neither shall physicians by any means raise them up: therefore thou hast brought wrath upon them, and slain them, and hast taken away every male of them. Bring more evils upon them, O Lord; ¹⁵bring more evils on the glorious ones of the earth. ¹⁶Lord, in affliction I remembered thee; thy chastening was to us with small affliction. ¹⁷And as a woman in travail draws nigh to be delivered, and cries out in her pain; so have we been to thy beloved. ¹⁸We have conceived, O Lord, because of thy fear, and have been in pain, and have brought forth the breath of thy salvation, which we have wrought upon the earth: we shall not fall, but all that dwell upon the land shall fall. ¹⁹The dead shall rise, and they that are in the tombs shall be raised, and they that are in the earth shall rejoice: for the dew from thee is healing to them: but the land of the ungodly shall perish.

²⁰Go, my people, enter into thy closets, shut thy door, hide thyself for a little season, until the anger of the Lord have passed away. ²¹For, behold, the Lord is bringing wrath from his holy place upon the dwellers on the earth: the earth also shall disclose her blood, and shall not cover her slain.

Chapter 27

¹In that day God shall bring his holy and great and strong sword upon the dragon, even the serpent that flees, upon the dragon, the crooked serpent: he shall destroy the dragon. ²In that day there shall be a fair vineyard, and a desire to commence a song concerning it. ³I am a strong city, a city in a siege: in vain shall I water it; for it shall be taken by night, and by day the wall shall fall. ⁴There is no woman that has not taken hold of it; who will set me to watch stubble in the field? because of this enemy I have set her aside; therefore on this account the Lord has done all that he appointed. ⁵I am burnt up; they that dwell in her shall cry, Let us make peace with him, let us make peace, ⁶they that are coming are the children of Jacob. Israel shall bud and blossom, and the world shall be filled with his fruit. ⁷Shall he himself be thus smitten, even as he smote? and as he slew, shall he be thus slain? ⁸Fighting and reproaching he will dismiss them; didst thou not meditate with a harsh spirit, to slay them with a wrathful spirit? ⁹Therefore shall the iniquity of Jacob be taken away; and this is his blessing, when I shall have taken away his sin; when they shall have broken to pieces all the stones of the altars as fine dust, and their trees shall not remain, and their idols shall be cut off, as a thicket afar off. ¹⁰The flock that dwelt there shall be left, as a deserted flock; and the ground shall be for a long time for pasture, and there shall flocks lie down to rest. ¹¹And after a time there shall be in it no green thing because of the grass being parched. Come hither, ye woman that come from a sight; for it is a people of no understanding; therefore he that made them shall have no pity upon them, and he that formed them shall have no mercy upon them. ¹²And it shall come to pass in that day that God shall fence men off from the channel of the river as far as Rhinocorura; but do ye gather one by one the children of Israel. ¹³And it shall come to pass in that day that they shall blow the great trumpet, and the lost ones in the land of the Assyrians shall come, and the lost ones in Egypt, and shall worship the Lord on the holy mountain in Jerusalem.

Chapter 28

¹Woe to the crown of pride, the hirelings of Ephraim, the flower that has fallen from the glory of the top of the fertile mountain, they that are drunken without wine. ²Behold, the anger of the Lord is strong and severe, as descending hail where there is no shelter, violently descending; as a great body of water sweeping away the soil, he shall make rest for the land. ³The crown of pride, the hirelings of Ephraim, shall be beaten down with the hands and with the feet. ⁴And the fading flower of the glorious hope on the top of the high mountain shall be as the early fig; he that sees it, before he takes it into his hand, will desire to swallow it down. ⁵In that day the Lord of hosts shall be the crown of hope, the woven crown of glory, to the remnant of the people. ⁶They shall be left in the spirit of judgement for judgement, and for the strength of them that hinder slaying. ⁷For these have trespassed through wine; they have erred through strong drink: the priest and the prophet are mad through strong drink, they are swallowed up by reason of wine, they have staggered through drunkenness; they have erred: this is their vision. ⁸A curse shall devour this counsel, for this is their counsel for the sake of covetousness. ⁹To whom have we reported evils? and to whom have we reported a message? even to those that are weaned from the milk, who are drawn from the breast. ¹⁰Except thou affliction on affliction, hope upon hope: yet a little, and yet a little, ¹¹by reason of the contemptuous words of the lips, by means of another language: for they shall speak to this people, saying to them, ¹²This is the rest to him that is hungry, and this is the calamity: but they would not hear. ¹³Therefore the oracle of God shall be to them affliction on affliction, hope on hope, yet a little, and yet a little, that they may go and fall backward; and they shall be crushed and shall be in danger, and shall be taken.

¹⁴Therefore hear ye the word of the Lord, ye afflicted men, and ye princes of this people that is in Jerusalem. ¹⁵Because ye have said, We have made a covenant with Hades, and agreements with death; if the rushing storm should pass, it shall not come upon us: we have made falsehood our hope, and by falsehood shall we be protected: ¹⁶Therefore thus says the Lord, even the Lord, Behold, I lay for the foundations of Sion a costly stone, a choice, a corner-stone, a precious stone, for its foundations; and he that believes on him shall by no means be ashamed. ¹⁷And I will cause judgement to be for hope, and my compassion shall be for just measures, and ye that trust vainly in falsehood shall fall: for the storm shall by no means pass by you, ¹⁸except it also take away your covenant of death, and your trust in Hades shall by no means stand: if the rushing storm should come upon you, ye shall be beaten down by it. ¹⁹Whenever it shall pass by, it shall take you; morning by morning it shall pass by in the day, and in the night there shall be an evil hope. ²⁰Learn to hear, ye that are distressed; we cannot fight, but we are ourselves too weak for you to be gathered. ²¹The Lord shall rise up as a mountain of ungodly men, and shall be in the valley of Gabaon; he shall perform his works with wrath, even a work of bitterness, and his wrath shall deal strangely, and his destruction shall be strange. ²²Therefore do not ye rejoice, neither let your bands be made strong; for I have heard of works finished and cut short by the Lord of hosts, which he will execute upon all the earth.

²³Hearken, and hear my voice; attend, and hear my words. ²⁴Will the ploughman plough all the day? or will he prepare the seed beforehand, before he tills the ground? ²⁵Does he not, when he has levelled the surface thereof, then sow the small black poppy, or cumin, and afterward sow wheat, and barley, and millet, and bread-corn in thy borders? ²⁶So thou shalt be chastened by the judgement of thy God, and shalt rejoice. ²⁷For the black poppy is not cleansed with harsh treatment, nor will a wagon-wheel pass over the cumin; but the black poppy is threshed with a rod, and the cumin shall be eaten with bread; ²⁸for I will not be wroth with you for ever, neither shall the voice of my anger crush you. ²⁹And these signs came forth from the Lord of hosts. Take counsel, exalt vain comfort.

¹Alas for the city of Ariel, which David besieged. Gather ye fruits year by year; eat ye, for ye shall eat with Moab. ²For I will grievously afflict Ariel: and her strength and her wealth shall be mine. ³And I will compass thee about like David, and will raise a mound about thee, and set up towers round thee. ⁴And thy words shall be brought down to the earth, and thy words shall sink down to the earth, and thy voice shall be as they that speak out of the earth, and thy voice shall be lowered to the ground. ⁵But the wealth of the ungodly shall be as dust from a wheel, and the multitude of them that oppress thee as flying chaff, and it shall be suddenly as a moment, ⁶from the Lord of Hosts: for there shall be a visitation with thunder, and earthquake, and a loud noise, a rushing tempest, and devouring flame of fire. ⁷And the wealth of all the nations together, as many as have fought against Ariel, and all they that war against Jerusalem, and all who are gathered against her, and they that distress her, shall be as one that dreams in sleep by night. ⁸And as men drink and eat in sleep, and when they have arisen, the dream is vain: and as a thirsty man dreams as if he drank, and having arisen is still thirsty, and his soul has desired in vain: so shall be the wealth of all the nations, as many as have fought against the mount Sion. ⁹Faint ye, and be amazed, and be overpowered, not with strong drink nor with wine. ¹⁰For the Lord has made you to drink a spirit of deep sleep; and he shall close their eyes, and the eyes of their prophets and of their rulers, who see secret things. ¹¹And all these things shall be to you as the words of this sealed book, which if they shall give to a learned man, saying, Read this, he shall then say, I cannot read it, for it is sealed. ¹²And this book shall be given into the hands of a man that is unlearned, and one shall say to him, Read this; and he shall say, I am not learned.

¹³And the Lord has said, This people draw nigh to me with their mouth, and they honour me with their lips, but their heart is far from me: but in vain do they worship me, teaching the commandments and doctrines of men. ¹⁴Therefore behold I will proceed to remove this people, and I will remove them: and I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will hide the understanding of the prudent. ¹⁵Woe to them that deepen their counsel, and not by the Lord. Woe to them that take secret counsel, and whose works are in darkness, and they say, Who has seen us? and who shall know us, or what we do? ¹⁶Shall ye not be counted as clay of the potter? Shall the thing formed say to him that formed it, Thou didst not form me? or the work to the maker, Thou hast not made me wisely? ¹⁷*Is it* not yet a little while, and Libanus shall be changed as the mountains of Chermel, and Chermel shall be reckoned as a forest? ¹⁸And in that day the deaf shall hear the words of the book, and they that are in darkness, and they that are in mist: the eyes of the blind shall see, ¹⁹and the poor shall rejoice with joy because of the Lord, and they that had no hope among men shall be filled with joy. ²⁰The lawless man has come to nought, and the proud man has perished, and they that transgress mischievously have been utterly destroyed: ²¹and they that cause men to sin by a word: and men shall make all that reprove in the gates an offence, because they have unjustly turned aside the righteous. ²²Therefore thus says the Lord concerning the house of Jacob, whom he set apart from Abraam, Jacob shall not now be ashamed, neither shall he now change countenance.²³ But when their children shall have seen my works, they shall sanctify my name for my sake, and they sanctify the Holy One of Jacob, and shall fear the God of Israel.²⁴ And they that erred in spirit shall know understanding, and the murmurers shall learn obedience, and the stammering tongues shall learn to speak peace.

Chapter 30

¹Woe to the apostate children, says the Lord: ye have framed counsel, not by me, and covenants not by my Spirit, to add sins to sins: ²*even* they that proceed to go down into Egypt, but they have not enquired of me, that they might be helped by Pharao, and protected by the Egyptians.³ For the protection of Pharaoh shall be to you a disgrace, and there shall be a reproach to them that trust in Egypt.⁴ For there are princes in Tanes, evil messengers.⁵ In vain shall they labour in seeking to a people, which shall not profit them for help, but shall be for a shame and reproach.

⁶THE VISION OF THE QUADRUPEDS IN THE DESERT.

In affliction and distress, where are the lion and lion's whelp, thence come also asps, and the young of flying asps, there shall they be who bore their wealth on asses and camels to a nation which shall not profit them.⁷ The Egyptians shall help you utterly in vain: tell them, This your consolation is vain.

⁸Now then sit down and write these words on a tablet, and in a book; for these things shall be for many long days, and even for ever.⁹ For the people is disobedient, false children, who would not hear the law of God:¹⁰ who say to the prophets, Report not to us; and to them that see visions, Speak them not to us, but speak and report to us another error;¹¹ and turn us aside from this way; remove from us this path, and remove from us the oracle of Israel.¹² Therefore thus says the Holy One of Israel, Because ye have refused to obey these words, and have trusted in falsehood; and because thou hast murmured, and been confident in this respect:¹³ therefore shall this sin be to you as a wall suddenly falling when a strong city has been taken, of which the fall is very near at hand.¹⁴ And the fall thereof shall be as the breaking of an earthen vessel, as small fragments of a pitcher, so that thou shouldest not find among them a sherd, with which thou mightest take up fire, and with which thou shouldest draw a little water.¹⁵ Thus says the Lord, the Holy Lord of Israel; When thou shalt turn and mourn, then thou shalt be saved; and thou shalt know where thou wast, when thou didst trust in vanities: then your strength became vain, yet ye would not hearken:¹⁶ but ye said, We will flee upon horses; therefore shall ye flee: and, We will be aided by swift riders; therefore shall they that pursue you be swift. ¹⁷A thousand shall flee because of the voice of one, and many shall flee on account of the voice of five; until ye be left as a signal-post upon a mountain, and as one bearing an ensign upon a hill. ¹⁸And the Lord will again wait, that he may pity you, and will therefore be exalted that he may have mercy upon you: because the Lord your God is a judge: blessed are they that stay themselves upon him. ¹⁹For the holy people shall dwell in Sion: and whereas Jerusalem has wept bitterly, saying, Pity me; he shall pity thee: when he perceived the voice of thy cry, he hearkened to thee. ²⁰And though the Lord shall give you the bread of affliction and scant water, yet they that cause thee to err shall no more at all draw nigh to thee; for thine eyes shall see those that cause thee to err, ²¹and thine ears shall hear the words of them that went after thee to lead thee astray, who say, This is the way, let us walk in it, whether to the right or to the left. ²²And thou shalt pollute the plated idols, and thou shalt grind to powder the gilt ones, and shalt scatter them as the water of a removed woman, and thou shalt thrust them forth as dung. ²³Then shall there be rain to the seed of thy land; and the bread of the fruit of thy land shall be plenteous and rich: and thy cattle shall feed in that day in a fertile and spacious place. ²⁴Your bulls and your oxen that till the ground, shall eat chaff mixed with winnowed barley. ²⁵And there shall be upon every lofty mountain and upon every high hill, water running in that day, when many shall perish, and when the towers shall fall. ²⁶And the light of the moon shall be as the light of the sun, and the light of the sun shall be sevenfold in the day when the Lord shall heal the breach of his people, and shall heal the pain of thy wound.

²⁷Behold, the name of the Lord comes after a long time, burning wrath: the word of his lips is with glory, a word full of anger, and the anger of his wrath shall devour as fire.

²⁹Must ye always rejoice, and go into my holy places continually, as they that keep a feast? and must ye go with a pipe, as those that rejoice, into the mountain of the Lord, to the God of Israel? ³⁰And the Lord shall make his glorious voice to be heard, and the wrath of his arm, to make a display with wrath and anger and devouring flame: he shall lighten terribly, and his wrath shall be as water and violent hail. ³¹For by the voice of the Lord the Assyrians shall be overcome, even by the stroke wherewith he shall smite them. ³²And it shall happen to him from every side, that they from whom their hope of assistance was, in which he trusted, themselves shall war against him in turn with drums and with harp. ³³For thou shalt be required before thy time: has it been prepared for thee also to reign? nay, God has prepared for thee a deep trench, wood piled, fire and much wood: the wrath of the Lord shall be as a trench kindled with sulphur.

Chapter 31

¹Woe to them that go down to Egypt for help, who trust in horses and chariots, for they are many; and in horses, which are a great multitude; and have not trusted in the Holy One of Israel, and have not sought the Lord. ²Therefore he has wisely brought evils upon them, and his word shall not be frustrated; and he shall rise up against the houses of wicked men, and against their vain hope, ³*even* an Egyptian, a man, and not God; the flesh of horses, and there is no help in them: but the Lord shall bring his hand upon them, and the helpers shall fail, and all shall perish together. ⁴For thus said the Lord to me, As a lion would roar, or a lion's whelp over prey which he has taken, and cry over it, until the mountains are filled with his voice, and the animals are awe-struck and tremble at the fierceness of his wrath: so the Lord of hosts shall descend to fight upon the mount Sion, even upon her mountains. ⁵As birds flying, so shall the Lord of hosts defend; he shall defend Jerusalem, and he shall rescue, and save and deliver. ⁶Turn, ye children of Israel, who devise a deep and sinful counsel. ⁷For in that day men shall renounce their silver idols and their golden idols, which their hands made. ⁸And the Assyrian shall fall: not the sword of a great man, nor the sword of a mean man shall devour him; neither shall he flee from the face of the sword: but the young men shall be overthrown: ⁹for they shall be compassed with rocks as with a trench, and shall be worsted; and he that flees shall be taken. Thus says the Lord, Blesses is he that has a seed in Sion, and household friends in Jerusalem.

Chapter 32

¹For, behold, a righteous king shall reign, and princes shall govern with judgement. ²And a man shall hide his words, and be hidden, as from rushing water, and shall appear in Sion as a rushing river, glorious in a thirsty land. ³And they shall no more trust in men, but they shall incline their ears to hear. ⁴And the heart of the weak ones shall attend to hear, and the stammering tongues shall soon learn to speak peace. ⁵And they shall no more at all tell a fool to rule, and thy servants shall no more at all say, Be silent. ⁶For the fool shall speak foolish words, and his heart shall meditate vanities, and to perform lawless deeds and to speak error against the Lord, to scatter hungry souls, and he will cause the thirsty souls to be empty. ⁷For the counsel of the wicked will devise iniquity, to destroy the poor with unjust words, and ruin the cause of the poor in judgement. ⁸But the godly have devised wise measures, and this counsel shall stand. ⁹Rise up, ye rich women, and hear my voice; ye confident daughters, hearken to my words. ¹⁰Remember for a full year in pain, yet with hope: the vintage has been cut off; it has ceased, it shall by no means come again. ¹¹Be amazed, be pained, ye confident ones: strip you, bare yourselves, gird your loins; ¹²and beat your breasts, because of the pleasant field, and the fruit of the vine. ¹³*As for* the land of my people, the thorn and grass shall come upon it, and joy shall be removed from every house. ¹⁴*As for* the rich city, the houses are deserted; they shall abandon the wealth of the city, and the pleasant houses: and the villages shall be caves for ever, the joy of wild asses, shepherds' pastures; ¹⁵until the Spirit shall come upon you from on high, and Chermel shall be desert, and Chermel shall be counted for a forest. ¹⁶Then judgement shall abide in the wilderness, and righteousness shall dwell in Carmel. ¹⁷And the works of righteousness shall be peace; and righteousness shall ensure rest, and the righteous shall be confident for ever. ¹⁸And his people shall inhabit a city of peace, and dwell in it in confidence, and they shall rest with wealth. ¹⁹And if the hail should come down, it shall not come upon you; and they that dwell in the forests shall be in confidence, as those in the plain country. ²⁰Blessed are they that sow by every water, where the ox and ass tread.

Easias

¹Woe to them that afflict you; but no one makes you miserable: and he that deals perfidiously with you does not deal perfidiously: they that deal perfidiously shall be taken and given up, and as a moth on a garment, so shall they be spoiled. ²Lord, have mercy upon us; for we have trusted in thee: the seed of the rebellious is gone to destruction, but our deliverance was in a time of affliction. ³By reason of the terrible sound the nations were dismayed for fear of thee, and the heathen were scattered. ⁴And now shall the spoils of your small and great be gathered: as if one should gather locusts, so shall they mock you. ⁵The God who dwells on high is holy: Sion is filled with judgment and righteousness. ⁶They shall be delivered up to the law: our salvation is our treasure: there are wisdom and knowledge and piety toward the Lord; these are the treasures of righteousness. ⁷Behold now, these shall be terrified with fear of you: those whom ye feared shall cry out because of you: messengers shall be sent, bitterly weeping, entreating for peace. ⁸For the ways of these shall be made desolate: the terror of the nations has been made to cease, and the covenant with these is taken away, and ye shall by no means deem them men. ⁹The land mourns; Libanus is ashamed: Saron is become marshes; Galilee shall be laid bare, and Chermel. ¹⁰Now will I arise, says the

Lord, now will I be glorified; now will I be exalted. ¹¹Now shall ye see, now shall ye perceive; the strength of your breath, shall be vain; fire shall devour you. ¹²And the nations shall be burnt up; as a thorn in the field cast out and burnt up. ¹³They that are afar off shall hear what I have done; they that draw nigh shall know my strength. ¹⁴The sinners in Sion have departed; trembling shall seize the ungodly. Who will tell you that a fire is kindled? Who will tell you of the eternal place? ¹⁵He that walks in righteousness, speaking rightly, hating transgression and iniquity, and shaking his hands from gifts, stopping his ears that he should not hear the judgement of blood, shutting his eyes that he should not see injustice. ¹⁶he shall dwell in a high cave of a strong rock: bread shall be given him, and his water shall be sure. ¹⁷Ye shall see a king with glory: your eyes shall behold a land from afar. ¹⁸Your soul shall meditate terror. Where are the scribes? where are the counsellors, where is he that numbers them that are growing up, ¹⁹*even* the small and great people? with whom he took not counsel, neither did he understand a people of deep speech, so that a despised people should not hear, and there is no understanding to him that hears. ²⁰Behold the city of Sion, our refuge: thine eyes shall behold Jerusalem, a rich city, tabernacles which shall not be shaken, neither shall the pins of her tabernacle be moved for ever, neither shall her cords be at all broken: ²¹for the name of the Lord is great to you: ye shall have a place, even rivers and wide and spacious channels: thou shalt not go this way, neither a vessel with oars go thereby. ²²For my God is great: the Lord our judge shall not pass me by: the Lord is our prince, the Lord is our king; the Lord, he shall save us. ²³Thy cords are broken, for they had no strength: thy meat has given way, it shall not spread the sails, it shall not bear a signal, until it be given up for plunder; therefore shall many lame men take spoil. ²⁴And the people dwelling among them shall by no means say, I am in pain: for their sin shall be forgiven them.

Chapter 34

¹Draw near, ye nations; and hearken, ye princes; let the earth hear, and they that are in it; the world, and the people that are therein. ²For the wrath of the Lord is upon all nations, and his anger upon the number of them, to destroy them, and give them up to slaughter. ³And their slain shall be cast forth, and their corpses; and their ill savour shall come up, and the mountains shall be made wet with their blood. ⁴And all the powers of the heavens shall melt, and the sky shall be rolled up like a scroll: and all the stars shall fall like leaves from a vine, and as leaves fall from a fig-tree. ⁵My sword has been made drunk in heaven: behold, it shall come down upon Idumea, and with judgement upon the people doomed to destruction. ⁶The sword of the Lord is filled with blood, it is glutted with fat, with the blood of goats and lambs, and with the fat of goats and rams: for the Lord has a sacrifice in Bosor, and a great slaughter in Idumea. ⁷And the mighty ones shall fall with them, and the rams and the bulls; and the land shall be soaked with blood, and shall be filled with their fat. ⁸For it is the day of judgement of the Lord, and the year of the recompence of Sion in judgement. ⁹And her valleys shall be turned into pitch, and her land into sulphur; and her land shall be as pitch burning night and day; ¹⁰and it shall never be quenched, and her smoke shall go up: it shall be made desolate throughout her generations, ¹¹and for a long time birds and hedgehogs, and ibises and ravens shall dwell in it: and the measuring line of desolation shall be cast over it, and satyrs shall dwell in it. ¹²Her princes shall be no more; for her kings and her great men shall be destroyed. ¹³And thorns shall spring up in their cities, and in her strong holds: and they shall be habitations of monsters, and a court of ostriches. ¹⁴And devils shall meet with satyrs, and they shall cry one to the other: there shall satyrs rest, having found for themselves a place of rest. ¹⁵There has the hedgehog made its nest, and the earth has safely preserved its young: there have the deer met, and seen one another's faces. ¹⁶They passed by in full number, and not one of them perished: they sought not one another;

for the Lord commanded them, and his Spirit gathered them. ¹⁷And he shall cast lots for them, and his hand has portioned out their pasture, saying, Ye shall inherit the land for ever: they shall rest on it through all generations.

Chapter 35

¹Be glad, thou thirsty desert: let the wilderness exult, and flower as the lily. ²And the desert places of Jordan shall blossom and rejoice; the glory of Libanus has been given to it, and the honour of Carmel; and my people shall see the glory of the Lord, and the majesty of God. ³Be strong, ye relaxed hands and palsied knees. ⁴Comfort one another, ye fainthearted; be strong, fear not; behold, our God renders judgement, and he will render it; he will come and save us. ⁵Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall hear. ⁶Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the stammerers shall speak plainly; for water has burst forth in the desert, and a channel of water in a thirsty land. ⁷And the dry land shall become pools, and a fountain of water shall be poured into the thirsty land; there shall there be a joy of birds, ready habitations and marshes. ⁸There shall be there a pure way, and it shall be called a holy way; and there shall not pass by there any unclean person, neither shall there be there an unclean way; but the dispersed shall walk on it, and they shall not go astray. ⁹And there shall be no lion there, neither shall any evil beast go up upon it, nor at all be found there; but the redeemed and gathered on the Lord's behalf, shall walk in it,¹⁰ and shall return, and come to Sion with joy, and everlasting joy shall be over their head; for on their head shall be praise and exultation, and joy shall take possession of them: sorrow and pain, and groaning have fled away.

Chapter 36

¹Now it came to pass in the fourteenth year of the reign of Ezekias, that Sennacherim, king of the Assyrians, came up against the strong cities of Judea, and took them. ²And the king of the Assyrians sent Rabsaces out of Laches to Jerusalem to king Ezekias with a large force: and he stood by the conduit of the upper pool in the way of the fuller's field. ³And there went forth to him Heliakim the steward, the son of Chelcias, and Somnas the scribe, and Joach the son of Asaph, the recorder. ⁴And Rabsaces said to them, Say to Ezekias, Thus says the great king, the king of the Assyrians, Why art thou secure? ⁵Is war carried on with counsel and mere words of the lips? and now on whom dost thou trust, that thou rebellest against me? ⁶Behold, thou trustest on this bruised staff of reed, on Egypt: as soon as a man leans upon it, it shall go into his hand, and pierce it: so is Pharao king of Egypt and all that trust in him. ⁷But it ye say, We trust in the Lord our God; ⁸yet now make an agreement with my lord the king of the Assyrians, and I will give you two thousand horses, if ye shall be able to set riders upon them. ⁹And how can ye then turn to the face of the satraps? They that trust on the Egyptians for horse and rider, are our servants. ¹⁰And now, Have we come up against this land to fight against it without the Lord? The Lord said to me, Go up against this land, and destroy it. ¹¹Then Eliakim and Somnas and Joach said to him, Speak to thy servants in the Syrian tongue; for we understand it: and speak not to us in the Jewish tongue: and wherefore speakest thou in the ears of the men on the wall? ¹²And Rabsaces said to them, Has my lord sent me to your lord or to you, to speak these words? has he not sent me to the men that sit on the wall, that they may eat dung, and drink their water together with you? ¹³And Rabsaces stood and cried with a loud voice in the Jewish language, and said, Hear ye the words of the great king, the king of the Assyrians: ¹⁴thus says the king, Let not Ezekias deceive you with words: he will not be able to deliver you. ¹⁵And let not Ezekias say to you, That God will deliver you, and this city will not at all be delivered into the hand of the king of the Assyrians. ¹⁶Hearken not to Ezekias: thus says the king of the Assyrians, If ye wish to be blessed, come out to me: and ye shall eat every one of his vine and his fig-trees, and ye shall drink water out of your own cisterns: ¹⁷until I come and take you to a land, like your own land, a land of corn and wine, and bread, and vineyards. ¹⁸Let not Ezekias deceive you, saying, God will deliver you. Have the gods of the nations delivered each one his own land out of the hand of the king of the Assyrians? ¹⁹Where is the god of Emath, and Arphath? and where is the god of Eppharuaim? have they been able to deliver Samaria out of my hand? ²⁰Which is the god of all these nations, that has delivered his land out of my hand, that God should deliver Jerusalem out of my hand? ²¹And they were silent, and none answered him a word; because the king had commanded that none should answer.

²²And Heliakim the son of Chelcias, the steward, and Somnas the military scribe, and Joach the son of Asaph, the recorder, came in to Ezekias, having their garments rent, and they reported to him the words of Rabsaces.

Chapter 37

¹And it came to pass, when king Ezekias heard it, that he rent his clothes, and put on sackcloth, and went up to the house of the Lord. ²And he sent Heliakim the steward, and Somnas the scribe, and the elders of the priests clothed with sackcloth, to Esaias the son of Amos, the prophet. And they said to him, Thus says Ezekias, ³To-day is a day of affliction, and reproach, and rebuke, and anger: for the pangs are come upon the travailing woman, but she has not strength to bring forth. ⁴May the Lord thy God hear the words of Rabsaces, which the king of the Assyrians has sent, to reproach the living God, even to reproach with the words which the Lord thy God has heard: therefore thou shalt pray to thy Lord for these that are left. ⁵So the servants of king Ezekias came to Esaias. ⁶And Esaias said to them, Thus shall ye say to your master, Thus says the Lord, Be not thou afraid at the words which thou hast heard, wherewith the ambassadors of the king of the Assyrians have reproached me, ⁷Behold, I will send a blast upon him, and he shall hear a report, and return to his own country, and he shall fall by the sword in his own land. ⁸So Rabsaces returned, and found the king of the Assyrians besieging Lobna: for he had heard that he had departed from Lachis. ⁹And Tharaca king of the Ethiopians went forth to attack him. And when he heard it, he turned aside, and sent messengers to Ezekias, saying, ¹⁰Thus shall ye say to Ezekias king of Judea, Let not thy God, in whom thou trustest, deceive thee, saying, Jerusalem shall not be delivered into the hand of the king of the Assyrians. ¹¹Hast thou not heard what the kings of the Assyrians have done, how they have destroyed the whole earth? and shalt thou be delivered? ¹²Have the gods of the nations which my fathers destroyed delivered them, both Gozan, and Charrhan, and Rapheth, which are in the land of Theemath? ¹³Where are the kings of Emath? and where is the king of Arphath? and where is the king of the city of Eppharuaim, and of

Anagugana? ¹⁴And Ezekias received the letter from the messengers, and read it, and went up to the house of the Lord, and opened it before the Lord. ¹⁵And Ezekias prayed to the Lord, saying, ¹⁶O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, who sittest upon the cherubs, thou alone art the God of every kingdom of the world: thou hast made heaven and earth. ¹⁷Incline thine ear, O Lord, hearken, O Lord; open thine eyes, O Lord, look, O Lord: and behold the words of Sennacherim, which he has sent to reproach the living God. ¹⁸For of a truth, Lord, the kings of the Assyrians have laid waste the whole world, and the countries thereof, ¹⁹and have cast their idols into the fire: for, they were no gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and stone; and they have cast them away. ²⁰But now, O Lord our God, deliver us from his hands, that every kingdom of the earth may know that thou art God alone.

²¹And Esaias the son of Amos was sent to Ezekias, and said to him, Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel, I have heard thy prayer to me concerning Sennacherim king of the Assyrians.

²²This is the word which God has spoken concerning him; The virgin daughter of Sion has despised thee, and mocked thee; the daughter of Jerusalem has shaken her head at thee.

²³Whom hast thou reproached and provoked? and against whom hast thou lifted up thy voice? and hast thou not lifted up thine eyes on high against the Holy One of Israel? ²⁴For thou hast reproached the Lord by messengers; for thou hast said, With the multitude of chariots have I ascended to the height of mountains, and to the sides of Libanus; and I have cropped the height of his cedars and the beauty of his cypresses; and I entered into the height of the forest region: ²⁵and I have made a bridge, and dried up the waters, and every pool of water. ²⁶Hast thou not heard of these things which I did of old? I appointed them from ancient times; but now have I manifested my purpose of desolating nations in their strong holds, and them that dwell in strong cities. ²⁷I weakened their hands, and they withered; and they became as dry grass on the house-tops, and as grass. ²⁸But now I know thy rest, and thy going out, and thy coming in. ²⁹And thy wrath wherewith thou hast been enraged, and thy rancour has come up to me; therefore I will put a hook in thy nose, and a bit in thy lips, and will turn thee back by the way by which thou camest. ³⁰And this shall be a sign to thee, Eat this year what thou hast sown; and the second year that which is left: and the third year sow, and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them. ³¹And they that are left in Judea shall take root downward, and bear fruit upward: ³²for out of Jerusalem there shall be a remnant, and the saved ones out of mount Sion: the zeal of the Lord of hosts shall perform this. ³³Therefore thus says the Lord concerning the king of the Assyrians, He shall not enter into this city, nor cast a weapon against it, nor bring a shield against it, nor make a rampart round it. ³⁴But by the way by which he came, by it shall he return, and shall not enter into this city: thus says the Lord. ³⁵I will protect this city to save it for my own sake, and for my servant David's sake.

Easias

³⁶And the angel of the Lord went forth, and slew out of the camp of the Assyrians a hundred and eighty-five thousand: and they arose in the morning and found all these bodies dead. ³⁷And Sennacherim king of the Assyrians turned and departed, and dwelt in Nineve. ³⁸And while he was worshipping Nasarach his country's god in the house, Adramelech and Sarasar his sons smote him with swords; and they escaped into Armenia: and Asordan his son reigned in his stead.

¹And it came to pass at that time, that Ezekias was sick even to death. And Esaias the prophet the son of Amos came to him, and said to him, Thus says the Lord, Give orders concerning thy house: for thou shalt die, and not live. ²And Ezekias turned his face to the wall, and prayed to the Lord, saying, ³Remember, O Lord, how I have walked before thee in truth, with a true heart, and have done that which was pleasing in thy sight. And Ezekias wept bitterly. ⁴And the word of the Lord came to Esaias, saying, Go, and say to Ezekias, ⁵Thus says the Lord, the God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, and seen thy tears: behold, I will add to thy time fifteen years. ⁶And I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of the Assyrians: and I will defend this city. ⁷And this shall be a sign to thee from the Lord, that God will do this thing; ⁸behold, I will turn back the shadow of the degrees of the dial by which ten degrees on the house of thy father the sun has gone down—I will turn back the sun the ten degrees; so the sun went back the ten degrees by which the shadow had gone down.

⁹THE PRAYER OF EZEKIAS KING OF JUDEA, WHEN HE HAD BEEN SICK, AND WAS RECOVERED FROM HIS SICKNESS.

¹⁰I said in the end of my days, I shall go to the gates of the grave: I shall part with the remainder of my years. ¹¹I said, I shall no more at all see the salvation of God in the land of the living: I shall no more at all see the salvation of Israel on the earth: I shall no more at all see man. ¹²*My life* has failed from among my kindred: I have parted with the remainder of my life: it has gone forth and departed from me, as one that having pitched a tent takes it down again: my breath was with me as a weaver's web, when she that weaves draws nigh to cut off the thread. ¹³In that day I was given up as to a lion until the morning: so has he broken all my bones: for I was so given up from day even to night. ¹⁴As a swallow, so will I cry, and as a dove, so do I mourn: for mine eyes have failed with looking to the height of heaven to the Lord, who has delivered me, and removed the sorrow of my soul. ¹⁶*Yea*, O Lord, for it was told thee concerning this; and thou hast revived my breath; and I am comforted, and live. ¹⁷For thou hast chosen my soul, that it should not perish: and thou hast cast all my sins behind me. ¹⁸For they that are in the grave shall not praise thee, neither shall the dead bless thee, neither shall they that are in Hades hope for thy mercy. ¹⁹The living shall bless thee, as I also do: for from this day shall I beget children, who shall declare thy righteousness, ²⁰O God of my salvation; and I will not cease blessing thee with the psaltery all the days of my life before the house of God. ²¹Now Esaias had said to Ezekias; Take a cake of figs, and mash them, and apply them as a plaster, and thou shalt be well. ²²And Ezekias said, This is a sign to Ezekias, that I shall go up to the house of God.

Chapter 39

¹At that time Marodach Baladan, the son of Baladan, the king of Babylonia, sent letters and ambassadors and gifts to Ezekias: for he had heard that he had been sick even to death, and was recovered. ²And Ezekias was glad of their coming, and he showed them the house of his spices, and of silver, and gold, and myrrh, and incense, and ointment, and all the houses of his treasures, and all that he had in his stores: and there was nothing in his house, nor in all his dominion, which Ezekias did not shew. ³And Esaias the prophet came to king Ezekias, and said to him, What say these men? and whence came they to thee? and Ezekias said, They are come to me from a land afar off, from Babylon. ⁴And Esaias said, What have they seen in thine house? and Ezekias said, They have seen everything in my house; and there is nothing in my house which they have not seen: yea, also the possessions in my treasures. ⁵And Esaias said to him, Hear the word of the Lord of hosts: ⁶Behold, the days come, when they shall take all the things that are in thine house, and all that thy fathers have gathered until this day, shall go to Babylon; and they shall not leave anything at all: and God hath said, ⁷that they shall take also of thy children whom thou shalt beget; and they shall make them eunuchs in the house of the king of the Babylonians. ⁸And Ezekias said to Esaias, Good is the word of the Lord, which he hath spoken: let there, I pray, be peace and righteousness in my days.

Chapter 40

¹Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, says God. ²Speak, ye priests, to the heart of Jerusalem; comfort her, for her humiliation is accomplished, her sin is put away: for she has received of the Lord's hand double the amount of her sins. ³The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight the paths of our God. ⁴Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low: and all the crooked ways shall become straight, and the rough places plains. ⁵And the glory of the Lord shall appear, and all flesh shall see the salvation of God: for the Lord has spoken it. ⁶The voice of one saying, Cry; and I said, What shall I cry? All flesh is grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass: ⁷⁸The grass withers, and the flower fades: but the word of our God abides for ever.

⁹O thou that bringest glad tidings to Zion, go up on the high mountain; lift up thy voice with strength, thou that bringest glad tidings to Jerusalem; lift it up, fear not; say unto the cities of Juda, Behold your God! ¹⁰Behold the Lord! The Lord is coming with strength, and his arm is with power: behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him. ¹¹He shall tend his flock as a shepherd, and he shall gather the lambs with his arm, and shall soothe them that are with young. ¹²Who has measured the water in his hand, and the heaven with a span, and all the earth in a handful? Who has weighed the mountains in scales, and the forests in a balance? ¹³Who has known the mind of the Lord? and who has been his counsellor, to instruct him? ¹⁴Or with whom has he taken counsel, and he has instructed him? or who has taught him judgement, or who has taught him the way of understanding; ¹⁵since all the nations are counted as a drop from a bucket, and as the turning of a balance, and shall be counted as spittle? ¹⁶And Libanus is not enough to burn, nor all beasts enough for a whole-burnt offering: ¹⁷and all the nations are as nothing, and counted as nothing. ¹⁸To whom have ye compared the Lord? and with what likeness have ye compared him? ¹⁹Has not the artificer made an image, or the goldsmith having melted gold, gilt it over, and made it a similitude? ²⁰For the artificer chooses out a wood that will not rot, and will wisely enquire how he shall set up his image, and that so that it should not be moved. ²¹Will ye not know? will ye not hear? has it not been told you of old? Have ye not known the foundations of the earth? ²²*It is* he that comprehends the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants in it are as grasshoppers; he that set up the heaven as a chamber, and stretched it out as a tent to dwell in: ²³he that appoints princes to rule as nothing, and has made the earth as nothing. ²⁴For they shall not plant, neither shall they sow, neither shall their root be fixed in the ground: he has blown upon them, and they are withered, and a storm shall carry them away like sticks. ²⁵Now then to whom have ye compared me, that I may be exalted? says the Holy One. ²⁶Lift up your eyes on high, and see, who has displayed all these things? even he that brings forth his host by number: he shall call them all by name by means of his great glory, and by the power of his might: nothing has escaped thee. ²⁷For say not thou, O Jacob, and why hast thou spoken, Israel, saying, My way is hid from God, and my God has taken away my judgement, and has departed? ²⁸And now, hast thou not known? hast thou not heard? the eternal God, the God that formed the ends of the earth, shall not hunger, nor be weary, and there is no searching of his understanding. ²⁹He gives strength to the hungry, and sorrow to them that are not suffering. ³⁰For the young men shall hunger, and the youths shall be weary, and the choice men shall be powerless: ³¹but they that wait on God shall renew their strength; they shall put forth new feathers like eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; they shall walk, and not hunger.

Chapter 41

¹Hold a feast to me, ye islands: for the princes shall renew their strength: let them draw nigh and speak together: then let them declare judgement. ²Who raised up righteousness from the east, and called it to his feet, so that it should go? shall appoint it an adversary of Gentiles, and shall dismay kings, and bury their swords in the earth, and cast forth their bows and arrows as sticks? ³And he shall pursue them; the way of his feet shall proceed in peace. ⁴Who has wrought and done these things? he has called it who called it from the generations of old; I God, the first and to all futurity, I AM.

⁵The nations saw, and feared; the ends of the earth drew nigh, and came together, ⁶every one judging for his neighbor and that to assist his brother: and one will say, ⁷The artificer has become strong, and the coppersmith that smites with the hammer, and forges also: sometimes he will say, It is a piece well joined: they have fastened them with nails; they will fix them, and they shall not be moved. ⁸But thou, Israel, art my servant Jacob, and he whom I have chosen, the seed of Abraam, whom I have loved: ⁹whom I have taken hold of from the ends of the earth, and from the high places of it I have called thee, and said to thee, Thou art my servant; I have chosen thee, and I have not forsaken thee. ¹⁰Fear not; for I am with thee: wander not; for I am thy God, who have strengthened thee; and I have helped thee, and have established thee with my just right hand. ¹¹Behold, all thine adversaries shall be ashamed and confounded; for they shall be as if they were not: and all thine opponents shall perish. ¹²Thou shalt seek them, and thou shalt not find the men who shall insolently rage against thee: for they shall be as if they were not, and they that war against thee shall not be. ¹³For I am thy God, who holdeth thy right hand, who says to thee, ¹⁴Fear not, Jacob, and thou Israel few in number; I have helped thee, says thy God, he that redeems thee, O Israel. ¹⁵Behold, I have made thee as new saw-shaped threshing wheels of a waggon; and thou shalt thresh the mountains, and beat the hills to powder, and make them as chaff: ¹⁶and thou shalt winnow them, and the wind shall carry them away, and a tempest shall scatter them: but thou shalt rejoice in the holy ones of Israel.

¹⁷And the poor and the needy shall exult; for when they shall seek water, and there shall be none, and their tongue is parched with thirst, I the Lord God, I the God of Israel will hear, and will not forsake them: ¹⁸but I will open rivers on the mountains, and fountains in the midst of plains: I will make the desert pools of water, and a thirsty land watercourses. ¹⁹I will plant in the dry land the cedar and box, the myrtle and cypress, and white poplar: ²⁰that they may see, and know, and perceive, and understand together, that the hand of the Lord has wrought these works, and the Holy One of Israel has displayed them. ²¹Your judgement draws nigh, says the Lord God; your counsel have drawn nigh, says the King of Jacob. ²²Let them draw nigh, and declare to you what things shall come to pass; or tell us what things were of old, and we will apply our understanding, and we shall know what are the last and the future things: ²³tell us, declare ye to us the things that are coming on at the last time, and we shall know that ye are gods: do good, and do evil, and we shall wonder, and see at the same time ²⁴whence ye are, and whence is your works: they have chosen you an abomination out of the earth. ²⁵But I have raised up him that comes from the north, and him that comes from the rising of the sun: they shall be called by my name: let the princes come, and as potter's clay, and as a potter treading clay, so shall ye be trodden down. ²⁶For who will declare the things from the beginning, that we may know also the former things, and we will say that they are true? there is no one that speaks beforehand, nor anyone that hears your words. ²⁷I will give dominion to Sion, and will comfort Jerusalem by the way. ²⁸For from among the nations, behold, there was no one; and of their idols there was none to declare anything: and if I should ask them, Whence are ye? they could not answer me. ²⁹For these are your makers, as ye think, and they that cause you to err in vain.

¹Jacob is my servant, I will help him: Israel is my chosen, my soul has accepted him; I have put my Spirit upon him; he shall bring forth judgement to the Gentiles. ²He shall not cry, nor lift up his voice, nor shall his voice be heard without. ³A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench; but he shall bring forth judgement to truth. ⁴He shall shine out, and shall not be discouraged, until he have set judgement on the earth: and in his name shall the Gentiles trust. ⁵Thus says the Lord God, who made the heaven, and established it; who settled the earth, and the things in it, and gives breath to the people on it, and spirit to them that tread on it: ⁶I the Lord God have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will strengthen thee: and I have given thee for the covenant of a race, for a light of the Gentiles: ⁷to open the eyes of the blind, to bring the bound and them that sit in darkness out of bonds and the prison-house. ⁸I am the Lord God: that is my name: I will not give my glory to another, nor my praises to graven images. ⁹Behold, the ancient things have come to pass, and so will the new things which I tell you: yea, before I tell them they are made known to you. ¹⁰Sing a new hymn to the Lord: ye who are his dominion, glorify his name from the end of the earth: ye that go down to the sea, and sail upon it; the islands, and they that dwell in them. ¹¹Rejoice, thou wilderness, and the villages thereof, the hamlets, and the dwellers in Kedar: the inhabitants of the rock shall rejoice, they shall shout from the top of the mountains. ¹²They shall give glory to God, and shall proclaim his praises in the islands. ¹³The Lord God of hosts shall go forth, and crush the war: he shall stir up jealousy, and shall shout mightily against his enemies. ¹⁴I have been silent: shall I also always be silent and forbear: I have endured like a travailing woman: I will now amaze and wither at once. ¹⁵I will make desolate mountains and hills, and will dry up all their grass; and I will make the rivers islands, and dry up the pools. ¹⁶And I will bring the blind by a way that they knew not, and I will cause them to tread paths which they have not known: I will turn darkness into light for them, and crooked things into straight. These things will I do, and will not forsake them. ¹⁷But they are turned back: be ye utterly ashamed that trust in graven images, who say to the molten images, Ye are our gods. ¹⁸Hear, ye deaf, and look up, ye blind, to see. ¹⁹And who is blind, but my servants? and deaf, but they that rule over them? yea, the servants of God have been made blind. ²⁰Ye have often seen, and have not taken heed; your ears have been opened, and ye have not heard. ²¹The Lord God has taken counsel that he might be justified, and might magnify his praise. ²²And I beheld, and the people were spoiled and plundered: for there is a snare in the secret chambers everywhere, and in the houses also, where they have hidden them: they became a spoil, and there was no one that delivered the prey, and there was none who said, Restore. ²³Who is there among you that will give ear to these things? hearken ye to the things which are coming to pass. ²⁴For what did he give to Jacob up to spoil, and Israel to them that plundered him? Did not God do it against whom they sinned? and they would not walk in his ways, nor hearken to his law. ²⁵So he brought upon them the fury of his wrath; and the war, and those that burnt round about them, prevailed against them; yet no one of them knew it, neither did they lay it to heart.

Chapter 43

¹And now thus says the Lord God that made thee, O Jacob, and formed thee, O Israel, Fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine. ²And if thou pass through water, I am with thee; and the rivers shall not overflow thee: and if thou go through fire, thou shalt not be burned; the flame shall not burn thee. ³For I am the Lord thy God, the Holy One of Israel, that saves thee: I have made Egypt and Ethiopia thy ransom, and given Soene for thee.

justified; and let them hear, and declare the truth. ¹⁰Be ye my witnesses, and I too am a witness, says the Lord God, and my servant whom I have chosen: that ye may know, and believe, and understand that I an he: before me there was no other God, and after me there shall be none. ¹¹I am God; and beside me there is no Saviour. ¹²I have declared, and have saved; I have reproached, and there was no strange god among you: ye are my witnesses, and I am the Lord God, ¹³*even* from the beginning; and there is none that can deliver out of my hands: I will work, and who shall turn it back? ¹⁴Thus says the Lord God that redeems you, the Holy One of Israel; for your sakes I will send to Babylon, and I will stir up all that flee, and the Chaldeans shall be bound in ships. ¹⁵I am the Lord God, your Holy One, who have appointed for Israel your king.

¹⁶Thus says the Lord, who makes a way in the sea, and a path in the mighty water; ¹⁷who brought forth chariots and horse, and a mighty multitude: but they have lain down, and shall not rise: they are extinct, as quenched flax. ¹⁸Remember ye not the former things, and consider not the ancient things. ¹⁹Behold, I will do new things, which shall presently spring forth, and ye shall know them: and I will make a way in the wilderness, and rivers in the dry land. ²⁰the beasts of the field shall bless me, the owls and young ostriches; for I have given water in the wilderness, and rivers in the dry land, to give drink to my chosen race, ²¹my people whom I have preserved to tell forth my praises. ²²I have not now called thee, O Jacob; neither have I made thee weary, O Israel. ²³Thou hast not brought me the sheep of thy whole-burnt-offering; neither hast thou glorified me with thy sacrifices. I have not caused thee to serve with sacrifices, neither have I wearied thee with frankincense. ²⁴Neither hast thou purchased for me victims for silver, neither have I desired the fat of thy sacrifices: but thou didst stand before me in thy sins, and in thine iniquities.

²⁵I, even I, am he that blots out thy transgressions for mine own sake, and thy sins; and I will not remember them. ²⁶But do thou remember, and let us plead together: do thou first confess thy transgressions, that thou mayest be justified. ²⁷Your fathers first, and your princes have transgressed against me.
²⁸And the princes have defiled my sanctuaries: so I gave Jacob to enemies to destroy, and Israel to reproach.

Chapter 44

¹But now hear, Jacob my servant; and Israel, whom I have chosen. ²Thus says the Lord God that made thee, and he that formed thee from the womb;
Thou shalt yet be helped: fear not, my servant Jacob; and beloved Israel, whom I have chosen. ³For I will give water to the thirsty that walk in a dry land: I will put my Spirit upon thy seed, and my blessings upon thy children: ⁴and they shall spring up as grass between brooks, and as willows on the banks of running water. ⁵One shall say, I am God's; and another shall call himself by the name of Jacob; and another shall write with his hand, I am God's, and shall call himself by the name of Israel. ⁶Thus says God the King of Israel, and the God of hosts that delivered him; I am the first, and I am hereafter: beside me there is no God. ⁷Who is like me? let him stand, and call, and declare, and prepare for me from the time that I made man for ever; and let them tell you the things that are coming before they arrive. ⁸Hide not yourselves, nor go astray: have ye not heard from the beginning, and have not I told you? ye are witnesses if there is a God beside me.

⁹But they that framed false gods did not then hearken; and they that graved images are all vain, performing their own desires, which shall not profit them, but they shall be ashamed ¹⁰that form a god, and all that grave worthless things: ¹¹and all by whom they were made are withered: yea, let all the deaf be gathered from among men, and let them stand together; and let them be ashamed and confounded together: ¹²For the artificer sharpens the iron; he fashions the idol with an axe, and fixes it with an awl, and fashions it with the strength of his arm:
and he will be hungry and weak, and will drink no water. ¹³The artificer having chosen a piece of wood, marks it out with a rule, and fits it with glue, and makes it as the form of a man, and as the beauty of a man, to set it up in the house. ¹⁴He cuts wood out of the forest, which the Lord planted, even a pine tree, and the rain made it grow, ¹⁵that it might be for men to burn: and having taken part of it he warms himself; yea, they burn part of it, and bake loaves thereon; and of the rest they make for themselves gods, and they worship them. ¹⁶Half thereof he burns in the fire, and with half of it he bakes loaves on the coals; and having roasted flesh on it he eats, and is satisfied, and having warmed himself he says, I am comfortable, for I have warmed myself, and have seen the fire. ¹⁷And the rest he makes a graven god, and worships, and prays, saying, Deliver me; for thou art my God. ¹⁸They have no understanding to perceive; for they have been blinded so that they should not see with their eyes, nor perceive with their heart. ¹⁹And one has not considered in his mind, nor known in his understanding, that he has burnt up half of it in the fire, and baked loaves on the coals thereof and has roasted and eaten flesh, and of the rest of it he has made an abomination, and they worship it. ²⁰Know thou that their heart is ashes, and they err, and no one is able to deliver his soul: see, ye will not say, There is a lie in my right hand.

²¹Remember these things, O Jacob and Israel; for thou art my servant; I have formed thee to be my servant: and do thou, Israel, not forget me.

²²For behold, I have blotted out as a cloud thy transgressions, and thy sin as darkness: turn to me, and I will redeem thee. ²³Rejoice, ye heavens; for God has had mercy upon Israel: sound the trumpet, ye foundations of the earth: ye mountains, shout with joy, ye hills, and all the trees therein: for God has redeemed Jacob, and Israel shall be glorified. ²⁴Thus says the Lord that redeems thee, and who formed thee from the womb, I am the Lord that performs all things: I stretched out the heaven alone, and established the earth. ²⁵Who else will frustrate the tokens of those that have divining spirits, and prophecies from the heart of man? turning the wise back, and making their counsel foolishness; ²⁶and confirming the word of his servant, and verifying the counsel of his messengers: who says to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be inhabited; and to the cities of Idumea, Ye shall be built, and her desert places shall spring forth. ²⁷Who says to the deep, Thou shalt be dried up, and I will dry up the rivers. ²⁸Who bids Cyrus be wise, and he shall perform all my will: who says to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be built, and I will lay the foundation of my holy house.

Chapter 45

¹Thus says the Lord God to my anointed Cyrus, whose right hand I have held, that nations might be obedient before him; and I will break through the strength of kings; I will open doors before him, and cities shall not be closed. ²I will go before thee, and will level mountains: I will break to pieces brazen doors, and burst iron bars. ³And I will give thee the treasures of darkness, I will open to thee hidden, unseen treasures, that thou mayest know that I, the Lord thy God, that call thee by name, am the God of Israel. ⁴For the sake of my servant Jacob, and Israel mine elect, I will call thee by thy name, and accept thee: but thou hast not known me. ⁵For I am the Lord God, and there is no other God beside me; I strengthened thee, and thou hast not known me. ⁶That they that come from the east and they that come from the west may know that there is no God but me. I am the Lord God, and there is none beside. ⁷I am he that prepared light, and formed darkness; who make peace, and create evil; I am the Lord God, that does all these things. ⁸Let the heaven rejoice from above, and let the clouds rain righteousness: let the earth bring forth, and blossom with mercy, and bring forth righteousness likewise: I am the Lord that created thee. ⁹What excellent thing have I prepared as clay of the potter? Will the ploughman plough the earth all say? shall the clay say to the potter, What art thou doing that thou dost not work, nor hast hands? shall the thing formed answer him that formed it? ¹⁰As though one should say to his father, What wilt thou beget me? and to his mother, What art thou bringing forth? ¹¹For thus says the Lord God, the Holy One of Israel, who has formed the things that are to come,

Enquire of me concerning my sons, and concerning the works of my hands command me. ¹²I have made the earth, and man upon it: I with my hand have established the heaven; I have given commandment to all the stars. ¹³I have raised him up to be a king with righteousness, and all his ways are right: he shall build my city, and shall turn the captivity of my people, not for ransoms, nor for rewards, says the Lord of hosts. ¹⁴Thus says the Lord of hosts, Egypt has laboured for thee; and the merchandise of the Ethiopians, and the Sabeans, men of stature, shall pass over to thee, and shall be thy servants; and they shall follow after thee bound in fetters, and shall pass over to thee, and shall do obeisance to thee, and make supplication to thee: because God is in thee; and there is no God beside thee, O Lord. ¹⁵For thou art God, yet we knew it not, the God of Israel, the Saviour. ¹⁶All that are opposed to him shall be ashamed and confounded, and shall walk in shame: ye isles, keep a feast to me. ¹⁷Israel is saved by the Lord with an everlasting salvation: they shall not be ashamed nor confounded for evermore. ¹⁸Thus says the Lord that made the heaven, this God that created the earth, and made it; he marked it out, he made it not in vain, but formed it to be inhabited: I am the Lord, and there is none beside. ¹⁹I have not spoken in secret, nor in a dark place of the earth: I said not to the seed of Jacob, Seek vanity: I, even I, am the Lord, speaking righteousness, and proclaiming truth.

²⁰Assemble yourselves and come; take counsel together, ye that escape of the nations: they that set up wood, even their graven image, have no knowledge, nor they who pray to gods that do not save. ²¹If they will declare, let them draw nigh, that they may know together, who has caused these things to be heard from the beginning: then was it told you. I am God, and there is not another beside me; a just God and a Saviour; there is none but me. ²²Turn ye to me, and ye shall be saved, ye that come from the end of the earth: I am God, and there is none other. ²³By myself I swear, righteousness shall surely proceed out of my mouth; my words shall not be frustrated; that to me every knee shall bend, and every tongue shall swear by God, ²⁴saying, Righteousness and glory shall come to him: and all that remove them from their borders shall be ashamed. ²⁵By the Lord shall they be justified, and in God shall all the seed of the children of Israel be glorified.

and all the remnant of Israel, who are borne by me from the womb, and taught by me from infancy, even to old age: ⁴I am he; and until ye shall have grown old, I am he: I bear you, I have made, and I will relieve, I will take up and save you. ⁵To whom have ye compared me? see, consider, ye that go astray. ⁶They that furnish gold out of a purse, and silver by weight, will weigh it in a scale, and they hire a goldsmith and make idols, and bow down, and worship them. ⁷They bear it upon the shoulder, and go; and if they put it upon its place, it remains, it cannot move: and whosoever shall cry to it, it cannot hear; it cannot save him from trouble. ⁸Remember ye these things, and groan: repent, ye that have gone astray, return in your heart; ⁹and remember the former things that were of old: for I am God, and there is none other beside me, ¹⁰telling beforehand the latter events before they come to pass, and they are accomplished together: and I said, all my counsel shall stand, and I will do all things that I have planned: ¹¹calling a bird from the east, and from a land afar off, for the things which I have planned: I have spoken, and brought him; I have created and made him; I have brought him, and prospered his way. ¹²Hearken to me, ye senseless ones, that are far from righteousness: ¹³I have brought near my righteousness, and I will not be slow with the salvation that is from me: I have given salvation in Sion to Israel for glory.

Easias

¹Come down, sit on the ground, O virgin daughter of Babylon: sit on the ground, O daughter of the Chaldeans: for thou shalt no more be called tender and luxurious. ²Take a millstone, grind meal: remove thy veil, uncover thy white hairs, make bare the leg, pass through the rivers. ³Thy shame shall be uncovered, thy reproaches shall be brought to light: I will exact of thee due vengeance, I will no longer deliver thee to men. ⁴Thy deliverer is the Lord of hosts, the Holy One of Israel is his name. ⁵Sit thou down pierced with woe, go into darkness, O daughter of the Chaldeans: thou shalt no more be called the strength of a kingdom. ⁶I have been provoked with my people; thou hast defiled mine inheritance: I gave them into thy hand, but thou didst not extend mercy to them: thou madest the yoke of the aged man very heavy, ⁷and saidst, I shall be a princess for ever: thou didst not perceive these things in thine heart, nor didst thou remember the latter end. ⁸But now hear these words, thou luxurious one, who art the one that sits at ease, that is secure, that says in her heart, I am, and there is not another; I shall not sit a widow, neither shall I know bereavement. ⁹But now these two things shall come upon thee suddenly in one day, the loss of children and widowhood shall come suddenly upon thee, for thy sorcery, for the strength of thine enchantments, ¹⁰for thy trusting in wickedness: for thou saidst,

I am, and there is not another: know thou, the understanding of these things and thy harlotry shall be thy shame; for thou saidst in thy heart, I am, and there is not another. ¹¹And destruction shall come upon thee, and thou shalt not be aware; there shall be a pit, and thou shalt fall into it: and grief shall come upon thee, and thou shalt not be able to be clear; and destruction shall come suddenly upon thee, and thou shalt not know. ¹²Stand now with thine enchantments, and with the abundance of thy sorcery, which thou hast learned from thy youth; if thou canst be profited. ¹³Thou art wearied in thy counsels. Let now the astrologers of the heaven stand and deliver thee, let them that see the stars tell thee what is about to come upon thee. ¹⁴Behold, they all shall be burnt up as sticks in the fire; neither shall they at all deliver their life from the flame. Because thou hast coals of fire, sit thou upon them; ¹⁵these shall be thy help. Thou hast wearied thyself with traffic from thy youth: every man has wandered to his own home, but thou shalt have no deliverance.

Chapter 48

¹Hear these words, ye house of Jacob, who are called by the name of Israel, and have come forth out of Juda, who swear by the name of the Lord God of Israel, making mention of it, but not with truth, nor with righteousness; ²maintaining also the name of the holy city, and staying themselves on the God of Israel: the

Easias

Lord of hosts is his name. The former things I have already declared; ³and they that have proceeded out of my mouth, and it became well known; I wrought suddenly, and the events came to pass. ⁴I know that thou art stubborn, and thy neck is an iron sinew, and thy forehead brazen. ⁵And I told thee of old what should be before it came upon thee; I made it known to thee, lest thou shouldest say, My idols have done it for me; and shouldest say, My graven and molten images have commanded me. ⁶Ye have heard all this, but ye have not known: yet I have made known to thee the new things from henceforth, which are coming to pass, and thou saidst not, ⁷Now they come to pass, and not formerly: and thou heardest not of them in former days: say not thou, Yea, I know them. ⁸Thou hast neither known, nor understood, neither from the beginning have I opened thine ears: for I knew that thou wouldest surely deal treacherously, and wouldest be called a transgressor even from the womb. ⁹For mine own sake will I shew thee my wrath, and will bring before thee my glorious acts, that I may not utterly destroy thee. ¹⁰Behold, I have sold thee, but not for silver; but I have rescued thee from the furnace of affliction. ¹¹For mine own sake I will do this for thee, because my name is profaned; and I will not give my glory to another. ¹²Hear me, O Jacob, and Israel whom I call; I am the first, and I endure for ever. ¹³My hand also has founded the earth, and my right hand has fixed the sky: I will call them, and they shall stand together. ¹⁴And all shall be gathered, and shall hear: who has told them these things? Out of love to thee I have fulfilled thy desire on Babylon, to abolish the seed of the Chaldeans. ¹⁵I have spoken, I have called, I have brought him, and made his way prosperous. ¹⁶Draw nigh to me, and hear ye these words; I have not spoken in secret from the beginning: when it took place, there was I, and now the Lord, even the Lord, and his Spirit, hath sent me. ¹⁷Thus says the Lord that delivered thee, the Holy One of Israel; I am thy God, I have shewn thee how thou shouldest find the way wherein thou shouldest walk. ¹⁸And if thou hadst hearkened to my commandments, then would thy peace have been like a river, and thy righteousness as a wave of the sea. ¹⁹Thy seed also would have been as the sand, and the offspring of thy belly as the dust of the ground: neither now shalt thou by any means be utterly destroyed, neither shall thy name perish before me. ²⁰Go forth of Babylon, thou that fleest from the Chaldeans: utter aloud a voice of joy, and let this be made known, proclaim it to the end of the earth; say ye, The Lord hath delivered his servant Jacob. ²¹And if they shall thirst, he shall lead them through the desert; he shall bring forth water to them out of the rock: the rock shall be cloven, and the water shall flow forth, and my people shall drink. ²²There is no joy, says the Lord, to the ungodly.

¹Hearken to me, ye islands; and attend, ye Gentiles; after a long time it shall come to pass, says the Lord: from my mother's womb he has called my name: ²and he has made my mouth as a sharp sword, and he has hid me under the shadow of his hand; he has made me as a choice shaft, and he has hid me in his quiver; ³and said to me, Thou art my servant, O Israel, and in thee I will be glorified. ⁴Then I said, I have laboured in vain, I have given my strength for vanity and for nothing: therefore is my judgement with the Lord, and my labour before my God. ⁵And now, thus says the Lord that formed me from the womb to be his own servant, to gather Jacob to him and Israel. I shall be gathered and glorified before the Lord, and my God shall be my strength. ⁶And he said to me, It is a great thing for thee to be called my servant, to establish the tribes of Jacob, and to recover the dispersion of Israel: behold, I have given thee for the covenant of a race, for a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldest be for salvation to the end of the earth. ⁷Thus says the Lord that delivered thee, the God of Israel, Sanctify him that despises his life, him that is abhorred by the nations that are the servants of princes: kings shall behold him, and princes shall arise, and shall worship him, for the Lord's sake: for the Holy One of Israel is faithful, and I have chosen thee. ⁸Thus says the Lord, In an acceptable time have I heard thee, and in a day of salvation have I succored thee: and I have formed thee, and given thee for a covenant of the nations, to establish the earth, and to cause to inherit the desert heritages: ⁹saying to them that are in bonds, Go forth; and bidding them that are in darkness shew themselves. They shall be fed in all the ways, and in all the paths shall be their pasture. ¹⁰They shall not hunger, neither shall they thirst; neither shall the heat nor the sun smite them; but he that has mercy on them shall comfort them, and by fountains of waters shall he lead them. ¹¹And I will make every mountain a way, and every path a pasture to them. ¹²Behold, these shall come from far: and these from the north and the west, and others from the land of the Persians. ¹³Rejoice, ye heavens; and let the earth be glad: let the mountains break forth with joy; for the Lard has had mercy on his people, and has comforted the lowly ones of his people. ¹⁴But Sion said, The Lord has forsaken me, and, The Lord has forgotten me. ¹⁵Will a woman forget her child, so as not to have compassion upon the offspring of her womb? but if a woman should even forget these, yet I will not forget thee, says the Lord. ¹⁶Behold, I have painted thy walls on my hands, and thou art continually before me. ¹⁷And thou shalt soon be built by those by whom thou were destroyed, and they that made thee desolate shall go forth of thee.

¹⁸Lift up thine eyes round about, and look on them all; behold, they are gathered together, and are come to thee. As I live, says the Lord, thou shalt clothe thyself with them all as with an ornament, and put them on as a bride her attire. ¹⁹For thy desert and marred and ruined places shall now be too narrow by reason of the inhabitants, and they that devoured thee shall be removed far from thee.

²⁰For thy sons whom thou hast lost shall say in thine ears, The place is too narrow for me: make room for me that I may dwell. ²¹And thou shalt say in thine heart, Who has begotten me these? whereas I was childless, and a widow; but who has brought up these for me? and I was left alone; but whence came these to me? ²²Thus says the Lord, even the Lord, Behold, I lift up mine hand to the nations, and I will lift up my signal to the islands: and they shall bring thy sons in their bosom, and shall bear thy daughters on their shoulders. ²³And kings shall be thy nursing fathers, and their princesses thy nurses, they shall bow down to thee on the face of the earth, and shall lick the dust of thy feet; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord, and they that wait on me shall not be ashamed. ²⁴Will any one take spoils from a giant? and if one should take a man captive unjustly, shall he be delivered? ²⁵For thus says the Lord, If one should take a giant captive, he shall take spoils, and he who takes them from a mighty man shall be delivered: for I will plead thy cause, and I will deliver thy children. ²⁶And they that afflicted thee shall eat their own flesh; and they shall drink their own blood as new wine, and shall be drunken: and all flesh shall perceive that I am the Lord that delivers thee, and that upholds the strength of Jacob.

Chapter 50

¹Thus says the Lord, Of what kind is your mother's bill of divorcement, by which I put her away? or to which debtor have I sold you? Behold, ye are sold for your sins, and for your iniquities have I put your mother away. ²Why did I come, and there was no man? why did I call, and there was none to hearken? Is not my hand strong to redeem? or can I not deliver? behold, by my rebuke I will dry up the sea, and make rivers a wilderness; and their fish shall be dried up because there is no water, and shall die for thirst. ³I will clothe the sky with darkness, and will make its covering as sackcloth. ⁴The Lord even God gives me the tongue of instruction, to know when it is fit to speak a word: he has appointed for me early, he has given me an ear to hear: ⁵and the instruction of the Lord, even the Lord, opens mine ears, and I do not disobey, nor dispute. ⁶I gave my back to scourges, and my cheeks to blows; and I turned not away my face from the shame of spitting: ⁷but the Lord God became my helper; therefore I was not ashamed, but I set my face as a solid rock; and I know that I shall never be ashamed,⁸ for he that has justified me draws near; who is he that pleads with me? let him stand up against me at the same time: yea, who is he that pleads with me? let him draw nigh to me.⁹ Behold, the Lord, the Lord, will help me; who will hurt me? behold, all ye shall wax old as a garment, and a moth shall devour you.¹⁰ Who is among you that fears the Lord? let him hearken to the voice of his servant: ye that walk in darkness, and have no light, trust in the name of the Lord, and stay upon God.¹¹ Behold, ye all kindle a fire, and feed a flame: walk in the light of your fire, and in the flame which ye have kindled. This has happened to you for my sake; ye shall lie down in sorrow.

Chapter 51

¹Hearken to me, ye that follow after righteousness, and seek the Lord: look to the solid rock, which ye have hewn, and to the hole of the pit which ye have dug.² Look to Abraam your father, and to Sarrha that bore you: for he was alone when I called him, and blessed him, and loved him, and multiplied him.³ And now I will comfort thee, O Sion: and I have comforted all her desert places; and I will make her desert places as a garden, and her western places as the garden of the Lord; they shall find in her gladness and exultation, thanksgiving and the voice of praise.⁴ Hear me, hear me, my people; and ye kings, hearken to me: for a law shall proceed from me, and my judgment shall be for a light of the nations.⁵ My righteousness speedily draws nigh, and my salvation shall go forth as light, and on mine arm shall the Gentiles trust: the isles shall wait for me, and on mine arm shall they trust.⁶ Lift up your eyes to the sky, and look on the earth beneath: for the sky was darkened like smoke, and the earth shall wax old like a garment, and the inhabitants shall die in like manner: but my righteousness shall not fail.

⁷Hear me, ye that know judgment, the people in whose heart is my law: fear not the reproach of men, and be not overcome by their contempt.⁸ For as a garment will be devoured by time, and as wool will be devoured by a moth, so shall they be consumed; but my righteousness shall be for ever, and my salvation for all generations.⁹ Awake, awake, O Jerusalem, and put on the strength of thine arm; awake as in the early time, as the ancient generation.¹⁰ Art thou not it that dried the sea, the water, even the abundance of the deep; that made the depths of the sea a way of passage for the delivered and redeemed?¹¹ for by the help of the Lord they shall return, and come to Sion with joy and everlasting exultation, for praise and joy shall come upon their head: pain, and grief, and groaning, have fled away.¹² I, even I, am he that comforts thee: consider who thou art, that thou wast afraid of mortal man, and of the son of man, who are withered as grass.¹³ And thou hast forgotten God who made thee, who made the sky and founded the earth; and thou wert continually afraid because of the wrath of him that afflicted thee: for whereas he counselled to take thee away, yet now where is the wrath of him that afflicted thee? ¹⁴For in thy deliverance he shall not halt, nor tarry; ¹⁵for I am thy God, that troubles the sea, and causes the waves thereof to roar: the Lord of hosts is my name. ¹⁶I will put my words into thy mouth, and I will shelter thee under the shadow of mine hand, with which I fixed the sky, and founded the earth: and the Lord shall say to Sion, Thou art my people.

¹⁷Awake, awake, stand up, O Jerusalem, that hast drunk at the hand of the Lord the cup of his fury: for thou hast drunk out and drained the cup of calamity, the cup of wrath: ¹⁸and there was none to comfort thee of all the children whom thou borest; and there was none to take hold of thine hand, not even of all the children whom thou has reared. ¹⁹Wherefore these things are against thee; who shall sympathize with thee in thy grief? downfall, and destruction, famine, and sword: who shall comfort thee? ²⁰Thy sons are the perplexed ones, that sleep at the top of every street as a half-boiled beet; they that are full of the anger of the Lord, caused to faint by the Lord God. ²¹Therefore hear, thou afflicted one, and drunken, but not with wine; ²²thus says the Lord God that judges his people, Behold, I have taken out of thine hand the cup of calamity, the cup of my wrath; and thou shalt not drink it any more. ²³And I will give it into the hands of them that injured thee, and them that afflicted thee; who said to thy soul, Bow down, that we may pass over: and thou didst level thy body with the ground to them passing by without.

Chapter 52

¹Awake, awake, Sion; put on thy strength, O Sion; and o thou put on thy glory, Jerusalem the holy city: there shall no more pass through thee, the uncircumcised and unclean. ²Shake off the dust and arise; sit down, Jerusalem: put off the band of thy neck, captive daughter of Sion. ³For thus says the Lord, Ye have been sold for nought; and ye shall not be ransomed with silver. ⁴Thus says the Lord, My people went down before to Egypt to sojourn there; and were carried away forcibly to the Assyrians. ⁵And now why are ye here? Thus says the Lord, Because my people was taken for nothing, wonder ye and howl. Thus says the Lord, On account of you my name is continually blasphemed among the Gentiles. ⁶Therefore shall my people know my name in that day, for I am he that speaks: I am present, ⁷as a season of beauty upon the mountains, as the feet of one preaching glad tidings of peace, as one preaching good news: for I will publish thy salvation, saying, O Sion, thy God shall reign. ⁸For the voice of them that guard thee is exalted, and with the voice together they shall rejoice: for eyes shall look to eyes, when the Lord shall have mercy upon Sion. ⁹Let the waste places of Jerusalem break forth in joy together, because the Lord has had mercy upon her, and has delivered Jerusalem. ¹⁰And the Lord shall reveal his holy arm in the sight of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation that comes from our God. ¹¹Depart ye, depart, go out from thence, and touch not the unclean thing; go ye out from the midst of her; separate yourselves, ye that bear the vessels of the Lord. ¹²For ye shall not go forth with tumult, neither go by flight: for the Lord shall go first in advance of you; and the God of Israel shall be he that brings up your rear.

¹³Behold, my servant shall understand, and be exalted, and glorified exceedingly. ¹⁴As many shall be amazed at thee, so shall thy face be without glory from men, and thy glory shall not be honoured by the sons of men. ¹⁵Thus shall many nations wonder at him; and kings shall keep their mouths shut: for they to whom no report was brought concerning him, shall see; and they who have not heard, shall consider.

¹O Lord, who has believed our report? and to whom has the arm of the Lord been revealed? ²We brought a report as of a child before him; he is as a root in a thirsty land: he has no form nor comeliness; and we saw him, but he had no form nor beauty. ³But his form was ignoble, and inferior to that of the children of men; he was a man in suffering, and acquainted with the bearing of sickness, for his face is turned from us: he was dishonoured, and not esteemed. ⁴He bears our sins, and is pained for us: yet we accounted him to be in trouble, and in suffering, and in affliction. ⁵But he was wounded on account of our sins, and was bruised because of our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and by his bruises we were healed. ⁶All we as sheep have gone astray; every one has gone astray in his way; and the Lord gave him up for our sins. ⁷And he, because of his affliction, opens not his mouth: he was led as a sheep to the slaughter, and as a lamb before the shearer is dumb, so he opens not his mouth. ⁸In his humiliation his judgment was taken away: who shall declare his generation? for his life is taken away from the earth: because of the iniquities of my people he was led to death. ⁹And I will give the wicked for his burial, and the rich for his death; for he practised no iniquity, nor craft with his mouth. ¹⁰The Lord also is pleased to purge him from his stroke. If ye can give an offering for sin, your soul shall see a long-lived seed: ¹¹the Lord also is pleased to take away from the travail of his soul, to shew him light, and to form him with understanding; to justify the just one who serves many well; and he shall bear their sins. ¹²Therefore he shall inherit many, and he shall divide the spoils of the mighty; because his soul was delivered to death: and he was numbered among the transgressors; and he bore the sins of many, and was delivered because of their iniquities.

Chapter 54

¹Rejoice, thou barren that bearest not; break forth and cry, thou that dost not travail: for more are the children of the desolate than of her that has a husband: for the Lord has said, ²Enlarge the placed of thy tent, and of thy curtains: fix the pins, spare not, lengthen thy cords, and strengthen thy pins; ³spread forth thy tent yet to the right and the left: for thy seed shall inherit the Gentiles, and thou shalt make the desolate cities to be inhabited. ⁴Fear not, because thou has been put to shame, neither be confounded, because thou was reproached: for thou shalt forget thy former shame, and shalt no more at all remember the reproach of thy widowhood. ⁵For it is the Lord that made thee; the Lord of hosts is his name: and he that delivered thee, he is the God of Israel, and shall be called so by the whole earth. ⁶The Lord has not called thee as a deserted and faint-hearted woman, nor as a woman hated from her youth, says thy God. ⁷For a little while I left thee: but with great mercy will I have compassion upon thee. ⁸In a little wrath I turned away my face from thee; but with everlasting mercy will I have compassion upon thee, says the Lord that delivers thee. ⁹From the time of the water of Noe this is my purpose: as I sware to him at that time, saying of the earth, I will no more be wroth with thee, neither when thou art threatened, ¹⁰shall the mountains depart, nor shall thy hills be removed: so neither shall my mercy fail thee, nor shall the covenant of thy peace be at all removed: for the Lord who is gracious to thee has spoken it. ¹¹Afflicted and outcast thou has not been comforted: behold, I will prepare carbuncle for thy stones, and sapphire for thy foundations; ¹²and I will make thy buttresses jasper, and thy gates crystal, and thy border precious stones. ¹³And I will cause all thy sons to be taught of God, and thy children to be in great peace. ¹⁴And thou shalt be built in righteousness: abstain from injustice, and thou shalt not fear; and trembling shall not come nigh thee. ¹⁵Behold, strangers shall come to thee by me, and shall sojourn with thee, and shall run to thee for refuge. ¹⁶Behold, I have created thee, not as the coppersmith blowing coals, and bringing out a vessel fit for work; but I have created thee, not for ruin, that I should destroy thee. ¹⁷I will not suffer any weapon formed against thee to prosper; and every voice that shall rise up against thee for judgment, thou shalt vanquish them all; and thine adversaries shall be condemned thereby. There is an inheritance to them that serve the Lord, and ye shall be righteous before me, says the Lord.

Easias

¹Ye that thirst, go to the water, and all that have no money, go and buy; and eat and drink wine and fat without money or price. ²Wherefore do ye value at the price of money, and give your labour for that which will not satisfy? hearken to me, and ye shall eat that which is good, and your soul shall feast itself on good things. ³Give heed with your ears, and follow my ways: hearken to me, and your soul shall live in prosperity; and I will make with you an everlasting covenant, the sure mercies of David. ⁴Behold I have made him a testimony among the Gentiles, a prince and commander to the Gentiles. ⁵Nations which know thee not, shall call upon thee, and peoples which are not acquainted with thee, shall flee to thee for refuge, for the sake of the Lord thy God, the Holy One of Israel; for he has glorified thee. ⁶Seek ye the Lord, and when ye find him, call upon him; and when he shall draw nigh to you, ⁷let the ungodly leave his ways, and the transgressor his counsels: and let him return to the Lord, and he shall find mercy; for he shall abundantly pardon your sins. ⁸For my counsels are not as your counsels, nor are my ways as your ways, says the Lord. ⁹But as the heaven is distant from the earth, so is my way distant from your ways, and your thoughts from my mind. ¹⁰For as rain shall come down, or snow, from heaven, and shall not return until it have saturated the earth, and it bring forth, and bud, and give seed to the sower, and bread for food: ¹¹so shall my word be, whatever shall proceed out of my mouth, it shall by no means turn back, until all the things which I willed shall have been accomplished; and I will make thy ways prosperous, and will effect my commands. ¹²For ye shall go forth with joy, and shall be taught with gladness: for the mountains and the hills shall exult to welcome you with joy, and all the trees of the field shall applaud with their branches. ¹³And instead of the bramble shall come up the cypress, and instead of the nettle shall come up the myrtle: and the Lord shall be for a name, and for an everlasting sign, and shall not fail.

¹Thus says the Lord, Keep ye judgment, and do justice: for my salvation is near to come, and my mercy to be revealed. ²Blessed is the man that does these things, and the man that holds by them, and keeps the sabbaths from profaning them, and keeps his hands from doing unrighteousness. ³Let not the stranger who attaches himself to the Lord, say, Surely the Lord will separate me from his people: and let not the eunuch say, I am a dry tree. ⁴Thus says the Lord to the eunuchs, as many as shall keep my sabbaths, and choose the things which I take pleasure in, and take hold of my covenant; ⁵I will give to them in my house and within my walls an honourable place, better than sons and daughters: I will give them an everlasting name, and it shall not fail.

⁶And I will give it to the strangers that attach themselves to the Lord, to serve him, and to love the name of the Lord, to be to him servants and handmaids; and as for all that keep my sabbaths from profaning them, and that take hold of my covenant; ⁷I will bring them to my holy mountain, and gladden them in my house of prayer: their whole-burnt-offerings and their sacrifices shall be acceptable upon mine altar; for my house shall be called a house of prayer for all nations, ⁸says the Lord that gathers the dispersed of Israel; for I will gather to him a congregation.

⁹All ye beasts of the field, come, devour, all ye beasts of the forest. ¹⁰See how they are all blinded: they have not known; they are dumb dogs that will not bark; dreaming of rest, loving to slumber. ¹¹Yea, they are insatiable dogs, that known not what it is to be filled, and they are wicked, having no understanding: all have followed their own ways, each according to his will.

¹See how the just man has perished, and no one lays it to heart: and righteous men are taken away, and no one considers: for the righteous has been removed out of the way of injustice. ²His burial shall be in peace: he has been removed out of the way. ³But draw ye near hither, ye lawless children, the seed of adulterers and the harlot. ⁴Wherein have ye been rioting?

and against whom have ye opened your mouth, and against whom have ye loosed your tongue? are ye not children of perdition? a lawless seed? ⁵who call upon idols under the leafy trees, slaying your children in the valleys among the rocks? ⁶That is thy portion, this is thy lot: and to them hast thou poured forth drink-offerings, and to these hast thou offered meat-offerings. Shall I not therefore be angry for these things? ⁷On a lofty and high mountain, there is thy bed, and thither thou carriedst up thy meat-offerings: ⁸and behind the posts of thy door thou didst place thy memorials. Didst thou think that if thou shouldest depart from me, thou wouldest gain? thou hast loved those that lay with thee; ⁹and thou hast multiplied thy whoredom with them, and thou hast increased the number of them that are far from thee, and hast sent ambassadors beyond thy borders, and hast been debased even to hell. ¹⁰Thou hast wearied thyself with thy many ways; yet thou saidst not, I will cease to strengthen myself: for thou has done these things; therefore thou has not supplicated me. ¹¹Through dread of whom hast thou feared, and lied against me, and has not remembered, nor considered me, nor regarded me, yea, though when I see thee I pass they by, yet thou hast not feared me. ¹²And I will declare thy righteousness, and thy sins, which shall not profit thee. ¹³When thou criest out, let them deliver thee in thine affliction: for all these the wind shall take, and the tempest shall carry them away: but they that cleave to me shall possess the land, and shall inherit my holy mountain. ¹⁴And they shall say, Clear the ways before him, and take up the stumbling-blocks out of the way of my people. ¹⁵Thus says the Most High, who dwells on high for ever, Holy in the holies, is his name, the Most High resting in the holies, and giving patience to the faint-hearted, and giving life to the broken-hearted: ¹⁶I will not take vengeance on you for ever, neither will I be always angry with you: for my Spirit shall go forth from me, and I have created all breath. ¹⁷On account of sin for a little while I grieved him, and smote him, and turned away my face from him; and he was grieved, and he went on sorrowful in his ways. ¹⁸I have seen his ways, and healed him, and comforted him, and given him true comfort; ¹⁹peace upon peace to them that are far off, and to them that are nigh: and the Lord has said, I will heal them. ²⁰But the unrighteous shall be tossed as troubled waves, and shall not be able to rest. ²¹There is no joy to the ungodly, said God.

Chapter 58

¹Cry aloud, and spare not; lift up thy voice as with a trumpet, and declare to my people their sins, and to the house of Jacob their iniquities. ²They seek me day by day, and desire to know my ways, as a people that had done righteousness, and had not forsaken the judgment of their God: they now ask of me righteous judgment, and desire to draw nigh to God, ³saying, Why have we fasted, and thou regardest not? why have we afflicted our souls, and thou didst not know it? Nay, in the days of your fasts ye find your pleasures, and all them that are under your power ye wound. ⁴If ye fast for quarrels and strifes, and smite the lowly with your fists, wherefore do ye fast to me as ye do this day, so that your voice may be heard in crying? ⁵I have not chosen this fast, nor such a day for a man to afflict his soul; neither though thou shouldest bend down thy neck as a ring, and spread under thee sackcloth and ashes, neither thus shall ye call a fast acceptable. ⁶I have not chosen such a fast, says the Lord; but do thou loose every burden of iniquity, do thou untie the knots of hard bargains, set the bruised free, and cancel every unjust account. ⁷Break thy bread to the hungry, and lead the unsheltered poor to thy house: if thou seest one naked, clothe him, and thou shalt not disregard the relations of thine own seed. ⁸Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thy health shall speedily spring forth: and thy righteousness shall go before thee, and the glory of God shall compass thee. ⁹Then shalt thou cry, and God shall hearken to thee; while thou art yet speaking he will say, Behold, I am here. If thou remove from thee the band, and the stretching forth of the hands, and murmuring speech; ¹⁰and if thou give bread to the hungry from thy heart, and satisfy the afflicted soul; then shall thy light spring up in darkness, and thy darkness shall be as noon-day: ¹¹and thy God shall be with thee continually, and thou shalt be satisfied according as thy soul desires; and thy bones shall be made fat, and shall be as a well-watered garden, and as a fountain from which the water has not failed. ¹²And thy old waste desert places shall be built up, and thy foundations shall last through all generations; and thou shalt be called a repairer of breaches, and thou shalt cause thy paths between to be in peace. ¹³If thou turn away thy foot from the sabbath, so as not to do thy pleasure on the holy days, and shalt call the sabbaths delightful, holy to God; if thou shalt not lift up thy foot to work, nor speak a word in anger out of thy mouth, ¹⁴then shalt thou trust on the Lord; and he shall bring thee up to the good places of the land, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father: for the mouth of the Lord has spoken this.

Chapter 59

¹Has the hand of the Lord no power to save? or has he made his ear heavy, so that he should not hear? ²Nay, your iniquities separate between you and God, and because of your sins has he turned away his face from you, so as not to have mercy upon you. ³For your hands are defiled with blood, and your fingers with sins; your lips also have spoken iniquity, and your tongue meditates unrighteousness. ⁴None speaks justly, neither is there true judgment: they trust in vanities, and speak empty words; for they conceive trouble, and bring forth iniquity. ⁵They have hatched asps' eggs, and weave a spider's web: and he that is going to eat of their eggs, having crushed an addled egg, has found also in it a basilisk. ⁶Their web shall not become a garment, nor shall they at all clothe themselves with their works; for their works are works of iniquity. ⁷And their feet run to wickedness, swift to shed blood; their thoughts also are thoughts of murder; destruction and misery are in their ways; ⁸and the way of peace they know not, neither is there judgment in their ways; for their paths by which they go are crooked, and they know not peace. ⁹Therefore has judgment departed from them, and righteousness shall not overtake them: while they waited for light, darkness came upon them; while they waited for brightness, they walked in perplexity. ¹⁰They shall feel for the wall as blind men, and shall feel for it as if they had no eyes: and they shall feel at noon-day as at midnight; they shall groan as dying men. ¹¹They shall proceed together as a bear and as a dove: we have waited for judgment, and there is no salvation, it is gone far from us. ¹²For our iniquity is great before thee, and our sins have risen up against us: for our iniquities are in us, and we know our unrighteous deeds. ¹³We have sinned, and dealt falsely, and revolted from our God: we have spoken unrighteous words, and have been disobedient; we have conceived and uttered from our heart unrighteous words. ¹⁴And we have turned judgment back, and righteousness has departed afar off: for truth is consumed in their ways, and they could not pass by a straight path. ¹⁵And truth has been taken away, and they have turned aside their mind from understanding. And the Lord saw it, and it pleased him not that there was no judgment.

¹⁶And he looked, and there was no man, and he observed, and there was none to help: so he defended them with his arm, and stablished them with his mercy. ¹⁷And he put on righteousness as a breast-plate, and placed the helmet of salvation on his head; and he clothed himself with the garment of vengeance, and with his cloak, ¹⁸as one about to render a recompence, even reproach to his adversaries. ¹⁹So shall they of the west fear the name of the Lord, and they that come from the rising of the sun his glorious name: for the wrath of the Lord shall come as a mighty river, it shall come with fury. ²⁰And the deliverer shall come for Sion's sake, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob. ²¹And this shall be my covenant with them, said the Lord; My Spirit which is upon thee, and the words which I have put in thy mouth, shall never fail from thy mouth, nor from the mouth of thy seed, for the Lord has spoken it, henceforth and for ever.

Chapter 60

¹Be enlightened, be enlightened, O Jerusalem, for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee. ²Behold, darkness shall cover the earth, and there shall be gross darkness on the nations: but the Lords shall appear upon thee, and his glory shall be seen upon thee. ³And kings shall walk in thy light, and nations in thy brightness. ⁴Lift up thine eyes round about, and behold thy children gathered: all thy sons have come from far, and thy daughters shall be borne on men's shoulders. ⁵Then shalt thou see, and fear, and be amazed in thine heart; for the wealth of the sea shall come round to thee, and of nations and peoples; and herds of camels shall come to thee, ⁶and the camels of Madiam and Gaepha shall cover thee: all from Saba shall come bearing gold, and shall bring frankincense, and they shall publish the salvation of the Lord. ⁷And all the flocks of Kedar shall be gathered, and the rams of Nabaeoth shall come; and acceptable sacrifices shall be offered on my altar, and my house of prayer shall be glorified. ⁸Who are these that fly as clouds, and as doves with young ones to me? ⁹The isles have waited for me, and the ships of Tharsis among the first, to bring thy children from afar, and their silver and their gold with them, and that for the sake of the holy name of the Lord, and because the Holy One of Israel is glorified. ¹⁰And strangers shall build thy walls, and their kings shall wait upon thee: for by reason of my wrath I smote thee, and by reason of mercy I loved thee. ¹¹And thy gates shall be opened continually; they shall not be shut day nor night; to bring in to thee the power of the Gentiles, and their kings as captives. ¹²For the nations and the kings which will not serve thee shall perish; and those nations shall be made utterly desolate. ¹³And the glory of Libanus shall come to thee, with the cypress, and pine, and cedar together, to glorify my holy place. ¹⁴And the sons of them that afflicted thee, and of them that provoked thee, shall come to thee in fear; and thou shalt be called Sion, the city of the Holy One of Israel. ¹⁵Because thou has become desolate and hated, and there was no helper, therefore I will make thee a perpetual gladness, a joy of many generations. ¹⁶And thou shalt suck the milk of the Gentiles, and shalt eat the wealth of kings: and shalt know that I am the Lord that saves thee and delivers thee, the Holy One of Israel. ¹⁷And for brass I will bring thee gold, and for iron I will bring thee silver, and instead of wood I will bring thee brass, and instead of stones, iron; and I will make thy princes peaceable, and thine overseers righteous. ¹⁸And injustice shall no more be heard in thy land, nor destruction nor misery in thy coasts; but thy walls shall be called Salvation, and thy gates Sculptured Work. ¹⁹And thou shalt no more have the sun for a light by day, nor shall the rising of the moon lighten thy night; but the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and God thy glory. ²⁰For the sun shall no more set, nor shall the moon be eclipsed; for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be completed. ²¹Thy people also shall be all righteous; they shall inherit the land for ever, preserving that which they have planted, even the works of their hands, for glory. ²²The little one shall become thousands, and the least a great nation; I the Lord will gather them in due time.

Chapter 61

¹The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me; he has sent me to preach glad tidings to the poor, to heal the broken in heart, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and recovery of sight to the blind; ²to declare the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of recompence; to comfort all that mourn; ³that there should be given to them that mourn in Sion glory instead of ashes, the oil of joy to the mourners, the garment of glory for the spirit of heaviness: and they shall be called generations of righteousness, the planting of the Lord for glory. ⁴And they shall build the old waste places, they shall raise up those that were before made desolate, and shall renew the desert cities, even those that had been desolate for many generations. ⁵And strangers shall come and feed thy flocks, and aliens shall be thy ploughmen and vine-dressers. ⁶But ye shall be called priests of the Lord, the ministers of God: ye shall eat the strength of nations, and shall be admired because of their wealth. ⁷Thus shall they inherit the land a second time, and everlasting joy shall be upon their head. ⁸For I am the Lord who love righteousness, and hate robberies of injustice; and I will give their labour to the just, and will make an everlasting covenant with them. ⁹And their seed shall be known among the Gentiles, and their offspring in the midst of peoples: every one that sees them shall take notice of them, that they are a seed blessed of God; ¹⁰and they shall greatly rejoice in the Lord. Let my soul rejoice in the Lord; for he has clothed me with the robe of salvation, and the garment of joy: he has put a mitre on me as on a bridegroom, and adorned me with ornaments as a bride. ¹¹And as the earth putting forth her flowers, and as a garden its seed; so shall the Lord, even the Lord, cause righteousness to spring forth, and exultation before all nations.

Chapter 62

¹For Sion's sake I will not hold my peace, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not rest, until her righteousness go forth as light, and my salvation burn as a torch. ²And the Gentiles shall see thy righteousness, and kings thy glory: and one shall call thee by a new name, which the Lords shall name. ³And thou shalt be a crown of beauty in the hand of the Lord, and a royal diadem in the hand of thy God. ⁴And thou shalt no more be called Forsaken; and thy land shall no more be called Desert: for thou shalt be called My Pleasure, and thy land Inhabited: for the Lord has taken pleasure in thee, and thy land shall be inhabited. ⁵And as a young man lives with a virgin, so shall thy sons dwell in thee: and it shall come to pass that as a bridegroom will rejoice over a bride, so will the Lord rejoice over thee. ⁶And on thy walls, O Jerusalem, have I set watchmen all day and all night, who shall never cease making mention of the Lord. ⁷For there is none like you, when he shall have established, and made Jerusalem a praise on the earth. ⁸For the Lord has sworn by his glory, and by the might of his arm, I will no more give thy corn and thy provisions to thine enemies; nor shall strangers any more drink thy wine, for which thou has laboured. ⁹But they that have gathered them shall eat them, and they shall praise the Lord; and they that have gathered the grapes shall drink thereof in my holy courts.

¹⁰Go through my gates, and make a way for my people; and cast the stones out of the way; lift up a standard for the Gentiles. ¹¹For behold, the Lord has proclaimed to the end of the earth, say ye to the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy Saviour has come to thee, having his reward and his work before his face. ¹²And one shall call them the holy people, the redeemed of the Lord: and thou shalt be called a city sought out, and not forsaken.

Chapter 63

¹⁰But they disobeyed, and provoked his Holy Spirit: so he turned to be an enemy, he himself contended against them. ¹¹Then he remembered the ancient days, saying, Where is he that brought up from the sea the shepherd of the sheep? where is he that put his Holy Spirit in them? ¹²who led Moses with his right hand, the arm of his glory? he forced the water to separate from before him, to make himself an everlasting name. ¹³He led them through the deep, as a horse through the wilderness, and they fainted not, ¹⁴and as cattle through a plain: the Spirit came down from the Lord, and guided them: thus thou leddest thy people, to make thyself a glorious name. ¹⁵Turn from heaven, and look from thy holy habitation and from thy glory: where is thy zeal and thy strength? where is the abundance of thy mercy and of thy compassions, that thou hast withholden thyself from us? ¹⁶For thou art our Father; for though Abraham knew us not, and Israel did not acknowledge us, yet do thou, O Lord, our Father, deliver us: thy name has been upon us from the beginning. ¹⁷Why hast thou caused us to err, O Lord, from thy way? and has hardened our hearts, that we should not fear thee? Return for thy servants' sake, for the sake of the tribes of thine inheritance, ¹⁸that we may inherit a small part of thy holy mountain. ¹⁹We are become as at the beginning, when thou didst not rule over us, and thy name was not called upon us.

Chapter 64

¹If thou wouldest open the heaven, trembling will take hold upon the mountains from thee, and they shall melt, ²as wax melts before the fire; and fire shall burn up the enemies, and thy name shall be manifest among the adversaries: at thy presence the nations shall be troubled, ³whenever thou shalt work gloriously; trembling from thee shall take hold upon the mountains. ⁴From of old we have not heard, neither have our eyes seen a God beside thee, and thy works which thou wilt perform to them that wait for mercy. ⁵For these blessings shall happen to them that work righteousness, and they shall remember thy ways: behold, thou wast angry and we have sinned; therefore we have erred, ⁶and we are all become as unclean, and all our righteousness as a filthy rag: and we have fallen as leaves because of our iniquities; thus the wind shall carry us away. ⁷And there is none that calls upon thy name, or that remembers to take hold on thee: for thou hast turned thy face away from us, and hast delivered us up because of our sins. ⁸And now, O Lord, thou art our Father, and we are clay, all of us the work of thine hands. ⁹Be not very wroth with us, and remember not our sins for ever; but now look on us, for we are all thy people. ¹⁰The city of thy holiness has become desolate, Sion has become as a wilderness, Jerusalem a curse. ¹¹The house, our sanctuary, and the glory which our fathers blessed, has been burnt with fire: and all our glorious things have gone to ruin. ¹²And for all these things thou, O Lord, has withholden, thyself, and been silent, and hast brought us very low.

Chapter 65

¹I became manifest to them that asked not for me; I was found of them that sought me not: I said, Behold, I am here, to a nation, who called not on my name. ²I have stretched forth my hands all day to a disobedient and gainsaying people, to them that walked in a way that was not good, but after their sins. ³This is the people that provokes me continually in my presence; they offer sacrifices in gardens, and burn incense on bricks to devils, which exist not. ⁴They lie down to sleep in the tombs and in the caves for the sake of dreams, even they that eat swine's flesh, and the broth of their sacrifices: all their vessels are defiled: ⁵who say, Depart from me, draw not nigh to me, for I am pure. This is the smoke of my wrath, a fire burns with it continually. ⁶Behold, it is written before me: I will not be silent until I have recompensed into their bosom, ⁷their sins and the sins of their fathers, says the Lord, who have burnt incense on the mountains, and reproached me on the hills: I will recompense their works into their bosom. ⁸Thus says the Lord, As a grape-stone shall be found in the cluster, and they shall say, Destroy it not; for a blessing is in it: so will I do for the sake of him that serves me, for his sake I will not destroy them all. ⁹And I will lead forth the seed that came of Jacob and of Juda, and they shall inherit my holy mountain: and mine elect and my servants shall inherit it, and shall dwell there. ¹⁰And there shall be in the forest folds of flocks, and the valley of Achor shall be for a resting-place of herds for my people, who have sought me. ¹¹But ye are they that have left me, and forget my holy mountain, and prepare a table for the devil, and fill up the drink-offering to Fortune. ¹²I will deliver you up to the sword, ye shall all fall by slaughter: for I called you, and ye hearkened not; I spoke, and ye refused to hear; and ye did evil in my sight, and chose the things wherein I delighted not. ¹³Therefore thus says the Lord, Behold, my servants shall eat, but ye shall hunger: behold, my servants shall drink, but ye shall thirst: behold my servants shall rejoice, but ye shall be ashamed: ¹⁴behold, my servants shall exult with joy, but ye shall cry for the sorrow of your heart, and shall howl for the vexation of your spirit. ¹⁵For ye shall leave your name for a loathing to my chosen, and the Lord shall destroy you: but my servants shall be called by a new name, ¹⁶which shall be blessed on the earth; for they shall bless the true God: and they that swear upon the earth shall swear by the true God; for they shall forget the former affliction, it shall not come into their mind.

¹⁷For there shall be a new heaven and a new earth: and they shall not at all remember the former, neither shall they at all come into their mind. ¹⁸But they shall find in her joy and exultation; for, behold, I make Jerusalem a rejoicing, and my people a joy. ¹⁹And I will rejoice in Jerusalem, and will be glad in my people: and there shall no more be heard in her the voice of weeping, or the voice of crying. ²⁰Neither shall there be there any more a child that dies untimely, or an old man who shall not complete his time: for the youth shall be a hundred years old, and the sinner who dies at a hundred years shall also be accursed: ²¹and they shall build houses, and themselves shall dwell in them; and they shall plant vineyards, and themselves shall eat the fruit thereof. ²²They shall by no means build, and others inhabit; and they shall by no means plant, and others eat: for as the days of the tree of life shall be the days of my people, they shall long enjoy the fruits of their labours. ²³My chosen shall not toil in vain, neither shall they beget children to be cursed; for they are a seed blessed of God, and their offspring with them. ²⁴And it shall come to pass, that before they call, I will hearken to them; while they are yet speaking, I will say, What is it? ²⁵Then wolves and lambs shall feed together, and the lion shall eat chaff like the ox, and the serpent earth as bread. They shall not injure nor destroy in my holy mountain, says the Lord.

Chapter 66

¹Thus says the Lord, Heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footstool: what kind of a house will ye build me? and of what kind is to be the place of my rest? ²For all these things are mine, says the Lord: and to whom will I have respect, but to the humble and meek, and the man that trembles at my words? ³But the transgressor that sacrifices a calf to me, is as he that kills a dog; and he that offers fine flour, as one that offers swine's blood; he that gives frankincense for a memorial, is as a blasphemer. Yet they have chosen their own ways, and their soul has delighted in their abominations. ⁴I also will choose their mockeries, and will recompense their sins upon them; because I called them, and they did not hearken to me; I spoke, and they heard not: and they did evil before me, and chose the things wherein I delighted not. ⁵Hear the words of the Lord, ye that tremble at his word; speak ye, our brethren, to them that hate you and abominate you, that the name of the Lord may be glorified, and may appear their joy; but they shall be ashamed. ⁶A voice of a cry from the city, a voice from the temple, a voice of the Lord rendering recompence to his adversaries. ⁷Before she that travailed brought forth, before the travail-pain came on, she escaped it and brought forth a male. ⁸Who has heard such a thing? and who has seen after this manner? Has the earth travailed in one day? or has even a nation been born at once, that Sion has travailed, and brought forth her children? ⁹But I have raised this expectation, yet thou hast not remembered me, says the Lord: behold, have not I made the bearing and barren woman? says thy God. ¹⁰Rejoice, O Jerusalem, and all ye that love her hold in her a general assembly: rejoice greatly with her, all that now mourn over her: ¹¹that ye may suck, and be satisfied with the breast of her consolation; that ye may milk out, and delight yourselves with the influx of her glory. ¹²For thus says the Lord, Behold, I turn toward them as a river of peace, and as a torrent bringing upon them in a flood the glory of the Gentiles: their children shall be borne upon the shoulders, and comforted on the knees. ¹³As if his mother should comfort one, so will I also comfort you; and ye shall be comforted in Jerusalem. ¹⁴And ye shall see, and your heart shall rejoice, and your bones shall thrive like grass: and the hand of the Lord shall be known to them that fear him, and he shall threaten the disobedient. ¹⁵For, behold, the Lord will come as fire, and his chariots as a storm, to render his vengeance with wrath, and his rebuke with a flame of fire. ¹⁶For with the fire of the Lord all the earth shall be judged, and all flesh with his sword: many shall be slain by the Lord. ¹⁷They that sanctify themselves and purify themselves in the gardens, and eat swine's flesh in the porches, and the abominations, and the mouse, shall be consumed together, says the Lord.

¹⁸And I know their works and their imagination. I am going to gather all nations and tongues; and they shall come, and see my glory. ¹⁹And I will leave a sign upon them, and I will send forth them that have escaped of them to the nations, to Tharsis, and Phud, and Lud, and Mosoch, and to Thobel, and to Greece, and to the isles afar off, to those who have not heard my name, nor seen my glory; and they shall declare my glory among the Gentiles.

²⁰And they shall bring your brethren out of all nations for a gift to the Lord with horses, and chariots, in litters drawn by mules with awnings, to the holy city Jerusalem, said the Lord, as though the children of Israel should bring their sacrifices to me with psalms into the house of the Lord.

²¹And I will take of them priests and Levites, says the Lord. ²²For as the new heaven and the new earth, which I make, remain before me, says the Lord, so shall your seed and your name continue. ²³And it shall come to pass from month to month, and from sabbath to sabbath, that all flesh shall come to worship before me in Jerusalem, says the Lord. ²⁴And they shall go forth, and see the carcasses of the men that have transgressed against me: for their worm shall not die, and their fire shall not be quenched; and they shall be a spectacle to all flesh.

Jeremias

(Jeremiah)

Chapter 1

¹The word of God which came to Jeremiah the son of Chelcias, of the priests, who dwelt in Anathoth in the land of Benjamin: ²*accordingly* as the word of God came to him in the days of Josias son of Amos king of Juda, in the thirteenth year of his reign. ³And it was in the days of Joakim, son of Josias king of Juda, until the eleventh year of Sedekias king of Juda, even until the captivity of Jerusalem in the fifth month. ⁴And the word of the Lord came to him, saying, ⁵Before I formed thee in the belly, I knew thee; and before thou camest forth from the womb, I sanctified thee; I appointed thee a prophet to the nations. ⁶And I said, O Lord, thou that art supreme Lord, behold, I know not how to speak, for I am a child. ⁷And the Lord said to me, Say not, I am a child: for thou shalt go to all to whomsoever I shall send thee, and according to all the words that I shall command thee, thou shalt speak. ⁸Be not afraid before them: for I am with thee to deliver thee, says the Lord. ⁹And the Lord stretched forth his hand to me, and touched my mouth: and the Lord said to me, Behold, I have put my words into thy mouth. ¹⁰Behold, I have appointed thee this day over nations and over kingdoms, to root out, and to pull down, and to destroy, and to rebuild, and to plant.

¹¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, What seest thou? And I said, A rod of an almond tree. ¹²And the Lord said to me, Thou hast well seen: for I have watched over my words to perform them. ¹³And the word of the Lord came to me a second time, saying, What seest thou? And I said, A caldron on the fire; and the face of it is toward the north. ¹⁴And the Lord said to me, From the north shall flame forth evils upon all the inhabitants of the land. ¹⁵For, behold, I call together all the kingdoms of the earth from the north, says the Lord; and they shall come, and shall set each one his throne at the entrance of the gates of Jerusalem, and against all the walls round about her, and against all the cities of Juda. ¹⁶And I will speak to them in judgment, concerning all their iniquity, forasmuch as they have forsaken me, and sacrificed to strange gods, and worshipped the works of their own hands. ¹⁷And do thou gird up thy loins, and stand up, and speak all the words that I shall command thee: be not afraid of their face, neither be thou alarmed before them; for I am with thee to deliver thee, says the Lord. ¹⁸Behold, I have made thee this day as a strong city, and as a brazen wall, strong against all the kings of Juda, and the princes thereof, and the people of the land. ¹⁹And they shall fight against thee; but they shall by no means prevail against thee; because I am with thee, to deliver thee, says the Lord.

Chapter 2

¹And he said, Thus says the Lord, ²I remember the kindness of thy youth, and the love of thine espousals, ³in following the Holy One of Israel, says the Lord, Israel was the holy people to the Lord, and the first-fruits of his increase: al that devoured him shall offend; evils shall come upon them, says the Lord. ⁴Hear the word of the Lord, O house of Jacob, and every family of the house of Israel. ⁵Thus says the Lord, What trespass have your fathers found in me, that they have revolted far from me, and gone after vanities, and become vain? ⁶And they said not, Where is the Lord, who brought us up out of the land of Egypt, who guided us in the wilderness, in an untried and trackless land, in a land which no man at all went through, and no man dwelt there? ⁷And I brought you to Carmel, that ye should eat the fruits thereof, and the good thereof; and ye went in, and defiled my land, and made mine heritage an abomination. ⁸The priests said not, Where is the Lord? and they that held by the law knew me not: the shepherds also sinned against me, and the prophets prophesied by Baal, and went after that which profited not. ⁹Therefore I will yet plead with you, and will plead with your children's children. ¹⁰For go to the isles of the Chettians, and se; and send to Kedar, and observe accurately, and see if such things have been done; ¹¹if the nations will change their gods, though they are not gods: but my people have changed their glory, for that from which they shall not be profited. ¹²The heaven is amazed at this, and is very exceedingly horror-struck, says the Lord. ¹³For my people has committed two faults, and evil ones: they have forsaken me, the fountain of water of life, and hewn out for themselves broken cisterns, which will not be able to hold water. ¹⁴Is Israel a servant, or a home-born slave? why has he become a spoil? ¹⁵The lions roared upon him, and uttered their voice, which have made his land a wilderness: and his cities are broken down, that they should not be inhabited. ¹⁶Also the children of Memphis and Taphnas have known thee, and mocked thee. ¹⁷Has not thy forsaking me brought these things upon thee? says the Lord thy God. ¹⁸And now what hast thou to do with the way of Egypt, to drink the water of Geon? and what hast thou to do with the way of the Assyrians, to drink the water of rivers? ¹⁹Thine apostasy shall correct thee, and thy wickedness shall reprove thee: know then, and see, that thy forsaking me has been bitter to thee, says the Lord thy God; and I have taken no pleasure in thee, says the Lord thy God. ²⁰For of old thou hast broken thy yoke, and plucked asunder thy bands; and thou has said, I will not serve thee, but will go upon every high hill, and under every shady tree, there will I indulge in my fornication. ²¹Yet I planted thee a fruitful vine, entirely of the right sort: how art thou a strange vine turned to bitterness! ²²Though thou shouldest wash thyself with nitre, and multiply to thyself soap, still thou art stained by thine iniquities before me, says the Lord. ²³How wilt thou say, I am not polluted, and have not gone after Baal? behold thy ways in the burial-ground, and know what thou hast done: her voice has howled in the evening: ²⁴she has extended her ways over the waters of the desert; she was hurried along by the lusts of her soul; she is given up to them, who will turn her back? none that seek her shall be weary; at the time of her humiliation they shall find her. ²⁵Withdraw thy foot from a rough way, and they throat from thirst: but she said I will strengthen myself: for she loved strangers, and went after them. ²⁶As is the shame of a thief when he is caught, so shall the children of Israel be ashamed; they, and their kings, and their princes, and their priests, and their prophets. ²⁷They said to a stock, Thou art my father; and to a stone, Thou has begotten me: and they have turned their backs to me, and not their faces: yet in the time of their afflictions they will say, Arise, and save us. ²⁸And where are thy gods, which thou madest for thyself? will they arise and save in the time of thine affliction? for according to the number of thy cities were thy gods, O Juda; and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem they sacrificed to Baal. ²⁹Wherefore do ye speak unto me? ye all have been ungodly, and ye all have transgressed against me, says the Lord. ³⁰In vain have I smitten your children; ye have not received correction: a sword has devoured your prophets as a destroying lion; yet ye feared not.

³¹Hear ye the word of the Lord: thus says the Lord, Have I been a wilderness or a dry land to Israel? wherefore has my people said, We will not be ruled over, and will not come to thee any more? ³²Will a bride forget her ornaments, or a virgin her girdle? but my people has forgotten me days without number. ³³What fair device wilt thou yet employ in thy ways, so as to seek love? it shall not be so; moreover thou has done wickedly in corrupting thy ways; ³⁴and in thine hands has been found the blood of innocent souls; I have not found them in holes, but on every oak. ³⁵Yet thou saidst, I am innocent: only let his wrath be turned away from me. Behold, I will plead with thee, whereas thou sayest, I have not sinned. ³⁶For thou has been so exceedingly contemptuous as to repeat thy ways; but thou shalt be ashamed of Egypt, as thou wast ashamed of Assur. ³⁷For thou shalt go forth thence also with thine hands upon thine head; for the Lord has rejected thine hope, and thou shalt not prosper in it.

Chapter 3

¹If a man put away his wife, and she depart from him, and become another man's, shall she return to him any more at all? shall not that woman be utterly defiled? ye thou hast gone a-whoring with many shepherds, and hast returned to me, says the Lord.

²Lift up thine eyes to look straight forward, and see where thou hast not been utterly defiled. Thou hast sat for them by the wayside as a deserted crow, and hast defiled the land with thy fornications and thy wickedness.

³And thou didst retain many shepherds for a stumbling-block to thyself: thou hadst a whore's face, thou didst become shameless toward all. ⁴Hast thou not called me as it were a home, and the father and guide of thy virgin-time?

⁵Will God's anger continue for ever, or be preserved to the end? Behold, thou hast spoken and done these bad things, and hadst power to do them.

⁶And the Lord said to me in the days of Josias the king, Hast thou seen what things the house of Israel has done to me? they have gone on every high mountain, and under every shady tree, and have committed fornication there. ⁷And I said after she had committed all these acts of fornication, Turn again to me. Yet she returned not. And faithless Juda saw her faithlessness.

⁸And I saw that (for all the sins of which she was convicted, wherein the house of Israel committed adultery, and I put her away, and gave into her hands a bill of divorcement,) yet faithless Juda feared not, but went and herself also committed fornication. ⁹And her fornication was nothing accounted of; and she committed adultery with wood and stone. ¹⁰And for all these things faithless Juda turned not to me with all her heart, but falsely. ¹¹And the Lord said to me, Israel has justified himself more than faithless Juda.

¹²Go and read these words toward the north, and thou shalt say, Return to me, O house of Israel, says the Lord; and I will not set my face against you: for I am merciful, says the Lord, and I will not be angry with you for ever.

¹³Nevertheless, know thine iniquity, that thou hast sinned against the Lord thy God, and hast scattered thy ways to strangers under every shady tree, but thou didst not hearken to my voice, says the Lord. ¹⁴Turn, ye children that have revolted, says the Lord; for I will rule over you: and I will take you one of a city, and two of a family, and I will bring you in to Sion: ¹⁵and I will give you shepherds after my heart, and they shall certainly tend you with knowledge.

¹⁶And it shall come to pass that when ye are multiplied and increased upon the land, says the Lord, in those days they shall say no more, The ark of the covenant of the Holy One of Israel: it shall not come to mind; it shall not be named; neither shall it be visited; nor shall this be done any more. ¹⁷In those days and at that time they shall call Jerusalem the throne of the Lord; and all the nations shall be gathered to it: and they shall not walk any more after the imaginations of their evil heart. ¹⁸In those days the house of Juda, shall come together to the house of Israel, and they shall come, together, from the land of the north, and from all the countries, to the land, which I caused their fathers to inherit. ¹⁹And I said, So be it, Lord, for thou saidst I will set thee among children, and will give thee a choice land, the inheritance of the Almighty God of the Gentiles: and I said, Ye shall call me Father; and ye shall not turn away from me. ²⁰But as a wife acts treacherously against her husband, so has the house of Israel dealt treacherously against me, says the Lord. ²¹A voice from the lips was heard, even of weeping and supplication of the children of Israel: for they have dealt unrighteously in their ways, they have forgotten God their Holy One. ²²Turn, ye children that are given to turning, and I will heal your bruises. Behold, we will be thy servants; for thou art the Lord our God. ²³Truly the hills and the strength of the mountains were a lying refuge: but by the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel. ²⁴But shame has consumed the labours of our fathers from our youth; their sheep and their calves, and their sons and their daughters. ²⁵We have lain down in our shame, and our disgrace has covered us: because we and our fathers have sinned before our God, from our youth until this day; and we have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord our God.

Chapter 4

¹If Israel will return to me, says the Lord, he shall return: and if he will remove his abominations out of his mouth, and fear before me, and swear, ²The Lord lives, with truth, in judgment and righteousness, then shall nations bless by him, and by him they shall praise God in Jerusalem. ³For thus says the Lord to the men of Juda, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Break up fresh ground for yourselves, and sow not among thorns. ⁴Circumcise yourselves to your God, and circumcise your hardness of heart, ye men of Juda, and inhabitants of Jerusalem: lest my wrath go forth as fire, and burn, and there be none to quench it, because of the evil of your devices. ⁵Declare ye in Juda, and let it be heard in Jerusalem: say ye, Sound the trumpet in the land; cry ye aloud: say ye, Gather yourselves together, and let us enter into the fortified cities. ⁶Gather up your wares and flee to Sion: hasten, stay not: for I will bring evils from the north, an great destruction. ⁷The lion is gone up from his lair, he has roused himself to the destruction of the nations, and has gone forth out of his place, to make the land desolate; and the cities shall be destroyed, so as to be without inhabitant. ⁸For these things gird yourselves with sackclothes, and lament, and howl: for the anger of the Lord is not turned away from you.

⁹And it shall come to pass in that day, says the Lord, that the heart of the king shall perish, and the heart of the princes; and the priests shall be amazed, and the prophets shall wonder.

¹⁰And I said, O sovereign Lord, verily thou hast deceived this people and Jerusalem, saying, There shall be peace; whereas behold, the sword has reached even to their soul.

¹¹At that time they shall say to this people and to Jerusalem, There is a spirit of error in the wilderness: the way of the daughter of my people is not to purity, nor to holiness.

¹²*But* a spirit of full vengeance shall come upon me; and now I declare my judgments against them. ¹³Behold, he shall come up as a cloud, and his chariots as a tempest: his horses are swifter than eagles. Woe unto us! for we are in misery. ¹⁴Wash thine heart from wickedness, O Jerusalem, that thou mayest be saved: how long will thy grievous thoughts be within thee?

¹⁵For a voice of one publishing from Dan shall come, and trouble out of mount Ephraim shall be heard of.

¹⁶Remind ye the nations; behold, they are come: proclaim it in Jerusalem, that bands are approaching from a land afar off, and have uttered their voice against the cities of Juda.

¹⁷As keepers of a field, they have surrounded her; because thou, says the Lord, has neglected me. ¹⁸Thy ways and thy devices have brought these things upon thee; this is thy wickedness, for it is bitter, for it has reached to thy heart.

¹⁹I am pained in my bowels, my bowels, and the sensitive powers of my heart; my soul is in great commotion, my heart is torn: I will not be silent, for my soul has heard the sound of a trumpet, the cry of war, and of distress: it calls on destruction; ²⁰for all the land is distressed: suddenly my tabernacle is distressed, my curtains have been rent asunder.

²¹How long shall I see fugitives, and hear the sound of the trumpet? ²²For the princes of my people have not known me, they are foolish and unwise children: they are wise to do evil, but how to do good they have not known. ²³I looked upon the earth, and, behold, it was not; and to the sky, and there was no light in it.

²⁴I beheld the mountains, and they trembled, and I saw all the hills in commotion.

²⁵I looked, and behold, there was no man, and all the birds of the sky were scared.

²⁶I saw, and, behold, Carmel was desert, and all the cities were burnt with fire at the presence of the Lord, and at the presence of his fierce anger they were utterly destroyed.

²⁷Thus says the Lord, The whole land shall be desolate; but I will not make a full end.

²⁸For these things let the earth mourn, and let the sky be dark above: for I have spoken, and I will not repent; I have purposed, and I will not turn back from it.

²⁹The whole land has recoiled from the noise of the horseman and the bent bow; they have gone into the caves, and have hidden themselves in the groves, and have gone up upon the rocks: every city was abandoned, no man dwelt in them. ³⁰And what wilt thou do? Though thou clothe thyself with scarlet, and adorn thyself with golden ornaments; though thou adorn thine eyes with stibium, thy beauty will be in vain: thy lovers have rejected thee, they seek thy life. ³¹For I have heard thy groaning as the voice of a woman in travail, as of her that brings forth her first child; the voice of the daughter of Zion shall fail through weakness, and she shall lose the strength of her hands, saying, Woe is me! for my soul faints because of the slain.

Chapter 5

¹Run ye about in the streets of Jerusalem, and see, and know, and seek in her broad places, if ye can find one, if there is any one that does judgment, and seeks faithfulness; and I will pardon them, says the Lord. ²The Lord lives, they say; do they not therefore swear falsely? ³O Lord, thine eyes are upon faithfulness: thou hast scourged them, but they have not grieved; thou hast consumed them; but they would not receive correction: they have made their faces harder than a rock; and they would not return. ⁴Then I said, It may be they are poor; for they are weak, for they know not the way of the Lord, or the judgment of God. ⁵I will go to the rich men, and will speak to them; for they have known the way of the Lord, and the judgment of God:

but, behold, with one consent they have broken the yoke, they have burst the bonds. ⁶Therefore has a lion out of the forest smitten them, and a wolf has destroyed them even to their houses, and a leopard has watched against their cities: all that go forth from them shall be hunted: for they have multiplied their ungodliness, they have strengthened themselves in their revoltings. ⁷In what way shall I forgive thee for these things? Thy sons have forsaken me, and sworn by them that are no gods: and I fed them to the full, and they committed adultery, and lodged in harlots' houses. ⁸They became as wanton horses: they neighed each one after his neighbour's wife. ⁹Shall I not visit for these things? says the Lord: and shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this. ¹⁰Go up upon her battlements, and break them down; but make not a full end: leave her buttresses: for they are the Lord's. ¹¹For the house of Israel have indeed dealt treacherously against me, says the Lord: the house of Juda also ¹²have lied to their Lord, and they have said, These things are not so; no evils shall come upon us; and we shall not see sword or famine. ¹³Our prophets became wind, and the word of the Lord was not in them. ¹⁴Therefore thus says the Lord Almighty, Because ye have spoken this word, behold, I have made my words in thy mouth fire, and this people wood, and it shall devour them. ¹⁵Behold, I will bring upon you a nation from far, O house of Israel, says the Lord; a nation the sound of whose language one shall not understand.

²⁰Proclaim these things to the house of Jacob, and let them be heard in the house of Juda. ²¹Hear ye now these things, O foolish and senseless people; who have eyes, and see not; and have ears, and hear not: ²²will ye not be afraid of me? says the Lord; and will ye not fear before me, who have set the sand for a bound to the sea, as a perpetual ordinance, and it shall not pass it: yea, it shall rage, but not prevail; and its waves shall roar, but not pass over it. ²³But this people has a disobedient and rebellious heart; and they have turned aside and gone back: ²⁴and they have not said in their heart, Let us fear now the Lord our God, who gives us the early and latter rain, according to the season of the fulfillment of the ordinance of harvest, and has preserved it for us. ²⁵Your transgressions have turned away these things, and your sins have removed good things from you. ²⁶For among my people were found ungodly men; and they have set snares to destroy men, and have caught them. ²⁷As a snare which has been set is full of birds, so are their houses full of deceit: therefore have they grown great, and become rich: ²⁸and they have transgressed the rule of judgment; they have not judged the cause of the orphan, nor have they judged the cause of the widow. ²⁹Shall I not visit for these things? says the Lord: and shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this? ³⁰Shocking and horrible deeds have been done on the land; ³¹the prophets utter unrighteous prophecies, and the priests have clapped their hands: and my people has loved to have it thus: and what will ye do for the future.

Chapter 6

¹Strengthen yourselves, ye children of Benjamin, to flee out of the midst of Jerusalem, and sound an alarm with the trumpet in Thecue, and set up a signal over Baethacharma: for evil threatens from the north, and a great destruction is coming. ²And thy pride, O daughter of Sion, shall be taken away. ³The shepherds and their flocks shall come to her; and they shall pitch their tents against her round about, and shall feed their flocks each with his hand. ⁴Prepare yourselves for war against her; rise up, and let us go up against her at noon. Woe to us! for the day has gone down, for the shadows of the day fail. ⁵Rise, and let us go up against her by night, and destroy her foundations. ⁶For thus says the Lord, Hew down her trees, array a numerous force against Jerusalem. O false city; there is all oppression in her. ⁷As a cistern cools water, so her wickedness cools her, ungodliness and misery shall be heard in her, as continually before her. ⁸Thou shalt be chastened, O Jerusalem, with pain and the scourge, lest my soul depart from thee; lest I make thee a desert land, which shall not be inhabited. ⁹For thus says the Lord, Glean, glean thoroughly as a vine the remnant of Israel: turn back your hands as a grape-gatherer to his basket. ¹⁰To whom shall I speak, and testify, that he may hearken? behold, thine ears are uncircumcised, and they shall not be able to hear: behold, the word of the Lord is become to them a reproach, they will not at all desire it. ¹¹And I allowed my wrath to come to full, yet I kept it in, and did not utterly destroy them: I will pour it out on the children without, and on the assembly of young men together: for man and woman shall be taken together, the old man with him that is full of days. ¹²And their houses shall be turned to others, with their fields and their wives together: for I will stretch out my hand upon the inhabitants of this land, says the Lord. ¹³For from the least of them even to the greatest they have all committed iniquity; from the priest even to the false prophet they have all wrought falsely. ¹⁴And they healed the breach of my people imperfectly, making light of it, and saying, Peace, peace, and where is peace? ¹⁵They were ashamed because they failed; yet they were not ashamed as those who are truly ashamed, and they knew not their own disgrace: therefore shall they utterly fall when they do fall, and in the time of visitation shall they perish, said the Lord. ¹⁶Thus says the Lord, Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths of the Lord; and see what is the good way, and walk in it, and ye shall find purification for your souls. But they said, We will not walk in them. ¹⁷I have set watchmen over you, saying, Hear ye the sound of the trumpet. But they said, We will not hear it. ¹⁸Therefore have the nations heard, and they that feed their flocks.

¹⁹Hear, O earth: behold, I will bring evils upon this people, even the fruit of their rebellions; for they have not heeded my words, and they have rejected my law. ²⁰Wherefore do ye bring me frankincense from Saba, and cinnamon from a land afar off? your whole-burnt-offerings are not acceptable, and your sacrifices have not been pleasant to me. ²¹Therefore thus says the Lord, Behold, I will bring weakness upon this people, and the fathers and sons shall be weak together; the neighbour and his friend shall perish. ²²Thus says the Lord, Behold, a people comes from the north, and nations shall be stirred up from the end of the earth. ²³They shall lay hold on bow and spear; the people is fierce, and will have no mercy; their voice is as the roaring sea; they shall array themselves for war against thee as fire on horses and chariots, O daughter of Sion. ²⁴We have heard the report of them: our hands are weakened: anguish has seized us, the pangs as of a woman in travail. ²⁵Go not forth into the field, and walk not in the ways; for the sword of the enemy lingers round about. ²⁶O daughter of my people, gird thyself with sackcloth: sprinkle thyself with ashes; make for thyself pitiable lamentation, as the mourning for a beloved son: for misery will come suddenly upon you. ²⁷I have caused thee to be tried among tried nations, and thou shalt know me when I have tried their way. ²⁸*They are* all disobedient, walking perversely: they are brass and iron; they are all corrupted. ²⁹The bellows have failed from the fire, the lead has failed: the silversmith works at his trade in vain; their wickedness is not consumed. ³⁰Call ye them reprobate silver, because the Lord has rejected them.

Chapter 7

²Hear ye the word of the Lord, all Judea. ³Thus says the Lord God of Israel, Correct your ways and your devices, and I will cause you to dwell in this place. ⁴Trust not in yourselves with lying words, for they shall not profit you at all, saying, It is the temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord. ⁵For if ye thoroughly correct your ways and your practices, and do indeed execute judgment between a man and his neighbour; ⁶and oppress not the stranger, and the orphan, and the widow, and shed not innocent blood in this place, and go not after strange gods to your hurt: ⁷then will I cause you to dwell in this place, in the land which I gave to your fathers of old and for ever. ⁸But whereas ye have trusted in lying words, whereby ye shall not be profited; ⁹and ye murder, and commit adultery, and steal, and swear falsely, and burn incense to Baal, and are gone after strange gods whom ye know not, ¹⁰so that it is evil with you; yet have ye come, and stood before me in the house, whereon my name is called, and ye have said, We have refrained from doing all these abominations. ¹¹Is my house, whereon my name is called, a den of robbers in your eyes? And, behold, I have seen it, says the Lord. ¹²For go ye to my place with is in Selo, where I caused my name to dwell before, and see what I did to it because of the wickedness of my people Israel. ¹³And now, because ye have done all these deeds, and I spoke to you, but ye hearkened not to me; and I called you, but ye answered not; ¹⁴therefore I also will do to the house whereon my name is called, wherein ye trust, and to the place which I gave to you and to your fathers, as I did to Selo. ¹⁵And I will cast you out of my sight, as I cast away your brethren, all the seed of Ephraim. ¹⁶Therefore pray not thou for this people, and intercede not for them to be pitied, yea, pray not, and approach me not for them: for I will not hearken unto thee. ¹⁷Seest thou not what they do in the cities of Juda, and in the streets of Jerusalem? ¹⁸Their children gather wood, and their fathers kindle a fire, and their women knead dough, to make cakes to the host of heaven; and they have poured out drink-offerings to strange gods, that they might provoke me to anger. ¹⁹Do they provoke me to anger? says the Lord: do they not provoke themselves, that their faces may be ashamed? ²⁰Therefore thus says the Lord; Behold, my anger and wrath shall be poured out upon this place, and upon the men, and upon the cattle, and upon every tree of their field, and upon the fruits of the land; and it shall burn, and not be quenched.

went backward, and not forward; ²⁵from the day that their fathers went forth out of the land of Egypt, even until this day. And I sent to you all my servants, the prophets, by day and early in the morning: yea, I sent them, ²⁶but they hearkened not to me, and their ear gave no heed; and they made their neck harder than their fathers. ²⁷Therefore thou shalt speak this word to them; ²⁸This is the nation which has not hearkened to the voice of the Lord, nor received correction: truth has failed from their mouth. ²⁹Cut off thine hair, and cast it away, and take up a lamentation on thy lips; for the Lord has reprobated and rejected the generation that does these things. ³⁰For the children of Juda have wrought evil before me, says the Lord; they have set their abominations in the house on which my name is called, to defile it. ³¹And they have built the altar of Tapheth, which is in the valley of the son of Ennom, to burn their sons and their daughters with fire; which I did not command them to do, neither did I design it in my heart.

³²Therefore, behold, the days come, says the Lord, when they shall no more say, The altar of Tapheth, and the valley of the son of Ennom, but, The valley of the slain; and they shall bury in Tapheth, for want of room. ³³And the dead bodies of this people shall be for food to the birds of the sky, and to the wild beasts of the earth; and there shall be none to drive them away. ³⁴And I will destroy out of the cities of Juda, and the streets of Jerusalem, the voice of them that make merry, and the voice of them that rejoice, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride; for the whole land shall become a desolation.

Chapter 8

¹At that time, says the Lord, they shall bring out the bones of the kings of Juda, and the bones of his princes, and the bones of the priests, and the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, out of their graves; ²and they shall spread them out to the sun, and the moon, and to all the stars, and to all the host of heaven, which they have loved, and which they have served, and after which they have walked, and to which they have held, and which they have worshipped; they shall not be mourned for, neither shall they be buried; but they shall be for an example on the face of the earth, ³because they chose death rather than life, even to all the remnant that are left of that family, in every place whither I shall drive them out. ⁴For thus says the Lord, Shall not he that falls arise? or he that turns away, shall he not turn back again? ⁵Wherefore has this my people turned away with a shameless revolting, and strengthened themselves in their willfulness, and refused to return? ⁶Hearken, I pray you, and hear: will they not speak thus, There is no man that repents of his wickedness, saying, What have I done? the runner has failed from his course, as a tired horse in his neighing. ⁷Yea, the stork in the heaven knows her time, also the turtle-dove and wild swallow; the sparrows observe the times of their coming in; but this my people knows not the judgments of the Lord. ⁸How will ye say, We are wise, and the law of the Lord is with us? In vain have the scribes used a false pen. ⁹The wise men are ashamed, and alarmed, and taken; because they have rejected the word of the Lord; what wisdom is there in them? ¹⁰Therefore will I give their wives to others, and their fields to new inheritors; and they shall gather their fruits, says the Lord.

¹³There are no grapes on the vines, and there are no figs on the fig-trees, and the leaves have fallen off. ¹⁴Why do we sit still? assemble yourselves, and let us enter into the strong cities, and let us be cast out there: for God has cast us out, and made us drink water of gall, because we have sinned before him. ¹⁵We assembled for peace, but there was no prosperity; for a time of healing, but behold anxiety. ¹⁶We shall hear the neighing of his swift horses out of Dan: the whole land quaked at the sound of the neighing of his horses; and he shall come, and devour the land and the fullness of it; the city, and them that dwell in it. ¹⁷For, behold, I send forth against you deadly serpents, which cannot be charmed, and they shall bite you ¹⁸mortally with the pain of your distressed heart. ¹⁹Behold, there is a sound of the cry of the daughter of my people from a land afar off: Is not the Lord in Sion? is there not a king there? because they have provoked me with their graven images, and with strange vanities. ²⁰The summer is gone, the harvest is past, and we are not saved. ²¹For the breach of the daughter of my people I have been saddened: in my perplexity pangs have seized upon me as of a woman in travail. ²²And is there no balm in Galaad, or is there no physician there? why has not the healing of the daughter of my people taken place?

Chapter 9

¹Who will give water to my head, and a fountain of tears to my eyes? then would I weep for this my people day and night, even for the slain of the daughter of my people. ²Who would give me a most distant lodge in the wilderness, that I might leave my people, and depart from them? for they all commit adultery, an assembly of treacherous men. ³And they have bent their tongue like a bow: falsehood and not faithfulness has prevailed upon the earth; for they have gone on from evil to evil, and have not known me, says the Lord. ⁴Beware ye each of his neighbour, and trust ye not in your brethren: for every one will surely supplant, and every friend will walk craftily. ⁵Every one will mock his friend; they will not speak truth: their tongue has learned to speak falsehoods; they have committed iniquity, they ceased not, so as to return. ⁶*There is* usury upon usury, and deceit upon deceit: they would not know me, says the Lord. ⁷Therefore thus says the Lord, Behold, I will try them with fire, and prove them; for I will do thus because of the wickedness of the daughter of my people. ⁸Their tongue is a wounding arrow; the words of their mouth are deceitful: one speaks peaceably to his neighbour, but in himself retains enmity. ⁹Shall I not visit for these things? says the Lord: and shall not my soul be avenged on such a people as this? ¹⁰Take up a lamentation for the mountains, and a mournful dirge for the paths of the wilderness, for they are desolate for want of men; they heard not the sound of life from the birds of the sky, nor the cattle: they were amazed, they are gone. ¹¹And I will remove the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and make it a dwelling-place of dragons; and I will utterly waste the cities of Juda, so that they shall not be inhabited.

¹²Who is the wise man, that he may understand this? and he that has the word of the mouth of the Lord addressed to him, let him tell you wherefore the land has been destroyed, has been ravaged by fire like a desert, so that no one passes through it. ¹³And the Lord said to me, Because they have forsaken my law, which I set before them, and have not hearkened to my voice; ¹⁴but went after the lusts of their evil heart, and after the idols which their fathers taught them to worship: ¹⁵therefore thus says the Lord God of Israel, Behold, I will feed them with trouble and will cause them to drink water of gall: ¹⁶and I will scatter them among the nations, to them whom neither they nor their fathers knew; and I will send a sword upon them, until I have consumed them with it. ¹⁷Thus says the Lord, Call ye the mourning women, and let them come; and send to the wise women, and let them utter their voice; ¹⁸and let them take up a lamentation for you, and let your eyes pour down tears, and your eyelids drop water. ¹⁹For a voice of lamentation has been heard in Sion, How are we become wretched! we are greatly ashamed, for we have forsaken the land, and have abandoned our tabernacles! ²⁰Hear now, ye women, the word of God, and let your ears receive the words of his mouth, and teach your daughters lamentation, and every woman her neighbour a dirge. ²¹For death has come up through your windows, it has entered into our land, to destroy the infants without, and the young men from the streets. ²²And the carcases of the men shall be for an example on the face of the field of your land, like grass after the mower, and there shall be none to gather them. ²³Thus says the Lord, Let not the wise man boast in his wisdom, and let not the strong man boast in his strength, and let not the rich man boast in his wealth; ²⁴but let him that boasts boast in this, the understanding and knowing that I am the Lord that exercise mercy, and judgment, and righteousness, upon the earth; for in these things is my pleasure, says the Lord.

²⁵Behold, the days come, says the Lord, when I will visit upon all the circumcised their uncircumcision; ²⁶on Egypt, and on Idumea, and on Edom, and on the children of Ammon, and on the children of Moab, and on every one that shaves his face round about, even them that dwell in the wilderness; for all the Gentiles are uncircumcised in flesh, and all the house of Israel are uncircumcised in their hearts.

Chapter 10

¹Hear ye the word of the Lord, which he has spoken to you, O house of Israel. ²Thus says the Lord, Learn ye not the ways of the heathen, and be not alarmed at the signs of the sky; for they are alarmed at them, falling on their faces. ³For the customs of the nations are vain; it is a tree cut out of the forest, the work of the carpenter, or a molten image. ⁴*They are* beautified with silver and gold, they fix them with hammers and nails; they will set them up that they may not move; it is wrought silver, they will not walk, it is forged silver brought from Tharsis, gold will come from Mophaz, and the work of goldsmiths, they are all the works of craftsmen, they will clothe themselves with blue and scarlet. ⁵They must certainly be borne, for they cannot ride of themselves. Fear them not; for they cannot do any evil, and there is no good in them. ¹¹Thus shall ye say to them, Let the gods which have not made heaven and earth perish from off the earth, and from under this sky. ¹²It is the Lord that made the earth by his strength, who set up the world by his wisdom, and by his understanding stretched out the sky, ¹³and set abundance of waters in the sky, and brought up clouds from the ends of the earth; he made lightnings for the rain, and brought forth light out of his treasures. ¹⁴Every man is deprived of knowledge, every goldsmith is confounded because of his graven images; for he has cast false gods, there is no breath in them. ¹⁵They are vain works, wrought in mockery; in the time of their visitation they shall perish. ¹⁶Such is not the portion of Jacob; for he that formed all things, he is his inheritance; the Lord is his name.

¹⁷He has gathered thy substance from without the lodged in choice vessels. ¹⁸For thus says the Lord, Behold, I will overthrow the inhabitants of this land with affliction, that thy plague may be discovered. ¹⁹Alas for thy ruin! thy plague is grievous: and I said, Surely this is thy wound, and it has overtaken thee. ²⁰Thy tabernacle is in a ruinous state, it has perished; and all thy curtains have been torn asunder: my children and my cattle are no more: there is no more any place for my tabernacle, nor place for my curtains. ²¹For the shepherds have become foolish, and have not sought the Lord; therefore the whole pasture has failed, and the sheep have been scattered. ²²Behold, there comes a sound of a noise, and a great earthquake from the land of the north, to make the cities of Juda a desolation, and a resting-place for ostriches. ²³I know, O Lord, that man's way is not his own; neither shall a man go, and direct his going. ²⁴Chasten us, O Lord, but with judgment; and not in wrath, lest thou make us few. ²⁵Pour out thy wrath upon the nations that have not known thee, and upon the families that have not called upon thy name: for they have devoured Jacob, and consumed him, and have made his pasture desolate.

Chapter 11

¹The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying, ²Hear ye the words of this covenant, and thou shalt speak to the men of Juda, and to the dwellers in Jerusalem; ³and thou shalt say to them, Thus says the Lord God of Israel, Cursed is the man, who shall not hearken to the words of this covenant, ⁴which I commanded your fathers, in the day wherein I brought them up out of the land of Egypt, out of the iron furnace, saying, Hearken to my voice, and do all things that I shall command you; so shall ye be to me a people, and I will be to you a God; ⁵that I may confirm mine oath, which I sware to your fathers, to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as it is this day. Then I answered and said, So be it, O Lord. ⁶And the Lord said to me, Read these words in the cities of Juda, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying, Hear ye the words of this covenant, and do them. ⁷⁸But they did them not. ⁹And the Lord said to me, A conspiracy is found among the men of Juda, and among the dwellers in Jerusalem. ¹⁰They are turned aside to the iniquities of their fathers that were of old, who would not hearken to my words: and, behold, they go after strange gods, to serve them: and the house of Israel and the house of Juda have broken my covenant, which I made with their fathers.

¹¹Therefore thus says the Lord, Behold, I bring evils upon this people, out of which they shall not be able to come forth; and they shall presently cry to me, but I will not hearken to them. ¹²And the cities of Juda and the dwellers in Jerusalem shall go, and cry to the gods to whom they burn incense; which shall not deliver them in the time of their troubles. ¹³For according to the number of thy cities were thy gods, O Juda; and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem have ye set up altars to burn incense to Baal. ¹⁴And thou, pray not for this people, and intercede not for them in supplication and prayer: for I will not hear in the day in which they call upon me, in the day of their affliction. ¹⁵Why has my beloved wrought abomination in my house? will prayers and holy offerings take away thy wickedness from thee, or shalt thou escape by these things?

was kindled against it; great is the affliction coming upon thee: her branches are become good for nothing. ¹⁷And the Lord that planted thee has pronounced evils against thee, because of the iniquity of the house of Israel and the house of Juda, whatsoever they have done against themselves to provoke me to anger by burning incense to Baal. ¹⁸O Lord, teach me, and I shall know: then I saw their practices. ¹⁹But I as an innocent lamb led to the slaughter, knew not: against me they devised an evil device, saying, Come and let us put wood into his bread, and let us utterly destroy him from off the land of the living, and let his name not be remembered any more. ²⁰O Lord, that judgest righteously, trying the reins and hearts, let me see thy vengeance taken upon them, for to thee I have declared my cause. ²¹Therefore thus says the Lord concerning the men of Anathoth, that seek my life, that say, Thou shalt not prophesy at all in the name of the Lord, but if thou dost, thou shalt die by our hands: ²²behold, I will visit them: their young men shall die by the sword; and their sons and their daughters shall die of famine: ²³and there shall be no remnant left of them; for I will bring evil upon the dwellers in Anathoth, in the year of their visitation.

Chapter 12

¹Righteous art thou, O Lord, that I may make my defence to thee, yea, I will speak to thee of judgments. Why is it that the way of ungodly men prospers? that all that deal very treacherously are flourishing? ²Thou hast planted them, and they have taken root; they have begotten children, and become fruitful; thou art near to their mouth, and far from their reins. ³But thou, Lord, knowest me; thou hast proved my heart before thee; purify them for the day of their slaughter. ⁴How long shall the land mourn, and the grass of the field wither, for the wickedness of them, that dwell in it? the beasts and birds are utterly destroyed; because the people said, God shall not see our ways. ⁵Thy feet run, and they cause thee to faint; how wilt thou prepare to ride upon horses? and thou hast been confident in the land of thy peace? how wilt thou do in the roaring of Jordan? ⁶For even thy brethren and the house of thy father, even these have dealt treacherously with thee; and they have cried out, they are gathered together in pursuit of thee; trust not thou in them, though they shall speak fair words to thee. ⁷I have forsaken mine house, I have left mine heritage; I have given my beloved one into the hands of her enemies. ⁸My inheritance has become to me as a lion in a forest; she has uttered her voice against me; therefore have I hated her. ⁹Is not my inheritance to me a hyaena's cave, or a cave round about her? Go ye, gather together all the wild beasts of the field, and let them come to devour her. ¹⁰Many shepherds have destroyed my vineyard, they have defiled my portion, they have made my desirable portion a trackless wilderness; ¹¹it is made a complete ruin: for my sake the whole land has been utterly ruined, because there is none that lays the matter to heart. ¹²The ravagers are come to every passage in the wilderness: for the sword of the Lord will devour from one end of the land to the other: no flesh has any peace. ¹³Sow wheat, and reap thorns; their portions shall not profit them: be ashamed of your boasting, because of reproach before the Lord.

¹⁴For thus says the Lord, concerning all the evil neighbours that touch mine inheritance, which I have divided to my people Israel; Behold, I will draw them away from their land, and I will cast out Juda from the midst of them.

¹⁵And it shall come to pass, after I have cast them out, that I will return, and have mercy upon them, and will cause them to dwell every one in his inheritance, and every one is his land.

¹⁶And it shall be, if they will indeed learn the way of my people, to swear by my name, saying, The Lord lives; as they taught my people to swear by Baal; then shall that nation be built in the midst of my people. ¹⁷But if they will not return, then will I cut off that nation with utter ruin and destruction.

Chapter 13

¹Thus says the Lord, Go and procure for thyself a linen girdle, and put it about thy loins, and let it not be put in water. ²So I procured the girdle

Jeremias

according to the word of the Lord, and put it about my loins. ³And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ⁴Take the girdle that is upon thy loins, and arise, and go to the Euphrates, and hide it there in a hole of the rock. ⁵So I went, and hid it by the Euphrates, as the Lord commanded me. ⁶And it came to pass after many days, that the Lord said to me, Arise, go to the Euphrates, and take thence the girdle, which I commanded thee to hide there. ⁷So I went to the river Euphrates, and dug, and took the girdle out of the place where I had buried it: and, behold, it was rotten, utterly good for nothing. ⁸And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Thus says the Lord, ⁹Thus will I mar the pride of Juda, and the pride of Jerusalem; ¹⁰*even* this great pride of the men that will not hearken to my words, and have gone after strange gods, to serve them, and to worship them: and they shall be as this girdle, which can be used for nothing. ¹¹For as a girdle cleaves about the loins of a man, so have I caused to cleave to myself the house of Israel, and the whole house of Juda; that they might be to me a famous people, and a praise, and a glory: but they did not hearken to me. ¹²And thou shalt say to this people, Every bottle shall be filled with wine: and it shall come to pass, if they shall say to thee, Shall we not certainly know that every bottle shall be filled with wine? that thou shalt say to them, ¹³Thus says the Lord, Behold, I will fill the inhabitants of this land, and their kings the sons of David that sit upon their throne, and the priests, and the prophets, and Juda and all the dwellers in Jerusalem, with strong drink. ¹⁴And I will scatter them a man and his brother, and their fathers and their sons together: I will not have compassion, says the Lord, and I will not spare, neither will I pity to save them from destruction.

¹⁵Hear ye, and give ear, and be not proud: for the Lord has spoken. ¹⁶Give glory to the Lord your God, before he cause darkness, and before your feet stumble on the dark mountains, and ye shall wait for light, and behold the shadow of death, and they shall be brought into darkness. ¹⁷But if ye will not hearken, your soul shall weep in secret because of pride, and your eyes shall pour down tears, because the Lord's flock is sorely bruised. ¹⁸Say ye to the king and the princes, Humble yourselves, and sit down; for your crown of glory is removed from your head. ¹⁹The cities toward the south were shut, and there was none to open them: Juda is removed into captivity, they have suffered a complete removal. ²⁰Lift up thine eyes, O Jerusalem, and behold them that come from the north; where is the flock that was given thee, the sheep of thy glory? ²¹What wilt thou say when they shall visit thee, for thou didst teach them lessons for rule against thyself; shall not pangs seize thee as a woman in travail? ²²And if thou shouldest say in thine heart, Wherefore have these things happened to me? Because of the abundance of thine iniquity have thy skirts been discovered, that thine heels might be exposed. ²³If the Ethiopian shall change his skin, or the leopardess her spots, then shall ye be able to do good, having learnt evil. ²⁴So I scattered them as sticks carried by the wind into the wilderness. ²⁵Thus is thy lot, and the reward of your disobedience to me, says the Lord; as thou didst forget me, and trust in lies, ²⁶I also will expose thy skirts upon thy face, and thy shame shall be seen; ²⁷thine adultery also, and thy neighing, and the looseness of thy fornication: on the hills and in the fields I have seen thine abominations. Woe to thee, O Jerusalem, for thou hast not been purified so as to follow me; how long yet shall it be?

Chapter 14

¹AND THE WORD OF THE LORD CAME TO JEREMIAS CONCERNING THE DROUGHT.

²Judea has mourned, and her gates are emptied, and are darkened upon the earth; and the cry of Jerusalem is gone up. ³And her nobles have sent their little ones to the water: they came to the wells, and found no water: and brought back their vessels empty. ⁴And the labours of the land failed, because there was no rain: the husbandmen were ashamed, they covered their heads. ⁵And hinds calved in the field, and forsook it, because there was no grass. ⁶The wild asses stood by the forests, and snuffed up the wind; their eyes failed, because there was no grass. ⁷Our sins have risen up against us: O Lord, do thou for us for thine own sake; for our sins are many before thee; for we have sinned against thee. ⁸O Lord, thou art the hope of Israel, and deliverest us in time of troubles; why art thou become as a sojourner upon the land, or as one born in the land, yet turning aside for a resting-place? ⁹Wilt thou be as a man asleep, or as a strong man that cannot save? yet thou art among us, O Lord, and thy name is called upon us; forget us not. ¹⁰Thus says the Lord to this people, They have loved to wander, and they have not spared, therefore God has not prospered them; now will he remember their iniquity. ¹¹And the Lord said to me, Pray not for this people for their good: ¹²for though they fast, I will not hear their supplication; and though they offer whole-burnt-offerings and sacrifices, I will take no pleasure in them: for I will consume them with sword, and with famine, and with pestilence. ¹³And I said, O ever living Lord! behold, their prophets prophesy, and say, Ye shall not see a sword, nor shall famine be among you; for I will give truth and peace on the land, and in this place. ¹⁴Then the Lord said to me, The prophets prophesy lies in my name: I sent them not, and I commanded them not, and I spoke not to them: for they prophesy to you false visions, and divinations, and auguries, and devices of their own heart. ¹⁵Therefore thus says the Lord concerning the prophets that prophesy lies in my name, and I sent them not, who say, Sword and famine shall not be upon this land; they shall die by a grievous death, and the prophets shall be consumed by famine. ¹⁶And the people to whom they prophesy, they also shall be cast out in the streets of Jerusalem, because of the sword and famine; and there shall be none to bury them: their wives also, and their sons, and their daughters shall die thus; and I will pour out their wickedness upon them.

¹⁷And thou shalt speak this word to them; Let your eyes shed tears day and night, and let them not cease: for the daughter of my people has been sorely bruised, and her plague is very grievous. ¹⁸If I go forth into the plain, then behold the slain by the sword! and if I enter into the city, then behold the distress of famine! for priest and prophet have gone to a land which they knew not. ¹⁹Hast thou utterly rejected Juda? and has thy soul departed from Sion? wherefore has thou smitten us, and there is no healing for us? we waited for peace, but there was no prosperity; for a time of healing, and behold trouble! ²⁰We know, O Lord, our sins, and the iniquities of our fathers: for we have sinned before thee. ²¹Refrain for thy name's sake, destroy not the throne of thy glory: remember, break not thy covenant with us. ²²Is there any one among the idols of the Gentiles that can give rain? and will the sky yield his fulness at their bidding? Art not thou he? we will even wait on thee, O Lord: for thou hast made all these things.

Chapter 15

¹And the Lord said to me, Though Moses and Samuel stood before my face, my soul could not be toward them: dismiss this people, and let them go forth. ²And it shall be, if they say to thee, Whither shall we go forth? then thou shalt say to them, Thus says the Lord; As many as are for death, to death; and as many as are for famine, to famine; and as many as are for the sword, to the sword; and as many as are for captivity, to captivity. ³And I will punish them with four kinds of death, says the Lord, the sword to slay, and the dogs to tear, and the wild beasts of the earth, and the birds of the sky to devour and destroy. ⁴And I will deliver them up for distress to all the kingdoms of the earth, because of Manasses son of Ezekias king of Juda, for all that he did in Jerusalem. ⁵Who will spare thee, O Jerusalem? and who will fear for thee? or who will turn back to ask for thy welfare? ⁶Thou hast turned away from me, says the Lord, thou wilt go back: therefore I will stretch out my hand, and will destroy thee, and will no more spare them. ⁷And I will completely scatter them; in the gates of my people they are bereaved of children: they have destroyed my people because of their iniquities. ⁸Their widows have been multiplied more than the sand of the sea: I have brought young men against the mother, even distress at noon-day: I have suddenly cast upon her trembling and anxiety. ⁹She that bore seven is spent; her soul has fainted under trouble; her sun is gone down while it is yet noon; she is ashamed and disgraced: I will give the remnant of them to the sword before their enemies.

¹⁰Woe is me, my mother! thou hast born me as some man of strife, and at variance with the whole earth; I have not helped others, nor has any one helped me; my strength has failed among them that curse me. ¹¹Be it so, Lord, in their prosperity; surely I stood before thee in the time of their calamities, and in the time of their affliction, for their good against the enemy. ¹²Will iron be known? whereas thy strength is a brazen covering.

¹³Yea, I will give thy treasures for a spoil as a recompence, because of all thy sins and that in all thy borders.

¹⁴And I will enslave thee to thine enemies round about, in a land which thou hast not known; for a fire has been kindled out of my wrath; it shall burn upon you. ¹⁵O Lord, remember me, and visit me, and vindicate me before them that persecute me; do not bear long with them; know how I have met with reproach for thy sake, from those who set at nought thy words;

¹⁶consume them; and thy word shall be to me for the joy and gladness of my heart: for thy name has been called upon me, O Lord Almighty. ¹⁷I have not sat in the assembly of them as they mocked, but I feared because of thy power: I sat alone, for I was filled with bitterness. ¹⁸Why do they that grieve me prevail against me? my wound is severe; whence shall I be healed? it is indeed become to me as deceitful water, that has no faithfulness. ¹⁹Therefore thus says the Lord, If thou wilt return, then will I restore thee, and thou shalt stand before my face: and if thou wilt bring forth the precious from the worthless, thou shalt be as my mouth: and they shall return to thee; but thou shalt not return to them. ²⁰And I will make thee to this people as a strong brazen wall; and they shall fight against thee, but they shall by no means prevail against thee; ²¹for I am with thee to save thee, and to deliver thee out of the hand of wicked men; and I will ransom thee out of the hand of pestilent men.

Chapter 16

¹And thou shalt not take a wife, says the Lord God of Israel: ²and there shall be no son born to thee, nor daughter in this place. ³For thus says the Lord concerning the sons and concerning the daughters that are born in this place, and concerning their mothers that have born them, and concerning their fathers that have begotten them in this land; ⁴They shall die of grievous death; they shall not be lamented, nor buried; they shall be for an example on the face of the earth; and they shall be for the wild beasts of the land, and for the birds of the sky:

Jeremias

they shall fall by the sword, and shall be consumed with famine. ⁵Thus says the Lord, Enter not into their mourning feast, and go not to lament, and mourn not for them: for I have removed my peace from this people. ⁶They shall not bewail them, nor make cuttings for them, and they shall not shave themselves for them: ⁷and there shall be no bread broken in mourning for them for consolation over the dead: they shall not give one to drink a cup for consolation over his father or his mother. ⁸Thou shalt not enter into the banquet-house, to sit with them to eat and to drink. ⁹For thus says the Lord God of Israel; Behold, I will make to cease out of this place before your eyes, and in your days, the voice of joy, and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride.

¹⁰And it shall come to pass, when thou shalt report to this people all these words, and they shall say to thee, Wherefore has the Lord pronounced against us all these evils? what is our unrighteousness? and what is our sin which we have sinned before the Lord our God? ¹¹Then thou shalt say to them, Because your fathers forsook me, says the Lord, and went after strange gods and served them, and worshipped them, and forsook me, and kept not my law; ¹²(and ye sinned worse than your fathers; for, behold, ye walk every one after the lusts of your own evil heart, so as not to hearken to me); ¹³therefore I will cast you off from this good land into a land which neither ye nor your fathers have known; and ye shall serve their other gods, who shall have no mercy upon you. ¹⁴Therefore, behold, the days come, says the Lord, when they shall no more say, The Lord lives, that brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt; ¹⁵but, The Lord lives, who brought up the house of Israel from the land of the north, and from all countries whither they were thrust out: and I will restore them to their own land, which I gave to their fathers.

¹⁶Behold, I will send many fishers, says the Lord, and they shall fish them; and afterward I will send many hunters, and they shall hunt them upon every mountain, and upon every hill, and out of the holes of the rocks. ¹⁷For mine eyes are upon all their ways; and their iniquities have not been hidden from mine eyes. ¹⁸And I will recompense their mischiefs doubly, and their sins, whereby they have profaned my land with the carcases of their abominations, and with their iniquities, whereby they have trespassed against mine inheritance. ¹⁹O Lord, thou art my strength, and mine help, and my refuge in days of evil: to thee the Gentiles shall come from the end of the earth, and shall say, How vain were the idols which our fathers procured to themselves, and there is no help in them. ²⁰Will a man make gods for himself, whereas these are no gods? ²¹Therefore, behold,

Jeremias

I will at this time manifest my hand to them, and will make known to them my power; and they shall know that my name is the Lord.

Chapter 17

⁵Cursed is the man who trusts in man, and will lean his arm of flesh upon him, while his heart departs from the Lord. ⁶And he shall be as the wild tamarisk in the desert: he shall not see when good comes; but he shall dwell in barren places, and in the wilderness, in a salt land which is not inhabited.

⁷But blessed is the man who trusts in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord shall be. ⁸And he shall be as a thriving tree by the waters, and he shall cast forth his root toward a moist place: he shall not fear when heat comes, and there shall be upon him shady branches: he shall not fear in a year of drought, and he shall not fail to bear fruit. ⁹The heart is deep beyond all things, and it is the man, and who can know him? ¹⁰I the Lord try the hearts, and prove the reins, to give to every one according to his ways, and according to the fruits of his devices.

¹¹The partridge utters her voice, she gathers eggs which she did not lay; so is a man gaining his wealth unjustly; in the midst of his days his riches shall leave him, and at his latter end he will be a fool. ¹²An exalted throne of glory is our sanctuary. ¹³O Lord, the hope of Israel, let all that have left thee be ashamed, let them that have revolted be written on the earth, because they have forsaken the fountain of life, the Lord. ¹⁴Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved; for thou art my boast.

¹⁵Behold, they say to me, Where is the word of the Lord? let it come. ¹⁶But I have not been weary of following thee, nor have I desired the day of man; thou knowest; the words that proceed out of my lips are before thy face. ¹⁷Be not to me a stranger, but spare me in the evil day. ¹⁸Let them that persecute me be ashamed, but let me not be ashamed: let them be alarmed, but let me not be alarmed: bring upon them the evil day, crush them with double destruction. ¹⁹Thus says the Lord; Go and stand in the gates of the children of thy people, by which the kings of Juda enter, and by which they go out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem: ²⁰and thou shalt say to them, Hear the word of the Lord, ye kings of Juda, and all Judea, and all Jerusalem, all who go in at these gates: ²¹thus says the Lord; Take heed to your souls, and take up no burdens on the sabbath-day, and go not forth through the gates of Jerusalem; ²²and carry forth no burdens out of your houses on the sabbath-day, and ye shall do no work: sanctify the sabbath-day, as I commanded your fathers. ²³But they hearkened not, and inclined not their ear, but stiffened their neck more than their fathers did, so as not to hear me, and not to receive correction. ²⁴And it shall come to pass, if ye will hearken to me, says the Lord, to carry in no burdens through the gates of this city on the sabbath-day, and to sanctify the sabbath-day, so as to do no work upon it, ²⁵that there shall enter through the gates of this city kings and princes sitting on the throne of David, and riding on their chariots and horses, they, and their princes, the men of Juda, and the dwellers in Jerusalem: and this city shall be inhabited for ever. ²⁶And men shall come out of the cities of Juda, and from round about Jerusalem, and out of the land of Benjamin, and out of the plain country, and from the hill country, and from the south country, bringing whole-burnt-offerings, and sacrifices, and incense, and manna, and frankincense, bringing praise to the house of the Lord. ²⁷But it shall come to pass, if ye will not hearken to me to sanctify the sabbath-day, to bear no burdens, nor go in with them by the gates of Jerusalem on the sabbath-day; then will I kindle a fire in the gates thereof, and it shall devour the streets of Jerusalem, and shall not be quenched.

Chapter 18

¹The word that came from the Lord to ²Jeremiah, saying, Arise, and go down to the potter's house, and there thou shalt hear my words. ³So I went down to the potter's house, and behold, he was making a vessel on the stones. ⁴And the vessel which he was making with his hands fell: so he made it again another vessel, as it seemed good to him to make it. ⁵And the word of the Lord came to me, saying,

⁶Shall I not be able, O house of Israel, to do to you as this potter? behold, as the clay of the potter are ye in my hands. ⁷*If* I shall pronounce a decree upon a nation, or upon a kingdom, to cut them off, and to destroy them; ⁸and that nation turn from all their sins, then will I repent of the evils which I purposed to do to them. ⁹And if I shall pronounce a decree upon a nation and kingdom, to rebuild and to plant it; ¹⁰and they do evil before me, so as not to hearken to my voice, then will I repent of the good which I spoke of, to do it to them. ¹¹And now say to the men of Juda, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Behold, I prepare evils against you, and devise a device against you: let every one turn now from his evil way, and amend your practices. ¹²And they said, We will quit ourselves like men, for we will pursue our perverse ways, and we will perform each the lusts of his evil heart. ¹³Therefore thus says the Lord; Enquire now among the nations, who has heard such very horrible things as the virgin of Israel has done? ¹⁴Will fertilising streams fail to flow from a rock, or snow fail from Libanus? will water violently impelled by the wind turn aside? ¹⁵For my people have forgotten me, they have offered incense in vain, and they fail in their ways, leaving the ancient tracks, to enter upon impassable paths; ¹⁶to make their land a desolation, and a perpetual hissing; all that go through it shall be amazed, and shall shake their heads. ¹⁷I will scatter them before their enemies like an east wind; I will shew them the day of their destruction.

¹⁸Then they said, Come, and let us devise a device against Jeremiah; for the law shall not perish from the priest, nor counsel from the wise, nor the word from the prophet. Come, and let us smite him with the tongue, and we will hear all his words. ¹⁹Hear me, O Lord, and hear the voice of my pleading. ²⁰Forasmuch as evil is rewarded for good; for they have spoken words against my soul, and they have hidden the punishment they meant for me; remember that I stood before thy face, to speak good for them, to turn away thy wrath from them. ²¹Therefore do thou deliver their sons to famine, and gather them to the power of the sword: let their women be childless and widows; and let their men be cut off by death, and their young men fall by the sword in war. ²²Let there be a cry in their houses: thou shalt bring upon them robbers suddenly: for they have formed a plan to take me, and have hidden snares for me. ²³And thou, Lord, knowest all their deadly counsel against me: account not their iniquities guiltless, and blot not out their sins from before thee: let their weakness come before thee; deal with them in the time of thy wrath.

Chapter 19

¹Then said the Lord to me, Go and get an earthen bottle, the work of the potter, and thou shalt bring some of the elders of the people, and of the priests; ²and thou shalt go forth to the burial-place of the sons of their children, which is at the entrance of the gate of Charsith; and do thou read there all these words which I shall speak to thee: ³and thou shalt say to them, Hear ye the word of the Lord, ye kings of Juda, and men of Juda, and the dwellers in Jerusalem, and they that enter in by these gates; thus says the Lord God of Israel; Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, so that the ears of every one that hears it shall tingle. ⁴Because they forsook me, and profaned this place, and burnt incense in it to strange gods, which they and their fathers knew not; and the kings of Juda have filled this place with innocent blood, ⁵and built high places for Baal, to burn their children in the fire, which things I commanded not, neither did I design them in my heart: ⁶Therefore, behold, the days come, says the Lord, when this place shall no more be called, The fall and burial-place of the son of Ennom, but, The burial-place of slaughter. ⁷And I will destroy the counsel of Juda and the counsel of Jerusalem in this place; and I will cast them down with the sword before their enemies, and by the hands of them that seek their lives: and I will give their dead bodies for food to the birds of the sky and to the wild beasts of the earth. ⁸And I will bring this city to desolation and make it a hissing; every one that passes by it shall scowl, and hiss because of all her plague.

⁹And they shall eat the flesh of their sons, and the flesh of their daughters; and they shall eat every one the flesh of his neighbour in the blockade, and in the siege wherewith their enemies shall besiege them. ¹⁰And thou shalt break the bottle in the sight of the men that go forth with thee, ¹¹and thou shalt say, Thus says the Lord, Thus will I break in pieces this people, and this city, even as an earthen vessel is broken in pieces which cannot be mended again. ¹²Thus will I do, says the Lord, to this place, and to the inhabitants of it, that this city may be given up, as one that is falling to ruin. ¹³And the houses of Jerusalem, and the houses of the kings of Juda shall be as a ruinous place, because of their uncleannesses in all the houses, wherein they burnt incense upon their roofs to all the host of heaven, and poured drink-offerings to strange gods. ¹⁴And Jeremiah came from the place of the Fall, whither the Lord had sent him to prophesy; and he stood in the court of the Lord's house: and said to all the people, Thus says the Lord; ¹⁵Behold I bring upon this city, and upon all the cities belonging to it, and upon the villages of it, all the evils which I have spoken against it, because they have hardened their neck, that they might not hearken to my commands.

Chapter 20

¹Now Paschor the son of Emmer, the priest, who also had been appointed chief of the house of the Lord, heard Jeremiah prophesying these words. ²And he smote him, and cast him into the dungeon which was by the gate of the upper house that was set apart, which was by the house of the Lord. ³And Paschor brought Jeremiah out of the dungeon: and Jeremiah said to him, The Lord has not called thy name Paschor, but Exile. ⁴For thus says the Lord, Behold, I will give thee up to captivity with all thy friends: and they shall fall by the sword of their enemies, and thine eyes shall see it: and I will give thee and all Juda into the hands of the king of Babylon, and they shall carry them captives, and cut them in pieces with swords. ⁵And I will give all the strength of this city, and all the labours of it, and all the treasures of the king of Juda, into the hands of his enemies, and they shall bring them to Babylon. ⁶And thou and all the dwellers in thine house shall go into captivity: and thou shalt die in Babylon, and there thou and all thy friends shall be buried, to whom thou hast prophesied lies. ⁷Thou hast deceived me, O Lord, and I have been deceived: thou hast been strong, and has prevailed: I am become a laughing-stock, I am continually mocked every day. ⁸For I will laugh with my bitter speech, I will call upon rebellion and misery: for the word of the Lord is become a reproach to me and a mockery all my days. ⁹Then I said, I will by no means name the name of the Lord, and I will no more at all speak in his name. But it was a burning fire flaming in my bones, and I am utterly weakened on all sides, and cannot bear up. ¹⁰For I have heard the reproach of many gathering round, saying, Conspire ye, and let us conspire together against him, even all his friends: watch his intentions, if perhaps he shall be deceived, and we shall prevail against him, and we shall be avenged on him. ¹¹But the Lord was with me as a mighty man of war: therefore they persecuted me, but could not perceive anything against me; they were greatly confounded, for they perceived not their disgrace, which shall never be forgotten. ¹²O Lord, that provest just deeds, understanding the reins and hearts, let me see thy vengeance upon them: for to thee I have revealed my cause. ¹³Sing ye to the Lord, sing praise to him: for he has rescued the soul of the poor from the hand of evil-doers.

¹⁴Cursed be the day wherein I was born: the day wherein my mother brought me forth, let it not be blessed.

¹⁵Cursed be the man who brought the glad tidings to my father, saying, A male child is born to thee. ¹⁶Let that man rejoice as the cities which the Lord overthrew in wrath, and repented not: let him hear crying in the morning, and loud lamentation at noon; ¹⁷because he slew me not in the womb, and my mother became not my tomb, and her womb always great with me. ¹⁸Why is it that I came forth of the womb to see troubles and distresses, and my days are spent in shame?

Chapter 21

¹THE WORD THAT CAME FROM THE LORD TO JEREMIAS, WHEN KING SEDEKIAS SENT TO HIM PASCHOR THE SON OF MELCHIAS, AND SOPHONIAS SON OF BASAEAS, THE PRIEST, SAYING,

²Enquire of the Lord for us; for the king of Babylon has risen up against us; if the Lord will do according to all his wonderful works, and the king shall depart from us. ³And Jeremiah said to them, Thus shall ye say to Sedekias king of Juda, ⁴Thus says the Lord; Behold, I will turn back the weapons of war wherewith ye fight against the Chaldeans that have besieged you from outside the wall, and I will gather them into the midst of this city. ⁵And I will fight against you with an outstretched hand and with a strong arm, with wrath and great anger. ⁶And I will smite all the dwellers in this city, both men and cattle, with grievous pestilence: and they shall die. ⁷And after this, thus says the Lord; I will give Sedekias king of Juda, and his servants, and the people that is left in this city from the pestilence, and from the famine, and from the sword, into the hands of their enemies, that seek their lives: and they shall cut them in pieces with the edge of the sword: I will not spare them, and I will not have compassion upon them. ⁸And thou shalt say to this people, Thus says the Lord; Behold, I have set before you the way of life, and the way of death. ⁹He that remains in this city shall die by the sword, and by famine: but he that goes forth to advance to the Chaldeans that have besieged you, shall live, and his life shall be to him for a spoil, and he shall live. ¹⁰For I have set my face against this city for evil, and not for good: it shall be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall consume it with fire. ¹¹O house of the king of Juda, hear ye the word of the Lord. ¹²O house of David, thus says the Lord; Judge judgment in the morning, and act rightly, and rescue the spoiled one from the hand of him that wrongs him, lest mine anger be kindled like fire, and it burn, and there be none to quench it. ¹³Behold, I am against thee that dwellest in the valley of Sor; in the plain country, even against them that say, Who shall alarm us? or who shall enter into our habitation? ¹⁴And I will kindle a fire in the forest thereof, and it shall devour all things round about it.

Chapter 22

¹Thus says the Lord; Go thou, and go down to the house of the king of Juda, and thou shalt speak there this word, ²and thou shalt say, Hear the word of the Lord, O king of Juda, that sittest on the throne of David, thou, and thy house, and thy people, and they that go in at these gates: ³thus says the Lord; Execute ye judgment and justice, and rescue the spoiled out of the hand of him that wrongs him:

and oppress not the stranger, and orphan, and widow, and sin not, and shed no innocent blood in this place. ⁴For if ye will indeed perform this word, then shall there enter in by the gates of this house kings sitting upon the throne of David, and riding on chariots and horses, they, and their servants, and their people. ⁵But if ye will not perform these words, by myself have I sworn, says the Lord, that this house shall be brought to desolation. ⁶For thus says the Lord concerning the house of the king of Juda; Thou art Galaad to me, and the head of Libanus: yet surely I will make thee a desert, even cities that shall not be inhabited: ⁷and I will bring upon thee a destroying man, and his axe: and they shall cut down thy choice cedars, and cast them into the fire. ⁸And nations shall pass through this city, and each shall say to his neighbour, Why has the Lord done thus to this great city? ⁹And they shall say Because they forsook the covenant of the Lord their God, and worshipped strange gods, and served them. ¹⁰Weep not for the dead, nor lament for him: weep bitterly for him that goes away: for he shall return no more, nor see his native land. ¹¹For thus says the Lord concerning Sellem the son of Josias, who reigns in the place of Josias his father, who has gone forth out of this place; He shall not return thither any more: ¹²but in that place whither I have carried him captive, there shall he die, and shall see this land no more. ¹³He that builds his house not with justice, and his upper chambers not with judgment, who works by means of his neighbour for nothing, and will by no means give him his reward. ¹⁴Thou hast built for thyself a well-proportioned house, airy chambers, fitted with windows, and wainscoted with cedar, and painted with vermilion. ¹⁵Shalt thou reign, because thou art provoked with thy father Achaz? they shall not eat, and they shall not drink: it is better for thee to execute judgment and justice. ¹⁶They understood not, they judged not the cause of the afflicted, nor the cause of the poor: is not this thy not knowing me? says the Lord. ¹⁷Behold, thine eyes are not good, nor thine heart, but they go after thy covetousness, and after the innocent blood to shed it, and after acts of injustice and slaughter, to commit them. ¹⁸Therefore thus says the Lord concerning Joakim son of Josias, king of Juda, even concerning this man; they shall not bewail him, saying, Ah brother! neither shall they at all weep for him, saying, Alas Lord. ¹⁹He shall be buried with the burial of an ass; he shall be dragged roughly along and cast outside the gate of Jerusalem.

²⁰Go up to Libanus, and cry; and utter thy voice to Basan, and cry aloud to the extremity of the sea: for all thy lovers are destroyed. ²¹I spoke to thee on occasion of thy trespass, but thou saidst, I will not hearken. This has been thy way from thy youth, thou hast not hearkened to my voice. ²²The wind shall tend all thy shepherds, and thy lovers shall go into captivity; for then shalt thou be ashamed and disgraced because of all thy lovers. ²³O thou that dwellest in Libanus, making thy nest in the cedars, thou shalt groan heavily, when pangs as of a travelling woman are come upon thee. ²⁴As I live, says the Lord, though Jechonias son of Joakim king of Juda were indeed the seal upon my right hand, thence would I pluck thee; ²⁵and I will deliver thee into the hands of them that seek thy life, before whom thou art afraid, into the hands of the Chaldeans. ²⁶And I will cast forth thee, and thy mother that bore thee, into a land where thou wast not born; and there ye shall die. ²⁷But they shall by no means return to the land which they long for in their souls. ²⁸Jechonias is dishonoured as a good-for-nothing vessel; for he is thrown out and cast forth into a land which he knew not. ²⁹Land, land, hear the word of the Lord. ³⁰Write ye this man an outcast: for there shall none of his seed at all grow up to sit on the throne of David, or as a prince yet in Juda.

Chapter 23

¹Woe to the shepherds that destroy and scatter the sheep of their pasture! ²Therefore thus says the Lord against them that tend my people; Ye have scattered my sheep, and driven them out, and ye have not visited them: behold, I will take vengeance upon you according to your evil practices. ³And I will gather in the remnant of my people in every land, whither I have driven them out, and will set them in their pasture; and they shall increase and be multiplied. ⁴And I will raise up shepherds to them, who shall feed them: and they shall fear no more, nor be alarmed, says the Lord. ⁵Behold, the days come, says the Lord, when I will raise up to David a righteous branch, and a king shall reign and understand, and shall execute judgment and righteousness on the earth. ⁶In his days both Juda shall be saved, and Israel shall dwell securely: and this is his name, which the Lord shall call him, Josedec among the prophets. ⁷Therefore, behold, the days come, says the Lord, when they shall no more say, The Lord lives, who brought up the house of Israel out of the land of Egypt; ⁸but The Lord lives, who has gathered the whole seed of Israel from the north land, and from all the countries whither he had driven them out, and has restored them into their own land. ⁹My heart is broken within me; all my bones are shaken: I am become as a broken-down man, and as a man overcome with wine, because of the Lord, and because of the excellence of his glory. ¹⁰For because of these things the land mourns; the pastures of the wilderness are dried up; and their course is become evil, and so also their strength. ¹¹For priest and prophet are defiled; and I have seen their iniquities in my house. ¹²Therefore let their way be to them slippery and dark: and they shall be tripped up and fall in it: for I will bring evils upon them, in the year of their visitation. ¹³And in the prophets of Samaria I have seen lawless deeds; they prophesied by Baal, and led my people Israel astray. ¹⁴Also in the prophets of Jerusalem I have seen horrible things: as they committed adultery, and walked in lies, and strengthened the hands of many, that they should not return each from his evil way: they are all become to me as Sodom, and the inhabitants thereof as Gomorrha. ¹⁵Therefore thus says the Lord; Behold, I will feed them with pain, and give them bitter water to drink: for from the prophets of Jerusalem has defilement gone forth into all the land. ¹⁶Thus says the Lord Almighty, Hearken not to the words of the prophets: for they frame a vain vision for themselves; they speak from their own heart, and not from the mouth of the Lord. ¹⁷They say to them that reject the word of the Lord, There shall be peace to you; and to all that walk after their own lusts, and to everyone that walks in the error of his heart, they have said, No evil shall come upon thee. ¹⁸For who has stood in the counsel of the Lord, and seen his word? who has hearkened, and heard? ¹⁹Behold, there is an earthquake from the Lord, and anger proceeds to a convulsion, it shall come violently upon the ungodly. ²⁰And the Lord's wrath shall return no more, until he have accomplished it, and until he have established it, according to the purpose of his heart: at the end of the days they shall understand it. ²¹I sent not the prophets, yet they ran: neither spoke I to them, yet they prophesied. ²²But if they had stood in my counsel, and if they had hearkened to my words, then would they have turned my people from their evil practices. ²³I am a God nigh at hand, says the Lord, and not a God afar off. ²⁴Shall any one hide himself in secret places, and I not see him? Do I not fill heaven and earth? says the Lord. ²⁵I have heard what the prophets say, what they prophesy in my name, saying falsely, I have seen a night vision. ²⁶How long shall these things be in the heart of the prophets that prophesy lies, when they prophesy the purposes of their own heart? ²⁷who devise that men may forget my law by their dreams, which they have told every one to his neighbour, as their fathers forgot my name in the worship of Baal. ²⁸The prophet who has a dream, let him tell his dream; and he in whom is my word spoken to him, let him tell my word truly: what is the chaff to the corn? so are my words, says the Lord. ²⁹Behold, are not my words as fire? says the Lord; and as an axe cutting the rock? ³⁰Behold, I am therefore against the prophets, says the Lord God, that steal my words every one from his neighbour. ³¹Behold, I am against the prophets that put forth prophecies of mere words, and slumber their sleep. ³²Therefore, behold, I am against the prophets that prophesy false dreams, and have not told them truly, and have caused my people to err by their lies, and by their errors; yet I sent them not, and commanded them not; therefore, they shall not profit this people at all.

³³And if this people, or the priest, or the prophet, should ask, What is the burden of the Lord? then thou shalt say to them, Ye are the burden, and I will dash you down, says the Lord. ³⁴*As for* the prophet, and the priests, and the people, who shall say, The burden of the Lord, I will even take vengeance on that man, and on his house. ³⁵Thus shall ye say every one to his neighbour, and every one to his brother, What has the Lord answered? and, what has the Lord said? ³⁶And do ye name no more the burden of the Lord; for his own word shall be a man's burden. ³⁷But wherefore, say ye, has the Lord our God spoken? ³⁸Therefore thus says the Lord our God; Because ye have spoken this word, The burden of the Lord, and I sent to you, saying, ye shall not say, The burden of the Lord; ³⁹therefore, behold, I will seize, and dash down you and the city which I gave to you and your fathers. ⁴⁰And I will bring upon you an everlasting reproach, and everlasting disgrace, which shall not be forgotten. ⁷Therefore, behold, the days come, says the Lord, when they shall no more say, The Lord lives, who brought up the house of Israel out of the land of Egypt; ⁸but The Lord lives, who has gathered the whole seed of Israel from the north land, and from all the countries whither he had driven them out, and has restored them into their own land.

Chapter 24

¹The Lord showed me two baskets of figs, lying in front of the temple of the Lord, after Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon had carried captive Jechonias son of Joakim king of Juda, and the princes, and the artificers, and the prisoners, and the rich men out of Jerusalem, and had brought them to Babylon. ²The one basket was full of very good figs, as the early figs; and the other basket was full of very bad figs, which could not be eaten, for their badness. ³And the Lord said to me, What seest thou, Jeremiah? and I said, Figs; the good figs, very good; and the bad, very bad, which cannot be eaten, for their badness. ⁴And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ⁵Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel; As these good figs, so will I acknowledge the Jews that have been carried away captive, whom I have sent forth out of this place into the land of the Chaldeans for good. ⁶And I will fix mine eyes upon them for good, and I will restore them into this land for good: and I will build them up, and not pull them down; and I will plant them, and not pluck them up. ⁷And I will give them a heart to know me, that I am the Lord: and they shall be to me a people, and I will be to them a God: for they shall turn to me with all their heart. ⁸And as the bad figs, which cannot be eaten, for their badness; thus says the Lord, So will I deliver Sedekias king of Juda, and his nobles, and the remnant of Jerusalem, them that are left in this land, and the dwellers in Egypt. ⁹And I will cause them to be dispersed into all the kingdoms of the earth, and they shall be for a reproach, and a proverb, and an object of hatred, and a curse, in every place whither I have driven them out. ¹⁰And I will send against them famine, and pestilence, and the sword, until they are consumed from off the land which I gave them.

Chapter 25

¹THE WORD THAT CAME TO JEREMIAS concerning all the people of Juda in the fourth year of Joakim, son of Josias, king of Juda; ²which he spoke to all the people of Juda, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying, ³In the thirteenth year of Josias, son of Amos, king of Juda, even until this day for three and twenty years, I have both spoken to you, rising early and speaking, ⁴and I sent to you my servants the prophets, sending them early; (but ye hearkened not, and listened not with your ears;) saying, ⁵Turn ye every one from his evil way, and from your evil practices, and ye shall dwell in the land which I gave to you and your fathers, of old and for ever. ⁶Go ye not after strange gods, to serve them, and to worship them, that ye provoke me not by the works of your hands, to do you hurt. ⁷But ye hearkened not to me. ⁸Therefore thus says the Lord; Since ye believed not my words,⁹ behold I will send and take a family from the north, and will bring them against this land, and against the inhabitants of it, and against all the nations round about it, and I will make them utterly waste, and make them a desolation, and a hissing, and an everlasting reproach.¹⁰ And I will destroy from among them the voice of joy, and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride, the scent of ointment, and the light of a candle.¹¹ And all the land shall be a desolation; and they shall serve among the Gentiles seventy years.¹² And when the seventy years are fulfilled, I will take vengeance on that nation, and will make them a perpetual desolation.¹³ And I will bring upon that land all my words which I have spoken against it, even all things that are written in this book.

³⁴THE PROPHECIES OF JEREMIAS AGAINST THE NATIONS OF ÆLAM.

³⁵Thus says the Lord, The bow of Ælam is broken, even the chief of their power.³⁶ And I will bring upon Ælam the four winds from the four corners of heaven, and I will disperse them toward all these winds; and there shall be no nation to which they shall not come—even the outcasts of Ælam.³⁷ And I will put them in fear before their enemies that seek their life; and I will bring evils upon them according to my great anger; and I will send forth my sword after them, until I have utterly destroyed them.³⁸ And I will set my throne in Ælam, and will send forth thence king and rulers.³⁹ But it shall come to pass at the end of days, that I will turn the captivity of Ælam, says the Lord.

Chapter 26

¹In the beginning of the reign of king Sedekias, there came this word concerning Ælam.

²FOR EGYPT, AGAINST THE POWER OF PHARAO NECHAO KING OF EGYPT, who was by the river Euphrates in Charmis, whom Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon smote in the fourth year of Joakim king of Juda.³Take up arms and spears, and draw nigh to battle;⁴and harness the horses: mount, ye horsemen, and stand ready in your helmets; advance the spears, and put on your breast-plates.⁵Why do they fear, and turn back? even because their mighty men shall be slain: they have utterly fled, and being hemmed in they have not rallied, says the Lord.⁶Let not the swift flee, and let not the mighty man escape to the north: the forces at Euphrates are become feeble, and they have fallen.⁷Who is this that shall come up as a river, and as rivers roll their waves? ⁸The waters of Egypt shall come up like a river: and he said, I will go up, and will cover the earth, and will destroy the dwellers in it.⁹Mount ye the horses, prepare the chariots; go forth, ye warriors of the Ethiopians, and Libyans armed with shields; and mount, ye Lydians, bend the bow. ¹⁰And that day shall be to the Lord our God a day of vengeance, to take vengeance on his enemies: and the sword of the Lord shall devour, and be glutted, and be drunken with their blood: for the Lord has a sacrifice from the land of the north at the river Euphrates. ¹¹Go up to Galaad, and take balm for the virgin daughter of Egypt: in vain hast thou multiplied thy medicines; there is no help in thee.

¹²The nations have heard thy voice, and the land has been filled with thy cry: for the warriors have fainted fighting one against another, and both are fallen together.

¹³THE WORDS WHICH THE LORD SPOKE by Jeremiah, concerning the coming of the king of Babylon to smite the land of Egypt. ¹⁴Proclaim it at Magdol, and declare it at Memphis: say ye, Stand up, and prepare; for the sword has devoured thy yew-tree. ¹⁵Wherefore has Apis fled from thee? thy choice calf has not remained; for the Lord has utterly weakened him. ¹⁶And thy multitude has fainted and fallen; and each one said to his neighbour, Let us arise, and return into our country to our people, from the Grecian sword.

¹⁷Call ye the name of Pharaos Nechao king of Egypt, Saon esbeie moed. ¹⁸As I live, says the Lord God, he shall come as Itabyrion among the mountains, and as Carmel that is on the sea. ¹⁹O daughter of Egypt dwelling at home, prepare thee stuff for removing: for Memphis shall be utterly desolate, and shall be called Woe, because there are no inhabitants in it. ²⁰Egypt is a fair heifer, but destruction from the north is come upon her. ²¹Also her hired soldiers in the midst of her are as fatted calves fed in her; for they also have turned, and fled with one accord: they stood not, for the day of destruction was come upon them, and the time of their retribution. ²²Their voice is as that of a hissing serpent, for they go upon the sand; they shall come upon Egypt with axes, as men that cut wood. ²³They shall cut down her forest, says the Lord, for their number cannot at all be conjectured, for it exceeds the locust in multitude, and they are innumerable.

²⁴The daughter of Egypt is confounded; she is delivered into the hands of a people from the north.

²⁵Behold, I will avenge Ammon her son upon Pharaos, and upon them that trust in him. ²⁷But fear not thou, my servant Jacob, neither be thou alarmed, Israel: for, behold, I will save thee from afar, and thy seed from their captivity; and Jacob shall return, and be at ease, and sleep, and there shall be no one to trouble him. ²⁸Fear not thou, my servant Jacob, says the Lord; for I am with thee: she that was without fear and in luxury, has been delivered up: for I will make a full end of every nation among whom I have thrust thee forth; but I will not cause thee to fail: yet will I chastise thee in the way of judgment, and will not hold thee entirely guiltless.

Jeremias

Chapter 27

¹THE WORD OF THE LORD WHICH HE SPOKE AGAINST BABYLON.

²Proclaim ye among the Gentiles, and cause the tidings to be heard, and suppress them not: say ye, Babylon is taken, Belus is confounded; the fearless, the luxurious Maerodach is delivered up. ³For a nation has come up against her from the north, he shall utterly ravage her land, and there shall be none to dwell in it, neither man nor beast. ⁴In those days, and at that time, the children of Israel shall come, they and the children of Juda together; they shall proceed, weeping as they go, seeking the Lord their God. ⁵They shall ask the way till they come to Sion, for that way shall they set their face; and they shall come and flee for refuge to the Lord their God; for the everlasting covenant shall not be forgotten. ⁶My people have been lost sheep: their shepherds thrust them out, they caused them to wander on the mountains: they went from mountain to hill, they forgot their resting-place. ⁷All that found them consumed them: their enemies said, Let us not leave them alone, because they have sinned against the Lord: he that gathered their fathers had a pasture of righteousness. ⁸Flee ye out of the midst of Babylon, and from the land of the Chaldeans, and go forth, and be as serpents before sleep. ⁹For, behold, I stir up against Babylon the gatherings of nations out of the land of the north; and they shall set themselves in array against her: thence shall she be taken, as the dart of an expert warrior shall not return empty. ¹⁰And Chaldea shall be a spoil: all that spoil her shall be satisfied. ¹¹Because ye rejoiced, and boasted, while plundering mine heritage; because ye exulted as calves in the grass, and pushed with the horn as bulls. ¹²Your mother is greatly ashamed; your mother that bore you for prosperity is confounded: she is the last of the nations, desolate, ¹³by reason of the Lord's anger: it shall not be inhabited, but it shall be all a desolation; and every one that passes through Babylon shall scowl, and they shall hiss at all her plague. ¹⁴Set yourselves in array against Babylon round about, all ye that bend the bow; shoot at her, spare not your arrows, ¹⁵and prevail against her: her hands are weakened, her bulwarks are fallen, and her wall is broken down: for it is vengeance from God: take vengeance upon her; as she has done, do to her. ¹⁶Utterly destroy seed out of Babylon, and him that holds a sickle in time of harvest: for fear of the Grecian sword, they shall return every one to his people, and every one shall flee to his own land. ¹⁷Israel is a wandering sheep; the lions have driven him out: the king of Assyria firsts devoured him, and afterward this king of Babylon has gnawed his bones. ¹⁸Therefore thus says the Lord; Behold, I will take vengeance on the king of Babylon, and upon his land, as I took vengeance on the king of Assyria. ¹⁹And I will restore Israel to his pasture, and he shall feed on Carmel and on mount Ephraim and in Galaad, and his soul shall be satisfied. ²⁰In those days, and at that time, they shall seek for the iniquity of Israel, and there shall be none; and for the sins of Juda, and they shall not be found: for I will be merciful to them that are left on the land, says the Lord. ²¹Go up against it roughly, and against them that dwell on it: avenge, O sword, and destroy utterly, says the Lord, and do according to all that I command thee. ²²A sound of war, and great destruction in the land of the Chaldeans! ²³How is the hammer of the whole earth broken and crushed! How is Babylon become a desolation among the nations! ²⁴They shall come upon thee, and thou shalt not know it, Babylon, that thou wilt even be taken captive: thou art found and taken, because thou didst resist the Lord. ²⁵The Lord has opened his treasury, and brought forth the weapons of his anger: for the Lord God has a work in the land of the Chaldeans. ²⁶For her times are come: open ye her storehouses: search her as a cave, and utterly destroy her: let there be no remnant of her. ²⁷Dry ye up all her fruits, and let them go down to the slaughter: woe to them! for their day is come, and the time of their retribution. ²⁸A voice of men fleeing and escaping from the land of Babylon, to declare to Sion the vengeance that comes from the Lord our God. ²⁹Summon many against Babylon, even every one that bends the bow: camp against her round about; let no one of her people escape: render to her according to her works; according to all that she has done, do to her: for she has resisted the Lord, the Holy God of Israel. ³⁰Therefore shall her young men fall in the streets, and all her warriors shall be cast down, says the Lord. ³¹Behold, I am against thee the haughty one, says the Lord: for thy day is come, and the time of thy retribution. ³²And thy pride shall fail, and fall, and there shall be no one to set it up again: and I will kindle a fire in her forest, and it shall devour all things round about her. ³³Thus says the Lord; The children of Israel and the children of Juda have been oppressed: all they that have taken them captive have oppressed them together; for they would not let them go. ³⁴But their Redeemer is strong; the Lord Almighty is his name: he will enter into judgment with his adversaries, that he may destroy the earth; ³⁵and he will sharpen a sword against the Chaldeans, and against the inhabitants of Babylon, and upon her nobles and upon her wise men; ³⁶a sword upon her warriors, and they shall be weakened: a sword upon their horses, and upon their chariots: ³⁷a sword upon their warriors and upon the mixed people in the midst of her; and they shall be as women: a sword upon the treasures, and they shall be scattered upon her water, ³⁸and they shall be ashamed: for it is a land of graven images; and in the islands, where they boasted.

³⁹Therefore shall idols dwell in the islands, and the young of monsters shall dwell in it: it shall not be inhabited any more for ever. ⁴⁰As God overthrew Sodom and Gomorra, and the cities bordering upon them, says the Lord: no man shall dwell there, and no son of man shall sojourn there.

⁴¹Behold, a people comes from the north, and a great nation, and many kings shall be stirred up from the end of the earth; holding bow and dagger:

¹Thus says the Lord; Behold, I stir up against Babylon, and against the Chaldeans dwelling therein, a deadly burning wind. ²And I will send forth against Babylon spoilers, and they shall spoil her, and shall ravage her land. Woe to Babylon round about her in the day of her affliction. ³Let the archer bend his bow, and him that has armour put it on: and spare ye not her young men, but destroy ye all her host.

⁷Babylon has been a golden cup in the Lord's hand, causing all the earth to be drunken: the nations have drunk of her wine; therefore they were shaken.

⁸And Babylon is fallen suddenly, and is broken to pieces: lament for her; take balm for her deadly wound, if by any means she may be healed. ⁹We tried to heal Babylon, but she was not healed: let us forsake her, and depart every one to his own country: for her judgment has reached to the heaven, it has mounted up to the stars. ¹⁰The Lord has brought forth his judgment: come, and let us declare in Sion the works of the Lord our God. ¹¹Prepare the arrows; fill the quivers: the Lord has stirred up the spirit of the king of the Medes: for his wrath is against Babylon, to destroy it utterly; for it is the Lord's vengeance, it is the vengeance of his people. ¹²Lift up a standard on the walls of Babylon, prepare the quivers, rouse the guards, prepare the weapons: for the Lord has taken the work in hand, and will execute what he has spoken against the inhabitants of Babylon, ¹³dwelling on many waters, and amidst the abundance of her treasures; thine end is come verily into thy bowels. ¹⁴For the Lord has sworn by his arm, saying, I will fill thee with men as with locusts; and they that come down shall cry against thee. ¹⁵The Lord made the earth by his power, preparing the world by his wisdom, by his understanding he stretched out the heaven. ¹⁶At his voice he makes a sound of water in the heaven, and brings up clouds from the extremity of the earth; he makes lightnings for rain, and brings light out of his treasures. ¹⁷Every man has completely lost understanding; every goldsmith is confounded because of his graven images: for they have cast false gods, there is no breath in them. ¹⁸They are vain works, objects of scorn; in the time of their visitation they shall perish. ¹⁹Not such is Jacob's portion; for he that formed all things, he is his inheritance; the Lord is his name.

²⁰Thou scatterest for me the weapons of war: and I will scatter nations by thee, and will destroy kings by means of thee. ²¹And by thee I will scatter the horse and his rider; and by thee I will scatter chariots and them that ride in them. ²²And by thee I will scatter youth and maid; and by thee I will scatter man and woman. ²³And by thee I will scatter the shepherd and his flock; and by thee I will scatter the husbandman and his husbandry; and by thee I will scatter leaders and the captains. ²⁴And I will recompense to Babylon and to all the Chaldeans that dwell there all their mischiefs that they have done to Sion before your eyes, says the Lord. ²⁵Behold, I am against thee, the ruined mountain, that destroys the whole earth; and I will stretch out mine hand upon thee, and will roll thee down upon the rocks, and will make thee as a burnt mountain. ²⁶And they shall not take from thee a stone for a corner, nor a stone for a foundation: for thou shalt be a desolation for ever, says the Lord. ²⁷Lift up a standard in the land, sound the trumpet among the nations, consecrate the nations against her, raise up kings against her by me, and that for the people of Achanaz; set against her engines of war; bring up against her horses as a multitude of locusts. ²⁸Bring up nations against her, even the king of the Medes and of the whole earth, his rulers, and all his captains. ²⁹The earth has quaked and been troubled, because the purpose of the Lord has risen up against Babylon, to make the land of Babylon a desolation, and uninhabitable. ³⁰The warrior of Babylon has failed to fight; they shall sit there in the siege; their power is broken; they are become like women; her tabernacles have been set on fire; her bars are broken. ³¹One shall rush, running to meet another runner, and one shall go with tidings to meet another with tidings, to bring tidings to the king of Babylon, that his city is taken. ³²At the end of his passages they were taken, and his cisterns they have burnt with fire, and his warriors are going forth. ³³For thus says the Lord, The houses of the king of Babylon shall be threshed as a floor in the season; yet a little while, and her harvest shall come. ³⁴He has devoured me, he has torn me asunder, airy darkness has come upon me; Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon has swallowed me up, as a dragon has he filled his belly with my delicacies. ³⁵My troubles and my distresses have driven me out into Babylon, shall she that dwells in Sion say; and my blood shall be upon the Chaldeans dwelling there, shall Jerusalem say.

³⁶Therefore thus says the Lord, Behold, I will judge thine adversary, and I will execute vengeance for thee; and I will waste her sea, and dry up her fountain. ³⁷And Babylon shall be a desolation, and shall not be inhabited. ³⁸For they rose up together as lions, and as lions' whelps. ³⁹In their heat I will give them a draught, and make them drunk, that they may be stupified, and sleep an everlasting sleep, and not awake, says the Lord. ⁴⁰And bring thou them down as lambs to the slaughter, and rams with kids. ⁴¹How has the boast of all the earth been taken and caught in a snare! how has Babylon become a desolation among the nations! ⁴²The sea has come up upon Babylon with the sound of its waves, and she is covered. ⁴³Her cities are become like a dry and trackless land; not so much as one man shall dwell in it, neither shall a son of man lodge in it. ⁴⁴And I will take vengeance on Babylon, and bring forth out of her mouth what she has swallowed down, and the nations shall no more be gathered to her: ⁴⁹and in Babylon the slain men of all the earth shall fall. ⁵⁰Go forth of the land, ye that escape, and stay not; ye that are afar off, remember the Lord, and let Jerusalem come into your mind. ⁵¹We are ashamed, because we have heard our reproach; disgrace has covered our face; aliens are come into our sanctuary, even into the house of the Lord. ⁵²Therefore, behold, the days come, says the Lord, when I will take vengeance upon her graven images: and slain men shall fall in all her land. ⁵³For though Babylon should go up as the heaven, and though she should strengthen her walls with her power, from me shall come they that shall destroy her, says the Lord. ⁵⁴A sound of a cry in Babylon, and great destruction in the land of the Chaldeans: ⁵⁵for the Lord has utterly destroyed Babylon, and cut off from her the great voice sounding as many waters: he has consigned her voice to destruction. ⁵⁶For distress has come upon Babylon, her warriors are taken, their bows are useless: for God recompenses them. ⁵⁷The Lord recompenses, and will make her leaders and her wise men and her captains completely drunk, says the King, the Lord Almighty is his name.

⁵⁸Thus says the Lord, The wall of Babylon was made broad, but it shall be completely broken down, and her high gates shall be burnt with fire; and the peoples shall not labour in vain, nor the nations fail in their rule.

⁵⁹THE WORD WHICH THE LORD COMMANDED THE PROPHET JEREMIAS to say to Saraeas son of Nerias, son of Maasaeas, when he went from Sedekias king of Juda to Babylon, in the fourth year of his reign. And Saraeas was over the bounties. ⁶⁰And Jeremiah wrote in a book all the evils which should come upon Babylon, even all these words that are written against Babylon. ⁶¹And Jeremiah said to Saraeas, When thou art come to Babylon, and shalt see and read all these words; ⁶²then thou shalt say, O Lord God, thou hast spoken against this place, to destroy it, and that there should be none to dwell in it, neither man nor beast; for it shall be a desolation for ever. ⁶³And it shall come to pass, when thou shalt cease from reading this book, that thou shalt bind a stone upon it, and cast it into the midst of Euphrates; ⁶⁴and shalt say, Thus shall Babylon sink, and not rise, because of the evils which I bring upon it.

Chapter 29

¹THUS SAYS THE LORD AGAINST THE PHILISTINES;

²Behold, waters come up from the north, and shall become a sweeping torrent, and it shall sweep away the land, and its fulness; the city, and them that dwell in it: and men shall cry and all that dwell in the land shall howl, ³at the sound of his rushing, at the sound of his hoofs, and at the rattling of his chariots, at the noise of his wheels: the fathers turned not to their children because of the weakness of their hands, ⁴in the day that is coming to destroy all the Philistines: and I will utterly destroy Tyre and Sidon and all the rest of their allies: for the Lord will destroy the remaining inhabitants of the islands. ⁵Baldness is come upon Gaza; Ascalon is cast away, and the remnant of the Enakim. ⁶How long wilt thou smite, O sword of the Lord? how long will it be ere thou art quiet? return into thy sheath, rest, and be removed. ⁷How shall it be quiet, whereas the Lord has given it a commission against Ascalon, and against the regions on the sea-coast, to awake against the remaining countries!

⁷CONCERNING IDUMEA, thus says the Lord; There is no longer wisdom in

Jeremias

Thaeman, counsel has perished from the wise ones, their wisdom is gone, ⁸their place has been deceived. Dig deep for a dwelling, ye that inhabit Daedam, for he has wrought grievously: I brought trouble upon him in the time at which I visited him. ⁹For grape-gatherers are come, who shall not leave thee a remnant; as thieves by night, they shall lay their hand upon thy possessions. ¹⁰For I have stripped Esau, I have uncovered their secret places; they shall have no power to hide themselves, they have perished each by the hand of his brother, my neighbour, and it is impossible ¹¹for thy fatherless one to be left to live, but I shall live, and the widows trust in me. ¹²For thus says the Lord; They who were not appointed to drink the cup have drunk it; and thou shalt by no means be cleared: ¹³for by myself I have sworn, says the Lord, that thou shalt be in the midst of her an impassable land, and a reproach, and a curse; and all her cities shall be desert for ever. ¹⁴I have heard a report from the lord, and he has sent messengers to the nations, saying, Assemble yourselves, and come against her; rise ye up to war. ¹⁵I have made thee small among the nations, utterly contemptible among men. ¹⁶Thine insolence has risen up against thee, the fierceness of thine heart has burst the holes of the rocks, it has seized upon the strength of a lofty hill; for as an eagle he set his nest on high: thence will I bring thee down. ¹⁷And Idumea shall be a desert: every one that passes by shall hiss at it. ¹⁸As Sodom was overthrown and Gomorrha and they that sojourned in her, says the Lord Almighty, no man shall dwell there, nor shall any son of man inhabit there. ¹⁹Behold, he shall come up as a lion out of the midst of Jordan to the place of Ætham: for I will speedily drive them from it, and do ye set the young men against her: for who is like me? and who will withstand me? and who is this shepherd, who shall confront me? ²⁰Therefore hear ye the counsel of the Lord, which he has framed against Idumea; and his device, which he has devised against the inhabitants of Thaeman: surely the least of the sheep shall be swept off; surely their dwelling shall be made desolate for them. ²¹For at the sound of their fall the earth was scared, and the cry of the sea was not heard. ²²Behold, he shall look upon her as an eagle, and spread forth his wings over her strongholds; and the heart of the mighty men of Idumea shall be in that day as the heart of a woman in her pangs.

¹Concerning the sons of ammon thus says the Lord, Are there no sons in Israel? or have they no one to succeed them? wherefore has Melchol inherited Galaad, and why shall their people dwell in their cities? ²Therefore, behold, the days come, says the Lord, when I will cause to be heard in Rabbath a tumult of wars; and they shall become a waste and ruined place, and her altars shall be burned with fire; then shall Israel succeed to his dominion. ³Howl, O Esebon, for Gai has perished; cry, ye daughters of Rabbath, gird yourselves with sack-clothes, and lament; for Melchol shall go into banishment, his priests and his princes together. ⁴Why do ye exult in the plains of the Enakim, thou haughty daughter, that trustest in thy treasures, that sayest, Who shall come in to me? ⁵Behold, I will bring terror upon thee, says the Lord, from all the country round about thee; and ye shall be scattered every one right before him, and there is none to gather you.

²⁸CONCERNING KEDAR THE QUEEN OF THE PALACE, WHOM NABUCHODONOSOR KING OF BABYLON SMOTE, thus says the Lord; Arise ye, and go up to Kedar, and fill the sons of Kedem. ²⁹They shall take their tents and their sheep, they shall take for themselves their garments, and all their baggage and their camels; and summon ye destruction against them from every side. ³⁰Flee ye, dig very deep for a dwelling-place, ye that dwell in the palace; for the king of Babylon has framed a counsel, and devised a device against you. ³¹Rise up, and go up against a nation settled and dwelling at ease, who have no doors, nor bolts, nor bars, who dwell alone. ³²And their camels shall be a spoil, and the multitude of their cattle shall be destroyed: and I will scatter them as chaff with every wind, having their hair cut about their foreheads, I will bring on their overthrow from all sides, says the Lord. ³³And the palace shall be a resting-place for ostriches, and desolate for ever: no man shall abide there, and no son of man shall dwell there.

²³CONCERNING DAMASCUS.

Emath is brought to shame, and Arphath: for they have heard an evil report: they are amazed, they are angry, they shall be utterly unable to rest. ²⁴Damascus is utterly weakened, she is put to flight; trembling has seized upon her. ²⁵How has she not left my city, they have loved the village? ²⁶Therefore shall the young men fall in thy streets, and all thy warriors shall fall, says the Lord. ²⁷And I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus, and it shall devour the streets of the son of Ader.

Chapter 31

¹Thus has the Lord said concerning MOAB, Woe to Nabau! for it has perished: Cariathaim is taken: Amath and Agath are put to shame. ²There is no longer any healing for Moab, nor glorying in Esebon: he has devised evils against her: we have cut her off from being a nation, and she shall be completely still: after thee shall go a sword; ³for there is a voice of men crying out of Oronaim, destruction and great ruin. ⁴Moab is ruined, proclaim it to Zogora: ⁵for Aloth is filled with weeping: one shall go up weeping by the way of Oronaim; ye have heard a cry of destruction.

⁶Flee ye, and save your lives, and ye shall be as a wild ass in the desert.

⁷Since thou hast trusted in thy strong-hold, therefore thou shalt be taken: and Chamos shall go forth into captivity, and his priests, and his princes together.

⁸And destruction shall come upon every city, it shall by no means escape; the valley also shall perish, and the plain country shall be completely destroyed, as the Lord has said.

⁹Set marks upon Moab, for she shall be touched with a plague-spot, and all her cities shall become desolate; whence shall there be an inhabitant for her?

¹⁰Cursed is the man that does the works of the Lord carelessly, keeping back his sword from blood.

¹¹Moab has been at ease from a child, and trusted in his glory; he has not poured out his liquor from vessel to vessel, and has not gone into banishment, therefore his taste remained in him, and his smell departed not.

¹²Therefore, behold, his days come, says the Lord, when I shall send upon him bad leaders, and they shall lead him astray, and they shall utterly break in pieces his possessions, and shall cut his horns asunder.

¹³And Moab shall be ashamed of Chamos, as the house of Israel was ashamed of Bæthel their hope, having trusted in them.

¹⁴How will ye say, We are strong, and men strong for war?

¹⁵Moab is ruined, even his city, and his choice young men have gone down to slaughter. ¹⁶The day of Moab is near at hand, and his iniquity moves swiftly to vengeance.

¹⁷Shake the head at him, all ye that are round about him; all of you utter his name; say ye, How is the glorious staff broken to pieces, the rod of magnificence!

¹⁸Come down from thy glory, and sit down in a damp place: Daebon shall be broken, because Moab is destroyed: there has gone up against thee one to ravage thy strong-hold.

¹⁹Stand by the way, and look, thou that dwellest in Arer; and ask him that is fleeing, and him that escapes, and say, What has happened?

²⁰Moab is put to shame, because he is broken: howl and cry; proclaim in Arnon, that Moab has perished.

²¹And judgment is coming against the land of Misor, upon Chelon, and Rephas, and Mophas, ²²and upon Daebon, and upon Nabau, and upon the house of Daethlathaim, ²³and upon Cariathaim, and upon the house of Gaemol, and upon the house of Maon, ²⁴and upon Carioth, and upon Bosor, and upon all the cities of Moab, far and near.

²⁵The horn of Moab is broken, and his arm is crushed.

²⁶Make ye him drunk; for he has magnified himself against the Lord: and Moab shall clap with his hand, and shall be also himself a laughing-stock.

²⁷For surely Israel was to thee a laughing-stock, and was found among thy thefts, because thou didst fight against him.

²⁸The inhabitants of Moab have left the cities, and dwelt in rocks; they have become as doves nestling in rocks, at the mouth of a cave. ²⁹And I have heard of the pride of Moab, he has greatly heightened his pride and his haughtiness, and his heart has been lifted up. ³⁰But I know his works: is it not enough for him? has he not done thus? ³¹Therefore howl ye for Moab on all sides; cry out against the shorn men in a gloomy place. I will weep for thee, ³²O vine of Aserema, as with the weeping of Jazer: thy branches are gone over the sea, they reached the cities of Jazer: destruction has come upon thy fruits, and upon thy grape-gatherers. ³³Joy and gladness have been utterly swept off the land of Moab: and though there was wine in thy presses, in the morning they trod it not, neither in the evening did they raise the cry of joy. ³⁴From the cry of Esebon even to Ætam their cities uttered their voice, from Zogor to Oronaim, and their tidings as a heifer of three years old, for the water also of Nebrin shall be dried up. ³⁵And I will destroy Moab, says the Lord, as he comes up to the altar, and burns incense to his gods. ³⁶Therefore the heart of Moab shall sound as pipes, my heart shall sound as a pipe for the shorn men; forasmuch as what every man has gained has perished from him. ³⁷They shall all have their heads shaved in every place, and every beard shall be shaved; and all hands shall beat the breasts, and on all loins shall be sackcloth. ³⁸And on all the housetops of Moab, and in his streets shall be mourning: for I have broken him, says the Lord, as a vessel, which is useless. ³⁹How has he changed! how has Moab turned his back! Moab is put to shame, and become a laughing-stock, and an object of anger to all that are round about him. ⁴⁰For thus said the Lord; ⁴¹Carioth is taken, and the strong-holds have been taken together. ⁴²And Moab shall perish from being a multitude, because he has magnified himself against the Lord. ⁴³A snare, and fear, and the pit, are upon thee, O inhabitant off Moab. ⁴⁴he that flees from the terror shall fall into the pit, and he that comes up out of the pit shall even be taken in the snare: for I will bring these things upon Moab in the year of their visitation.

Jeremias

Chapter 32

¹¹⁵Thus said the Lord God of Israel; Take the cup of this unmixed wine from mine hand, and thou shalt cause all the nations to drink, to whom I send thee. ¹⁶And they shall drink, and vomit, and be mad, because of the sword which I send among them. ¹⁷So I took the cup out of the Lord's hand, and caused the nations to whom the Lord sent me to drink: ¹⁸Jerusalem, and the cities of Juda, and the kings of Juda, and his princes, to make them a desert place, a desolation, and a hissing; ¹⁹and Pharao king of Egypt, and his servants, and his nobles, and all his people; ²⁰and all the mingled people, and all the kings of the Philistines, and Ascalon, and Gaza, and Accaron, and the remnant of Azotus, ²¹and Idumea, and the land of Moab, and the children of Ammon, ²²and the kings of Tyre, and the kings of Sidon, and the kings in the country beyond the sea, ²³and Daedan, and Thaeman, and Ros, and every one that is shaved round about the face, ²⁴and all the mingled people lodging in the wilderness, ²⁵and all the kings of Ælam, and all the kings of the Persians, ²⁶and all the kings from the north, the far and the near, each one with his brother, and all the kingdom s which are on the face of the earth.

²⁷And thou shalt say to them, Thus said the Lord Almighty; Drink ye, be ye drunken; and ye shall vomit, and shall fall, and shall in nowise rise, because of the sword which I send among you. ²⁸And it shall come to pass, when they refuse to take the cup out of thine hand, to drink it, that thou shalt say, Thus said the Lord; Ye shall surely drink. ²⁹For I am beginning to afflict the city whereon my name is called, and ye shall by no means be held guiltless: for I am calling a sword upon all that dwell upon the earth.

³⁰And thou shalt prophesy against them these words, and shalt say, The Lord shall speak from on high, from his sanctuary he will utter his voice; he will pronounce a declaration on his place; and these shall answer like men gathering grapes: and destruction is coming on them that dwell on the earth, ³¹*even upon the extreme* part of the earth; for the Lord has a controversy with the nations, he is pleading with all flesh, and the ungodly are given to the sword, says the Lord. ³²Thus said the Lord; Behold, evils are proceeding from nation to nation, and a great whirlwind goes forth from the end of the earth. ³³And the slain of the Lord shall be in the day of the Lord from one end of the earth even to the other end of the earth: they shall not be buried; they shall be as dung on the face of the earth. ³⁴Howl, ye shepherds, and cry; and lament, ye rams of the flock: for your days have been completed for slaughter, and ye shall fall as the choice rams. ³⁵And flight shall perish from the shepherds, and safety from the rams of the flock. ³⁶A voice of the crying of the shepherds, and a moaning of the sheep and the rams: for the Lord has destroyed their pastures. ³⁷And the peaceable abodes that remain shall be destroyed before the fierceness of my anger. ³⁸He has forsaken his lair, as a lion: for their land is become desolate before the great sword.

Chapter 33

¹IN THE BEGINNING OF THE REIGN OF KING JOAKIM SON OF JOSIAS THERE CAME THIS WORD FROM THE LORD.

²Thus said the Lord; Stand in the court of the Lord's house, and thou shalt declare to all the Jews, and to all that come to worship in the house of the Lord, all the words which I commanded thee to speak to them; abate not one word. ³Peradventure they will hear, and turn every one from his evil way: then I will cease from the evils which I purpose to do to them, because of their evil practices. ⁴And thou shalt say, Thus said the Lord; If ye will not hearken to me, to walk in my statutes which I set before you, ⁵to hearken to the words of my servants the prophets, whom I send to you early in the morning; yea, I sent them, but ye hearkened not to me; ⁶then will I make this house as Selo, and I will make this city a curse to all the nations of all the earth. ⁷And the priests, and the false prophets, and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in the house of the Lord. ⁸And it came to pass, when Jeremiah had ceased speaking all that the Lord had ordered him to speak to all the people, that the priests and the false prophets and all the people took him, saying, ⁹Thou shalt surely die, because thou hast prophesied in the name of the Lord, saying, This house shall be as Selo, and this city shall be made quite destitute of inhabitants. And all the people assembled against Jeremiah in the house of the Lord. ¹⁰And the princes of Juda heard this word, and they went up out of the house of the king to the house of the Lord, and sat in the entrance of the new gate. ¹¹Then the priests and the false prophets said to the princes and to all the people, The judgment of death is due to this man; because he has prophesied against this city, as ye have heard with your ears. ¹²Then Jeremiah spoke to the princes, and to all the people, saying, The Lord sent me to prophesy against this house and against this city, all the words which ye have heard. ¹³And now amend your ways and your works, and hearken to the voice of the Lord; and the Lord shall cease from the evils which he has pronounced against you. ¹⁴And behold, I am in your hands; do to me as is expedient, and as it is best for you. ¹⁵But know for a certainty, that if ye slay me, ye bring innocent blood upon yourselves, and upon this city, and upon them that dwell in it; for in truth the Lord has sent me to you to speak in your ears all these words. ¹⁶Then the princes and all the people said to the priests and to the false prophets; Judgment of death is not due to this man; for he has spoken to us in the name of the Lord our God. ¹⁷And there rose up men of the elders of the land, and said to all the assembly of the people, ¹⁸Michaeas the Morathite lived in the days of Ezekias king of Juda, and said to all the people of Juda, Thus says the Lord; Sion shall be ploughed as a field, and Jerusalem shall become a desolation, and the mountain of the house shall be a thicket of trees. ¹⁹Did Ezekias and all Juda in any way slay him? Was it not that they feared the Lord, and they made supplication before the Lord, and the Lord ceased from the evils which he had pronounced against them? whereas we have wrought great evil against our own souls. ²⁰And there was another man prophesying in the name of the Lord, Urias the son of Samaeas of Cariathiarim; and he prophesied concerning this land according to all the words of Jeremiah.

²¹And king Joakim and all the princes heard all his words, and sought to slay him; and Urias heard it and went into Egypt. ²²And the king sent men into Egypt; ²³and they brought him thence, and brought him into the king; and he smote him with the sword, and cast him into the sepulchre of the children of his people. ²⁴Nevertheless the hand of Achicam son of Saphan was with Jeremiah, to prevent his being delivered into the hands of the people, or being killed.

Chapter 34

¹Thus said the Lord; Make to thyself bonds and yokes, and put them about thy neck, ³and thou shalt send them to the king of Idumea, and to the king of Moab, and to the king of the children of Ammon, and to the king of Tyre, and to the king of Sidon, by the hands of their messengers that come to meet them at Jerusalem to Sedekias king of Juda. ⁴And thou shalt commission them to say to their lords, Thus said the Lord God of Israel; Thus shall ye say to your lords; ⁵I have made the earth by my great power, and with my high arm, and I will give it to whomsoever it shall seem good in mine eyes. ⁶I gave the earth to Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon to serve him, and the wild beasts of the field to labour for him. ⁷⁸And the nation and kingdom, all that shall not put their neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, with sword and famine will I visit them, says the Lord, until they are consumed by his hand.

⁹And hearken ye not to your false prophets, nor to them that divine to you, nor to them that foretell events by dreams to you, nor to your auguries, nor your sorcerers, that say, Ye shall by no means work for the king of Babylon: ¹⁰for they prophesy lies to you, to remove you far from your land.

¹¹But the nation which shall put its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him, I will even leave it upon its land, and it shall serve him, and dwell in it. ¹²I spoke also to Sedekias king of Juda according to all these words, saying, Put your neck into the yoke, and serve the king of Babylon. ¹⁴For they prophesy unrighteous words to you, ¹⁵for I sent them not, says the Lord; and they prophesy in my name unjustly, that I might destroy you, and ye should perish, and your prophets, who unrighteously prophesy lies to you. ¹⁶I spoke to you, and to all this people, and to the priests, saying, Thus said the Lord; Hearken not to the words of the prophets that prophesy to you, saying, Behold, the vessels of the Lord's house shall return from Babylon: for they prophesy to you unrighteous words. ¹⁷I sent them not. ¹⁸If they are prophets, and if the word of the Lord is in them, let them meet me, for thus has the Lord said. ¹⁹And as for the remaining vessels, ²⁰which the king of Babylon took not, when he carried Jechonias prisoner out of Jerusalem, ²²they shall go into Babylon, says the Lord.

Chapter 35

¹And it came to pass in the fourth year of Sedekias king of Juda, in the fifth month, that Ananias the false prophet, the son of Azor, from Gabaon, spoke to me in the house of the Lord, in the sight of the priests and all the people, saying, ²Thus says the Lord; I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon. ³Yet two full years, and I will return into this place the vessels of the house of the Lord, ⁴and Jechonias, and the captivity of Juda: for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon. ⁵Then Jeremiah spoke to Ananias in the sight of all the people, and in the sight of the priests that stood in the house of the Lord, ⁶and Jeremiah said, May the Lord indeed do thus; may he confirm thy word which thou dost prophesy, to return the vessels of the house of the Lord, and all the captivity, out of Babylon to this place. ⁷Nevertheless hear ye the word of the Lord which I speak in your ears, and in the ears of all the people. ⁸The prophets that were before me and before you of old, also prophesied over much country, and against great kingdoms, concerning war. ⁹*As for* the prophet that has prophesied for peace, when the word has come to pass, they shall know the prophet whom the Lord has sent them in truth.

¹⁰Then Ananias took the yokes from the neck of Jeremiah in the sight of all the people, and broke them to pieces.

¹¹And Ananias spoke in the presence of all the people, saying, Thus said the Lord; Thus will I break the yoke of the king of Babylon from the necks of all the nations. And Jeremiah went his way. ¹²And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, after that Ananias had broken the yokes off his neck, saying, ¹³Go and speak to Ananias, saying, Thus says the Lord; Thou hast broken the yokes of wood; but I will make instead of them yokes of iron. ¹⁴For thus said the Lord, I have put a yoke of iron on the neck of all the nations, that they may serve the king of Babylon. ¹⁵And Jeremiah said to Ananias, The Lord has not sent thee; and thou hast caused this people to trust in unrighteousness. ¹⁶Therefore thus said the Lord: Behold, I will cast thee off from the face of the earth: this year thou shalt die. ¹⁷So he died in the seventh month.

Chapter 36

¹And these are the words of the book which Jeremiah sent from Jerusalem to the elders of the captivity, and to the priests, and to the false prophets, even an epistle to Babylon for the captivity, and to all the people; ²(after the departure of Jechonias the king and the queen, and the eunuchs, and every freeman, and bondman, and artificer, out of Jerusalem;) ³by the hand of Eleasan son of Saphan, and Gamarias son of Chelcias, (whom Sedekias king of Juda sent to the king of Babylon to Babylon) saying, ⁴Thus said the Lord God of Israel concerning the captivity which I caused to be carried away from Jerusalem; ⁵Build ye houses, and inhabit them; and plant gardens, and eat the fruits thereof; ⁶and take ye wives, and beget sons and daughters; and take wives for your sons, and give your daughters to husbands, and be multiplied, and be not diminished. ⁷And seek the peace of the land into which I have carried you captive, and ye shall pray to the Lord for the people: for in its peace ye shall have peace. ⁸For thus says the Lord; Let not the false prophets that are among you persuade you, and let not your diviners persuade you, and hearken not to your dreams which ye dream. ⁹For they prophesy to you unrighteous words in my name; and I sent them not. ¹⁰For thus said the Lord; When seventy years shall be on the point of being accomplished at Babylon, I will visit you, and will confirm my words to you, to bring back your people to this place. ¹¹And I will devise for you a device of peace, and not evil, to bestow upon you these good things. ¹²And do ye pray to me, and I will hearken to you: and do ye earnestly seek me, and ye shall find me; ¹³for ye shall seek me with your whole heart. ¹⁴And I will appear to you: ¹⁵whereas ye said, The Lord has appointed for us prophets in Babylon; ²¹thus says the Lord concerning Achiab, and concerning Sedekias; Behold, I will deliver them into the hands of the king of Babylon; and he shall smite them in your sight. ²²And

they shall make of them a curse in all the captivity of Juda in Babylon, saying, The Lord do to thee as he did to Sedekias, and as he did to Achiab, whom the king of Babylon fried in the fire; ²³because of the iniquity which they wrought in Israel, and because they committed adultery with the wives of their fellow-citizens; and spoke a word in my name, which I did not command them to speak, and I am witness, says the Lord. ²⁴And to Samaeas the Ælamite thou shalt say, ²⁵I sent thee not in my name: and to Sophonias the priest the son of Maasaeas say thou, ²⁶The Lord has made thee priest in the place of Jodae the priest, to be ruler in the house of the Lord over every prophet, and to every madman, and thou shalt put them in prison, and into the dungeon. ²⁷And now wherefore have ye reviled together Jeremiah of Anathoth, who prophesied to you? ²⁸Did he not send for this purpose? for in the course of this month he sent to you to Babylon, saying, It is far off: build ye houses, and inhabit them; and plant gardens, and eat the fruit of them. ²⁹And Sophonias read the book in the ears of Jeremiah. ³⁰Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, saying, ³¹Send to the captivity, saying, Thus says the Lord concerning Samaeas the Ælamite, Since Samaeas has prophesied to you, and I sent him not, and he has made you to trust in iniquity, ³²therefore thus says the Lord; Behold, I will visit Samaeas, and his family: and there shall not be a man of them in the midst of you to see the good which I will do to you: they shall not see it.

Chapter 37

¹THE WORD THAT CAME TO JEREMIAS FROM THE LORD, SAYING, ²Thus speaks the Lord God of Israel, saying, Write all the words which I have spoken to thee in a book. ³For, behold, the days come, says the Lord, when I will bring back the captivity of my people Israel and Juda, said the Lord: and I will bring them back to the land which I gave to their fathers, and they shall be lords of it.

⁴AND THESE ARE THE WORDS WHICH THE LORD SPOKE CONCERNING ISRAEL AND JUDA; ⁵Thus said the Lord: Ye shall hear a sound of fear, there is fear, and there is not peace. ⁶Enquire, and see if a male has born a child? and ask concerning the fear, wherein they shall hold their loins, and look for safety: for I have seen every man, and his hands are on his loins; their faces are turned to paleness. ⁷For that day is great, and there is not such another; and it is a time of straitness to Jacob; but he shall be saved out of it. ⁸In that day, said the Lord, I will break the yoke off their neck, and will burst their bonds, and they shall no longer serve strangers: ⁹but they shall serve the Lord their God; and I will raise up to them David their king. ¹²Thus says the Lord; I have brought on thee destruction; thy stroke is painful. ¹³There is none to judge thy cause:

thou hast been painfully treated for healing, there is no help for thee. ¹⁴All thy friends have forgotten thee; they shall not ask about thee at all, for I have smitten thee with he stroke of an enemy, even severe correction: thy sins have abounded above all thine iniquity. ¹⁵Thy sins have abounded beyond the multitude of thine iniquities, therefore they have done these things to thee. Therefore all that devour thee shall be eaten, and all thine enemies shall eat all their own flesh. ¹⁶And they that spoil thee shall become a spoil, and I will give up to be plundered all that have plundered thee. ¹⁷For I will bring about thy healing, I will heal thee of thy grievous wound, says the Lord; for thou art called Dispersed: she is your prey, for no one seeks after her. ¹⁸Thus said the Lord; Behold, I will turn the captivity of Jacob, and will have pity upon his prisoners; and the city shall be built upon her hill, and the people shall settle after their manner. ¹⁹And there shall go forth from them singers, even the sound of men making merry: and I will multiply them, and they shall not at all be diminished. ²⁰And their sons shall go in as before, and their testimonies shall be established before me, and I will visit them that afflict them. ²¹And their mighty ones shall be over them, and their prince shall proceed of themselves; and I will gather them, and they shall return to me: for who is this that has set his heart to return to me? says the Lord.

Jeremias

²³For the wrathful anger of the lord has gone forth, even a whirlwind of anger has gone forth: it shall come upon the ungodly. ²⁴The fierce anger of the Lord shall not return, until he shall execute it, and until he shall establish the purpose of his heart: in the latter days ye shall know these things.

Chapter 38

¹At that time, says the Lord, I will be a God to the family of Israel, and they shall be to me a people. ²Thus says the Lord, I found him warm in the wilderness with them that were slain with the sword: go ye and destroy not Israel. ³The Lord appeared to him from afar, saying, I have loved thee with an everlasting love: therefore have I drawn thee in compassion. ⁴For I will build thee, and thou shalt be built, O virgin of Israel: thou shalt yet take thy timbrel, and go forth with the party of them that make merry. ⁵For ye have planted vineyards on the mountains of Samaria: plant ye, and praise. ⁶For it is a day when those that plead on the mountains of Ephraim shall call, saying, Arise ye, and go up to Sion to the Lord your God. ⁷For thus says the Lord to Jacob; Rejoice ye, and exult over the head of the nations: make proclamation, and praise ye: say, The Lord has delivered his people, the remnant of Israel. ⁸Behold, I bring them from the north, and will gather them from the end of the earth to the feast of the passover: and the people shall beget a great multitude, and they shall return hither. ⁹They went forth with weeping, and I will bring them back with consolation, causing them to lodge by the channels of waters in a straight way, and they shall not err in it: for I am become a father to Israel, and Ephraim is my first-born. ¹⁰Hear the words of the Lord, ye nations, and proclaim them to the islands afar off; say, He that scattered Israel will also gather him, and keep him as one that feeds his flock. ¹¹For the Lord has ransomed Jacob, he has rescued him out of the hand of them that were stronger than he. ¹²And they shall come, and shall rejoice in the mount of Sion, and shall come to the good things of the Lord, even to a land of corn, and wine, and fruits, and cattle, and sheep: and their soul shall be as a fruitful tree; and they shall hunger no more. ¹³Then shall the virgins rejoice in the assembly of youth, and the old men shall rejoice; and I will turn their mourning into joy, and will make them merry. ¹⁴I will expand and cheer with wine the soul of the priests the sons of Levi, and my people shall be satisfied with my good things: thus says the Lord. ¹⁵A voice was heard in Rama, of lamentation, and of weeping, and wailing; Rachel would not cease weeping for her children, because they are not. ¹⁶Thus says the Lord; Let thy voice cease from weeping, and thine eyes from thy tears: for their is a reward for thy works; and they shall return from the land of thine enemies. ¹⁷*There shall be* an abiding home for thy children. ¹⁸I have heard the sound of Ephraim lamenting, and saying, Thou hast chastened me, and I was chastened; I as a calf was not willingly taught: turn thou me, and I shall turn; for thou art the Lord my God. ¹⁹For after my captivity I repented; and after I knew, I groaned for the day of shame, and showed thee that I bore reproach from my youth. ²⁰Ephraim is a beloved son, a pleasing child to me: for because my words are in him, I will surely remember him: therefore I made haste to help him; I will surely have mercy upon him, says the Lord.

²¹Prepare thyself, O Sion; execute vengeance; look to thy ways: return, O virgin of Israel, by the way by which thou wentest, return mourning to thy cities. ²²How long, O disgraced daughter, wilt thou turn away? for the Lord has created safety for a new plantation: men shall go about in safety. ²³For thus says the Lord; They shall yet speak this word in the land of Juda, and in the cities thereof, when I shall turn his captivity; blessed be the Lord on his righteous holy mountain!

²⁴And there shall be dwellers in the cities of Juda, and in all his land, together with the husbandman, and the shepherd shall go forth with the flock.

²⁵For I have saturated every thirsting soul, and filled every hungry soul.

²⁷Therefore, behold, the days come, says the Lord, when I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Juda with the seed of man, and the seed of beast. ²⁸And it shall come to pass, that as I watched over them, to pull down, and to afflict, so will I watch over them, to build, and to plant, says the Lord. ²⁹In those days they shall certainly not say, The fathers ate a sour grape, and the children's teeth were set on edge. ³⁰But every one shall die in his own sin; and the teeth of him that eats the sour grape shall be set on edge. ³¹Behold, the days come, says the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Juda: ³²not according to the covenant which I made with their fathers in the day when I took hold of their hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt; for they abode not in my covenant, and I disregarded them, says the Lord. ³³For this is my covenant which I will make with the house of Israel; after those days, says the Lord, I will surely put my laws into their mind, and write them on their hearts; and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people. ³⁴And they shall not at all teach every one his fellow citizen, and every one his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for all shall know me, from the least of them to the greatest of them: for I will be merciful to their iniquities, and their sins I will remember no more. ³⁵Thus says the Lord, who gives the sun for a light by day, the moon and the stars for a light by night, and makes a roaring in the sea, so that the waves thereof roar; the Lord Almighty is his name: ³⁶if these ordinances cease from before me, says the Lord, then shall the family of Israel cease to be a nation before me forever. ³⁷Though the sky should be raised to a greater height, says the Lord, and though the ground of the earth should be sunk lower beneath, yet I will not cast off the family of Israel, says the Lord, for all that they have done. ³⁸Behold, the days come, says the Lord, when the city shall be built to the Lord from the tower of Anameel to the gate of the corner. ³⁹And the measurement of it shall proceed in front of them as far as the hills of Gareb, and it shall be compassed with a circular wall of choice stones. ⁴⁰And all the Asaremoth even to Nachal Kedron, as far as the corner of the horse-gate eastward, shall be holiness to the Lord; and it shall not fail any more, and shall not be destroyed for ever.

Chapter 39

¹The word that came from the Lord to Jeremiah in the tenth year of king Sedekias, this is the eighteenth year of king Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon. ²And the host of the king of Babylon had made a rampart against Jerusalem: and Jeremiah was kept in the court of the prison, which is in the king's house; ³in which king Sedekias had shut him up, saying, Wherefore dost thou prophesy, saying, Thus says the Lord, Behold, I will give this city into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it; ⁴and Sedekias shall by no means be delivered out of the hand of the Chaldeans, for he shall certainly be given up into the hands of the king of Babylon, and his mouth shall speak to his mouth, and his eyes shall look upon his eyes; ⁵and Sedekias shall go into Babylon, and dwell there?

⁶AND THE WORD OF THE LORD CAME TO JEREMIAS, SAYING, ⁷Behold, Anameel the son of Salom thy father's brother is coming to thee, saying, Buy thee my field that is in Anathoth: for thou hast the right to take it as a purchase. ⁸So Anameel the son of Salom my father's brother came to me into the court of the prison, and said, Buy thee my field that is in the land of Benjamin, in Anathoth: for thou hast a right to buy it, and thou art the elder. So I knew that it was the word of the Lord. ⁹And I bought the field of Anameel the son of my father's brother, and I weighed him seventeen shekels of silver. ¹⁰And I wrote it in a book, and sealed it, and took the testimony of witnesses, and weighed the money in the balance. ¹¹And I took the book of the purchase that was sealed; ¹²and I gave it to Baruch son of Nerias, son of Maasaeas, in the sight of Anameel my father's brother's son, and in the sight of the men that stood by and wrote in the book of the purchase, and in the sight of the Jews that were in the court of the prison. ¹³And I charged Baruch in their presence, saying, Thus says the Lord Almighty; ¹⁴Take this book of the purchase, and the book that has been read; and thou shalt put it into an earthen vessel, that it may remain many days. ¹⁵For thus says the Lord; There shall yet be bought fields and houses and vineyards in this land. ¹⁶And I prayed to the Lord after I had given the book of the purchase to Baruch the son of Nerias, saying, ¹⁷O ever living Lord! thou hast made the heaven and the earth by thy great power, and with thy high and lofty arm: nothing can be hidden from thee. ¹⁸Granting mercy to thousands, and recompensing the sins of the fathers into the bosoms of their children after them: the great, the strong God; ¹⁹the Lord of great counsel, and mighty in deeds, the great Almighty God, and Lord of great name: thine eyes are upon the ways of the children of men, to give to every one according to his way: ²⁰who hast wrought signs and wonders in the land of Egypt even to this day, and in Israel, and among the inhabitants of the earth; and thou didst make for thyself a name, as at this day; ²¹and thou didst bring out thy people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs, and with wonders, with a mighty hand, and with a high arm, and with great sights; ²²and thou gavest them this land, which thou didst swear to give to their fathers, a land flowing with milk and honey; ²³and they went in, and took it; but they hearkened not to thy voice, and walked not in thine ordinances; they did none of the things which thou didst command them, and they caused all these calamities to happen to them. ²⁴Behold, a multitude is come against the city to take it; and the city is given into the hands of the Chaldeans that fight against it, by the power of the sword, and the famine: as thou hast spoken, so has it happened. ²⁵And thou sayest to me, Buy thee the field for money; and I wrote a book, and sealed it, and took the testimony of witnesses: and the city is given into the hands of the Chaldeans. ²⁶And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²⁷I am the Lord, the God of all flesh: shall anything be hidden from me! ²⁸Therefore thus says the Lord God of Israel; This city shall certainly be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it: ²⁹and the Chaldeans shall come to war against this city, and they shall burn this city with fire, and shall burn down the houses wherein they burnt incense on the roofs thereof to Baal, and poured drink-offerings to other gods, to provoke me. ³⁰For the children of Israel and the children of Juda alone did evil in my sight from their youth. ³¹For this city was obnoxious to my anger and my wrath, from the day that they built it even to this day; that I should remove it from my presence, ³²because of all the wickedness of the children of Israel and Juda, which they wrought to provoke me, they and their kings, and their princes, and their priests, and their prophets, the men of Juda, and the dwellers in Jerusalem. ³³And they turned the back to me, and not the face: whereas I taught them early in the morning, but they hearkened no more to receive instructions. ³⁴And they set their pollutions in the house, on which my name was called, by their uncleannesses. ³⁵And they built to Baal the altars that are in the valley of the son of Ennom, to offer their sons and their daughters to king Moloch; which things I commanded them not, neither came it into my mind that they should do this abomination, to cause Juda to sin. ³⁶And now thus has the Lord God of Israel said concerning this city, of which thou sayest, it shall be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon by the sword, and by famine, and banishment. ³⁷Behold, I will gather them out of every land, where I have scattered them in my anger, and my wrath, and great fury; and I will bring them back into this place, and will cause them to dwell safely: ³⁸and they shall be to me a people, and I will be to them a god. ³⁹And I will give them another way, and another heart, to fear me continually, and that for good to them and their children after them. ⁴⁰And I will make with them an everlasting covenant, which I will by no means turn away from them, and I will put my fear into their heart, that they may not depart from me. ⁴¹And I will visit them to do them good, and I will plant them in this land in faithfulness, and with all my heart, and with all my soul. ⁴²For thus says the Lord; As I have brought upon this people all these great evils, so will I bring upon them all the good things which I pronounced upon them. ⁴³And there shall yet be fields bought in the land, of which thou sayest, it shall be destitute of man and beast; and they are delivered into the hands of the Chaldeans. ⁴⁴And they shall buy fields for money, and thou shalt write a book, and seal it, and shalt take the testimony of witnesses in the land of Benjamin, and round about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Juda, and in the cities of the mountain, and in the cities of the plain, and in the cities of the south: for I will turn their captivity.

¹And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah the second time, when he was yet bound in the court of the prison, saying, ²Thus says the Lord, who made the earth and formed it, to establish it; the Lord is his name; ³Cry to me, and I will answer thee, and I will declare to thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not. ⁴For thus says the Lord concerning the houses of this city, and concerning the houses of the king of Juda, which have been pulled down for mounds and fortifications, ⁵to fight against the Chaldeans, and to fill it with the corpses of men, whom I smote in mine anger and my wrath, and turned away my face from them, for all their wickedness: ⁶Behold, I bring upon her healing and cure, and I will show myself to them, and will heal her, and make both peace and security. ⁷And I will turn the captivity of Juda, and the captivity of Israel, and will build them, even as before. ⁸And I will cleanse them from all their iniquities, whereby they have sinned against me, and will not remember their sins, whereby they have sinned against me, and revolted from me. ⁹And it shall be for joy and praise, and for glory to all the people of the earth, who shall hear all the good that I will do: and they shall fear and be provoked for all the good things and for all the peace which I will bring upon them. ¹⁰Thus says the Lord; There shall yet be heard in this place, of which ye say, it is destitute of men and cattle, in the cities of Juda, and in the streets of Jerusalem, the places that have been made desolate for want of men and cattle, ¹¹the voice of gladness, and the voice of joy, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride, the voice of men saying, Give thanks to the Lord Almighty: for the Lord is good; for his mercy endures fore ever: and they shall bring gifts into the house of the Lord; for I will turn all the captivity of that land as before, said the Lord. ¹²Thus says the Lord of hosts; There shall yet be in this place, that is desert for want of man and beast, in all the cities thereof, resting-places for shepherds causing their flocks to lie down. ¹³In the cities of the hill country, and in the cities of the valley, and in the cities of the south, and in the land of Benjamin, and in the cities round about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Juda, flocks shall yet pass under the hand of him that numbers them, says the Lord.

Jeremias

¹The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord (now Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and all his army, and all the country of his dominion, were warring against Jerusalem, and against all the cities of Juda,) saying, ²Thus has the Lord said; Go to Sedekias king of Juda, and thou shalt say to him, Thus has the Lord said, This city shall certainly be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it, and shall burn it with fire: ³and thou shalt not escape out of his hand, but shalt certainly be taken, and shalt be given into his hands; and thine eyes shall see his eyes, and thou shalt enter into Babylon. ⁴But hear the word of the Lord, O Sedekias king of Juda; Thus says the Lord, ⁵Thou shalt die in peace: and as they wept for thy fathers that reigned before thee, they shall weep also for thee, saying, Ah lord! and they shall lament for thee down to the grave: for I have spoken the word, said the Lord. ⁶And Jeremiah spoke to king Sedekias all these words in Jerusalem. ⁷And the host of the king of Babylon warred against Jerusalem, and against the cities of Juda, and against Lachis, and against Azeca: for these strong cities were left among the cities of Juda. ⁸The word that came from the Lord to Jeremiah, after king Sedekias had concluded a covenant with the people, to proclaim a release; ⁹That every one should set at liberty his servant, and every one has handmaid, the Hebrew man and Hebrew woman, that no man of Juda should be a bondman. ¹⁰Then all the nobles, and all the people who had entered into the covenant, engaging to set free every one his man-servant, and every one his maid, turned, ¹¹and gave them over to be men-servants and maid-servants.

¹²And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, saying, ¹³Thus says the Lord; I made a covenant with your fathers in the day wherein I took them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage, saying, ¹⁴When six years are accomplished, thou shalt set free thy brother the Hebrew, who shall be sold to thee: for he shall serve thee six years, and then thou shalt let him go free: but they hearkened not to me, and inclined not their ear. ¹⁵And this day they turned to do that which was right in my sight, to proclaim every one the release of his neighbour; and they had concluded a covenant before me, in the house whereon my name is called.

¹⁷Therefore thus said the Lord; Ye have not hearkened to me, to proclaim a release every one to his neighbour: behold, I proclaim a release to you, to the sword, and to the pestilence, and to the famine; and I will give you up to dispersion among all the kingdoms of the earth. ¹⁸And I will give the men that have transgressed my covenant, who have not kept my covenant, which they made before me, the calf which they prepared to sacrifice with it, ¹⁹the princes of Juda, and the men in power, and the priests, and the people; ²⁰I will even give them to their enemies, and their carcases shall be food for the birds of the sky and for the wild beasts of the earth. ²¹And I will give Sedekias king of Judea, and their princes, into the hands of their enemies, and the host of the king of Babylon shall come upon them that run away from them. ²²Behold, I will give command, says the Lord, and will bring them back to this land; and they shall fight against it, and take it, and burn it with fire, and the cities of Juda; and I will make them desolate without inhabitants.

Chapter 42

¹THE WORD THAT CAME TO JEREMIAS from the Lord in the days of Joakim, king of Juda, saying, ²Go to the house of the Archabin, and thou shalt bring them to the house of the Lord, into one of the courts, and give them wine to drink. ³So I brought forth Jechonias the son of Jeremin the son of Chabasin, and his brethren, and his sons, and all the family of the Archabin; ⁴and I brought them into the house of the Lord, into the chamber of the sons of Joanan, the son of Ananias, the son of Godolias, a man of God, who dwells near the house of the princes that are over the house of Maasaeas the son of Selom, who kept the court. ⁵And I set before them a jar of wine, and cups, and I said, Drink ye wine. ⁶But they said, We will on no account drink wine, for our father Jonadab the son of Rechab commanded us, saying, Ye shall on no account drink wine, neither ye, nor your sons for ever: ⁷nor shall ye at all build houses, nor sow any seed, nor shall ye have a vineyard: for ye shall dwell in tents all your days; that ye may live many days upon the land, in which ye sojourn. ⁸And we hearkened to the voice of Jonadab our father, so as to drink no wine all our days, we, and our wives, and our sons, and our daughters; ⁹and so as to build no houses to dwell in: and we have had no vineyard, nor field, nor seed: ¹⁰but we have dwelt in tents, and have hearkened, and done according to all that Jonadab our father commanded us. ¹¹And it came to pass, when Nabuchodonosor came up against the land, that we said we would come in; and we entered into Jerusalem, for fear of the host of the Chaldeans, and for fear of the host of the Assyrians: and we dwelt there. ¹²And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ¹³Thus says the Lord, Go, and say to the men of Juda, and to them that dwell in Jerusalem, Will ye not receive correction to hearken to my words? ¹⁴The sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have kept the word which he commanded his children, that they should drink no wine; and they have not drunk it: but I spoke to you early, and ye hearkened not. ¹⁵And I sent to you my servants the prophets, saying,

Turn ye every one from his evil way, and amend your practices, and go not after other gods to serve them, and ye shall dwell upon the land which I gave to you and to your fathers: but ye inclined not your ears, and hearkened not. ¹⁶But the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have kept the command of their father; but this people has not hearkened to me. ¹⁷Therefore thus says the Lord; Behold, I will bring upon Juda and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem all the evils which I pronounced against them. ¹⁸Therefore thus says the Lord; Since the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have hearkened to the command of their father, to do as their father commanded them: ¹⁹there shall never be wanting a man of the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab to stand before my face while the earth remains.

Chapter 43

¹IN THE FOURTH YEAR OF JOAKIM SON of Josias king of Juda, the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Take thee a roll of a book, and write upon it all the words which I spoke to thee against Jerusalem, and against Juda, and against all the nations, from the day when I spoke to thee, from the days of Josias king of Juda, even to this day. ³Perhaps the house of Juda will hear all the evils which I purpose to do to them; that they may turn from their evil way; and so I will be merciful to their iniquities and their sins. ⁴So Jeremiah called Baruch the son of

Nerias: and he wrote from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the Lord, which he had spoken to him, on a roll of a book. ⁵And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, saying, I am in prison; I cannot enter into the house of the Lord: ⁶so thou shalt read in this roll in the ears of the people in the house of the Lord, on the fast day; and in the ears of all Juda that come out of their cities, thou shalt read to them. ⁷Peradventure their supplication will come before the Lord, and they will turn from their evil way: for great is the wrath and the anger of the Lord, which he has pronounced against this people. ⁸And Baruch did according to all that Jeremiah commanded him—reading in the book the words of the Lord in the Lord's house. ⁹And it came to pass in the eighth year of king Joakim, in the ninth month, all the people in Jerusalem, and the house of Juda, proclaimed a fast before the Lord. ¹⁰And Baruch read in the book the words of Jeremiah in the house of the Lord, in the house of Gamarias son of Saphan the scribe, in the upper court, in the entrance of the new gate of the house of the Lord, and in the ears of all the people. ¹¹And Michaeas the son of Gamarias the son of Saphan heard all the words of the Lord, out of the book. ¹²And he went down to the king's house, into the house of the scribe: and, behold, there were sitting there all the princes, Elisama the scribe, and Dalaeas the son of Selemias, and Jonathan the son of Acchobor, and Gamarias the son of Saphan, and Sedekias the son of Ananias, and all the princes. ¹³And Michaeas reported to them all the words which he had heard Baruch reading in the ears of the people. ¹⁴And all the princes sent to Baruch son of Nerias Judin the son of Nathanias, the son of Selemias, the son of Chusi, saying, Take in thine hand the roll in which thou reatest in the ears of the people, and come. So Baruch took the roll, and went down to them. ¹⁵And they said to him, Read it again in our ears. And Baruch read it. ¹⁶And it came to pass, when they had heard all the words, that they took counsel each with his neighbour, and said, Let us by all means tell the king all these words. ¹⁷And they asked Baruch, saying, Where didst thou write all these words? ¹⁸And Baruch said, Jeremiah told me from his own mouth all these words, and I wrote them in a book. ¹⁹And they said to Baruch, Go, and hide, thou and Jeremiah; let no man know where ye are. ²⁰And they went in to the king into the court, and gave the roll to one to keep in the house of Elisama; and they told the king all these words. ²¹And the king sent Judin to fetch the roll: and he took it out of the house of Elisama: and Judin read in the ears of the king, and in the ears of all the princes who stood round the king. ²²Now the king was sitting in the winter house: and there was a fire on the hearth before him. ²³And it came to pass when Judin had read three or four leaves, he cut them off with a penknife, and cast them into the fire that was on the hearth, until the whole roll was consumed in the fire that was on the hearth. ²⁴And the king and his servants that heard all these words sought not the Lord, and rent not their garments. ²⁵But Elnathan and Godolias suggested to the king that he should burn the roll. ²⁶And the king commanded Jeremeel the king's son, and Saraeas the son of Esriel, to take Baruch and Jeremiah: but they were hidden.

²⁷Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, after the king had burnt the roll, even all the words which Baruch wrote from the mouth of Jeremiah, saying, ²⁸Again take thou another roll, and write all the words that were on the roll, which king Joakim has burnt. ²⁹And thou shalt say, Thus says the Lord; Thou hast burnt this roll, saying, Why hast thou written therein, saying, The king of Babylon shall certainly come in, and destroy this land, and man and cattle shall fail from off it?

³⁰Therefore thus says the Lord concerning Joakim king of Juda; He shall not have a man to sit on the throne of David: and his carcass shall be cast forth in the heat by day, and in the frost by night. ³¹And I will visit him, and his family, and his servants: and I will bring upon him, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and upon the land of Juda, all the evils which I spoke of to them; and they hearkened not. ³²And Baruch took another roll, and wrote upon it from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the book which Joakim had burnt: and there were yet more words added to it like the former.

Chapter 44

¹And Sedekias the son of Josias reigned instead of Joakim, whom Nabuchodonosor appointed to reign over Juda. ²And he and his servants and the people of the land hearkened not to the words of the Lord, which he spoke by Jeremiah. ³And king Sedekias sent Joachal son of Selemias and Sophonias the priest son of Maasaeas to Jeremiah, saying, Pray now for us to the Lord. ⁴Now Jeremiah came and went through the midst of the city: for they had not put him into the house of the prison. ⁵And the host of Pharaoh was come forth out of Egypt; and the Chaldeans heard the report of them, and they went up from Jerusalem. ⁶And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, saying, ⁷Thus said the Lord; Thus shalt thou say to the king of Juda who sent to thee, to seek me; Behold, the army of Pharaoh which is come forth to help you: they shall return to the land of Egypt: ⁸and the Chaldeans themselves shall turn again, and fight against this city, and take it, and burn it with fire. ⁹For thus says he Lord; Suppose not in your hearts, saying, The Chaldeans will certainly depart from us: for they shall not depart. ¹⁰And though ye should smite the whole host of the Chaldeans that fight against you, and there should be left a few wounded men, these should rise up each in his place, and burn this city with fire.

¹¹And it came to pass, when the host of the Chaldeans had gone up from Jerusalem for fear of the host of Pharaoh, ¹²that Jeremiah went forth from Jerusalem to go into the land of Benjamin, to buy thence a property in the midst of the people. ¹³And he was in the gate of Benjamin, and there was there a man with whom he lodged, Saruia the son of Selemias, the son of Ananias; and he caught Jeremiah, saying, Thou art fleeing to the Chaldeans. ¹⁴And he said, It is false; I do not flee to the Chaldeans. But he hearkened not to him; and Saruia caught Jeremiah, and brought him to the princes. ¹⁵And the princes were very angry with Jeremiah, and smote him, and sent him into the house of Jonathan the scribe: for they had made this a prison. ¹⁶So Jeremiah came into the dungeon, and into the cells, and he remained there many days. ¹⁷Then Sedekias sent, and called him; and the king asked him secretly, saying, Is there a word from the Lord? and he said, There is: thou shalt be delivered into the hands of the king of Babylon. ¹⁸And Jeremiah said to the king, Wherein have I wronged thee, or thy servants, or this people, that thou puttest me in prison? ¹⁹And where are your prophets who prophesied to you saying, The king of Babylon shall not come against this land? ²⁰Now therefore, my lord the king, let my supplication come before thy face: and why dost thou send me back to the house of Jonathan the scribe? and let me not on any account die there. ²¹Then the king commanded, and they cast him into the prison, and gave him a loaf a day out of the place where they bake, until the bread failed out of the city. So Jeremiah continued in the court of the prison.

Chapter 45

¹And Saphanias the son of Nathan, and Godolias the son of Paschor, and Joachal the son of Semelias, heard the words which Jeremiah spoke to the people, saying, ²Thus says the Lord; He that remains in this city shall die by the sword, and by the famine: but he that goes out to the Chaldeans shall live; and his soul shall be given him for a found treasure, and he shall live. ³For thus says the Lord; This city shall certainly be delivered into the hands of the host of the king of Babylon, and they shall take it. ⁴And they said to the king. Let that man, we pray thee, be slain, for he weakens the hands of the fighting men that are left in the city, and the hands of all the people, speaking to them according to these words: for this man does not prophesy peace to this people, but evil. ⁵Then the king said, Behold, he is in your hands. For the king could not resist them. ⁶And they cast him into the dungeon of Melchias the king's son, which was in the court of the prison; and they let him down into the pit: and there was no water in the pit, but mire: and he was in the mire.

⁷And Abdemelech the Ethiopian heard, (now he was in the king's household,) that they had put Jeremiah into the dungeon; and the king was in the gate of Benjamin: ⁸and he went forth to him, and spoke to the king and said, ⁹Thou hast done evil in what thou hast done to slay this man with hunger: for there is no more bread in the city.

¹⁰And the king commanded Abdemelech, saying, Take with thee hence thirty men, and bring him up out of the dungeon, that he die not. ¹¹So Abdemelech took the men and went into the underground part of the king's house, and took thence old rags and old ropes, and threw them to Jeremiah into the dungeon. ¹²And he said, Put these under the ropes. And Jeremiah did so. ¹³And they drew him with the ropes, and lifted him out of the dungeon: and Jeremiah remained in the court of the prison. ¹⁴Then the king sent, and called him to himself into the house of Aselisel, which was in the house of the Lord: and the King said to him, I will ask thee a question, and I pray thee hide nothing from me.

¹⁵And Jeremiah said to the king, If I tell thee, wilt thou not certainly put me to death? and if I give thee counsel, thou wilt not at all hearken to me.

¹⁶And the king swore to him, saying, As the Lord lives who gave us this soul, I will not slay thee, neither will I give thee into the hands of these men.

¹⁷And Jeremiah said to him, Thus says the Lord; If thou wilt indeed go forth to the captains of the king of Babylon, thy soul shall live, and this city shall certainly not be burnt with fire; and thou shalt live, and thy house. ¹⁸But if thou wilt not go forth this city shall be delivered into the hands of the Chaldeans, and they shall burn it with fire, and thou shalt by no means escape. ¹⁹And the king said to Jeremiah, I consider the Jews that have gone over to the Chaldeans, lest they deliver me into their hands, and they mock me. ²⁰And Jeremiah said, They shall in no wise deliver thee up. Hear the word of the Lord which I speak to thee; and it shall be better for thee, and thy soul shall live. ²¹But if thou wilt not go forth, this is the word which the Lord has shewn me. ²²And, behold, all the women that are left in the house of the king of Juda were brought forth to the princes of the king of Babylon; and they said, The men who were at peace with thee have deceived thee, and will prevail against thee; and they shall cause thy foot to slide and fail, they have turned back from thee. ²³And they shall bring forth thy wives and thy children to the Chaldeans: and thou shalt by no means escape, for thou shalt be taken by the hand of the king of Babylon, and this city shall be burnt. ²⁴Then the king said to him, Let no man know any of these words, and certainly thou shalt not die. ²⁵And if the princes shall hear that I have spoken to thee, and they come to thee, and say to thee, Tell us, what said the king to thee? hide it not from us, and we will in no wise slay thee, and what said the king to thee? ²⁶Then thou shalt say to them, I brought my supplication before the presence of the king, that he would not send me back into the house of Jonathan, that I should die there. ²⁷And all the princes came to Jeremiah, and asked him: and he told them according to all these words, which the king had commanded him. And they were silent, because the word of the Lord was not heard. ²⁸And Jeremiah remained in the court of the prison, until the time when Jerusalem was taken.

Chapter 46

¹And it came to pass in the ninth month of Sedekias king of Juda, that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon came, and all his host, against Jerusalem, and they besieged it. ²And in the eleventh year of Sedekias, in the fourth month, on the ninth day of the month, the city was broken up. ³And all the leaders of the king of Babylon went in, and sat in the middle gate, Marganasar, and Samagoth, and Nabusachar, and Nabusaris, Nagargas, Naserrabamath, and the rest of the leaders of the king of Babylon, ⁴and they sent, and took Jeremiah out of the court of the prison, and gave him in charge to Godolias the son of Achicam, the son of Saphan: and they brought him out, and he sat in the midst of the people. ¹⁵And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah in the court of the prison, saying, ¹⁶Go and say to Abdemelech the Ethiopian, Thus said the Lord God of Israel; Behold, I will bring my words upon this city for evil, and not for good. ¹⁷But I will save thee in that day, and I will by no means deliver thee into the hands of the men before whom thou art afraid. ¹⁸For I will surely save thee, and thou shalt by no means fall by the sword; and thou shalt find thy life, because thou didst trust in me, says the Lord.

¹The word that came from the Lord to Jeremiah, after that Nabuzardan the captain of the guard had let him go out of Rama, when he had taken him in manacles in the midst of the captivity of Juda, even those who were carried to Babylon. ²And the chief captain of the guard took him, and said to him, The Lord thy God has pronounced all these evils upon this place: ³and the Lord has done it; because ye sinned against him, and hearkened not to his voice. ⁴Behold, I have loosed thee from the manacles that were upon thine hands. If it seem good to thee to go with me to Babylon, then will I set mine eyes upon thee. ⁵But if not, depart; return to Godolias the son of Achicam, the son of Saphan, whom the king of Babylon has appointed governor in the land of Juda, and dwell with him in the midst of the people in the land of Juda: to whatsoever places it seems good in thine eyes to go, do thou even go. And the captain of the guard made him presents, and let him go. ⁶And he came to Godolias to Massepha, and dwelt in the midst of his people that was left in the land.

⁷And all the leaders of the host that was in the country, they and their men, heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Godolias governor in the land, and they committed to him the men and their wives, whom Nabuchodonosor had not removed to Babylon. ⁸And there came to Godolias to Massepha Ismael the son of Nathanias, and Joanan son of Caree, and Saraeas the son of Thanaemeth, and the sons of Jophe the Netophathite, and Ezonias son of the Mochathite, they and their men. ⁹And Godolias swore to them and to their men, saying, Be not afraid before the children of the Chaldeans: dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be better for you. ¹⁰And, behold, I dwell in your presence at Massepha, to stand before the Chaldeans who shall come against you: and do ye gather grapes, and fruits, and oil, and put them into your vessels, and dwell in the cities which ye have obtained possession of. ¹¹And all the Jews that were in Moab, and among the children of Ammon, and those that were in Idumea, and those that were in all the rest of the country, heard that the king of Babylon had granted a remnant to Juda, and that he had appointed over them Godolias the son of Achicam. ¹²And they came to Godolias into the land of Juda, to Massepha, and gathered grapes, and very much summer fruit, and oil.

¹³And Joanan the son of Caree, and all the leaders of the host, who were in the fields, came to Godolias to Massepha, ¹⁴and said to him, Dost thou indeed know that king Beleissa son of Ammon has sent Ismael to thee to slay thee? But Godolias believed them not.

¹⁵And Joanan said to Godolias secretly in Massepha, I will go now and smite Ismael, and let no man know it; lest he slay thee, and all the Jews that are gathered to thee be dispersed, and the remnant of Juda perish. ¹⁶But Godolias said to Joanan, Do not the thing, for thou speakest lies concerning Ismael.

Chapter 48

¹Now it came to pass in the seventh month that Ismael the son of Nathanias the son of Eleasa of the seed royal, came, and ten men with him, to Godolias to Massepha: and they ate bread there together. ²And Ismael rose up, and the ten men that were with him, and smote Godolias, whom the king of Babylon had appointed governor over the land, ³and all the Jews that were with him in Massepha, and all the Chaldeans that were found there. ⁴And it came to pass on the second day after he had smitten Godolias, and no man knew of it, ⁵that there came men from Sychem, and from Salem, and from Samaria, even eighty men, having their beards shaven, and their clothes rent, and beating their breasts, and they had manna and frankincense in their hands, to bring them into the house of the Lord. ⁶And Ismael went out to meet them; and they went on and wept: and he said to them, Come in to Godolias. ⁷And it came to pass, when they had entered into the midst of the city, that he slew them and cast them into a pit. ⁸But ten men were found there, and they said to Ismael, Slay us not: for we have treasures in the field, wheat and barley, honey and oil. So he passed by, and slew them not in the midst of their brethren. ⁹Now the pit into which Ismael cast all whom he smote, is the great pit, which king Asa had made for fear of Baasa king of Israel: even this Ismael filled with slain men. ¹⁰And Ismael brought back all the people that were left in Massepha, and the king's daughter, whom the captain of the guard had committed in charge to Godolias the son of Achicam: and he went away beyond the children of Ammon. ¹¹And Joanan the son of Caree, and all the leaders of the host that were with him, heard of all the evil deeds which Ismael had done. ¹²And they brought all their army, and went to fight against him, and found him near much water in Gabaon. ¹³And it came to pass, when all the people that was with Ismael saw Joanan, and the leaders of the host that was with him, ¹⁴that they returned to Joanan. ¹⁵But Ismael escaped with eight men and went to the children of Ammon. ¹⁶And Joanan, and all the leaders of the host that were with him, took all the remnant of the people, whom he had brought back from Ismael, mighty men in war, and the women, and the other property, and the eunuchs, whom they had brought back from Gabaon: ¹⁷and they departed, and dwelt in Gaberoch-amaa, that is by Bethleem, to go into Egypt, for fear of the Chaldeans: ¹⁸for they were afraid of them, because Ismael had smitten Godolias, whom the king of Babylon made governor in the land.

¹Then came all the leaders of the host, and Joanan, and Azarias the son of Maasaeas, and all the people great and small, ²to Jeremiah the prophet, and said to him, Let now our supplication come before thy face, and pray thou to the Lord thy God for this remnant; for we are left few out of many, as thine eyes see. ³And let the Lord thy God declare to us the way wherein we should walk, and the thing which we should do. ⁴And Jeremiah said to them, I have heard you; behold, I will pray for you to the Lord our God, according to your words; and it shall come to pass, that whatsoever word the Lord God shall answer, I will declare it to you; I will not hide anything from you. ⁵And they said to Jeremiah, Let the Lord be between us for a just and faithful witness, if we do not according to every word which the Lord shall send to us. ⁶And whether it be good, or whether it be evil, we will hearken to the voice of the Lord our God, to whom we send thee; that it may be well with us, because we shall hearken to the voice of the Lord our God. ⁷And it came to pass after ten days, that the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah. ⁸And he called Joanan, and the Leaders of the host, and all the people from the least even to the greatest, ⁹and he said to them, Thus says the Lord; ¹⁰If ye will indeed dwell in this land, I will build you, and will not pull you down, but will plant you, and in no wise pluck you up: for I have ceased from the calamities which I brought upon you. ¹¹Be not afraid of the king of Babylon, of whom ye are afraid; be not afraid of him, says the Lord: for I am with you, to deliver you, and save you out of their hand. ¹²And I will grant you mercy, and pity you, and will restore you to your land. ¹³But if ye say, We will not dwell in this land, that we may not hearken to the voice of the Lord; ¹⁴for we will go into the land of Egypt, and we shall see no war, and shall not hear the sound of a trumpet, and we shall not hunger for bread; and there we will dwell: ¹⁵then hear the word of the Lord; thus says the Lord; ¹⁶If ye set your face toward Egypt, and go in there to dwell; then it shall be, that the sword which ye fear shall find you in the land of Egypt, and the famine to which ye have regard, shall overtake you, coming after you in Egypt; and there ye shall die. ¹⁷And all the men, and all the strangers who have set their face toward the land of Egypt to dwell there, shall be consumed by the sword, and by the famine: and there shall not one of them escape from the evils which I bring upon them.

¹⁸For thus says the Lord; As my wrath has dropped upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so shall my wrath drop upon you, when ye have entered into Egypt: and ye shall be a desolation, and under the power of others, and a curse and a reproach: and ye shall no more see this place. ¹⁹*These are the words* which the Lord has spoken concerning you the remnant of Juda; Enter ye not into Egypt: and now know ye for a certainty, ²⁰that ye have wrought wickedness in your hearts, when ye sent me, saying, Pray thou for us to the Lord; and according to all that the Lord shall speak to thee we will do. ²¹And ye have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord, with which he sent me to you. ²²Now therefore ye shall perish by sword and by famine, in the place which ye desire to go into to dwell there.

¹And it came to pass, when Jeremiah ceased speaking to the people all the words of the Lord, for which the Lord had sent him to them, even all these words, ²that Azarias son of Maasaeas spoke, and Joanan, the son of Caree, and all the men who had spoken to Jeremiah, saying, It is false: the Lord has not sent thee to us, saying, Enter not into Egypt to dwell there: ³but Baruch the son of Nerias sets thee against us, that thou mayest deliver us into the hands of the Chaldeans, to kill us, and that we should be carried away captives to Babylon. ⁴So Joanan, and all the leaders of the host, and all the people, refused to hearken to the voice of the Lord, to dwell in the land of Juda.

⁵And Joanan, and all the leaders of the host, took all the remnant of Juda, who had returned to dwell in the land; ⁶the mighty men, and the women, and the children that were left, and the daughters of the king, and the souls which Nabuzardan and left with Godolias the son of Achicam and Jeremiah the prophet, and Baruch the son of Nerias. ⁷And they came into Egypt: for they hearkened not to the voice of the Lord: and they entered into Taphnas.

⁸And the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah in Taphnas, saying, ⁹Take thee great stones, and hide them in the entrance, at the gate of the house of Pharaon in Taphnas, in the sight of the men of Juda: ¹⁰and thou shalt say, Thus has the Lord said; Behold, I will send, and will bring Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and he shall place his throne upon these stones which thou hast hidden, and he shall lift up weapons against them. ¹¹And he shall enter in, and smite the land of Egypt, delivering some for death to death; and some for captivity to captivity; and some for the sword to the sword. ¹²And he shall kindle a fire in the houses of their gods, and shall burn them, and shall carry them away captives: and shall search the land of Egypt, as a shepherd searches his garment; and he shall go forth in peace. ¹³And he shall break to pieces the pillars of Heliopolis that are in On, and shall burn their houses with fire.

Chapter 51

¹THE WORD THAT CAME TO JEREMIAS for all the Jews dwelling in the land of Egypt, and for those settled in Magdolo and in Taphnas, and in the land of Pathura, saying, ²Thus has the Lord God of Israel said; Ye have seen all the evils which I have brought upon Jerusalem, and upon the cities of Juda; and, behold, they are desolate without inhabitants, ³because of their wickedness, which they have wrought to provoke me, by going to burn incense to other gods, whom ye knew not. ⁴yet I sent to you my servants the prophets early in the morning, and I sent, saying, Do not ye this abominable thing which I hate. ⁵But they hearkened not to me, and inclined not their ear to turn from their wickedness, so as not to burn incense to strange gods. ⁶So mine anger and my wrath dropped upon them, and was kindled in the gates of Juda, and in the streets of Jerusalem; and they became a desolation and a waste, as at this day. ⁷And now thus has the Lord Almighty said, Wherefore do ye commit these great evils against your souls? to cut off man and woman of you, infant and suckling from the midst of Juda, to the end that not one of you should be left; ⁸by provoking me with the works of your hands, to burn incense to other gods in the land of Egypt, into which ye entered to dwell there, that ye might be cut off, and that ye might become a curse and a reproach among all the nations of the earth? ⁹Have ye forgotten the sins of your fathers, and the sins of the kings of Juda, and the sins of your princes, and the sins of your wives, which they wrought in the land of Juda, and in the streets of Jerusalem? ¹⁰And have not ceased even to this day, and they have not kept to my ordinances, which I set before their fathers. ¹¹Therefore thus says the Lord; Behold I do set my face against you ¹²to destroy all the remnant that are in Egypt; and they shall fall by the sword, and by famine, and shall be consumed small and great: and they shall be for reproach, and for destruction, and for a curse. ¹³And I will visit them that dwell in the land of Egypt, as I have visited Jerusalem, with sword and with famine: ¹⁴and there shall not one be preserved of the remnant of Juda that sojourn in the land of Egypt, to return to the land of Juda, to which they hope in their hearts to return: they shall not return, but only they that escape. ¹⁵Then all the men that knew that their wives burned incense, and all the women, a great multitude, and all the people that dwelt in the land of Egypt, in Pathura, answered Jeremiah, saying, ¹⁶*As for* the word which thou hast spoken to us in the name of the Lord, we will not hearken to thee. ¹⁷For we will surely perform every word that shall proceed out of our mouth, to burn incense to the queen of heaven, and to pour drink-offerings to her, as we and our fathers have done, and our kings and princes, in the cities of Juda, and in the streets of Jerusalem: and so we were filled with bread, and were well, and saw no evils. ¹⁸But since we left off to burn incense to the queen of heaven, we have all been brought low, and have been consumed by sword and by famine. ¹⁹And whereas we burned incense to the queen of heaven, and poured drink-offerings to her, did we make cakes to her, and pour drink-offerings to her, without our husbands? ²⁰Then Jeremiah answered all the people, the mighty men, and the women, and all the people that returned him these words for answer, saying, ²¹Did not the Lord remember the incense which ye burned in the cities of Juda, and in the streets of Jerusalem, ye, and your fathers, and your kings, and your princes, and the people of the land? and came it not into his heart? ²²And the Lord could no longer bear you, because of the wickedness of your doings, and because of your abominations which ye wrought; and so your land became a desolation and a waste, and a curse, as at this day; ²³because of your burning incense, and because of the things wherein ye sinned against the Lord: and ye have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord, and have not walked in his ordinances, and in his law, and in his testimonies; and so these evils have come upon you.

²⁴And Jeremiah said to the people, and to the women, Hear ye the word of the Lord. ²⁵Thus has the Lord God of Israel said; Ye women have spoken with your mouth, and ye fulfilled it with your hands, saying, We will surely perform our vows that we have vowed, to burn incense to the queen of heaven, and to pour drink-offerings to her: full well did ye keep to your vows, and ye have indeed performed them. ²⁶Therefore hear ye the word of the Lord, all Jews dwelling in the land of Egypt; Behold, I have sworn by my great name, says the Lord, my name shall no longer be in the mouth of every Jew to say, The Lord lives, in all the land of Egypt. ²⁷For I have watched over them, to hurt them, and not to do them good: and all the Jews dwelling in the land of Egypt shall perish by sword and by famine, until they are utterly consumed. ²⁸And they that escape the sword shall return to the land of Juda few in number, and the remnant of Juda, who have continued in the land of Egypt to dwell there, shall know whose word shall stand. ²⁹And this shall be a sign to you, that I will visit you for evil. ³⁰Thus said the Lord; Behold, I will give Uaphres king of Egypt into the hands of his enemy, and into the hands of one that seeks his life; as I gave Sedekias king of Juda into the hands of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, his enemy, and who sought his life.

¹THE WORD WHICH JEREMIAS THE PROPHET spoke to Baruch son of Nerias, when he wrote these words in the book from the mouth of Jeremiah, in the fourth year of Joakim the son of Josias king of Juda. ²Thus has the Lord said to thee, O Baruch. ³Whereas thou hast said, Alas! alas! for the Lord has laid a grievous trouble upon me; I lay down in groaning, I found no rest; ⁴say thou to him, Thus says the Lord; Behold, I pull down those whom I have built up, and I pluck up those whom I have planted. ⁵And wilt thou seek great things for thyself? seek them not: for, behold, I bring evil upon all flesh, says the Lord: but I will give to thee thy life for a spoil in every place whither thou shalt go.

Chapter 52

¹It was the twenty-first year of Sedekias, when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Amitaal, the daughter of Jeremiah, of Lobena. ⁴And it came to pass in the ninth year of his reign, in the ninth month, on the tenth day of the month, that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon came, and all his host, against Jerusalem, and they made a rampart round it, and built a wall round about it with large stones. ⁵So the city was besieged, until the eleventh year of king Sedekias, ⁶on the ninth day of the month, and then the famine was severe in the city, and there was no bread for the people of the land. ⁷And the city was broken up, and all the men of war went out by night by the way of the gate, between the wall and the outworks, which were by the king's garden; and the Chaldeans were by the city round about; and they went by the way leading to the wilderness.⁸ But the host of the Chaldeans pursued after the king, and overtook him in the country beyond Jericho; and all his servants were dispersed from about him.⁹ And they took the king, and brought him to the king of Babylon to Deblatha, and he judged him.¹⁰ And the king of Babylon slew the sons of Sedekias before his eyes; and he slew all the princes of Juda in Deblatha.¹¹ And he put out the eyes of Sedekias, and bound him in fetters; and the king of Babylon brought him to Babylon, and put him into the grinding-house, until the day when he died.

¹²And in the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month, Nabuzardan the captain of the guard, who waited on the king of Babylon, came to Jerusalem;¹³ and he burnt the house of the Lord, and the king's house; and all the houses of the city, and every great house he burnt with fire.¹⁴ And the host of the Chaldeans that was with the captain of the guard pulled down all the wall of Jerusalem round about.

¹⁶But the captain of the guard left the remnant of the people to be vinedressers and husbandmen.¹⁷ And the Chaldeans broke in pieces the brazen pillars that were in the house of the Lord, and the bases, and the brazen sea that was in the house of the Lord, and they took the brass thereof, and carried it away to Babylon.¹⁸ Also the rim, and the bowls, and the flesh-hooks, and all the brazen vessels, wherewith they ministered;¹⁹ and the basons, and the snuffers, and the oil-funnels, and the candlesticks, and the censers, and the cups, the golden, of gold, and the silver, of silver, the captain of the guard took away.²⁰ And the two pillars, and the one sea, and the twelve brazen oxen under the sea, which things king Solomon made for the house of the Lord; the brass of which articles was without weight.²¹ And as for the pillars, the height of one pillar was thirty-five cubits; and a line of twelve cubits compassed it round; and the thickness of it all round was four fingers.²² And there was a brazen chapter upon them, and the length was five cubits, even the height of one Chapter; and there were on the chapter round about network and pomegranates, all of brass: and correspondingly the second pillar had eight pomegranates to a cubit for the twelve cubits.²³ And the pomegranates were ninety-six on a side; and all the pomegranates on the network round about were a hundred.²⁴ And the captain of the guard took the chief priest, and the second priest, and those that kept the way;²⁵ and one eunuch, who was over the men of war, and seven men of renown, who were in the king's presence that were found in the city; and the scribe of the forces, who did the part of a scribe to the people of the land; and sixty men of the people of the land, who were found in the midst of the city. ²⁶And Nabuzardan the captain of the king's guard took them, and brought them to the king of Babylon to Deblatha. ²⁷And the king of Babylon smote them in Deblatha, in the land of Æmath. ³¹And it came to pass in the thirty-seventh year after that Joakim king of Juda had been carried away captive, in the twelfth month, on the four and twentieth day of the month, that Ulaemadachar king of Babylon, in the year in which he began to reign, raised the head of Joakim king of Juda, and shaved him, and brought him out of the house where he was kept, ³²and spoke kindly to him, and set his throne above the kings that were with him in Babylon, ³³and changed his prison garments: and he ate bread continually before him all the days that he lived. ³⁴And his appointed portion was given him continually by the king of Babylon from day to day, until the day when he died.

(Jeremiah)

Chapter 1

*[AND it came to pass, after Israel was taken captive, and Jerusalem made desolate, that Jeremias sat weeping, and lamented with this lamentation over Jerusalem, and said,] ¹ALEPH. How does the city that was filled with people sit solitary! she is become as a widow: she that was magnified among the nations, and princess among the provinces, has become tributary.

²BETH. She weeps sore in the night, and her tears are on her cheeks; and there is none of all her lovers to comfort her: all that were her friends have dealt deceitfully with her, they are become her enemies.

³GIMEL. Judea is gone into captivity by reason of her affliction, and by reason of the abundance of her servitude: she dwells among the nations, she has not found rest: all her pursuers have overtaken her between her oppressors.

⁴DALETH. The ways of Sion mourn, because there are none that come to the feast: all her gates are ruined: her priests groan, her virgins are led captive, and she is in bitterness in herself.

⁵HE. Her oppressors are become the head, and her enemies have prospered; for the Lord has afflicted her because of the multitude of her sins: her young children are gone into captivity before the face of the oppressor.

⁶VAU. And all her beauty has been taken away from the daughter of Sion: her princes were as rams finding no pasture, and are gone away in weakness before the face of the pursuer.

⁷ZAIN. Jerusalem remembered the days of her affliction, and her rejection; she thought on all her desirable things which were from the days of old, when her people fell into the hands of the oppressor, and there was none to help her: when her enemies saw it they laughed at her habitation.

⁸HETH. Jerusalem has sinned a great sin; therefore has she come into tribulation, all that used to honour her have afflicted her, for they have seen her shame: yea, she herself groaned, and turned backward.

⁹TETH. Her uncleanness is before her feet; she remembered not her last end; she has lowered her boasting tone, there is none to comfort her. Behold, O Lord, my affliction: for the enemy has magnified himself.

¹⁰JOD. The oppressor has stretched out his hand on all her desirable things: for she has seen the Gentiles entering into her sanctuary, concerning whom thou didst command that they should not enter into thy congregation.

* Words in brackets not in Heb.

Lamentations

¹¹CHAPH. All her people groan, seeking bread: they have given their desirable things for meat, to restore their soul: behold, Lord, and look; for she is become dishonoured.

¹²LAMED. All ye that pass by the way, turn, and see if there is sorrow like to my sorrow, which has happened to me. The Lord who spoke by me has afflicted me in the day of his fierce anger.

¹³MEM. He has sent fire from his lofty habitation, he has brought it into my bones: he has spread a net for my feet, he has turned me back: he has made me desolate and mourning all the day.

¹⁴NUN. He has watched over my sins, they are twined about my hands, they have come up on my neck: my strength has failed; for the Lord has laid pains on my hands, I shall not be able to stand.

¹⁵SAMECH. The Lord has cut off all my strong men from the midst of me: he has summoned against me a time for crushing my choice men: the Lord has trodden a wine-press for the virgin daughter of Juda: for these things I weep.

¹⁶AIN. Mine eye has poured out water, because he that should comfort me, that should restore my soul, has been removed far from me: my sons have been destroyed, because the enemy has prevailed.

¹⁷PHE. Sion has spread out her hand, and there is none to comfort her: the Lord has commanded concerning Jacob, his oppressors are round about him: Jerusalem has become among them as a removed woman.

¹⁸TSADE. The Lord is righteous; for I have provoked his mouth: hear, I pray you, all people, and behold my grief: my virgins and my young men are gone into captivity.

¹⁹KOPH. I called my lovers, but they deceived me: my priests and my elders failed in the city; for they sought meat that they might restore their souls, and found it not.

²⁰RHECHS. Behold, O Lord; for I am afflicted: my belly is troubled, and my heart is turned within me; for I have been grievously rebellious: abroad the sword has bereaved me, even as death at home.

²¹CHSEN. Hear, I pray you, for I groan: there is none to comfort me: all mine enemies have heard of mine afflictions, and rejoice because thou hast done it: thou hast brought on the day, thou hast called the time: they are become like to me.

²²THAU. Let all their wickedness come before thy face; and strip them, as they have made a gleaning for all my sins: for my groans are many, and my heart is grieved.

Chapter 2

¹ALEPH. How has the Lord darkened in his wrath the daughter of Sion! he has cast down the glory of

Lamentations

Israel from heaven to earth, and has not remembered his footstool.

²BETH. In the day of his wrath the Lord has overwhelmed her as in the sea, and not spared: he has brought down in his fury all the beautiful things of Jacob; he has brought down to the ground the strong-holds of the daughter of Juda; he has profaned her kings and her princes.

³GIMEL. He has broken in his fierce anger all the horn of Israel: he has turned back his right hand from the face of the enemy, and has kindled a flame in Jacob as a fire, and it has devoured all things round about.

⁴DALETH. He has bent his bow as an opposing enemy: he has strengthened his right hand as an adversary, and has destroyed all the desirable things of my eyes in the tabernacle of the daughter of Sion: he has poured forth his anger as fire.

⁵HE. The Lord is become as an enemy: he has overwhelmed Israel as in the sea, he has overwhelmed her palaces: he has destroyed her strong-holds, and has multiplied the afflicted and humbled ones to the daughter of Juda.

⁶VAU. And he has scattered his tabernacle as a vine, he has marred his feast: the Lord has forgotten the feast and the sabbath which he appointed in Sion, and in the fury of his wrath has vexed the king, and priest, and prince.

⁷ZAIN. The Lord has rejected his altar, he has cast off his sanctuary, he has broken by the hand of the enemy the wall of her palaces; they have uttered their voice in the house of the Lord as on a feast day.

⁸HETH. And he has turned to destroy the wall of the daughter of Sion: he has stretched out the measuring line, he has not turned back his hand from afflicting her: therefore the bulwark mourned, and the wall was weakened with it.

⁹TETH. Her gates are sunk into the ground: he has destroyed and broken to pieces her bars, and her king and her prince among the Gentiles: there is no law, nay, her prophets have seen no vision from the Lord.

¹⁰JOD. The elders of the daughter of Sion have sat upon the ground, they have kept silence: they have cast up dust upon their heads; they have girded themselves with sackcloths: they have brought down to the ground the chief virgins in Jerusalem.

¹¹CHAPH. Mine eyes have failed with tears, my heart is troubled, my glory is cast down to the ground, for the destruction of the daughter of my people; while the infant and suckling swoon in the streets of the city.

¹²LAMED. They said to their mothers, Where is corn and wine? while they fainted like wounded men in the streets of the city, while their souls were poured out into their mother's bosom.

¹³MEM. What shall I testify to thee, or what shall I compare to thee, O daughter of Jerusalem? who shall save and comfort thee, O virgin daughter of Sion? for the cup of thy destruction is enlarged: who shall heal thee?

Lamentations

¹⁴NUN. Thy prophets have seen for thee vanities and folly: and they have not discovered thine iniquity, to turn back thy captivity; but they have seen for thee vain burdens, and worthless visions.

¹⁵SAMECH. All that go by the way have clapped their hands at thee; they have hissed and shaken their head at the daughter of Jerusalem. Is this the city, they say, the crown of joy of all the earth?

¹⁶AIN. All thine enemies have opened their mouth against thee: they have hissed and gnashed their teeth, and said, We have swallowed her up: moreover this is the day which we looked for; we have found it, we have seen it.

¹⁷PHE. The Lord has done that which he purposed; he has accomplished his word, even the things which he commanded from the ancient days: he has thrown down, and has not spared: and he has caused the enemy to rejoice over thee, he has exalted the horn of him that afflicted thee.

¹⁸TSADE. Their heart cried to the Lord, Ye walls of Sion, pour down tears like torrents day and night: give thyself no rest; let not the apple of thine eyes cease.

¹⁹KOPH. Arise, rejoice in the night at the beginning of thy watch: pour out thy heart as water before the face of the Lord lift up thy hands to him for the life of thine infants, who faint for hunger at the top of all the streets.

²⁰RHECHS. Behold, O Lord, and see for whom thou has gathered thus. Shall the women eat the fruit of their womb? the cook has made a gathering: shall the infants sucking at the breasts be slain? wilt thou slay the priest and prophet in the sanctuary of the Lord?

²¹CHSEN. The child and old man have lain down in the street: my virgins and my young men are gone into captivity: thou hast slain them with the sword and with famine; in the day of thy wrath thou hast mangled them, thou has not spared.

²²THAU. He has called my sojourners round about to a solemn day, and there was not in the day of the wrath of the Lord any one that escaped or was left; whereas I have strengthened and multiplied all mine enemies.

Chapter 3

¹ALEPH. I am the man that sees poverty, through the rod of his wrath upon me. ²He has taken me, and led me away into darkness, and not into light. ³Nay, against me has he turned his hand all the day. ⁴He has made old my flesh and my skin; he has broken my bones.

⁵BETH. He has built against me, and compassed my head, and brought travail upon me. ⁶He has set me in dark places, as them that have long been dead. ⁷He has builded against me, and I cannot come forth: he has made my brazen chain heavy.

Lamentations

⁸GIMEL. Yea, though I cry and shout, he shuts out my prayer.

⁹DALETH. He has built up my ways, he has hedged my paths; ¹⁰he has troubled me, as a she-bear lying in wait: he is to me as a lion in secret places. ¹¹He pursued me after I departed, and brought me to a stand: he has utterly ruined me.

¹²HE. He has bent his bow, and set me as a mark for the arrow. ¹³He has caused the arrows of his quiver to enter into my reins. ¹⁴I became a laughing-stock to all my people; and their song all the day.

¹⁵VAU. He has filled me with bitterness, he has drenched me with gall. ¹⁶And he has dashed out my teeth with gravel, he has fed me with ashes. ¹⁷He has also removed my soul from peace: I forgot prosperity. ¹⁸Therefore my success has perished, and my hope from the Lord.

¹⁹ZAIN. I remembered by reason of my poverty, and because of persecution my bitterness and gall shall be remembered; ²⁰and my soul shall meditate with me. ²¹This will I lay up in my heart, therefore I will endure.

²²HETH. It is the mercies of the Lord, that he has not failed me, because his compassions are not exhausted. Pity us, O Lord, early every month: for we are not brought to an end, because his compassions are not exhausted. ²³*They are* new every morning: great is thy faithfulness.

²⁴The Lord is my portion, says my soul; therefore will I wait for him.

²⁵TETH. The Lord is good to them that wait for him: the soul which shall seek him ²⁶*is* good, and shall wait for, and quietly expect salvation of the Lord.

²⁷TETH. It is good for a man when he bears a yoke in his youth. ²⁸He will sit alone, and be silent, because he has borne it upon him.

³⁰JOD. He will give his cheek to him that smites him: he will be filled full with reproaches. ³¹For the Lord will not reject for ever.

³²CHAPH. For he that has brought down will pity, and that according to the abundance of his mercy. ³³He has not answered in anger from his heart, though he has brought low the children of a man.

³⁴LAMED. To bring down under his feet all the prisoners of the earth, ³⁵to turn aside the judgment of a man before the face of the Most High, ³⁶to condemn a man unjustly in his judgment, the Lord has not given commandment. ³⁷Who has thus spoken, and it has come to pass? the Lord has not commanded it. ³⁸Out of the mouth of the Most High there shall not come forth evil and good.

³⁹MEM. Why should a living man complain, a man concerning his sin?

⁴⁰NUN. Our way has been searched out and examined, and we will turn to the Lord. ⁴¹Let us lift up our hearts with our hand to the lofty One in heaven. ⁴²We have sinned, we have transgressed; and thou hast not pardoned.

⁴³SAMECH. Thou has visited us in wrath, and driven us away: thou has slain, thou has not pitied. ⁴⁴Thou hast veiled thyself with a cloud because of prayer, that I might be blind, ⁴⁵and be cast off. AIN. Thou hast set us alone in the midst of the nations. ⁴⁶All our enemies have opened their mouth against us. ⁴⁷Fear and wrath are come upon us, suspense and destruction. ⁴⁸Mine eye shall pour down torrents of water, for the destruction of the daughter of my people.

⁴⁹PHE. Mine eye is drowned with tears, and I will not be silent, so that there shall be no rest, ⁵⁰until the Lord look down, and behold from heaven. ⁵¹Mine eye shall prey upon my soul, because of all the daughters of the city.

⁵²TSADE. The fowlers chased me as a sparrow, all mine enemies destroyed my life in a pit without cause, ⁵³and laid a stone upon me. ⁵⁴Water flowed over my head: I said, I am cut off.

⁵⁵KOPH. I called upon thy name, O Lord, out of the lowest dungeon. ⁵⁶Thou heardest my voice: close not thine ears to my supplication. ⁵⁷Thou drewest nigh to my help: in the day wherein I called upon thee thou saidst to me, Fear not.

⁵⁸RECHS. O Lord, thou has pleaded the causes of my soul; thou has redeemed my life. ⁵⁹Thou hast seen, O Lord, my troubles: thou hast judged my cause. ⁶⁰Thou hast seen all their vengeance, thou hast looked on all their devices against me.

⁶¹CHSEN. Thou hast heard their reproach and all their devices against me; ⁶²the lips of them that rose up against me, and their plots against me all the day; ⁶³their sitting down and their rising up: look thou upon their eyes. ⁶⁴Thou wilt render them a recompense, O Lord, according to the works of their hands.

⁶⁵THAU. Thou wilt give them as a covering, the grief of my heart. ⁶⁶Thou wilt persecute them in anger, and wilt consume them from under the heaven, O Lord.

Chapter 4

¹ALEPH. How will the gold be tarnished, and the fine silver changed! the sacred stones have been poured forth at the top of all the streets.

²BETH. The precious sons of Zion, who were equalled in value with gold, how are they counted as earthen vessels, the works of the hands of the potter!

³GIMEL. Nay, serpents have drawn out the breasts, they give suck to their young, the daughters of my people are incurably cruel, as an ostrich in a desert.

⁴DALETH. The tongue of the sucking child cleaves to the roof of its mouth for thirst: the little children ask for bread, and there is none to break it to them.

⁵HE. They that feed on dainties are desolate in the streets: they that used to be nursed in scarlet have clothed themselves with dung.

⁶VAU. And the iniquity of the daughter of my people has been increased beyond the iniquities of Sodoma, the city that was overthrown very suddenly, and none laboured against her with their hands.

⁷ZAIN. Her Nazarites were made purer than snow, they were whiter than milk, they were purified as with fire, their polishing was superior to sapphire stone.

⁸HETH. Their countenance is become blacker than smoke; they are not known in the streets: their skin has cleaved to their bones; they are withered, they are become as a stick.

⁹TETH. The slain with the sword were better than they that were slain with hunger: they have departed, pierced through from want of the fruits of the field.

¹⁰JOD. The hands of tender-hearted women have sodden their own children: they became meat for them in the destruction of the daughter of my people.

¹¹CHAPH. The Lord has accomplished his wrath; he has poured out fierce anger, and has kindled a fire in Sion, and it has devoured her foundations.

¹²LAMED. The kings of the earth, even all that dwell in the world, believed not that an enemy and oppressor would enter through the gates of Jerusalem.

¹³MEM. For the sins of her prophets, and iniquities of her priests, who shed righteous blood in the midst of her, ¹⁴NUN. her watchmen staggered in the streets, they were defiled with blood in their weakness, they touched their raiment with it.

¹⁵SAMECH. Depart ye from the unclean ones: call ye them: depart, depart, touch them not: for they are on fire, yea, they stagger: say ye among the nations, They shall no more sojourn there.

¹⁶AIN. The presence of the Lords was their portion; but he will not again look upon them: they regarded not the person of the priests, they pitied not the prophets.

¹⁷PHE. While we yet lived our eyes failed, while we looked in vain for our help. TSADE. We looked to a nation that could not save. ¹⁸We have hunted for our little ones, that they should not walk in our streets. KOPH. Our time has drawn nigh, our days are fulfilled, our time is come. ¹⁹Our pursuers were swifter than the eagles of the sky, they flew on the mountains, in the wilderness they laid wait for us.

²⁰RECHS. The breath of our nostrils, our anointed Lord, was taken in their destructive snares, of whom we said, In his shadow we shall live among the Gentiles.

²¹CHSEN. Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Idumea, that dwellest in the land: yet the cup of the Lord shall pass through to thee: thou shalt be drunken, and pour forth.

²²THAU. O daughter of Sion, thine iniquity has come to an end; he shall no more carry thee captive: he has visited thine iniquities, O daughter of Edom; he has discovered thy sins.

Chapter 5

¹Remember, O Lord, what has happened to us: behold, and look on our reproach. ²Our inheritance has been turned away to aliens, our houses to strangers: ³we are become orphans, we have no father, our mothers are as widows. ⁴We have drunk our water for money; our wood is sold to us for a burden on our neck: ⁵we have been persecuted, we have laboured, we have had no rest. ⁶Egypt gave the hand to us, Assur to their own satisfaction. ⁷Our fathers sinned, and are not: we have borne their iniquities. ⁸Servants have ruled over us: there is none to ransom us out of their hand. ⁹We shall bring in our bread with danger of our lives, because of the sword of the wilderness. ¹⁰Our skin is blackened like an oven; they are convulsed, because of the storms of famine.

¹¹They humbled the women in Sion, the virgins in the cities of Juda.

¹²Princes were hanged up by their hands: the elders were not honoured.

¹³The chosen men lifted up the voice in weeping, and the youths fainted under the wood. ¹⁴And the elders ceased from the gate, the chosen men ceased from their music.

¹⁵The joy of our heart has ceased; our dance is turned into mourning. ¹⁶The crown has fallen from our head: yea, woe to us! for we have sinned.

¹⁷For this has grief come; our heart is sorrowful: for this our eyes are darkened. ¹⁸Over the mountain of Sion, because it is made desolate, foxes have walked therein.

¹⁹But thou, O Lord, shalt dwell for ever; thy throne shall endure to generation and generation.

²⁰Wherefore wilt thou utterly forget us, and abandon us a long time? ²¹Turn us, O Lord, to thee, and we shall be turned; and renew our days as before.

²²For thou hast indeed rejected us; thou hast been very wroth against us.

Jezekiel

(Ezekiel)

Chapter 1

¹NOW it came to pass in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, that I was in the midst of the captivity by the river of Chobar; and the heavens were opened, and I saw visions of God. ²On the fifth day of the month; this was the fifth year of the captivity of king Joakim. ³And the word of the Lord came to Ezekiel the priest, the son of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans, by the river of Chobar; and the hand of the Lord was upon me. ⁴And I looked, and, behold, a sweeping wind came from the north, and a great cloud on it, and there was brightness round about it, and gleaming fire, and in the midst of it as it were the appearance of amber in the midst of the fire, and brightness in it. ⁵And in the midst as it were the likeness of four living creatures. And this was their appearance; the likeness of a man was upon them. ⁶And each one had four faces, and each one had four wings. ⁷And their legs were straight; and their feet were winged, and there were sparks, like gleaming brass, and their wings were light. ⁸And the hand of a man was under their wings on their four sides. ⁹And the faces of them four turned not when they went; they went everyone straight forward. ¹⁰And the likeness of their faces was the face of a man, and the face of a lion on the right of the four; and the face of a calf on the left of the four; and the face of an eagle to the four. ¹¹And the four had their wings spread out above; each one had two joined to one another, and two covered their bodies. ¹²And each one went straight forward: wherever the spirit was going they went, and turned not back. ¹³And in the midst of the living creatures there was an appearance as of burning coals of fire, as an appearance of lamps turning among the living creatures; and the brightness of fire, and out of the fire came forth lightning. ¹⁵And I looked, and, behold, the four had each one wheel on the ground near the living creatures. ¹⁶And the appearance of the wheels was as the appearance of beryl: and the four had one likeness: and their work was as it were a wheel in a wheel. ¹⁷They went on their four sides: they turned not as they went; ¹⁸neither did their backs turn: and they were high: and I beheld them, and the backs of them four were full of eyes round about. ¹⁹And when the living creatures went, the wheels went by them: and when the living creatures lifted themselves off the earth. the wheels were lifted off. ²⁰Wherever the cloud happened to be, there was the spirit ready to go: the wheels went and were lifted up with them; because the spirit of life was in the wheels. ²¹When those went, the wheels went; and when those stood, the wheels stood; and when those lifted themselves off the earth, they were lifted off with them: for the spirit of life was in the wheels. ²²And the likeness over the heads of the living creatures was as a firmament, as the appearance of crystal, spread out over their wings above. ²³And their wings were spread out under the firmament, reaching one to the other; two wings to each, covering their bodies. ²⁴And I heard the sound of their wings when they went, as the sound of much water: and when they stood, their wings were let down. ²⁵And lo! a voice from above the firmament ²⁶that was over their head, there was as the appearance of a sapphire stone, and the likeness of a throne upon it: and upon the likeness of the throne was the likeness as an appearance of a man above. ²⁷And I saw as it were the resemblance of amber from the appearance of the loins and upwards, and from the appearance of the loins and under I saw an appearance of fire, and the brightness thereof round about. ²⁸As the appearance of the bow when it is in the cloud in days of rain, so was the form of brightness round about.

Chapter 2

¹This was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the Lord. And I saw and fell upon my face, and heard the voice of one speaking: and he said to me, Son of man, stand upon thy feet, and I will speak to thee. ²And the Spirit came upon me, and took me up, and raised me, and set me on my feet: and I heard him speaking to me. ³And he said to me, Son of Man, I send thee forth to the house of Israel, them that provoke me; who have provoked me, they and their fathers to this day. ⁴And thou shalt say to them, Thus says the Lord. ⁵Whether then indeed they shall hear or fear. (for it is a provoking house,) yet they shall know that thou art a prophet in the midst of them. ⁶And thou, son of man, fear them not, nor be dismayed at their face; (for they will madden and will rise up against thee round about, and thou dwellest in the midst of scorpions): be not afraid of their words, nor be dismayed at their countenance, for it is a provoking house. ⁷And thou shalt speak my words to them, whether they will hear or fear: for it is a provoking house. ⁸And thou, son of man, hear him that speaks to thee; be not thou provoking, as the provoking house: open thy mouth, and eat what I give thee. ⁹And I looked, and behold, a hand stretched out to me, and in it a volume of a book. ¹⁰And he unrolled it before me: and in it the front and the back were written upon: and there was written in it Lamentation, and mournful song, and woe. ¹¹And he said to me, Son of man, eat this volume, and go and speak to the children of Isreal. ¹²So he opened my mouth, and caused me to eat the volume.

Jezekiel

¹And he said to me, Son of man, ³thy mouth shall eat, and thy belly shall be filled with this volume that is given to thee. So I ate it; and it was in my mouth as sweet as honey. ⁴And he said to me, Son of man, go thy way, and go in to the house of Israel, and speak my words to them. ⁵For thou art not sent to a people of hard speech, but to the house of Israel; ⁶neither to many nations of other speech and other tongues, nor of harsh language, whose words thou wouldest not understand: although if I had sent thee to such, they would have hearkened to thee. ⁷But the house of Israel will not be willing to hearken to thee; for they will not hearken to me: for all the house of Israel are stubborn and hard-hearted. ⁸And, behold, I have made thy face strong against their faces, and I will strengthen thy power against their power. ⁹And it shall be continually stronger than a rock: be not afraid of them, neither be dismayed at their faces, because it is a provoking house.

¹⁰And he said to me, Son of man, receive into thine heart all the words that I have spoken to thee, and hear them with thine ears. ¹¹And go thy way, go in to the captivity, to the children of thy people, and thou shalt speak to them, and say to them, Thus says the Lord; whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear. ¹²Then the Spirit took me up, and I heard behind me the voice as of a great earthquake, saying, Blessed be the glory of the Lord from his place. ¹³And I perceived the sound of the wings of the living creatures clapping one to the other, and the sound of the wheels was near them, and the sound of the earthquake. ¹⁴And the Spirit lifted me, and took me up, and I went in the impulse of my spirit; and the hand of the Lord was mighty upon me.

¹⁵Then I passed through the air and came into the captivity, and went round to them that dwelt by the river of Chobar who were there; and I sat there seven days, conversant in the midst of them. ¹⁶And after the seven days the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Son of man, ¹⁷I have made thee a watchman to the house of Israel; and thou shalt hear a word of my mouth, and shalt threaten them from me.

¹⁸When I say to the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; and thou hast not warned him, to give warning to the wicked, to turn from his ways, that he should live; that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thy hand. ¹⁹But if thou warn the wicked, and he turn not from his wickedness, and from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity, and thou shalt deliver thy soul. ²⁰And when the righteous turns away from his righteousness, and commits a trespass, and I shall bring punishment before him, he shall die, because thou didst not warn him: he shall even die in his sins, because his righteousness shall not be remembered; but his blood will I require at thine hand. ²¹But if thou warn the righteous not to sin, and he sin not, the righteous shall surely live, because thou hast warned him; and thou shalt deliver thine own soul.

²²And the hand of the Lord came upon me; and he said to me, Arise, and go forth into the plain, and there shalt thou be spoken to. ²³And I arose, and went forth to the plain: and, behold, the glory of the Lord stood there, according to the vision, and according to the glory of the Lord, which I saw by the river of Chobar: and I fell on my face. ²⁴Then the Spirit came upon me, and set me on my feet, and spoke to me, and said to me, Go in, and shut thyself up in the midst of thine house.

²⁵And thou, son of man, behold, bonds are prepared for thee, and they shall bind thee with them, and thou shalt not come forth of the midst of them. ²⁶Also I will bind thy tongue, and thou shalt be dumb, and shalt not be to them a reprover: because it is a provoking house. ²⁷But when I speak to thee, I will open thy mouth, and thou shalt say to them, Thus says the Lord, He that hears, let him hear; and he that is disobedient, let him be disobedient: because it is a provoking house.

¹And thou, son of man, take thee a brick, and thou shalt set it before thy face, and shalt portray on it the city, even Jerusalem. ²And thou shalt besiege it, and build works against it, and throw up a mound round about it, and pitch camps against it, and set up engines round about. ³And take thou to thyself an iron pan, and thou shalt set it for an iron wall between thee and the city: and thou shalt set thy face against it, and it shall be in a siege, and thou shalt besiege it. This is a sign to the children of Israel. ⁴And thou shalt lie upon thy left side, and lay the iniquities of the house of Israel upon it, according to the number of the hundred and fifty days during which thou shalt lie upon it: and thou shalt bear their iniquities. ⁵For I have appointed thee their iniquities for a number of days, for a hundred and ninety days: so thou shalt bear the iniquities of the house of Israel. ⁶And thou shalt accomplish this, and then shalt lie on thy right side, and shalt bear the iniquities of the house of Juda forty days: I have appointed thee a day for a year. ⁷So thou shalt set thy face to the siege of Jerusalem, and shalt strengthen thine arm, and shalt prophesy against it. ⁸And, behold, I have prepared bonds for thee, land thou mayest not turn from thy one side to the other, until the days of thy siege shall be accomplished. ⁹Take thou also to thee wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentils, and millet, and bread-corn; and thou shalt cast them into one earthen vessel, and shalt make them into loaves for thyself; and thou shalt eat them a hundred and ninety days, according to the number of the days during which thou sleepest on thy side. ¹⁰And thou shalt eat thy food by weight, twenty shekels a day: from time to time shalt thou eat them. ¹¹And thou shalt drink water by measure, even from time to time thou shalt drink the sixth part of a hin. ¹²And thou shalt eat them as a barley cake: thou shalt bake them before their eyes in man's dung. ¹³And thou shalt say, Thus says the Lord God of Israel; Thus shall the children of Israel eat unclean things among the Gentiles. ¹⁴Then I said, Not so, Lord God of Israel: surely my soul has not been defiled with uncleanness; nor have I eaten, that which died of itself or was torn of beasts from my birth until now; neither has any corrupt flesh entered into my mouth. ¹⁵And he said to me, Behold, I have given thee dung of oxen instead of man's dung, and thou shalt prepare thy loaves upon it. ¹⁶And he said to me, Son of man, behold, I break the support of bread in Jerusalem: and they shall eat bread by weight and in want; and shall drink water by measure, and in a state of ruin: ¹⁷that they may want bread and water; and a man and his brother shall be brought to ruin, and they shall pine away in their iniquities.

Chapter 5

¹And thou, son of man, take thee a sword sharper than a barber's razor; thou shalt procure it for thyself, and shalt bring it upon thine head, and upon thy beard: and thou shalt take a pair of scales, and shalt separate the hair. ²A fourth part thou shalt burn in the fire in the midst of the city, at the fulfillment of the days of the siege: and thou shalt take a fourth part, and burn it up in the midst of it: and a fourth part thou shalt cut with a sword round about it: and a fourth part thou shalt scatter to the wind; and I will draw out a sword after them. ³And thou shalt take thence a few in number, and shalt wrap them in the fold of thy garment. ⁴And thou shalt take of these again, and cast them into the midst of the fire, and burn them up with fire: from thence shall come forth fire; and thou shalt say to the whole house of Israel, ⁵Thus says the Lord; This is Jerusalem: I have set her and the countries round about her in the midst of the nations. ⁶And thou shalt declare mine ordinances to the lawless one from out of the nations; and my statutes to the sinful one of the countries round about her: because they have rejected mine ordinances, and have not walked in my statutes. ⁷Therefore thus says the Lord, Because your occasion for sin has been taken from the nations round about you, and ye have not walked in my statutes, nor kept mine ordinances, nay, ye have not even done according to the ordinances of the nations round about you; therefore thus says the Lord; ⁸Behold, I am against thee, and I will execute judgement in the midst of thee in the sight of the nations. ⁹And I will do in thee things which I have not done, and the like of which I will not do again, for all thine abominations. ¹⁰Therefore the fathers shall eat their children in the midst of thee, and children shall eat their fathers; and I will execute judgements in thee, and I will scatter all that are left of thee to every wind.

¹¹Therefore, as I live, says the Lord; surely, because thou hast defiled my holy things with all thine abominations, I also will reject thee; mine eye shall not spare, land I will have no mercy. ¹²A fourth part of thee shall be cut off by pestilence, and a fourth part of thee shall be consumed in the midst of thee with famine: and as for another fourth part of thee, I will scatter them to every wind; and a fourth part of thee shall fall by sword round about thee, and I will draw out a sword after them. ¹³And my wrath and mine anger shall be accomplished upon them: and thou shalt know that I the Lord have spoken in my jealousy, when I have accomplished mine anger upon them. ¹⁴And I will make thee desolate, and thy daughters round about thee, in the sight of every one that passes through. ¹⁵And thou shalt be mourned over and miserable among the nations round about thee, when I have executed judgements in thee in the vengeance of my wrath. I the Lord have spoken. ¹⁶And when I have sent against them shafts of famine, then they shall be consumed, and I will break the strength of thy bread. ¹⁷So I will send forth against thee famine and evil beasts, and I will take vengeance upon thee; and pestilence and blood shall pass through upon thee; and I will bring a sword upon thee round about. I the Lord have spoken.

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, set thy face against the mountains of Israel, and prophesy against them; ³and thou shalt say, Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord; thus says the Lord to the mountains, and to the hills, and to the valleys, and to the forests; Behold, I bring a sword upon you, and your high places shall be utterly destroyed. ⁴And your altars shall be broken to pieces, and your consecrated plats; and I will cast down your slain men before your idols. ⁵And I will scatter your bones round about your altars, ⁶and in all your habitations: the cities shall be made desolate, and the high places utterly laid waste; that your altars may be destroyed, and your idols be broken to pieces, and your consecrated plats be abolished. ⁷And slain men shall fall in the midst of you, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. ⁸When there are some of you escaping from the sword among the Gentiles, and when ye are scattered in the countries; ⁹then they of you that escape among the nations whither they were carried captive shall remember me; (I have sworn an oath against their heart that goes a-whoring from me, and their eyes that go a-whoring after their practices;) and they shall mourn over themselves for all their abominations. ¹⁰And they shall know that I the Lord have spoken.

¹¹Thus says the Lord; Clap with thy hand, and stamp with thy foot and say, Aha, aha! for all the abominations of the house of Israel: they shall fall by the sword, and by pestilence, and by famine. ¹²He that is near shall fall by the sword; and he that is far off shall die by the pestilence; and he that is in the siege shall be consumed with famine: and I will accomplish mine anger upon them. ¹³Then ye shall know that I am the Lord, when your slain are in the midst of your idols round about your altars, on every high hill, and under every shady tree, where they offered a sweet savour to all their idols. ¹⁴And I will stretch out my hand against them, and I will make the land desolate and ruined from the wilderness of Deblatha, in all their habitations: and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

Chapter 7

¹Moreover the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Also, thou, son of man, say, ²Thus says the Lord; An end is come to the land of Israel, the end is come on the four corners of the land. ³The end is come on thee, ⁷the inhabitant of the land: the time is come, the day has drawn nigh, not with tumult, nor with pangs. ⁸Now I will pour out my anger upon thee near at hand, and I will accomplish my wrath on thee: and I will judge thee for thy ways, and recompense upon thee all thine abominations. ⁹Mine eye shall not spare, nor will I have any mercy: for I will recompense thy ways upon thee, and thine abominations shall be in the midst of thee; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord that smite thee. ⁷Now the end is come to thee, and I will send judgment upon thee: and I will take vengeance on thy ways, and will recompense all thine abominations upon thee. ⁴Mine eye shall not spare, nor will I have any mercy: for I will recompense thy way upon thee, and thine abominations shall be in the midst of thee; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. ⁵For thus says the Lord; Behold, the end is come. ¹⁰Behold, the day of the Lord! although the rod has blossomed, ¹¹pride has sprung up, and will break the staff of the wicked one, and that not with tumult, nor with haste. ¹²The time is come, behold the day: let not the buyer rejoice, and let not the seller mourn. ¹³For the buyer shall never again return to the seller, neither shall a man cleave with the eye of hope to his life. ¹⁴Sound ye the trumpet, and pass sentence on all together. ¹⁵*There shall be* war with the sword without, and famine and pestilence within: he that is in the field shall die by the sword; and famine and pestilence shall destroy them that are in the city.

¹⁶But they that escape of them shall be delivered, and shall be upon the mountains: and I will slay all the rest, every one for his iniquities. ¹⁷All hands shall be completely weakened, and all thighs shall be defiled with moisture. ¹⁸And they shall gird themselves with sackcloth, and amazement shall cover them; and shame shall be upon them, even upon every face, and baldness upon every head. ¹⁹Their silver shall be cast forth in the streets, and their gold shall be despised: their souls shall not be satisfied, and their bellies shall not be filled: for it was the punishment of their iniquities. ²⁰*As for* their choice ornaments, they employed them for pride, and they made of them images of their abominations: therefore have I made them uncleanness to them. ²¹And I will deliver them into the hands of strangers to make them a prey, and to the pests of the earth for a spoil; and they shall profane them. ²²And I will turn away my face from them, and they shall defile my charge, and shall go in to them unguardedly, and profane them. ²³And they shall work uncleanness: because the land is full of strange nations, and the city is full of iniquity. ²⁴And I will turn back the boasting of their strength; and their holy things shall be defiled. ²⁵And though propitiation shall come, and one shall seek peace, yet there shall be none. ²⁶There shall be woe upon woe, and there shall be message upon message; and a vision shall be sought from a prophet; but the law shall perish from the priest, and counsel from the elders. ²⁷The prince shall clothe himself with desolation, and the hands of the people of the land shall be made feeble: I will do to them according to their ways, and according to their judgements will I punish them; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

¹ And it came to pass in the sixth year, in the fifth month, on the fifth day of the month, I was sitting in the house, and the elders of Juda were sitting before me: and the hand of the Lord came upon me. ²And I looked, and, behold, the likeness of a man: from his loins and downwards there was fire, and from his loins upwards there was as the appearance of amber. ³And he stretched forth the likeness of a hand, and took me by the crown of my head; and the Spirit lifted me up between the earth and sky, and brought me to Jerusalem in a vision of God, to the porch of the gate that looks to the north, where was the pillar of the Purchaser. ⁴And, behold, the glory of the Lord God of Israel was there, according to the vision which I saw in the plain. ⁵And he said to me, Son of man, lift up thine eyes toward the north. So I lifted up mine eyes toward the north, and, behold, I looked from the north toward the eastern gate. ⁶And he said to me, Son of man, hast thou seen what these do? They commit great abominations here so that I should keep away from my sanctuary: and thou shalt see yet greater iniquities. ⁷And he brought me to the porch of the court. ⁸And he said to me, Son of man, dig: so I dug, and behold a door. ⁹And he said to me, Go in, and behold the iniquities which they practise here. ¹⁰So I went in and looked; and beheld vain abominations, and all the idols of the house of Israel, portrayed upon them round about.

Jezekiel

¹¹And seventy men of the elders of the house of Israel, and Jechonias the son of Saphan stood in their presence in the midst of them, and each one held his censer in his hand; and the smoke of the incense went up. ¹²And he said to me, Thou hast seen, son of man, what the elders of the house of Israel do, each one of them in their secret chamber: because they have said, The Lord see not; The Lord has forsaken the earth. ¹³And he said to me, Thou shalt see yet greater iniquities which these do. ¹⁴And he brought me in to the porch of the house of the Lord that looks to the north; and, behold there were women sitting there lamenting for Thammuz. ¹⁵And he said to me, Son of man, thou hast seen; but thou shalt yet see evil practices greater than these. ¹⁶And he brought me into the inner court of the house of the Lord, and at the entrance of the temple of the Lord, between the porch and the altar, were about twenty men, with their back parts toward the temple of the Lord, and their faces turned the opposite way; and these were worshipping the sun. ¹⁷And he said to me, Son of man, thou hast seen this. Is it a little thing to the house of Juda to practise the iniquities which they have practised here? for they have filled the land with iniquity: and, behold, these are as scorners. ¹⁸Therefore will I deal with them in wrath: mine eye shall not spare, nor will I have any mercy.

¹And he cried in mine ears with a loud voice, saying, The judgement of the city has drawn nigh; and each had the weapons of destruction in his hand. ²And, behold, six men came from the way of the high gate that looks toward the north, and each one's axe was in his hand; and there was one man in the midst of them clothed with a long robe down to the feet, and a sapphire girdle was on his loins: and they came in and stood near the brazen altar. ³And the glory of the God of Israel, that was upon them, went up from the cherubs to the porch of the house. And he called the man that was clothed with the long robe, who had the girdle on his loins; ⁴And said to him, Go through the midst of Jerusalem, and set a mark on the foreheads of the men that groan and that grieve for all the iniquities that are done in the midst of them. ⁵And he said to the first in my hearing, Go after him into the city, and smite: and let not your eyes spare, and have no mercy. ⁶Slay utterly old man and youth, and virgin, and infants, and women: but go ye not nigh any on whom is the mark: begin at my sanctuary. So they began with the elder men who were within in the house. ⁷And he said to them, Defile the house, and go out and fill the ways with dead bodies, and smite. ⁸And it came to pass as they were smiting, that I fell upon my face, and cried out, and said, Alas, O Lord! wilt thou destroy the remnant of Israel, in pouring out thy wrath upon Jerusalem? ⁹Then said he to me, The iniquity of the house of Israel and Juda is become very exceedingly great: for the land is filled with many nations, and the city is filled with iniquity and uncleanness: because they have said, The Lord has forsaken the earth, The Lord looks not upon it. ¹⁰Therefore mine eye shall not spare, neither will I have any mercy: I have recompensed their ways upon their heads. ¹¹And, behold, the man clothed with the long robe, and girt with the girdle about his loins, answered and said, I have done as thou didst command me.

Chapter 10

¹Then I looked, and, behold, over the firmament that was above the head of the cherubs there was a likeness of a throne over them, as a sapphire stone. ²And he said to the man clothed with the long robe, Go in between the wheels that are under the cherubs, and fill thine hands with coals of fire from between the cherubs, and scatter them over the city. And he went in my sight.

³And the cherubs stood on the right hand of the house, as the man went in; and the cloud filled the inner court.

⁴Then the glory of the Lord departed from the cherubs to the porch of the house; and the cloud filled the house, and the court was filled with the brightness of the glory of the Lord.

⁵And the sound of the cherubs' wings was heard as far as the outer court, as the voice of the Almighty God speaking. ⁶And it came to pass, when he gave a charge to the man clothed with the sacred robe, saying, Take fire from between the wheels from between the cherubs, that he went in, and stood near the wheels. ⁷And he stretched forth his hand into the midst of the fire that was between the cherubs, and took thereof, and put it into the hands of the man clothed with the sacred robe: and he took it, and went out. ⁸And I saw the cherubs having the likeness of men's hands under their wings. ⁹And I saw, and behold, four wheels stood by the cherubs, one wheel by each cherub: and the appearance of the wheels was as the appearance of a carbuncle stone.

¹⁰And as for their appearance, there was one likeness to the four, as if there should be a wheel in the midst of a wheel. ¹¹When they went, they went on their four sides; they turned not when they went, for whichever way the first head looked, they went; and they turned not as they went. ¹²And their backs, and their hands, and their wings, and the wheels, were full of eyes round about the four wheels.

¹³And these wheels were called Gelgel in my hearing. ¹⁵And the cherubs were the same living creature which I saw by the river of Chobar. ¹⁶And when the cherubs went, the wheels went, and they were close to them: and when the cherubs lifted up their wings to mount up from the earth, their wheels turned not. ¹⁷When they stood, the wheels stood; and when they mounted up, the wheels mounted up with them: because the spirit of life was in them. ¹⁸Then the glory of the Lord departed from the house, and went up on the cherubs. ¹⁹And the cherubs lifted up their wings, and mounted up from the earth in my sight: when they went forth, the wheels were also beside them, and they stood at the entrance of the front gate of the house of the Lord; and the glory of the God of Israel was upon them above. ²⁰This is the living creature which I saw under the God of Israel by the river of Chobar; and I knew that they were cherubs. ²¹Each one had four faces, and each one had eight wings; and under their wings was the likeness of men's hands. ²²And as for the likeness of their faces, these are the same faces which I saw under the glory of the God of Israel by the river of Chobar: and they went each straight forward.

Chapter 11

¹Moreover the Spirit took me up, and brought me to the front gate of the house of the Lord, that looks eastward: and behold at the entrance of the gate were about five and twenty men; and I saw in the midst of them Jechonias the son of Ezer, and Phaltias the son of Banaeas, the leaders of the people. ²And the Lord said to me, Son of man, these are the men that devise vanities, and take evil counsel in this city: ³who say, Have not the houses been newly built? This is the caldron, and we are the flesh. ⁴Therefore prophesy against them, prophesy, son of man. ⁵And the Spirit of the Lord fell upon me, and said to me, say; Thus says the Lord; Thus have ye said, O house of Israel: and I know the devices of your spirit. ⁶Ye have multiplied your dead in this city, and ye have filled your ways with slain men. ⁷Therefore thus says the Lord; Your dead whom ye have smitten in the midst of it, these are the flesh, and city this is the caldron: but I will bring you forth out of the midst of it. ⁸Ye fear the sword; and I will bring a sword upon you, says the Lord. ⁹And I will bring you forth out of the midst of it, and will deliver you into the hands of strangers, and will execute judgements among you. ¹⁰Ye shall fall by the sword; I will judge you on the mountains of Israel; and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

¹³And it came to pass, while I was prophesying, that Phaltias the son of Banaeas died. And I fell upon my face, and cried with a loud voice, and said, Alas, alas, O Lord! wilt thou utterly destroy the remnant of Israel? ¹⁴And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ¹⁵Son of man, thy brethren, and the men of thy captivity, and all the house of Israel are come to the full, to whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem said, Keep ye far away from the Lord: the land is given to us for an inheritance. ¹⁶Therefore say thou, Thus says the Lord; I will cast them off among the nations, and will disperse them into every land, yet will I be to them for a little sanctuary in the countries which they shall enter. ¹⁷Therefore say thou, Thus says the Lord; I will also take them from the heathen, and gather them out of the lands wherein I have scattered them, and will give them the land of Israel. ¹⁸And they shall enter in there, and shall remove all the abominations of it, and all its iniquities from it. ¹⁹And I will give them another heart, and will put a new spirit within them; and will extract the heart of stone from their flesh, and give them a heart of flesh: ²⁰that they may walk in my commandments, and keep mine ordinances, and do them: and they shall be to me a people, and I will be to them a God. ²¹And as for the heart set upon their abominations and their iniquities, as their heart went after them, I have recompensed their ways on their heads, says the Lord. ²²Then the cherubs lifted up their wings, and the wheels beside them; and the glory of the God of Israel was over them above. ²³And the glory of the Lord went up from the midst of the city, and stood on the mountain which was in front of the city. ²⁴And the Spirit took me up, and brought me to the land of the Chaldeans, to the captivity, in a vision by the Spirit of God: and I went up after the vision which I saw. ²⁵And I spoke to the captivity all the words of the Lord which he had showed me.

Chapter 12

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, thou dwellest in the midst of the iniquities of those, who have eyes to see, and see not; and have ears to hear, and hear not:

because it is a provoking house. ³Thou therefore, son of man, prepare thyself baggage for going into captivity by day in their sight; and thou shalt be led into captivity from thy place into another place in their sight; that they may see that it is a provoking house. ⁴And thou shalt carry forth thy baggage, baggage for captivity, by day before their eyes: and thou shalt go forth at even, as a captive goes forth, in their sight. ⁵Dig for thyself into the wall of the house, and thou shalt pass through it in their sight: ⁶thou shalt be lifted up on men's shoulders, and shalt go forth in secret: thou shalt cover thy face, and shalt not see the ground: because I have made thee a sign to the house of Israel. ⁷And I did thus according to all that he commanded me; and I carried forth my baggage for captivity by day, and in the evening I dug through the wall for myself, and went out secretly; I was taken up on men's shoulders before them. ⁸And the word of the Lord came to me in the morning, saying, ⁹Son of man, have not the house of Israel, the provoking house, said to thee, What doest thou? ¹⁰Say to them, Thus says the Lord God, the Prince and the Ruler in Israel, even to all the house of Israel who are in the midst of them: ¹¹say, I am performing signs: as I have done, so shall it be to him: they shall go into banishment and captivity. ¹²And the prince in the midst of them shall be borne upon shoulders, and shall go forth in secret through the wall, and shall dig so that he may go forth thereby: he shall cover his face, that he may not be seen by any eye, and he himself shall not see the ground.¹³ And I will spread out my net upon him, and he shall be caught in my toils: and I will bring him to Babylon to the land of the Chaldeans; but he shall not see it, though he shall die there.¹⁴ And I will scatter to every wind all his assistants round about him, and all that help him; and I will draw out a sword after them;¹⁵ And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have scattered them among the nations; and I will disperse them in the countries.¹⁶ And I will leave of them a few men in number spared from the sword, and from famine, and pestilence; that they may declare all their iniquities among the nations whither they have gone; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

¹⁷And the word of the Lord came to me, saying,¹⁸ Son of man, eat thy bread with sorrow, and drink thy water with torment and affliction.¹⁹ And thou shalt say to the people of the land, Thus says the Lord to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, on the land of Israel; They shall eat their bread in scarcity, and shall drink their water in desolation, that the land may be desolate with all that it contains: for all that dwell in it are ungodly.²⁰ And their inhabited cities shall be laid utterly waste, and the land shall be desolate; and ye shall know that I am the Lord.²¹ And the word of the Lord came to me, saying,

²³Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord; I will even set aside this parable, and the house of Israel shall no more at all use this parable: for thou shalt say to them, The days are at hand, and the import of every vision.²⁴ For there shall no more be any false vision, nor any one prophesying flatteries in the midst of the children of Israel.²⁵ For I the Lord will speak my words; I will speak and perform them, and will no more delay, for in your days, O provoking house, I will speak the word, and will perform it, says the Lord.²⁶ Moreover the word of the Lord came to me, saying,²⁷ Son of man, behold, the provoking house of Israel boldly say, The vision which this man sees is for many days, and he prophesy for times afar off.²⁸ Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord; Henceforth none of my words shall linger, which I shall speak: I will speak and do, says the Lord.

Chapter 13

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying,² Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel, and thou shalt prophesy, and shalt say to them, Hear ye the word of the Lord:³ Thus says the Lord, Woe to them that prophesy out of their own heart, and who see nothing at all.⁴ Thy prophets, O Israel, are like foxes in the deserts.⁵ They have not continued steadfast, and they have gathered flocks against the house of Israel, they that say, ⁶In the day of the Lord, have not stood, seeing false visions, prophesying vanities, who say, The Lord says, and the Lord has not sent them, and they began to try to confirm the word. ⁷Have ye not seen a false vision? and spoken vain prophecies? ⁸And therefore say, Thus says the Lord; Because your words are false, and your prophecies are vain, therefore, behold, I am against you, says the Lord. ⁹And I will stretch forth my hand against the prophets that see false visions, and those that utter vanities: they shall not partake of the instruction of my people, neither shall they be written in the roll of the house of Israel, and they shall not enter into the land of Israel; and they shall know that I am the Lord. ¹⁰Because they have caused my people to err, saying, Peace; and there is no peace; and one builds a wall, and they plaster it, —it shall fall. ¹¹Say to them that plaster it, It shall fall; and there shall be a flooding rain; and I will send great stones upon their joinings, and they shall fall; and there shall be a sweeping wind, and it shall be broken. ¹²And lo! the wall has fallen; and will they not say to you, Where is your plaster wherewith ye plastered it? ¹³Therefore thus says the Lord; I will even cause to burst forth a sweeping blast with fury, and there shall be a flooding rain in my wrath; and in my fury I will bring on great stones for complete destruction. ¹⁴And I will break down the wall which ye have plastered, and it shall fall; and I will lay it on the ground, and its foundations shall be discovered, and it shall fall; and ye shall be consumed with rebukes: and ye shall know that I am the Lord. ¹⁵And I will accomplish my wrath upon the wall, and upon them that plaster it; it shall fall: and I said to you, The wall is not, nor they that plaster it, ¹⁶even the prophets of Israel, who prophesy concerning Jerusalem, and who see visions of peace for her, and there is no peace, says the Lord.

¹⁷And thou, son of man, set thy face firmly against the daughters of thy people, that prophesy out of their own heart; and prophesy against them.

¹⁸And thou shalt say, Thus says the Lord, Woe to the women that sew pillows under every elbow, and make kerchiefs on the head of every stature to pervert souls! The souls of my people are perverted, and they have saved souls alive. ¹⁹And they have dishonoured me before my people for a handful of barley, and for pieces of bread, to slay the souls which should not die, and to save alive the souls which should not live, while ye speak to a people hearing vain speeches.

²⁰Therefore thus says the Lord God, Behold, I am against your pillows, whereby ye there confound souls, and I will tear them away from your arms, and will set at liberty their souls which ye pervert to scatter them. ²¹And I will tear your Kerchiefs, and will rescue my people out of your hands, and they shall no longer be in your hands to be confounded; and ye shall know that I am the Lord. ²²Because ye have perverted the heart of the righteous, whereas I perverted him not, and that in order to strengthen the hands of the wicked, that he should not at all turn from his evil way and live: ²³therefore ye shall not see false visions, and ye shall no more utter prophecies: but I will deliver my people out of your hand; and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

Chapter 14

¹And there came to me men of the people of Israel, of the elders, and sat before me. ²And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ³Son of man, these men have conceived their devices in their hearts, and have set before their faces the punishment of their iniquities: shall I indeed answer them? ⁴Therefore speak to them, and thou shalt say to them, Thus says the Lord; Any man of the house of Israel, who shall conceive his devices in his heart, and shall set the punishment of his iniquity before his face, and shall come to the prophet; I the Lord will answer him according to the things in which his mind is entangled, ⁵that he should turn aside the house of Israel, according to their hearts that are estranged from me in their thoughts. ⁶Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord God, Be converted, and turn from your evil practices, and from all your sins, and turn your faces back again. ⁷For any man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn in Israel, who shall separate himself from me, and conceive his imaginations in his heart, and set before his face the punishment of his iniquity, and come to the prophet to enquire of him concerning me; I the Lord will answer him, according to the things wherein he is entangled. ⁸And I will set my face against that man, and will make him desolate and ruined, and will cut him off from the midst of my people; and ye shall know that I am the Lord. ⁹And if a prophet should cause to err and should speak, I the Lord have caused that prophet to err, and will stretch out my hand upon him, and will utterly destroy him from the midst of my people Israel. ¹⁰And they shall bear their iniquity according to the trespass of him that asks; and it shall be in like manner to the prophet according to the trespass: ¹¹that the house of Israel may no go astray from me, and that they may no more defile themselves with any of their transgressions: so shall they be my people, and I will be their God, says the Lord.

¹²And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ¹³Son of man, if a land shall sin against me by committing a trespass, then will I stretch out my hand upon it, and will break its staff of bread, and will send forth famine upon it, and cut off from it man and beast. ¹⁴And though these three men should be in the midst of it, Noe, and Daniel, and Job, they alone should be delivered by their righteousness, says the Lord. ¹⁵If again I bring evil beasts upon the land, and take vengeance upon it, and it be ruined, and there be no one to pass through for fear of the wild beasts: ¹⁶and if these three men should be in the midst of it, as I live, says the Lord, neither sons nor daughters shall be saved, but these only shall be saved, and the land shall be destroyed. ¹⁷Or again if I bring a sword upon that land, and say, Let the sword go through the land; and I cut off from them man and beast: ¹⁸though these three men were in the midst of it, as I live, says the Lord, they shall not deliver sons or daughters, but they only shall be saved themselves. ¹⁹Or if again I send pestilence upon that land, and pour out my wrath upon it in blood, to destroy from off it man and beast: ²⁰and should Noe, and Daniel, and Job, be in the midst of it, as I live, says the Lord, there shall be left them neither sons nor daughters; only they by their righteousness shall deliver their souls. ²¹Thus says the Lord, And if I even send upon Jerusalem my four sore judgements, sword, and famine, and evil beasts, and pestilence, to destroy from out of it man and beast; ²²yet, behold, there shall be men left in it, the escaped thereof, who shall lead forth of it sons and daughters: behold, they shall go forth to you, land ye shall see their ways and their thoughts: and ye shall mourn over the evils which I have brought upon Jerusalem, even all the evils which I have brought upon it. ²³And they shall comfort you, because ye shall see their ways and their thoughts: and ye shall know that I have not done in vain all that I have done in it, says the Lord.

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²And thou, son of man—of all the wood, of the branches that are among the trees of the forest, what shall be made of the wood of the vine? ³Will they take wood of it to make it fit for work? will they take of it a peg to hang any vessel upon it? ⁴It is only given to the fire to be consumed; the fire consumes that which is yearly pruned of it, and it is utterly gone. Will it be useful for any work? ⁵Not even while it is yet whole will it be useful for any work: if the fire shall have utterly consumed it, will it still be fit for work? ⁶Therefore say, Thus says the Lord, As the vine-tree among the trees of the forest, which I have given up to the fire to be consumed, so have I given up the inhabitants of Jerusalem. ⁷And I will set my face against them; they shall go forth of the fire, and yet fire shall devour them; and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have set my face against them. ⁸And I will give up the land to ruin, because they have utterly transgressed, says the Lord.

Chapter 16

¹Moreover the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, testify to Jerusalem of her iniquities;

Jezekiel

³and thou shalt say, Thus says the Lord to Jerusalem; Thy root and thy birth are of the land of Chanaan: thy father was an Amorite, and thy mother a Chettite. ⁴And as for thy birth in the day wherein thou wast born, thou didst not bind thy breasts, and thou wast not washed in water, neither wast thou salted with salt, neither wast thou swathed in swaddling-bands. ⁵Nor did mine eye pity thee, to do for thee one of all these things, to feel at all for thee; but thou wast cast out on the face of the field, because of the deformity of thy person, in the day wherein thou wast born. ⁶And I passed by to thee, and saw thee polluted in thy blood; and I said to thee, Let there be life out of thy blood: ⁷increase; I have made thee as the springing grass of the field. So thou didst increase and grow, and didst enter into great cities: thy breasts were set, and thy hair grew, whereas thou wast naked and bare. ⁸And I passed by thee and saw thee, and, behold, it was thy time and a time of resting; and I spread my wings over thee, and covered thy shame, and swear to thee: and I entered into covenant with thee, says the Lord, and thou becamest mine. ⁹And I washed thee in water, and washed thy blood from thee, and anointed thee with oil. ¹⁰And I clothed thee with embroidered garments, and clothed thee beneath with purple, and girded thee with fine linen, and clothed thee with silk, ¹¹and decked thee also with ornaments, and put bracelets on thine hands, and a necklace on thy neck. ¹²And I put a pendant on thy nostril, and rings in thine ears, and a crown of glory on thine head. ¹³So thou wast adorned with gold and silver; and thy raiment was of fine linen, and silk, and variegated work: thou didst eat fine flour, and oil, and honey, and didst become extremely beautiful. ¹⁴And thy name went forth among the nations for thy beauty: because it was perfected with elegance, and in the comeliness which I put upon thee, says the Lord.

¹⁵Thou didst trust in thy beauty, and didst go a-whoring because of thy renown, and didst pour out thy fornication on every passer by. ¹⁶and thou didst take of thy garments, and madest to thyself idols of needlework, and didst go a-whoring after them; therefore thou shalt never come in, nor shall the like take place. ¹⁷And thou tookest thy fair ornaments of my gold and of my silver, of what I gave thee, and thou madest to thyself male images, and thou didst commit whoredom with them. ¹⁸And thou didst take thy variegated apparel and didst clothe them, and thou didst set before them mine oil and mine incense. ¹⁹And thou tookest my bread which I gave thee, (yea I fed thee with fine flour and oil and honey) and didst set them before them for a sweet-smelling savour: yea, it was so, says the Lord. ²⁰And thou tookest thy sons and thy daughters, whom thou borest, and didst sacrifice these to them to be destroyed. Thou didst go a-whoring as if that were little, ²¹and didst slay thy children, and gavest them up in offering them to them for an expiation. ²²This is beyond all thy fornication, and thou didst not remember thine infancy, when thou wast naked and bare, and didst live though defiled in thy blood. ²³And it came to pass after all thy wickedness, says the Lord, ²⁴that thou didst build thyself a house of fornication, and didst make thyself a public place in every street; ²⁵and on the head of every way thou didst set up thy fornications, and didst defile thy beauty, and didst open thy feet to every passer by, and didst multiply thy fornication. ²⁶And thou didst go a-whoring after the children of Egypt thy neighbors, great of flesh; and didst go a-whoring, often to provoke me to anger. ²⁷And if I stretch out my hand against thee, then will I abolish thy statutes, and deliver thee up to the wills of them that hate thee, even to the daughters of the Philistines that turned thee aside from the way wherein thou sinned. ²⁸And thou didst go a-whoring to the daughters of Assur, and not even thus wast thou satisfied; yea, thou didst go a-whoring, and wast not satisfied. ²⁹And thou didst multiply thy covenants with the land of the Chaldeans; and not even with these wast thou satisfied. ³⁰Why should I make a covenant with thy daughter, says the Lord, while thou doest all these things, the works of a harlot? and thou hast gone a-whoring in a threefold degree with thy daughters.

³¹Thou hast built a house of harlotry in every top of a way, and hast set up thine high place in every street; and thou didst become as a harlot gathering hires. ³²An adulteress resembles thee, taking rewards of her husband. ³³She has even given rewards to all that went a-whoring after her, and thou hast given rewards to all thy lovers, yea, thou didst load them with rewards, that they should come to thee from every side for thy fornication. ³⁴And there has happened in thee perverseness in thy fornication beyond other women, and they have committed fornication with thee, in that thou givest hires over and above, and hires were not given to thee; and thus perverseness happened in thee.

³⁵Therefore, harlot, hear the word of the Lord: ³⁶Thus says the Lord, Because thou hast poured forth thy money, therefore thy shame shall be discovered in thy harlotry with thy lovers, and with regard to all the imaginations of thine iniquities, and for the blood of thy children which thou hast given to them. ³⁷Therefore, behold, I will gather all thy lovers with whom thou hast consorted, and all whom thou hast loved, with all whom thou didst hate; and I will gather them against thee round about, and will expose thy wickedness to them, and they shall see all thy shame. ³⁸And I will be avenged on thee with the vengeance of an adulteress, and I will bring upon thee blood of fury and jealousy. ³⁹And I will deliver thee into their hands, and they shall break down thy house of harlotry, and destroy thine high place; and they shall strip thee of thy garments, and shall take thy proud ornaments, and leave thee naked and bare. ⁴⁰and they shall bring multitudes upon thee, and they shall stone thee with stones, and pierce thee with their swords. ⁴¹And they shall burn thine houses with fire, and shall execute vengeance on thee in the sight of many women: and I will turn thee back from harlotry, and I will no more give thee rewards. ⁴²So will I slacken my fury against thee, and my jealousy shall be removed from thee, and I will rest, and be no more careful for thee.

⁴³Because thou didst not remember thine infancy, and thou didst grieve me in all these things; therefore, behold, I have recompensed thy ways upon thine head, says the Lord: for thus hast thou wrought ungodliness above all thine other iniquities.

⁴⁴These are all the things they have spoken against thee in a ^{*}proverb, saying, ⁴⁵As is the mother, so is thy mother's daughter: thou art she that has rejected her husband and her children; and the sisters of thy sisters have rejected their husbands and their children: your mother was a Chettite, and your father an Amorite. ⁴⁶Your elder sister who dwells on thy left hand is Samaria, she and her daughters: and thy younger sister, that dwells on the right hand, is Sodom and her daughters. ⁴⁷Yet notwithstanding thou hast not walked in their ways, neither hast thou done according to their iniquities within a little, but thou hast exceeded them in all thy ways.

⁴⁸As I live, says the Lord, this Sodom and her daughters have not done as thou and thy daughters have done.

⁴⁹Moreover this was the sin of thy sister Sodom, pride: she and her daughters lived in pleasure, in fullness of bread and in abundance: this belonged to her and her daughters, and they helped not the hand of the poor and needy. ⁵⁰And they boasted, and wrought iniquities before me: so I cut them off as I saw fit.

⁵¹Also Samaria has not sinned according to half of thy sins; but thou hast multiplied thine iniquities beyond them, and thou hast justified thy sisters in all thine iniquities which thou hast committed.

⁵²Thou therefore bear thy punishment, for that thou hast corrupted thy sisters by thy sins which thou hast committed beyond them; and thou hast made them appear more righteous than thyself: thou therefore be ashamed, and bear thy dishonour, in that thou hast justified thy sisters. ⁵³And I will turn their captivity, even the captivity of Sodom and her daughters; and I will turn the captivity of Samaria and her daughters; and I will turn thy captivity in the midst of them: ⁵⁴that thou mayest bear thy punishment, and be dishonoured for all that thou hast done in provoking me to anger. ⁵⁵And thy sister Sodom and her daughters shall ^{*} See Appendix.

Jezekiel

be restored as they were at the beginning, and thou and thy daughters shall be restored as ye were at the beginning.⁵⁶ And surely thy sister Sodom was not mentioned by thy mouth in the days of thy pride:⁵⁷ before thy wickedness was discovered, even now thou art the reproach of the daughters of Syria, and of all that are round about her, even of the daughters of the Philistines that compass thee round about.⁵⁸ As for thine ungodliness and thine iniquities, thou hast borne them, says the Lord.⁵⁹ Thus says the Lord; I will even do to thee as thou hast done, as thou hast dealt shamefully in these things to transgress my covenant.⁶⁰ And I will remember my covenant made with thee in the days of thine infancy, and I will establish to thee an everlasting covenant.⁶¹ Then thou shalt remember thy way, and shalt be utterly dishonoured when thou receivest thine elder sisters with thy younger ones: and I will give them to thee for building up, but not by thy covenant.⁶² And I will establish my covenant with thee; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord:⁶³ that thou mayest remember, and be ashamed, and mayest no more be able to open thy mouth for thy shame, when I am reconciled to thee for all that thou hast done, says the Lord.

Chapter 17

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, relate a tale, and speak a parable to the house of Israel:³ and thou shalt say, Thus says the Lord; A great eagle with large wings, spreading them out very far, with many claws, which has the design of entering into Libanus—and he took the choice branches of the cedar:⁴ he cropped off the ends of the tender twigs, and brought them into the land of Chanaan; he laid them up in a walled city.⁵ And he took of the seed of the land, and sowed it in a field planted by much water; he set it in a conspicuous place.⁶ And it sprang up, and became a weak and little vine, so that the branches thereof appeared upon it, and its roots were under it: and it became a vine, and put forth shoots, and sent forth its tendrils.⁷ And there was another great eagle, with great wings and many claws: and, behold, this vine bent itself round toward him, and her roots were turned towards him, and she sent forth her branches towards him, that he might water her together with the growth of her plantation.⁸ She thrives in a fair field by much water, to produce shoots and bear fruit, that she might become a great vine.⁹ Therefore say, Thus says the Lord; Shall it prosper? shall not the roots of her tender stem and her fruit be blighted? yea, all her early shoots shall be dried up, and that not by a mighty arm, nor by many people, to tear her up from her roots.¹⁰ And, behold, it thrives: shall it prosper? shall it not wither as soon as the east wind touches it? it shall be withered together with the growth of its shoots.

Jezeziel

¹¹Moreover the word of the Lord came to me saying, ¹²Son of man, say now to the provoking house, Know ye not what these things were? say to them, Whenever the king of Babylon shall come against Jerusalem, then he shall take her king and her princes, and shall take them home to Babylon. ¹³And he shall take of the seed royal, and shall make a covenant with him, and shall bind him with an oath: and he shall take the princes of the land: ¹⁴that it may become a weak kingdom, so as never to lift itself up, that he may keep his covenant, and establish it. ¹⁵And if he shall revolt from him, to send his messengers into Egypt, that they may give him horses and much people; shall he prosper? shall he that acts as an adversary be preserved? and shall he that transgresses the covenant be preserved? ¹⁶As I live, says the Lord, verily in the place where the king is that made him king, who dishonoured my oath, and who broke my covenant, shall he die with him in the midst of Babylon. ¹⁷And Pharaoh shall make war upon him not with a large force or great multitude, in throwing up a mound, and in building of forts, to cut off souls. ¹⁸Whereas he has profaned the oath so as to break the covenant, when, behold, I engage his hand, and he has done all these things to him, he shall not escape. ¹⁹Therefore say, Thus says the Lord; As I live, surely mine oath which he has profaned, and my covenant which he has transgressed, I will even recompense it upon his head. ²⁰And I will spread a net upon him, and he shall be caught in its snare. ²¹In every battle of his they shall fall by the sword, and I will scatter his remnant to every wind: and ye shall know that I the Lord have spoken it. ²²For thus says the Lord; I will even take of the choice branches of the cedar from the top thereof, I will crop off their hearts, and I will plant it on a high mountain: ²³and I will hang it on a lofty mountain of Israel: yea, I will plant it, and it shall put forth shoots, and shall bear fruit, and it shall be a great cedar: and every bird shall rest beneath it, even every fowl shall rest under its shadow: its branches shall be restored. ²⁴And all the trees of the field shall know that I am the Lord that bring low the high tree, and exalt the low tree, and wither the green tree, and cause the dry tree to flourish: I the Lord have spoken, and will do it.

Chapter 18

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, what mean ye by this parable among the children of Israel, saying, The fathers have eaten unripe grapes, and the children's teeth have been set on edge? ³As I live, says the Lord, surely this parable shall no more be spoken in Israel. ⁴For all souls are mine; as the soul of the father, so also the soul of the son, they are mine: the soul that sins, it shall die. ⁵But the man who shall be just, who executes judgment and righteousness, ⁶who shall not eat upon the mountains, and shall not at all lift up his eyes to the devices of the house of Israel, and shall not defile his neighbor's wife, and shall not draw nigh to her that is removed,⁷ and shall not oppress any man, but shall return the pledge of the debtor, and shall be guilty of no plunder, shall give his bread to the hungry, and clothe the naked;⁸ and shall not lend his money upon usury, and shall not receive usurious increase, and shall turn back his hand from injustice, shall execute righteous judgement between a man and his neighbor,⁹ and has walked in my commandments and kept mine ordinances, to do them; he is righteous, he shall surely live, says the Lord.¹⁰ And if he beget a mischievous son, shedding blood and committing sins,¹¹ who has not walked in the way of his righteous father, but has even eaten upon the mountains, and has defiled his neighbor's wife,¹² and has oppressed the poor and needy, and has committed robbery, and not restored a pledge, and has set his eyes upon idols, has wrought iniquities,¹³ has lent upon usury, and taken usurious increase; he shall by no means live: he has wrought all these iniquities; he shall surely die; his blood shall be upon him.¹⁴ And if he beget a son, and the son see all his father's sins which he has wrought, and fear, and not do according to them,¹⁵ and if he has not eaten on the mountains, and has not set his eyes on the devices of the house of Israel, and has not defiled his neighbor's wife, ¹⁶and has not oppressed a man, and has not retained the pledge, nor committed robbery, has given his bread to the hungry, and has clothed the naked,¹⁷ and has turned back his hand from unrighteousness, has not received interest or usurious increase, has wrought righteousness, and walked in mine ordinances; he shall not die for the iniquities of his father, he shall surely live.¹⁸ But if his father grievously afflict, or plunder, he has wrought enmity in the midst of my people, and shall die in his iniquity.

¹⁹But ye will say, Why has not the son borne the iniquity of the father? Because the son has wrought judgement and mercy, has kept all my statutes, and done them, he shall surely live.²⁰ But the soul that sins shall die: and the son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, nor shall the father bear the iniquity of the son: the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon him, and the iniquity of the transgressor shall be upon him.²¹ And if the transgressor turn away from all his iniquities which he has committed, and keep all my commandments, and do justice and mercy, he shall surely live, and shall no means die.²² None of his trespasses which he has committed shall be remembers: in his righteousness which he has done he shall live.²³ Shall I at all desire death of the sinner, says the Lord, as I desire that he should turn from his evil way, and live?²⁴ But when the righteous man turns away from his righteousness, and commits iniquity, according to all the transgressions which the transgressor has wrought, none of his righteousness which he has wrought shall be at all remembered: in his trespass wherein he has trespassed, and in his sins wherein he has sinned, in them shall he die. ²⁵Yet ye have said, The way of the Lord is not straight. Hear now, all the house of Israel; will not my way be straight? Is your way straight? ²⁶When the righteous turns away from his righteousness and commits a trespass, and dies in the trespass he has committed, he shall even die in it. ²⁷And when the wicked man turns away from his wickedness that he has committed, and shall do judgement and justice, he has kept his soul, ²⁸and has turned away from all his ungodliness which he has committed: he shall surely live, he shall not die. ²⁹Yet the house of Israel say, The way of the Lord is not right. Is not my way right, O house of Israel? is not your way wrong? ³⁰I will judge you, O house of Israel, says the Lord, each one according to his way: be converted, and turn from all your ungodliness, and it shall not become to you the punishment of iniquity. ³¹Cast away from yourselves all your ungodliness wherein ye have sinned against me; and make to yourselves a new heart and a new spirit: for why should ye die, O house of Israel? ³²For I desire not the death of him that dies, says the Lord.

¹Moreover do thou take up a lamentation for the prince of Israel, ²and say, Why is thy mother become a whelp in the midst of lions? in the midst of lions she has multiplied her whelps. ³And one of her whelps sprang forth; he became a lion, and learned to take prey, he devoured men. ⁴And the nations heard a report of him; he was caught in their pit, and they brought him into the land of Egypt in chains. ⁵And she saw that he was driven away from her, and her hope of him perished, and she took another of her whelps; she made him a lion. ⁶And he went up and down in the midst of lions, he became a lion, and learned to take prey, he devoured men. ⁷And he prowled in his boldness and laid waste their cities, and made the land desolate, and the fullness of it, by the voice of his roaring. ⁸Then the nations set upon him from the countries round about, and they spread their nets upon him: he was taken in their pit. ⁹And they put him in chains and in a cage, and he came to the king of Babylon; and he cast him into prison, that his voice should not be heard on the mountains of Israel. ¹⁰Thy mother was as a vine and as a blossom on a pomegranate tree, planted by water: her fruit and her shoot abounded by reason of much water. ¹¹And she became a rod for a tribe of princes, and was elevated in her bulk in the midst of other trees, and she saw her bulk in the multitude of her branches. ¹²But

she was broken down in wrath, she was cast upon the ground, and the east wind dried up her choice branches: vengeance came upon them, and the rod of her strength was withered; fire consumed it. ¹³And now they have planted her in the wilderness, in a dry land. ¹⁴And fire is gone out of a rod of her choice boughs, and has devoured her; and there was no rod of strength in her. Her race is become a parable of lamentation, and it shall be for a lamentation.

Chapter 20

¹And it came to pass in the seventh year, on the fifteenth day of the month, there came men of the elders of the house of Israel to enquire of the Lord, and they sat before me. ²And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ³Son of man, speak to the elders of the house of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, Thus says the Lord; Are ye come to enquire of me? As I live, I will not be enquired of by you, says the Lord. ⁴Shall I utterly take vengeance on them, son of man? testify to them of the iniquities of their fathers: ⁵and thou shalt say to them, Thus says the Lord; From the day that I chose the house of Israel, and became known to the seed of the house of Jacob, and was known to them in the land of Egypt, and helped them with my hand, saying, I am the Lord your God; ⁶in that day I helped them with my hand, to bring them out of the land of Egypt into the land which I prepared for them, a land flowing with milk and honey, it is abundant beyond every land. ⁷And I said to them, Let every one cast away the abominations of his eyes, and defile not yourselves with the devices of Egypt: I am the Lord your God. ⁸But they revolted from me, and would not hearken to me: they cast not away the abominations of their eyes, and forsook not the devices of Egypt: then I said that I would pour out my wrath upon them, to accomplish my wrath upon them in the midst of Egypt. ⁹But I wrought so that my name should not be at all profaned in the sight of the Gentiles, in the midst of whom they are, among whom I was made known to them in their sight, to bring them out of the land of Egypt. ¹⁰And I brought them into the wilderness. ¹¹And I gave them my commandments, and made known to them mine ordinances, all which if a man shall do, he shall even live in them. ¹²And I gave them my sabbaths, that they should be for a sign between me and them, that they should know that I am the Lord that sanctify them. ¹³And I said to the house of Israel in the wilderness, Walk ye in my commandments: but they walked not in them, and they rejected mine ordinances, which if a man shall do, he shall even live in them; and they grievously profaned my sabbaths: and I said that I would pour out my wrath upon them in the wilderness, to consume them. ¹⁴But I wrought so that my name should not be at all profaned before the Gentiles, before whose eyes

I brought them out. ¹⁵But I lifted up my hand against them in the wilderness once for all, that I would not bring them into the land which I gave them, a land flowing with milk and honey, it is sweeter than all lands: ¹⁶because they rejected mine ordinances, and walked not in my commandments, but profaned my sabbaths, and went after the imaginations of their hearts. ¹⁷Yet mine eyes spared them, so as not to destroy them utterly, and I did not make an end of them in the wilderness. ¹⁸And I said to their children in the wilderness, Walk not ye in the customs of your fathers, and keep not their ordinances, and have no fellowship with their practices, nor defile yourselves with them. ¹⁹I am the Lord your God; walk in my commandments, and keep mine ordinances, and do them; ²⁰and hallow my sabbaths, and let them be a sign between me and you, that ye may know that I am the Lord your God. ²¹But they provoked me, and their children walked not in my commandments, and they took no heed to mine ordinances to do them, which if a man shall do, he shall even live in them, and they profaned my sabbaths: then I said that I would pour out my wrath upon them in the wilderness, to accomplish mine anger upon them. ²²But I wrought so that my name might not be at all profaned before the Gentiles; and I brought them out in their sight. ²³I lifted up my hand against them in the wilderness, that I would scatter them among the Gentiles, and disperse them in the countries; ²⁴because they kept not mine ordinances, and rejected my commandments, and profaned my sabbaths, and their eyes went after the imaginations of their fathers. ²⁵So I gave them commandments that were not good, and ordinances in which they should not live. ²⁶And I will defile them by their own decrees, when I pass through upon every one that opens the womb, that I may destroy them.

²⁷Therefore, son of man, speak to the house of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, Thus says the Lord: Hitherto have your fathers provoke me in their trespasses in which they transgressed against me. ²⁸Whereas I brought them into the land concerning which I lifted up mine hand to give it them; and they looked upon every high hill, and every shady tree, and they sacrificed there to their gods, and offered there sweet-smelling savour, and there they poured out their drink-offerings. ²⁹And I said to them, What is Abama, that ye go in thither? and they called its mane Abama, until this day. ³⁰Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord, Do ye pollute yourselves with the iniquities of your fathers, and do ye go a-whoring after their abominations, ³¹and do ye pollute yourselves with the first-fruits of your gifts, in the offerings wherewith ye pollute yourselves in all your imaginations, until this day; and shall I answer you, O house of Israel? As I live, says the Lord, I will not answer you, neither shall this thing come upon your spirit. ³²And it shall not be as ye say, We will be as the nations, and as the tribes of the earth, to worship stocks and stones. ³³Therefore, as I live, says the Lord, I will reign over you with a strong hand, and with a high arm, and with outpoured wrath: ³⁴I will bring you out from the nations, and will take you out of the lands wherein ye were dispersed, with a strong hand, and with a high arm, and with outpoured wrath. ³⁵And I will bring you into the wilderness of the nations, and will plead with you there face to face. ³⁶As I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I judge you, says the Lord. ³⁷And I will cause you to pass under my rod, and I will bring you in by number. ³⁸And I will separate from among you the ungodly and the revolvers; for I will lead them forth out of their place of sojourning, and they shall not enter into the land of Israel: and ye shall know that I am the Lord, even the Lord. ³⁹And as to you, O house of Israel, thus says the Lord, even the Lord; Put away each one his evil practices, and hereafter if ye hearken to me, then shall ye no more profane my holy name by your gifts and by devices. ⁴⁰For upon my holy mountain, on the high mountain, says the Lord, even the Lord, there shall all the house of Israel serve me for ever: and there will I accept you, and there will I have respect to your first-fruits, and the first-fruits of your offerings, in all your holy things. ⁴¹I will accept you with a sweet-smelling savour, when I bring you out from the nations, and take you out of the countries wherein ye have been dispersed; and I will be sanctified among you in the sight of the nations. ⁴²And ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I have brought you into the land of Israel, into the land concerning which I lifted up my hand to give it to your fathers. ⁴³And ye shall there remember your ways, and your devices wherewith ye defiled yourselves; and ye shall bewail yourselves for all your wickedness. ⁴⁴And ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I have done thus to you, that my name may not be profaned in your evil ways, and in your corrupt devices, says the Lord.

⁴⁵And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ⁴⁶Son of man, set thy face against Theman, and look toward Darom, and prophesy against the chief forest of Nageb, ⁴⁷and thou shalt say to the forest of Nageb, Hear the word of the Lord; thus says the Lord, even the Lord; Behold, I will kindle a fire in thee, and it shall devour in thee every green tree, and every dry tree: the flame that is kindled shall not be quenched, and every face shall be scorched with it from the south to the north. ⁴⁸And all flesh shall know that I the Lord have kindled it: it shall not be quenched. ⁴⁹And I said, Not so, O Lord

God! they say to me, Is not this that is spoken a parable?

Chapter 21

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Therefore prophesy, son of man, set thy face steadfastly toward Jerusalem, and look toward their holy places, and thou shalt prophesy against the land of Israel, ³and thou shalt say to the land of Israel, Thus says the Lord; Behold, I am against thee, and I will draw forth my sword out of its sheath, and I will destroy out of thee the transgressor and unrighteous. ⁴Because I will destroy out of thee the unrighteous and the transgressor, therefore so shall my sword come forth out of its sheath against all flesh from the south to the north: ⁵and all flesh shall know that I the Lord have drawn forth my sword out of its sheath: it shall not return any more. ⁶And thou, son of man, groan with the breaking of thy loins; thou shalt even groan heavily in their sight. ⁷And it shall come to pass, if they shall say to thee, Wherefore dost thou groan? that thou shalt say, For the report; because it comes: and every heart shall break, and all hands shall become feeble, and all flesh and every spirit shall faint, and all thighs shall be defiled with moisture: behold, it comes, says the Lord. ⁸And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ⁹Son of man, prophesy, and thou shalt say, Thus says the Lord; Say, Sword, sword, be sharpened and rage, ¹⁰that thou mayest slay victims; be sharpened that thou mayest be bright, ready for slaughter, slay, set at nought, despise every tree. ¹¹And he made it ready for his hand to hold: the sword is sharpened, it is ready to put into the hand of the slayer. ¹²Cry out and howl, son of man: for this sword is come upon my people, this sword is come upon all the princes of Israel: they shall be as strangers: judgment with the sword is come upon my people: therefore clap thine hands, for sentence has been passed: ¹³and what if even the tribe be rejected? it shall not be, says the Lord God. ¹⁴And thou, son of man, prophesy, and clap thine hands, and take a second sword: the third sword is the sword of the slain, the great sword of the slain: and thou shalt strike them with amazement, lest the heart should faint ¹⁵and the weak ones be multiplied at every gate—they are given up to the slaughter of the sword: it is well fitted for slaughter, it is well fitted for glittering. ¹⁶And do thou go on, sharpen thyself on the right and on the left whithersoever thy face may set itself. ¹⁷And I also will clap my hands, and let loose my fury: I the Lord have spoken it.

¹⁸And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ¹⁹and thou, son of man, appoint thee two ways, that the sword of the king of Babylon may enter in: the two shall go forth of one country; and there shall be a force at the top of the way of the city, thou shalt set it at the top of the way, ²⁰that the sword may enter in upon Rabbath of the children of Ammon, and upon Judea, and upon Jerusalem in the midst thereof. ²¹For the king of Babylon shall stand on the old way, at the head of the two ways, to use divination, to make bright the arrow, and to enquire of the graven images, and to examine the victims. ²²On his right was the divination against Jerusalem, to cast a mound, to open the mouth in shouting, to lift up the voice with crying, to cast a mound against her gates, to cast up a heap, and to build forts. ²³And he was to them as one using divination before them, and he himself recounting his iniquities, that they might be borne in mind. ²⁴Therefore thus says the Lord, Because ye have caused your iniquities to be remembered, in the discovery of your wickedness, so that your sins should be seen, in all your wickedness and in your evil practices; because ye have caused remembrance of them, in these shall ye be taken. ²⁵And thou profane wicked prince of Israel, whose day, even and end, is come in a sea of iniquity, thus says the Lord; ²⁶Thou hast taken off the mitre and put on the crown, it shall not have such another after it: thou hast abased that which was high, and exalted that which was low. ²⁷Injustice, injustice, injustice, will I make it: woe to it: such shall it be until he comes to whom it belongs; and I will deliver it to him. ²⁸And thou, son of man, prophesy, and thou shalt say, Thus says the Lord, concerning the children of Ammon, and concerning their reproach; and thou shalt say, O sword, sword, drawn for slaughter, and drawn for destruction, awake, that thou mayest gleam. ²⁹While thou art seeing vain visions, and while thou art prophesying falsehoods, to bring thyself upon the necks of ungodly transgressors, the day is come, even an end, in a season of iniquity. ³⁰Turn, rest not in this place wherein thou wert born: in thine own land will I judge thee. ³¹And I will pour out my wrath upon thee, I will blow upon thee with the fire of my wrath, and I will deliver thee into the hands of barbarians skilled in working destruction. ³²Thou shalt be fuel for fire; thy blood shall be in the midst of thy land; there shall be no remembrance at all of thee: for I the Lord have spoken it.

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²And thou, son of man, wilt thou judge the bloody city? yea, declare thou to her all her iniquities. ³And thou shalt say, Thus says the Lord God: O city that sheds blood in the midst of her, so that her time should come, and that forms devices against herself, to defile herself; ⁴in their blood which thou hast shed, thou hast transgressed; and in thy devices which thou hast formed, thou hast polluted thyself; and thou hast brought nigh thy days, and hast brought on the time of thy years: therefore have I made thee a reproach to the Gentiles, and a mockery to all the countries, ⁵to those near thee, and to those far distant from thee; and they shall mock thee, thou that art notoriously unclean, and abundant in iniquities. ⁶Behold, the princes of the house of Israel have conspired in thee each one with his kindred, that they might shed blood. ⁷In thee they have reviled father and mother; and in thee they have behaved unjustly toward the stranger: they have oppressed the orphan and widow. ⁸And they have set at nought my holy things, and in thee they have profaned my sabbaths. ⁹*There are* robbers in thee, to shed blood in thee; and in thee they have eaten upon the mountains: they have wrought ungodliness in the midst of thee. ¹⁰In thee they have uncovered the father's shame; and in thee they have humbled her that was set apart for uncleanness. ¹¹They have dealt unlawfully each one with his neighbor's wife; and each one in ungodliness has defiled his daughter-in-law: and in thee they have humbled each one his sister, the daughter of his father. ¹²In thee they have received gifts to shed blood; they have received in thee interest and usurious increase; and by oppression thou hast brought thy wickedness to the full, and hast forgotten me, says the Lord. ¹³And if I shall smite my hand at thine iniquities which thou hast accomplished, which thou hast wrought, and at thy blood that has been shed in the midst of thee, ¹⁴shall thy heart endure? shall thine hands be strong in the days which I bring upon thee? I the Lord have spoken, and will do it. ¹⁵And I will scatter thee among the nations, and disperse thee in the countries, and thy uncleanness shall be removed out of thee. ¹⁶And I will give heritages in thee in the sight of the nations, and ye shall know that I am the Lord. ¹⁷And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ¹⁸Son of man, behold, the house of Israel are all become to me as it were mixed with brass, and iron, and tin, and lead; they are mixed up in the midst of the silver. ¹⁹Therefore say, Thus says the Lord God; Because ye have become one mixture, therefore I will gather you into the midst of Jerusalem. ²⁰As silver, and brass, and iron, and tin, and lead, are gathered into the midst of the furnace, to blow fire into it, that they may be melted: so will I take you in my wrath, and I will gather and melt you. ²¹And I will blow upon you in the fire of my wrath, and ye shall be melted in the midst thereof. ²²As silver is melted in the midst of a furnace, so shall ye be melted in the midst thereof; and ye shall know that I the Lord have poured out my wrath upon you.

²³And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²⁴Son of man, say to her, Thou art the land that is not rained upon, neither has rain come upon thee in the day of wrath; ²⁵whose princes in the midst of her are as roaring lions seizing prey, devouring souls by oppression, and taking bribes; and thy widows are multiplied in the midst of thee. ²⁶Her priests also have set at nought my law, and profaned my holy things: they have not distinguished between the holy and profane, nor have they distinguished between the unclean and the clean, and have his their eyes from my sabbaths, and I was profaned in the midst of them. ²⁷Her princes in the midst of her are as wolves ravening to shed blood, that they may get dishonest gain. ²⁸And her prophets that daub them shall fall, that see vanities, that prophesy falsehoods, saying, Thus says the Lord, when the Lord has not spoken. ²⁹That sorely oppress the people of the land with injustice, and commit robbery; oppressing the poor and needy, and not dealing justly with the stranger. ³⁰And I sought from among them a man behaving uprightly, and standing before me perfectly in the time of wrath, so that I should not utterly destroy her: but I found him not. ³¹So I have poured out my wrath upon her in the fury of mine anger, to accomplish it. I have recompensed their ways on their own heads, says the Lord God.

Chapter 23

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, there were two women, daughters of one mother: ³and they went a-whoring in Egypt in their youth: there their breasts fell, there they lost their virginity. ⁴And their names were Oola the elder, and Oolibah her sister: and they were mine, and bore sons and daughters: and as for their names, Samaria was Oola, and Jerusalem was Oolibah. ⁵And Oola went a-whoring from me, and doted on her lovers, on the Assyrians that were her neighbors, ⁶clothed with purple, princes and captains; they were young men and choice, all horsemen riding on horses. ⁷And she bestowed her fornication upon them; all were choice sons of the Assyrians: and on whomsoever she doted herself, with them she defiled herself in all their devices. ⁸And she forsook not her fornication with the Egyptians: for in her youth they committed fornication with her, and they deflowered her, and poured out their fornication upon her. ⁹Therefore I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, into the hands of the children of the Assyrians, on whom she doted. ¹⁰They uncovered her shame: they took her sons and daughters, and slew her with the sword: and she became a byword among women: and they wrought vengeance in her for the sake of the daughters. ¹¹And her sister Oolibah saw it, and she indulged in her fondness more corruptly than she, and in her fornication more than the fornication of her sister. ¹²She doted upon the sons of the Assyrian, princes and captains, her neighbours, clothed with fine linen, horsemen riding on horses; they were all choice young men. ¹³And I saw that they were defiled, that the two had one way. ¹⁴And she increased her fornication, and she saw men painted on the wall, likenesses of the Chaldeans painted with a pencil, ¹⁵having variegated girdles on their loins, having also richly dyed attire upon their heads; all had a princely appearance, the likeness of the children of the Chaldeans, of their native land. ¹⁶And she doted upon them as soon as she saw them, and sent forth messengers to them into the land of the Chaldeans. ¹⁷And the sons of Babylon came to her, into the bed of rest, and they defiled her in her fornication, and she was defiled by them, and her soul was alienated from them. ¹⁸And she exposed her fornication, and exposed her shame: and my soul was alienated from her, even as my soul was alienated from her sister. ¹⁹And thou didst multiply thy fornication, so as to call to remembrance the days of thy youth, wherein thou didst commit whoredom in Egypt, ²⁰and thou didst dote upon the Chaldeans, whose flesh is as the flesh of the asses, and their members as the members of horses. ²¹And thou didst look upon the iniquity of thy youth, the things which thou wroughtest in Egypt in thy lodgings, where were the breasts of thy youth.

²²Therefore, Oolibab, thus says the Lord; Behold, I will stir up thy lovers against thee, from whom thy soul is alienated, and I will bring them upon thee round about, ²³the children of Babylon, and all the Chaldeans, Phacuc, and Sue, and Hychue, and all the sons of the Assyrians with them; choice young men, governors and captains, all princes and renowned, riding on horses. ²⁴And they all shall come upon thee from the north, chariots and wheels, with a multitude of nations, shields and targets; and the enemy shall set a watch against thee round about: and I will set judgement before them, and they shall take vengeance on thee with their judgements. ²⁵And I will bring upon thee my jealousy, and they shall deal with thee in great wrath: they shall take away thy nose and thine ears; and shall cast down thy remnant with the sword: they shall take thy sons and thy daughters; and thy remnant fire shall devour. ²⁶And they shall strip thee of thy raiment, and take away thine ornaments. ²⁷So I will turn back thine ungodliness from thee, and thy fornication from the land of Egypt: and thou shalt not lift up thine eyes upon them, and shalt no more remember Egypt. ²⁸Wherefore thus says the Lord God; Behold, I will deliver thee into the hands of those whom thou hatest, from whom thy soul is alienated. ²⁹And they shall deal with thee in hatred, and shall take all the fruits of thy labours and thy toils, and thou shalt be naked and bare: and the shame of thy fornication shall be exposed: and thy ungodliness and thy fornication ³⁰brought this upon thee, in that thou wentest a-whoring after the nations, and didst defile thyself with their devices. ³¹Thou didst walk in the way of thy sister; and I will put her cup into thine hands. ³²Thus says the Lord; Drink thy sister's cup, deep and large, and full, to cause complete drunkenness. ³³And thou shalt be thoroughly weakened; and the cup of destruction, the cup of thy sister Samaria, ³⁴drink thou it, and I will take away her feasts and her new moons: for I have spoken it, says the Lord. ³⁵Therefore thus says the Lord; Because thou has forgotten me, and cast me behind thy back, therefore receive thou the reward of thine ungodliness and thy fornication.

³⁶And the Lord said to me, Son of man wilt thou not judge Oola and Ooliba? and declare to them their iniquities? ³⁷For they have committed adultery, and blood was in their hands, they committed adultery with their devices, and they passed through the fire to them their children which they bore to me. ³⁸So long too as they did these things to me, they defiled my sanctuary, and profaned my sabbaths. ³⁹And when they sacrificed their children to their idols, they also went into my sanctuary to profane it: and whereas they did thus in the midst of my house; ⁴⁰and whereas they did thus to the men that came from afar, to whom they sent messengers, and as soon as they came, immediately thou didst wash thyself, and didst paint thine eyes and adorn thyself with ornaments, ⁴¹and satest on a prepared bed, and before it there was a table set out, and as for mine incense and mine oil, they rejoiced in them, ⁴²and they raised a sound of music, and that with men coming from the wilderness out of a multitude of men, and they put bracelets on their hands, and a crown of glory on their heads; ⁴³Therefore I said, Do they not commit adultery with these? and has she also gone a-whoring after the manner of a harlot? ⁴⁴And they went in to her, as men go in to a harlot; so they went in to Oola and to Ooliba to work iniquity. ⁴⁵And they are just men, and shall take vengeance on them with the judgement of an adulteress and the judgement of blood: for they are adulteresses, land blood is in their hands. ⁴⁶Thus says the Lord God, Bring up a multitude upon them, and send trouble and plunder into the midst of them. ⁴⁷And stone them with the stones of a multitude, and pierce them with their swords: they shall slay their sons and their daughters, and shall burn up their houses. ⁴⁸And I will remove ungodliness out of the land, and all the women shall be instructed, and shall not do according to their ungodliness. ⁴⁹And your ungodliness shall be recompensed upon you, and ye shall bear the guilt of your devices: and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, in the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, saying, ²Son of man, write for thyself daily from this day, on which the king of Babylon set himself against Jerusalem, even from this day. ³And speak a parable to the provoking house, and thou shalt say to them, Thus says the Lord; Set on the caldron, and pour water into it: ⁴and put the pieces into it, every prime piece, the leg and shoulder taken off from the bones, ⁵*which are* taken from choice cattle, and burn the bones under them: her bones are boiled and cooked in the midst of her. ⁶Therefore thus says the Lord; O bloody city, the caldron in which there is scum, and the scum has not gone out of, she has brought it forth piece by piece, no lot has fallen upon it. ⁷For her blood is in the midst of her; I have set it upon a smooth rock: I have not poured it out upon the earth, so that the earth should cover it; ⁸that my wrath should come up for complete vengeance to be taken: I set her blood upon a smooth rock, so as not to cover it. ⁹Therefore thus says the Lord, I will also make the firebrand great, ¹⁰and I will multiply the wood, and kindle the fire, that the flesh may be consumed, and the liquor boiled away; ¹¹and that it may stand upon the coals, that her brass may be thoroughly heated, and be melted in the midst of her filthiness, and her scum may be consumed, ¹²and her abundant scum may not come forth of her. ¹³Her scum shall become shameful, because thou didst defile thyself: and what if thou shalt be purged no more until I have accomplished my wrath? ¹⁴I the Lord have spoken; and it shall come, and I will do it; I will not delay, neither will I have any mercy: I will judge thee, says the Lord, according to thy ways, and according to thy devices: therefore will I judge thee according to thy bloodshed, and according to thy devices will I judge thee, thou unclean, notorious, and abundantly provoking one.

¹⁵And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ¹⁶Son of man, behold I take from thee the desire of thine eyes by violence: thou shalt not lament, neither shalt thou weep. ¹⁷Thou shalt groan for blood, and have mourning upon thy loins; thy hair shall not be braided upon thee, and thy sandals shall be on thy feet; thou shalt in no wise be comforted by their lips, and thou shalt not eat the bread of men. ¹⁸And I spoke to the people in the morning, as he commanded me in the evening, and I did in the morning as it was commanded me. ¹⁹And the people said to me, Wilt thou not tell us what these things are that thou doest? ²⁰Then I said to them, The word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²¹Say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord; Behold, I will profane my sanctuary, the boast of your strength, the desire of your eyes, and for which your souls are concerned; and your sons and your daughters, whom ye have left, shall fall by the sword. ²²And ye shall do as I have done: ye shall not be comforted at their mouth, and ye shall not eat the bread of men. ²³And your hair shall be upon your head, and your shoes on your feet: neither shall ye at all lament or weep; but ye shall pine away in your iniquities, and shall comfort every one his brother. ²⁴And Ezekiel shall be for a sign to you: according to all that I have done shall ye do, when these things shall come; and ye shall know that I am the Lord. ²⁵And thou, son of man, shall it not be in the day when I take their strength from them, the pride of their boasting, the desires of their eyes, and the pride of their soul, their sons and their daughters, ²⁶that in that day he that escapes shall come to thee, to tell it thee in thine ears? ²⁷In that say thy mouth shall be opened to him that escapes; thou shalt speak, and shalt be no longer dumb: and thou shalt be for a sign to them, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

Chapter 25

stamped with thy foot, and heartily rejoiced against the land of Israel; ⁷therefore I will stretch out my hand against thee, and I will make thee a spoil to the nations; and I will utterly destroy thee from among the peoples, and I will completely cut thee off from out of the countries: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. ⁸Thus says the Lord; Because Moab has said, Behold, are not the house of Israel and Juda like all the other nations? ⁹Therefore, behold, I will weaken the shoulder of Moab from his frontier cities, even the choice land, the house of Bethasimuth above the fountain of the city, by the sea-side. ¹⁰I have given him the children of Kedem in addition to the children of Ammon for an inheritance, that there may be no remembrance of the children of Ammon. ¹¹And I will execute vengeance on Moab; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

¹²Thus says the Lord; Because of what the Idumeans have done in taking vengeance on the house of Juda, and because they have remembered injuries, and have exacted full recompense; ¹³therefore thus says the Lord; I will also stretch out my hand upon Idumea, and will utterly destroy out of it man and beast; and will make it desolate; and they that are pursued out of Thaman shall fall by the sword. ¹⁴And I will execute my vengeance on Idumea by the hand of my people Israel: and they shall deal in Idumea according to mine anger and according to my wrath, and they shall know my vengeance, says the Lord. ¹⁵Therefore thus says the Lord, Because the Philistines have wrought revengefully, and raised up vengeance rejoicing from their heart to destroy the Israelites to a man; ¹⁶therefore thus says the Lord; Behold, I will stretch out my hand upon the Philistines, and will utterly destroy the Cretans, and will cut off the remnant that dwell by the sea-coast. ¹⁷And I will execute great vengeance upon them; and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have brought my vengeance upon them.

Chapter 26

¹And it came to pass in the eleventh year, on the first day of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, because Sor has said against Jerusalem, Aha, she is crushed: the nations are destroyed: she is turned to me: she that was full is made desolate: ³therefore thus says the Lord; Behold, I am against thee, O Sor, and I will bring up many nations against thee, as the sea comes up with its waves. ⁴And they shall cast down the walls of Sor, and shall cast down thy towers: and I will scrape her dust from off her, and make her a bare rock. ⁵She shall be in the midst of the sea a place for repairing nets: for I have spoken it, says the Lord: and it shall be a spoil for the nations. ⁶And her daughters which are in the field shall be slain with the sword, and they shall know that I am the Lord. ⁷For

thus says the Lord; Behold, I will bring up against thee, O Sor, Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon from the north: he is a king of kings, with horses, and chariots, and horsemen, and a concourse of very many nations. ⁸He shall slay thy daughters that are in the field with the sword, and shall set a watch against thee, and build forts around thee, and carry a rampart round against thee, and set up warlike works, and array his spears against thee. ⁹He shall cast down with his swords thy walls and thy towers. ¹⁰By reason of thy multitude of his horses their dust shall cover thee, and by reason of the sound of his horsemen and the wheels of his chariots thy walls shall be shaken, when he enters into thy gates, as one entering into a city from the plain. ¹¹With the hoofs of his horses they shall trample all thy streets: he shall slay thy people with the sword, and shall bring down to the ground the support of thy strength. ¹²And he shall prey upon thy power, and plunder thy substance, and shall cast down thy walls, and break down thy pleasant houses: and he shall cast thy stones and thy timber and thy dust into the midst of thy sea. ¹³And he shall destroy the multitude of thy musicians, and the sound of thy psalteries shall be heard no more. ¹⁴And I will make thee a bare rock: thou shalt be a place to spread nets upon; thou shalt be built no more: for I the Lord have spoken it, says the Lord. ¹⁵For thus says the Lord God to Sor; Shall not the isles shake at the sound of thy fall, while the wounded are groaning, while they have drawn a sword in the midst of thee? ¹⁶And all the princes of the nations of the sea shall come down from their thrones, and shall take off their crowns from their heads, and shall take off their embroidered raiment: they shall be utterly amazed; they shall sit upon the ground, and fear their own destruction, and shall groan over thee. ¹⁷And they shall take up a lamentation for thee, and shall say to thee, How art thou destroyed from out of the sea, the renowned city, that brought her terror upon all her inhabitants. ¹⁸And the isles shall be alarmed at the day of thy fall. ¹⁹For thus says the Lord God; When I shall make the city desolate, as the cities that shall not be inhabited, when I have brought the deep up upon thee, ²⁰and great waters shall cover thee; and I shall bring thee down to them that go down to the pit, to the people of old time, and shall cause thee to dwell in the depths of the earth, as in everlasting desolation, with them that go down to the pit, that thou mayest not be inhabited, nor stand upon the land of life; ²¹I will make thee a destruction, and thou shalt be no more for ever, says the Lord God.

Chapter 27

¹And the word of the Lord came to me saying, ²And thou, son of man, take up a lamentation against Sor; ³and thou shalt say to Sor that dwells at the entrance of the sea, to the mart of the nations coming from many islands, Thus says the Lord to Sor; Thou hast said, I have clothed myself with my beauty. ⁴In the heart of the sea thy sons have put beauty upon thee for Beelim. ⁵Cedar in Senir was employed for thee in building: boards of cypress timber were taken out of Libanus, and wood to make thee masts of fir. ⁶They made thine oars of wood out of the land of Basan; thy sacred utensils they made of ivory, thy shady houses of wood from the isles of Chetiim. ⁷Fine linen with embroidery from Egypt supplied the couch, to put honour upon thee, and to clothe thee with blue and purple from the isles of Elisai; and they became thy coverings. ⁸And thy princes were the dwellers in Sidon, and the Aradians were thy rowers: thy wise men, O Sor, who were in thee, these were thy pilots. ⁹The elders of the Biblians, and their wise men, who were in thee, these helped thy counsel: and all the ships of the sea and their rowers traded for thee to the utmost west. ¹⁰Persians and Lydians and Libyans were in thine army: thy warriors hung in thee shields and helmets; these gave thee thy glory. ¹¹The sons of the Aradians and thine army were upon the walls; there were guards in thy towers: they hung their quivers on thy battlements round about; these completed thy beauty. ¹²The Carthaginians were thy merchants because of the abundance of all thy strength; they furnished thy market with silver, and gold, and iron, and tin, and lead. ¹³Greece, both the whole world, and the adjacent coasts, these traded with thee in the persons of men, and they gave as thy merchandise vessels of brass. ¹⁴Out of the house of Thogarma horses and horsemen furnished the market. ¹⁵The sons of the Rhodians were thy merchants; from the islands they multiplied thy merchandise, even elephants' teeth: and to them that came in thou didst return thy prices, ¹⁶*even* men as thy merchandise, from the multitude of thy trading population, myrrh and embroidered works from Tharsis: Ramoth also and Chorchor furnished thy market. ¹⁷Juda and the children of Israel, these were thy merchants; in the sale of corn and ointments and cassia: and they gave the best honey, and oil, and resin, to thy trading population. ¹⁸*The people of* Damascus were thy merchants by reason of the abundance of all thy power; wine out of Chelbon, and wool from Miletus; and they brought wine into thy market. ¹⁹Out of Asel came wrought iron, and there is the sound of wheels among thy trading population. ²⁰*The people of* Daedan were thy merchants, with choice cattle for chariots. ²¹Arabia and all the princes of Kedar, these were thy traders with thee, bringing camels, and lambs, and rams, in which they trade with thee. ²²The merchants of Sabba and Ramma, these were thy merchants, with choice spices, and precious stones: and they brought gold to thy market. ²³Charra, and Chanaa, these were thy merchants: Assur, and Charman, were thy merchants: ²⁴*bringing for* merchandise blue, and choice stores bound with cords, and cypress wood. ²⁵Ships were thy merchants, in abundance, with thy trading population: and thou wast filled and very heavily loaded in the heart of the sea.

²⁶Thy rowers have brought thee into great waters: the south wind has broken thee in the heart of the sea. ²⁷Thy forces, and thy gain, and that of thy traders, and thy rowers, and thy pilots, and thy counselors, and they that traffic with thee, and all thy warriors that are in thee: and all thy company in the midst of thee shall perish in the heart of the sea, in the day of thy fall. ²⁸At the cry of thy voice thy pilots shall be greatly terrified. ²⁹And all the rowers and the mariners shall come down from the ships, and the pilots of the sea shall stand on the land. ³⁰And they shall wail over thee with their voice, and cry bitterly, and put earth on their heads, and spread ashes under them. ³²And their sons shall take up a lament for thee, even a lamentation for Sor, saying, ³³How large a reward hast thou gained from the sea? thou hast filled nations out of thine abundance; and out of thy mixed merchandise thou hast enriched all the kings of the earth. ³⁴Now art thou broken in the sea, thy traders are in the deep water, and all thy company in the midst of thee: all thy rowers have fallen. ³⁵All the dwellers in the islands have mourned over thee, and their kings have been utterly amazed, and their countenance has wept. ³⁶Merchants from the nations have hissed at thee; thou art utterly destroyed, and shalt not be any more for ever.

Chapter 28

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²And thou, son of man, say to the prince of Tyrus, Thus says the Lord; Because thine heart has been exalted, and thou hast said, I am God, I have inhabited the dwelling of God in the heart of the sea; yet thou art man and not God, though thou hast set thine heart as the heart of God: ³art thou wiser than Daniel? or have not the wise instructed thee with their knowledge? ⁴Hast thou gained power for thyself by thine own knowledge or thine own prudence, and gotten gold and silver in thy treasures? ⁵By thy abundant knowledge and thy traffic thou hast multiplied thy power; thy heart has been lifted up by thy power. ⁶Therefore thus says the Lord; Since thou hast set thine heart as the hart of God; ⁷because of this, behold, I will bring on thee strange plagues from the nations; and they shall draw their swords against thee, and against the beauty of thy knowledge, ⁸and they shall bring down thy beauty to destruction. And they shall bring thee down; and thou shalt die the death of the slain in the heart of the sea. ⁹Wilt thou indeed say, I am God, before them that slay thee? whereas thou art man, and not God. ¹⁰Thou shalt perish by the hands of strangers among the multitude of the uncircumcised: for I have spoken it, says he Lord.

¹¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ¹²Son of man, take up a lamentation for the prince of Tyre, and say to him, Thus says the Lord God; Thou art a seal of resemblance, and crown of beauty. ¹³Thou wast in the delight of the paradise of God; thou hast bound upon thee every precious stone, the sardius, and topaz, and emerald, and carbuncle, and sapphire, and jasper, and silver, and gold, and ligure, and agate, and amethyst, and chrysolite, and beryl, and onyx: and thou hast filled thy treasures and thy stores in thee with gold. ¹⁴From the day that thou wast created thou wast with the cherub: I set thee on the holy mount of God; thou wast in the midst of the stones of fire. ¹⁵Thou wast faultless in thy days, from the day that thou wast created, until iniquity was found in thee. ¹⁶Of the abundance of thy merchandise thou hast filled thy storehouses with iniquity, and hast sinned: therefore thou hast been cast down wounded from the mount of God, and the cherub has brought thee out of the midst of the stones of fire. ¹⁷Thy heart has been lifted up because of thy beauty; thy knowledge has been corrupted with thy beauty: because of the multitude of thy sins I have cast thee to the ground, I have caused thee to be put to open shame before kings. ¹⁸Because of the multitude of thy sins and the iniquities of thy merchandise, I have profaned thy sacred things; and I will bring fire out of the midst of thee, this shall devour thee; and I will make thee to be ashes upon thy land before all that see thee. ¹⁹And all that know thee among the nations shall groan over thee: thou art gone to destruction, and thou shalt not exist any more.

²⁰And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²¹Son of man, set thy face against Sidon, and prophesy against it, ²²and say, Thus says the Lord; Behold, I am against thee, O Sidon; and I will be glorified in thee; and thou shalt know that I am the Lord, when I have wrought judgments in thee, and I will be sanctified in thee. ²³Blood and death shall be in thy streets; and men wounded with swords shall fall in thee and on every side of thee; and they shall know that I am the Lord. ²⁴And there shall no more be in the house of Israel a thorn of bitterness and a pricking briar proceeding from them that are round about them, who dishonoured them; and they shall know that I am the Lord. ²⁵Thus says the Lord God; I will also gather Israel from the nations, among whom they have been scattered, and I will be sanctified among them, and before the peoples and nations: and they shall dwell upon their land, which I gave to my servant Jacob. ²⁶Yea, they shall dwell upon it safely, and they shall build houses, and plant vineyards, and dwell securely, when I shall execute judgment on all that have dishonoured them, even on those that are round about them; and they shall know that I am the Lord their God, and the God of their fathers.

Chapter 29

¹In the twelfth year, in the tenth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, set thy face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him, and against the whole of Egypt: ³and say, Thus says the Lord; Behold, I am against Pharaoh, the great dragon that lies in the midst of his rivers, that says, The rivers are mine, and I made them. ⁴And I will put hooks in thy jaws, and I will cause the fish of thy river to stick to thy sides, and I will bring thee up out of the midst of thy river: ⁵and I will quickly cast down thee and all the fish of thy river: thou shalt fall on the face of the plain, and shalt by no means be gathered, and shalt not be brought together: I have given thee for food to the wild beasts of the earth and to the fowls of the sky. ⁶And all the dwellers in Egypt shall know that I am the Lord, because thou hast been a staff of reed to the house of Israel. ⁷When they took hold of thee with their hand, thou didst break: and when every hand was clapped against them, and when they leaned on thee, thou wast utterly broken, and didst crush the loins of them all. ⁸Therefore thus says the Lord; Behold, I will bring a sword upon thee, and will cut off from thee man and beast; ⁹and the land of Egypt shall be ruined and desert; and they shall know that I am the Lord; because thou sayest, The rivers are mine, and I made them. ¹⁰Therefore, behold, I am against thee, and against all thy rivers, and I will give up the land of Egypt to desolation, and the sword, and destruction, from Magdol and Syene even to the borders of the Ethiopians. ¹¹No foot of man shall pass through it, and no foot of beast shall pass through it, and it shall not be inhabited for forty years. ¹²And I will cause her land to be utterly destroyed in the midst of a land that is desolate, and her cities shall be desolate forty years in the midst of cities that are desolate: and I will disperse Egypt among the nations, and will utterly scatter them into the countries.

¹³Thus says the Lord; After forty years I will gather the Egyptians from the nations among whom they have been scattered; ¹⁴and I will turn the captivity of the Egyptians, and will cause them to dwell in the land of Phathore, in the land whence they were taken; ¹⁵and it shall be a base kingdom beyond all other kingdoms; it shall not any more be exalted over the nations; and I will make them few in number, that they may not be great among the nations. ¹⁶And they shall no more be to the house of Israel a confidence bringing iniquity to remembrance, when they follow after them; and they shall know that I am the Lord. ¹⁷And it came to pass in the twenty-seventh year, on the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ¹⁸Son of man, Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon caused his army to serve a great service against Tyre; every head was bald, and every shoulder peeled; yet there was no reward to him or to his army serving against Tyre, nor for the service wherewith they served against it. ¹⁹Thus says the Lord God; Behold, I will give to Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon the land of Egypt, and he shall take the plunder thereof, and seize the spoils thereof; and it shall be a reward for his army. ²⁰In return for his service wherewith he served against Tyre, I have given him the land of Egypt; thus says the Lord God: ²¹In that day shall a horn spring forth for all the house of Israel, and I will give thee an open mouth in the midst of them; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

Chapter 30

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord; Woe, woe worth the day! ³For the day of the Lord is nigh, a day of cloud; it shall be the end of the nations. ⁴And the sword shall come upon the Egyptians, and there shall be tumult in Ethiopia, and in Egypt men shall fall down slain together, and her foundations shall fall. ⁵Persians, and Cretans, and Lydians, and Libyans, and all the mixed multitude, and they of the children of my covenant, shall fall by the sword therein. ⁶And the supports of Egypt shall fall; and the pride of her strength shall come down from Magdol to Syene: they shall fall by the sword in it, says the Lord. ⁷And it shall be made desolate in the midst of desolate countries, and their cities shall be desolate in the midst of desolate cities: ⁸and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall send fire upon Egypt, and when all that help her shall be broken. ⁹In that day shall messengers go forth hasting to destroy Ethiopia utterly, and there shall be tumult among them in the day of Egypt: for, behold it comes. ¹⁰Thus says he Lord God; I will also destroy the multitude of the Egyptians by the hand of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, ¹¹his hand and his people's; they are plagues sent forth from the nations to destroy the land: and they all shall unsheath their swords against Egypt, and the land shall be filled with slain. ¹²And I will make their rivers desolate, and will destroy the land and the fulness of it by the hands of strangers: I the Lord have spoken. ¹³For thus says the Lord God; I will also destroy the nobles from Memphis, and the princes of Memphis out of the land of Egypt; and they shall be no more. ¹⁴And I will destroy the land of Phathore, and will send fire upon Tanis, and will execute vengeance on Diospolis. ¹⁵And I will pour out my wrath upon Sais the strength of Egypt, and will destroy the multitude of Memphis. ¹⁶And I will send fire upon Egypt; and Syene shall be sorely troubled; and there shall be a breaking in Diospolis, and waters shall be poured out. ¹⁷The youths of Heliopolis and Bubastum shall fall by the sword, and the women shall go into captivity. ¹⁸And the day shall be darkened in Taphnae, when I have broken there the scepters of Egypt: and the pride of her strength shall perish there: and a cloud shall cover her, and her daughters shall be taken prisoners. ¹⁹And I will execute judgment on Egypt; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

²⁰And it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the first month, on the seventh day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²¹Son of man, I have broken the arms of Pharao, king of Egypt; and, behold, it has not been bound up to be healed, to have a plaster put upon it, or to be strengthened to lay hold of the sword. ²²Therefore thus says the Lord God; Behold, I am against Pharao king of Egypt, and I will break his strong and outstretched arms, and will smite down his sword out of his hand. ²³And I will disperse the Egyptians among the nations, and will utterly scatter them among the countries. ²⁴And I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and put my sword into his hand: and he shall bring it upon Egypt, and shall take her plunder and seize her spoils. ²⁵Yea, I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and the arms of Pharao shall fail: and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have put my sword into the hands of the king of Babylon, and he shall stretch it out over the land of Egypt. ²⁶And I will disperse the Egyptians among the nations, and utterly scatter them among the countries; and they all shall know that I am the Lord.

Chapter 31

¹And it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to his multitude; To whom hast thou compared thyself in thy haughtiness?

³Behold, the Assyrian was a cypress in Libanus, and was fair in shoots, and high in stature: his top reached to the midst of the clouds. ⁴The water nourished him, the depth made him grow tall; she led her rivers round about his plants, and she sent forth her streams to all the trees of the field.

⁵Therefore, was his stature exalted above all the trees of the field, and his branches spread far by the help of much water. ⁶All the birds of the sky made their nests in his boughs, and under his branches all the wild beasts of the field bred; the whole multitude of nations dwelt under his shadow.

⁷And he was fair in his height by reason of the multitude of his branches: for his roots were amidst much water. ⁸And such cypresses as this were in the paradise of God; and there were no pines like his shoots, and there were no firs like his branches: no tree in the paradise of God was like him in his beauty, ⁹because of the multitude of his branches: and the trees of God's paradise of delight envied him.

¹⁰Therefore thus says the Lord; Because thou art grown great, and hast set thy top in the midst of the clouds, and I saw when he was exalted;

¹¹therefore I delivered him into the hands of the prince of the nations, and he wrought his destruction. ¹²And ravaging strangers from the nations have destroyed him, and have cast him down upon the mountains: his branches fell in all the valleys, and his boughs were broken in every field of the land; and all the people of the nations are gone down from their shelter, and have laid him low. ¹³All the birds of the sky have settled on his fallen trunk, and all the wild beasts of the field came upon his boughs: ¹⁴in order that none of the trees by the water should exalt themselves by reason of their size: whereas they set their top in the midst of the clouds, yet they continued not in their high state in their place, all that drank water, all were consigned to death, to the depth of the earth, in the midst of the children of men, with them that go down to the pit. ¹⁵Thus says the Lord God; In the day wherein he went down to Hades, the deep mourned for him: and I stayed her floods, and restrained her abundance of water: and Libanus saddened for him, all the trees of the field fainted for him. ¹⁶At the sound of his fall the nations quaked, when I brought him down to Hades with them that go down to the pit: and all the trees of Delight comforted him in the heart, and the choice of plants of Libanus, all that drink water. ¹⁷For they went down to hell with him among the slain with the sword; and his seed, even they that dwelt under his shadow, perished in the midst of their life. ¹⁸To whom art thou compared? descend, and be thou debased with the trees of paradise to the depth of the earth: thou shalt lie in the midst of the uncircumcised with them that are slain by the sword. Thus shall Pharao be, and the multitude of his host, says the Lord God.

Chapter 32

¹And it came to pass in the twelfth year, in the tenth month, on the first day of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, take up a lamentation for Pharao king of Egypt, and say to him, Thou art become like a lion of the nations, and as a serpent that is in the sea: and thou didst make assaults with thy rivers, and didst disturb the water with thy feet, and didst trample thy rivers. ³Thus says the Lord; I will also cast over thee the nets of many nations, and will bring thee up with my hook: ⁴and I will stretch thee upon the earth: the fields shall be covered with thee, and I will cause all the birds of the sky to settle upon thee, and I will fill with thee all the wild beasts of the earth. ⁵And I will cast thy flesh upon the mountains, and will saturate them with thy blood. ⁶And the land shall be drenched with thy dung, because of thy multitude upon the mountains: I will fill the valleys with thee. ⁷And I will veil the heavens when thou art extinguished, and will darken the stars thereof; I will cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon shall not give her light. ⁸All the bodies that give light in the sky, shall be darkened over thee, and I will bring darkness upon the earth, says the Lord God. ⁹And I will provoke to anger the heart of many people, when I shall lead thee captive among the nations, to a land which thou hast not know. ¹⁰And many nations shall mourn over thee, and their kings shall be utterly amazed, when my sword flies in their faces, as they wait for their own fall from the day of thy fall.

¹¹For thus says the Lord God; The sword of the king of Babylon shall come upon thee, ¹²with the swords of mighty men; and I will cast down thy strength: they are all destroying ones from the nations, and they shall destroy the pride of Egypt, and all her strength shall be crushed. ¹³And I will destroy all her cattle from beside the great water; and the foot of man shall not trouble it any more, and the step of cattle shall no more trample it. ¹⁴Thus shall their waters then be at rest, and their rivers shall flow like oil, says the Lord, ¹⁵when I shall give up Egypt to destruction, and the land shall be made desolate with the fullness thereof; when I shall scatter all that dwell in it, and they shall know that I am the Lord. ¹⁶There is a lamentation, and thou shalt utter it; and the daughters of the nations shall utter it, even for Egypt, and they shall mourn for it over all the strength thereof, says the Lord God. ¹⁷And it came to pass in the twelfth year, in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ¹⁸Son of man, lament over the strength of Egypt, for the nations shall bring down her daughters dead to the depth of the earth, to them that go down to the pit. ²⁰They shall fall with him in the midst of them that are slain with the sword, and all his strength shall perish: the giants also shall say to thee, ²¹Be thou in the depth of the pit: to whom art thou superior? yea, go down, and lie with the uncircumcised, in the midst of them that are slain with the sword. ²²There are Assur and all his company: all his slain have been laid there: ²³and their burial is in the depth of the pit, and his company are set around about his tomb: all the slain that fell by the sword, who had caused the fear of them to be upon the land of the living. ²⁴There is *Æ*lam and all his host round about his tom: all the slain that fell by the sword, and the uncircumcised that go down to the deep of the earth, who caused their fear to be upon the land of the living: and they have received their punishment with them that go down to the pit, ²⁵in the midst of the slain. ²⁶There were laid Mosoch, and Thobel, and all his strength round about his tomb: all his slain men, all the uncircumcised, slain with the sword, who caused their fear to be in the land of the living. ²⁷And they are laid with the giants that fell of old, who went down to Hades with their weapons of war: and they laid their swords under their heads, but their iniquities were upon their bones, because they terrified all men during their life. ²⁸And thou shalt lie in the midst of the uncircumcised, with them that have been slain by the sword. ²⁹There are laid the princes of Assur, who yielded their strength to a wound of the sword: these are laid with the slain, with them that go down to the pit. ³⁰There are the princes of the north, even all the captains of Assur, who go down slain to Hades: they lie uncircumcised among the slain with the sword together with their terror and their strength, and they have received their punishment with them that go down to the pit. ³¹King Pharaos shall see them, and shall be comforted over all their force, says the Lord God. ³²For I have caused his fear to be upon the land of the living yet he shall lie in the midst of the uncircumcised with them that are slain with the sword, even Pharaos, and all his multitude with him, says the Lord God.

Chapter 33

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, speak to the children of thy people, and thou shalt say to them, On whatsoever land I shall bring a sword, and the people of the land take one man of them, and set him for their watchman: ³and he shall see the sword coming upon the land, and blow the trumpet, and sound an alarm to the people; ⁴and he that hears the sound of the trumpet shall hear indeed, and yet not take heed, and the sword shall come upon him, and overtake him, his blood shall be upon his own head. ⁵Because he heard the sound of the trumpet, and took no heed, his blood shall be upon him: but the other, because he took heed, has delivered his soul. ⁶But if the watchman see the sword coming, and do not sound the trumpet, and the people do not watch; and the sword come, and take a soul from among them, that soul is taken because of its iniquity; but the blood thereof will I require at the watchman's hand. ⁷And thou, son of man, I have set thee as a watchman to the house of Israel, and thou shalt hear a word from my mouth. ⁸When I say to the sinner, Thou shalt surely die; if thou speak not to warn the wicked from his way, the wicked himself shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand. ⁹But if thou forewarn the wicked of his way to turn from it, and he turn not from his way, he shall die in his ungodliness; but thou hast delivered thine own soul. ¹⁰And thou, son of man, say to the house of Israel; Thus have ye spoken, saying, Our errors, and our iniquities weigh upon us, and we pine away in them, and how then shall we live? ¹¹Say to them, Thus says the Lord; As I live, I desire not the death of the ungodly, as that the ungodly should turn from his way and live: turn ye heartily from your way; for why will ye die, O house of Israel? ¹²Say to the children of thy people, The righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him, in the day wherein he errs: and the iniquity of the ungodly shall not harm him, in the day wherein he turns from his iniquity, but the righteous erring shall not be able to deliver himself. ¹³When I say to the righteous, Thou shalt live; and he trusts in his righteousness, and shall commit iniquity, none of his righteousnesses shall be remembered; in his unrighteousness which he has wrought, in it shall he die. ¹⁴And when I say to the ungodly, Thou shalt surely die; and he shall turn from his sin, and do judgment and justice, ¹⁵and return the pledge, and repay that which he has robbed, and walk in the ordinances of life, so as to do no wrong; he shall surely live, and shall not die. ¹⁶None of his sins which he has committed shall be remembered: because he has wrought judgment and righteousness; by them shall he live.

¹⁷Yet the children of thy people will say, The way of the Lord is not straight: whereas this their way is not straight. ¹⁸When the righteous turns away from his righteousness, and shall commit iniquities, then shall he die in them. ¹⁹And when the sinner turns from his iniquity, and shall do judgment and righteousness, he shall live by them. ²⁰And this is that which ye said, The way of the Lord is not straight. I will judge you, O house of Israel, every one for his ways. ²¹And it came to pass in the tenth year of our captivity, in the twelfth month, on the fifth day of the month, that one that had escaped from Jerusalem came to me, saying, The city is taken. ²²Now the hand of the Lord had come upon me in the evening, before he came; and he opened my mouth, when he came to me in the morning: and my mouth was open, it was no longer kept closed. ²³And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²⁴Son of man, they that inhabit the desolate places on the land of Israel say, Abram was one, and he possessed the land: and we are more numerous; to us the land is given for a possession. ²⁷Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord God, As I live, surely they that are in the desolate places shall fall by swords and they that are in the open plain shall be given for food to the wild beasts of the field, and them that are in the fortified cities and them that are in the caves I will slay with pestilence. ²⁸And I will make the land desert, and the pride of her strength shall perish; and the mountains of Israel shall be made desolate by reason of no man passing through. ²⁹And they shall know that I am the Lord; and I will make their land desert, and it shall be made desolate because of all their abominations which they have wrought.

³⁰And as for thee, son of man, the children of thy people are they that speak concerning thee by the walls, and in the porches of the houses, and they talk one to another, saying, Let us come together, and let us hear the words that proceed from the Lord. ³¹They approach thee as a people comes together, and sit before thee, and hear thy words, but they will not do them: for there is falsehood in their mouth, and their heart goes after their pollutions. ³²And thou art to them as a sound of a sweet, well-tuned psaltery, and they will hear thy words, but they will not do them. ³³But whenever it shall come to pass, they will say, Behold, it is come: and they shall know that there was a prophet in the midst of them.

Chapter 34

wearied with labour. ⁵And my sheep were scattered, because there were no shepherds: and they became meat to all the wild beasts of the field. ⁶And my sheep were scattered on every mountain, and on every high hill: yea, they were scattered on the face of the earth, and there was none to seek them out, nor to bring them back. ⁷Therefore, ye shepherds, hear the word of the Lord. ⁸As I live, says the Lord God, surely because my sheep became a prey, and my sheep became meat to all the wild beasts of the field, because there were no shepherds, and the shepherds sought not out my sheep, and the shepherds fed themselves, but fed not my sheep. ⁹For this cause, O shepherds, ¹⁰thus says the Lord God, Behold, I am against the shepherds; and I will require my sheep at their hands, and will turn them back that they shall not feed my sheep, and the shepherds shall no longer feed them; and I will deliver my sheep out of their mouth, and they shall no longer be meat for them. ¹¹For thus says the Lord God, Behold, I will seek out my sheep, and will visit them. ¹²As the shepherd seeks his flock, in the day when there is darkness and cloud, in the midst of the sheep that are separated: so will I seek out my sheep, and will bring them back from every place where they were scattered in the day of cloud and darkness. ¹³And I will bring them out from the Gentiles, and will gather them from the countries, and will bring them into their own land, and will feed them upon the mountains of Israel, and in the valleys, and in every inhabited place of the land. ¹⁴I will feed them in a good pasture, on a high mountain of Israel: and their folds shall be there, and they shall lie down, and there shall they rest in perfect prosperity, and they shall feed in a fat pasture on the mountains of Israel. ¹⁵I will feed my sheep, and I will cause them to rest; and they shall know that I am the Lord: thus says the Lord God. ¹⁶I will seek that which is lost, and I will recover the stray one, and will bind up that which was broken, and will strengthen the fainting, and will guard the strong, and will feed them with judgment. ¹⁷And as for you, ye sheep, thus says the Lord God, Behold, I will distinguish between sheep and sheep, between rams and he-goats. ¹⁸And is it not enough for you that ye fed on the good pasture, that ye trampled with your feet the remnant of your pasture? and that ye drank the standing water, that ye disturbed the residue with your feet? ¹⁹So my sheep fed on that which ye had trampled with your feet; and they drank the water that had been disturbed by your feet.

²⁰Therefore thus says the Lord God; Behold, I will separate between the strong sheep and the weak sheep. ²¹Ye did thrust with your sides and shoulders, and pushed with your horns, and ye cruelly treated all the sick. ²²Therefore I will save my sheep, and they shall not be any more for a prey; and will judge between ram and ram.

Jezeziel

²³And I will raise up one shepherd over them, and he shall tend them, even my servant David, and he shall be their shepherd; ²⁴and I the Lord will be to them a God, and David a prince in the midst of them; I the Lord have spoken it. ²⁵And I will make with David a covenant of peace and I will utterly destroy evil beasts from off the land; and they shall dwell in the wilderness, and sleep in the forests.
²⁶And I will settle them round about my mountain; and I will give you the rain, the rain of blessing. ²⁷And the trees that are in the field shall yield their fruit, and the earth shall yield her strength, and they shall dwell in the confidence of peace on their land, and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have broken their yoke; and I will deliver them out of the hand of those that enslaved them. ²⁸And they shall no more be a spoil to the nations, and the wild beasts of the land shall no more at all devour them; and they shall dwell safely, and there shall be none to make them afraid. ²⁹And I will raise up for them a plant of peace, and they shall no more perish with hunger upon the land, and they shall no more bear the reproach off the nations. ³⁰And they shall know that I am the Lord their God, and they my people. O house of Israel, says the Lord God, ³¹ye are my sheep, even the sheep of my flock, and I am the Lord your God, says the Lord God.

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, set thy face against mount Seir, and prophesy against it, ³and say to it, Thus says the Lord God; Behold, I am against thee, O mount Seir, and I will stretch out my hand against thee, and will make thee a waste, and thou shalt be made desolate. ⁴And I will cause desolation in thy cities, and thou shalt be desolate, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. ⁵Because thou hast been a perpetual enemy, and hast laid wait craftily for the house of Israel, with the hand of enemies with a sword, in the time of injustice, at the last: ⁶Therefore, as I live, says the Lord God, verily thou hast sinned even to blood, therefore blood shall pursue thee. ⁷And I will make mount Seir a waste, and desolate, and I will destroy from off it men and cattle: ⁸and I will fill thy hills and thy valleys with slain men, and in all thy plains there shall fall in thee men slain with the sword. ⁹I will make thee a perpetual desolation, and thy cities shall not be inhabited any more: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. ¹⁰Because thou saidst, The two nations and the two countries shall be mine, and I shall inherit them; whereas the Lord is there: ¹¹therefore, as I live, says the Lord, I will even deal with thee according to thine enmity, and I will be made known to thee when I shall judge thee: ¹²and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. I have heard the voice of thy blasphemies, whereas thou hast said, The desert mountains of Israel are given to us for food; ¹³and thou hast spoken swelling words against me with thy mouth: I have heard them. ¹⁴Thus says the Lord; When all the earth is rejoicing, I will make thee desert. ¹⁵Thou shalt be desert, O mount Seir, and all Idumea; and it shall be utterly consumed: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord their God.

Chapter 36

¹And thou, son of man, prophesy to the mountains of Israel, and say to the mountains of Israel, Hear ye the word of the Lord: ²Thus says the Lord God; Because the enemy has said against you, Aha, the old waste places are become a possession for us: ³therefore prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord God; Because ye have been dishonoured, and hated by those round about you, that ye might be a possession to the remainder of the nations, and ye became a by-word, and a reproach to the nations: ⁴therefore, ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord; Thus says the Lord to the mountains, and to the hills, and to the streams, and to the valleys, and to the places that have been made desolate and destroyed, and to the cities that have been deserted, and have become a spoil and a trampling to the nations that were left round about; ⁵therefore, thus says the Lord; Verily in the fire of my wrath have I spoken against the rest of the nations, and against all Idumea, because they have appropriated my land to themselves for a possession with joy, disregarding the lives of the inhabitants, to destroy it by plunder: ⁶therefore prophesy concerning the land of Israel, and say to the mountains, and to the hills, and to the valleys, and to the forests, Thus says the Lord; Behold, I have spoken in my jealousy and in my wrath, because ye have borne the reproaches of the heathen: ⁷therefore I will lift up my hand against the nations that are round about you; they shall bear their reproach. ⁸But your grapes and your fruits, O mountains of Israel, shall my people eat; for they are hoping to come. ⁹For, behold, I am toward you, and I will have respect to you, and ye shall be tilled and sown: ¹⁰and I will multiply men upon you, even all the house of Israel to the end: and the cities shall be inhabited, and the desolate land shall be built upon. ¹¹And I will multiply men and cattle upon you; and I will cause you to dwell as at the beginning, and will treat you well, as in your former times: and ye shall know that I am the Lord. ¹²And I will increase men upon you, even my people Israel; and they shall inherit you, and ye shall be to them for a possession; and ye shall no more be bereaved of them. ¹³Thus says the Lord God: Because they said to thee, Thou land devourest men, and hast been bereaved of thy nation; ¹⁴therefore thou shalt no more devour men, and thou shalt no more bereave thy nation, says the Lord God. ¹⁵And there shall no more be heard against you the reproach of the nations, and ye shall no more bear the revilings of the peoples, says the Lord God.

you into your own land: ²⁵and I will sprinkle clean water upon you, and ye shall be purged from all your uncleannesses, and from all your idols, and I will cleanse you. ²⁶And I will give you a new heart, and will put a new spirit in you: and I will take away the heart of stone out of your flesh, and will give you a heart of flesh. ²⁷And I will put my Spirit in you, and will cause you to walk in mine ordinances, and to keep my judgments, and do them. ²⁸And ye shall dwell upon the land which I gave to your fathers; and ye shall be to me a people, and I will be to you a God. ²⁹And I will save you from all your uncleannesses: and I will call for the corn, and multiply it, and will not bring famine upon you. ³⁰And I will multiply the fruit of the trees, and the produce of the field, that ye may not bear the reproach of famine among the nations.

³¹And ye shall remember your evil ways and your practices that were not good, and ye shall be hateful in your own sight for your transgressions and for your abominations. ³²Not for your sakes do I this, says the Lord God, as it is known to you: be ye ashamed and confounded for your ways, O house of Israel. ³³Thus says the Lord God; In the day wherein I shall cleanse you from all your iniquities I will also cause the cities to be inhabited, and the waste places shall be built upon: ³⁴and the desolate land shall be cultivated, whereas it was desolate in the eyes of every one that passed by. ³⁵And they shall say, That desolate land is become like a garden of delight; and the waste and desolate and ruined cities are inhabited. ³⁶And the nations, as many as shall have been left round about you, shall know that I the Lord have built the ruined cities and planted the waste lands: I the Lord have spoken, and will do it. ³⁷Thus says the Lord God; Yet for this will I be sought by the house of Israel, to establish them; I will multiply them even men as sheep; ³⁸as holy sheep, as the sheep of Jerusalem in her feasts; thus shall the desert cities be full of flocks of men: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

Chapter 37

¹And the hand of the Lord came upon me, and the Lord brought me forth by the Spirit, and set me in the midst of the plain, and it was full of human bones. ²And he led me round about them every way: and, behold, there were very many on the face of the plain, very dry. ³And he said to me, Son of man, will these bones live? and I said, O Lord God, thou knowest this. ⁴And he said to me, Prophecy upon these bones, and thou shalt say to them, Ye dry bones, hear the word of the Lord. ⁵Thus says the Lord to these bones; Behold, I will bring upon you the breath of life: ⁶and I will lay sinews upon you, and will bring up flesh upon you, and will spread skin upon you, and will put my Spirit into you, and ye shall live; and ye shall know that I am the Lord. ⁷So I prophesied as the Lord commanded me: and it came to pass while I was prophesying, that, behold, there was a shaking, and the bones approached each one to his joint. ⁸And I looked, and behold, sinews and flesh grew upon them, and skin came upon them above: but there was not breath in them. ⁹And he said to me, Prophecy to the wind, prophecy, son of man, and say to the wind, Thus says the Lord; Come from the four winds, and breathe upon these dead men, and let them live. ¹⁰So I prophesied as he commanded me, and the breath entered into them, and they lived, and stood upon their feet, a very great congregation. ¹¹And the Lord spoke to me, saying, Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel: and they say, Our bones are become dry, our hope has perished, we are quite spent. ¹²therefore prophecy and say, Thus says the Lord; Behold, I will open your tombs, and will bring you up out of your tombs, and will bring you into the land of Israel. ¹³And ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I have opened your graves, that I may bring up my people from their graves. ¹⁴And I will put my Spirit within you, and ye shall live, and I will place you upon your own land: and ye shall know that I am the Lord; I have spoken, and will do it, says the Lord. ¹⁵And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ¹⁶Son of man, take for thyself a rod, and write upon it, Juda, and the children of Israel his adherents; and thou shalt take for thyself another rod, and thou shalt inscribe it for Joseph, the rod of Ephraim, and all the children of Israel that belong to him. ¹⁷And thou shalt joint them together for thyself, so as that they should bind themselves into one stick; and they shall be in thine hand.

¹⁸And it shall come to pass, when the children of thy people shall say to thee, Wilt thou not tell us what thou meanest by these things? ¹⁹Then shalt thou say to them, Thus says the Lord; behold, I will take the tribe of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel that belong to him, and I will add them to the tribe of Juda, and they shall become one rod in the hand of Juda. ²⁰And the rods on which thou didst write shall be in thine hand in their presence. ²¹And thou shalt say to them, Thus says the Lord God; Behold, I will take the whole house of Israel out of the midst of the nations, among whom they have gone, and I will gather them from all that are round about them, and I will bring them into the land of Israel. ²²And I will make them a nation in my land, even on the mountains of Israel; and they shall have one prince: and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided any more at all into two kingdoms: ²³that they may no more defile themselves with their idols; and I will deliver them from all their transgressions whereby they have sinned, and will cleanse them; and they shall be to me a people, and I the Lord will be to them a God. ²⁴And my servant David shall be a prince in the midst of them: there shall be one shepherd of them all; for they shall walk in mine ordinances, and keep my judgments, and do them. ²⁵And they shall dwell in their land, which I have given to my servant Jacob, where their fathers dwelt; and they shall dwell upon it: and David my servant shall be their prince forever. ²⁶And I will make with them a covenant of peace; it shall be an everlasting covenant with them; and I will establish my sanctuary in the midst of them for ever. ²⁷And my tabernacle shall be among them; and I will be to them a God, and they shall be my people. ²⁸And the nations shall know that I am the Lord that sanctifies them, when my sanctuary is in the midst of them for ever.

¹And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ²Son of man, set thy face against Gog, and the land of Magog, Rhos, prince of Mesoch and Thobel, and prophesy against him, ³and say to him, Thus says the Lord God; Behold, I am against thee, Rhos prince of Mesoch and Thobel: ⁴and I will gather thee, and all thine host, horses and horsemen, all wearing breast-plates, with a great multitude, shields and helmets and swords: ⁵Persians, and Ethiopians, and Libyans; all with helmets and shields. ⁶Gomer, and all belonging to him; the house of Thorgama, from the end of the north, and all belonging to him; and many nations with thee. ⁷Be thou prepared, prepare thyself, thou, and all thy multitude that is assembled with thee, and thou shalt be to me for a guard.

¹⁰Thus says the Lord God; It shall also come to pass in that day, that thoughts shall come up into thine heart, and thou shalt devise evil devices. ¹¹And thou shalt say, I will go up to the rejected land; I will come upon them that are at ease in tranquility, and dwelling in peace, all inhabiting a land in which there is no wall, nor bars, nor have they doors; ¹²to seize plunder, and to take their spoil; to turn my hands against the desolate land that is now inhabited, and against a nation that is gathered from many nations, that have acquired property, dwelling in the midst of the land. ¹³Sabba, and Daedan, and Carthaginian merchants, and all their villages shall say to thee, Thou art come for plunder to take a prey, and to get spoils: thou hast gathered thy multitude to take silver and gold, to carry off property, to take spoils.

¹⁴Therefore prophesy, son of man, and say to Gog, Thus says the Lord; Wilt thou not arise in that day, when my people Israel are dwelling securely, ¹⁵and come out of thy place from the farthest north, and many nations with thee? all of them mounted on horses, a great gathering, and a large force? ¹⁶And thou shalt come up upon my people Israel as a cloud to cover the land; it shall come to pass in the last days, that I will bring thee up upon my land, that all the nations may know me, when I am sanctified in thee before them. ¹⁷Thus says the Lord God, to Gog; Thou art he concerning whom I spoke in former times, by the hand of my servants the prophets of Israel, in those days and years, that I would bring thee up against them. ¹⁸And it shall come to pass in that day, in the day when Gog shall come against the Land of Israel, says the Lord God, ¹⁹that my wrath and my jealousy shall arise, I have spoken in the fire of mine anger, verily in that day there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel; ²⁰and the fish of the sea shall quake at the presence of the Lord, and the birds of the sky and the wild beasts of the field, and all the reptiles that creep upon the earth, and all the men that are on the face of the earth; and the mountains shall be rent, and the valleys shall fall, and every wall on the land shall fall. ²¹And I will summon against it even every fear, says the Lord: the sword of every man shall be against his brother. ²²And I will judge him with pestilence, and blood, and sweeping rain, and hailstones; and I will rain upon him fire and brimstone, and upon all that are with him, and upon many nations with him. ²³And I will be magnified, and sanctified, and glorified; and I will be known in the presence of many nations, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

Chapter 39

¹And thou, son of man, prophesy against Gog, and say, Thus says the Lord; Behold, I am against thee, O Gog, Rhos prince of Mesoch and Thobel: ²and I will assemble thee, and guide thee, and raise thee up on the extremity of the north, and I will bring thee up upon the mountains of Israel. ³And I will destroy the bow out of thy left hand, and thine arrows out of thy right hand, and I will cast thee down on the mountains of Israel; ⁴and thou and all that belong to thee shall fall, and the nations that are with thee shall be given to multitudes of birds, even to every fowl, and I have given thee to all the wild beasts of the field to be devoured. ⁵Thou shalt fall on the face of the field: for I have spoken it, says the Lord. ⁶And I will send a fire upon Gog, and the islands shall be securely inhabited: and they shall know that I am the Lord. ⁷And my holy name shall be known in the midst of my people Israel; and my holy name shall no more be profaned: and the nations shall know that I am the Lord, the Holy One in Israel. ⁸Behold it is come, and thou shalt know that it shall be, says the Lord God; this is the day concerning which I have spoken. ⁹And they that inhabit the cities of Israel shall come forth, and make a fire with the arms, the shields and the spears, and bows and arrows, and hand-staves, and lances, and they shall keep fire burning with them for seven years: ¹⁰and they shall not take any wood out of the field, neither shall they cut any out of the forests, but they shall burn the weapons with fire: and they shall plunder those that plundered them, and spoil those that spoiled them, says the Lord.

¹¹And it shall come to pass that in that day I will give to Gog a place of renown, a tomb in Israel, the burial-place of them that approach the sea: and they shall build round about the outlet of the valley, and there they shall bury Gog and all his multitude: and the place shall then be called the burial-place of Gog. ¹²And the house of Israel shall bury them, that the land may be cleansed in the space of seven months. ¹³Yea, all the people of the land shall bury them; and it shall be to them a place of renown in the day wherein it was glorified, says the Lord. ¹⁴And they shall appoint men continually to go over the land, to bury them that have been left on the face of the earth, to cleanse it after the space of seven months, and they shall seek them out. ¹⁵And every one that goes through the land, and sees a man's bone, shall set up a mark by it, until the buriers shall have buried it in the valley, the burial place of Gog. ¹⁶For the name of the city shall be Burial-place: so shall the land be cleansed.

¹⁷And thou, son of man, say, Thus says the Lord; Say to every winged bird, and to all the wild beasts of the field, Gather yourselves, and come; gather yourselves from all places round about to my sacrifice, which I have made for you, even a great sacrifice on the mountains of Israel, and ye shall eat flesh, and drink blood. ¹⁸Ye shall eat the flesh of mighty men, and ye shall drink the blood of princes of the earth, rams, and calves and goats, and they are all fatted calves. ¹⁹And ye shall eat fat till ye are full, and shall drink wine till ye are drunken, of my sacrifice which I have prepared for you. ²⁰And ye shall be filled at my table, eating horse, and rider, and mighty man, and every warrior, says the Lord. ²¹And I will set my glory among you, and all the nations shall see my judgment which I have wrought, and my hand which I have brought upon them. ²²And the house of Israel shall know that I am the Lord their God, from this day and onwards.

²³And all the nations shall know that the house of Israel were led captive because of their sins, because they rebelled against me, and I turned away my face from them, and delivered them into the hands of their enemies, and they all fell by the sword.

²⁴According to their uncleannesses and according to their transgressions did I deal with them, and I turned away my face from them. ²⁵Therefore thus says the Lord God, Now will I turn back captivity in Jacob, and will have mercy on the house of Israel, and will be jealous for the sake of my holy name.

²⁶And they shall bear their reproach, and the iniquity which they committed when they dwelt upon their land in peace. Yet there shall be none to terrify them ²⁷when I have brought them back from the nations, and gathered them out of the countries of the nations: and I will be sanctified among them in the presence of the nations. ²⁸And they shall know that I am the Lord their God, when I have been manifested to them among the nations. ²⁹And I will no more turn away my face from them, because I have poured out my wrath upon the house of Israel, says the Lord God.

¹And it came to pass in the twenty-fifth year of our captivity, in the first month, on the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after the taking of the city, in that day the hand of the Lord was upon me, and brought me ²in a vision of God into the land of Israel, and set me on a very high mountain, and upon it there was as it were the frame of a city before me.

³And he brought me in thither, and, behold, there was a man, and the appearance of him was as the appearance of shining brass, and in his hand was a builder's line, and a measuring reed; and he stood at the gate. ⁴And the man said to me, Look with thine eyes at him whom thou hast seen, son of man, and hear with thine ears, and lay up in thine heart all things that I show thee; for thou hast come in hither that I might show thee, and thou shalt show all things that thou seest to the house of Israel. ⁵And behold a wall round about the house without, and in the man's hand a reed, the measure of it was six cubits by the cubit, and a span: and he measured across the front wall; the breadth was equal to the reed, and the length of it equal to the reed. ⁶And he entered by seven steps into the gate that looks eastward, and he measured across the porch of the gate equal to the reed. ⁷And the chamber was equal in length to the reed, and equal in breadth to the reed; and the porch between the chambers six cubits; and the second chamber equal in breadth to the reed, and equal in length to the reed, and the porch five cubits. ⁸And the third chamber equal in length to the reed, and equal in breadth to the reed. ⁹And the porch of the gateway (near the porch of the gate) eight cubits; and the posts there of two cubits; and the porch of the gate was inward: ¹⁰and the chambers of the gate of the chamber in front were three on one side and three on the other, and there was one measure to the three: there was one measure to the porches on this side and on that. ¹¹And he measured the breadth of the door of the gateway, ten cubits; and the breadth of the gateway thirteen cubits. ¹²And the space before the chambers was narrowed to a cubit in front of the chambers on this side and on that side: and the chamber was six cubits this way, and six cubits that way. ¹³And he measured the gate from the wall of one chamber to the wall of the other chamber: the breadth was twenty-five cubits, the one gate over against the other gate. ¹⁴And the open space of the porch of the gate without, was twenty cubits to the chambers round about the gate. ¹⁵And the open space of the gate without to the open space of the porch of the gate within was fifty cubits. ¹⁶And there were secret windows to the chambers, and to the porches within the gate of the court round about, and in the same manner windows to the porches round about within: and on the porch there were palm-trees on this side and on that side. ¹⁷And he brought me into the inner court, and, behold, there were chambers, and peristyles round about the court; thirty chambers within the ranges of columns. ¹⁸And the porticos were behind the gates; according to the length of the gates, was the lower peristyle. ¹⁹And he measured the breadth of the court, from the open space of the outer gate inwards to the open space of the gate looking outwards: a hundred cubits was the distance to the place of the gate looking eastward: and he brought me to the north; ²⁰and behold a gate looking northwards belonging to the outer court, and he measured it, both the length of it and the breadth; ²¹and the chambers, three on this side and three on that; and the posts, and the porches, and the palm-trees thereof: and they were according to the measures of the gate that looks eastward: the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth thereof was twenty-five cubits. ²²And its windows, and its porches, and its palm-trees, were according to the dimensions of the gate looking eastward; and they went up to it by seven steps; and the porches were within. ²³And there was a gate to the inner court looking toward the north gate, after the manner of the gate looking toward the east; and he measured the court from gate to gate, a hundred cubits.

²⁴And he brought me to the south side, and behold a gate looking southwards: and he measured it, and its chambers, and its posts, and its porches, according to these dimensions. ²⁵And its windows and its porches round about were according to the windows of the porch: the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth thereof was five and twenty cubits. ²⁶And it had seven steps, and porches within: and it had palm-trees on the posts, one on one side, and one on the other side. ²⁷And there was a gate opposite the gate of the inner court southward: and he measured the court from gate to gate, a hundred cubits in breadth southward. ²⁸And he brought me into the inner court of the south gate: and he measured the gate according to these measures; ²⁹and the chambers, and the posts, (40:30) and the porches, according to these measures: and there were windows to it and to the porches round about: its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits, ³¹from the porch to the outer court: and there were palm-trees to the post thereof, and eight steps. ³²And he brought me in at the gate that looks eastward: and he measured it according to these measures: ³³and the chambers, and the posts, and the porches according to these measures: and there were windows to it, and porches round about: the length of it was fifty cubits, and the breadth of it twenty-five cubits. ³⁴And there were porches opening into the inner court, and palm-trees on the posts on this side and on that side: and it had eight steps. ³⁵And he brought me in at the northern gate, and measured it according to these measures; ³⁶and the chambers, and the posts, and the porches: and it had windows round about, and it had its porches: the length of it was fifty cubits, and the breadth twenty-five cubits. ³⁷And its porches were toward the inner court; and there were palm-trees to the posts on this side and on that side: and it had eight steps. ³⁸Its chambers and its door-ways, and its porches at the second gate served as a drain, ³⁹that they might slay in it the sin-offerings, and the trespass-offerings. ⁴⁰And behind the drain for the whole-burnt-offerings at the north gate, two tables eastward behind the second gate; and behind the porch of the gate two tables eastward. ⁴¹Four on one side and four on the other side behind the gate; upon them they kill the victims, in front of the eight tables of sacrifices. ⁴²And there were four tables of hewn stone for whole-burnt-offerings, the breadth of them was a cubit and a half, and the length of them two cubits and a half, and their height was a cubit: on them they shall place the instruments with which they slay there the whole-burnt-offerings and the victims. ⁴³And they shall have within a border of hewn stone round about of a span broad, and over the tables above screens for covering them from the wet and from the heat. ⁴⁴And he brought me into the inner court, and behold there were two chambers in the inner court, one behind the gate looking to the north, turning southward, and one behind the southern gate, but which looks to the north. ⁴⁵And he said to me, This chamber that looks to the south, is for the priests that keep the charge of the house. ⁴⁶And the chamber that looks to the north is for the priests that keep the charge of the altar: they are the sons of Sadduc, those of the tribe of Levi who draw near to the Lord to serve him. ⁴⁷And he measured the court, the length whereof was a hundred cubits, and the breadth a hundred cubits, on its four sides; and the altar in front of the house. ⁴⁸And he brought me into the porch of the house; and he measured the post of the porch, the breadth was five cubits on one side and five cubits on the other side; and the breadth of the door was fourteen cubits, and the side-pieces of the door of the porch were three cubits on one side, and three cubits on the other side. ⁴⁹And the length of the porch was twenty cubits, and the breadth twelve cubits; and they went up to it by ten steps; and there were pillars to the porch, one on this side and one on that side.

¹And he brought me into the temple, the porch of which he measured, six cubits the breadth on one side, and six cubits the breadth of the porch on the other side. ²And the breadth of the gateway was ten cubits, and the side-pieces of the gateway were five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side: and he measured the length of it, forth cubits, and the breadth, twenty cubits. ³And he went into the inner court, and measured the post of the door, two cubits; and the door, six cubits; and the side-pieces of the door, seven cubits on one side, and seven cubits on the other side. ⁴And he measured the length of the doors, forty cubits; and the breadth, twenty cubits, in front of the temple: and he said, This is the holy of holies. ⁵And he measured the wall of the house, six cubits: and the breadth of each side, four cubits round about. ⁶And the sides were twice ninety, side against side; and there was a space in the wall of the house at the sides round about, that they should be for them that take hold of them to see, that they should not at all touch the walls of the house. ⁷And the breadth of the upper side was made according to the projection out of the wall, against the upper one round about the house, that it might be enlarged above, and that men might go up to the upper chambers from those below, and from the ground-sills to the third story. ⁸And as for the height of the house round about, each space between the sides was equal to a reed of six cubits; ⁹and the breadth of the wall of each side without was five cubits; and the spaces that were left between the sides of the house, ¹⁰and between the chambers, were a width of twenty cubits, the circumference of the house. ¹¹And the doors of the chambers were toward the space left by the one door that looked northward, and there was one door southward; and the breadth of the remaining open space was five cubits in extent round about. ¹²And the partition wall in front of the remaining space, toward the west, was seventy cubits in breadth; the breadth of the partition wall was five cubits round about, and the length of it ninety cubits. ¹³And he measured in front of the house a length of a hundred cubits, and the remaining spaces and the partitions; and the walls thereof were in length a hundred cubits. ¹⁴And the breadth in front of the house, and the remaining spaces before it were a hundred cubits. ¹⁵And

he measured the length of the partition in front of the space left by the back parts of that house; and the spaces left on this side and on that side were in length a hundred cubits; and the temple and the corners and the outer porch were ceiled. ¹⁶And the windows were latticed, giving light round about to the three stories, so as to look through: and the house and the parts adjoining were planked round about, and so was the floor, and from the floor up to the windows, and the window shutters folded back in three parts for one to look through. ¹⁷And almost all the way to the inner, and close to the outer side, and upon all the wall round about within and without, ¹⁸were carved cherubs and palm-trees between the cherubs, and each cherub had two faces. ¹⁹The face of a man was toward one palm-tree on this side and on that side, and the face of a lion toward another palm-tree on this side and on that side: the house was carved all round. ²⁰From the floor to the ceiling were cherubs and palm-trees carved. ²¹And the holy place and the temple opened on four sides; in front of the holy places the appearance was as the look of ²²a wooden altar, the height of it three cubits, and the length two cubits, and the breadth two cubits; and it had horns, and the base of it and the sides of it were of wood: and he said to me, This is the table, which is before the face of the Lord. ²³And the temple had two doors, and the sanctuary had two doors, with two turning leaves apiece; ²⁴two leaves to the one, and two leaves to the other door. ²⁵And there was carved work upon them, and cherubs on the doors of the temple, and palm-trees according to the carving of the sanctuary; and there were stout planks in front of the porch without. ²⁶And there were secret windows; and he measured from side to side, to the roofing of the porch; and the sides of the house were closely planked.

Chapter 42

¹And he brought me into the inner court eastward, opposite the northern gate: and he brought me in, and behold five chambers near the vacant space, and near the northern partition, ²a hundred cubits in length toward the north, and in breadth fifty, ³ornamented accordingly as the gates of the inner court, and arranged accordingly as the peristyles of the outer court, with triple porticos fronting one another. ⁴And in front of the chambers was a walk ten cubits in breadth, the length reaching to a hundred cubits; and their doors were northward. ⁵And the upper walks were in like manner: for the peristyle projected from it, even from the range of columns below, and there was a space between; so were there a peristyle and a space between, and so were there two porticos. ⁶For they were triple, and they had not pillars like the pillars of the outer ones: therefore they projected from the lower ones and the middle ones from the ground. ⁷And there was light without, corresponding to the chambers of the outer court looking toward the front of the northern chambers; the length of them was fifty cubits. ⁸For the length of the chambers looking toward the inner court was fifty cubits, and these are the ones that front the others; the whole was a hundred cubits. ⁹And there were doors of these chambers for an outlet toward the east, so that one should go through them out of the outer court, ¹⁰by the opening of the walk at the corner; and the south parts were toward the south, toward the remaining space, and toward the partition, and so were the chambers. ¹¹And the walk was in front of them, according to the measures of the chambers toward the north, both according to the length of them, and according to the breadth of them, and according to all their openings, an according to all their turnings, and according to their lights, and according to their doors. ¹²*So were the measures* of the chambers toward the south, and according to the doors at the entrance of the walk, as it were the distance of a reed for light, and eastward as one went in by them.

¹³And he said to me, The chambers toward the north, and the chambers toward the south, in front of the void spaces, these are the chambers of the sanctuary, wherein the priests the sons of Sadduc, who draw nigh to the Lord, shall eat the most holy things: and there shall they lay the most holy things, and the meat-offering, and the sin-offerings, and the trespass-offerings; because the place is holy. ¹⁴None shall go in thither except the priests, and they shall not go forth of the holy place into the outer court, that they that draw nigh to me may be continually holy, and may not touch their garments in which they minister, with defilement, for they are holy; and they shall put on other garments whenever they come in contact with the people. ¹⁵So the measurement of the house within was accomplished: and he brought me forth by the way of the gate that looks eastward, and measured the plan of the house round about in order. ¹⁶And he stood behind the gate looking eastward, and measured five hundred cubits with the measuring reed. ¹⁷And he turned to the north and measured in front of the north side five hundred cubits with the measuring reed. ¹⁸And he turned to the west, and measured in front of the west side, five hundred cubits with the measuring reed. ¹⁹And he turned to the south, and measured in front of the south side, five hundred cubits by the measuring reed. ²⁰The four sides he measured by the same reed, and he marked out the house and the circumference of the parts round about, a space of five hundred cubits eastward, and a breadth of five hundred cubits, to make a division between the sanctuary and the outer wall, that belonged to the design of the house.

¹Moreover he brought me to the gate looking eastward, and led me forth. ²And, behold, the glory of the God of Israel came by the eastern way; and there was a voice of an army, as the sound of many redoubling their shouts, and the earth shone like light from the glory round about. ³And the vision which I saw was like the vision which I saw when I went in to anoint the city: and the vision of the chariot which I saw was like the vision which I saw at the river Chobar; and I fell upon my face. ⁴And the glory of the Lord came into the house, by the way of the gate looking eastward. ⁵And the Spirit took me up, and brought me into the inner court; and, behold, the house of the Lord was full of glory. ⁶And I stood, and behold there was a voice out of the house of one speaking to me, and a man stood near me, ⁷and he said to me, Son of man, thou hast seen the place of my throne, and the place of the soles of my feet, in which my name shall dwell in the midst of the house of Israel for ever; and the house of Israel shall no more profane my holy name, they and their princes, by their fornication, or by the murders of their princes in the midst of them; ⁸when they set my door-way by their door-way, and my thresholds near to their thresholds: and they made my wall as it were joining myself and them, and they profaned my holy name with their iniquities which they wrought: and I destroyed them in my wrath and with slaughter. ⁹And now let them put away from me their fornication, and the murders of their princes, and I will dwell in the midst of them forever. ¹⁰And thou, son of man, shew the house to the house of Israel, that they may cease from their sins; and shew its aspect and the arrangement of it. ¹¹And they shall bear their punishment for all the things that they have done: and thou shalt describe the house, and its entrances, and the plan thereof, and all its ordinances, and thou shalt make known to them all the regulations of it, and describe them before them: and they shall keep all my commandments, and all my ordinances, and do them. ¹²And thou shalt shew the plan of the house on the top of the mountain: all its limits round about shall be most holy. ¹³And these are the measures of the altar by the cubit of a cubit and a span, the cavity shall be a cubit deep, and a cubit shall be the breadth, and the border on the rim of it round about shall be a span: and this shall be the height of the altar ¹⁴from the bottom at the commencement of the hollow part to this great mercy-seat, from beneath was two cubits, and the breadth was a cubit; and from the little mercy-seat to the great mercy-seat, four cubits, and the breadth was a cubit. ¹⁵And the altar shall be four cubits; and from the altar and above the horns a cubit. ¹⁶And the altar shall be of the length of twelve cubits, by twelve cubits in breadth, square upon its four sides. ¹⁷And the mercy-seat shall be fourteen cubits in length, by fourteen cubits in breadth on its four sides; and there shall be a border to it carried round about it of half a cubit; and the rim of it shall be a cubit round about; and the steps thereof looking eastward.

¹⁸And he said to me, Son of man, thus says the Lord God of Israel; These are the ordinances of the altar in the day of its being made, to offer upon it whole-burnt-offerings, and to pour blood upon it. ¹⁹And thou shalt appoint to the priests the Levites of the seed of Sadduc, that draw nigh to me, says the Lord God, to minister to me, a calf of the herd for a sin-offering.

²⁰And they shall take of its blood, and shall put it on the four horns of the altar, and upon the four corners of the propitiatory, and upon the base round about, and they shall make atonement for it. ²¹And they shall take the calf of the sin-offering, and it shall be consumed by fire in the separate place of the house, outside the sanctuary.

²²And on the second day they shall take two kids of the goats without blemish for a sin-offering; and they shall make atonement for the altar, as they made atonement with the calf.

²³And after they have finished the atonement, they shall bring an unblemished calf of the herd, and an unblemished ram of the flock. ²⁴And ye shall offer them before the Lord, and the priests shall sprinkle salt upon them, and shall offer them up as whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord.

Jezeziel

²⁵Seven day shalt thou offer a kid daily for a sin-offering, and a calf of the herd, and a ram out of the flock: they shall sacrifice them unblemished for seven days: ²⁶and they shall make atonement for the altar, and shall purge it; and they shall consecrate themselves. ²⁷And it shall come to pass from the eighth day and onward, that the priests shall offer your whole-burnt-offerings on the altar, and your peace-offerings; and I will accept you, says the Lord.

Chapter 44

¹Then he brought me back by the way of the outer gate of the sanctuary that looks eastward; and it was shut. ²And the Lord said to me, This gate shall be shut, it shall not be opened, and no one shall pass through it; for the Lord God of Israel shall enter by it, and it shall be shut. ³For the prince, he shall sit in it, to eat bread before the Lord; he shall go in by the way of the porch of the gate, and shall go forth by the way of the same. ⁴And he brought me in by the way of the gate that looks northward, in front of the house: and I looked, and, behold, the house was full of the glory of the Lord: and I fell upon my face. ⁵And the Lord said to me, Son of man, attend with thine heart, and see with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears all that I say to thee, according to all the ordinances of the house of the Lord, and all the regulations thereof; and thou shalt attend well to the entrance of the house, according to all its outlets, in all the holy things. ⁶And thou shalt say to the provoking house, even to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord God; Let it suffice you to have committed all your iniquities, O house of Israel! ⁷that ye have brought in aliens, uncircumcised in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh, to be in my sanctuary, and to profane it, when ye offered bread, flesh, and blood; and ye transgressed my covenant by all your iniquities; ⁸and ye appointed others to keep the charges in my sanctuary. ⁹Therefore thus says the Lord God; No alien, uncircumcised in heart or uncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my sanctuary, of all the children of strangers that are in the midst of the house of Israel. ¹⁰But as for the Levites who departed far from me when Israel went astray from me after their imaginations, they shall even bear their iniquity. ¹¹yet they shall minister in my sanctuary, being porters at the gates of the house, and serving the house: they shall slay the victims and the whole-burnt-offerings for the people, and they shall stand before the people to minister to them. ¹²Because they ministered to them before their idols, and it became to the house of Israel a punishment of iniquity; therefore have I lifted up my hand against them, says the Lord God. ¹³And they shall not draw nigh to me to minister to me in the priests' office, nor to approach the holy things of the children of Israel, nor to approach my holy of holies: but they shall bear their reproach for the error wherein they erred. ¹⁴They shall bring them to keep the charges of the house, for all the service of it, and for all that they shall do.

¹⁵The priests the Levites, the sons of Sadduc, who kept the charges of my sanctuary when the house of Israel when astray from me, these shall draw nigh to me to minister to me, and shall stand before my face, to offer sacrifice to me, the fat and the blood, says the Lord God. ¹⁶These shall enter into my sanctuary, and these shall approach my table, to minister to me, and they shall keep my charges. ¹⁷And it shall come to pass when they enter the gates of the inner court, that they shall put on linen robes; and they shall not put on woollen garments when they minister at the gate of the inner court. ¹⁸And they shall have linen mitres upon their heads, and shall have linen drawers upon their loins; and they shall not tightly gird themselves. ¹⁹And when they go out into the outer court to the people, they shall put off their robes, in which they minister; and they shall lay them up in the chambers of the sanctuary, and shall put on other robes, and they shall not sanctify the people with their robes. ²⁰And they shall not shave their heads, nor shall they pluck off their hair; they shall carefully cover their heads. ²¹And no priest shall drink any wine, when they go into the inner court. ²²Neither shall they take to themselves to wife a widow, or one that is put away, but a virgin of the seed of Israel: but if there should happen to be a priest's widow, they shall take her. ²³And they shall teach my people to distinguish between holy and profane, and they shall make known to them the difference between unclean and clean. ²⁴And these shall attend at a judgment of blood to decide it: they shall rightly observe my ordinances, and judge my judgments, and keep my statutes and my commandments in all my feasts; and they shall hallow my sabbaths. ²⁵And they shall not go in to the dead body of a man to defile themselves: only a priest may defile himself for a father, or for a mother, or for a son, or for a daughter, or for a brother, or for his sister, who has not been married. ²⁶And after he has been cleansed, let him number to himself seven days. ²⁷And on whatsoever day they shall enter into the inner court to minister in the holy place, they shall bring a propitiation, says the Lord God. ²⁸And it shall be to them for an inheritance: I am their inheritance: and no possession shall be given them among the children of Israel; for I am their possession. ²⁹And these shall eat the meat-offerings, and the sin-offerings, and the trespass-offerings; and every special offering in Israel shall be theirs. ³⁰And the first-fruits of all things, and the first-born of all animals and all offerings, of all your first-fruits there shall be a share for the priests; and ye shall give your earliest produce to the priest, to bring your blessings upon your houses.

Jezekiel

³¹And the priests shall eat no bird or beast that dies of itself, or is taken of wild beasts.

Chapter 45

¹And when ye measure thee land for inheritance, ye shall set apart first-fruits to the Lord, a holy space of the land, in length twenty and five thousand reeds, and in breadth twenty thousand; it shall be holy in all the borders thereof round about. ²And there shall be a sanctuary out of this, five hundred reeds in length by five hundred in breadth, a square round about; and there shall be a vacant space beyond this of fifty cubits round about. ³And out of this measurement shalt thou measure the length five and twenty thousand, and the breadth twenty thousand: and in it shall be the holy of holies. ⁴Of the land shall be a portion for the priests that minister in the holy place, and it shall be for them that draw nigh to minister to the Lord: and it shall be to them a place for houses set apart for their sacred office; ⁵the length shall be twenty-five thousand, and the breadth twenty thousand: and the Levites that attend the house, they shall have cities to dwell in for a possession. ⁶And ye shall appoint for the possession of the city five thousand in breadth, and in length twenty-five thousand: after the manner of the first-fruits of the holy portion, they shall be for all the house of Israel. ⁷And the prince shall have a portion out of this, and out of this there shall be a portion for the firstfruits of the sanctuary, and for the possession of the city, in front of the first-fruits of the sanctuary, and in front of the possession of the city westward, and from the western parts eastward: and the length shall be equal to one of the parts of the western borders, and the length shall be to the eastern borders of the land. ⁸And he shall have it for a possession in Israel: and the princes of Israel shall no more oppress my people; but the house of Israel shall inherit the land according to their tribes.

⁹Thus says the Lord God; Let it suffice you, ye princes of Israel: remove injustice and misery, execute judgment and justice; take away oppression from my people, says the Lord God. ¹⁰Ye shall have a just balance, and a just measure, and a just choenix for measure. ¹¹And in like manner there shall be one choenix as a measure of capacity; the tenth of the gomor shall be the choenix, and the tenth of the gomor shall be in fair proportion to the gomor. ¹²And the weights shall be twenty oboli, your pound shall be five shekels, fifteen shekels and fifty shekels. ¹³And these are the first-fruits which ye shall offer; a sixth part of a gomor of wheat, and the sixth part of it shall consist of an ephah of a core of barley. ¹⁴And ye shall give as the appointed measure of oil one bath of oil out of ten baths; for ten baths are a gomor. ¹⁵And one sheep from the flock out of ten, as an oblation from all the tribes of Israel, for sacrifices, and for whole-burnt-offerings, and for peace-offerings, to make atonement for you, says the Lord God. ¹⁶And all the people shall give these first-fruits to the prince of Israel. ¹⁷And through the prince shall be offered the whole-burnt-offerings and the meat-offerings, and the drink-offerings in the feasts, and at the new moons, and on the sabbaths; and in all the feasts of the house of Israel: he shall offer the sin-offerings, and the meat-offering, and the whole-burnt-offerings, and the peace-offerings, to make atonement for the house of Israel. ¹⁸Thus says the Lord God; In the first month, on the first day of the month, ye shall take a calf without blemish out of the herd, to make atonement for the holy place. ¹⁹And the priest shall take of the blood of the atonement, and put it on the thresholds of the house, and upon the four corners of the temple, and upon the altar, and upon the thresholds of the gate of the inner court. ²⁰And thus shalt thou do in the seventh month; on the first day of the month thou shalt take a rate from each one; and ye shall make atonement for the house. ²¹And in the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, ye shall have the feast of the passover; seven days shall ye eat unleavened bread. ²²And the prince shall offer it that day a calf for a sin-offering for himself, and the house, and for all the people of the land. ²³And for the seven days of the feast he shall offer as whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord seven calves and seven rams without blemish daily for the seven days; and a kid of the goats daily for a sin-offering, and a meat-offering. ²⁴And thou shalt prepare a cake for the calf, and cakes for the ram, and a hin of oil for the cake. ²⁵And in the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the month, thou shalt sacrifice in the feast in the same way seven days, as they sacrificed the sin-offerings, and the whole-burnt-offerings, and the freewill-offering, and the oil.

¹Thus says the Lord God; The gate that is in the inner court, that looks eastward, shall be shut the six working days; but let it be opened on the sabbath-day, and it shall be opened on the day of the new moon. ²And the prince shall enter by the way of the porch of the inner gate, and shall stand at the entrance of the gate, and the priests shall prepare his whole-burnt-offerings and his peace-offerings, and he shall worship at the entrance of the gate: then shall he come forth; but the gate shall not be shut till evening. ³And the people of the land shall worship at the entrance of that gate, both on the sabbaths and at the new moons, before the Lord. ⁴And the prince shall offer whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord on the sabbath-day, six lambs without blemish, and a ram without blemish; ⁵and a freewill-offering, a meat-offering for the ram, and a meat-offering for the lambs, the gift of his hand, and a hin of oil for the meat-

offering. ⁶And on the day of the new moon a calf without blemish, and six lambs, and there shall be a ram without blemish; ⁷and a meat-offering for the ram, and there shall be a meat-offering for the calf as a freewill-offering, and for the lambs, according as his hand can furnish, and there shall be a hin of oil for the cake. ⁸And when the prince goes in, he shall go in by the way of the porch of the gate, and he shall go forth by the way of the gate. ⁹And whenever the people of the land shall go in before the Lord at the feasts, he that goes in by the way of the north gate to worship shall go forth by the way of the south gate; and he that goes in by the way of the south gate shall go forth by the way of the north gate: he shall not return by the gate by which he entered, but he shall go forth opposite it. ¹⁰And the prince shall enter with them in the midst of them when they go in; and when they go forth, he shall go forth. ¹¹And in the feasts and in the general assemblies the freewill oblation shall be a meat-offering for the calf, and a meat-offering for the ram, and for the lambs, as his hand can furnish, and a hin of oil for the meat-offering. ¹²And if the prince should prepare as a thanksgiving a whole-burnt-peace-offering to the Lord, and should open for himself the gate looking eastward, and offer his whole-burnt-offering, and his peace-offerings, as he does on the sabbath-day; then shall he go out, and shall shut the doors after he has gone out. ¹³And he shall prepare daily as a whole-burnt-offering to the Lord a lamb of a year old without blemish: in the morning shall he prepare it. ¹⁴And he shall prepare a freewill-offering for it in the morning, the sixth part of a measure of flour, and a third part of a hin of oil to mix therewith the fine flour, as a freewill-offering to the Lord, a perpetual ordinance. ¹⁵Ye shall prepare the lamb, and the freewill-offering, and the oil in the morning, for a perpetual whole-burnt-sacrifice.

¹⁶Thus says the Lord God; If the prince shall give a gift to one of his sons out of his inheritance, this shall be to his sons a possession as an inheritance. ¹⁷But if he give a gift to one of his servants, then it shall belong to him until the year of release; and then he shall restore it to the prince: but of the inheritance of his sons the possession shall continue to them.

¹⁸And the prince shall by no means take of the inheritance of the people, to oppress them: he shall give an inheritance to his sons out of his own possession: that my people be not scattered, every one from his possession. ¹⁹And he brought me into the entrance of the place behind the gate, into the chamber of the sanctuary belonging to the priests, that looks toward the north: and, behold, there was a place set apart. ²⁰And he said to me, This is the place where the priests shall boil the trespass-offerings and the sin-offerings, and there shall they bake the meat-offering always; so as not to carry them out into the outer court, to sanctify the people. ²¹And he brought me into the outer court, and led me round upon the four sides of the court; and, behold, there was a court on each of the sides of the court, ²²on every side a court, even a court for all the four sides, and each little court belonging to the court was in length forty cubits, and in breadth thirty cubits, there was one measure to the four. ²³And there were chambers in them round about, round about the four, and cooking-places formed under the chambers round about. ²⁴And he said to me, These are the cooks' houses, where they that serve the house shall boil the sacrifices of the people.

Chapter 47

¹And he brought me to the entrance of the house; and, behold, water issued from under the porch eastward, for the front of the house looked eastward; and the water came down from the right side, from the south to the altar. ²And he brought me out by the way of the northern gate, and he led me round by the way outside to the gate of the court that looks eastward; and, behold, water came down from the right side, ³*in the direction* in which a man went forth opposite; and there was a measuring line in his hand, and he measured a thousand cubits with the measure; ⁴and he passed through the water; it was water of a fountain: and again he measured a thousand, and passed through the water; and the water was up to the thighs: and again

he measured a thousand; and he passed through water up to the loins. ⁵and again he measured a thousand; and he could not pass through: for the water rose as of a torrent which men cannot pass over. ⁶And he said to me, Hast thou seen this, son of man? Then he brought me, and led me back to the brink of the river ⁷as I returned; and, behold, on the brink of the river there were very many trees on this side and on that side. ⁸And he said to me, This is the water that goes forth to Galilee that lies eastward, and it is gone down to Arabia, and has reached as far as to the sea to the outlet of the water: and it shall heal the waters. ⁹And it shall come to pass, that every animal of living and moving creatures, all on which the river shall come, shall live: and there shall be there very many fish; for this water shall go thither, and it shall heal them, and they shall live: everything on which the river shall come shall live. ¹⁰And fishers shall stand there from Ingadin to Enagallim; it shall be a place to spread out nets upon; it shall be distinct; and the fishes thereof shall be as the fishes of the great sea, a very great multitude. ¹¹But at the outlet of the water, and the turn of it, and where it overflows its banks, they shall not heal at all; they are given to salt. ¹²And every fruit tree shall grow by the river, even on the bank of it on this side and on that side: they shall not decay upon it, neither shall their fruit fail: they shall bring forth the first-fruit of their early crop, for these their waters come forth of the sanctuary: and their fruit shall be for meat, and their foliage for health.

¹³Thus says the Lord God; Ye shall inherit these borders of the land; they are given by lot to the twelve tribes of the children of Israel. ¹⁴And ye shall inherit it, each according to his brother's portion, even the land concerning which I lifted up my hand to give it to your fathers: and this land shall fall to you by lot. ¹⁵And these are the borders of the land that lies northward, from the great sea that comes down, and divides the entrance of Emaseldam; ¹⁶Maabthera, Ebrameliam, between the coasts of Damascus and the coasts of Emathi, the habitation of Saunan, which places are above the coasts of Auranitis.

¹⁷These are the borders from the sea, from the habitations of Ænan, the coasts of Damascus, and the northern coasts. ¹⁸And the eastern coasts between Loranitis, and Damascus, and the land of Galaad, and the land of Israel, the Jordan divides to the sea that is east of the city of palm-trees. These are the eastern coasts. ¹⁹And the southern and south-western coasts are from Thaeman and the city of palm-trees, to the water of Marimoth Cadem, reaching forth to the great sea. This part is the south and south-west.

²⁰This part of the great sea forms a border, till one comes opposite the entrance of Emath, even as far as the entrance thereof. These are the parts west of Emath. ²¹So ye shall divide this land to them, even to the tribes of Israel. ²²Ye shall cast the lot upon it, for yourselves and the strangers that sojourn in the midst of you, who have begotten children in the midst of you: and they shall be to you as natives among the children of Israel; they shall eat with you in their inheritance in the midst of the tribes of Israel. ²³And they shall be in the tribe of proselytes among the proselytes that are with them: there shall ye give them an inheritance, says the Lord God.

Chapter 48

¹And these are the names of the tribes from the northern corner, on the side of the decent that draws a line to the entrance of Emath the palace of Ælam, the border of Damascus northward on the side of Emath the palace; and they shall have the eastern parts as far as the sea, for Dan, one portion. ²And from the borders of Dan eastward as far as the west sea-coast, for Asser, one. ³And from the borders of Asser, from the eastern parts as far as the west coasts, for Nephthalim, one. ⁴And from the borders of Nephthalim, from the east as far as the west coasts, for Manasse, one. ⁵And from the borders of Manasse, from the eastern parts as far as the west coasts, for Ephraim, one. ⁶And from the borders of Ephraim, from the eastern parts to the west coasts, for Ruben, one. ⁷And from the borders of Ruben, from the eastern parts as far as the west coasts, for Juda, one. ⁸And from the borders of Juda, from the eastern parts shall be the offering of first-fruits, in the breadth twenty-five thousand reeds, and in length as one of the portions measured from the east even to the western parts: and the sanctuary shall be in the midst of them. ⁹*As for* the first-fruits which they shall offer to the Lord, it shall be in length twenty-five thousand, and in breadth twenty-five thousand. ¹⁰Out of this shall be the first-fruits of the holy things to the priests, northward, five and twenty-thousand, and towards the west, ten thousand, and southward, five and twenty thousand: and the mountain of the sanctuary, shall be in the midst of it, ¹¹for the priests, for the consecrated sons of Sadduc, who keep the charges of the house, who erred not in the error of the children of Israel, as the Levites erred. ¹²And the first-fruits shall be given to them out of the first-fruits of the land, even a most holy portion from the borders of the Levites. ¹³And the Levites shall have the part, next to the borders of the priests, in length twenty-five thousand, and in breadth ten thousand: the whole length shall be five and twenty thousand, and the breadth twenty thousand. ¹⁴*No part* of it shall be sold, nor measured as for sale, neither shall the first-fruits of the land be taken away: for they are holy to the Lord. ¹⁵But concerning the five thousand that remain in the breadth in the five and twenty thousand, they shall be a suburb to the city for dwelling, and for a space before it: and the city shall be in the midst thereof. ¹⁶And these shall be its dimensions; from the northern side four thousand and five hundred, and from the southern side four thousand and five hundred, and from the eastern side four thousand and five hundred, and from the western side they shall measure four thousand five hundred. ¹⁷And there shall be a space to the city northward two hundred and fifty, and southward two hundred and fifty, and eastward two hundred and fifty, and westward two hundred and fifty. ¹⁸And the remainder of the length that is next to the first-fruits of the holy portion shall be ten thousand eastward, and ten thousand westward: and they shall be the first-fruits of the sanctuary; and the fruits thereof shall be for bread to them that labour for the city. ¹⁹And they that labour for the city shall labour for it out of all the tribes of Israel. ²⁰The whole offering shall be a square of twenty-five thousand by twenty-five thousand: ye shall separate again part of it, the first-fruits of the sanctuary, from the possession of the city. ²¹And the prince shall have the remainder on this side and on that side from the first-fruits of the sanctuary, and there shall be a possession of the city, for five and twenty thousand cubits in length, to the eastern and western borders, for five and twenty thousand to the western borders, next to the portions of the prince; and the first-fruits of the holy things and the sanctuary of the house shall be in the midst of it. ²²And there shall be a portion taken from the Levites, from the possession of the city in the midst of the princes between the borders of Juda and the borders of Benjamin, and it shall be the portion of the princes. ²³And as for the rest of the tribes, from the eastern parts as far as the western, Benjamin shall have one portion. ²⁴And from the borders of Benjamin, from the eastern parts to the western, Symeon, one. ²⁵And from the borders of Symeon, from the eastern parts to the western, Issachar, one. ²⁶And from the borders of Issachar, from the eastern parts to the western, Zabulon, one. ²⁷And from the borders of Zabulon, from the east to the western parts, Gad, one. ²⁸And from the borders of Gad, from the eastern parts to the south-western parts; his coasts shall even be from Thaeman, and the water of Barimoth Cades, for an inheritance, unto the great sea. ²⁹This is the land, which ye shall divide by lot to the tribes of Israel, and these are their portions, says the Lord God.

³⁰And these are the goings out of the city northward, four thousand and five hundred by measure. ³¹And the gates of the city shall be after the names of the tribes of Israel: three gates northward; the gate of Ruben, one, and the gate of Juda, one, and the gate of Levi, one. ³²And eastward four thousand and five hundred: and three gates; the gate of Joseph, one, and the gate of Benjamin, one, and the gate of Dan, one. ³³And southward, four thousand and five hundred by measure: and three gates; the gate of Symeon, one, and the gate of Issachar, one, and the gate of Zabulon, one. ³⁴And westward, four thousand and five hundred by measure: and three gates; the gate of Gad, one, and the gate of Asser, one, and the gate of Nephthalim, one. ³⁵The circumference, eighteen thousand measures: and the name of the city, from the day that it shall be finished, shall be the name thereof.

Chapter 1

¹In the third year of the reign of Joakim king of Juda, came Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon to Jerusalem, and besieged it. ²And the Lord gave into his hand Joakim king of Juda, and part of the vessels of the house of God: and he brought them into the land of Sennaar to the house of his god; and he brought the vessels into the treasure-house of his god. ³And the king told Asphanez his chief eunuch, to bring in some of the captive children of Israel, and of the seed of the kingdom, and of the princes; ⁴young men in whom was no blemish, and beautiful in appearance, and skilled in all wisdom, and possessing knowledge, and acquainted with prudence, and who had ability to stand in the house before the king, and the king gave commandment to teach them the learning and language of the Chaldeans. ⁵And the king appointed them a daily portion from the king's table, and from the wine which he drank; and gave orders to nourish them three years, and that afterwards they should stand before the king. ⁶Now these were among them of the children of Juda, Daniel, and Ananias, and Azarias, and Misael. ⁷And the chief of the eunuchs gave them names: to Daniel, Baltasar; and to Ananias, Sedrach; and to Misael, Misach; and to Azarias, Abdenago. ⁸And Daniel purposed in his heart, that he would not defile himself with the king's table, nor with the wine of his drink: and he intreated the chief of the eunuchs that he might not defile himself. ⁹Now God had brought Daniel into favour and compassion with the chief of the eunuchs. ¹⁰And the chief of the eunuchs said to Daniel, I fear my lord the king, who has appointed your meat and your drink, lest he see your countenances gloomy in comparison of the young men your equals; also shall ye endanger my head to the king. ¹¹And Daniel said to Amelsad, whom the chief of the eunuchs had appointed over Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias. ¹²Prove now thy servants ten days; and let them give us pulse, and let us eat, and let us drink water: ¹³And let our countenances be seen by thee, and the countenances of the children that eat at the king's table; and deal with thy servants according as thou shalt see. ¹⁴And he hearkened to them, and proved them ten days. ¹⁵And at the end of the ten days their countenances appeared fairer and stouter in flesh, than the children that fed at the king's table. ¹⁶So Amelsad took away their supper and the wine of their drink, and gave them pulse. ¹⁷And as for these four children, God gave them understanding and prudence in all learning and wisdom: and Daniel had understanding in all visions and dreams. ¹⁸And at the end of the days, after which the king had given orders to bring them in, then the chief of the eunuchs brought them in before Nabuchodonosor. ¹⁹And the king spoke with them; and there were not found out of them all any like Daniel, and Ananias and Misael, and Azarias: and they stood before the king. ²⁰And in every matter of wisdom and knowledge wherein the king questioned them, he found them ten times wiser than all the enchanters and sorcerers that were in all his kingdom. ²¹And Daniel continued till the first year of king Cyrus.

Chapter 2

¹In the second year of his reign Nabuchodonosor dreamed a dream, and his spirit was amazed, and his sleep departed from him. ²And the king gave orders to call the enchanters, and the magicians, and the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans, to declare to the king his dreams. And they came and stood before the king. ³And the king said to them, I have dreamed, and my spirit was troubled to know the dream. ⁴And the Chaldeans spoke to the king in the Syrian language, saying, O king, live for ever: do thou tell the dream to thy servants, and we will declare the interpretation. ⁵The king answered the Chaldeans, The thing has departed from me: if ye do not make known to me the dream and the interpretation, ye shall be destroyed, and your houses shall be spoiled. ⁶But if ye make known to me the dream, and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receive of me gifts and presents and much honour: only tell me the dream, and the interpretation thereof. ⁷They answered the second time, and said, Let the king tell the dream to his servants, and we will declare the interpretation. ⁸And the king answered and said, I verily know that ye are trying to gain time, because ye see that the thing has gone from me. ⁹If then ye do not tell me the dream, I know that ye have concerted to utter before me a false and corrupt tale, until the time shall have past: tell me my dream, and I shall know that ye will also declare to me the interpretation thereof. ¹⁰The Chaldeans answered before the king, and said, There is no man upon the earth, who shall be able to make known the king's matter: forasmuch as no great king or ruler asks such a question of an enchanter, magician, or Chaldean. ¹¹For the question which the king asks is difficult, and there is no one else who shall answer it before the king, but the gods, whose dwelling is not with any flesh. ¹²Then the king in rage and anger commanded to destroy all the wise men of Babylon. ¹³So the decree went forth, and they began to slay the wise men; and they sought Daniel and his fellows to slay them. ¹⁴Then Daniel answered with counsel and prudence to Arioch the captain of the royal guard, who was gone forth to kill the wise men of Babylon; saying, ¹⁵Chief magistrate of the king, wherefore has the preemptory command proceeded from the king? So Arioch made known the matter to Daniel. ¹⁶And Daniel intreated the king to give him time, and that he might thus declare to the king the interpretation of it. ¹⁷So Daniel went into his house, and made known the matter to Ananias, and Misael, and Azarias, his friends. ¹⁸And they sought mercies from the God of heaven concerning this mystery; that Daniel and his friends might not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon.

¹⁹Then the mystery was revealed to Daniel in a vision of the night; and Daniel blessed the God of heaven, and said, ²⁰May the name of God be blessed from everlasting and to everlasting: for wisdom and understanding are his. ²¹And he changes times and seasons: he appoints kings, and removes them, giving wisdom to the wise, and prudence to them that have understanding: ²²he reveals deep and secret matters; knowing what is in darkness, and the light is with him. ²³I give thanks to thee, and praise thee, O God of my fathers, for thou has given me wisdom and power, and has made known to me the things which we asked of thee; and thou has made known to me the king's vision. ²⁴And Daniel came to Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon, and said to him; Destroy not the wise men of Babylon, but bring me in before the king, and I will declare the interpretation to the king.

²⁵Then Arioch in haste brought in Daniel before the king, and said to him, I have found a man of the children of the captivity of Judea, who will declare the interpretation to the king. ²⁶And the king answered and said to Daniel, whose name was Baltasar, Canst thou declare to me the dream which I saw, and the interpretation thereof? ²⁷And Daniel answered before the king, and said, The mystery which the king asks the explanation of is not in the power of the wise men, magicians, enchanter, or soothsayers to declare to the king. ²⁸But there is a God in heaven revealing mysteries, and he has made known to king Nabuchodonosor what things must come to pass in the last days. Thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, are as follows, ²⁹O king: thy thoughts upon thy bed arose as to what must come to pass hereafter: and he that reveals mysteries has made known to thee what must come to pass. ³⁰Moreover, this mystery has not been revealed to me by reason of wisdom which is in me beyond all others living, but for the sake of making known the interpretation to the king, that thou mightest know the thoughts of thine heart.

³¹Thou, O king, sawest, and behold an image: that image was great, and the appearance of it excellent, standing before thy face; and the form of it was terrible. ³²*It was* an image, the head of which was of fine gold, its hands and breast and arms of silver, its belly and thighs of brass, ³³its legs of iron, its feet, part of iron and part of earthenware. ³⁴Thou sawest until a stone was cut out of a mountain without hands, and it smote the image upon its feet of iron and earthenware, and utterly reduced them to powder.

³⁵Then once for all the earthenware, the iron, the brass, the silver, the gold, were ground to powder, and became as chaff from the summer threshingfloor; and the violence of the wind carried them away, and no place was found for them: and the stone which had smitten the image became a great mountain, and filled all the earth.

³⁶This is the dream; and we will tell the interpretation thereof before the king. ³⁷Thou, O king, art a king of kings, to whom the God of heaven has given a powerful and strong and honourable kingdom, ³⁸in every place where the children of men dwell: and he has given into thine hand the wild beasts of the field, and the birds of the sky and the fish of the sea, and he has made thee lord of all. ³⁹Thou art the head of gold. And after thee shall arise another kingdom inferior to thee, an a third kingdom which is the brass, which shall have dominion over all the earth; ⁴⁰and a fourth kingdom, which shall be strong as iron: as iron beats to powder and subdues all things, so shall it beat to powder and subdue. ⁴¹And whereas thou sawest the feet and the toes, part of earthenware and part of iron, the kingdom shall be divided; yet there shall be in it of the strength of iron, as thou sawest the iron mixed with earthenware. ⁴²And whereas the toes of the feet were part of iron and part of earthenware, part of the kingdom shall be strong, and part of it shall be broken. ⁴³Whereas thou sawest the iron mixed with earthenware, they shall be mingled with the seed of men: but they shall not cleave together, as the iron does not mix itself with earthenware.

⁴⁴And in the days of those kings the God of heaven shall set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed: and his kingdom shall not be left to another people, but it shall beat to pieces and grind to powder all other kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever. ⁴⁵Whereas thou sawest that a stone was cut out of a mountain without hands, and it beat to pieces the earthenware, the iron, the brass, the silver, the gold; the great God has made known to the king what must happen hereafter: and the dream is true, and the interpretation thereof sure. ⁴⁶Then king Nabuchodonosor fell upon his face, and worshipped Daniel, and gave orders to offer to him gifts and incense. ⁴⁷And the king answered and said to Daniel, Of a truth your God is a God of gods, and Lord of kings, who reveals mysteries; for thou has been able to reveal this mystery. ⁴⁸And the king promoted Daniel, and gave him great and abundant gifts, and set him over the whole province of Babylon, and made him chief satrap over all the wise men of Babylon. ⁴⁹And Daniel asked of the king, and he appointed Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, over the affairs of the province of Babylon: but Daniel was in the king's palace.

Chapter 3

¹In his eighteenth year Nabuchodonosor the king made a golden image, its height was sixty cubits, its breadth six cubits: and he set it up in the plain of Deira, in the province of Babylon. ²And he sent forth to gather the governors, and the captains, and the heads of provinces, chiefs, and princes, and those who were in authority, and all the rulers of districts, to come to the dedication of the image. ³So the heads of provinces, the governors, the captains, the chiefs, the great princes, those who were in authority, and all the rulers of districts, were gathered to the dedication of the image which king Nabuchodonosor had set up; and they stood before the image. ⁴Then a herald cried aloud, To you it is commanded, ye peoples, tribes, and languages, ⁵at what hour ye shall hear the sound of the trumpet, and pipe, and harp, and sackbut, and psaltery, and every kind of music, ye shall fall down and worship the golden image which king Nabuchodonosor has set up. ⁶And whosoever shall not fall down and worship, in the same hour he shall be cast into the burning fiery furnace. ⁷And it came to pass when the nations heard the sound of the trumpet, and pipe, and harp, and sackbut, and psaltery, and all kinds of music, all the nations, tribes, and languages, fell down and worshipped the golden image which king Nabuchodonosor had set up. ⁸Then came near certain Chaldeans, and accused the Jews to the king, saying, ⁹O king, live for ever. ¹⁰Thou, O king, has made a decree that every man who shall hear the sound of the trumpet, and pipe, and harp, sackbut, and psaltery, and all kinds of music, ¹¹and shall not fall down and worship the golden image, shall be cast into the burning fiery furnace. ¹²There are certain Jews whom thou has appointed over the affairs of the province of Babylon, Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, who have not obeyed thy decree, O king: they serve not thy gods, and worship not the golden image which thou hast set up.

¹³Then Nabuchodonosor in wrath and anger commanded to bring Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago: and they were brought before the king. ¹⁴And Nabuchodonosor answered and said to them, Is it true, Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, that ye serve not my gods, and worship not the golden image which I have set up? ¹⁵Now then if ye be ready, whensoever ye shall hear the sound of the trumpet, and pipe, and harp, and sackbut, and psaltery, and harmony, and every kind of music, to fall down and worship the golden image which I have made; well: but if ye worship not, in the same hour ye shall be cast into the burning fiery furnace; and who is the God that shall deliver you out of my hand?

Daniel

¹⁶Then answered Sedrach, Misach and Abdenago and said to king Nabuchodonosor, We have no need to answer thee concerning this matter.

¹⁷For our God whom we serve is in the heavens, able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will rescue us from thy hands, O king.

¹⁸But if not, be it known to thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the image which thou hast set up.

¹⁹Then Nabuchodonosor was filled with wrath, and the form of his countenance was changed toward Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago: and he gave orders to heat the furnace seven times more than usual, until it should burn to the uttermost. ²⁰And he commanded mighty men to bind Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, and to cast them into the burning fiery furnace.

²¹Then those men were bound with their coats, and caps, and hose, and were cast into the midst of the burning fiery furnace, ²²forasmuch as the king's word prevailed; and the furnace was made exceeding hot.

²³Then these three men, Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, fell bound into the midst of the burning furnace, and walked in the midst of the flame, singing praise to God, and blessing the Lord. ²⁴And Nabuchodonosor heard them singing praises; and he wondered, and rose up in haste, and said to his nobles, Did we not cast three men bound into the midst of the fire?

and they said to the king, Yes, O king. ²⁵And the king said, But I see four men loose, and walking in the midst of the fire, and there has no harm happened to them; and the appearance of the fourth is like the Son of God. ²⁶Then Nabuchodonosor drew near to the door of the burning fiery furnace, and said, Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, ye servants of the most high God, proceed forth, and come hither. So Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, came forth out of the midst of the fire. ²⁷Then were assembled the satraps, and captains, and heads of provinces, and the royal princes; and they saw the men, and perceived that the fire had not had power against their bodies, and the hair of their head was not burnt, and their coats were not scorched, nor was the smell of fire upon them. ²⁸And king Nabuchodonosor answered and said, Blessed be the God of Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, who has sent his angel, and delivered his servants, because they trusted in him; and they have changed the king's word, and delivered their bodies to be burnt, that they might not serve nor worship any god, except their own God.

²⁹Wherefore I publish a decree: Every people, tribe, or language, that shall speak reproachfully against the God of Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago shall be destroyed, and their houses shall be plundered: because there is no other God who shall be able to deliver thus.

³⁰Then the king promoted Sedrach, Misach, and Abdenago, in the province of Babylon, and advanced them, and gave them authority to rule over all the Jews who were in his kingdom.

³¹King Nabuchodonosor to all nations, tribes, and tongues, who dwell in all the earth; Peace be multiplied to you. ³²It seemed good to me to declare to you the signs and wonders which the most high God has wrought with me, ³³how great and mighty they are: his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and his power to all generations.

Chapter 4

¹I Nabuchodonosor was thriving in my house, and prospering. ²I saw a vision, and it terrified me, and I was troubled on my bed, and the visions of my head troubled me. ³And I made a decree to bring in before me all the wise men of Babylon, that they might make known to me the interpretation of the dream. ⁴So the enchanters, magicians, soothsayers, and Chaldeans came in: and I told the dream before them; but they did not make known to me the interpretation thereof; ⁵until Daniel came, whose name is Baltasar, according to the name of my God, who has within him the Holy Spirit of God; to whom I said, ⁶O Baltasar, chief of the enchanters, of whom I know that the Holy Spirit of God is in thee, and no mystery is too hard for thee, hear the vision of my dream which I had, and tell me the interpretation of it. ⁷I had a vision upon my bed; and behold a tree in the midst of the earth, and its height was great. ⁸The tree grew large and strong, and its height reached to the sky, and its extent to the extremity of the whole earth: ⁹its leaves were fair, and its fruit abundant, and in it was meat for all; and under it the wild beasts of the field took shelter, and the birds of the sky lodged in the branches of it, and all flesh was fed of it.

¹⁰I beheld in the night vision upon my bed, and, behold, a watcher and an holy one came down from heaven and cried aloud, and thus he said, ¹¹Cut down the tree, and pluck off its branches, and shake off its leaves, and scatter its fruit: let the wild beasts be removed from under it, and the birds from its branches. ¹²Only leave the stump of its roots in the earth, and bind it with an iron and brass band; and it shall lie in the grass that is without and in the dew of heaven, and its portion shall be with the wild beasts in the grass of the field. ¹³His heart shall be changed from that of man, and the heart of a wild beast shall be given to him; and seven times shall pass over him. ¹⁴The matter is by the decree of the watcher, and the demand is a word of the holy ones; that the living may know that the Lord is most high over the kingdom of men, and he will give it to whomsoever he shall please, and will set up over it that which is set at nought of men. ¹⁵This is the vision which I king Nabuchodonosor saw: and do thou, Baltasar, declare the interpretation, for none of the wise men of my kingdom are able to shew me the interpretation of it: but thou, Daniel, art able; for the Holy Spirit of God is in thee. ¹⁶Then Daniel, whose name is Baltasar, was amazed about one hour, and his thoughts troubled him. And Baltasar answered and said, My lord, let the dream be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation of it to thine enemies. ¹⁷The tree which thou sawest, that grew large and strong, whose height reached to the sky and its extent to all the earth; ¹⁸and whose leaves were flourishing, and its fruit abundant, (and it was meat for all; under it the wild beasts lodged, and the birds of the sky took shelter in its branches:) ¹⁹is thyself, O king; for thou art grown great and powerful, and thy greatness has increased and reached to heaven, and thy dominion to the ends of the earth. ²⁰And whereas the king saw a watcher and a holy one coming down from heaven, and he said, Strip the tree, and destroy it; only leave the stump of its roots in the ground, and bind it with a band of iron and brass; and it shall lie in the grass that is without, and in the dew of heaven, and its portion shall be with wild beasts, until seven times have passed over it; ²¹this is the interpretation of it, O king, and it is a decree of the Most High, which has come upon my lord the king. ²²And they shall drive thee forth from men, and thy dwelling shall be with wild beasts, and they shall feed thee with grass as an ox, and thou shall have thy lodging under the dew of heaven, and seven times shall pass over thee, until thou known that the Most High is Lord of the kingdom of men, and will give it to whom he shall please. ²³And whereas they said, Leave the stumps of the roots of the tree; thy kingdom abides sure to thee from the time that thou shalt know the power of the heavens. ²⁴Therefore, O king, let my counsel please thee, and atone for thy sins by alms, and thine iniquities by compassion on the poor: it may be God will be long-suffering to thy trespasses. ²⁵All these things came upon king Nabuchodonosor. ²⁶After a twelvemonth, as he walked in his palace in Babylon, ²⁷the king answered and said, Is not this great Babylon, which I have built for a royal residence, by the might of my power, for the honour of my glory?

²⁸While the word was yet in the king's mouth, there came a voice from heaven, saying, To thee, king Nabuchodonosor, they say, The kingdom has departed from thee. ²⁹And they shall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the wild beasts of the field, and they shall feed thee with grass as an ox: and seven times shall pass over thee, until thou know that the Most High is Lord of the kingdom of men, and he will give it to whomsoever he shall please. ³⁰In the same hour the word was fulfilled upon Nabuchodonosor: and he was driven forth from men, and he ate grass as an ox, and his body was bathed with the dew of heaven, until his hairs were grown like lions' hairs, and his nails as birds' claws.³¹ And at the end of the time I Nabuchodonosor lifted up mine eyes to heaven, and my reason returned to me, and I blessed the Most High, and praised him that lives for ever, and gave him glory; for his dominion is an everlasting dominion, and his kingdom lasts to all generations:³² and all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and he does according to his will in the army of heaven, and among the inhabitants of the earth: and there is none who shall withstand his power, and say to him, What has thou done?

³³At the same time my reason returned to me, and I came to the honour of my kingdom; and my natural form returned to me, and my princes, and my nobles, sought me, and I was established in my kingdom, and more abundant majesty was added to me.

³⁴Now therefore I Nabuchodonosor praise and greatly exalt and glorify the King of heaven; for all his works are true, and his paths are judgment: and all that walk in pride he is able to abase.

Chapter 5

¹Baltasar the king made a great supper for his thousand nobles, and there was wine before the thousand.

²And Baltasar drinking gave orders as he tasted the wine that they should bring the gold and silver vessels, which Nabuchodonosor his father had brought forth from the temple in Jerusalem; that the king, and his nobles, and his mistresses, and his concubines, should drink out of them.

³So the gold and silver vessels were brought which Nabuchodonosor had taken out of the temple of God in Jerusalem; and the king, and his nobles, and his mistresses, and his concubines, drank out of them.⁴ They drank wine, and praised the gods of gold, and of silver, and of brass, and of iron, and of wood, and of stone.⁵ In the same hour came forth fingers of a man's hand, and wrote in front of the lamp on the plaster of the wall of the king's house: and the king saw the knuckles of the hand that wrote.⁶ Then the king's countenance changed, and his thoughts troubled him, and the joints of his loins were loosed, and his knees smote one another.⁷ And the king cried aloud to bring in the magicians, Chaldeans, and soothsayers; and he said to the wise men of Babylon, Whosoever shall read this writing, and make known to me the interpretation, shall be clothed with scarlet, and there shall be a golden chain upon his neck, and he shall be the third ruler in my kingdom.⁸ Then came in all the king's wise men: but they could not read the writing, nor make known the interpretation to the king.⁹ And king Baltasar was troubled, and his countenance changed upon him, and his nobles were troubled with him.

changed. ¹¹There is a man in thy kingdom, in whom is the Spirit of God; and in the days of thy father watchfulness and understanding were found in him; and king Nabuchodonosor thy father made him chief of the enchanters, magicians, Chaldeans, and soothsayers. ¹²For there is an excellent spirit in him, and sense and understanding in him, interpreting dreams as he does, and answering hard questions, and solving difficulties: it is Daniel, and the king gave him the name of Baltasar: now then let him be called, and he shall tell thee the interpretation of the writing. ¹³Then Daniel was brought in before the king: and the king said to Daniel, Art thou Daniel, of the children of the captivity of Judea, which the king my father brought? ¹⁴I have heard concerning thee, that the Spirit of God is in thee, and that watchfulness and understanding and excellent wisdom have been found in thee. ¹⁵And now, the wise men, magicians, and soothsayers, have come in before me, to read the writing, and make known to me the interpretation: but they could not tell it me. ¹⁶And I have heard concerning thee, that thou art able to make interpretations: now then if thou shalt be able to read the writing, and to make known to me the interpretation of it, thou shalt be clothed with purple, and there shall be a golden chain upon thy neck, and thou shalt be third ruler in my kingdom.

¹⁷And Daniel said, before the king, Let thy gifts be to thyself, and give the present of thine house to another; but I will read the writing, and will make known to thee the interpretation of it. ¹⁸O king, the most high God gave to thy father Nabuchodonosor a kingdom, and majesty, and honour, and glory: ¹⁹and by reason of the majesty which he gave to him, all nations, tribes, and languages trembled and feared before him: whom he would he slew; and whom he would he smote; and whom he would he exalted; and whom he would he abased. ²⁰But when his heart was lifted up, and his spirit was emboldened to act proudly, he was deposed from his royal throne, and his honour was taken from him. ²¹And he was driven forth from men; and his heart was given him after the nature of wild beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild asses; and they fed him with grass as an ox, and his body was bathed with the dew of heaven; until he knew that the most high God is Lord of the kingdom of men, and will give it to whomsoever he shall please. ²²And thou accordingly, his son, O Baltasar, has not humbled thine heart before God: knowest thou not all this? ²³And thou has been exalted against the Lord God of heaven; and they have brought before thee the vessels of his house, and thou, and thy nobles, and thy mistresses, and thy concubines, have drunk wine out of them; and thou has praised the gods of gold, and silver, and brass, and iron, and wood, and stone, which see not, and which hear not, and know not: and the God in whose hand are thy breath, and all thy ways has thou not glorified. ²⁴Therefore from his presence has been sent forth the knuckle of a hand; and he has ordered the writing. ²⁵And this is the ordered writing, Mane, Thekel, Phares. ²⁶This is the interpretation of the sentence: Mane; God has measured thy kingdom, and finished it. ²⁷Thekel; it has been weighed in the balance, and found wanting. ²⁸Phares; thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians. ²⁹Then Baltasar commanded, and they clothed Daniel with scarlet, and put the golden chain about his neck, and proclaimed concerning him that he was the third ruler in the kingdom. ³⁰In the same night was Baltasar the Chaldean king slain. ³¹And Darius the Mede succeeded to the kingdom, being sixty-two years old.

Daniel

Chapter 6

¹And it pleased Darius, and he set over the kingdom a hundred and twenty satraps, to be in all his kingdom; ²and over them three governors, of whom one was, Daniel; for the satraps to give account to them, that the king should not be troubled. ³And Daniel was over them, for there was an excellent spirit in him; and the king set him over all his kingdom. ⁴Then the governors and satraps sought to find occasion against Daniel; but they found against him no occasion, nor trespass, nor error, because he was faithful. ⁵And the governors said, We shall not find occasion against Daniel, except in the ordinances of his God. ⁶Then the governors and satraps stood by the king, and said to him, King Darius, live for ever. ⁷All who preside over thy kingdom, captains and satraps, chiefs and local governors, have taken counsel together, to establish by a royal statue and to confirm a decree, that whosoever shall ask a petition of any god or man for thirty days, save of thee, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions. ⁸Now then, O king, establish the decree, and publish a writ, that the decree of the Persians and Medes be not changed. ⁹Then king Darius commanded the decree to be written.

¹⁰And when Daniel knew that the decree was ordered, he went into his house; and his windows were opened in his chambers toward Jerusalem, and three times in the day he knelt upon his knees, and prayed and gave thanks before his God, as he used to do before. ¹¹Then these men watched, and found Daniel praying and supplicating to his God. ¹²And they came and said to the king, O king, has thou not made a decree, that whatsoever man shall ask a petition of any god or man for thirty days, but of thee, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions? And the king said, The word is true, and the decree of the Medes and Persians shall not pass. ¹³Then they answered and said before the king, Daniel of the children of the captivity of Judea, has not submitted to thy decree; and three times in the day he makes his requests of his God. ¹⁴Then the king, when he heard the saying, was much grieved for Daniel and he greatly exerted himself for Daniel to deliver him: and he exerted himself till evening to deliver him. ¹⁵Then those men said to the king, Know, O king, that the law of the Medes and Persians is that we must not change any decree of statue which the king shall make. ¹⁶Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. But the king said to Daniel, Thy God whom thou servest continually, he will deliver thee. ¹⁷And they brought a stone, and put it on the mouth of the den; and the king sealed it with his ring, and with the ring of his nobles; that the case might not be altered with regard to Daniel. ¹⁸And the king departed to his house, and lay down fasting, and they brought him no food; and his sleep departed from him. But God shut the mouths of the lions, and they not molest Daniel.

¹⁹Then the king arose very early in the morning, and came in hast to the den of lions. ²⁰And when he drew near to the den, he cried with a loud voice, Daniel, servant of the living God, has thy God, whom thou servest continually, been able to deliver thee from the lion's mouth? ²¹And Daniel said to the king, O king, live for ever. ²²My God has sent his angel, and stopped the lions' mouths, and they have not hurt me: for uprightness was found in me before him; and moreover before thee, O king, I have committed no trespass. ²³Then the king was very glad for him, and he commanded to bring Daniel out of the den. So Daniel was brought out of the den, and there was found no hurt upon him, because he believed in his God. ²⁴And the king commanded, and they brought the men that had accused Daniel, and they were cast into the den of lions, they, and their children, and their wives: and they reached not the bottom of the den before the lions had the mastery of them, and utterly broke to pieces all their bones.

²⁵Then king Darius wrote to all nations, tribes, and languages, who dwell in all the earth, saying, Peace be multiplied to you. ²⁶This decree has been set forth by me in every dominion of my kingdom, that men tremble and fear before the God of Daniel: for he is the living and eternal God, and his kingdom shall not be destroyed, and his dominion is for ever. ²⁷He helps and delivers, and works signs and wonders in the heaven and on the earth, who has rescued Daniel from the power of the lions. ²⁸And Daniel prospered in the reign of Darius, and in the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

Chapter 7

¹In the first year of Baltasar, king of the Chaldeans Daniel had a dream, and visions of his head upon his bed: and he wrote his dream. ²I Daniel beheld, and, lo, the four winds of heaven blew violently upon the great sea. ³And there came up four great beasts out of the sea, differing from one another.

⁴The first was as a lioness, and her wings as an eagle's; I beheld until her wings were plucked, and she was lifted off from the earth, and she stood on human feet, and a man's heart was given to her. ⁵And, behold, a second beast like a bear, and it supported itself on one side, and there were three ribs in its mouth, between its teeth: and thus they said to it, Arise, devour much flesh. ⁶After this one I looked, and behold another wild beast as a leopard, and it had four wings of a bird upon it: and the wild beast had four heads, and power was given to it.

⁷After this one I looked, and behold a fourth beast, dreadful and terrible, and exceedingly strong, and its teeth were of iron; devouring and crushing to atoms, and it trampled the remainder with its feet: and it was altogether different from the beasts that were before it; and it had ten hours. ⁸I noticed his horns, and behold, another little horn came up in the midst of them, and before it three of the former horns were rooted out: and, behold, there were eyes as the eyes of a man in this horn, and a mouth speaking great things. ⁹I beheld until the thrones were set, and the Ancient of days sat; and his raiment was white as snow, and the hair of his head, as pure wool: his throne was a flame of fire, and his wheels burning fire. ¹⁰A stream of fire rushed forth before him: thousand thousands ministered to him, and ten thousands of myriads, attended upon him: the judgment sat, and the books were opened. ¹¹I beheld then because of the voice of the great words which that horn spoke, until the wild beast was slain and destroyed, and his body given to be burnt with fire. ¹²And the dominion of the rest of the wild beasts was taken away; but a prolonging of life was given them for certain times.

¹³I beheld in the night vision, and, lo, one coming with the clouds of heaven as the Son of man, and he came on to the Ancient of days, and was brought near to him. ¹⁴And to him was given the dominion, and the honour, and the kingdom; and all nations, tribes, and languages, shall serve him: his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom shall not be destroyed.

¹⁵*As for* me Daniel, my spirit in my body trembled, and the visions of my head troubled me. ¹⁶And I drew near to one of them that stood by, and I sought to learn of him the truth of all these things: and he told me the truth, and made known to me the interpretation of the things. ¹⁷These four beasts are four kingdoms that shall rise up on the earth: ¹⁸which shall be taken away; and the saints of the Most High shall take the kingdom, and possess it for ever and ever. ¹⁹Then I enquired carefully concerning the fourth beast; for it differed from every other beast, exceeding dreadful: its teeth were of iron, and its claws of brass, devouring, and utterly breaking to pieces, and it trampled the remainder with its feet: ²⁰and concerning it ten horns that were in its head, and the other that came up, and rooted up some of the former, which had eyes, and a mouth speaking great things, and his look was bolder than the rest. ²¹I beheld, and that horn made war with the saints, and prevailed against them; ²²until the Ancient of days came, and he gave judgment to the saints of the Most High; and the time came on, and the saints possessed the kingdom. ²³And he said, The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom on the earth, which shall excel all other kingdoms, and shall devour the whole earth, and trample and destroy it. ²⁴And his ten horns are ten kings that shall arise: and after them shall arise another, who shall exceed all the former ones in wickedness and he shall subdue three kings. ²⁵And he shall speak words against the Most High, and shall wear out the saints of the Most High, and shall think to change times and law: and power shall be given into his hand for a time and times and half a time. ²⁶And the judgment has sat, and they shall remove his dominion to abolish it, and to destroy it utterly. ²⁷And the kingdom and the power and the greatness of the kings that are under the whole heaven were given to the saints of the Most High; and his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all powers shall serve and obey him. ²⁸Hitherto is the end of the matter. As for me Daniel, my thoughts greatly troubled me, and my countenance was changed: but I kept the matter in my heart.

Chapter 8

¹In the third year of the reign of king Baltasar a vision appeared to me, even to me Daniel, after that which appeared to me at the first. ²And I was in Susa the palace, which is in the land of Ælam, and I was on the bank of Ubal. ³And I lifted up mine eyes, and saw, and, behold, a ram standing in front of the Ubal; and he had high horns; and one was higher than the other, and the high one came up last. ⁴And I saw the ram butting westward, and northward, and southward; and no beast could stand before him, and there was none that could deliver out of his hand; and he did according to his will, and became great. ⁵And I was considering, and, behold, a he-goat came from the south-west on the face of the whole earth, and touched not the earth: and the goat had a horn between his eyes. ⁶And he came to the ram that had the horns, which I had seen standing in front of the Ubal, and he ran at him with the violence of his strength. ⁷And I saw him coming up close to the ram, and he was furiously enraged against him, and he smote the ram, and broke both his horns: and there was no strength in the ram to stand before him, but he cast him on the ground, and trampled on him; and there was none that could deliver the ram out of his hand. ⁸And the he-goat grew exceedingly great: and when he was strong, his great horn was broken; and four other horns rose up in its place toward the four winds of heaven.

⁹And out of one of them came forth one strong horn, and it grew very great toward the south, and toward the host:

¹²And a sin-offering was given for the sacrifice, and righteousness was cast down to the ground; and it practised, and prospered. ¹³And I heard one saint speaking, and a saint said to a certain one speaking, How long shall the vision continue, even the removal of the sacrifice, and the bringing in of the sin of desolation; and how long shall the sanctuary and host be trampled?

¹⁴And he said to him, Evening and morning there shall be two thousand and four hundred days; and then the sanctuary shall be cleansed.

¹⁵And it came to pass, as I, even I Daniel, saw the vision, and sought to understand it, that, behold, there stood before me as the appearance of a man.

¹⁶And I heard the voice of a man between the banks of the Ubal; and he called, and said, Gabriel, cause that man to understand the vision. ¹⁷And he came and stood near where I stood: and when he came, I was struck with awe, and fell upon my face: but he said to me, Understand, son of man: for yet the vision is for an appointed time.

¹⁸And while he spoke with me, I fell upon my face to the earth: and he touched me, and set me on my feet.

¹⁹And he said, Behold, I make thee know the things that shall come to pass at the end of the wrath: for the vision is yet for an appointed time. ²⁰The ram which thou sawest that had the horns is the king of the Medes and Persians.

²¹The he-goat is the King of the Greeks: and the great horn which was between his eyes, he is the first king.

²²And as for the one that was broken, in whose place there stood up four horns, four kings shall arise out of his nation, but not in their own strength.

²³And at the latter time of their kingdom, when their sins are coming to the full, there shall arise a king bold in countenance, and understanding riddles. ²⁴And his power shall be great, and he shall destroy wonderfully, and prosper, and practise, and shall destroy mighty men, and the holy people.

²⁵And the yoke of his chain shall prosper: there is craft in his hand; and he shall magnify himself in his heart, and by craft shall destroy many, and he shall stand up for the destruction of many, and shall crush them as eggs in his hand. ²⁶And the vision of the evening and morning that was mentioned is true: and do thou seal the vision; for it is for many days. ²⁷And I Daniel fell asleep, and was sick: then I arose, and did the king's business; and

I wondered at the vision, and there was none that understood it.

Chapter 9

¹In the first year of Darius the son of Assuerus, of the seed of the Medes, who reigned over the kingdom of the Chaldeans, ²I Daniel understood by books the number of the years which was the word of the Lord to the prophet Jeremias, even seventy years for the accomplishment of the desolation of Jerusalem. ³And I set my face toward the Lord God, to seek him diligently by prayer and supplications, with fastings and sackcloth. ⁴And I prayed to the Lord my God, and confessed, and said, O Lord, the great and wonderful God, keeping thy covenant and thy mercy to them that love thee, and to them that keep thy commandments; we have sinned, ⁵we have done iniquity, we have transgressed, and we have departed and turned aside from thy commandments and from thy judgments: ⁶and we have not hearkened to thy servants the prophets, who spoke in thy name to our kings, and our princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land. ⁷To thee, O Lord, belongs righteousness, an to us confusion of face, as at this day; to the men of Juda, and to the dwellers in Jerusalem, and to all Israel, to them that are near, and to them that are far off in all the earth, wherever thou has scattered them, for the sin which they committed. ⁸In thee, O Lord, is our righteousness, and to us belongs confusion of faced, and to our kings, and to our princes, and to our fathers, forasmuch as we have sinned. ⁹To thee, the Lord our God, belong compassions and forgivenesses, whereas we have departed from thee; ¹⁰neither have we hearkened to the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his laws, which he set before us by the hands of his servants the prophets. ¹¹Moreover all Israel have transgressed thy law, and have refused to hearken to thy voice; so the curse has come upon us, and the oath that is written in the law of Moses the servant of God, because we have sinned against him. ¹²And he has confirmed his words, which he spoke against us, and against our judges who judged us, by bringing upon us great evils, such as have not happened under the whole heaven, according to what has happened in Jerusalem. ¹³As it is written in the law of Moses, all these evils have come upon us: yet we have not besought the Lord our God, that we might turn away from our iniquities, and have understanding in all thy truth. ¹⁴The Lord also has watched, and brought the evils upon us: for the Lord our God is righteous in all his work which he has executed, but we have not hearkened to his voice. ¹⁵And now, O Lord our God, who broughtest thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and madest to thyself a name, as at this day; we have sinned, we have transgressed.

Daniel

¹⁶O Lord, thy mercy is over all: let, I pray thee, thy wrath turn away, and thine anger from thy city Jerusalem, even thy holy mountain: for we have sinned, and because of our iniquities, and those of our fathers, Jerusalem and thy people are become a reproach among all that are round about us.

¹⁷And now, O lord our God, hearken to the prayer of thy servant, and his supplications, and cause thy face to shine on thy desolate sanctuary, for thine own sake, O Lord. ¹⁸Incline thine ear, O my God, and hear; open thine eyes and behold our desolation, and that of thy city on which thy name is called: for we do not bring our pitiful case before thee on the ground of our righteousness, but on the ground of thy manifold compassions, O Lord.

²⁰And while I was yet speaking, and praying, and confessing my sins and the sins of my people Israel, and bringing my pitiful case before the Lord my God concerning the holy mountain; ²¹yea, while I was yet speaking in prayer, behold the man Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning, came flying, and he touched me about the hour of the evening sacrifice. ²²And he instructed me, and spoke with me, and said, O Daniel, I am now come forth to impart to thee understanding. ²³At the beginning of thy supplication the word came forth, and I am come to tell thee; for thou art a man much beloved: therefore consider the matter, understand the vision. ²⁴Seventy weeks have been determined upon thy people, and upon the holy city, for sin to be ended, and to seal up transgressions, and to blot out the iniquities, and to make atonement for iniquities, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal the vision and the prophet, and to anoint the Most Holy. ²⁵And thou shalt know and understand, that from the going forth of the command for the answer and for the building of Jerusalem until Christ the prince there shall be seven weeks, and sixty-two weeks; and then the time shall return, and the street shall be built, and the wall, and the times shall be exhausted. ²⁶And after the sixty-two weeks, the anointed one shall be destroyed, and there is no judgment in him: and he shall destroy the city and the sanctuary with the prince that is coming: they shall be cut off with a flood, and to the end of the war which is rapidly completed he shall appoint the city to desolations. ²⁷And one week shall establish the covenant with many: and in the midst of the week my sacrifice and drink-offering shall be taken away: and on the temple shall be the abomination of desolations; and at the end of time an end shall be put to the desolation.

Daniel

Chapter 10

¹In the third year of Cyrus king of the Persians a thing was revealed to Daniel, whose name was called Baltasar; and the thing was true, and great power and understanding in the vision was given to him. ²In those days I Daniel was mourning three full weeks. ³I ate no pleasant bread, and no flesh or wine entered into my mouth, neither did I anoint myself with oil, until three whole weeks were accomplished. ⁴On the twenty-fourth day of the first month, I was near the great river, which is Tigris Eddekel. ⁵And I lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold a man clothed in linen, and his loins were girt with gold of Ophaz: ⁶and his body was as Tharsis, and his face was as the appearance of lightning, and his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms and his legs as the appearance of shining brass, and the voice of his words as the voice of a multitude. ⁷And I Daniel only saw the vision: and the men that were with me saw not the vision; but a great amazement fell upon them, and they fled in fear. ⁸So I was left alone, and saw this great vision, and there was no strength left in me, and my glory was turned into corruption, and I retained no strength. ⁹Yet I heard the voice of his words: and when I heard him I was pricked in the heart, and I fell with my face to the earth.

¹⁰And, behold, a hand touched me, and it raised me on my knees. ¹¹And he said to me, O Daniel, man greatly beloved, understand the words which I speak to thee, and stand upright: for I am now sent to thee. And when he had spoken to me this word, I stood trembling. ¹²And he said to me, Fear not, Daniel: for from the first day that thou didst set thine heart to understand, and to afflict thyself before the Lord thy God, they words were heard, and I am come because of thy words. ¹³But the prince of the kingdom of the Persians withstood me twenty-one days: and behold, Michael, one of the princes, came to help me; and I left him there with the chief of the kingdom of the Persians: ¹⁴and I have come to inform thee of all that shall befall thy people in the last days: for the vision is yet for many days. ¹⁵And when he had spoken with me according to these words, I turned my face to the ground, and was pricked in the heart. ¹⁶And, behold, as it were the likeness of a son of man touched my lips; and I opened my mouth, and spoke, and said to him that stood before me, O my lord, at the sight of thee my bowels were turned within me, and I had no strength. ¹⁷And how shall thy servant be able, O my lord, to speak with this my lord? and as for me, from henceforth strength will not remain in me, and there is no breath left in me. ¹⁸And there touched me again as it were the appearance of a man, and he strengthened me, ¹⁹and said to me, Fear not, man greatly beloved: peace be to thee, quit thyself like a man, and be strong. And when he had spoken with me, I received strength, and said, Let my lord speak; for thou hast strengthened me. ²⁰And he said, Knowest thou, wherefore I am come to thee? and now I will return to fight with the prince of the Persians: and I was going in, and the prince of the Greeks came. ²¹But I will tell thee that which is ordained in the scripture of truth: and there is no one that holds with me in these matters but Michael your prince.

Chapter 11

¹And I in the first year of Cyrus stood to strengthen and confirm him.

²And now I will tell thee the truth. Behold, there shall yet rise up three kings in Persia: and the fourth shall be very far richer than all: and after that he is master of his wealth, he shall rise up against all the kingdoms of the Greeks. ³An there shall rise up a mighty king, and he shall be lord of a great empire, and shall do according to his will. ⁴And when his kingdom shall stand up, it shall be broken, and shall be divided to the four winds of heaven; but not to his posterity, nor according to his dominion which he ruled over: for his kingdom shall be plucked up, and given to others beside these. ⁵And the king of the south shall be strong; and one of their princes shall prevail against him, and shall obtain a great dominion. ⁶And after his years they shall associate; and the daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north, to make agreements with him: but she shall not retain power of arm; neither shall his seed stand: and she shall be delivered up, and they that brought her, and the maiden, and he that strengthened her in these times. ⁷*But* out of the flower of her root there shall arise one on his place, and shall come against the host, and shall enter into the strongholds of the king of the north, and shall fight against them, and prevail. ⁸Yea, he shall carry with a body of captives into Egypt their gods with their molten images, and all their precious vessels of silver and gold; and he shall last longer than the king of the north. ⁹And he shall enter into the kingdom of the king of the south, and shall return to his own land. ¹⁰And his sons shall gather a multitude among many: and one shall certainly come, and overflow, and pass through, and he shall rest, and collect his strength. ¹¹And the king of the south shall be greatly enraged, and shall come forth, and shall war with the king of the north: and he shall raise a great multitude; but the multitude shall be delivered into his hand. ¹²And he shall take the multitude, and his heart shall be exalted; and he shall cast down many thousands; but he shall not prevail. ¹³For the king of the north shall return, and bring a multitude greater than the former, and at the end of the times of years an invading army shall come with a great force, and with much substance. ¹⁴And in those times many shall rise up against the king of the south; and the children of the spoilers of thy people shall exalt themselves to establish the vision; and they shall fail. ¹⁵And the king of the north shall come in, and cast up a mound, and take strong cities: and the arms of the king of the south shall withstand, and his chosen ones shall rise up, but there shall be no strength to stand. ¹⁶And he that comes in against him shall do according to his will, and there is no one to stand before him: and he shall stand in the land of beauty, and it shall be consumed by his hand. ¹⁷And he shall set his face to come in with the force of his whole kingdom, and shall cause everything to prosper with him: and he shall give him the daughter of women to corrupt her: but she shall not continue, neither be on his side. ¹⁸And he shall turn his face to the islands, and shall take many, and cause princes to cease from their reproach: nevertheless his own reproach shall return to him. ¹⁹Then he shall turn back his face to the strength of his own land: but he shall become weak, and fall, and not be found. ²⁰And there shall arise out of his root one that shall cause a plant of the kingdom to pass over his place, earning kingly glory: and yet in those days shall he be broken, yet not openly, nor in war. ²¹*One* shall stand on his place, who has been set a nought, and they have not put upon him the honour of the kingdom: but he shall come in prosperously, and obtain the kingdom by deceitful ways. ²²And the arms of him that overflows shall be washed away as with a flood from before him, and shall be broken, and so shall be the head of the covenant. ²³And because of the leagues made with him he shall work deceit: and he shall come up, and overpower them with a small nation. ²⁴And he shall enter with prosperity, and that into fertile districts; and he shall do what his fathers and his fathers' fathers have not done; he shall scatter among them plunder, and spoils, and wealth; and he shall devise plans against Egypt, even for a time. ²⁵And his strength and his heart shall be stirred up against the king of the south with a great force; and the king of the south shall engage in war with a great and very strong force; but his forces shall not stand, for they shall devise plans against him: ²⁶and they shall eat his provisions, and shall crush him, and he shall carry away armies as with a flood, and many shall fall down slain. ²⁷And as for both the kings, their hearts are set upon mischief, and they shall speak lies at one table; but it shall not prosper; for yet the end is for a fixed time. ²⁸And he shall return to his land with much substance; and his heart shall be against the holy covenant; and he shall perform great deeds, and return to his own land. ²⁹At the set time he shall return, and shall come into the south, but the last expedition shall not be as the first. ³⁰For the Citians issuing forth shall come against him, and he shall be brought low, and shall return, and shall be incensed against the holy covenant: and he shall do thus, and shall return, and have intelligence with them that have forsaken the holy covenant.

³¹And seeds shall spring up out of him, and they shall profane the sanctuary of strength, and they shall remove the perpetual sacrifice, and make the abomination desolate. ³²And the transgressors shall bring about a covenant by deceitful ways: but a people knowing their God shall prevail, and do valiantly. ³³And the intelligent of the people shall understand much: yet they shall fall by the sword, and by flame, and by captivity, and by spoil of many days.

³⁴And when they are weak they shall be helped with a little help: but many shall attach themselves to them with treachery. ³⁵And some of them that understand shall fall, to try them as with fire, and to test them, and that they may be manifested at the time of the end, for the matter is yet for a set time.

³⁶And he shall do according to his will, and the king shall exalt and magnify himself against every god, and shall speak great swelling words, and shall prosper until the indignation shall be accomplished: for it is coming to an end. ³⁷And he shall not regard any gods of his fathers, nor the desire of women, neither shall he regard any deity: for he shall magnify himself above all. ³⁸And he shall honour the god of forces on his place: and a god whom his fathers knew not he shall honour with gold, and silver, and precious stones, and desirable things.

³⁹And he shall do thus in the strong places of refuge with a strange god, and shall increase his glory: and he shall subject many to them, and shall distribute the land in gifts. ⁴⁰And at the end of the time he shall conflict with the king of the south: and the king of the north shall come against him with chariots, and with horsemen, and with many ships; and they shall enter into the land: and he shall break in pieces, and pass on: ⁴¹and he shall enter into the land of beauty, and many shall fail: but these shall escape out of his hand, Edom, and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon. ⁴²And he shall stretch forth his hand over the land; and the land of Egypt shall not escape.

⁴³And he shall have the mastery over the secret treasures of gold and silver, and over all the desirable possessions of Egypt, and of the Libyans and Ethiopians in their strongholds. ⁴⁴But rumors and anxieties out of the east and from the north shall trouble him; and he shall come with great wrath to destroy many. ⁴⁵And he shall pitch the tabernacle of his palace between the seas in the holy mountain of beauty: but he shall come to his portion, and there is none to deliver him.

Chapter 12

¹And at that time Michael the great prince shall stand up, that stands over the children of thy people: and there shall be a time of tribulation, such tribulation as has not been from the time that there was a nation on the earth until that time: at that time thy people shall be delivered, even every one that is written in the book. ²And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to reproach and everlasting shame. ³And the wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and some of the many righteous as the stars for ever and ever. ⁴And thou, Daniel, close the words, and seal the book to the time of the end; until many are taught, and knowledge is increased. ⁵And I Daniel saw, and, behold, two others stood, on one side of the bank of the river, and the other on the other side of the bank of the river. ⁶And one said to the man clothed in linen, who was over the water of the river, When will be the end of the wonders which thou has mentioned? ⁷And I heard the man clothed in linen, who was over the water of the river, and he lifted up his right hand and his left hand to heaven, and sware by him that lives for ever, that it should be for a time of times and half a time: when the dispersion is ended they shall know all these things. ⁸And I heard, but I understood not: and I said, O Lord, what will be the end of these things? ⁹And he said, Go, Daniel: for the words are closed and sealed up to the time of the end. ¹⁰Many must be tested, and thoroughly whitened, and tried with fire, and sanctified; but the transgressors shall transgress: and none of the transgressors shall understand; but the wise shall understand. ¹¹And from the time of the removal of the perpetual sacrifice, when the abomination of desolation shall be set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days. ¹²Blessed is he that waits, and comes to the thousand three hundred and thirty-five days. ¹³But go thou, and rest; for there are yet days and seasons to the fulfillment of the end; and thou shalt stand in thy lot at the end of the days.

Osee

(Hosea)

Chapter 1

¹The word of the Lord which came to Hosea the son of Beeri, in the days of Ozias, and Joatham, and Achaz, and Ezekias, kings of Juda, and in the days of Jeroboam son of Joas, king of Israel. ²The beginning of the word of the Lord by Hosea. And the Lord said to Hosea, Go, take to thyself a wife of fornication, and children of fornication: for the land will surely go a-whoring in departing from the Lord. ³So he went and took Gomer, daughter of Debelaim; and she conceived, and bore him a son. ⁴And the Lord said to him, Call his name Jezrael; for yet a little while, and I will avenge the blood of Jezrael on the house of Juda, and will make to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel. ⁵And it shall be, in that day, that I will break the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezrael. ⁶And she conceived again, and bore a daughter. And he said to him, Call her name, Unpitied: for I will no more have mercy on the house of Israel, but will surely set myself in array against them. ⁷But I will have mercy on the house of Juda, and will save them by the Lord their God, and will not save them with bow, nor with sword, nor by war, nor by horses, nor by horsemen. ⁸And she weaned Unpitied; and she conceived again, and bore a son. ⁹And he said, Call his name, Not my people: for ye are not my people, and I am not your God. ¹⁰Yet the number of the children of Israel was as the sand of the sea, which shall not be measured nor numbered: and it shall come to pass, that in the place where it was said to them, Ye are not my people, even they shall be called the sons of the living God. ¹¹And the children of Juda shall be gathered, and the children of Israel together, and shall appoint themselves one head, and shall come up out of the land: for great shall be the day of Jezrael.

¹Say to your brother, My people, and to your sister, Pitied. ²Plead with your mother, plead: for she is not my wife, and I am not her husband: and I will remove her fornication out of my presence, and her adultery from between her breasts: ³*that* I may strip her naked, and make her again as she was at the day of her birth: and I will make her desolate, and make her as a dry land, and will kill her with thirst. ⁴And I will not have mercy upon her children; for they are children of fornication. ⁵And their mother went a-whoring: she that bore them disgraced them: for she said, I will go after my lovers, that give me my bread and my water, and my garments, and my linen clothes, my oil and my necessities. ⁶Therefore, behold, I hedge up her way with thorns, and I will stop the ways, and she shall not find her path. ⁷And she shall follow after her lovers, and shall not overtake them; and she shall seek them, but shall not find them: and she shall say, I will go, and return to my former husband; for it was better with me than now. ⁸And she knew not that I gave her her corn, and wine, and oil, and multiplied silver to her: but she made silver and gold images for Baal. ⁹Therefore I will return, and take away my corn in its season, and my wine in its time; and I will take away my raiment and my linen clothes, so that she shall not cover her nakedness.

¹⁵And I will give her possessions from thence, and the valley of Achor to open her understanding: and she shall be afflicted there according to the days of her infancy, and according to the days of her coming up out of the land of Egypt. ¹⁶And it shall come to pass in that day, says the Lord, that she shall call me, My husband, and shall no longer call me Baalim. ¹⁷And I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and their names shall be remembered no more at all. ¹⁸And I will make for them in that day a covenant with the wild beasts of the field, and with the birds of the sky, and with the reptiles of the earth: and I will break the bow and the sword and the battle from off the earth, and will cause thee to dwell safely. ¹⁹And I will betroth thee to myself for ever; yea, I will betroth thee to myself in righteousness, and in judgment, and in mercy, and in tender compassions; ²⁰and I will betroth thee to myself in faithfulness: and thou shalt know the Lord. ²¹And it shall come to pass in that day, says the Lord, I will hearken to the heaven, and it shall hearken to the earth; ²²and the earth shall hearken to the corn, and the wine, and the oil; and they shall hearken to Jezrael. ²³And I will sow her to me on the earth; and will love her that was not loved, and will say to that which was not my people, Thou art my people; and they shall say, Thou art the Lord my God.

Osee

Chapter 3

¹And the Lord said to me, Go yet, and love a woman that loves evil things, an adulteress, even as the Lord loves the children of Israel, and they have respect to strange gods, and love cakes of dried grapes. ²So I hired her to myself for fifteen pieces of silver, and a homer of barley, and a flagon of wine. ³And I said unto her, Thou shalt wait for me many days; and thou shalt not commit fornication, neither shalt thou be for another man; and I will be for thee. ⁴For the children of Israel shall abide many days without a king, and without a prince, and without a sacrifice, and without an altar, and without a priesthood, and without manifestations. ⁵And afterward shall the children of Israel return, and shall seek the Lord their God, and David their king; and shall be amazed at the Lord and at his goodness in the latter days.

Chapter 4

¹Hear the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord has a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land. ²Cursing, and lying, and murder, and theft, and adultery abound in the land, and they mingle blood with blood. ³Therefore shall the land mourn, and shall be diminished with all that dwell in it, with the wild beasts of the field, and the reptiles of the earth, and with the birds of the sky, and the fish of the sea shall fail: ⁴that neither any one may plead, nor any one reprove another; but my people are as a priest spoken against. ⁵Therefore they shall fall by day, and the prophet with thee shall fall: I have compared thy mother unto night. ⁶My people are like as if they had no knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt not minister as priest to me: and as thou has forgotten the law of thy God, I also will forget thy children. ⁷According to their multitude, so they sinned against me: I will turn their glory into shame. ⁸They will devour the sins of my people, and will set their hearts on their iniquities. ⁹And the priest shall be as the people: and I will avenge on them their ways, and I will recompense to them their counsels. ¹⁰And they shall eat, and shall not be satisfied: they have gone a-whoring, and shall by no means prosper: because they have left off to take heed to the Lord. ¹¹The heart of my people has gladly engaged in fornication and wine and strong drink. ¹²They asked counsel by means of signs, and they reported answer to them by their staves: they have gone astray in a spirit of whoredom, and gone grievously a-whoring from their God. ¹³They have sacrificed on the tops of the mountains, and on the hills they have sacrificed under the oak and poplar, and under the shady tree, because the shade was good: therefore your daughters shall go a-whoring, and your daughters-in-law shall commit adultery. ¹⁴And I will not visit upon your daughters when they shall commit fornication, nor your daughters-in-law when they shall commit adultery: for they themselves mingled themselves with harlots, and sacrificed with polluted ones, and the people that understood not entangled itself with a harlot.

¹⁵But thou, Israel, be not ignorant, and go ye not, men of Juda, to Galgala; and go not up to the house of On, and swear not by the living Lord. ¹⁶For Israel was maddened like a mad heifer: now the Lord will feed them as a lamb in a wide place. ¹⁷Ephraim, joined with idols, has laid stumbling-blocks in his own way. ¹⁸He has chosen the Chananites: they have grievously gone a-whoring: they have loved dishonour through her insolence. ¹⁹Thou art a blast of wind in her wings, and they shall be ashamed because of their altars.

¹Hear these things, ye priests; and attend, O house of Israel; and hearken, O house of the king; for the controversy is with you, because ye have been a snare in Scopia, and as a net spread on Itabyrium, ²which they that hunt the prey have fixed: but I will correct you. ³I know Ephraim, and Israel is not far from me: for now Ephraim has gone grievously a-whoring, Israel is defiled. ⁴They have not framed their counsels to return to their God, for the spirit of fornication is in them, and they have not known the Lord. ⁵And the pride of Israel shall be brought low before his face; and Israel and Ephraim shall fall in their iniquities; and Judas also shall fall with them. ⁶They shall go with sheep and calves diligently to seek the Lord; but they shall not find him, for he has withdrawn himself from them. ⁷For they have forsaken the Lord; for strange children have been born to them: now shall the cankerworm devour them and their heritages. ⁸Blow ye the trumpet on the hills, sound aloud on the heights: proclaim in the house of On, Benjamin is amazed. ⁹Ephraim has come to nought in the days of reproof: in the tribes of Israel I have shown faithful dealings. ¹⁰The princes of Juda became as they that removed the bounds: I will pour out upon them my fury as water. ¹¹Ephraim altogether prevailed against his adversary, he trod judgment under foot, for he began to go after vanities. ¹²Therefore I will be as consternation to Ephraim, and as a goad to the house of Juda. ¹³And Ephraim saw his disease, and Judas his pain; then Ephraim went to the Assyrians, and sent ambassadors to king Jarim: but he could not heal you, and your pain shall in nowise cease from you. ¹⁴Wherefore I am as a panther to Ephraim, and as a lion to the house of Juda: and I will tear, and go away; and I will take, and there shall be none to deliver.

¹⁵I will go and return to my place, until they are brought to nought, and then shall they seek my face.

Chapter 6

¹In their affliction they will seek me early, saying, Let us go, and return to the Lord our God; for he has torn, and will heal us; ²he will smite, and bind us up. ³After two days he will heal us: in the third day we shall arise, and live before him, and shall know him: ⁴let us follow on to know the Lord: we shall find him ready as the morning, and he will come to us as the early and latter rain to the earth. ⁵What shall I do unto thee, Ephraim? What shall I do to thee, Juda? whereas your mercy is as a morning cloud, and as the early dew that goes away. ⁶Therefore have I mown down your prophets; I have slain them with the word of my mouth: and my judgment shall go forth as the light. ⁷For I will have mercy rather than sacrifice, and the knowledge of God rather than whole-burnt-offerings. ⁸But they are as a man transgressing a covenant: ⁹there the city Galaad despised me, working vanity, troubling water. ¹⁰And thy strength is that of a robber: the priests have hid the way, they have murdered the people of Sicima; for they have wrought iniquity in the house of Israel. ¹¹I have seen horrible things there, even the fornication of Ephraim: Israel and Juda are defiled; ¹²begin together grapes for thyself, when I turn the captivity of my people.

¹When I have healed Israel, then shall the iniquity of Ephraim be revealed, and the wickedness of Samaria; for they have wrought falsehood: and a thief shall come in to him, even a robber spoiling in his way; ²that they may concert together as men singing in their heart: I remember all their wickedness: now have their own counsels compassed them about; they came before my face. ³They gladdened kings with their wickedness, and princes with their lies. ⁴They are all adulterers, as an oven glowing with flame for hot-baking, on account of the kneading of the dough, until it is leavened. ⁵*In* the days of our kings, the princes began to be inflamed with wine: he stretched out his hand with pestilent fellows. ⁶Wherefore their hearts are inflamed as an oven, while they rage all the night: Ephraim is satisfied with sleep; the morning is come; he is burnt up as a flame of fire. ⁷They are all heated like an oven, and have devoured their judges: all their kings are fallen; there was not among them one that called on me. ⁸Ephraim is mixed among his people; Ephraim became a cake not turned. ⁹Strangers devoured his strength, and he knew it not; and grey hairs came upon him, and he knew it not. ¹⁰And the pride of Israel shall be brought down before his face: yet they have not returned to the Lord their God, neither have they diligently sought him for all this.

¹¹And Ephraim was as a silly dove, not having a heart: he called to Egypt, and they went to the Assyrians. ¹²Whenever they shall go, I will cast my net upon them; I will bring them down as the birds of the sky, I will chasten them with the rumor of their coming affliction. ¹³Woe to them! for they have started aside from me: they are cowards; for they have sinned against me: yet I redeemed them, but they spoke falsehoods against me. ¹⁴And their hearts did not cry to me, but they howled on their beds: they pined for oil and wine. ¹⁵They were instructed by me, and I strengthened their arms; and they devised evils against me. ¹⁶They turned aside to that which is not, they became as a bent bow: their princes shall fall by the sword, by reason of the unbridled state of their tongue: this is their setting at nought in the land of Egypt.

¹*He shall come* into their midst as the land, as an eagle against the house of the Lord, because they have transgressed my covenant, and have sinned against my law. ²They shall soon cry out to me, saying, O God, we know thee. ³For Israel has turned away from good things; they have pursued an enemy. ⁴They have made kings for themselves, but not by me: they have ruled, but they did not make it known to me: of their silver and their gold they have made images to themselves, that they might be destroyed. ⁵Cast off thy calf, O Samaria; mine anger is kindled against them: how long will they be unable to purge themselves in Israel? ⁶Whereas the workman made it, and it is not God; wherefore thy calf, Samaria, was a deceiver: ⁷for they sowed blighted seed, and their destruction shall await them, a sheaf of corn that avails not to make meal; and even if it should produce it, strangers shall devour it. ⁸Israel is swallowed up: now is he become among the nations as a worthless vessel. ⁹For they have gone up to the Assyrians: Ephraim has been strengthened against himself; they loved gifts. ¹⁰Therefore shall they be delivered to the nations: now I will receive them, and they shall cease a little to anoint a king and princes. ¹¹Because Ephraim has multiplied altars, his beloved altars are become sins to him. ¹²I will write down a multitude of commands for him; but his statutes are accounted strange things, even the beloved altars. ¹³For if they should offer a sacrifice, and eat flesh, the lord will not accept them: now will he remember their iniquities, and will take vengeance on their sins: they have returned to Egypt, and they shall eat unclean things among the Assyrians. ¹⁴And Israel has forgotten him that made him, and they have built fanes, and Juda has multiplied walled cities: but I will send fire on his cities, and it shall devour their foundations.

Chapter 9

¹Rejoice not, O Israel, neither make merry, as other nations: for thou hast gone a-whoring from thy God; thou hast loved gifts upon every threshing-floor. ²The threshing-floor and wine-press knew them not, and the wine disappointed them. ³They dwelt not in the Lord's land: Ephraim dwelt in

Egypt, and they shall eat unclean things among the Assyrians. ⁴They have not offered wine to the Lord, neither have their sacrifices been sweet to him, but as the bread of mourning to them; all that eat them shall be defiled; for their bread for their soul shall not enter into the house of the Lord. ⁵What will ye do in the day of the general assembly, and in the day of the feast of the Lord? ⁶Therefore, behold, they go forth from the trouble of Egypt, and Memphis shall receive them, and Machmas shall bury them: as for their silver, destruction shall inherit it; thorns shall be in their tents. ⁷The days of vengeance are come, the days of thy recompense are come; and Israel shall be afflicted as the prophet that is mad, as a man deranged: by reason of the multitude of thine iniquities thy madness has abounded. ⁸The watchman of Ephraim was with God: the prophet is a crooked snare in all his ways: they have established madness in the house of God. ⁹They have corrupted themselves according to the days of the hill: he will remember their iniquities, he will take vengeance on their sins. ¹⁰I found Israel as grapes in the wilderness, and I saw their fathers as an early watchman in a fig-tree: they went in to Beel-phegor, and were shamefully estranged, and the abominable became as the beloved. ¹¹Ephraim has flown away as a bird; their glories from the birth, and the travail, and the conception. ¹²For even if they should rear their children, yet shall they be utterly bereaved: wherefore also there is woe to them, though my flesh is of them. ¹³Ephraim, even as I saw, gave their children for a prey; yea, Ephraim was ready to bring out his children to slaughter. ¹⁴Give them, O Lord: what wilt thou give them? a miscarrying womb, and dry breasts. ¹⁵All their wickedness is in Galgal: for there I hated them: because of the wickedness of their practices, I will cast them out of my house, I will not love them any more: all their princes are disobedient. ¹⁶Ephraim is sick, he is dried up at his roots, he shall in no wise any more bear fruit: wherefore even if they should beget children, I will kill the desired fruit of their womb. ¹⁷God shall reject them, because they have not hearkened to him: and they shall be wanderers among the nations.

¹Israel is a vine with goodly branches, her fruit is abundant: according to the multitude of her fruits she has multiplied her altars; according to the wealth of his land, he has set up pillars. ²They have divided their hearts; now shall they be utterly destroyed: he shall dig down their altars, their pillars shall mourn. ³Because now they shall say, We have no king, because we feared not the Lord: ⁴and what should a king do for us, speaking false professions as his words? he will make a covenant: judgment shall spring up as a weed on the soil of the field. ⁵The inhabitants of

Samaria shall dwell near the calf of the house of On; for the people of it mourned for it: and as they provoked him, they shall rejoice at his glory, because he has departed from them. ⁶And having bound it for the Assyrians, they carried it away as presents to king Jarim: Ephraim shall receive a gift, and Israel shall be ashamed of his counsel. ⁷Samaria has cast off her king as a twig on the surface of the water. ⁸And the altars of On, the sins of Israel, shall be taken away: thorns and thistles shall come up on their altars; and they shall say to the mountains, Cover us; and to the hills, Fall on us. ⁹From the time the hills existed Israel has sinned: there they stood: war waged against the children of iniquity ¹⁰to chastise them shall not overtake them on the hill, the nations shall be gathered against them, when they are chastened for their two sins, ¹¹Ephraim is a heifer taught to love victory, but I will come upon the fairest part of her neck: I will mount Ephraim; I will pass over Juda in silence; Jacob shall prevail against him. ¹²Sow to yourselves for righteousness, gather in for the fruit of life: light ye for yourselves the light of knowledge; seek the Lord till the fruits of righteousness come upon you. ¹³Wherefore have ye passed over ungodliness in silence, and reaped the sins of it? ye have eaten false fruit; for thou has trusted in thy sins, in the abundance of thy power. ¹⁴Therefore shall destruction rise up among thy people, and all thy strong places shall be ruined: as a prince Solomon departed out of the house of Jeroboam, in the days of battle they dashed the mother to the ground upon the children, ¹⁵thus will I do to you, O house of Israel, because of the unrighteousness of your sins.

¹Early in the morning were they cast off, the king of Israel has been cast off: for Israel is a child, and I loved him, and out of Egypt have I called his children. ²As I called them, so they departed from my presence: they sacrificed to Baalim, and burnt incense to graven images. ³Yet I bound the feet of Ephraim, I took him on my arm; but they knew not that I healed them. ⁴When men were destroyed, I drew them with the bands of my love: and I will be to them as a man smiting another on his cheek: and I will have respect to him, I will prevail with him. ⁵Ephraim dwelt in Egypt; and as for the Assyrian, he was his king, because he would not return. ⁶And in his cities he prevailed not with the sword, and he ceased to war with his hands: and they shall eat of the fruit of their own devices: ⁷and his people shall cleave fondly to their habitation; but God shall be angry with his precious things, and shall not at all exalt him. ⁸How shall I deal with thee, Ephraim? how shall I protect thee, Israel? what shall I do with thee? I will make thee as Adama, and as Seboim; my heart is turned at once, my repentance is powerfully excited. ⁹I will not act according to the fury of my wrath, I will not abandon Ephraim to be utterly destroyed: for I am God, and not man; the Holy One within thee: and I will not enter into the city. ¹⁰I will go after the Lord: he shall utter his voice as a lion: for he shall roar, and the children of the waters shall be amazed. ¹¹They shall be amazed and fly as a bird out of Egypt, and as a dove out of the land of the Assyrians: and I will restore them to their houses, says the Lord. ¹²Ephraim has compassed me with falsehood, and the house of Israel and Juda with ungodliness: but now God knows them, and they shall be called God's holy people.

¹But Ephraim is an evil spirit, he has chased the east wind all the day: he has multiplied empty and vain things, and made a covenant with the Assyrians, and oil has gone in the way of traffic into Egypt. ²And the Lord has a controversy with Juda, in order to punish Jacob: according to his ways and according to his practices will he recompense him. ³He took his brother by the heel in the womb, and in his labours he had power with God. ⁴And he prevailed with the angel and was strong: they wept, and intreated me: they found me in the house of On, and there a word was spoken to them. ⁵But the Lord God Almighty shall be his memorial. ⁶Thou therefore shalt return to thy God: keep thou mercy and judgment, and draw nigh to thy God continually. ⁷As for Chanaan, in his hand is a balance of unrighteousness: he has loved to tyrannize. ⁸And Ephraim said, Nevertheless I am rich, I have found refreshment to myself. None of his labours shall be found available to him, by reason of the sins which he has committed. ⁹But I the Lord thy God brought thee up out of the land of Egypt: I will yet cause thee to dwell in tabernacles, according to the days of the feast. ¹⁰And I will speak to the prophets, and I have multiplied visions, and by the means of the prophets I was represented. ¹¹If Galaad exists not, then the chiefs in Galaad when they sacrificed were false, and their altars were as heaps on the ground of the field. ¹²And Jacob retreated into the plain of Syria, and Israel served for a wife, and waited for a wife. ¹³And the Lord brought Israel out of the land of Egypt by a prophet, and by a prophet was he preserve. ¹⁴Ephraim was angry and excited, therefore his blood shall be poured out upon him, and the Lord shall recompense to him his reproach.

¹According to the word of Ephraim he adopted ordinances for himself in Israel; and he established them for Baal, and died. ²And now they have sinned increasingly, and have made for themselves a molten image of their silver, according to the fashion of idols, the work of artificers accomplished for them: they say, Sacrifice men, for the calves have come to an end. ³Therefore shall they be as a morning cloud, and as the early dew that passes away, as chaff blown away from the threshing-floor, and as a vapor from tears. ⁴But I am the Lord thy God that establishes the heaven, and creates the earth, whose hands have framed the whole host of heaven: but I showed them not to thee that thou shouldest go after them: and I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no God but me; and there is no Saviour beside me. ⁵I tended thee as a shepherd in the wilderness, in an uninhabited land. ⁶According to their pastures, so they were completely filled; and their hearts were exalted; therefore they forgot me. ⁷And I will be to them as a panther, and as a leopard. ⁸I will meet them by the way of the Assyrians, as a she-bear excited, and I will rend the caul of their heart, and the lions' whelps of the thicket shall devour them there; the wild beasts of the field shall rend them in pieces.

⁹O Israel, who will aid thee in thy destruction? ¹⁰Where is this thy king? let him even save thee in all thy cities: let him judge thee, of whom thou saidst, Give me a king and a prince. ¹¹And I gave thee a king in mine anger, and kept him back in my wrath. ¹²Ephraim has framed a conspiracy of unrighteousness, his sin is hidden. ¹³Pains as of a woman in travail shall come upon him: he is thy wise son, because he shall not stay in the destruction of thy children. ¹⁴I will deliver them out of the power of Hades, and will redeem them from death: where is thy penalty, O death? O Hades, where is thy sting? comfort is hidden from mine eyes. ¹⁵Forasmuch as he will cause a division among his brethren, the Lord shall bring upon him an east wind from the desert, and shall dry up his veins and quite drain his fountains: he shall dry up his land, and spoil all his precious vessels.

¹Samaria shall be utterly destroyed: for she has resisted her God; they shall fall by the sword, and their sucklings shall be dashed against the ground, and their women with child ripped up.

²Return, O Israel, to the Lord thy God; for the people have fallen through thine iniquities. ³Take with you words, and turn to the Lord your God: speak to him, that ye may not receive the reward of unrighteousness, but that ye may receive good things: and we will render in return the fruit of our lips. ⁴Assur shall never save us; we will not mount on horseback; we will no longer say to the works of our hands, Our gods. He who is in thee shall pity the orphan. ⁵I will restore their dwellings, I will love them truly: for he has turned away my wrath from him. ⁶I will be as dew to Israel: he shall bloom as the lily, and cast forth his roots as Libanus. ⁷His branches shall spread, and he shall be as a fruitful olive, and his smell shall be as the smell of Libanus. ⁸They shall return, and dwell under his shadow:

they shall live and be satisfied with corn, and he shall flower as a vine: his memorial shall be to Ephraim as the wine of Libanus. ⁹What has he to do any more with idols? I have afflicted him, and I will strengthen him: I am as a leafy juniper tree. From me is thy fruit found. ¹⁰Who is wise, and will understand these things? or prudent, and will know them? for the ways of the Lord are straight, and the righteous shall walk in them: but the ungodly shall fall therein.

Joel

Chapter 1

¹The word of the Lord which came to Joel the son of Bathuel. ²Hear these words, ye elders, and hearken all ye that inhabit the land. Have such things happen in your days, or in the days of your fathers? ³Tell your children concerning them, and let your children tell their children, and their children another generation. ⁴The leavings of the caterpillar has the locust eaten, and the leavings of the locust has the palmerworm eaten, and the leavings of the palmerworm has the cankerworm eaten. ⁵Awake, ye drunkards, from your wine, and weep: mourn, all ye that drink wine to drunkenness: for joy and gladness and removed are from your mouth. ⁶For a strong and innumerable nation is come up against my land, their teeth are lion's teeth, and their back teeth those of a lion's whelp. ⁷He has ruined my vine, and utterly broken my fig-trees: he has utterly searched my vine, and cast it down; he has peeled its branches. ⁸Lament to me more than a virgin girded with sackcloth for the husband of her youth. ⁹The meat-offering and drink-offering are removed from the house of the Lord: mourn, ye priests that serve at the altar of the Lord. ¹⁰For the plains languish: let the land mourn, for the corn languishes; the wine is dried up, the oil becomes scarce; ¹¹the husbandmen are consumed: mourn your property on account of the wheat and barley; for the harvest has perished from off the field. ¹²The vine is dried up, and the fig-trees are become few; the pomegranate, and palm-tree, and apple, and all trees of the field are dried up: for the sons of men have have abolished joy. ¹³Gird yourselves with sackcloth, and lament, ye priests: mourn, ye that serve at the altar: go in, sleep in sackcloths, ye that minister to God: for the meat-offering and drink-offering are withheld from the house of your God.

¹⁴Sanctify a fast, proclaim a solemn service, gather the elders and all the inhabitants of the land into the house of your God, and cry earnestly to the Lord, ¹⁵Alas, Alas, Alas for the day! for the day of the Lord is nigh, and it will come as trouble upon trouble. ¹⁶*Your* meat has been destroyed before your eyes, joy and gladness from out of the house of your God. ¹⁷The heifers have started at their mangers, the treasures are abolished, the wine-presses are broken down; for the corn is withered. ¹⁸What shall we store up for ourselves? the herds of cattle have mourned, because they had no pasture; and the flocks of sheep have been utterly destroyed. ¹⁹To thee, O Lord, will I cry: for fire has devoured the fair places of the wilderness, and a flame has burnt up all the trees of the field. ²⁰And the cattle of the field have looked up to thee: for the fountains of waters have been dried up, and fire has devoured the fair places of the wilderness.

Chapter 2

¹Sound the trumpet in Sion, make a proclamation in my holy mountain, and let all the inhabitants of the land be confounded: for the day of the Lord is near; ²for a day of darkness and gloominess is near, a day of cloud and mist: a numerous and strong people shall be spread upon the mountains as the morning; there has not been from the beginning one like it, and after it there shall not be again even to the years of many generations. ³Before them is a consuming fire, and behind them is a flame kindled: the land before them is as a paradise of delight, and behind them a desolate plain: and there shall none of them escape. ⁴Their appearance is as the appearance of horses; and as horsemen, so shall they pursue. ⁵As the sound of chariots on the tops of mountains shall they leap, and as the sound of a flame of fire devouring stubble, and as a numerous and strong people setting themselves in array for battle. ⁶Before them shall the people be crushed: every face shall be as the blackness of a caldron. ⁷As warriors shall they run, and as men of war shall they mount on the walls; and each shall move in his right path, and they shall not turn aside from their tracks: ⁸and not one shall stand aloof from his brother: they shall go on weighed down with their arms, and they fall upon their weapons, yet shall they in no wise be destroyed. ⁹They shall seize upon the city, and run upon the walls, and go up upon the houses, and enter in through the windows as thieves. ¹⁰Before them the earth shall be confounded, and the sky shall be shaken: the sun and the moon shall be darkened, and the stars shall withdraw their light. ¹¹And the Lord shall utter his voice before his host: for his camp is very great: for the execution of his words is mighty: for the day of the Lord is great, very glorious, and who shall be able to resist it?

¹²Now therefore, says the Lord your God, turn to me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with lamentation: ¹³and rend your hearts, and not your garments, and turn to the Lord your God: for he is merciful and compassionate, long-suffering, and plenteous in mercy, and repents of evils. ¹⁴Who knows if he will return, and repent, and leave a blessing behind him, even a meat-offering and a drink-offering to the Lord your God? ¹⁵Sound the trumpet in Sion, sanctify a fast, proclaim a solemn service: ¹⁶gather the people, sanctify the congregation, assemble the elders, gather the infants at the breast: let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her closet. ¹⁷Between the porch and the altar let the priests that minister to the Lord weep, and say, Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage to reproach, that the heathen should rule over them, lest they should say among the heathen, Where is their God? ¹⁸But the Lord was jealous of his land, and spared his people. ¹⁹And the Lord answered and said to his people, Behold, I will send you corn, and wine, and oil, and ye shall be satisfied with them: and I will no longer make you a reproach among the Gentiles. ²⁰And I will chase away from you the northern adversary, and will drive him away into a dry land, and I will sink his face in the former sea, and his back parts in the latter sea, and his ill savour shall come up, and his stink come up, because he has wrought great things.

²¹Be of good courage, O land; rejoice and be glad: for the Lord has done great things. ²²Be of good courage, ye beasts of the plain, for the plains of the wilderness have budded, for the trees have borne their fruit, the fig tree and the vine have yielded their strength. ²³Rejoice then and be glad, ye children of Sion, in the Lord your God: for he has given you food fully, and he will rain on you the early and the latter rain, as before. ²⁴And the floors shall be filled with corn, and the presses shall overflow with wine and oil. ²⁵And I will recompense you for the years which the locust, and the caterpillar, and the palmerworm, and the cankerworm have eaten, even my great army, which I sent against you. ²⁶And ye shall eat abundantly, and be satisfied, and shall praise the name of the Lord your God for the things which he has wrought wonderfully with you: and my people shall not be ashamed for ever. ²⁷And ye shall know that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I am the Lord your God, and that there is none else beside me; and my people shall no more be ashamed for ever. ²⁸And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your old men shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions. ²⁹And on my servants and on my handmaids in those days will I pour out of my Spirit. ³⁰And I will shew wonders in heaven, and upon the earth, blood, and fire, and vapor of smoke. ³¹The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the great and glorious day of the Lord come. ³²And it shall come to pass that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved: for in mount Sion and in Jerusalem shall the saved one be as the Lord has said, and they that have glad tidings preached to them, whom the Lord has called.

Chapter 3

¹For, behold, in those days and at that time, when I shall have turned the captivity of Juda and Jerusalem, ²I will also gather all the Gentiles, and bring them down to the valley of Josaphat, and will plead with them there for my people and my heritage Israel, who have been dispersed among the Gentiles; and these Gentiles have divided my land, ³and cast lots over my people, and have given their boys to harlots, and sold their girls for wine, and have drunk. ⁴And what have ye to do with me, O Tyre, and Sidon, and all Galilee of the Gentiles? do ye render me a recompense? or do ye bear malice against me? quickly and speedily will I return your recompense on your own heads: ⁵because ye have taken my silver and my gold, and ye have brought my choice ornaments into your temples; ⁶and ye have sold the children of Juda and the children of Jerusalem to the children of the Greeks, that ye might expel them from their coasts. ⁷Therefore, behold, I will raise them up out of the place whither ye have sold them, and I will return your recompense on your own heads. ⁸And I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hands of the children of Juda, and they shall sell them into captivity to a far distant nation: for the Lord has spoken it.

⁹Proclaim these things among the Gentiles; declare war, arouse the warriors, draw near and go up, all ye men of war. ¹⁰Beat your ploughshares into swords, and your sickles into spears: let the weak say, I am strong. ¹¹Gather yourselves together, and go in, all ye nations round about, and gather yourselves there; let the timid become a warrior. ¹²Let them be aroused, let all the nations go up to the valley of Josaphat: for there will I sit to judge all the Gentiles round about.

¹³Bring forth the sickles, for the vintage is come: go in, tread the grapes, for the press is full: cause the vats to overflow; for their wickedness is multiplied. ¹⁴Noises have resounded in the valley of judgment: for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of judgment. ¹⁵The sun and the moon shall be darkened, and the stars shall withdraw their light. ¹⁶And the Lord shall cry out of Sion, and shall utter his voice from Jerusalem; and the heaven and the earth shall be shaken, but the Lord shall spare his people, and shall strengthen the children of Israel. ¹⁷And ye shall know that I am the Lord your God, who dwell in Sion my holy mountain: and Jerusalem shall be holy, and strangers shall not pass through her anymore. ¹⁸And it shall come to pass in that day that the mountains shall drop sweet wine, and the hills shall flow with milk, and all the fountains of Juda shall flow with water, and a fountain shall go forth of the house of the Lord, and water the valley of flags. ¹⁹Egypt shall be a desolation, and Idumea shall be a desolate plain, because of the wrongs of the children of Juda, because they have shed righteous blood in their land. ²⁰But Judea shall be inhabited for ever, and Jerusalem to all generations. ²¹And I will make inquisition for their blood, and will by no means leave it unavenged: and the Lord shall dwell in Sion.

Amos

Chapter 1

¹The words of Amos which came to him in Accarim out of Thecue, which he saw concerning Jerusalem, in the days of Ozias king of Juda, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joas king of Israel, two years before the earthquake. ²And he said, The Lord has spoken out of Sion, and has uttered his voice out of Jerusalem; and the pastures of the shepherds have mourned, and the top of Carmel is dried up. ³And the Lord said, For three sins of Damascus, and for four, I will not turn away from it; because they sawed with iron saws the women with child of the Galaadites. ⁴And I will send a fire on the house of Azael, and it shall devour the foundations of the son of Ader. ⁵And I will break to pieces the bars of Damascus, and will destroy the inhabitants out of the plain of On, and will cut in pieces a tribe out of the men of Charrhan: and the famous people of Syria shall be led captive, says the Lord. ⁶Thus says the Lord; For three sins of Gaza, and for four, I will not turn away from them; because they took prisoners the captivity of Solomon, to shut them up into Idumea. ⁷And I will send forth a fire on the walls of Gaza, and it shall devour its foundations. ⁸And I will destroy the inhabitants out of Azotus, and a tribe shall be cut off from Ascalon, and I will stretch out my hand upon Accaron: and the remnant of the Philistines shall perish, says the Lord. ⁹Thus says the Lord; For three transgressions of Tyre, and for four, I will not turn away from it; because they shut up the prisoners of Solomon into Idumea, and remembered not the covenant of brethren. ¹⁰And I will send forth a fire on the walls of Tyre, and it shall devour the foundations of it. ¹¹Thus says the Lord; For three sins of Idumea, and for four, I will not turn away from them; because they pursued their brother with the sword, and destroyed the mother upon the earth, and summoned up his anger for a testimony, and kept up his fury to the end. ¹²And I will send forth a fire upon Thaman, and it shall devour the foundations of her walls. ¹³Thus says the Lord; For three sins of the children of Ammon, and for four, I will not turn away from him; because they ripped up the women with child of the Galaadites, that they might widen their coasts. ¹⁴And I will kindle a fire on the walls of Rabbath, and it shall devour her foundations with shouting in the day of war, and she shall be shaken in the days of her destruction: ¹⁵and her kings shall go into captivity, their priests and their rulers together, says the Lord.

¹Thus says the Lord; For three sins of Moab, and for four, I will not turn away from it; because they burnt the bones of the king of Idumea to lime.

Amos

²But I will send forth a fire on Moab, and it shall devour the foundations of its cities: and Moab shall perish in weakness, with a shout, and with the sound of a trumpet. ³And I will destroy the judge out of her, and slay all her princes with him, says the Lord. ⁴Thus says the Lord; For three sins of the children of Judah, and for four, I will not turn away from him; because they have rejected the law of the Lord, and have not kept his ordinances, and their vain idols which they made, which their fathers followed, caused them to err. ⁵And I will send a fire on Juda, and it shall devour the foundations of Jerusalem. ⁶Thus says the Lord; for three sins of Israel, and for four, I will not turn away from him; because they sold the righteous for silver, and the poor for sandals, ⁷wherewith to tread on the dust of the earth, and they have smitten upon the heads of the poor, and have perverted the way of the lowly: and a son and his father have gone into the same maid, that they might profane the name of their God. ⁸And binding their clothes with cords they have made them curtains near the altar, and they have drunk wine gained by extortion in the house of their God.

⁹Nevertheless I cut off the Amorite from before them, whose height was as the height of a cedar, and he was strong as an oak; and I dried up his fruit from above, and his roots from beneath. ¹⁰And I brought you up out of the land of Egypt, and led you about in the desert forty years, that ye should inherit the land of the Amorites. ¹¹And I took of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for consecration. Are not these things so, ye sons of Israel? says the Lord. ¹²But ye gave the consecrated ones wine to drink; and ye commanded the prophets, saying, Prophecy not. ¹³Therefore, behold, I roll under you, as a waggon full of straw is rolled. ¹⁴And flight shall perish from the runner, and the strong shall not hold fast his strength, and the warrior shall not save his life: ¹⁵and the archer shall not withstand, and he that is swift of foot shall in no wise escape; and the horseman shall not save his life. ¹⁶And the strong shall find no confidence in power: the naked shall flee away in that day, says the Lord.

Chapter 3

¹Hear ye this word, O house of Israel, which the Lord has spoken concerning you, and against the whole family whom I brought up out of the land of Egypt, saying, ²You especially have I known out of all the families of the earth: therefore will I take vengeance upon you for all your sins. ³Shall two walk together at all, if they do not know one another? ⁴Will a lion roar out of his thicket if he has no prey? will a lion's whelp utter his voice at all out of his lair, if he have taken nothing? ⁵Will a bird fall on the earth without a fowler? will a snare be taken up from the earth without having taken anything? ⁶Shall the trumpet sound in the city, and the people not be alarmed? shall there be evil in a city which the Lord has not wrought? ⁷For the Lord God will do nothing, without revealing instruction to his servants the prophets. ⁸A lion shall roar, and who will not be alarmed? the Lord God has spoken, and who will not prophesy?

Amos

⁹Proclaim it to the regions among the Assyrians, and to the regions of Egypt, and say, Gather yourselves to the mountain of Samaria, and behold many wonderful things in the midst of it, and the oppression that is in it.

¹⁰And she knew not what things would come against her, says the Lord, even those that store up wrong and misery in their countries. ¹¹Therefore thus says the Lord God; O Tyre, thy land shall be made desolate round about thee; and he shall bring down thy strength out of thee, and thy countries shall be spoiled. ¹²Thus says the Lord; As when a shepherd rescues from the mouth of a lion two legs or a piece of an ear, so shall be drawn forth the children of Israel who dwell in Samaria in the presence of a foreign tribe, and in Damascus. ¹³Hear, O ye priests, and testify to the house of Jacob, says the Lord God Almighty. ¹⁴For in the day wherein I shall take vengeance of the sins of Israel upon him, I will also take vengeance on the altars of Bethel: and the horns of the altar shall be broken down, and they shall fall upon the ground. ¹⁵I will crush and smite the turreted-house upon the summer-house; and the ivory-houses shall be destroyed, and many other houses also, says the Lord.

¹Hear ye this word, ye heifers of the land of Basan that are in the mountain of Samaria, that oppress the poor, and trample on the needy, which say to their masters, Give us that we may drink. ²The Lord swears by his holiness, that, behold, the days come upon you, when they shall take you with weapons, and fiery destroyers shall cast those with you into boiling caldrons. ³And ye shall be brought forth naked in the presence of each other; and ye shall be cast forth on the mountain Romman, says the Lord. ⁴Ye went into Bethel, and sinned, and ye multiplied sin at Galgala; and ye brought your meat-offerings in the morning, and your tithes every third day. ⁵And they read the law without, and called for public professions: proclaim aloud that the children of Israel have loved these things, says the Lord. ⁶And I will give you dulness of teeth in all your cities, and want of bread in all your places: yet ye returned not to me, says the Lord. ⁷Also I withheld from you the rain three months before the harvest: and I will rain upon one city, and on another city I will not rain: one part shall be rained upon, and the part on which I shall not rain shall be dried up. ⁸And the inhabitants of two or three cities shall be gathered to one city to drink water, and they shall not be satisfied: yet ye have not returned to me, says the Lord. ⁹I smote you with parching, and with blight: ye multiplied your gardens, your vineyards, and your fig-grounds, and the cankerworm devoured your olive-yards: yet not even thus did ye return to me, says the Lord. ¹⁰I sent pestilence among you by the way of Egypt, and slew your young men with the sword, together with thy horses that were taken captive; and in my wrath against you I set fire to your camps: yet not even thus did ye return to me, says the Lord.

¹¹I overthrew you, as God overthrew Sodoma and Gomorrha, and ye became as a brand plucked out of the fire: yet not even thus did ye return to me, says the Lord. ¹²Therefore thus will I do to thee, O Israel: nay because I will do thus to thee, prepare to call on thy God, O Israel. ¹³For, behold, I am he that strengthens the thunder, and creates the wind, and proclaims to men his Christ, forming the morning and the darkness, and mounting on the high places of the earth, The Lord God Almighty is his name.

Chapter 5

¹Hear ye this word of the Lord, even a lamentation, which I take up against you. The house of Israel is fallen; it shall no more rise. ²The virgin of Israel has fallen upon his land; there is none that shall raise her up. ³Therefore thus says the Lord God; The city out of which there went forth a thousand, in it there shall be left a hundred, and in that out of which there went forth a hundred, there shall be left ten to the house of Israel.

⁴Wherefore thus says the Lord to the house of Israel, Seek ye me, and ye shall live. ⁵But seek not Bethel, and go not into Galgala, and cross not over to the Well of the Oath: for Galgala shall surely go into captivity, and Bethel shall be as that which is not. ⁶Seek ye the Lord, and ye shall live; lest the house of Joseph blaze as fire, and it devour him, and there shall be none to quench it for the house of Israel. ⁷*It is he* that executes judgment in the height above, and he has established justice on the earth: ⁸who makes all things, and changes them, and turns darkness into the morning, and darkens the day into night: who calls for the water of the sea, and pours it out on the face of the earth: the Lord is his name: ⁹who dispenses ruin to strength, and brings distress upon the fortress. ¹⁰They hated him that reprov'd in the gates, and abhorred holy speech. ¹¹Therefore because they have smitten the poor with their fists, and ye have received of them choice gifts; ye have built polished houses, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted desirable vineyards, but ye shall not drink the wine of them. ¹²For I know your many transgressions, and your sins are great, trampling on the just, taking bribes, and turning aside the judgment of the poor in the gates. ¹³Therefore the prudent shall be silent at that time; for it is a time of evils. ¹⁴Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live: and so the Lord God Almighty shall be with you, as ye have said, ¹⁵We have hated evil, and loved good: and restore ye judgment in the gates; that the Lord God Almighty may have mercy on the remnant of Joseph. ¹⁶Therefore thus says the Lord God Almighty; In all the streets shall be lamentations; and in all the ways shall it be said, Woe, woe! the husbandman shall be called to mourning and lamentation, and to them that are skilled in complaining. ¹⁷And there shall be lamentation in all the ways; because I will pass through the midst of thee, says the Lord. ¹⁸Woe to you that desire the day of the Lord! what is this day of the Lord to you? whereas it is darkness, and not light. ¹⁹As if a man should flee from the face of a lion, and a bear should meet him; and he should spring into his house, and lean his hands upon the wall, and a serpent should bite him. ²⁰Is not the day of the Lord darkness, and not light? and is not this day gloom without brightness? ²¹I hate, I reject your feasts, and I will not smell your meat-offerings in your general assemblies. ²²Wherefore if ye should bring me your whole-burnt-sacrifices and meat-offerings, I will not accept them: neither will I have respect to your grand peace-offerings. ²³Remove from me the sound of thy songs, and I will not hear the music of thine instruments. ²⁴But let judgment roll down as water, and righteousness as an impassable torrent. ²⁵Have ye offered to me victims and sacrifices, O house of Israel, forty years in the wilderness? ²⁶Yea, ye took up the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of your god

Amos

Ræphan, the images of them which ye made for yourselves. ²⁷And I will carry you away beyond Damascus, says the Lord, the Almighty God is his name.

Chapter 6

¹Woe to them that set at nought Sion, and that trust in the mountain of Samaria: they have gathered the harvest of the heads of the nations, and they have gone in themselves. ²O house of Israel, pass by all of you, and see; and pass by thence to Ematrabba; and thence descend to Geth of the Philistines, the chief of all these kingdoms, see if their coasts are greater than your coasts. ³Ye who are approaching the evil day, who are drawing near and adopting false sabbaths; ⁴who sleep upon beds of ivory, and live delicately on their couches, and eat kids out of the flocks, and sucking calves out of the midst of the stalls; ⁵who excel in the sound of musical instruments; they have regarded them as abiding, not as fleeting pleasures; ⁶who drink strained wine, and anoint themselves with the best ointment; and have suffered nothing on occasion of the calamity of Joseph. ⁷Therefore now shall they depart into captivity from the dominion of princes, and the neighing of horses shall be cut off from Ephraim. ⁸For the Lord has sworn by himself, saying, Because I abhor all the pride of Jacob, I do also hate his countries, and I will cut off his city with all who inhabit it. ⁹And it shall come to pass, if there be ten men left in one house, that they shall die. ¹⁰But a remnant shall be left behind, and their relations shall take them, and shall strenuously endeavor to carry forth their bones from the house: and one shall say to the heads of the house, Is there yet any one else with thee? ¹¹And he shall say, No one else. And the other shall say, Be silent, that thou name not the name of the Lord. ¹²For, behold, the Lord commands, and he will smite the great house with breaches, and the little house with rents. ¹³Will horses run upon rocks? will they refrain from neighing at mares? for ye have turned judgment into poison, and the fruit of righteousness into bitterness: ¹⁴ye who rejoice at vanity, who say, Have we not possessed horns by our own strength? ¹⁵For behold, O house of Israel, I will raise up against you a nation, says the Lord of hosts; and they shall afflict you so that ye shall not enter into Æmath, and as it were from the river of the wilderness.

¹Thus has the Lord God showed me; and, behold, a swarm of locusts coming from the east; and, behold, one caterpillar, king Gog. ²And it came to pass when he had finished devouring the grass of the land, that I said, Lord God, be merciful; who shall raise up Jacob? for he is small in number. ³Repent, O Lord, for this. And this shall not be, says the Lord. ⁴Thus has the Lord showed me; and, behold, the Lord called for judgment by fire, and it devoured the great deep, and devoured the Lord's portion. ⁵Then I said, O Lord, cease, I pray thee: who shall raise up Jacob? for he is small in number. Repent, O Lord, for this. ⁶This also shall not be, says the Lord. ⁷Thus the Lord showed me; and behold, he stood upon a wall of adamant, and in his hand was an adamant. ⁸And the Lord said to me, What seest thou, Amos? And I said, An adamant. And the Lord said to me, Behold, I appoint an adamant in the midst of my people Israel: I will not pass by them any more. ⁹And the joyful altars shall be abolished, and the sacrifices of Israel shall be set aside; and I will rise up against the house of Jeroboam with the sword.

¹⁰Then Amasias the priest of Bethel sent to Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, Amos is forming conspiracies against thee in the midst of the house of Israel: the land will be utterly unable to bear all his words. ¹¹For thus says Amos, Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall be led away captive from his land. ¹²And Amasias said to Amos, Go, seer, remove thou into the land of Juda, and live there, and thou shalt prophesy there: ¹³but thou shalt no longer prophesy at Bethel: for it is the king's sanctuary, and it is the royal house. ¹⁴And Amos answered, and said to Amasias, I was not a prophet, nor the son of a prophet; but I was a herdsman, and a gatherer of sycamore fruits. ¹⁵And the Lord took me from the sheep, and the Lord said to me, Go, and prophesy to my people Israel. ¹⁶And now hear the word of the Lord: Thou sayest, Prophesy not to Israel, and raise not a tumult against the house of Jacob. ¹⁷Therefore thus says the Lord; Thy wife shall be a harlot in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be measured with the line; and thou shalt die in an unclean land; and Israel shall be led captive out of his land. Thus has the Lord God showed me.

Chapter 8

¹And behold a fowler's basket. ²And he said, What seest thou, Amos? And I said, A fowler's basket. And the Lord said to me, The end is come upon my people Israel; I will not pass by them any more. ³And the ceilings of the temple shall howl in that day, says the Lord God: there shall be many a fallen one in every place; I will bring silence upon them. ⁴Hear now this, ye that oppress the poor in the morning, and drive the needy ones by tyranny from the earth, ⁵saying, When will the month pass away, and we shall sell, and the sabbath, and we shall open the treasure, to make the measure small, and to enlarge the weight, and make the balance unfair? ⁶That we may buy the poor for silver, and the needy for shoes; and we will trade in every kind of fruit. ⁷The Lord swears against the pride of Jacob, None of your works shall ever be forgotten. ⁸And shall not the land be troubled for these things, and shall not every one who dwells in it mourn? whereas destruction shall come up as a river, and shall descend as the river of Egypt. ⁹And it shall come to pass in that day, says the Lord God, that the sun shall go down at noon, and the light shall be darkened on the earth by day: ¹⁰and I will turn your feasts into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation; and I will bring up sackcloth on all loins, and baldness on every head; and I will make them as the mourning of a beloved friend, and those with them as a day of grief. ¹¹Behold, the days come, says the Lord, that I will send forth a famine on the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but a famine of hearing the word of the Lord. ¹²And the waters shall be troubled from sea to sea, and from the north to the east shall men run hither and thither, seeking the word of the Lord, and they shall not find it. ¹³In that day shall the fair virgins and the young men faint for thirst; ¹⁴they who swear by the propitiation of Samaria, and who say, Thy god, O Dan, lives; and, Thy god, O Bersabee, lives; and they shall fall, and shall no more rise again.

¹I saw the Lord standing on the altar: and he said, Smite the mercy-seat, and the porch shall be shaken: and cut through into the heads of all; and I will slay the remnant of them with the sword: no one of them fleeing shall escape, and no one of them, striving to save himself shall be delivered. ²Though they hid themselves in hell, thence shall my hand drag them forth; and though they go up to heaven, thence will I bring them down. ³If they hide themselves in the top of Carmel, thence will I search them out and take them; and if they should go down from my presence into the depths of the sea, there will I command the serpent, and he shall bite them. ⁴And if they should go into captivity before the face of their enemies, there will I command the sword, and it shall slay them: and I will set mine eyes against them for evil, and not for good. ⁵And the Lord, the Lord God Almighty, is he that takes hold of the land, and causes it to shake, and all that inhabit it shall mourn; and its destruction shall go up as a river, and shall descend as the river of Egypt. ⁶*It is he* that builds his ascent up to the sky, and establishes his promise on the earth; who calls the water of the sea, and pours it out on the face of the earth; the Lord Almighty is his name. ⁷Are not ye to me as the sons of the Ethiopians, O children of Israel? says the Lord. Did I not bring Israel up out of the land of Egypt, and the Philistines from Cappadocia, and the Syrians out of the deep? ⁸Behold, the eyes of the Lord God are upon the kingdom of sinners, and I will cut it off from the face of the earth; only I will not utterly cut off the house of Jacob, says the Lord. ⁹For I will give commandment, and sift the house of Israel among all the Gentiles, as corn is sifted in a sieve, and yet a fragment shall not in any wise fall upon the earth. ¹⁰All the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, who say, Calamities shall certainly not draw near, nor come upon us. ¹¹In that day I will raise up the tabernacle of David that is fallen, and will rebuild the ruins of it, and will set up the parts thereof that have been broken down, and will build it up as in the ancient days: ¹²that the remnant of men, and all the Gentiles upon whom my name is called, may earnestly seek me, says the Lord who does all these things. ¹³Behold, the days come, says the Lord, when the harvest shall overtake the vintage, and the grapes shall ripen at seedtime; and the mountains shall drop sweet wine, and all the hills shall be planted. ¹⁴And I will turn the captivity of my people Israel, and they shall rebuild the ruined cities, and shall inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and shall drink the wine from them; and they shall form gardens, and eat the fruit of them. ¹⁵And I will plant them on their land, and they shall no more be plucked up from the land which I have given them, says the Lord God Almighty.

Obdias

(Obadiah)

Chapter 1

¹The vision of Obadiah. Thus says the Lord God to Idumea; I have heard a report from the Lord, and he has sent forth a message to the nations. ²Arise ye, and let us rise up against her to war. ³Behold, I have made thee small among the Gentiles: thou art greatly dishonoured. The pride of thine heart has elated thee, dwelling as thou dost in the holes of the rocks, as one that exalts his habitation, saying in his heart, Who will bring me down to the ground? ⁴If thou shouldst mount up as the eagle, and if thou shouldst make thy nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee down, says the Lord. ⁵If thieves came in to thee, or robbers by night, where wouldest thou have been cast away? would they not have stolen just enough for themselves? and if grape-gatherers went in to thee, would they not leave a gleanings? ⁶How has Esau been searched out, and how have his hidden things been detected? ⁷They sent thee to thy coasts: all the men of thy covenant have withstood thee; thine allies have prevailed against thee, they have set snares under thee: they have no understanding. ⁸In that day, says the Lord, I will destroy the wise men out of Idumea, and understanding out of the mount of Esau. ⁹And thy warriors from Thaeman shall be dismayed, to the end that man may be cut off from the mount of Esau. ¹⁰Because of the slaughter and the sin committed against thy brother Jacob, shame shall cover thee, and thou shalt be cut off for ever. ¹¹From the day that thou stoodest in opposition to him, in the days when foreigners were taking captive his forces, and strangers entered into his gates, and cast lots on Jerusalem, thou also wast as one of them. ¹²And thou shouldst not have looked on the day of thy brother in the day of strangers; nor shouldst thou have rejoiced against the children of Juda in the day of their destruction; neither shouldst thou have boasted in the day of their affliction. ¹³Neither shouldst thou have gone into the gates of the people in the day of their troubles; nor yet shouldst thou have looked upon their gathering in the day of their destruction, nor shouldst thou have attacked their host in the day of their perishing. ¹⁴Neither shouldst thou have stood at the opening of their passages, to destroy utterly those of them that were escaping; neither shouldst thou have shut up his fugitives in the day of affliction. ¹⁵For the day of the Lord is near upon all the Gentiles: as thou have done, so shall it be done to thee: thy recompense shall be returned on thine own head. ¹⁶For as thou hast drunk upon my holy mountain, so shall all the nations drink wine; they shall drink, and go down, and be as if they were not. ¹⁷But on mount Sion there shall be deliverance, and there shall be a sanctuary; and the house of Jacob shall take for an inheritance those that took them for an inheritance. ¹⁸And the house of Jacob shall be fire, and the house of Joseph a flame, and the house of Esau shall be for stubble; and Israel shall flame forth against them, and shall devour them, and there shall not be a corn-field left to the house of Esau; because the Lord has spoken. ¹⁹And they that dwell in the south shall inherit the mount of Esau, and they in the plain the Philistines: and they shall inherit the mount of Ephraim, and the plain of Samaria, and Benjamin, and the land of Galaad. ²⁰And this shall be the domain of the captivity of the children of Israel, the land of the Chananites as far as Sarepta; and the captives of Jerusalem shall inherit as far as Ephratha; they shall inherit the cities of the south. ²¹And they that escape shall come up from mount Sion, to take vengeance on the mount of Esau; and the kingdom shall be the Lord's.

Jonas

(Jonah)

¹Now the word of the Lord came to Jonah the son of Amathi, saying, ²Rise, and go to Nineve, the great city, and preach in it; for the cry of its wickedness is come up to me. ³But Jonah rose up to flee to Tharsis from the presence of the Lord. And he went down to Joppa, and found a ship going to Tharsis: and he paid his fare, and went up into it, to sail with them to Tharsis from the presence of the Lord. ⁴And the Lord raised up a wind on the sea; and there was a great storm on the sea, and the ship was in danger of being broken. ⁵And the sailors were alarmed, and cried every one to his god, and cast out the wares that were in the ship into the sea, that it might be lightened of them. But Jonah was gone down into the hold of the ship, and was asleep, and snored. ⁶And the shipmaster came to him, and said to him, Why snoorest thou? arise, and call upon thy God, that God may save us, and we perish not. ⁷And each man said to his neighbour, Come, let us cast lots, and find out for whose sake this mischief is upon us. So they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah. ⁸And they said to him, Tell us what is thine occupation, and whence comest thou, and of what country and what people art thou? ⁹And he said to them, I am a servant of the Lord; and I worship the Lord God of heaven, who made the sea, and the dry land. ¹⁰Then the men feared exceedingly, and said to him, What is this that thou hast done? for the men knew that he was fleeing from the face of the Lord, because he had told them. ¹¹And they said to him, What shall we do to thee, that the sea may be calm to us? for the sea rose, and lifted its wave exceedingly. ¹²And Jonah said to them, Take me up, and cast me into the sea, and the sea shall be calm to you: for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you. ¹³And the men tried hard to return to the land, and were not able: for the sea rose and grew more and more tempestuous against them. ¹⁴And they cried to the Lord, and said, Forbid it, Lord: let us not perish for the sake of this man's life, and bring not righteous blood upon us: for thou, Lord, hast done as thou wouldest. ¹⁵So they took Jonah, and cast him out into the sea: and the sea ceased from its raging. ¹⁶And the men feared the Lord very greatly, and offered a sacrifice to the Lord, and vowed vows.

Chapter 2

¹Now the Lord had commanded a great whale to swallow up Jonah: and Jonah was in the belly of the whale three days and three nights. ²And Jonah prayed to the Lord his God out of the belly of the whale, ³and said, I cried in my affliction to the Lord my God, and he hearkened to me, even to my cry out of the belly of hell: thou heardest my voice. ⁴Thou didst cast me into the depths of the heart of the sea, and the floods compassed me: all thy billows and thy waves have passed upon me. ⁵And I said, I am cast out of thy presence: shall I indeed look again toward thy holy temple? ⁶Water was poured around me to the soul: the lowest deep compassed me, my head went down ⁷to the clefts of the mountains; I went down into the earth, whose bars are the everlasting barriers: yet, O Lord my God, let my ruined life be restored. ⁸When my soul was failing me, I remembered the Lord; and may my prayer come to thee into thy holy temple. ⁹They that observe vanities and lies have forsaken their own mercy. ¹⁰But I will sacrifice to thee with the voice of praise and thanksgiving: all that I have vowed I will pay to thee, the Lord of my salvation. ¹¹And the whale was commanded by the Lord, and it cast up Jonah on the dry land.

Chapter 3

¹And the word of the Lord came to Jonah the second time, saying, ²Rise, go to Nineve, the great city, and preach in it according to the former preaching which I spoke to thee of. ³And Jonah arose, and went to Nineve, as the Lord had spoken. Now Nineve was an exceeding great city, of about three days' journey. ⁴And Jonah began to enter into the city about a day's journey, and he proclaimed, and said, Yet three days, and Nineve shall be overthrown. ⁵And the men of Nineve believed God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloths, from the greatest of them to the least of them. ⁶And the word reached the king of Nineve, and he arose from off his throne, and took off his raiment from him, and put on sackcloth, and sat on ashes. ⁷And proclamation was made, and it was commanded in Nineve by the king and by his great men, saying, Let not men, or cattle, or oxen, or sheep, taste any thing, nor feed, nor drink water. ⁸So men and cattle were clothed with sackcloths, and cried earnestly to God; and they turned every one from their evil way, and from the iniquity that was in their hands, saying, ⁹Who knows if God will repent, and turn from his fierce anger, and so we shall not perish? ¹⁰And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil ways; and God repented of the evil which he had said he would do to them; and he did it not.

Chapter 4

¹But Jonah was very deeply grieved, and he was confounded. ²And he prayed to the Lord, and said, O Lord, were not these my words when I was yet in my land? therefore I made haste to flee to Tharsis; because I knew that thou art merciful and compassionate, long-suffering, and abundant in kindness, and repentest of evil. ³And now, Lord God, take my life from me; for it is better for me to die than to live. ⁴And the Lord said to Jonah, Art thou very much grieved? ⁵And Jonah went out from the city, and sat over against the city; and he made for himself there a booth, and he sat under it, until he should perceive what would become of the city. ⁶And the Lord God commanded a gourd, and it came up over the head of Jonah, to be a shadow over his head, to shade him from his calamities: and Jonah rejoiced with great joy for the gourd. ⁷And God commanded a worm the next morning, and it smote the gourd, and it withered away. ⁸And it came to pass at the rising of the sun, that God commanded a burning east wind; and the sun smote on the head of Jonah, and he fainted, and despaired of his life, and said, It is better for me to die than to live. ⁹And God said to Jonah, Art thou very much grieved for the gourd? And he said, I am very much grieved, even to death. ¹⁰And the Lord said, Thou hadst pity on the gourd, for which thou has not suffered, neither didst thou rear it; which came up before night, and perished before another night: ¹¹and shall not I spare Nineve, the great city, in which dwell more than twelve myriads of human beings, who do not know their right hand or their left hand; and also much cattle?

Michæas

(Micah)

Chapter 1

¹And the word of the Lord came to Michæas the son of Morasthi, in the days of Joatham, and Achaz, and Ezekias, kings of Juda, concerning what he saw regarding Samaria and Jerusalem. ²Hear these words, ye people; and let the earth give heed, and all that are in it: and the Lord God shall be among you for a testimony, the Lord out of his holy habitation. ³For, behold, the Lord comes forth out of his place, and will come down, and will go upon the high places of the earth. ⁴And the mountains shall be shaken under him, and the valleys shall melt like wax before the fire, and as water rushing down a declivity. ⁵All these calamities are for the transgression of Jacob, and for the sin of the house of Israel. What is the transgression of Jacob? is it not Samaria? and what is the sin of the house of Juda? is it not Jerusalem? ⁶Therefore I will make Samaria as a store-house of the fruits of the field, and as a planting of a vineyard: and I will utterly demolish her stones, and I will expose her foundations. ⁷And they shall cut in pieces all the graven images, and all that she has hired they shall burn with fire, and I will utterly destroy all her idols: because she has gathered of the hires of fornication, and of the hires of fornication has she amassed wealth. ⁸Therefore shall she lament and wail, she shall go barefooted, and being naked she shall make lamentation as that of serpents, and mourning as of the daughters of sirens. ⁹For her plague has become grievous; for it has come even to Juda; and has reached to the gate of my people, even to Jerusalem. ¹⁰Ye that are in Geth, exalt not yourselves, and ye Enakim, do not rebuild from the ruins of the house in derision: sprinkle dust in the place of your laughter. ¹¹The inhabitant of Sennaar, fairly inhabiting her cities, came not forth to mourn for the house next to her: she shall receive of you the stroke of grief. ¹²Who has begun to act for good to her that dwells in sorrow? for calamities have come down from the Lord upon the gates of Jerusalem, ¹³*even* a sound of chariots and horsemen: the inhabitants of Lachis, she is the leader of sin to the daughter of Sion: for in thee were found the transgressions of Israel. ¹⁴Therefore shall he cause men to be sent forth as far as the inheritance of Geth, even vain houses; they are become vanity to the kings of Israel; ¹⁵until they bring the heirs, O inhabitant of Lachis: the inheritance shall reach to Odollam, even the glory of the daughter of Israel. ¹⁶Shave thine hair, and make thyself bald for thy delicate children; increase thy widowhood as an eagle; for thy people are gone into captivity from thee.

Chapter 2

¹They meditated troubles, and wrought wickedness on their beds, and they put it in execution with the daylight; for they have not lifted up their hands to God. ²And they desired fields, and plundered orphans, and oppressed families, and spoiled a man and his house, even a man and his inheritance. ³Therefore thus says the Lord; Behold, I devise evils against this family, out of which ye shall not lift up your necks, neither shall ye walk upright speedily: for the time is evil.

⁴In that day shall a parable be taken up against you, and a plaintive lamentation shall be uttered, saying, We are thoroughly miserable: the portion of my people has been measured out with a line, and there was none to hinder him so as to turn him back; your fields have been divided. ⁵Therefore thou shalt have no one to cast a line for the lot. ⁶Weep not with tears in the assembly of the Lord, neither let any weep for these things; for he shall not remove the reproaches, ⁷who says, The house of Jacob has provoked the Spirit of the Lord; are not these his practices? Are not the Lord's words right with him? and have they not proceeded correctly? ⁸Even beforetime my people withstood him as an enemy against his peace; they have stripped off his skin to remove hope in the conflict of war. ⁹The leaders of my people shall be cast forth from their luxurious houses; they are rejected because of their evil practices; draw ye near to the everlasting mountains.

¹⁰Arise thou, and depart; for this is not thy rest because of uncleanness: ye have been utterly destroyed; ¹¹ye have fled, no one pursuing you: thy spirit has framed falsehood, it has dropped on thee for wine and strong drink. But it shall come to pass, that out of the dropping of this people, ¹²Jacob shall be completely gathered with all his people: I will surely receive the remnant of Israel; I will cause them to return together, as sheep in trouble, as a flock in the midst of their fold: they shall rush forth from among men through the breach made before them: ¹³they have broken through, and passed the gate, and gone out by it: and their king has gone out before them, and the Lord shall lead them.

Chapter 3

¹And he shall say, Hear now these words, ye heads of the house of Jacob, and ye remnant of the house of Israel; is it not for you to know judgment? ²*who* hate good, and seek evil; who tear their skins off them, and their flesh off their bones: ³even as they devoured the flesh of my people, and stripped their skins off them, and broke their bones, and divided them as flesh for the caldron, and as meat for the pot, ⁴thus they shall cry to the Lord, but he shall not hearken to them; and he shall turn away his face from them at that time, because they have done wickedly in their practices against themselves. ⁵Thus says the Lord concerning the prophets that lead my people astray, that bit with their teeth, and proclaim peace to them; and when nothing was put into their mouth, they raised up war against them: ⁶therefore there shall be night to you instead of a vision, and there shall be to you darkness instead of prophecy; and the sun shall go down upon the prophets, and the day shall be dark upon them. ⁷And the seers of night-visions shall be ashamed, and the prophets shall be laughed to scorn: and all the people shall speak against them, because there shall be none to hearken to them. ⁸Surely I will strengthen myself with the Spirit of the Lord, and of judgment, and of power, to declare to Jacob his transgressions, and to Israel his sins. ⁹Hear now these words, ye chiefs of the house of Jacob, and the remnant of the house of Israel, who hate judgment, and pervert all righteousness; ¹⁰who build up Sion with blood, and Jerusalem with iniquity. ¹¹The heads thereof have judged for gifts, and the priests thereof have answered for hire, and her prophets have divined for silver: and yet they have rested on the Lord, saying, Is not the Lord among us? no evil shall come upon us. ¹²Therefore on your account Sion shall be ploughed as a field, and Jerusalem shall be as a storehouse of fruits, and the mountain of the house as a grove of the forest.

¹And at the last days the mountain of the Lord shall be manifest, established on the tops of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and the peoples shall hasten to it. ²And many nations shall go, and say, Come, let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and they shall shew us his way, and we will walk in his paths: for out of Sion shall go forth a law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem. ³And he shall judge among many peoples, and shall rebuke strong nations afar off; and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into sickles; and nation shall no more lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn to war any more. ⁴And every one shall rest under his vine, and every one under his fig-tree; and there shall be none to alarm them: for the mouth of the Lord Almighty has spoken these words. ⁵For all other nations shall walk everyone in his own way, but we will walk in the name of the Lord our God for ever and ever. ⁶In that day, says the Lord, I will gather her that is bruised, and will receive her that is cast out, and those whom I rejected. ⁷And I will make her that was bruised a remnant, and her that was rejected a mighty nation: and the Lord shall reign over them in mount Sion from henceforth, even for ever. ⁸And thou, dark tower of the flock, daughter of Sion, on thee the dominion shall come and enter in, even the first kingdom from Babylon to the daughter of Jerusalem. ⁹And now, why hast thou known calamities? was there not a king to thee? or has thy counsel perished that pangs as of a woman in travail have seized upon thee? ¹⁰Be in pain, and strengthen thyself, and draw near, O daughter of Sion, as a woman in travail: for now thou shalt go forth out of the city, and shalt lodge in the plain, and shalt reach even to Babylon: thence shall the Lord thy God deliver thee, and thence shall he redeem thee out of the hand of thine enemies.

¹¹And now have many nations gathered against thee, saying, We will rejoice, and our eyes shall look upon Sion. ¹²But they know not the thought of the Lord, and have not understood his counsel: for he has gathered them as sheaves of the floor. ¹³Arise, and thresh them, O daughter of Sion: for I will make thine horns iron, and I will make thine hoofs brass: and thou shalt utterly destroy many nations, and shalt consecrate their abundance to the Lord, and their strength to the Lord of all the earth.

Chapter 5

¹Now shall the daughter of Sion be completely hedged in: he has laid siege against us: they shall smite the tribes of Israel with a rod upon the cheek.

²And thou, Bethlehem, house of Ephratha, art few in number to be reckoned among the thousands of Juda; yet out of thee shall one come forth to me, to be a ruler of Israel; and his goings forth were from the beginning, even from eternity.

³Therefore shall he appoint them to wait till the time of her that travails: she shall bring forth, and then the remnant of their brethren shall return to the children of Israel. ⁴And the Lord shall stand, and see, and feed his flock with power, and they shall dwell in the glory of the name of the Lord their God: for now shall they be magnified to the ends of the earth. ⁵And she shall have peace when Assur shall come into your land, and when he shall come up upon your country; and there shall be raised up against him seven shepherds, and eight attacks of men.

⁶And they shall tend the Assyrian with a sword, and the land of Nebrod with her trench: and he shall deliver you from the Assyrian, when he shall come upon your land, and when he shall invade your coasts. ⁷And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the Gentiles in the midst of many peoples, as dew falling from the Lord, and as lambs on the grass; that none may assemble nor resist among the sons of men. ⁸And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the Gentiles in the midst of many nations, as a lion in the forest among cattle, and as a lion's whelp among the flocks of sheep, even as when he goes through, and selects, and carries off his prey, and there is none to deliver. ⁹Thine hand shall be lifted up against them that afflict thee, and all thine enemies shall be utterly destroyed. ¹⁰And it shall come to pass in that day, says the Lord, that I will utterly destroy the horses out of the midst of thee, and destroy thy chariots; ¹¹and I will utterly destroy the cities of thy land, and demolish all thy strong-holds: ¹²and I will utterly destroy thy sorceries out of thine hands; and there shall be no soothsayers in thee. ¹³And I will utterly destroy thy graven images, and thy statues out of the midst of thee; and thou shalt never any more worship the works of thine hands. ¹⁴And I will cut off the groves out of the midst of thee, and I will abolish thy cities. ¹⁵and I will execute vengeance on the heathen in anger and wrath, because they hearkened not.

Chapter 6

¹Hear now a word: the Lord God has said; Arise, plead with the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice. ²Hear ye, O mountains, the controversy of the Lord, and ye valleys even the foundations of the earth: for the Lord has a controversy with his people, and will plead with Israel. ³O my people, what have I done to thee? or wherein have I grieved thee? or wherein have I troubled thee? answer me. ⁴For I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of bondage, and sent before thee Moses, and Aaron, and Mariam. ⁵O my people, remember now, what counsel Balac king of Moab took against thee, and what Balaam the son of Beor answered him, from the reeds to Galgal; that the righteousness of the Lord might be known.

⁶Wherewithal shall I reach the Lord, and lay hold of my God most high? shall I reach him by whole-burnt-offerings, by calves of a year old? ⁷Will the Lord accept thousands of rams, or ten thousands of fat goats? should I give my first-born for ungodliness, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul? ⁸Has it not been told thee, O man, what is good? or what does the Lord require of thee, but to do justice, and love mercy, and be ready to walk with the Lord thy God? ⁹The Lord's voice shall be proclaimed in the city, and he shall save those that fear his name: hear, O tribe; and who shall order the city? ¹⁰*Is there* not fire, and the house of the wicked heaping up wicked treasures, and that with the pride of unrighteousness? ¹¹Shall the wicked be justified by the balanced, or deceitful weights in the bag, ¹²whereby they have accumulated their ungodly wealth, and they that dwell in the city have uttered falsehoods, and their tongue has been exalted in their mouth? ¹³Therefore will I begin to smite thee; I will destroy thee in thy sins. ¹⁴Thou shalt eat, and shalt not be satisfied; and there shall be darkness upon thee; and he shall depart from thee, and thou shalt not escape; and all that shall escape shall be delivered over to the sword. ¹⁵Thou shalt sow, but thou shalt not reap; thou shalt press the olive, but thou shalt not anoint thyself with oil; and shalt make wine, but ye shall drink no wine: and the ordinances of my people shall be utterly abolished. ¹⁶For thou hast kept the statues of Zambri, and done all the works of the house of Achaab; and ye have walked in their ways, that I might deliver thee to utter destruction, and those that inhabit the city to hissing; and ye shall bear the reproach of nations.

Chapter 7

¹Alas for me! for I am become as one gathering straw in harvest, and as one gathering grape-gleanings in the vintage, when there is no cluster for me to eat the first-ripe fruit: alas my soul! ²For the godly is perished from the earth; and there is none among men that orders his way aright: they all quarrel even to blood: they grievously afflict every one his neighbour: ³they prepare their hands for mischief, the prince asks a reward, and the judge speaks flattering words; it is the desire of their soul: ⁴therefore I will take away their goods as a devouring moth, and as one who acts by a rigid rule in a day of visitation. Woe, woe, thy times of vengeance are come; now shall be their lamentations. ⁵Trust not in friends, and confide not in guides: beware of thy wife, so as not to commit anything to her. ⁶For the son dishonours his father, the daughter will rise up against her mother, the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law: those in his house shall be all a man's enemies. ⁷But I will look to the Lord; I will wait upon God my Saviour: my God will hearken to me. ⁸Rejoice not against me, mine enemy;

for I have fallen yet shall arise; for though I should sit in darkness, the Lord shall be a light to me. ⁹I will bear the indignation of the Lord, because I have sinned against him, until he make good my cause: he also shall maintain my right, and shall bring me out to the light, and I shall behold his righteousness. ¹⁰And she that is mine enemy shall see it, and shall clothe herself with shame, who says, Where is the Lord thy God? mine eyes shall look upon her: now shall she be for trampling as mire in the ways. ¹¹*It is the* day of making of brick; that day shall be thine utter destruction, and that day shall utterly abolish thine ordinances. ¹²And thy cities shall be levelled, and parted among the Assyrians; and thy strong cities shall be parted from Tyre to the river, and from sea to sea, and from mountain to mountain. ¹³And the land shall be utterly desolate together with them that inhabit it, because of the fruit of their doings. ¹⁴Tend thy people with thy rod, the sheep of thine inheritance, those that inhabit by themselves the thicket in the midst of Carmel: they shall feed in the land of Basan, and in the land of Galaad, as in the days of old. ¹⁵And according to the days of thy departure out of Egypt shall ye see marvellous things. ¹⁶The nations shall see and be ashamed; and at all their might they shall lay their hands upon their mouth, their ears shall be deafened. ¹⁷They shall lick the dust as serpents crawling on the earth, they shall be confounded in their holes; they shall be amazed at the Lord our God, and will be afraid of thee. ¹⁸Who is a God like thee, cancelling iniquities, and passing over the sins of the remnant of his inheritance? and he has not kept his anger for a testimony, for he delights in mercy. ¹⁹He will return and have mercy upon us; he will sink our iniquities, and they shall be cast into the depth of the sea, even all our sins. ²⁰He shall give blessings truly to Jacob, and mercy to Abraam, as thou swarest to our fathers, according to the former days.

Naum

(Nahum)

Chapter 1

¹THE burden of Nineve: the book of the vision of Naum the Elkesite. ²God is jealous, and the Lord avenges; the Lord avenges with wrath; the Lord takes vengeance on his adversaries, and he cuts off his enemies. ³The Lord is long-suffering, and his power is great, and the Lord will not hold any guiltless: his way is in destruction and in the whirlwind, and the clouds are the dust of his feet. ⁴He threatens the sea, and dries it up, and exhausts all the rivers: the land of Basan, and Carmel are brought low, and the flourishing trees of Libanus have come to nought. ⁵The mountains quake at him, and the hills are shaken, and the earth recoils at his presence, even the world, and all that dwell in it. ⁶Who shall stand before his anger? and who shall withstand in the anger of his wrath? his wrath brings to nought kingdoms, and the rocks are burst asunder by him. ⁷The Lord is good to them that wait on him in the day of affliction; and he knows them that reverence him. ⁸But with an overrunning flood he will make an utter end: darkness shall pursue those that rise up against him and his enemies. ⁹What do ye devise against the Lord? he will make a complete end: he will not take vengeance by affliction twice at the same time. ¹⁰For

the enemy shall be laid bare even to the foundation, and shall be devoured as twisted yew, and as stubble fully dry. ¹¹Out of thee shall proceed a device against the Lord, counselling evil things hostile to him. ¹²Thus says the Lord who rules over many waters, Even thus shall they be sent away, and the report of thee shall not be heard any more. ¹³And now will I break his rod from off thee, and will burst thy bonds. ¹⁴And the Lord shall give a command concerning thee; there shall no more of thy name be scattered: I will utterly destroy the graven images out of the house of thy god, and the molten images: I will make thy grave; for they are swift.

¹⁵Behold upon the mountains the feet of him that brings glad tidings, and publishes peace! O Juda, keep thy feasts, pay thy vows: for they shall no more pass through thee to thy decay.

Chapter 2

¹It is all over with him, he has been removed, one who has been delivered from affliction has come up panting into thy presence, watch the way, strengthen thy loins, be very valiant in thy strength. ²For the Lord has turned aside the pride of Jacob, as the pride of Israel: for they have utterly rejected them, and have destroyed their branches. ³*They have destroyed* the arms of their power from among men, their mighty men sporting with fire: the reins of their chariots shall be destroyed in the day of his preparation, and the horsemen shall be thrown into confusion ⁴in the ways, and the chariots shall clash together, and shall be entangled in each other in the broad ways: their appearance is as lamps of fire, and as gleaming lightnings. ⁵And their mighty men shall bethink themselves and flee by day; and they shall be weak as they go; and they shall hasten to her walls, and shall prepare their defences. ⁶The gates of the cities have been opened, and the palaces have fallen into ruin, ⁷and the foundation has been exposed; and she has gone up, and her maid-servants were led away as doves moaning in their hearts. ⁸And as for Nineve, her waters shall be as a pool of water: and they fled, and staid not, and there was none to look back. ⁹They plundered the silver, they plundered the gold, and there was no end of their adorning; they were loaded with it upon all their pleasant vessels. ¹⁰*There is* thrusting forth, and shaking, and tumult, and heart-breaking, and loosing of knees, and pangs on all loins; and the faces of all are as the blackening of a pot.

¹¹Where is the dwelling-place of the lions, and the pasture that belonged to the whelps? where did the lion go, that the lion's whelp should enter in there, and there was none to scare him away?

¹²The lion seized enough prey for his whelps, and strangled for his young lions, and filled his lair with prey, and his dwelling-place with spoil. ¹³Behold, I am against thee, says the Lord Almighty, and I will burn up thy multitude in the smoke, and the sword shall devour thy lions; and I will utterly destroy thy prey from off the land, and thy deeds shall no more at all be heard of.

Chapter 3

¹O city of blood, wholly false, full of unrighteousness; the prey shall not be handled. ²The noise of whips, and the noise of the rumbling of wheels, and of the pursuing horse, and of the bounding chariot, ³and of the mounting rider, and of the glittering sword, and of the gleaming arms, and of a multitude of slain, and of heavy falling: and there was no end to her nations, but they shall be weak in their bodies ⁴because of the abundance of fornication: she is a fair harlot, and well-favoured, skilled in sorcery, that sells the nations by her fornication, and peoples by her sorceries. ⁵Behold, I am against thee, says the Lord God Almighty, and I will uncover thy skirts in thy presence, and I will shew the nations thy shame, and the kingdoms thy disgrace. ⁶And I will cast abominable filth upon thee according to thine unclean ways, and will make thee a public example. ⁷And it shall be that every one that sees thee shall go down from thee, and shall say, Wretched Nineve! who shall lament for her? whence shall I seek comfort for her? ⁸Prepare thee a portion, tune the chord, prepare a portion for

Ammon: she that dwells among the rivers, water is round about her, whose dominion is the sea, and whose walls are water. ⁹And Ethiopia is her strength, and Egypt; and there was no limit of the flight of her enemies; and the Libyans became her helpers. ¹⁰Yet she shall go as a prisoner into captivity, and they shall dash her infants against the ground at the top of all her ways: and they shall cast lots upon all her glorious possessions, and all her nobles shall be bound in chains. ¹¹And thou shalt be drunken, and shalt be overlooked; and thou shalt seek for thyself strength because of thine enemies. ¹²All thy strong-holds are as fig-trees having watchers: if they be shaken, they shall fall into the mouth of the eater. ¹³Behold, thy people within thee are as women: the gates of thy land shall surely be opened to thine enemies: the fire shall devour thy bars. ¹⁴Draw thee water for a siege, and well secure thy strong-holds: enter into the clay, and be thou trodden in the chaff, make the fortifications stronger than brick. ¹⁵There the fire shall devour thee; the sword shall utterly destroy thee, it shall devour thee as the locust, and thou shalt be pressed down as a palmerworm. ¹⁶Thou hast multiplied thy merchandise beyond the stars of heaven: the palmerworm has attacked it, and has flown away. ¹⁷Thy mixed multitude has suddenly departed as the grasshopper, as the locust perched on a hedge in a frosty day; the sun arises, and it flies off, and knows not its place: woe to them! ¹⁸Thy shepherds have slumbered, the Assyrian king has laid low thy mighty men: thy people departed to the mountains, and there was none to receive them. ¹⁹There is no healing for thy bruise; thy wound has rankled: all that hear the report of thee shall clap their hands against thee; for upon whom has not thy wickedness passed continually?

Ambacum

(Habakkuk)

Chapter 1

¹THE burden which the prophet Ambacum saw. ²How long, O Lord, shall I cry out, and thou wilt not hearken? how long shall I cry out to thee being injured, and thou wilt not save? ³Wherefore hast thou shown me troubles and griefs to look upon, misery and ungodliness? judgment is before me, and the judge receives a reward. ⁴Therefore the law is frustrated, and judgment proceeds not effectually, for the ungodly man prevails over the just; therefore perverse judgment will proceed. ⁵Behold, ye despisers, and look, and wonder marvelously, and vanish: for I work a work in your days, which ye will in no wise believe, though a man declare it to you. ⁶Wherefore, behold, I stir up the Chaldeans, the bitter and hasty nation, that walks upon the breadth of the earth, to inherit tabernacles not his own. ⁷He is terrible and famous; his judgment shall proceed of himself, and his dignity shall come out of himself. ⁸And his horses shall bound more swiftly than leopards, and they are fiercer than the wolves of Arabia: and his horsemen shall ride forth, and shall rush from far; and they shall fly as an eagle hasting to eat. ⁹Destruction shall come upon ungodly men, resisting with their adverse front, and he shall gather the captivity as the sand. ¹⁰And he shall be at his ease with kings, and princes are his toys, and he shall mock at every strong-hold, and shall cast a mound, and take possession of it. ¹¹Then shall he change his spirit, and he shall pass through, and make an atonement, saying, This strength belongs to my god. ¹²*Art* not thou from the beginning, O Lord God, my Holy One? and surely we shall not die. O Lord, thou hast established it for judgment, and he has formed me to chasten with his correction. ¹³*His* eye is too pure to behold evil doings, and to look upon grievous afflictions: wherefore dost thou look upon despisers? wilt thou be silent when the ungodly swallows up the just? ¹⁴And wilt thou make men as the fishes of the sea, and as the reptiles which have no guide? ¹⁵He has brought up destruction with a hook, and drawn one with a casting net, and caught another in his drags: therefore shall his heart rejoice and be glad. ¹⁶Therefore will he sacrifice to his drag, and burn incense to his casting-net, because by them he has made his portion fat, and his meats choice. ¹⁷Therefore will he cast his net, and will not spare to slay the nations continually.

Chapter 2

¹I will stand upon my watch, and mount upon the rock, and watch to see what he will say by me, and what I shall answer when I am reproved.² And the Lord answered me and said, Write the vision, and that plainly on a tablet, that he that reads it may run.³ For the vision is yet for a time, and it shall shoot forth at the end, and not in vain: though he should tarry, wait for him; for he will surely come, and will not tarry.⁴ If he should draw back, my soul has no pleasure in him: but the just shall live by my faith.⁵ But the arrogant man and the scorner, the boastful man, shall not finish anything; who has enlarged his desire as the grave, and like death he is never satisfied, and he will gather to himself all the nations, and will receive to himself all the peoples.⁶ Shall not all these take up a parable against him? and a proverb to tell against him? and they shall say, Woe to him that multiplies to himself the possessions which are not his! how long? and who heavily loads his yoke.⁷ For suddenly there shall arise up those that bite him, and they that plot against thee shall awake, and thou shalt be a plunder to them.⁸ Because thou hast spoiled many nations, all the nations that are left shall spoil thee, because of the blood of men, and the sins of the land and city, and of all that dwell in it.⁹ Woe to him that covets an evil covetousness to his house, that he may set his nest on high, that he may be delivered from the power of evils.¹⁰ Thou hast devised shame to thy house, thou hast utterly destroyed many nations, and thy soul has sinned.¹¹ For the stone shall cry out of the wall, and the beetle out of the timber shall speak.¹² Woe to him that builds a city with blood, and establishes a city by unrighteousness.¹³ Are not these things of the Lord Almighty? surely many people have been exhausted in the fire, and many nations have fainted.¹⁴ For the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord; it shall cover them as water.¹⁵ Woe to him that gives his neighbour to drink the thick lees of wine, and intoxicates him, that he may look upon their secret parts.¹⁶ Drink thou also thy fill of disgrace instead of glory: shake, O heart, and quake, the cup of the right hand of the Lord has come round upon thee, and dishonour has gathered upon thy glory.¹⁷ For the ungodliness of Libanus shall cover thee, and distress because of wild beasts shall dismay thee, because of the blood of men, and the sins of the land and city, and of all that dwell in it.¹⁸ What profit it the graven image, that they have graven it? one has made it a molten work, a false image; for the maker has trusted in his work, to make dumb idols.¹⁹ Woe to him that says to the wood, Awake, arise; and to the stone, Be thou exalted! whereas it is an image, and this is a casting of gold and silver, and there is no breath in it.²⁰ But the Lord is in his holy temple: let all the earth fear before him.

¹A PRAYER OF THE PROPHET
AMBACUM, WITH A SONG.

Ambacum

²O Lord, I have heard thy report, and was afraid: I considered thy works, and was amazed: thou shalt be known between the two living creatures, thou shalt be acknowledged when the years draw nigh; thou shalt be manifested when the time is come; when my soul is troubled, thou wilt in wrath remember mercy. ³God shall come from Thaeman, and the Holy One from the dark shady mount Pharan. Pause. ⁴His excellence covered the heavens, and the earth was full of his praise. And his brightness shall be as light; there were horns in his hands, and he caused a mighty love of his strength. ⁵Before his face shall go a report, and it shall go forth into the plains, ⁶the earth stood at his feet and trembled: he beheld, and the nations melted away: the mountains were violently burst through, the everlasting hills melted at his everlasting going forth. ⁷Because of troubles I looked upon the tents of the Ethiopians: the tabernacles also of the land of Madiam shall be dismayed. ⁸Wast thou angry, O Lord, with the rivers? or was thy wrath against the rivers, or thine anger against the sea? for thou wilt mount on thine horses, and thy chariots are salvation. ⁹Surely thou didst bend they bow at scepters, says the Lord. Pause. The land of rivers shall be torn asunder. ¹⁰The nations shall see thee and be in pain, as thou dost divide the moving waters: the deep uttered her voice, and raised her form on high. ¹¹The sun was exalted, and the moon stood still in her course: thy darts shall go forth at the light, at the brightness of the gleaming of thine arms. ¹²Thou wilt bring low the land with threatening, and in wrath thou wilt break down the nations. ¹³Thou wentest forth for the salvation of thy people, to save thine anointed: thou shalt bring death on the heads of transgressors; thou has brought bands upon their neck. Pause. ¹⁴Thou didst cut asunder the heads of princes with amazement, they shall tremble in it; they shall burst their bridles, they shall be as a poor man devouring in secret. ¹⁵And thou dost cause thine horses to enter the sea, disturbing much water. ¹⁶I watched, and my belly trembled at the sound of the prayer of my lips, and trembling entered into my bones, and my frame was troubled within me; I will rest in the day of affliction, from going up to the people of my sojourning. ¹⁷For though the fig-tree shall bear no fruit, and there shall be no produce on the vines; the labour of the olive shall fail, and the fields shall produce no food: the sheep have failed from the pasture, and there are no oxen at the cribs; ¹⁸yet I will exult in the Lord, I will joy in God my Saviour. ¹⁹The Lord God is my strength, and he will perfectly strengthen my feet; he mounts me upon high places, that I may conquer by his song.

Sophonias

(Zephaniah)

Chapter 1

¹THE word of the Lord which came to Sophonias the son of Chusi, the son of Godolias, the son of Amorias, the son of Ezekias, in the days of Josias son of Amon, king of Juda. ²Let there be an utter cutting off from the face of the land, says the Lord. ³Let man and cattle be cut off; let the birds of the air and the fishes of the sea be cut off; and the ungodly shall fail, and I will take away the transgressors from the face of the land, says the Lord. ⁴And I will stretch out mine hand upon Juda, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and I will remove the names of Baal out of this place, and the names of the priests; ⁵and them that worship the host of heaven upon the house-tops; and them that worship and swear by the Lord, and them that swear by their king; ⁶and them that turn aside from the Lord, and them that seek not the Lord, and them that cleave not to the Lord. ⁷Fear ye before the Lord God; for the day of the Lord is near; for the Lord has prepared his sacrifice, and has sanctified his guests. ⁸And it shall come to pass in the day of the Lord's sacrifice, that I will take vengeance on the princes, and on the king's house, and upon all that wear strange apparel. ⁹And I will openly take vengeance on the porches in that day, on the men that fill the house of the Lord their God with ungodliness and deceit. ¹⁰And there shall be in that day, says the Lord, the sound of a cry from the gate of men slaying, and a howling from the second gate, and a great crashing from the hills. ¹¹Lament, ye that inhabit the city that has been broken down, for all the people has become like Chanaan; and all that were exalted by silver have been utterly destroyed. ¹²And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will search Jerusalem with a candle, and will take vengeance on the men that despise the things committed to them; but they say in their hearts, The Lord will not do any good, neither will he do any evil. ¹³And their power shall be for a spoil, and their houses for utter desolation; and they shall build houses, but shall not dwell in them; and they shall plant vineyards, but shall not drink the wine of them. ¹⁴For the great day of the Lord is near, it is near, and very speedy; the sound of the day of the Lord is made bitter and harsh. ¹⁵A mighty day of wrath is that day, a day of affliction and distress, a day of desolation and destruction, a day of gloominess and darkness, a day of cloud and vapour, ¹⁶a day of the trumpet and cry against the strong cities, and against the high towers. ¹⁷And I will greatly afflict the men, and they shall walk as blind men, because they have sinned against the

Lord; therefore he shall pour out their blood as dust, and their flesh as dung. ¹⁸And their silver and their gold shall in nowise be able to rescue them in the day of the Lord's wrath; but the whole land shall be devoured by the fire of his jealousy; for he will bring a speedy destruction on all them that inhabit the land.

Chapter 2

¹Be ye gathered and closely joined together, O unchastened nation; ²before ye become as the flower that passes away, before the anger of the Lord come upon you, before the day of the wrath of the Lord come upon you. ³Seek ye the Lord, all ye meek of the earth; do judgment, and seek justice, and answer accordingly; that ye may be hid in the day of the wrath of the Lord. ⁴For Gaza shall be utterly spoiled, and Ascalon shall be destroyed; and Azotus shall be cast forth at noon-day, and Accaron shall be rooted up. ⁵Woe to them that dwell on the border of the sea, neighbours of the Cretans! the word of the Lord is against you, O Chanaan, land of the Philistines, and I will destroy you out of your dwelling-place. ⁶And Crete shall be a pasture of flocks, and a fold of sheep. ⁷And the sea coast shall be for the remnant of the house of Juda; they shall pasture upon them in the houses of Ascalon; they shall rest in the evening because of the children of Juda; for the Lord their God has visited them, and he will turn away their captivity. ⁸I have heard the revilings of Moab, and the insults of the children of Ammon, wherewith they have reviled my people, and magnified themselves against my coasts. ⁹Therefore, as I live, says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Moab shall be as Sodoma, and the children of Ammon as Gomorrha; and Damascus shall be left as a heap of the threshing-floor, and desolate for ever: and the remnant of my people shall plunder them, and the remnant of my nations shall inherit them. ¹⁰This is their punishment in return for their haughtiness, because they have reproached and magnified themselves against the Lord Almighty. ¹¹The Lord shall appear against them, and shall utterly destroy all the gods of the nations of the earth; and they shall worship him every one from his place, even all the islands of the nations. ¹²Ye Ethiopians also are the slain of my sword. ¹³And he shall stretch forth his hand against the north and destroy the Assyrian, and make Nineve a dry wilderness, even as a desert. ¹⁴And flocks, and all the wild beasts of the land, and chameleons shall feed in the midst thereof: and hedgehogs shall lodge in the ceilings thereof; and wild beasts shall cry in the breaches thereof, and ravens in her porches, whereas her loftiness was as cedar.

Chapter 3

¹This is the scornful city that dwells securely, that says in her heart, I am, and there is no longer any to be after me: how is she become desolate, a habitation of wild beasts! every one that passes through her shall hiss, and shake his hands. Alas the glorious and ransomed city. ²The dove hearkened not to the voice; she received not correction; she trusted not in the Lord, and she drew not near to her God. ³Her princes within her were as roaring lions, her judges as the wolves of Arabia; they remained not till the morrow. ⁴Her prophets are light and scornful men: her priests profane the holy things, and sinfully transgress the law. ⁵But the just Lord is in the midst of her, and he will never do an unjust thing: morning by morning he will bring out his judgment to the light, and it is not hidden, and he knows not injustice by extortion, nor injustice in strife. ⁶I have brought down the proud with destruction; their corners are destroyed: I will make their ways completely waste, so that none shall go through: their cities are come to an end, by reason of no man living or dwelling in them. ⁷I said, But do ye fear me, and receive instruction, and ye shall not be cut off from the face of the land for all the vengeance I have brought upon her: prepare thou, rise early: all their produce is spoilt. ⁸Therefore wait upon me, says the Lord, until the day when I rise up for a witness: because my judgment shall be on the gatherings of the nations, to draw to me kings, to pour out upon them all my fierce anger: for the whole earth shall be consumed with the fire of my jealousy. ⁹For then will I turn to the peoples a tongue for her generation, that all may call on the name of the Lord, to serve him under one yoke. ¹⁰From the boundaries of the rivers of Ethiopia will I receive my dispersed ones; they shall offer sacrifices to me. ¹¹In that day thou shalt not be ashamed of all thy practices, wherein thou hast transgressed against me: for then will I take away from thee thy disdainful pride, and thou shalt no more magnify thyself upon my holy mountain. ¹²And I will leave in thee a meek and lowly people; ¹³and the remnant of Israel shall fear the name of the Lord, and shall do no iniquity, neither shall they speak vanity; neither shall a deceitful tongue be found in their mouth: for they shall feed, and lie down, and there shall be none to terrify them. ¹⁴Rejoice, O daughter of Sion; cry aloud, O daughter of Jerusalem; rejoice and delight thyself with all thine heart, O daughter of Jerusalem. ¹⁵The Lord has taken away thine iniquities, he has ransomed thee from the hand of thine enemies: the Lord, the King of Israel, is in the midst of thee: thou shalt not see evil any more. ¹⁶At that time the Lord shall say to Jerusalem, Be of good courage, Sion; let not thine hands be slack. ¹⁷The Lord thy God is in thee; the Mighty One shall save thee: he shall bring joy upon thee, and shall refresh thee with his love; and he shall rejoice over thee with delight as in a day of feasting. ¹⁸And I will gather thine afflicted ones.

Sophonias

Alas! who has taken up a reproach against her? ¹⁹Behold, I will work in thee for thy sake at that time, says the Lord: and I will save her that was oppressed, and receive her that was rejected; and I will make them a praise, and honoured in all the earth.

²⁰And their enemies shall be ashamed at that time, when I shall deal well with you, and at the time when I shall receive you: for I will make you honoured and a praise among all the nations of the earth, when I turn back your captivity before you, says the Lord.

Aggæus

(Haggai)

Chapter 1

¹IN the second year of Darius the king, in the sixth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came by the hand of the prophet Aggæus, saying, Speak to Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, of the tribe of Juda, and to Jesus the son of Josedec, the high priest, saying, ²Thus says the Lord Almighty, saying, This people say, The time is not come to build the house of the Lord. ³And the word of the Lord came by the hand of the prophet Aggæus, saying, ⁴Is it time for you to dwell in your ceiled houses, whereas our house is desolate? ⁵And now thus says the Lord Almighty; Consider your ways, I pray you. ⁶Ye have sown much, but brought in little; ye have eaten, and are not satisfied; ye have drunk, and are not satisfied with drink, ye have clothed yourselves, and have not become warm thereby: and he that earns wages has gathered them into a bag full of holes. ⁷Thus says the Lord Almighty; Consider your ways. ⁸Go up to the mountain, and cut timber; build the house, and I will take pleasure in it, and be glorified, says the Lord. ⁹Ye looked for much, and there came little; and it was brought into the house, and I blew it away. Therefore thus says the Lord Almighty, Because my house is desolate, and ye run everyone into his own house;

¹⁰therefore shall the sky withhold dew, and the earth shall keep back her produce. ¹¹And I will bring a sword upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the wine, and upon the oil, and all that the earth produces, and upon the men, and upon the cattle, and upon all the labours of their hands. ¹²And Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, of the tribe of Juda, and Jesus the son of Josedec, the high priest, and all the remnant of the people, hearkened to the voice of the Lord their God, and the words of the prophet Aggæus, according as the Lord their God had sent him to them, and the people feared before the Lord. ¹³And Aggæus the Lord's messenger spoke among the messengers of the Lord to the people, saying, I am with you, says the Lord. ¹⁴And the Lord stirred up the spirit of Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, of the tribe of Juda, and the spirit of Jesus the son of Josedec, the high priest, and the spirit of the remnant of all the people; and they went in, and wrought in the house of the Lord Almighty their God, ¹⁵on the four and twentieth day of the sixth month, in the second year of Darius the king.

Chapter 2

¹In the seventh month, on the twenty-first day of the month, the Lord spoke by Aggæus the prophet, saying,

Aggæus

³Speak now to Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, of the tribe of Juda, and to Jesus the son of Josedec, the high priest, and to all the remnant of the people, saying, ⁴*Who is there* of you that saw this house in her former glory? and how do ye now look upon it, as it were nothing before your eyes? ⁵Yet now be strong, O Zorobabel, says the Lord; and strengthen thyself, O Jesus the high priest, the son of Josedec; and let all the people of the land strengthen themselves, says the Lord, and work, for I am with you, says the Lord Almighty; ⁶and my Spirit remains in the midst of you; be of good courage. ⁷For thus says the Lord Almighty; Yet once I will shake the heaven, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land; ⁸and I will shake all nations, and the choice portions of all the nations shall come: and I will fill this house with glory, says the Lord Almighty. ⁹Mine is the silver, and mine the gold, says the Lord Almighty. ¹⁰For the glory of this house shall be great, the latter more than the former, says the Lord Almighty: and in this place will I give peace, says the Lord Almighty, even peace of soul for a possession to every one that builds, to raise up this temple. ¹¹On the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, the word of the Lord came to Aggæus the prophet, saying, ¹²Thus says the Lord Almighty; Inquire now of the priest concerning the law, saying, ¹³If a man should take holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and the skirt of his garment should touch bread, or pottage, or wine, or oil, or any meat, shall it be holy? And the priests answered and said, No. ¹⁴And Aggæus said, If a defiled person who is unclean by reason of a dead body, touch any of these, shall it be defiled? And the priests answered and said, It shall be defiled. ¹⁵And Aggæus answered and said, So is this people, and so is this nation before me, says the Lord; and so are all the works of their hands: and whosoever shall approach them, shall be defiled [because of their early burdens: they shall be pained because of their toils; and ye have hated him that reproved in the gates]. ¹⁶And now consider, I pray you, from this day and beforetime, before they laid a stone on a stone in the temple of the Lord, what manner of men ye were. ¹⁷When ye cast into the corn-bin twenty measures of barley, and there were only ten measures of barley: and ye went to the vat to draw out fifty measures, and there were but twenty. ¹⁸I smote you with barrenness, and with blasting, and all the works of your hands with hail; yet ye returned not to me, says the Lord. ¹⁹Set your hearts now to think from this day and upward, from the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, even from the day when the foundation of the temple of the Lord was laid; ²⁰consider in your hearts, whether this shall be known on the corn-floor, and whether yet the vine, and the fig-tree, and the pomegranate, and the olive-trees that bear no fruit are with you: from this day will I bless you. ²¹And the word of the Lord came the second time to Aggæus the prophet, on the four and twentieth day of the month, saying, ²²Speak to Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, of the tribe of Juda, saying, I shake the heaven, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land; ²³and I will overthrow the thrones of kings, and I will destroy the power of the kings of the nations; and I will overthrow chariots and riders; and the horses and their riders shall come down, every one by the sword striving against his brother. ²⁴In that day, says the Lord Almighty, I will take thee, O Zorobabel, the son of Salathiel, my servant, says the Lord, and will make thee as a seal: for I have chosen thee, says the Lord Almighty.

Zacharias

(Zachariah)

Chapter 1

¹IN the eighth month, in the second year of the reign of Darius, the word of the Lord came to Zacharias, the son of Barachias, the son of Addo, the prophet, saying, ²The Lord has been very angry with your fathers. ³And thou shalt say to them, Thus says the Lord Almighty: Turn to me, says the Lord of hosts, and I will turn to you, says the Lord of hosts. ⁴And be ye not as your fathers, whom the prophets before charged, saying, Thus says the Lord Almighty: Turn ye from your evil ways, and from your evil practices: but they hearkened not, and attended not to hearken to me, says the Lord. ⁵Where are your fathers, and the prophets? Will they live for ever? ⁶But do ye receive my words and mine ordinances, all that I command by my Spirit to my servants the prophets, who lived in the days of your fathers; and they answered and said, As the Lord Almighty determined to do to us, according to our ways, and according to our practices, so has he done to us. ⁷On the twenty-fourth day in the eleventh month, this is the month Sabat, in the second year of the reign of Darius, the word of the Lord came to Zacharias, the son of Barachias, the son of Addo, the prophet, saying, ⁸I saw by night, and behold a man mounted on a red horse, and he stood between the shady mountains; and behind him were red horses, and grey, and piebald, and white. ⁹And I said, What are these, my lord? And the angel spoke with me said to me, I will shew thee what these things are. ¹⁰And the man that stood between the mountains answered, and said to me, These are they whom the Lord has sent forth to go round the earth. ¹¹And they answered the angel of the Lord that stood between the mountains, and said, We have gone round all the earth, and, behold, all the earth is inhabited, and is at rest. ¹²Then the angel of the Lord answered and said, O Lord Almighty, how long wilt thou have no mercy on Jerusalem, and the cities of Juda, which thou has disregarded these seventy years? ¹³And the Lord Almighty answered the angel that spoke with me good words and consolatory sayings. ¹⁴And the angel that spoke with me said to me, Cry out and say, Thus says the Lord Almighty; I have been jealous for Jerusalem and Sion with great jealousy. ¹⁵And I am very angry with the heathen that combine to attack her: forasmuch as I indeed was a little angry, but they combined to attack her for evil. ¹⁶Therefore thus says the Lord: I will return to Jerusalem with compassion; and my house shall be rebuilt in her, says the Lord Almighty, and a measuring line shall yet be stretched out over Jerusalem. ¹⁷And the angel that spoke with me said to me, Cry yet, and say, Thus says the Lord Almighty; Yet shall cities be spread abroad through prosperity; and the Lord shall yet have mercy upon Sion, and shall choose Jerusalem. ¹⁸And I lifted up mine eyes and looked, and behold four horns. ¹⁹And I said to the angel that spoke with me, What are these things, my lord? And he said to me, These are the horns that have scattered Juda, and Israel, and Jerusalem. ²⁰And the Lord showed me four artificers. ²¹And I said, What are these coming to do? And he said, These are the horns that scattered Juda, and they broke Israel in pieces, and none of them lifted up his head: and these are come forth to sharpen them for their hands, even the four horns, the nations that lifted up the horn against the land of the Lord to scatter it.

Chapter 2

¹And I lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold a man, and in his hand a measuring line. ²And I said to him, Whither goest thou? And he said to me, To measure Jerusalem, to see what is the breadth of it, and what is the length of it. ³And, behold, the angel that spoke with me stood by, and another angel went forth to meet him, ⁴and spoke to him, saying, Run and speak to that young man, saying, Jerusalem shall be fully inhabited by reason of the abundance of men and cattle in the midst of her. ⁵And I will be to her, says the Lord, a wall of fire round about, and I will be for a glory in the midst of her. ⁶Ho, ho, flee from the land of the north, says the Lord: for I will gather you from the four winds of heaven, says the Lord, ⁷*even* to Sion: deliver yourselves, ye that dwell with the daughter of Babylon. ⁸For thus says the Lord Almighty; After the glory has he sent me to the nations that spoiled you: for he that touches you is as one that touches the apple of his eye. ⁹For, behold, I bring my hand upon them, and they shall be a spoil to them that serve them: and ye shall know that the Lord Almighty has sent me. ¹⁰Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Sion: for, behold, I come, and will dwell in the midst of thee, says the Lord. ¹¹And many nations shall flee for refuge to the Lord in that day, and they shall be for a people to him, and they shall dwell in the midst of thee: and thou shalt know that the Lord Almighty has sent me to thee. ¹²And the Lord shall inherit Juda his portion in the holy land, and he will yet choose Jerusalem. ¹³Let all flesh fear before the Lord: for he has risen up from his holy clouds.

Chapter 3

¹And the Lord showed me Jesus the high priest standing before the angel of the Lord, and the Devil stood on his right hand to resist him. ²And the Lords said to the Devil, ³The Lord rebuke thee, O Devil, even the Lord that has chosen Jerusalem rebuke thee: behold! is not this as a brand plucked from the fire? ⁴Now Jesus was clothed in filthy raiment, and stood before the angel. ⁵And the Lord answered and spoke to those who stood before him, saying, Take away the filthy raiment from him: and he said to him, Behold, I have taken away thine iniquities: and clothe ye him with a long robe, ⁶and place a pure mitre upon his head. So they placed a pure mitre upon his head, and clothed him with garments: and the angel of the Lord stood by. ⁷And the angel of the Lord testified to Jesus, saying, ⁸Thus says the Lord Almighty; If thou wilt walk in my ways, and take heed to my charges, then shalt thou judge my house: and if thou wilt diligently keep my court, then will I give thee men to walk in the midst of these that stand here. ⁹Hear now, Jesus the high priest, thou, and thy neighbours that are sitting before thee: for they are diviners, for, behold, I bring forth my servant The Branch. ¹⁰For as for the stone which I have set before the face of Jesus, on the one stone are seven eyes: behold, I am digging a trench, says the Lord Almighty, and I will search out all the iniquity of that land in one day. ¹¹In that day, says the Lord Almighty, ye shall call together every man his neighbour under the vine and under the fig-tree.

Chapter 4

¹And the angel that talked with me returned, and awakened me, as when a man is awakened out of his sleep. ²And he said to me, What seest thou?

And I said, I have seen, and behold a candlestick all of gold, and its bowl upon it, and seven lamps upon it, and seven oil funnels to the lamps upon it: ³and two olive-trees above it, one on the right of the bowl, and one on the left. ⁴And I inquired, and spoke to the angel that talked with me, saying, What are these things, my lord? ⁵And the angel that talked with me answered, and spoke to me, saying, Knowest thou not what these things are? And I said, No, my lord. ⁶And he answered and spoke to me, saying, This is the word of the Lord to Zorobabel, saying, Not by mighty power, nor by strength, but by my Spirit, says the Lord Almighty. ⁷Who art thou, the great mountain before Zorobabel, that thou shouldest prosper? whereas I will bring out the stone of the inheritance, the grace of it the equal of my grace. ⁸And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ⁹The hands of Zorobabel have laid the foundation of this house, and his hands shall finish it: and thou shalt know that the Lord Almighty has sent me to thee. ¹⁰For who has despised the small days? surely they shall rejoice, and shall see the plummet of tin in the hand of Zorobabel: these are the seven eyes that look upon all the earth. ¹¹And I answered, and said to him, What are these two olive-trees, which are on the right and left hand of the candlestick? ¹²And I asked the second time, and said to him, What are the two branches of the olive-trees that are by the side of the two golden pipes that pour into and communicate with the golden oil funnels? ¹³And he said to me, Knowest thou not what these are? and I said, No, my lord. ¹⁴And he said, These are the two anointed ones that stand by the Lord of the whole earth.

Chapter 5

¹And I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked and behold a flying sickle. ²And he said to me, What seest thou? And I said, I see a flying sickle, of the length of twenty cubits, and of the breadth of ten cubits. ³And he said to me, This is the curse that goes forth over the face of the whole earth: for every thief shall be punished with death on this side, and every false swearer shall be punished on that side. ⁴And I will bring it forth, says the Lord Almighty, and it shall enter into the house of the thief, and into the house of him that swears falsely by my name: and it shall rest in the midst of his house, and shall consume it, and the timber of it, and the stones of it. ⁵And the angel that talked with me went forth, and said to me, Lift up thine eyes, and see this that goes forth. ⁶And I said, What is it? And he said, This is the measure that goes forth. And he said, This is their iniquity in all the earth. ⁷And behold a talent of lead lifted up: and behold a woman sat in the midst of the measure. ⁸And he said, This is iniquity. And he cast it into the midst of the measure, and cast the weight of lead on the mouth of it. ⁹And I lifted up mine eyes, and saw, and, behold, two women coming forth, and the wind was in their wings; and they had stork's wings: and they lifted up the measure between the earth and the sky. ¹⁰And I said to the angel that spoke with me, Whither do these carry away the measure? ¹¹And he said to me, To build it a house in the land of Babylon, and to prepare a place for it; and they shall set it there on its own base.

Chapter 6

¹And I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and, behold, four chariots coming out from between two mountains; and the mountains were brazen mountains. ²In the first chariot were red horses; and in the second chariot black horses; ³and in the third chariot white horses; and in the fourth chariot piebald and ash-coloured horses. ⁴And I answered and said to the angel that talked with me, What are these, my Lord? ⁵And the angel that talked with me answered and said, These are the four winds of heaven, and they are going forth to stand before the Lord of all the earth. ⁶*As for the chariot* in which were the black horses, they went out to the land of the north; and the white went out after them; and the piebald went out to the land of the south. ⁷And the ash-coloured went out, and looked to go and compass the earth: and he said, Go, and compass the earth. And they compassed the earth. ⁸And he cried out and spoke to me, saying, Behold, these go out to the land of the north, and they have quieted mine anger in the land of the north.⁹ And the word of the Lord came to me, saying,¹⁰ Take the things of the captivity from the chief men, and from the useful men of it, and from them that have understood it; and thou shalt enter in that day into the house of Josias the son of Sophonias that came out of Babylon.¹¹ And thou shalt take silver and gold, and make crowns, and thou shalt put them upon the head of Jesus the son of Josedec the high priest;¹² and thou shalt say to him, Thus says the Lord Almighty; Behold the man whose name is The Branch; and he shall spring up from his stem, and build the house of the Lord.¹³ And he shall receive power, and shall sit and rule upon his throne; and there shall be a priest on his right hand, and a peaceable counsel shall be between them both.¹⁴ And the crown shall be to them that wait patiently, and to the useful men of the captivity, and to them that have known it, and for the favour of the son of Sophonias, and for a psalm in the house of the Lord.¹⁵ And they that are far from them shall come and build in the house of the Lord, and ye shall know that the Lord Almighty has sent me to you: and this shall come to pass, if ye will diligently hearken to the voice of the Lord your God.

Zacharias

Chapter 7

¹And it came to pass in the fourth year of Darius the king, that the word of the Lord came to Zacharias on the fourth day of the ninth month, which is

Chaseleu.² And Sarasar and Arbeseer the king and his men sent to Bethel, and that to propitiate the Lord,³ speaking to the priests that were in the house of the Lord Almighty, and to the prophets, saying, The holy offering has come in hither in the fifth month, as it has done already many years.⁴ And the word of the Lord of hosts came to me, saying,⁵ Speak to the whole people of the land, and to the priests, saying, Though ye fasted or lamented in the fifth or seventh months (yea, behold, these seventy years) have ye at all fasted to me? ⁶And if ye eat or drink, do ye not eat and drink for yourselves? ⁷Are not these the words which the Lord spoke by the former prophets, when Jerusalem was inhabited and in prosperity, and her cities round about her, and the hill country and the low country was inhabited? ⁸And the word of the Lord came to Zacharias, saying, ⁹Thus says the Lord Almighty;

Judge righteous judgment, and deal mercifully and compassionately every one with his brother:¹⁰ and oppress not the widow, or the fatherless, or the stranger, or the poor; and let not one of you remember in his heart the injury of his brother.¹¹ But they refused to attend, and madly turned their back, and made their ears heavy, so that they should not hear.¹² And they made their heart disobedient, so as not to hearken to my law, and the words which the Lord Almighty sent forth by his Spirit by the former prophets: so there was great wrath from the Lord Almighty.

Zacharias

¹³And it shall come to pass, that as he spoke, and they hearkened not, so they shall cry, and I will not hearken, says the Lord Almighty. ¹⁴And I will cast them out among all the nations, whom they know not; and the land behind them shall be made utterly destitute of any going through or returning: yea they have made the choice land a desolation.

Chapter 8

¹And the word of the Lord Almighty came, saying, ²Thus says the Lord Almighty; I have been jealous for Jerusalem and for Sion with great jealousy, and I have been jealous for her with great fury. ³Thus says the Lord; I will return to Sion, and dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: and Jerusalem shall be called a true city, and the mountain of the Lord Almighty a holy mountain. ⁴Thus says the Lord Almighty; There shall yet dwell old men and old women in the streets of Jerusalem, every one holding his staff in his hand for age. ⁵And the broad places of the city shall be filled with boys and girls playing in the streets thereof. ⁶Thus says the Lord Almighty; If it shall be impossible in the sight of the remnant of this people in those days, shall it also be impossible in my sight? says the Lord Almighty. ⁷Thus says the Lord Almighty; Behold, I will save my people from the east country, and the west country; ⁸and I will bring them in, and cause them to dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: and they shall be to me a people, and I will be to them a God, in truth and in righteousness. ⁹Thus says the Lord Almighty; Let your hands be strong, ye that hear in these days these words out of the mouth of the prophets, from the day that the house of the Lord Almighty was founded, and from the time that the temple was built. ¹⁰For before those days the wages of men could not be profitable, and there could be no hire of cattle, and there could be no peace by reason of the affliction to him that went out or to him that came in: for I would have let loose all men, every one against his neighbour. ¹¹But now I will not do to the remnant of this people according to the former days, says the Lord Almighty. ¹²But I will shew peace: the vine shall yield her fruit, and the land shall yield her produce, and the heaven shall give its dew: and I will give as an inheritance all these things to the remnant of my people. ¹³And it shall come to pass, as ye were a curse among the nations, O house of Juda, and house of Israel; so will I save you, and ye shall be a blessing: be of good courage, and strengthen your hands. ¹⁴For thus says the Lord Almighty; As I took counsel to afflict you when your fathers provoked me, says the Lord Almighty, and I repented not: ¹⁵so have I prepared and taken counsel in these days to do good to Jerusalem and to the house of Juda: be ye of good courage. ¹⁶These are the things which ye shall do; speak truth every one with his neighbour; judge truth and peaceable judgment in your gates: ¹⁷and let none of you devise evil in his heart against his neighbour; and love not a false oath: for all these things I hate, says the Lord Almighty. ¹⁸And the word of the Lord Almighty came to me, saying, ¹⁹Thus says the Lord Almighty, The fourth fast, and the fifth fast, and the seventh fast, and the tenth fast, shall be to the house of Juda for joy and gladness, and for good feasts; and ye shall rejoice; and love ye the truth and peace. ²⁰Thus says the Lord Almighty; Yet shall many peoples come, and the inhabitants of many cities; ²¹and the inhabitants of five cities shall come together to one city, saying, Let us go to make supplication to the Lord, and to seek the face of the Lord Almighty; I will go also. ²²And many peoples and many nations shall come to seek earnestly the face of the Lord Almighty in Jerusalem, and to obtain favour of the Lord. ²³Thus says the Lord Almighty; In those days my word shall be fulfilled if ten men of all the languages of the nations should take hold—even take hold of the hem of a Jew, saying, We will go with thee; for we have heard that God is with you.

Chapter 9

¹The burden of the word of the Lord, in the land of Sedrach, and his sacrifice shall be in Damascus; for the Lord looks upon men, and upon all the tribes of Israel. ²And in Emath, even in her coasts, are Tyre and Sidon, because they were very wise. ³And

Tyrus built strong-holds for herself, and heaped up silver as dust, and gathered gold as the mire of the ways. ⁴And therefore the Lord will take them for a possession, and will smite her power in the sea; and she shall be consumed with fire. ⁵Ascalon shall see, and fear; Gaza also, and shall be greatly pained, and Accaron; for she is ashamed at her trespass; and the king shall perish from Gaza, and Ascalon shall not be inhabited. ⁶And aliens shall dwell in Azotus, and I will bring down the pride of the Philistines. ⁷And I will take their blood out of their mouth, and their abominations from between their teeth; and these also shall be left to our God, and they shall be as a captain of a thousand in Juda, and Accaron as a Jebusite. ⁸And I will set up a defence for my house, that they may not pass through, nor turn back, neither shall there any more come upon them one to drive them away: for now have I seen with mine eyes. ⁹Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Sion; proclaim it aloud, O daughter of Jerusalem; behold, the King is coming to thee, just, and a Saviour; he is meek and riding on an ass, and a young foal. ¹⁰And he shall destroy the chariots out of Ephraim, and the horse out of Jerusalem, and the bow of war shall be utterly destroyed; and there shall be abundance and peace out of the nations; and he shall rule over the waters as far as the sea, and the rivers to the ends of the earth. ¹¹And thou by the blood of thy covenant has sent forth thy prisoners out of the pit that has no water. ¹²Ye shall dwell in strongholds, ye prisoners of the congregation: and for one day of thy captivity I will recompense thee double. ¹³For I have bent thee, O Juda, for myself as a bow, I have filled Ephraim; and I will raise up thy children, O Sion, against the children of the Greeks, and I will handle thee as the sword of a warrior. ¹⁴And the Lord shall be over them, and his arrow shall go forth as lightning: and the Lord Almighty shall blow with the trumpet; and shall proceed with the tumult of his threatening. ¹⁵The Lord Almighty shall protect them, and they shall destroy them, and overwhelm them with sling-stones; and they shall swallow them down as wine, and fill the bowls as the altar. ¹⁶And the Lord their God shall save them in that day, even his people as a flock; for holy stones are rolled upon his land. ¹⁷For if he has anything good, and if he has anything fair, the young men shall have corn, and there shall be fragrant wine to the virgins.

Chapter 10

¹Ask ye of the Lord rain in season, the early and the latter: the Lord has given bright signs, and will give them abundant rain, to every one grass in the field. ²For the speakers have uttered grievous things, and the diviners have seen false visions, and they have spoken false dreams, they have given vain comfort: therefore have they fallen away like sheep, and been afflicted, because there was no healing. ³Mine anger was kindled against the shepherds, and I will visit the lambs; and the Lord God Almighty shall visit his flock, the house of Juda, and he shall make them as his goodly horse in war. ⁴And from him he looked, and from him he set the battle in order, and from him came the bow in anger, and from him shall come forth every oppressor together. ⁵And they shall be as warriors treading clay in the ways in war; and they shall set the battle in array, because the Lord is with them, and the riders on horses shall be put to shame. ⁶And I will strengthen the house of Juda, and save the house of Joseph, and I will settle them; because I have loved them: and they shall be as if I had not cast them off: for I am the Lord their God, and I will hear them. ⁷And they shall be as the warriors of Ephraim, and their heart shall rejoice as with wine: and their children also shall see it, and be glad; and their heart shall rejoice in the Lord. ⁸I will make a sign to them, and gather them in; for I will redeem them, and they shall be multiplied according to their number before. ⁹And I will sow them among the people; and they that are afar off shall remember me: they shall nourish their children, and they shall return. ¹⁰And I will bring them again from the land of Egypt, and I will gather them in from among the Assyrians; and I will bring them into the land of Galaad and to Libanus; and there shall not even one of them be left behind. ¹¹And they shall pass through a narrow sea, they shall smite the waves in the sea, and all the deep places of the rivers shall be dried up: and all the pride of the Assyrians shall be taken away, and the sceptre of Egypt shall be removed. ¹²And I will strengthen them in the Lord their God; and they shall boast in his name, says the Lord.

Chapter 11

¹Open thy doors, O Libanus, and let the fire devour thy cedars. ²Let the pine howl, because the cedar has fallen; for the mighty men have been greatly afflicted: howl, ye oaks of the land of Basan; for the thickly planted forest has been torn down. ³*There is* a voice of the shepherds mourning; for their greatness is brought low: a voice of roaring lions; for the pride of Jordan is brought down. ⁴Thus says the Lord Almighty, Feed the sheep of the slaughter; ⁵which their possessors have slain, and have not repented: and they that sold them said, Blessed be the Lord; for we have become rich: and their shepherds have suffered no sorrow for them. ⁶Therefore I will no longer have mercy upon the inhabitants of the land, says the Lord: but, behold, I will deliver up the men every one into the hand of his neighbour, and into the hand of his king; and they shall destroy the land, and I will not rescue out of their hand. ⁷And I will tend the flock of slaughter in the land of Chanaan: and I will take for myself two rods; the one I called

Beauty, and the other I called Line; and I will tend the flock. ⁸And I will cut off three shepherds in one month; and my soul shall grieve over them, for their souls cried out against me. ⁹And I said, I will not tend you: that which dies, let it die; and that which falls off, let it fall off; and let the rest eat every one the flesh of his neighbour. ¹⁰And I will take my beautiful staff, and cast it away, that I may break my covenant which I made with all the people. ¹¹And it shall be broken in that day; and the Chananites, the sheep that are kept for me, shall know that it is the word of the Lord. ¹²And I will say to them, If it be good in your eyes, give me my price, or refuse it. And they weighed for my price thirty pieces of silver. ¹³And the Lord said to me, Drop them into the furnace, and I will see if it is good metal, as I was proved for their sakes. And I took the thirty pieces of silver, and cast them into the furnace in the house of the Lord. ¹⁴And I cast away my second rod, even Line, that I might break the possession between Juda and Israel. ¹⁵And the Lord said to me, Take yet to thee shepherd's implements belonging to an unskillful shepherd. ¹⁶For, behold, I will raise up a shepherd against the land: he shall not visit that which is perishing, and he shall not seek that which is scattered, and he shall not heal that which is bruised, nor guide that which is whole: but he shall devour the flesh of the choice ones, and shall dislocate the joints of their necks. ¹⁷Alas for the vain shepherds that have forsaken the sheep! the sword shall be upon the arms of such a one, and upon his right eye: his arm shall be completely withered, and his right eye shall be utterly darkened.

Chapter 12

¹The burden of the word of the Lord for Israel; says the Lord, that stretches out the sky, and lays the foundation of the earth, and forms the spirit of man within him. ²Behold, I will make Jerusalem as trembling door-posts to all the nations round about, and in Judea there shall be a siege against Jerusalem. ³And it shall come to pass in that day that I will make Jerusalem a trodden stone to all the nations: every one that tramples on it shall utterly mock at it, and all the nations of the earth shall be gathered together against it. ⁴In that day, says the Lord Almighty, I will smite every horse with amazement, and his rider with madness: but I will open mine eyes upon the house of Juda, and I will smite all the horses of the nations with blindness. ⁵And the captains of thousands of Juda shall say in their hearts, We shall find for ourselves the inhabitants of Jerusalem in the Lord Almighty their God. ⁶In that day I will make the captains of thousands of Juda as a firebrand among wood, and as a torch of fire in stubble; and they shall devour on the right hand and on the left all the nations round about: and Jerusalem shall dwell again by herself, even in Jerusalem. ⁷And the Lord shall save the tabernacles of Juda as at the beginning, that the boast of the house of David, and the pride of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, may not magnify themselves against Juda. ⁸And it shall come to pass in that day, that the Lord shall defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and the weak one among them in that day shall be as David, and the house of David as the house of God, as the angel of the Lord before them. ⁹And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will seek to destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem. ¹⁰And I will pour upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the spirit of grace and compassion: and they shall look upon me, because they have mocked me, and they shall make lamentation for him, as for a beloved friend, and they shall grieve intensely, as for a firstborn son. ¹¹In that day the lamentation in Jerusalem shall be very great, as the mourning for the pomegranate grove cut down in the plain. ¹²And the land shall lament in separate families, the family of the house of David by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of the house of Nathan by itself, and their wives by themselves; ¹³the family of the house of Levi by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of Symeon by itself, and their wives by themselves; ¹⁴all the families that are left, each family by itself, and their wives by themselves.

¹In that day every place shall be opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for removal and for separation. ²And it shall come to pass in that day, says the Lord of hosts, that I will utterly destroy the names of the idols from off the land, and there shall be no longer any remembrance of them: and I will cut off the false prophets and the evil spirit from the land. ³And it shall come to pass, if a man will yet prophesy, that his father and his mother which gave birth to him shall say to him, Thou shalt not live; for thou has spoken lies in the name of the Lord: and his father and his mother who gave him birth shall bind him as he is prophesying. ⁴And it shall come to pass in that day, that the prophets shall be ashamed every one of his vision when he prophesies; and they shall clothe themselves with a garment of hair, because they have lied. ⁵And one shall say, I am not a prophet, for I am a tiller of the ground, for a man brought me up thus from my youth. ⁶And I will say to him, What are these wounds between thine hands? and he shall say, Those with which I was wounded in my beloved house. ⁷Awake, O sword, against my shepherds, and against the man who is my citizen, says the Lord Almighty: smite the shepherds, and draw out the sheep: and I will bring mine hand upon the little ones. ⁸And it shall come to pass, that in all the land, says the Lord, two parts thereof shall be cut off and perish; but the third shall be left therein. ⁹And I will bring the third part through the fire, and I will try them as silver is tried, and I will prove them as gold is proved: they shall call upon my name, and I will hear them, and say, This is my people: and they shall say, The Lord is my God.

¹Behold, the days of the Lord come, and thy spoils shall be divided in thee. ²And I will gather all the Gentiles to Jerusalem to war, and the city shall be taken, and the houses plundered, and the women ravished; and half of the city shall go forth into captivity, but the rest of my people shall not be utterly cut off from the city.

³And the Lord shall go forth, and fight with those Gentiles as when he fought in the day of war. ⁴And his feet shall stand in that day on the mount of Olives, which is before Jerusalem on the east, and the mount of Olives shall cleave asunder, half of it toward the east and the west, a very great division; and half the mountain shall lean to the north, and half of it to the south. ⁵And the valley of my mountains shall be closed up, and the valley of the mountains shall be joined on to Jasod, and shall be blocked up as it was blocked up in the days of the earthquake, in the days of Ozias king of Juda; and the Lord my God shall come, and all the saints with him. ⁶And it shall come to pass in that day that there shall be no light, ⁷and there shall be for one day cold and frost, and that day shall be known to the Lord, and it shall not be day nor night: but towards evening it shall be light. ⁸And in that day living water shall come forth out of Jerusalem; half of it toward the former sea, and half of it toward the latter sea: and so shall it be in summer and spring. ⁹And the Lord shall be king over all the earth: in that day there shall be one Lord, and his name one, ¹⁰compassing all the earth, and the wilderness from Gabe unto Remmon south of Jerusalem. And Rama shall remain in its place. From the gate of Benjamin to the place of the first gate, to the gate of the corners, and to the tower of Anameel, as far as the king's winepresses, ¹¹they shall dwell in the city; and there shall be no more any curse, and Jerusalem shall dwell securely. ¹²And this shall be the overthrow with which the Lord will smite all the nations, as many as have fought against Jerusalem; their flesh shall consume away while they are standing upon their feet, and their eyes shall melt out of their holes, and their tongue shall consume away in their mouth. ¹³And there shall be in that day a great panic from the Lord upon them; and they shall lay hold every man of the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shall be clasped with the hand of his neighbour. ¹⁴Juda also shall fight in Jerusalem; and God shall gather the strength of all the nations round about, gold, and silver, and apparel, in great abundance. ¹⁵And this shall be the overthrow of the horses, and mules, and camels, and asses, and all the beasts that are in those camps, according to this overthrow. ¹⁶And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall be left of all the nations that came against Jerusalem, shall even come up every year to worship the king, the Lord Almighty, and to keep the feast of tabernacles. ¹⁷And it shall come to pass, that whosoever of all the families of the earth shall not come up to Jerusalem to worship the king, the Lord Almighty, even these shall be added to the others. ¹⁸And if the family of Egypt shall not go up, nor come; then upon them shall be the overthrow with which the Lord shall smite all the nations, whichever of them shall not come up to keep the feast of tabernacles. ¹⁹This shall be the sin of Egypt, and the sin of all the nations, whosoever shall not come up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

²⁰In that day there shall be upon the bridle of every horse Holiness to the Lord Almighty; and the caldrons in the house of the Lord shall be as bowls before the altar. ²¹And every pot in Jerusalem and in Juda shall be holy to the Lord Almighty: and all that sacrifice shall come and take of them, and shall seethe meat in them: and in that day there shall be no more the Chananite in the house of the Lord Almighty.

Malachias

(Malachi)

Chapter 1

¹The burden of the word of the Lord to Israel by the hand of his messenger. Lay it, I pray you, to heart.

²I have loved you, says the Lord. And ye said, Wherein hast thou loved us? Was not Esau Jacob's brother? says the Lord: yet I loved Jacob, ³and hated Esau and laid waste his borders, and made his heritage as dwellings of the wilderness? ⁴Because one will say, Idumea has been overthrown, but let us return and rebuild the desolate places; thus says the Lord Almighty, They shall build, but I will throw down; and they shall be called The borders of wickedness, and, The people against whom the Lord has set himself for ever. ⁵And your eyes shall see, and ye shall say, The Lord has been magnified upon the borders of Israel. ⁶A son honours his father, and a servant his master: if then I am a father, where is mine honour? and if I am a master, where is my fear? says the Lord Almighty. Ye the priests are they that despise my name: yet ye said, Wherein have we despised thy name?

⁷In that ye bring to mine altar polluted bread; and ye said, Wherein have ye polluted it? In that ye say, The table of the Lord is polluted, and that which was set thereon ye have despised. ⁸For if ye bring a blind victim for sacrifices, is it not evil? and if ye bring the lame or the sick, is it not evil? offer it now to thy ruler, and see if he will receive thee, if he will accept thy person, says the Lord Almighty. ⁹And now intreat the face of your God, and make supplication to him. These things have been done by your hands; shall I accept you? says the Lord Almighty.

¹⁰Because even among you the doors shall be shut, and one will not kindle the fire of mine altar for nothing, I have no pleasure in you, says the Lord Almighty, and I will not accept a sacrifice at your hands. ¹¹For from the rising of the sun even to the going down thereof my name has been glorified among the Gentiles; and in every place incense is offered to my name, and a pure offering: for my name is great among the Gentiles, says the Lord Almighty. ¹²But ye profane it, in that ye say, The table of the Lord is polluted, and his meats set thereon are despised. ¹³And ye said, These services are troublesome: therefore I have utterly rejected them with scorn, says the Lord Almighty: and ye brought in torn victims, and lame, and sick: if then ye should bring an offering, shall I accept them at your hands? says the Lord Almighty. ¹⁴And cursed is the man who had the power, and possessed a male in his flock, and whose vow is upon him, and who sacrifices a corrupt thing to the Lord:

for I am a great King, says the Lord Almighty, and my name is glorious among the nations.

Chapter 2

¹And now, O priests, this commandment is to you. ²If ye will not hearken, and if ye will not lay it to heart, to give glory to my name, says the Lord Almighty, then I will send forth the curse upon you, and I will bring a curse upon your blessing: yea, I will curse it, and I will scatter your blessing, and it shall not exist among you, because ye lay not this to heart. ³Behold, I turn my back upon you, and I will scatter dung upon your faces, the dung of your feasts, and I will carry you away at the same time. ⁴And ye shall know that I have sent this commandment to you, that my covenant might be with the sons of Levi, says the Lord Almighty. ⁵My covenant of life and peace was with him, and I gave it him that he might reverently fear me, and that he might be awe-struck at my name. ⁶The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked before me directing his way in peace, and he turned many from unrighteousness. ⁷For the priest's lips should keep knowledge, and they should seek the law at his mouth: for he is the messenger of the Lord Almighty. ⁸But ye have turned aside from the way, and caused many to fail in following the law: ye have corrupted the covenant of Levi, says the Lord Almighty. ⁹And I have made you despised and cast out among all the people, because ye have not kept my ways, but have been partial in the law.

¹⁰Have ye not all one father? Did not one God create you? why have ye forsaken every man his brother, to profane the covenant of your fathers?

¹¹Juda has been forsaken, and an abomination has been committed in Israel and in Jerusalem; for Juda has profaned the holy things of the Lord, which he delighted in, and has gone after other gods. ¹²The Lord will utterly destroy the man that does these things, until he be even cast down from out of the tabernacles of Jacob, and from among them that offer sacrifice to the Lord Almighty. ¹³And these things which I hated, ye did: ye covered with tears the altar of the Lord, and with weeping and groaning because of troubles: is it meet for me to have respect to your sacrifice, or to receive anything from your hands as welcome? ¹⁴Yet ye said, Wherefore? Because the Lord has borne witness between thee and the wife of thy youth, whom thou has forsaken, and yet she was thy partner, and the wife of thy covenant. ¹⁵And did he not do well? and there was the residue of his spirit. But ye said, What does God seek but a seed? But take ye heed to your spirit, and forsake not the wife of thy youth. ¹⁶But if thou shouldest hate thy wife and put her away, says the Lord God of Israel, then ungodliness shall cover thy thoughts, says the Lord Almighty: therefore take ye heed to your spirit, and forsake them not, ¹⁷ye that have provoked God with your words. But ye said, Wherein have we provoked him? In that ye say, Every one that does evil is a pleasing object in the sight of the Lord, and he takes pleasure in such; and where is the God of justice?

Chapter 3

¹Behold, I send forth my messenger, and he shall survey the way before me: and the Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come into his temple, even the angel of the covenant, whom ye take pleasure in: behold, he is coming, says the Lord Almighty. ²And who will abide the day of his coming? or who will withstand at his appearing? for he is coming in as the fire of a furnace and as the herb of fullers. ³He shall sit to melt and purify as it were silver, and as it were gold: and he shall purify the sons of Levi, and refine them as gold and silver, and they shall offer to the Lord an offering in righteousness. ⁴And the sacrifice of Juda and Jerusalem shall be pleasing to the Lord, according to the former days, and according to the former years. ⁵And I will draw near to you in judgment; and I will be a sift witness against the witches, and against the adulteresses, and against them that swear falsely by my name, and against them that keep back the hireling's wages, and them that oppress the widow, and afflict orphans, and that wrest the judgment of the stranger, and fear not me, says the Lord Almighty.

⁶For I am the Lord your God, and I am not changed: ⁷but ye, the sons of Jacob, have not refrained from the iniquities of your fathers: ye have perverted my statutes, and have not kept them. Return to me, and I will return to you, says the Lord Almighty. But ye said, Wherein shall we return? ⁸Will a man insult God? for ye insult me. But ye say, Wherein have we insulted thee? In that the tithes and first-fruits are with you still. ⁹And ye do surely look off from me, and ye insult me. ¹⁰The year is completed, and ye have brought all the produce into the storehouses; but there shall be the plunder thereof in its house: return now on this behalf, says the Lord Almighty, see if I will not open to you the torrents of heaven, and pour out my blessing upon you, until ye are satisfied. ¹¹And I will appoint food for you, and I will not destroy the fruit of your land; and your vine in the field shall not fail, says the Lord Almighty. ¹²And all nations shall call you blessed: for ye shall be a desirable land, says the Lord Almighty. ¹³Ye have spoken grievous words against me, says the Lord. Yet ye said, Wherein have we spoken against thee? ¹⁴Ye said, He that serves God labours in vain: and what have we gained in that we have kept his ordinances, and in that we have walked as suppliants before the face of the Lord Almighty? ¹⁵And now we pronounce strangers blessed; and all they who act unlawfully are built up; and they have resisted God, and yet have been delivered. ¹⁶Thus spoke they that feared the Lord, every one to his neighbour: and the Lord gave heed, and hearkened, and he wrote a book of remembrance before him for them that feared the Lord and revered his name. ¹⁷And they shall be mine, says the Lord Almighty, in the day which I appoint for a peculiar possession; and I will make choice of them, as a man makes choice of his son that serves him. ¹⁸Then shall ye return, and discern between the righteous and the wicked, and between him that serves God, and him that serves him not.

Chapter 4

¹For, behold, a day comes burning as an oven, and it shall consume them; and all the aliens, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble: and the day that is coming shall set them on fire, says the Lord Almighty, and there shall not be left of them root or branch.

²But to you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness arise, and healing shall be in his wings: and ye shall go forth, and bound as young calves let loose from bonds. ³And ye shall trample the wicked; for they shall be ashes underneath your feet in the day which I appoint, says the Lord Almighty. ⁵And, behold, I will send to you Elias the Thesbite, before the great and glorious day of the Lord comes; ⁶who shall turn again the heart of the father to the son, and the heart of a man to his neighbour, lest I come and smite the earth grievously. ⁴Remember the law of my servant Moses, accordingly as I charged him with it in Choreb for all Israel, even the commandments and ordinances.

Appendix

JOB 25. 1.—In the New Testament παροιμία is almost always translated proverb, but in John 10. 6, it is rendered parable, which seems to be the sense intended here. Probably προοίμιον is a mistake of the transcriber.

JOB 39. 13.— τερπομένω. The LXX. seem to have caught at the meaning of יָבִילָוִי jubilavit, from which comes the word here used יָבִילָוִי struthiones. νέελασσα—Hebrew נֶעְלָסָה part. niph. fem. of עָלָה lætatus est. άσίον הַסִּדִּי, ciconia νῆσσα נוצה penna, (qy. item struthiocamelus). "The peacock's wing is proudly spread. Is the ostrich also, if it conceive, like the stork ? For," &c. The stork according to tradition being the pious bird, the ostrich the contrary.—C. Pridham.

PSALM 41. (42) 4.—There are several difficulties connected with this passage. In the first place it seems evident that the LXX. read בָּסָד, and the English translators בָּסָד, or something similar. The Hebrew Text (to which no קָרִי is appended) thus far favours the LXX.; who, however, appear to have read אֶדְדָּם as a part of אֶדְרָא and made an adjective of it. Again, τόπω has nothing immediately answering it in the Hebrew, and may be accounted for on the principle so often referred to of double translation.

PROVERBS 8. 5.—It is frequently the case in Proverbs that ἄκακος is used in a bad sense, and πανοῦργος in a good one. For ἄκακος see chap. 1.4,22; 8.5; 14.15; 21. 11. For πανοῦργος, 12.16; 13.1,16; 14.8,15,18; 15.5; 21.11; 22.3; 27. 12; 28.2.

ISAIAH 2. 6.—Philistines. The LXX. generally render יְהוּדִים by φυλιστινῆς or φυλιστινῆς till about the middle of Judges, after which the word almost always used is αλλόφυλοι. In this there was probably some accommodation of sound to sense.

ISAIAH 21. 16.—Giants. Heb. גִּבּוֹרִים. For some interesting remarks on this word, see the conclusion of Govett's work on the book of the prophet Isaiah.

JEZEKIEL 16. 44.—The most obvious meaning of παραβολή seems to be comparison. The word is so translated, Mark 4. 30; in Heb. 9. 9. and 11. 19. it is rendered figure; in Luke 4. 23. proverb, which is the word employed by the English translators in this passage of Ezekiel. In the other passages of the New Testament, amounting to upwards of forty, it is uniformly rendered parable. See note on Job 25.1. at the top of the first page of the Appendix. For the more classical use of the word, see Aristotle's Rhetoric, book 3.

EXODUS 28. 23—28, are found neither in the Vatican or Alexandrine copies, but appear in the Complutensian text as follows:—

²³And thou shalt make upon the oracle two golden rings, and thou shalt put the two golden rings on both the upper comers of the oracle. ²⁴And thou shalt put the fringes and the chains of gold on the two rings on both the sides of the oracle. ²⁵And thou shalt put two sides of the two fringes on the two hems, and thou shalt put the shoulders of the ephod opposite in front. ²⁶And thou shalt make two golden rings and shalt put them on the two edges of the oracle on the top from the top of the back of the ephod within. ²⁷And thou shalt make two golden rings, and shalt put them on both the shoulders of the ephod beneath it in front, to meet the coupling above of the woven work of the ephod. ²⁸And thou shalt fasten the oracle by the rings upon it to the rings of the ephod joined with blue lace and attached to the woven work of the ephod, that the oracle may not be loosed from the ephod.

KINGS I. (1 SAM.)

17. ¹²And David son of an Ephrathite said this Ephrathite was of Bethlehem Juda, and his name was Jessæ, and he had eight sons. And the man passed for an old man among men in the days of Saul. ¹³And the three elder sons of Jessæ went and followed Saul to the war, and the names of his sons that went to the war were, Eliab his first-born, and his second Aminadab, and his third son Samma. ¹⁴And David himself was the younger son, and the three elder followed Saul. ¹⁵And David departed and returned from Saul, to feed his father's sheep in Bethlehem. ¹⁶And the Philistine advanced morning and evening, and stood up forty days. ¹⁷And Jessæ said to David, Take now to thy brethren an ephah of this meal, and these ten loaves, and run to the camp and give them to thy brothers. ¹⁸And thou shalt carry to the captain of the thousand ^f these ten cheeses of milk, and thou shalt see how thy brethren fare, and learn what they want. ¹⁹And Saul himself and all the men of Israel were in the valley of the Oak, warring with the Philistines. ²⁰And David rose early in the morning, and left the sheep to a keeper, and took and went as Jeesæ commanded him, and he came to the trench and to the army as it was going out to fight, and they shouted for the battle. ²¹And Israel and the Philistines formed their lines one opposite the other. ²²And David deposited his burden in the hand of a keeper, and ran to the line, and went and asked his brethren how they were. ²³And while he was speaking with them, behold the Amesæan advanced, Goliath by name, the Philistine of Geth, of the armies of the Philistines, and he spoke as before, and David heard. ²⁴And all the men of Israel when they saw the man fled from before him, and they were greatly terrified. ²⁵And the men of Israel said, Have ye seen this man that comes up? for he has reproached Israel and has come up, and it shall be that the man who shall smite him, the king shall enrich him with great wealth, and shall give him his daughter, and shall make his father's house free in Israel. ²⁶And David spoke to the men who stood with him, saying, Shall it indeed be done thus to the man who shall smite that Philistine, and take away reproach from Israel? for who is this uncircumcised Philistine that he has defied the army of the living God? ²⁷And the people spoke to him according to this word, saying, Thus shall it be done to the man who shall smite him. ²⁸And Eliab his elder brother heard as he spoke to the men, and Eliab was very angry with David and said, Why hast thou thus come down, and with whom hast thou left those few sheep in the wilderness? I know thy pride and the naughtiness of thine heart, for thou art come down to see the battle. ²⁹And David said What have I done now? Have I no business here? ³⁰And he turned from him toward another and he spoke after the same manner, and the people answered after the former manner. ³¹And the words which David spoke were heard, and were reported to Saul. And he took him to himself.

Verse 41. And the Philistine advanced and drew nigh to David, and a man bearing his shield went before him, and the Philistine looked on.

Verse 50. So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and a stone and smote the Philistine and slew him, and there was no sword in the hand of David.

Verse 55. And when Saul saw David going out to meet the Philistine, he said to Abener the captain of the host, Whose son is this youth? and Abener said, As thy soul lives, O king, I know not. ⁵⁶And the king said, Do thou ask whose son this youth is. ⁵⁷And as David returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abener took him and brought him in before Saul, and the head of the Philistine was in his hand.

Appendix

⁵⁸And Saul said to him, Whose son art thou, young man ? and David said The son of thy ser- vant Jessæ the Bethleemite.

18. And it came to pass when he had finished speaking to Saul, that the soul of Jonathan was knit to the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him f as his own soul. ²And Saul took him in that day, and did not suffer him to return to his father's house. ³And Jonathan and David made a covenant because he loved him as his own soul. ⁴And Jonathan stripped himself of his upper garment and gave it to David and his mantle and all he had upon him even to his sword and to his bow, and to his girdle. ⁵And David went out whithersoever Saul sent him, and acted wisely, and Saul set him over the men of war, and he was pleasing in the eyes of all the people, and also in the eyes of the servants of Saul.

Verse 8. (last part.) And what more can he have but the kingdom? ⁹And Saul eyed David from that day and onward. ¹⁰And it came to pass on morrow that an evil spirit from God fell upon Saul, and he prophesied in the midst of his house. And David was playing on the harp with his band, according to his daily custom. And Saul's spear was in his hand. ¹¹And Saul took his spear and said, I will smite David even to the wall. But David escaped twice from his presence.

¹⁷And Saul said to David, Behold my elder daughter Merob, I will give her to thee to wife, only be thou to me a mighty man and fight the wars of the Lord. And Saul said, Let not my hand be upon him, but the hand of the Philistines shall be upon him. ¹⁸And David said to Saul, Who am I, and what is the life of my father's family in Israel, that I should be the king's son-in-law? ¹⁹But it came to pass at the time when Merob Saul's daughter should have been given to David that she was given to Israel the Mothulathite to wife.

KINGS III. (KINGS I.)

2 ult. 3. verse 1. Considerable variation here rather than omission.

5. ¹⁷And the king commanded and they brought great stones, precious stones for the foundation of the house and unhewn stones.

6. ¹¹And the word of the Lord came to Solomon, saying, ¹²*As for* this house which thou art budding, if thou wilt walk in my ordinances and execute my judgments, and keep all my commandments to walk in them, I will establish my word with thee which I spoke to David thy father. ¹³And I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel, and will not forsake my people Israel. ¹⁴So Solomon built the house and finished it. ²²And all inside the oracle he overlaid with gold.

CHAPTER 1

¹And Josias held the feast of the passover in Jerusalem unto his Lord, and offered the passover the fourteenth day of the first month;

²Having set the priests according to their daily courses, being arrayed in long garments, in the temple of the Lord.

³And he spake unto the Levites, the holy ministers of Israel, that they should hallow themselves unto the Lord, to set the holy ark of the Lord in the house that king Solomon the son of David had built:

⁴And said, Ye shall no more bear the ark upon your shoulders: now therefore serve the Lord your God, and minister unto his people Israel, and prepare you after your families and kindreds, ⁵According as David the king of Israel prescribed, and according to the magnificence of Solomon his son: and standing in the temple according to the several dignity of the families of you the Levites, who minister in the presence of your brethren the children of Israel, ⁶Offer the passover in order, and make ready the sacrifices for your brethren, and keep the passover according to the commandment of the Lord, which was given unto Moses.

⁷And unto the people that was found there Josias gave thirty thousand lambs and kids, and three thousand calves: these things were given of the king's allowance, according as he promised, to the people, to the priests, and to the Levites.

⁸And Helkias, Zacharias, and Syelus, the governors of the temple, gave to the priests for the passover two thousand and six hundred sheep, and three hundred calves.

⁹And Jeconias, and Samaias, and Nathanael his brother, and Assabias, and Ochiel, and Joram, captains over thousands, gave to the Levites for the passover five thousand sheep, and seven hundred calves.

¹⁰And when these things were done, the priests and Levites, having the unleavened bread, stood in very comely order according to the kindreds, ¹¹And according to the several dignities of the fathers, before the people, to offer to the Lord, as it is written in the book of Moses: and thus did they in the morning.

¹²And they roasted the passover with fire, as appertaineth: as for the sacrifices, they sod them in brass pots and pans with a good savour, ¹³And set them before all the people: and afterward they prepared for themselves, and for the priests their brethren, the sons of Aaron.

1st Esdras

¹⁴For the priests offered the fat until night: and the Levites prepared for themselves, and the priests their brethren, the sons of Aaron.

¹⁵The holy singers also, the sons of Asaph, were in their order, according to the appointment of David, to wit, Asaph, Zacharias, and Jeduthun, who was of the king's retinue.

¹⁶Moreover the porters were at every gate; it was not lawful for any to go from his ordinary service: for their brethren the Levites prepared for them.

¹⁷Thus were the things that belonged to the sacrifices of the Lord accomplished in that day, that they might hold the pass-over, ¹⁸And offer sacrifices upon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandment of king Josias.

¹⁹So the children of Israel which were present held the passover at that time, and the feast of sweet bread seven days.

²⁰And such a passover was not kept in Israel since the time of the prophet Samuel.

²¹Yea, all the kings of Israel held not such a passover as Josias, and the priests, and the Levites, and the Jews, held with all Israel that were found dwelling at Jerusalem.

²²In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josias was this passover kept.

²³And the works of Josias were upright before his Lord with an heart full of godliness.

²⁴As for the things that came to pass in his time, they were written in former times, concerning those that sinned, and did wickedly against the Lord above all people and kingdoms, and how they grieved him exceedingly, so that the words of the Lord rose up against Israel.

²⁵Now after all these acts of Josias it came to pass, that Pharaoh the king of Egypt came to raise war at Carchamis upon Euphrates: and Josias went out against him.

²⁶But the king of Egypt sent to him, saying, What have I to do with thee, O king of Judea?

²⁷I am not sent out from the Lord God against thee; for my war is upon Euphrates: and now the Lord is with me, yea, the Lord is with me hasting me forward: depart from me, and be not against the Lord.

²⁸Howbeit Josias did not turn back his chariot from him, but undertook to fight with him, not regarding the words of the prophet Jeremy spoken by the mouth of the Lord:

²⁹But joined battle with him in the plain of Magiddo, and the princes came against king Josias.

³⁰Then said the king unto his servants, Carry me away out of the battle; for I am very weak. And immediately his servants took him away out of the battle.

³¹Then gat he up upon his second chariot; and being brought back to Jerusalem died, and was buried in his father's sepulchre.

1st Esdras

³²And in all Jewry they mourned for Josias, yea, Jeremy the prophet lamented for Josias, and the chief men with the women made lamentation for him unto this day: and this was given out for an ordinance to be done continually in all the nation of Israel.

³³These things are written in the book of the stories of the kings of Judah, and every one of the acts that Josias did, and his glory, and his understanding in the law of the Lord, and the things that he had done before, and the things now recited, are reported in the book of the kings of Israel and Judea.

³⁴And the people took Joachaz the son of Josias, and made him king instead of Josias his father, when he was twenty and three years old.

³⁵And he reigned in Judea and in Jerusalem three months: and then the king of Egypt deposed him from reigning in Jerusalem.

³⁶And he set a tax upon the land of an hundred talents of silver and one talent of gold.

³⁷The king of Egypt also made king Joacim his brother king of Judea and Jerusalem.

³⁸And he bound Joacim and the nobles: but Zaraces his brother he apprehended, and brought him out of Egypt.

³⁹Five and twenty years old was Joacim when he was made king in the land of Judea and Jerusalem; and he did evil before the Lord.

⁴⁰Wherefore against him Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon came up, and bound him with a chain of brass, and carried him into Babylon.

⁴¹Nabuchodonosor also took of the holy vessels of the Lord, and carried them away, and set them in his own temple at Babylon.

⁴²But those things that are recorded of him, and of his uncleanness and impiety, are written in the chronicles of the kings.

⁴³And Joacim his son reigned in his stead: he was made king being eighteen years old;

⁴⁴And reigned but three months and ten days in Jerusalem; and did evil before the Lord.

⁴⁵So after a year Nabuchodonosor sent and caused him to be brought into Babylon with the holy vessels of the Lord;

⁴⁶And made Zedechias king of Judea and Jerusalem, when he was one and twenty years old; and he reigned eleven years:

⁴⁷And he did evil also in the sight of the Lord, and cared not for the words that were spoken unto him by the prophet Jeremy from the mouth of the Lord.

⁴⁸And after that king Nabuchodonosor had made him to swear by the name of the Lord, he forswore himself, and rebelled; and hardening his neck, his heart, he transgressed the laws of the Lord God of Israel.

1st Esdras

⁴⁹The governors also of the people and of the priests did many things against the laws, and passed all the pollutions of all nations, and defiled the temple of the Lord, which was sanctified in Jerusalem.

⁵⁰Nevertheless the God of their fathers sent by his messenger to call them back, because he spared them and his tabernacle also.

⁵¹But they had his messengers in derision; and, look, when the Lord spake unto them, they made a sport of his prophets:

⁵²So far forth, that he, being wroth with his people for their great ungodliness, commanded the kings of the Chaldees to come up against them;

⁵³Who slew their young men with the sword, yea, even within the compass of their holy temple, and spared neither young man nor maid, old man nor child, among them; for he delivered all into their hands.

⁵⁴And they took all the holy vessels of the Lord, both great and small, with the vessels of the ark of God, and the king's treasures, and carried them away into Babylon.

⁵⁵As for the house of the Lord, they burnt it, and brake down the walls of Jerusalem, and set fire upon her towers:

⁵⁶And as for her glorious things, they never ceased till they had consumed and brought them all to nought: and the people that were not slain with the sword he carried unto Babylon:

⁵⁷Who became servants to him and his children, till the Persians reigned, to fulfil the word of the Lord spoken by the mouth of Jeremy:

⁵⁸Until the land had enjoyed her sabbaths, the whole time of her desolation shall she rest, until the full term of seventy years.

CHAPTER 2

¹In the first year of Cyrus king of the Persians, that the word of the Lord might be accomplished, that he had promised by the mouth of Jeremy;

²The Lord raised up the spirit of Cyrus the king of the Persians, and he made proclamation through all his kingdom, and also by writing,

³Saying, Thus saith Cyrus king of the Persians; The Lord of Israel, the most high Lord, hath made me king of the whole world, ⁴And commanded me to build him an house at Jerusalem in Jewry.

⁵If therefore there be any of you that are of his people, let the Lord, even his Lord, be with him, and let him go up to Jerusalem that is in Judea, and build the house of the Lord of Israel: for he is the Lord that dwelleth in Jerusalem.

⁶Whosoever then dwell in the places about, let them help him, those, I say, that are his neighbours, with gold, and with silver, ⁷With gifts, with horses, and with cattle, and other things, which have been set forth by vow, for the temple of the Lord at Jerusalem.

⁸Then the chief of the families of Judea and of the tribe of Benjamin stood up; the priests also, and the Levites, and all they whose mind the Lord had moved to go up, and to build an house for the Lord at Jerusalem, ⁹And they that dwelt round about them, and helped them in all things with silver and gold, with horses and cattle, and with very many free gifts of a great number whose minds were stirred up thereto.

1st Esdras

¹⁰King Cyrus also brought forth the holy vessels, which Nabuchodonosor had carried away from Jerusalem, and had set up in his temple of idols.

¹¹Now when Cyrus king of the Persians had brought them forth, he delivered them to Mithridates his treasurer: ¹²And by him they were delivered to Sanabassar the governor of Judea.

¹³And this was the number of them; A thousand golden cups, and a thousand of silver, censers of silver twenty nine, vials of gold thirty, and of silver two thousand four hundred and ten, and a thousand other vessels.

¹⁴So all the vessels of gold and of silver, which were carried away, were five thousand four hundred threescore and nine.

¹⁵These were brought back by Sanabassar, together with them of the captivity, from Babylon to Jerusalem.

¹⁶But in the time of Artaxerxes king of the Persians Belemus, and Mithridates, and Tabellius, and Rathumus, and Beeltethmus, and Semellius the secretary, with others that were in commission with them, dwelling in Samaria and other places, wrote unto him against them that dwelt in Judea and Jerusalem these letters following;

¹⁷To king Artaxerxes our lord, Thy servants, Rathumus the storywriter, and Semellius the scribe, and the rest of their council, and the judges that are in Celosyria and Phenice.

¹⁸Be it now known to the lord king, that the Jews that are up from you to us, being come into Jerusalem, that rebellious and wicked city, do build the marketplaces, and repair the walls of it and do lay the foundation of the temple.

¹⁹Now if this city and the walls thereof be made up again, they will not only refuse to give tribute, but also rebel against kings.

²⁰And forasmuch as the things pertaining to the temple are now in hand, we think it meet not to neglect such a matter,

²¹But to speak unto our lord the king, to the intent that, if it be thy pleasure it may be sought out in the books of thy fathers:

²²And thou shalt find in the chronicles what is written concerning these things, and shalt understand that that city was rebellious, troubling both kings and cities:

²³And that the Jews were rebellious, and raised always wars therein; for the which cause even this city was made desolate.

²⁴Wherefore now we do declare unto thee, O lord the king, that if this city be built again, and the walls thereof set up anew, thou shalt from henceforth have no passage into Celosyria and Phenice.

²⁵Then the king wrote back again to Rathumus the storywriter, to Beeltethmus, to Semellius the scribe, and to the rest that were in commission, and dwellers in Samaria and Syria and Phenice, after this manner;

²⁶I have read the epistle which ye have sent unto me: therefore I commanded to make diligent search, and it hath been found that that city was from the beginning practising against kings;

²⁷And the men therein were given to rebellion and war: and that mighty kings and fierce were in Jerusalem, who reigned and exacted tributes in Celosyria and Phenice.

²⁸Now therefore I have commanded to hinder those men from building the city, and heed to be taken that there be no more done in it;

²⁹And that those wicked workers proceed no further to the annoyance of kings, ³⁰Then king Artexerxes his letters being read, Rathumus, and Semellius the scribe, and the rest that were in commission with them, removing in haste toward Jerusalem with a troop of horsemen and a multitude of people in battle array, began to hinder the builders; and the building of the temple in Jerusalem ceased until the second year of the reign of Darius king of the Persians.

CHAPTER 3

¹Now when Darius reigned, he made a great feast unto all his subjects, and unto all his household, and unto all the princes of Media and Persia, ²And to all the governors and captains and lieutenants that were under him, from India unto Ethiopia, of an hundred twenty and seven provinces.

³And when they had eaten and drunken, and being satisfied were gone home, then Darius the king went into his bedchamber, and slept, and soon after awaked.

⁴Then three young men, that were of the guard that kept the king's body, spake one to another;

⁵Let every one of us speak a sentence: he that shall overcome, and whose sentence shall seem wiser than the others, unto him shall the king Darius give great gifts, and great things in token of victory:

⁶As, to be clothed in purple, to drink in gold, and to sleep upon gold, and a chariot with bridles of gold, and an headtire of fine linen, and a chain about his neck:

⁷And he shall sit next to Darius because of his wisdom, and shall be called Darius his cousin.

⁸And then every one wrote his sentence, sealed it, and laid it under king Darius his pillow;

⁹And said that, when the king is risen, some will give him the writings;

1st Esdras

and of whose side the king and the three princes of Persia shall judge that his sentence is the wisest, to him shall the victory be given, as was appointed.

¹⁰The first wrote, Wine is the strongest.

¹¹The second wrote, The king is strongest.

¹²The third wrote, Women are strongest: but above all things Truth beareth away the victory.

¹³Now when the king was risen up, they took their writings, and delivered them unto him, and so he read them:

¹⁴And sending forth he called all the princes of Persia and Media, and the governors, and the captains, and the lieutenants, and the chief officers;

¹⁵And sat him down in the royal seat of judgment; and the writings were read before them.

¹⁶And he said, Call the young men, and they shall declare their own sentences. So they were called, and came in.

¹⁷And he said unto them, Declare unto us your mind concerning the writings. Then began the first, who had spoken of the strength of wine;

¹⁸And he said thus, O ye men, how exceeding strong is wine! it causeth all men to err that drink it:

¹⁹It maketh the mind of the king and of the fatherless child to be all one; of the bondman and of the freeman, of the poor man and of the rich:

²⁰It turneth also every thought into jollity and mirth, so that a man remembereth neither sorrow nor debt:

²¹And it maketh every heart rich, so that a man remembereth neither king nor governor; and it maketh to speak all things by talents:

²²And when they are in their cups, they forget their love both to friends and brethren, and a little after draw out swords:

²³But when they are from the wine, they remember not what they have done.

²⁴O ye men, is not wine the strongest, that enforceth to do thus? And when he had so spoken, he held his peace.

CHAPTER 4

¹Then the second, that had spoken of the strength of the king, began to say,

²O ye men, do not men excel in strength that bear rule over sea and land and all things in them?

³But yet the king is more mighty: for he is lord of all these things, and hath dominion over them; and whatsoever he commandeth them they do.

⁴If he bid them make war the one against the other, they do it: if he send them out against the enemies, they go, and break down mountains walls and towers.

⁵They slay and are slain, and transgress not the king's commandment: if they get the victory, they bring all to the king, as well the spoil, as all things else.

1st Esdras

⁶Likewise for those that are no soldiers, and have not to do with wars, but use husbandry, when they have reaped again that which they had sown, they bring it to the king, and compel one another to pay tribute unto the king.

⁷And yet he is but one man: if he command to kill, they kill; if he command to spare, they spare;

⁸If he command to smite, they smite; if he command to make desolate, they make desolate; if he command to build, they build; ⁹If he command to cut down, they cut down; if he command to plant, they plant.

¹⁰So all his people and his armies obey him: furthermore he lieth down, he eateth and drinketh, and taketh his rest:

¹¹And these keep watch round about him, neither may any one depart, and do his own business, neither disobey they him in any thing.

¹²O ye men, how should not the king be mightiest, when in such sort he is obeyed? And he held his tongue.

¹³Then the third, who had spoken of women, and of the truth, (this was Zorobabel) began to speak.

¹⁴O ye men, it is not the great king, nor the multitude of men, neither is it wine, that excelleth; who is it then that ruleth them, or hath the lordship over them? are they not women?

¹⁵Women have borne the king and all the people that bear rule by sea and land.

¹⁶Even of them came they: and they nourished them up that planted the vineyards, from whence the wine cometh.

¹⁷These also make garments for men; these bring glory unto men; and without women cannot men be.

¹⁸Yea, and if men have gathered together gold and silver, or any other goodly thing, do they not love a woman which is comely in favour and beauty?

¹⁹And letting all those things go, do they not gape, and even with open mouth fix their eyes fast on her; and have not all men more desire unto her than unto silver or gold, or any goodly thing whatsoever?

²⁰A man leaveth his own father that brought him up, and his own country, and cleaveth unto his wife.

²¹He sticketh not to spend his life with his wife. and remembereth neither father, nor mother, nor country.

²²By this also ye must know that women have dominion over you: do ye not labour and toil, and give and bring all to the woman?

²³Yea, a man taketh his sword, and goeth his way to rob and to steal, to sail upon the sea and upon rivers;

²⁴And looketh upon a lion, and goeth in the darkness; and when he hath stolen, spoiled, and robbed, he bringeth it to his love.

1st Esdras

²⁵Wherefore a man loveth his wife better than father or mother.

²⁶Yea, many there be that have run out of their wits for women, and become servants for their sakes.

²⁷Many also have perished, have erred, and sinned, for women.

²⁸And now do ye not believe me? is not the king great in his power? do not all regions fear to touch him?

²⁹Yet did I see him and Apame the king's concubine, the daughter of the admirable Bartacus, sitting at the right hand of the king, ³⁰And taking the crown from the king's head, and setting it upon her own head; she also struck the king with her left hand.

³¹And yet for all this the king gaped and gazed upon her with open mouth: if she laughed upon him, he laughed also: but if she took any displeasure at him, the king was fain to flatter, that she might be reconciled to him again.

³²O ye men, how can it be but women should be strong, seeing they do thus?

³³Then the king and the princes looked one upon another: so he began to speak of the truth.

³⁴O ye men, are not women strong? great is the earth, high is the heaven, swift is the sun in his course, for he compasseth the heavens round about, and fetcheth his course again to his own place in one day.

³⁵Is he not great that maketh these things? therefore great is the truth, and stronger than all things.

³⁶All the earth crieth upon the truth, and the heaven blesseth it: all works shake and tremble at it, and with it is no unrighteous thing.

³⁷Wine is wicked, the king is wicked, women are wicked, all the children of men are wicked, and such are all their wicked works; and there is no truth in them; in their unrighteousness also they shall perish.

³⁸As for the truth, it endureth, and is always strong; it liveth and conquereth for evermore.

³⁹With her there is no accepting of persons or rewards; but she doeth the things that are just, and refraineth from all unjust and wicked things; and all men do well like of her works.

⁴⁰Neither in her judgment is any unrighteousness; and she is the strength, kingdom, power, and majesty, of all ages. Blessed be the God of truth.

⁴¹And with that he held his peace. And all the people then shouted, and said, Great is Truth, and mighty above all things.

⁴²Then said the king unto him, Ask what thou wilt more than is appointed in the writing, and we will give it thee, because thou art found wisest; and thou shalt sit next me, and shalt be called my cousin.

⁴³Then said he unto the king, Remember thy vow, which thou hast vowed to build Jerusalem, in the day when thou camest to thy kingdom, ⁴⁴And to send away all the vessels that were taken away out of Jerusalem, which Cyrus set apart, when he vowed to destroy Babylon, and to send them again thither.

1st Esdras

⁴⁵Thou also hast vowed to build up the temple, which the Edomites burned when Judea was made desolate by the Chaldees.

⁴⁶And now, O lord the king, this is that which I require, and which I desire of thee, and this is the princely liberality proceeding from thyself: I desire therefore that thou make good the vow, the performance whereof with thine own mouth thou hast vowed to the King of heaven.

⁴⁷Then Darius the king stood up, and kissed him, and wrote letters for him unto all the treasurers and lieutenants and captains and governors, that they should safely convey on their way both him, and all those that go up with him to build Jerusalem.

⁴⁸He wrote letters also unto the lieutenants that were in Celosyria and Phenice, and unto them in Libanus, that they should bring cedar wood from Libanus unto Jerusalem, and that they should build the city with him.

⁴⁹Moreover he wrote for all the Jews that went out of his realm up into Jewry, concerning their freedom, that no officer, no ruler, no lieutenant, nor treasurer, should forcibly enter into their doors;

⁵⁰And that all the country which they hold should be free without tribute; and that the Edomites should give over the villages of the Jews which then they held:

⁵¹Yea, that there should be yearly given twenty talents to the building of the temple, until the time that it were built;

⁵²And other ten talents yearly, to maintain the burnt offerings upon the altar every day, as they had a commandment to offer seventeen:

⁵³And that all they that went from Babylon to build the city should have free liberty, as well they as their posterity, and all the priests that went away.

⁵⁴He wrote also concerning the charges, and the priests' vestments wherein they minister;

⁵⁵And likewise for the charges of the Levites, to be given them until the day that the house were finished, and Jerusalem builded up.

⁵⁶And he commanded to give to all that kept the city pensions and wages.

⁵⁷He sent away also all the vessels from Babylon, that Cyrus had set apart; and all that Cyrus had given in commandment, the same charged he also to be done, and sent unto Jerusalem.

⁵⁸Now when this young man was gone forth, he lifted up his face to heaven toward Jerusalem, and praised the King of heaven, ⁵⁹And said, From thee cometh victory, from thee cometh wisdom, and thine is the glory, and I am thy servant.

⁶⁰Blessed art thou, who hast given me wisdom: for to thee I give thanks, O Lord of our fathers.

1st Esdras

⁶¹And so he took the letters, and went out, and came unto Babylon, and told it all his brethren.

⁶²And they praised the God of their fathers, because he had given them freedom and liberty ⁶³To go up, and to build Jerusalem, and the temple which is called by his name: and they feasted with instruments of mu-sick and gladness seven days.

CHAPTER 5

¹After this were the principal men of the families chosen according to their tribes, to go up with their wives and sons and daughters, with their menservants and maidservants, and their cattle.

²And Darius sent with them a thousand horsemen, till they had brought them back to Jerusalem safely, and with musical [instruments] tabrets and flutes.

³And all their brethren played, and he made them go up together with them.

⁴And these are the names of the men which went up, according to their families among their tribes, after their several heads.

⁵The priests, the sons of Phinees the son of Aaron: Jesus the son of Josedec, the son of Saraias, and Joacim the son of Zorobabel, the son of Salathiel, of the house of David, out of the kindred of Phares, of the tribe of Judah;

⁶Who spake wise sentences before Darius the king of Persia in the second year of his reign, in the month Nisan, which is the first month.

⁷And these are they of Jewry that came up from the captivity, where they dwelt as strangers, whom Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon had carried away unto Babylon.

⁸And they returned unto Jerusalem, and to the other parts of Jewry, every man to his own city, who came with Zorobabel, with Jesus, Nehemias, and Zacharias, and Reesaia, Enenius, Mardocheus. Beelsarus, Aspharasus, Reelius, Roimus, and Baana, their guides.

⁹The number of them of the nation, and their governors, sons of Phoros, two thousand an hundred seventy and two; the sons of Saphat, four hundred seventy and two:

¹⁴The sons of Adonikam, six hundred sixty and seven: the sons of Bagoi, two thousand sixty and six: the sons of Adin, four hundred fifty and four:

1st Esdras

¹⁵The sons of Aterezias, ninety and two: the sons of Ceilan and Azetas threescore and seven: the sons of Azuran, four hundred thirty and two:

¹⁶The sons of Ananias, an hundred and one: the sons of Arom, thirty two: and the sons of Bassa, three hundred twenty and three: the sons of Azephurith, an hundred and two:

¹⁸They of Netophah, fifty and five: they of Anathoth, an hundred fifty and eight: they of Bethsamos, forty and two:

¹⁹They of Kiriathiarius, twenty and five: they of Caphira and Beroth, seven hundred forty and three: they of Pira, seven hundred:

²⁰They of Chadias and Ammidoi, four hundred twenty and two: they of Cirama and Gabdes, six hundred twenty and one:

²¹They of Macalon, an hundred twenty and two: they of Betolius, fifty and two: the sons of Nephis, an hundred fifty and six:

²²The sons of Calamolalus and Onus, seven hundred twenty and five: the sons of Jerechus, two hundred forty and five:

²³The sons of Annas, three thousand three hundred and thirty.

²⁴The priests: the sons of Jeddu, the son of Jesus among the sons of Sanasib, nine hundred seventy and two: the sons of Meruth, a thousand fifty and two:

²⁵The sons of Phassaron, a thousand forty and seven: the sons of Carme, a thousand and seventeen.

²⁶The Levites: the sons of Jessue, and Cadmiel, and Banuas, and Sudias, seventy and four.

²⁷The holy singers: the sons of Asaph, an hundred twenty and eight.

²⁸The porters: the sons of Salum, the sons of Jatal, the sons of Talmon, the sons of Dacobi, the sons of Teta, the sons of Sami, in all an hundred thirty and nine.

²⁹The servants of the temple: the sons of Esau, the sons of Asipha, the sons of Tabaoth, the sons of Ceras, the sons of Sud, the sons of Phaleas, the sons of Labana, the sons of Graba, ³⁰The sons of Acua, the sons of Uta, the sons of Cetab, the sons of Agaba, the sons of Subai, the sons of Anan, the sons of Cathua, the sons of Geddur, ³¹The sons of Airus, the sons of Daisan, the sons of Noeba, the sons of Chaseba, the sons of Gazera, the sons of Azia, the sons of Phinees, the sons of Azare, the sons of Bastai, the sons of Asana, the sons of Meani, the sons of Naphisi, the sons of Acub, the sons of Acipha, the sons of Assur, the sons of Pharacim, the sons of Basaloth, ³²The sons of Meeda, the sons of Coutha, the sons of Charea, the sons of Charcus, the sons of Aserer, the sons of Thomoi, the sons of Nasith, the sons of Atipha.

1st Esdras

³³The sons of the servants of Solomon: the sons of Azaphion, the sons of Pharira, the sons of Jeeli, the sons of Lozon, the sons of Israel, the sons of Sapheth, ³⁴The sons of Hagia, the sons of Pharacareth, the sons of Sabi, the sons of Sarothie, the sons of Masias, the sons of Gar, the sons of Addus, the sons of Suba, the sons of Apherra, the sons of Barodis, the sons of Sabat, the sons of Allom.

³⁵All the ministers of the temple, and the sons of the servants of Solomon, were three hundred seventy and two.

³⁶These came up from Thermeleth and Thelersas, Charaathalar leading them, and Aalar; ³⁷Neither could they shew their families, nor their stock, how they were of Israel: the sons of Ladan, the son of Ban, the sons of Necodan, six hundred fifty and two.

³⁸And of the priests that usurped the office of the priesthood, and were not found: the sons of Obdia, the sons of Accoz, the sons of Addus, who married Augia one of the daughters of Barzelus, and was named after his name.

³⁹And when the description of the kindred of these men was sought in the register, and was not found, they were removed from executing the office of the priesthood:

⁴⁰For unto them said Nehemias and Atharias, that they should not be partakers of the holy things, till there arose up an high priest clothed with doctrine and truth.

⁴¹So of Israel, from them of twelve years old and upward, they were all in number forty thousand, beside menservants and womenservants two thousand three hundred and sixty.

⁴²Their menservants and handmaids were seven thousand three hundred forty and seven: the singing men and singing women, two hundred forty and five:

⁴³Four hundred thirty and five camels, seven thousand thirty and six horses, two hundred forty and five mules, five thousand five hundred twenty and five beasts used to the yoke.

⁴⁴And certain of the chief of their families, when they came to the temple of God that is in Jerusalem, vowed to set up the house again in his own place according to their ability, ⁴⁵And to give into the holy treasury of the works a thousand pounds of gold, five thousand of silver, and an hundred priestly vestments.

⁴⁶And so dwelt the priests and the Levites and the people in Jerusalem, and in the country, the singers also and the porters; and all Israel in their villages.

⁴⁷But when the seventh month was at hand, and when the children of Israel were every man in his own place, they came all together with one consent into the open place of the first gate which is toward the east.

1st Esdras

⁴⁸Then stood up Jesus the son of Josedec, and his brethren the priests and Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, and his brethren, and made ready the altar of the God of Israel, ⁴⁹To offer burnt sacrifices upon it, according as it is expressly commanded in the book of Moses the man of God.

⁵⁰And there were gathered unto them out of the other nations of the land, and they erected the altar upon his own place, because all the nations of the land were at enmity with them, and oppressed them; and they offered sacrifices according to the time, and burnt offerings to the Lord both morning and evening.

⁵¹Also they held the feast of tabernacles, as it is commanded in the law, and offered sacrifices daily, as was meet:

⁵²And after that, the continual oblations, and the sacrifice of the sabbaths, and of the new moons, and of all holy feasts.

⁵³And all they that had made any vow to God began to offer sacrifices to God from the first day of the seventh month, although the temple of the Lord was not yet built.

⁵⁴And they gave unto the masons and carpenters money, meat, and drink, with cheerfulness.

⁵⁵Unto them of Zidon also and Tyre they gave carrs, that they should bring cedar trees from Libanus, which should be brought by floats to the haven of Joppa, according as it was commanded them by Cyrus king of the Persians.

⁵⁶And in the second year and second month after his coming to the temple of God at Jerusalem began Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, and Jesus the son of Josedec, and their brethren, and the priests, and the Levites, and all they that were come unto Jerusalem out of the captivity:

⁵⁷And they laid the foundation of the house of God in the first day of the second month, in the second year after they were come to Jewry and Jerusalem.

⁵⁸And they appointed the Levites from twenty years old over the works of the Lord. Then stood up Jesus, and his sons and brethren, and Cadmiel his brother, and the sons of Madiabun, with the sons of Joda the son of Eliadun, with their sons and brethren, all Levites, with one accord setters forward of the business, labouring to advance the works in the house of God. So the workmen built the temple of the Lord.

⁵⁹And the priests stood arrayed in their vestments with musical instruments and trumpets; and the Levites the sons of Asaph had cymbals, ⁶⁰Singing songs of thanksgiving, and praising the Lord, according as David the king of Israel had ordained.

⁶¹And they sung with loud voices songs to the praise of the Lord, because his mercy and glory is for ever in all Israel.

1st Esdras

⁶²And all the people sounded trumpets, and shouted with a loud voice, singing songs of thanksgiving unto the Lord for the rearing up of the house of the Lord.

⁶³Also of the priests and Levites, and of the chief of their families, the ancients who had seen the former house came to the building of this with weeping and great crying.

⁶⁴But many with trumpets and joy shouted with loud voice,

⁶⁵Insomuch that the trumpets might not be heard for the weeping of the people: yet the multitude sounded marvellously, so that it was heard afar off.

⁶⁶Wherefore when the enemies of the tribe of Judah and Benjamin heard it, they came to know what that noise of trumpets should mean.

⁶⁷And they perceived that they that were of the captivity did build the temple unto the Lord God of Israel.

⁶⁸So they went to Zorobabel and Jesus, and to the chief of the families, and said unto them, We will build together with you.

⁶⁹For we likewise, as ye, do obey your Lord, and do sacrifice unto him from the days of Azbarezeth the king of the Assyrians, who brought us hither.

⁷⁰Then Zorobabel and Jesus and the chief of the families of Israel said unto them, It is not for us and you to build together an house unto the Lord our God.

⁷¹We ourselves alone will build unto the Lord of Israel, according as Cyrus the king of the Persians hath commanded us.

⁷²But the heathen of the land lying heavy upon the inhabitants of Judea, and holding them strait, hindered their building;

⁷³And by their secret plots, and popular persuasions and commotions, they hindered the finishing of the building all the time that king Cyrus lived: so they were hindered from building for the space of two years, until the reign of Darius.

CHAPTER 6

¹Now in the second year of the reign of Darius Aggeus and Zacharias the son of Addo, the prophets, prophesied unto the Jews in Jewry and Jerusalem in the name of the Lord God of Israel, which was upon them.

²Then stood up Zorobabel the son of Salatiel, and Jesus the son of Josedec, and began to build the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, the prophets of the Lord being with them, and helping them.

³At the same time came unto them Sisinnus the governor of Syria and Phenice, with Sathrabuzanes and his companions, and said unto them, ⁴By whose appointment do ye build this house and this roof, and perform all the other things? and who are the workmen that perform these things?

⁵Nevertheless the elders of the Jews obtained favour, because the Lord had visited the captivity;

1st Esdras

⁶And they were not hindered from building, until such time as signification was given unto Darius concerning them, and an answer received.

⁷The copy of the letters which Sisinnus, governor of Syria and Phenice, and Sathrabuzanes, with their companions, rulers in Syria and Phenice, wrote and sent unto Darius; To king Darius, greeting:

⁸Let all things be known unto our lord the king, that being come into the country of Judea, and entered into the city of Jerusalem we found in the city of Jerusalem the ancients of the Jews that were of the captivity ⁹Building an house unto the Lord, great and new, of hewn and costly stones, and the timber already laid upon the walls.

¹⁰And those works are done with great speed, and the work goeth on prosperously in their hands, and with all glory and diligence is it made.

¹¹Then asked we these elders, saying, By whose commandment build ye this house, and lay the foundations of these works?

¹²Therefore to the intent that we might give knowledge unto thee by writing, we demanded of them who were the chief doers, and we required of them the names in writing of their principal men.

¹³So they gave us this answer, We are the servants of the Lord which made heaven and earth.

¹⁴And as for this house, it was builded many years ago by a king of Israel great and strong, and was finished.

¹⁵But when our fathers provoked God unto wrath, and sinned against the Lord of Israel which is in heaven, he gave them over into the power of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, of the Chaldees;

¹⁶Who pulled down the house, and burned it, and carried away the people captives unto Babylon.

¹⁷But in the first year that king Cyrus reigned over the country of Babylon Cyrus the king wrote to build up this house.

¹⁸And the holy vessels of gold and of silver, that Nabuchodonosor had carried away out of the house at Jerusalem, and had set them in his own temple those Cyrus the king brought forth again out of the temple at Babylon, and they were delivered to Zorobabel and to Sanabassar the ruler, ¹⁹With commandment that he should carry away the same vessels, and put them in the temple at Jerusalem; and that the temple of the Lord should be built in his place.

²⁰Then the same Sanabassar, being come hither, laid the foundations of the house of the Lord at Jerusalem; and from that time to this being still a building, it is not yet fully ended.

²¹Now therefore, if it seem good unto the king, let search be made among the records of king Cyrus:

1st Esdras

²²And if it be found that the building of the house of the Lord at Jerusalem hath been done with the consent of king Cyrus, and if our lord the king be so minded, let him signify unto us thereof.

²³Then commanded king Darius to seek among the records at Babylon: and so at Ecbatane the palace, which is in the country of Media, there was found a roll wherein these things were recorded.

²⁴In the first year of the reign of Cyrus king Cyrus commanded that the house of the Lord at Jerusalem should be built again, where they do sacrifice with continual fire:

²⁵Whose height shall be sixty cubits and the breadth sixty cubits, with three rows of hewn stones, and one row of new wood of that country; and the expences thereof to be given out of the house of king Cyrus:

²⁶And that the holy vessels of the house of the Lord, both of gold and silver, that Nabuchodonosor took out of the house at Jerusalem, and brought to Babylon, should be restored to the house at Jerusalem, and be set in the place where they were before.

²⁷And also he commanded that Sisinnus the governor of Syria and Phenice, and Sathrabuzanes, and their companions, and those which were appointed rulers in Syria and Phenice, should be careful not to meddle with the place, but suffer Zorobabel, the servant of the Lord, and governor of Judea, and the elders of the Jews, to build the house of the Lord in that place.

²⁸I have commanded also to have it built up whole again; and that they look diligently to help those that be of the captivity of the Jews, till the house of the Lord be finished:

²⁹And out of the tribute of Celosyria and Phenice a portion carefully to be given these men for the sacrifices of the Lord, that is, to Zorobabel the governor, for bullocks, and rams, and lambs;

³⁰And also corn, salt, wine, and oil, and that continually every year without further question, according as the priests that be in Jerusalem shall signify to be daily spent:

³¹That offerings may be made to the most high God for the king and for his children, and that they may pray for their lives.

³²And he commanded that whosoever should transgress, yea, or make light of any thing afore spoken or written, out of his own house should a tree be taken, and he thereon be hanged, and all his goods seized for the king.

³³The Lord therefore, whose name is there called upon, utterly destroy every king and nation, that stretcheth out his hand to hinder or endamage that house of the Lord in Jerusalem.

³⁴I Darius the king have ordained that according unto these things it be done with diligence.

1st Esdras

CHAPTER 7

¹Then Sisinnus the governor of Celosyria and Phenice, and Sathrabuzanes, with their companions following the commandments of king Darius, ²Did very carefully oversee the holy works, assisting the ancients of the Jews and governors of the temple.

³And so the holy works prospered, when Aggeus and Zacharias the prophets prophesied.

⁴And they finished these things by the commandment of the Lord God of Israel, and with the consent of Cyrus, Darius, and Artaxerxes, kings of Persia.

⁵And thus was the holy house finished in the three and twentieth day of the month Adar, in the sixth year of Darius king of the Persians ⁶And the children of Israel, the priests, and the Levites, and others that were of the captivity, that were added unto them, did according to the things written in the book of Moses.

⁷And to the dedication of the temple of the Lord they offered an hundred bullocks two hundred rams, four hundred lambs;

⁸And twelve goats for the sin of all Israel, according to the number of the chief of the tribes of Israel.

⁹The priests also and the Levites stood arrayed in their vestments, according to their kindreds, in the service of the Lord God of Israel, according to the book of Moses: and the porters at every gate.

¹⁰And the children of Israel that were of the captivity held the passover the fourteenth day of the first month, after that the priests and the Levites were sanctified.

¹¹They that were of the captivity were not all sanctified together: but the Levites were all sanctified together.

¹²And so they offered the passover for all them of the captivity, and for their brethren the priests, and for themselves.

¹³And the children of Israel that came out of the captivity did eat, even all they that had separated themselves from the abominations of the people of the land, and sought the Lord.

¹⁴And they kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days, making merry before the Lord, ¹⁵For that he had turned the counsel of the king of Assyria toward them, to strengthen their hands in the works of the Lord God of Israel.

CHAPTER 8

¹And after these things, when Artaxerxes the king of the Persians reigned came Esdras the son of Saraïas, the son of Ezerias, the son of Helchiah, the son of Salum, ²The son of Sadduc, the son of Achitob, the son of Amarias, the son of Ezias, the son of Meremoth, the son of Zariaas, the son of Savias, the son of Boccas, the son of Abisum, the son of Phinees, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the chief priest.

³This Esdras went up from Babylon, as a scribe, being very ready in the law of Moses, that was given by the God of Israel.

⁴And the king did him honour: for he found grace in his sight in all his requests.

⁵There went up with him also certain of the children of Israel, of the priest of the Levites, of the holy singers, porters, and ministers of the temple, unto Jerusalem, ⁶In the seventh year of the reign of Artaxerxes, in the fifth month, this was the king's seventh year; for they went from Babylon in the first day of the first month, and came to Jerusalem, according to the prosperous journey which the Lord gave them.

⁷For Esdras had very great skill, so that he omitted nothing of the law and commandments of the Lord, but taught all Israel the ordinances and judgments.

⁸Now the copy of the commission, which was written from Artaxerxes the king, and came to Esdras the priest and reader of the law of the Lord, is this that followeth;

⁹King Artaxerxes unto Esdras the priest and reader of the law of the Lord sendeth greeting:

¹⁰Having determined to deal graciously, I have given order, that such of the nation of the Jews, and of the priests and Levites being within our realm, as are willing and desirous should go with thee unto Jerusalem.

¹¹As many therefore as have a mind thereunto, let them depart with thee, as it hath seemed good both to me and my seven friends the counsellors;

¹²That they may look unto the affairs of Judea and Jerusalem, agreeably to that which is in the law of the Lord;

¹³And carry the gifts unto the Lord of Israel to Jerusalem, which I and my friends have vowed, and all the gold and silver that in the country of Babylon can be found, to the Lord in Jerusalem,

¹⁴With that also which is given of the people for the temple of the Lord their God at Jerusalem: and that silver and gold may be collected for bullocks, rams, and lambs, and things thereunto appertaining;

¹⁵To the end that they may offer sacrifices unto the Lord upon the altar of the Lord their God, which is in Jerusalem.

¹⁶And whatsoever thou and thy brethren will do with the silver and gold, that do, according to the will of thy God.

¹⁷And the holy vessels of the Lord, which are given thee for the use of the temple of thy God, which is in Jerusalem, thou shalt set before thy God in Jerusalem.

¹⁸And whatsoever thing else thou shalt remember for the use of the temple of thy God, thou shalt give it out of the king's treasury.

¹⁹And I king Artaxerxes have also commanded the keepers of the treasures in Syria and Phenice, that whatsoever Esdras the priest and the reader of the law of the most high God shall send for, they should give it him with speed, ²⁰To the sum of an hundred talents of silver, likewise also of wheat even to an hundred cors, and an hundred pieces of wine, and other things in abundance.

1st Esdras

²¹Let all things be performed after the law of God diligently unto the most high God, that wrath come not upon the kingdom of the king and his sons.

²²I command you also, that ye require no tax, nor any other imposition, of any of the priests, or Levites, or holy singers, or porters, or ministers of the temple, or of any that have doings in this temple, and that no man have authority to impose any thing upon them.

²³And thou, Esdras, according to the wisdom of God ordain judges and justices, that they may judge in all Syria and Phenice all those that know the law of thy God; and those that know it not thou shalt teach.

²⁴And whosoever shall transgress the law of thy God, and of the king, shall be punished diligently, whether it be by death, or other punishment, by penalty of money, or by imprisonment.

²⁵Then said Esdras the scribe, Blessed be the only Lord God of my fathers, who hath put these things into the heart of the king, to glorify his house that is in Jerusalem:

²⁶And hath honoured me in the sight of the king, and his counsellors, and all his friends and nobles.

²⁷Therefore was I encouraged by the help of the Lord my God, and gathered together men of Israel to go up with me.

²⁸And these are the chief according to their families and several dignities, that went up with me from Babylon in the reign of king Artaxerxes:

²⁹Of the sons of Phinees, Gerson: of the sons of Ithamar, Gamael: of the sons of David, Lettus the son of Sechenias:

³⁰Of the sons of Pharez, Zacharias; and with him were counted an hundred and fifty men:

³¹Of the sons of Pahath Moab, Eliaonias, the son of Zariaias, and with him two hundred men:

³²Of the sons of Zathoe, Sechenias the son of Jezelus, and with him three hundred men: of the sons of Adin, Obeth the son of Jonathan, and with him two hundred and fifty men:

³³Of the sons of Elam, Josias son of Gotholias, and with him seventy men:

³⁴Of the sons of Saphatias, Zariaias son of Michael, and with him threescore and ten men:

³⁵Of the sons of Joab, Abadiah son of Jezelus, and with him two hundred and twelve men:

³⁶Of the sons of Banid, Assalimoth son of Josaphias, and with him an hundred and threescore men:

1st Esdras

³⁷Of the sons of Babi, Zacharias son of Bebai, and with him twenty and eight men:

³⁸Of the sons of Astath, Johannes son of Acatan, and with him an hundred and ten men:

³⁹Of the sons of Adonikam the last, and these are the names of them, Eliphalet, Jewel, and Samaias, and with them seventy men:

⁴⁰Of the sons of Bago, Uthi the son of Istalcurus, and with him seventy men.

⁴¹And these I gathered together to the river called Theras, where we pitched our tents three days: and then I surveyed them.

⁴²But when I had found there none of the priests and Levites, ⁴³Then sent I unto Eleazar, and Iduel, and Masman, ⁴⁴And Alnathan, and Mamaias, and Joribas, and Nathan, Eunatan, Zacharias, and Mosollamon, principal men and learned.

⁴⁵And I bade them that they should go unto Saddeus the captain, who was in the place of the treasury:

⁴⁶And commanded them that they should speak unto Daddeus, and to his brethren, and to the treasurers in that place, to send us such men as might execute the priests' office in the house of the Lord.

⁴⁷And by the mighty hand of our Lord they brought unto us skilful men of the sons of Moli the son of Levi, the son of Israel, Asebebia, and his sons, and his brethren, who were eighteen.

⁴⁸And Asebia, and Annus, and Osaías his brother, of the sons of Channuneus, and their sons, were twenty men.

⁴⁹And of the servants of the temple whom David had ordained, and the principal men for the service of the Levites to wit, the servants of the temple two hundred and twenty, the catalogue of whose names were shewed.

⁵⁰And there I vowed a fast unto the young men before our Lord, to desire of him a prosperous journey both for us and them that were with us, for our children, and for the cattle:

⁵¹For I was ashamed to ask the king footmen, and horsemen, and conduct for safeguard against our adversaries.

⁵²For we had said unto the king, that the power of the Lord our God should be with them that seek him, to support them in all ways.

⁵³And again we besought our Lord as touching these things, and found him favourable unto us.

⁵⁴Then I separated twelve of the chief of the priests, Esebrias, and Assanias, and ten men of their brethren with them:

⁵⁵And I weighed them the gold, and the silver, and the holy vessels of the house of our Lord, which the king, and his council, and the princes, and all Israel, had given.

⁵⁶And when I had weighed it, I delivered unto them six hundred and fifty talents of silver, and silver vessels of an hundred talents, and an hundred talents of gold, ⁵⁷And twenty golden vessels, and twelve vessels of brass, even of fine brass, glittering like gold.

⁵⁸And I said unto them, Both ye are holy unto the Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the gold and the silver is a vow unto the Lord, the Lord of our fathers.

⁵⁹Watch ye, and keep them till ye deliver them to the chief of the priests and Levites, and to the principal men of the families of Israel, in Jerusalem, into the chambers of the house of our God.

⁶⁰So the priests and the Levites, who had received the silver and the gold and the vessels, brought them unto Jerusalem, into the temple of the Lord.

⁶¹And from the river Theras we departed the twelfth day of the first month, and came to Jerusalem by the mighty hand of our Lord, which was with us: and from the beginning of our journey the Lord delivered us from every enemy, and so we came to Jerusalem.

⁶²And when we had been there three days, the gold and silver that was weighed was delivered in the house of our Lord on the fourth day unto Marmoth the priest the son of Iri.

⁶³And with him was Eleazar the son of Phinees, and with them were Josabad the son of Jesu and Moeth the son of Sabban, Levites: all was delivered them by number and weight.

⁶⁴And all the weight of them was written up the same hour.

⁶⁵Moreover they that were come out of the captivity offered sacrifice unto the Lord God of Israel, even twelve bullocks for all Israel, fourscore and sixteen rams, ⁶⁶Threescore and twelve lambs, goats for a peace offering, twelve; all of them a sacrifice to the Lord.

⁶⁷And they delivered the king's commandments unto the king's stewards' and to the governors of Celosyria and Phenice; and they honoured the people and the temple of God.

⁶⁸Now when these things were done, the rulers came unto me, and said, ⁶⁹The nation of Israel, the princes, the priests and Levites, have not put away from them the strange people of the land, nor the pollutions of the Gentiles to wit, of the Canaanites, Hittites, Pheresites, Jebusites, and the Moabites, Egyptians, and Edomites.

⁷⁰For both they and their sons have married with their daughters, and the holy seed is mixed with the strange people of the land; and from the beginning of this matter the rulers and the great men have been partakers of this iniquity.

⁷¹And as soon as I had heard these things, I rent my clothes, and the holy garment, and pulled off the hair from off my head and beard, and sat me down sad and very heavy.

⁷²So all they that were then moved at the word of the Lord God of Israel assembled unto me, whilst I mourned for the iniquity: but I sat still full of heaviness until the evening sacrifice.

⁷³Then rising up from the fast with my clothes and the holy garment rent, and bowing my knees, and stretching forth my hands unto the Lord,

⁷⁴I said, O Lord, I am confounded and ashamed before thy face;

⁷⁵For our sins are multiplied above our heads, and our ignorances have reached up unto heaven.

⁷⁶For ever since the time of our fathers we have been and are in great sin, even unto this day.

⁷⁷And for our sins and our fathers' we with our brethren and our kings and our priests were given up unto the kings of the earth, to the sword, and to captivity, and for a prey with shame, unto this day.

⁷⁸And now in some measure hath mercy been shewed unto us from thee, O Lord, that there should be left us a root and a name in the place of thy sanctuary;

⁷⁹And to discover unto us a light in the house of the Lord our God, and to give us food in the time of our servitude.

⁸⁰Yea, when we were in bondage, we were not forsaken of our Lord; but he made us gracious before the kings of Persia, so that they gave us food;

⁸¹Yea, and honoured the temple of our Lord, and raised up the desolate Sion, that they have given us a sure abiding in Jewry and Jerusalem.

⁸²And now, O Lord, what shall we say, having these things? for we have transgressed thy commandments, which thou gavest by the hand of thy servants the prophets, saying, ⁸³That the land, which ye enter into to possess as an heritage, is a land polluted with the pollutions of the strangers of the land, and they have filled it with their uncleanness.

⁸⁴Therefore now shall ye not join your daughters unto their sons, neither shall ye take their daughters unto your sons.

⁸⁵Moreover ye shall never seek to have peace with them, that ye may be strong, and eat the good things of the land, and that ye may leave the inheritance of the land unto your children for evermore.

⁸⁶And all that is befallen is done unto us for our wicked works and great sins; for thou, O Lord, didst make our sins light, ⁸⁷And didst give unto us such a root: but we have turned back again to transgress thy law, and to mingle ourselves with the uncleanness of the nations of the land.

⁸⁸Mightest not thou be angry with us to destroy us, till thou hadst left us neither root, seed, nor name?

⁸⁹O Lord of Israel, thou art true: for we are left a root this day.

⁹⁰Behold, now are we before thee in our iniquities, for we cannot stand any longer by reason of these things before thee.

1st Esdras

⁹¹And as Esdras in his prayer made his confession, weeping, and lying flat upon the ground before the temple, there gathered unto him from Jerusalem a very great multitude of men and women and children: for there was great weeping among the multitude.

⁹²Then Jechonias the son of Jeelus, one of the sons of Israel, called out, and said, O Esdras, we have sinned against the Lord God, we have married strange women of the nations of the land, and now is all Israel aloft.

⁹³Let us make an oath to the Lord, that we will put away all our wives, which we have taken of the heathen, with their children, ⁹⁴Like as thou hast decreed, and as many as do obey the law of the Lord.

⁹⁵Arise and put in execution: for to thee doth this matter appertain, and we will be with thee: do valiantly.

⁹⁶So Esdras arose, and took an oath of the chief of the priests and Levites of all Israel to do after these things; and so they sware.

CHAPTER 9

¹And after these things, when Artexerxes the king of the Persians reigned came Esdras the son of Saraias, the son of Ezerias, the son of Helchiah, the son of Salum,

²The son of Sadduc, the son of Achitob, the son of Amarias, the son of Ezias, the son of Meremoth, the son of Zariaas, the son of Savias, the son of Boccas, the son of Abisum, the son of Phinees, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the chief priest.

³This Esdras went up from Babylon, as a scribe, being very ready in the law of Moses, that was given by the God of Israel.

⁴And the king did him honour: for he found grace in his sight in all his requests.

⁵There went up with him also certain of the children of Israel, of the priest of the Levites, of the holy singers, porters, and ministers of the temple, unto Jerusalem,

2nd Esdras

Also known as the 4th Ezra

CHAPTER 1

¹The second book of the prophet Esdras, the son of Saraias, the son of Azarias, the son of Helchias, the son of Sadamias, the son of Sadoc, the son of Achitob, ²The son of Achias, the son of Phinees, the son of Heli, the son of Amarias, the son of Aziei, the son of Marimoth, the son of And he spake unto the of Borith, the son of Abisei, the son of Phinees, the son of Eleazar, ³The son of Aaron, of the tribe of Levi; which was captive in the land of the Medes, in the reign of Artaxerxes king of the Persians.

⁴And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

⁵Go thy way, and shew my people their sinful deeds, and their children their wickedness which they have done against me; that they may tell their children's children:

⁶Because the sins of their fathers are increased in them: for they have forgotten me, and have offered unto strange gods.

⁷Am not I even he that brought them out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage? but they have provoked me unto wrath, and despised my counsels.

⁸Pull thou off then the hair of thy head, and cast all evil upon them, for they have not been obedient unto my law, but it is a rebellious people.

⁹How long shall I forbear them, into whom I have done so much good?

¹⁰Many kings have I destroyed for their sakes; Pharaoh with his servants and all his power have I smitten down.

¹¹All the nations have I destroyed before them, and in the east I have scattered the people of two provinces, even of Tyrus and Sidon, and have slain all their enemies.

¹²Speak thou therefore unto them, saying, Thus saith the Lord, ¹³I led you through the sea and in the beginning gave you a large and safe passage; I gave you Moses for a leader, and Aaron for a priest.

¹⁴I gave you light in a pillar of fire, and great wonders have I done among you; yet have ye forgotten me, saith the Lord.

¹⁵Thus saith the Almighty Lord, The quails were as a token to you; I gave you tents for your safeguard: nevertheless ye murmured there, ¹⁶And triumphed not in my name for the destruction of your enemies, but ever to this day do ye yet murmur.

¹⁷Where are the benefits that I have done for you? when ye were hungry and thirsty in the wilderness, did ye not cry unto me,

¹⁸Saying, Why hast thou brought us into this wilderness to kill us? it had been better for us to have served the Egyptians, than to die in this wilderness.

¹⁹Then had I pity upon your mournings, and gave you manna to eat; so ye did eat angels' bread.

²⁰When ye were thirsty, did I not cleave the rock, and waters flowed out to your fill? for the heat I covered you with the leaves of the trees.

²¹I divided among you a fruitful land, I cast out the Canaanites, the Pherezites, and the Philistines, before you: what shall I yet do more for you? saith the Lord.

²²Thus saith the Almighty Lord, When ye were in the wilderness, in the river of the Amorites, being athirst, and blaspheming my name, ²³I gave you not fire for your blasphemies, but cast a tree in the water, and made the river sweet.

²⁴What shall I do unto thee, O Jacob? thou, Juda, wouldest not obey me: I will turn me to other nations, and unto those will I give my name, that they may keep my statutes.

²⁵Seeing ye have forsaken me, I will forsake you also; when ye desire me to be gracious unto you, I shall have no mercy upon you.

²⁶Whensoever ye shall call upon me, I will not hear you: for ye have defiled your hands with blood, and your feet are swift to commit manslaughter.

²⁷Ye have not as it were forsaken me, but your own selves, saith the Lord.

²⁸Thus saith the Almighty Lord, Have I not prayed you as a father his sons, as a mother her daughters, and a nurse her young babes, ²⁹That ye would be my people, and I should be your God; that ye would be my children, and I should be your father?

³⁰I gathered you together, as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings: but now, what shall I do unto you? I will cast you out from my face.

³¹When ye offer unto me, I will turn my face from you: for your solemn feastdays, your new moons, and your circumcisions, have I forsaken.

³²I sent unto you my servants the prophets, whom ye have taken and slain, and torn their bodies in pieces, whose blood I will require of your hands, saith the Lord.

³³Thus saith the Almighty Lord, Your house is desolate, I will cast you out as the wind doth stubble.

³⁴And your children shall not be fruitful; for they have despised my commandment, and done the thing that is an evil before me.

³⁵Your houses will I give to a people that shall come; which not having heard of me yet shall believe me; to whom I have shewed no signs, yet they shall do that I have commanded them.

³⁶They have seen no prophets, yet they shall call their sins to remembrance, and acknowledge them.

³⁷I take to witness the grace of the people to come, whose little ones rejoice in gladness: and though they have not seen me with bodily eyes, yet in spirit they believe the thing that I say.

2nd Esdras

³⁸And now, brother, behold what glory; and see the people that come from the east:

³⁹Unto whom I will give for leaders, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, Oseas, Amos, and Micheas, Joel, Abdias, and Jonas, ⁴⁰Nahum, and Abacuc, Sophonias, Aggeus, Zachary, and Malachy, which is called also an angel of the Lord.

CHAPTER 2

¹Thus saith the Lord, I brought this people out of bondage, and I gave them my commandments by menservants the prophets; whom they would not hear, but despised my counsels.

²The mother that bare them saith unto them, Go your way, ye children; for I am a widow and forsaken.

³I brought you up with gladness; but with sorrow and heaviness have I lost you: for ye have sinned before the Lord your God, and done that thing that is evil before him.

⁴But what shall I now do unto you? I am a widow and forsaken: go your way, O my children, and ask mercy of the Lord.

⁵As for me, O father, I call upon thee for a witness over the mother of these children, which would not keep my covenant, ⁶That thou bring them to confusion, and their mother to a spoil, that there may be no offspring of them.

⁷Let them be scattered abroad among the heathen, let their names be put out of the earth: for they have despised my covenant.

⁸Woe be unto thee, Assur, thou that hidest the unrighteous in thee! O thou wicked people, remember what I did unto Sodom and Gomorrha; ⁹Whose land lieth in clods of pitch and heaps of ashes: even so also will I do unto them that hear me not, saith the Almighty Lord.

¹⁰Thus saith the Lord unto Esdras, Tell my people that I will give them the kingdom of Jerusalem, which I would have given unto Israel.

¹¹Their glory also will I take unto me, and give these the everlasting tabernacles, which I had prepared for them.

¹²They shall have the tree of life for an ointment of sweet savour; they shall neither labour, nor be weary.

¹³Go, and ye shall receive: pray for few days unto you, that they may be shortened: the kingdom is already prepared for you: watch.

¹⁴Take heaven and earth to witness; for I have broken the evil in pieces, and created the good: for I live, saith the Lord.

¹⁵Mother, embrace thy children, and bring them up with gladness, make their feet as fast as a pillar: for I have chosen thee, saith the Lord.

2nd Esdras

¹⁶And those that be dead will I raise up again from their places, and bring them out of the graves: for I have known my name in Israel.

¹⁷Fear not, thou mother of the children: for I have chosen thee, saith the Lord.

¹⁸For thy help will I send my servants Esau and Jeremy, after whose counsel I have sanctified and prepared for thee twelve trees laden with divers fruits, ¹⁹And as many fountains flowing with milk and honey, and seven mighty mountains, whereupon there grow roses and lilies, whereby I will fill thy children with joy.

²⁰Do right to the widow, judge for the fatherless, give to the poor, defend the orphan, clothe the naked, ²¹Heal the broken and the weak, laugh not a lame man to scorn, defend the maimed, and let the blind man come into the sight of my clearness.

²²Keep the old and young within thy walls.

²³Wheresoever thou findest the dead, take them and bury them, and I will give thee the first place in my resurrection.

²⁴Abide still, O my people, and take thy rest, for thy quietness still come.

²⁵Nourish thy children, O thou good nurse; stablish their feet.

²⁶As for the servants whom I have given thee, there shall not one of them perish; for I will require them from among thy number.

²⁷Be not weary: for when the day of trouble and heaviness cometh, others shall weep and be sorrowful, but thou shalt be merry and have abundance.

²⁸The heathen shall envy thee, but they shall be able to do nothing against thee, saith the Lord.

²⁹My hands shall cover thee, so that thy children shall not see hell.

³⁰Be joyful, O thou mother, with thy children; for I will deliver thee, saith the Lord.

³¹Remember thy children that sleep, for I shall bring them out of the sides of the earth, and shew mercy unto them: for I am merciful, saith the Lord Almighty.

³²Embrace thy children until I come and shew mercy unto them: for my wells run over, and my grace shall not fail.

³³I Esdras received a charge of the Lord upon the mount Oreb, that I should go unto Israel; but when I came unto them, they set me at nought, and despised the commandment of the Lord.

³⁴And therefore I say unto you, O ye heathen, that hear and understand, look for your Shepherd, he shall give you everlasting rest; for he is nigh at hand, that shall come in the end of the world.

³⁵Be ready to the reward of the kingdom, for the everlasting light shall shine upon you for evermore.

³⁶Flee the shadow of this world, receive the joyfulness of your glory: I testify my Saviour openly.

³⁷O receive the gift that is given you, and be glad, giving thanks unto him that hath led you to the heavenly kingdom.

³⁸Arise up and stand, behold the number of those that be sealed in the feast of the Lord;

³⁹Which are departed from the shadow of the world, and have received glorious garments of the Lord.

⁴⁰Take thy number, O Sion, and shut up those of thine that are clothed in white, which have fulfilled the law of the Lord.

⁴¹The number of thy children, whom thou longedst for, is fulfilled: beseech the power of the Lord, that thy people, which have been called from the beginning, may be hallowed.

⁴²I Esdras saw upon the mount Sion a great people, whom I could not number, and they all praised the Lord with songs.

⁴³And in the midst of them there was a young man of a high stature, taller than all the rest, and upon every one of their heads he set crowns, and was more exalted; which I marvelled at greatly.

⁴⁴So I asked the angel, and said, Sir, what are these?

⁴⁵He answered and said unto me, These be they that have put off the mortal clothing, and put on the immortal, and have confessed the name of God: now are they crowned, and receive palms.

⁴⁶Then said I unto the angel, What young person is it that crowneth them, and giveth them palms in their hands?

⁴⁷So he answered and said unto me, It is the Son of God, whom they have confessed in the world. Then began I greatly to commend them that stood so stiffly for the name of the Lord.

⁴⁸Then the angel said unto me, Go thy way, and tell my people what manner of things, and how great wonders of the Lord thy God, thou hast seen.

CHAPTER 3

¹In the thirtieth year after the ruin of the city I was in Babylon, and lay troubled upon my bed, and my thoughts came up over my heart:

²For I saw the desolation of Sion, and the wealth of them that dwelt at Babylon.

³And my spirit was sore moved, so that I began to speak words full of fear to the most High, and said,

⁴O Lord, who bearest rule, thou spakest at the beginning, when thou didst plant the earth, and that thyself alone, and commandedst the people, ⁵And gavest a body unto Adam without soul, which was the workmanship of thine hands, and didst breathe into him the breath of life, and he was made living before thee.

⁶And thou leadest him into paradise, which thy right hand had planted, before ever the earth came forward.

⁷And unto him thou gavest commandment to love thy way: which he transgressed, and immediately thou appointedst death in him and in his generations, of whom came nations, tribes, people, and kindreds, out of number.

2nd Esdras

⁸And every people walked after their own will, and did wonderful things before thee, and despised thy commandments.

⁹And again in process of time thou broughtest the flood upon those that dwelt in the world, and destroyedst them.

¹⁰And it came to pass in every of them, that as death was to Adam, so was the flood to these.

¹¹Nevertheless one of them thou leftest, namely, Noah with his household, of whom came all righteous men.

¹²And it happened, that when they that dwelt upon the earth began to multiply, and had gotten them many children, and were a great people, they began again to be more ungodly than the first.

¹³Now when they lived so wickedly before thee, thou didst choose thee a man from among them, whose name was Abraham.

¹⁴Him thou lovedst, and unto him only thou shewedst thy will:

¹⁵And madest an everlasting covenant with him, promising him that thou wouldest never forsake his seed.

¹⁶And unto him thou gavest Isaac, and unto Isaac also thou gavest Jacob and Esau. As for Jacob, thou didst choose him to thee, and put by Esau: and so Jacob became a great multitude.

¹⁷And it came to pass, that when thou leadest his seed out of Egypt, thou broughtest them up to the mount Sinai.

¹⁸And bowing the heavens, thou didst set fast the earth, movedst the whole world, and madest the depths to tremble, and troubledst the men of that age.

¹⁹And thy glory went through four gates, of fire, and of earthquake, and of wind, and of cold; that thou mightest give the law unto the seed of Jacob, and diligence unto the generation of Israel.

²⁰And yet tookest thou not away from them a wicked heart, that thy law might bring forth fruit in them.

²¹For the first Adam bearing a wicked heart transgressed, and was overcome; and so be all they that are born of him.

²²Thus infirmity was made permanent; and the law (also) in the heart of the people with the malignity of the root; so that the good departed away, and the evil abode still.

²³So the times passed away, and the years were brought to an end: then didst thou raise thee up a servant, called David:

²⁴Whom thou commandedst to build a city unto thy name, and to offer incense and oblations unto thee therein.

²⁵When this was done many years, then they that inhabited the city forsook thee, ²⁶And in all things did even as Adam and all his generations had done: for they also had a wicked heart:

2nd Esdras

²⁷And so thou gavest thy city over into the hands of thine enemies.

²⁸Are their deeds then any better that inhabit Babylon, that they should therefore have the dominion over Sion?

²⁹For when I came thither, and had seen impieties without number, then my soul saw many evildoers in this thirtieth year, so that my heart failed me.

³⁰For I have seen how thou sufferest them sinning, and hast spared wicked doers: and hast destroyed thy people, and hast preserved thine enemies, and hast not signified it.

³¹I do not remember how this way may be left: Are they then of Babylon better than they of Sion?

³²Or is there any other people that knoweth thee beside Israel? or what generation hath so believed thy covenants as Jacob?

³³And yet their reward appeareth not, and their labour hath no fruit: for I have gone here and there through the heathen, and I see that they flow in wealth, and think not upon thy commandments.

³⁴Weigh thou therefore our wickedness now in the balance, and their's also that dwell the world; and so shall thy name no where be found but in Israel.

³⁵Or when was it that they which dwell upon the earth have not sinned in thy sight? or what people have so kept thy commandments?

³⁶Thou shalt find that Israel by name hath kept thy precepts; but not the heathen.

CHAPTER 4

¹And the angel that was sent unto me, whose name was Uriel, gave me an answer, ²And said, Thy heart hath gone to far in this world, and thinkest thou to comprehend the way of the most High?

³Then said I, Yea, my lord. And he answered me, and said, I am sent to shew thee three ways, and to set forth three similitudes before thee:

⁴Whereof if thou canst declare me one, I will shew thee also the way that thou desirest to see, and I shall shew thee from whence the wicked heart cometh.

⁵And I said, Tell on, my lord. Then said he unto me, Go thy way, weigh me the weight of the fire, or measure me the blast of the wind, or call me again the day that is past.

⁶Then answered I and said, What man is able to do that, that thou shouldest ask such things of me?

⁷And he said unto me, If I should ask thee how great dwellings are in the midst of the sea, or how many springs are in the beginning of the deep, or how many springs are above the firmament, or which are the out-goings of paradise:

⁸Peradventure thou wouldest say unto me, I never went down into the deep, nor as yet into hell, neither did I ever climb up into heaven.

2nd Esdras

⁹Nevertheless now have I asked thee but only of the fire and wind, and of the day wherethrough thou hast passed, and of things from which thou canst not be separated, and yet canst thou give me no answer of them.

¹⁰He said moreover unto me, Thine own things, and such as are grown up with thee, canst thou not know;

¹¹How should thy vessel then be able to comprehend the way of the Highest, and, the world being now outwardly corrupted to understand the corruption that is evident in my sight?

¹²Then said I unto him, It were better that we were not at all, than that we should live still in wickedness, and to suffer, and not to know wherefore.

¹³He answered me, and said, I went into a forest into a plain, and the trees took counsel, ¹⁴And said, Come, let us go and make war against the sea that it may depart away before us, and that we may make us more woods.

¹⁵The floods of the sea also in like manner took counsel, and said, Come, let us go up and subdue the woods of the plain, that there also we may make us another country.

¹⁶The thought of the wood was in vain, for the fire came and consumed it.

¹⁷The thought of the floods of the sea came likewise to nought, for the sand stood up and stopped them.

¹⁸If thou wert judge now betwixt these two, whom wouldest thou begin to justify? or whom wouldest thou condemn?

¹⁹I answered and said, Verily it is a foolish thought that they both have devised, for the ground is given unto the wood, and the sea also hath his place to bear his floods.

²⁰Then answered he me, and said, Thou hast given a right judgment, but why judgest thou not thyself also?

²¹For like as the ground is given unto the wood, and the sea to his floods: even so they that dwell upon the earth may understand nothing but that which is upon the earth: and he that dwelleth above the heavens may only understand the things that are above the height of the heavens.

²²Then answered I and said, I beseech thee, O Lord, let me have understanding:

²³For it was not my mind to be curious of the high things, but of such as pass by us daily, namely, wherefore Israel is given up as a reproach to the heathen, and for what cause the people whom thou hast loved is given over unto ungodly nations, and why the law of our forefathers is brought to nought, and the written covenants come to none effect, ²⁴And we pass away out of the world as grasshoppers, and our life is astonishment and fear, and we are not worthy to obtain mercy.

²⁵What will he then do unto his name whereby we are called? of these things have I asked.

2nd Esdras

²⁶Then answered he me, and said, The more thou searchest, the more thou shalt marvel; for the world hasteth fast to pass away, ²⁷And cannot comprehend the things that are promised to the righteous in time to come: for this world is full of unrighteousness and infirmities.

²⁸But as concerning the things whereof thou askest me, I will tell thee; for the evil is sown, but the destruction thereof is not yet come.

²⁹If therefore that which is sown be not turned upside down, and if the place where the evil is sown pass not away, then cannot it come that is sown with good.

³⁰For the grain of evil seed hath been sown in the heart of Adam from the beginning, and how much ungodliness hath it brought up unto this time? and how much shall it yet bring forth until the time of threshing come?

³¹Ponder now by thyself, how great fruit of wickedness the grain of evil seed hath brought forth.

³²And when the ears shall be cut down, which are without number, how great a floor shall they fill?

³³Then I answered and said, How, and when shall these things come to pass? wherefore are our years few and evil?

³⁴And he answered me, saying, Do not thou hasten above the most Highest: for thy haste is in vain to be above him, for thou hast much exceeded.

³⁵Did not the souls also of the righteous ask question of these things in their chambers, saying, How long shall I hope on this fashion? when cometh the fruit of the floor of our reward?

³⁶And unto these things Uriel the archangel gave them answer, and said, Even when the number of seeds is filled in you: for he hath weighed the world in the balance.

³⁷By measure hath he measured the times; and by number hath he numbered the times; and he doth not move nor stir them, until the said measure be fulfilled.

³⁸Then answered I and said, O Lord that bearest rule, even we all are full of impiety.

³⁹And for our sakes peradventure it is that the floors of the righteous are not filled, because of the sins of them that dwell upon the earth.

⁴⁰So he answered me, and said, Go thy way to a woman with child, and ask of her when she hath fulfilled her nine months, if her womb may keep the birth any longer within her.

⁴¹Then said I, No, Lord, that can she not. And he said unto me, In the grave the chambers of souls are like the womb of a woman:

⁴²For like as a woman that travaileth maketh haste to escape the necessity of the travail: even so do these places haste to deliver those things that are committed unto them.

2nd Esdras

⁴³From the beginning, look, what thou desirest to see, it shall be shewed thee.

⁴⁴Then answered I and said, If I have found favour in thy sight, and if it be possible, and if I be meet therefore, ⁴⁵Shew me then whether there be more to come than is past, or more past than is to come.

⁴⁶What is past I know, but what is for to come I know not.

⁴⁷And he said unto me, Stand up upon the right side, and I shall expound the similitude unto thee.

⁴⁸So I stood, and saw, and, behold, an hot burning oven passed by before me: and it happened that when the flame was gone by I looked, and, behold, the smoke remained still.

⁴⁹After this there passed by before me a watery cloud, and sent down much rain with a storm; and when the stormy rain was past, the drops remained still.

⁵⁰Then said he unto me, Consider with thyself; as the rain is more than the drops, and as the fire is greater than the smoke; but the drops and the smoke remain behind: so the quantity which is past did more exceed.

⁵¹Then I prayed, and said, May I live, thinkest thou, until that time? or what shall happen in those days?

⁵²He answered me, and said, As for the tokens whereof thou askest me, I may tell thee of them in part: but as touching thy life, I am not sent to shew thee; for I do not know it.

¹Nevertheless as coming the tokens, behold, the days shall come, that they which dwell upon earth shall be taken in a great number, and the way of truth shall be hidden, and the land shall be barren of faith.

²But iniquity shall be increased above that which now thou seest, or that thou hast heard long ago.

³And the land, that thou seest now to have root, shalt thou see wasted suddenly.

⁴But if the most High grant thee to live, thou shalt see after the third trumpet that the sun shall suddenly shine again in the night, and the moon thrice in the day:

⁵And blood shall drop out of wood, and the stone shall give his voice, and the people shall be troubled:

⁶And even he shall rule, whom they look not for that dwell upon the earth, and the fowls shall take their flight away together:

⁷And the Sodomitish sea shall cast out fish, and make a noise in the night, which many have not known: but they shall all hear the voice thereof.

⁸There shall be a confusion also in many places, and the fire shall be oft sent out again, and the wild beasts shall change their places, and menstuous women shall bring forth monsters:

⁹And salt waters shall be found in the sweet, and all friends shall destroy one another; then shall wit hide itself,

2nd Esdras

and understanding withdraw itself into his secret chamber,

¹⁰And shall be sought of many, and yet not be found: then shall unrighteousness and incontinency be multiplied upon earth.

¹¹One land also shall ask another, and say, Is righteousness that maketh a man righteous gone through thee? And it shall say, No.

¹²At the same time shall men hope, but nothing obtain: they shall labour, but their ways shall not prosper.

¹³To shew thee such tokens I have leave; and if thou wilt pray again, and weep as now, and fast even days, thou shalt hear yet greater things.

¹⁴Then I awaked, and an extreme fearfulness went through all my body, and my mind was troubled, so that it fainted.

¹⁵So the angel that was come to talk with me held me, comforted me, and set me up upon my feet.

¹⁶And in the second night it came to pass, that Salathiel the captain of the people came unto me, saying, Where hast thou been? and why is thy countenance so heavy?

¹⁷Knowest thou not that Israel is committed unto thee in the land of their captivity?

¹⁸Up then, and eat bread, and forsake us not, as the shepherd that leaveth his flock in the hands of cruel wolves.

¹⁹Then said I unto him, Go thy ways from me, and come not nigh me. And he heard what I said, and went from me.

²⁰And so I fasted seven days, mourning and weeping, like as Uriel the angel commanded me.

²¹And after seven days so it was, that the thoughts of my heart were very grievous unto me again,

²²And my soul recovered the spirit of understanding, and I began to talk with the most High again,

²³And said, O Lord that bearest rule, of every wood of the earth, and of all the trees thereof, thou hast chosen thee one only vine:

²⁴And of all lands of the whole world thou hast chosen thee one pit: and of all the flowers thereof one lily:

²⁵And of all the depths of the sea thou hast filled thee one river: and of all builded cities thou hast hallowed Sion unto thyself:

²⁶And of all the fowls that are created thou hast named thee one dove: and of all the cattle that are made thou hast provided thee one sheep:

²⁷And among all the multitudes of people thou hast gotten thee one people: and unto this people, whom thou lovedst, thou gavest a law that is approved of all.

²⁸And now, O Lord, why hast thou given this one people over unto many? and upon the one root hast thou prepared others, and why hast thou scattered thy only one people among many?

2nd Esdras

²⁹And they which did gainsay thy promises, and believed not thy covenants, have trodden them down.

³⁰If thou didst so much hate thy people, yet shouldest thou punish them with thine own hands.

³¹Now when I had spoken these words, the angel that came to me the night afore was sent unto me, ³²And said unto me, Hear me, and I will instruct thee; hearken to the thing that I say, and I shall tell thee more.

³³And I said, Speak on, my Lord. Then said he unto me, Thou art sore troubled in mind for Israel's sake: lovest thou that people better than he that made them?

³⁴And I said, No, Lord: but of very grief have I spoken: for my reins pain me every hour, while I labour to comprehend the way of the most High, and to seek out part of his judgment.

³⁵And he said unto me, Thou canst not. And I said, Wherefore, Lord? whereunto was I born then? or why was not my mother's womb then my grave, that I might not have seen the travail of Jacob, and the wearisome toil of the stock of Israel?

³⁶And he said unto me, Number me the things that are not yet come, gather me together the dross that are scattered abroad, make me the flowers green again that are withered, ³⁷Open me the places that are closed, and bring me forth the winds that in them are shut up, shew me the image of a voice: and then I will declare to thee the thing that thou labourest to know.

³⁸And I said, O Lord that bearest rule, who may know these things, but he that hath not his dwelling with men?

³⁹As for me, I am unwise: how may I then speak of these things whereof thou askest me?

⁴⁰Then said he unto me, Like as thou canst do none of these things that I have spoken of, even so canst thou not find out my judgment, or in the end the love that I have promised unto my people.

⁴¹And I said, Behold, O Lord, yet art thou nigh unto them that be reserved till the end: and what shall they do that have been before me, or we that be now, or they that shall come after us?

⁴²And he said unto me, I will liken my judgment unto a ring: like as there is no slackness of the last, even so there is no swiftness of the first.

⁴³So I answered and said, Couldst thou not make those that have been made, and be now, and that are for to come, at once; that thou mightest shew thy judgment the sooner?

⁴⁴Then answered he me, and said, The creature may not haste above the maker; neither may the world hold them at once that shall be created therein.

⁴⁵And I said, As thou hast said unto thy servant, that thou, which givest life to all, hast given life at once to the creature that thou hast created, and the creature bare it: even so it might now also bear them that now be present at once.

⁴⁶And he said unto me, Ask the womb of a woman, and say unto her, If thou bringest forth children, why dost thou it not together, but one after another? pray her therefore to bring forth ten children at once.

⁴⁷And I said, She cannot: but must do it by distance of time.

⁴⁸Then said he unto me, Even so have I given the womb of the earth to those that be sown in it in their times.

⁴⁹For like as a young child may not bring forth the things that belong to the aged, even so have I disposed the world which I created.

⁵⁰And I asked, and said, Seeing thou hast now given me the way, I will proceed to speak before thee: for our mother, of whom thou hast told me that she is young, draweth now nigh unto age.

⁵¹He answered me, and said, Ask a woman that beareth children, and she shall tell thee.

⁵²Say unto her, Wherefore are unto they whom thou hast now brought forth like those that were before, but less of stature?

⁵³And she shall answer thee, They that be born in the the strength of youth are of one fashion, and they that are born in the time of age, when the womb faileth, are otherwise.

⁵⁴Consider thou therefore also, how that ye are less of stature than those that were before you.

⁵⁵And so are they that come after you less than ye, as the creatures which now begin to be old, and have passed over the strength of youth.

⁵⁶Then said I, Lord, I beseech thee, if I have found favour in thy sight, shew thy servant by whom thou visitest thy creature

CHAPTER 6

¹And he said unto me, In the beginning, when the earth was made, before the borders of the world stood, or ever the winds blew,

²Before it thundered and lightened, or ever the foundations of paradise were laid, ³Before the fair flowers were seen, or ever the moveable powers were established, before the innumerable multitude of angels were gathered together,

⁴Or ever the heights of the air were lifted up, before the measures of the firmament were named, or ever the chimneys in Sion were hot,

⁵And ere the present years were sought out, and or ever the inventions of them that now sin were turned, before they were sealed that have gathered faith for a treasure:

⁶Then did I consider these things, and they all were made through me alone, and through none other: by me also they shall be ended, and by none other.

⁷Then answered I and said, What shall be the parting asunder of the times? or when shall be the end of the first, and the beginning of it that followeth?

2nd Esdras

⁸And he said unto me, From Abraham unto Isaac, when Jacob and Esau were born of him, Jacob's hand held first the heel of Esau.

⁹For Esau is the end of the world, and Jacob is the beginning of it that followeth.

¹⁰The hand of man is betwixt the heel and the hand: other question, Esdras, ask thou not.

¹¹I answered then and said, O Lord that bearest rule, if I have found favour in thy sight, ¹²I beseech thee, shew thy servant the end of thy tokens, whereof thou shewedst me part the last night.

¹³So he answered and said unto me, Stand up upon thy feet, and hear a mighty sounding voice.

¹⁴And it shall be as it were a great motion; but the place where thou standest shall not be moved.

¹⁵And therefore when it speaketh be not afraid: for the word is of the end, and the foundation of the earth is understood.

¹⁶And why? because the speech of these things trembleth and is moved: for it knoweth that the end of these things must be changed.

¹⁷And it happened, that when I had heard it I stood up upon my feet, and hearkened, and, behold, there was a voice that spake, and the sound of it was like the sound of many waters.

¹⁸And it said, Behold, the days come, that I will begin to draw nigh, and to visit them that dwell upon the earth,

¹⁹And will begin to make inquisition of them, what they be that have hurt unjustly with their unrighteousness, and when the affliction of Sion shall be fulfilled;

²⁰And when the world, that shall begin to vanish away, shall be finished, then will I shew these tokens: the books shall be opened before the firmament, and they shall see all together:

²¹And the children of a year old shall speak with their voices, the women with child shall bring forth untimely children of three or four months old, and they shall live, and be raised up.

²²And suddenly shall the sown places appear unsown, the full storehouses shall suddenly be found empty:

²³And the trumpet shall give a sound, which when every man heareth, they shall be suddenly afraid.

²⁴At that time shall friends fight one against another like enemies, and the earth shall stand in fear with those that dwell therein, the springs of the fountains shall stand still, and in three hours they shall not run.

²⁵Whosoever remaineth from all these that I have told thee shall escape, and see my salvation, and the end of your world.

²⁶And the men that are received shall see it, who have not tasted death from their birth: and the heart of the inhabitants shall be changed, and turned into another meaning.

2nd Esdras

²⁷For evil shall be put out, and deceit shall be quenched.

²⁸As for faith, it shall flourish, corruption shall be overcome, and the truth, which hath been so long without fruit, shall be declared.

²⁹And when he talked with me, behold, I looked by little and little upon him before whom I stood.

³⁰And these words said he unto me; I am come to shew thee the time of the night to come.

³¹If thou wilt pray yet more, and fast seven days again, I shall tell thee greater things by day than I have heard.

³²For thy voice is heard before the most High: for the Mighty hath seen thy righteous dealing, he hath seen also thy chastity, which thou hast had ever since thy youth.

³³And therefore hath he sent me to shew thee all these things, and to say unto thee, Be of good comfort and fear not ³⁴And hasten not with the times that are past, to think vain things, that thou mayest not hasten from the latter times.

³⁵And it came to pass after this, that I wept again, and fasted seven days in like manner, that I might fulfil the three weeks which he told me.

³⁶And in the eighth night was my heart vexed within me again, and I began to speak before the most High.

³⁷For my spirit was greatly set on fire, and my soul was in distress.

³⁸And I said, O Lord, thou spakest from the beginning of the creation, even the first day, and saidst thus; Let heaven and earth be made; and thy word was a perfect work.

³⁹And then was the spirit, and darkness and silence were on every side; the sound of man's voice was not yet formed.

⁴⁰Then commandedst thou a fair light to come forth of thy treasures, that thy work might appear.

⁴¹Upon the second day thou madest the spirit of the firmament, and commandedst it to part asunder, and to make a division betwixt the waters, that the one part might go up, and the other remain beneath.

⁴²Upon the third day thou didst command that the waters should be gathered in the seventh part of the earth: six parts hast thou dried up, and kept them, to the intent that of these some being planted of God and tilled might serve thee.

⁴³For as soon as thy word went forth the work was made.

⁴⁴For immediately there was great and innumerable fruit, and many and divers pleasures for the taste, and flowers of unchangeable colour, and odours of wonderful smell: and this was done the third day.

⁴⁵Upon the fourth day thou commandedst that the sun should shine, and the moon give her light, and the stars should be in order:

⁴⁶And gavest them a charge to do service unto man, that was to be made.

2nd Esdras

⁴⁷Upon the fifth day thou saidst unto the seventh part, where the waters were gathered that it should bring forth living creatures, fowls and fishes: and so it came to pass.

⁴⁸For the dumb water and without life brought forth living things at the commandment of God, that all people might praise thy wondrous works.

⁴⁹Then didst thou ordain two living creatures, the one thou calledst Enoch, and the other Leviathan;

⁵⁰And didst separate the one from the other: for the seventh part, namely, where the water was gathered together, might not hold them both.

⁵¹Unto Enoch thou gavest one part, which was dried up the third day, that he should dwell in the same part, wherein are a thousand hills:

⁵²But unto Leviathan thou gavest the seventh part, namely, the moist; and hast kept him to be devoured of whom thou wilt, and when.

⁵³Upon the sixth day thou gavest commandment unto the earth, that before thee it should bring forth beasts, cattle, and creeping things:

⁵⁴And after these, Adam also, whom thou madest lord of all thy creatures: of him come we all, and the people also whom thou hast chosen.

⁵⁵All this have I spoken before thee, O Lord, because thou madest the world for our sakes

⁵⁶As for the other people, which also come of Adam, thou hast said that they are nothing, but be like unto spittle: and hast likened the abundance of them unto a drop that falleth from a vessel.

⁵⁷And now, O Lord, behold, these heathen, which have ever been reputed as nothing, have begun to be lords over us, and to devour us.

⁵⁸But we thy people, whom thou hast called thy firstborn, thy only begotten, and thy fervent lover, are given into their hands.

⁵⁹If the world now be made for our sakes, why do we not possess an inheritance with the world? how long shall this endure?

CHAPTER 7

¹And when I had made an end of speaking these words, there was sent unto me the angel which had been sent unto me the nights afore:

²And he said unto me, Up, Esdras, and hear the words that I am come to tell thee.

³And I said, Speak on, my God. Then said he unto me, The sea is set in a wide place, that it might be deep and great.

⁴But put the case the entrance were narrow, and like a river;

⁵Who then could go into the sea to look upon it, and to rule it? if he went not through the narrow, how could he come into the broad?

⁶There is also another thing; A city is builded, and set upon a broad field, and is full of all good things:

⁷The entrance thereof is narrow, and is set in a dangerous place to fall, like as if there were a fire on the right hand, and on the left a deep water:

2nd Esdras

⁸And one only path between them both, even between the fire and the water, so small that there could but one man go there at once.

⁹If this city now were given unto a man for an inheritance, if he never shall pass the danger set before it, how shall he receive this inheritance?

¹⁰And I said, It is so, Lord. Then said he unto me, Even so also is Israel's portion.

¹¹Because for their sakes I made the world: and when Adam transgressed my statutes, then was decreed that now is done.

¹²Then were the entrances of this world made narrow, full of sorrow and travail: they are but few and evil, full of perils,; and very painful.

¹³For the entrances of the elder world were wide and sure, and brought immortal fruit.

¹⁴If then they that live labour not to enter these strait and vain things, they can never receive those that are laid up for them.

¹⁵Now therefore why disquietest thou thyself, seeing thou art but a corruptible man? and why art thou moved, whereas thou art but mortal?

¹⁶Why hast thou not considered in thy mind this thing that is to come, rather than that which is present?

¹⁷Then answered I and said, O Lord that bearest rule, thou hast ordained in thy law, that the righteous should inherit these things, but that the ungodly should perish.

¹⁸Nevertheless the righteous shall suffer strait things, and hope for wide: for they that have done wickedly have suffered the strait things, and yet shall not see the wide.

¹⁹And he said unto me. There is no judge above God, and none that hath understanding above the Highest.

²⁰For there be many that perish in this life, because they despise the law of God that is set before them.

²¹For God hath given strait commandment to such as came, what they should do to live, even as they came, and what they should observe to avoid punishment.

²²Nevertheless they were not obedient unto him; but spake against him, and imagined vain things;

²³And deceived themselves by their wicked deeds; and said of the most High, that he is not; and knew not his ways:

²⁴But his law have they despised, and denied his covenants; in his statutes have they not been faithful, and have not performed his works.

²⁵And therefore, Esdras, for the empty are empty things, and for the full are the full things.

²⁶Behold, the time shall come, that these tokens which I have told thee shall come to pass, and the bride shall appear, and she coming forth shall be seen, that now is withdrawn from the earth.

²⁷And whosoever is delivered from the foresaid evils shall see my wonders.

2nd Esdras

²⁸For my son Jesus shall be revealed with those that be with him, and they that remain shall rejoice within four hundred years.

²⁹After these years shall my son Christ die, and all men that have life.

³⁰And the world shall be turned into the old silence seven days, like as in the former judgments: so that no man shall remain.

³¹And after seven days the world, that yet awaketh not, shall be raised up, and that shall die that is corrupt

³²And the earth shall restore those that are asleep in her, and so shall the dust those that dwell in silence, and the secret places shall deliver those souls that were committed unto them.

³³And the most High shall appear upon the seat of judgment, and misery shall pass away, and the long suffering shall have an end:

³⁴But judgment only shall remain, truth shall stand, and faith shall wax strong:

³⁵And the work shall follow, and the reward shall be shewed, and the good deeds shall be of force, and wicked deeds shall bear no rule.

³⁶Then said I, Abraham prayed first for the Sodomites, and Moses for the fathers that sinned in the wilderness:

³⁷And Jesus after him for Israel in the time of Achan:

³⁸And Samuel and David for the destruction: and Solomon for them that should come to the sanctuary:

³⁹And Helias for those that received rain; and for the dead, that he might live:

⁴⁰And Ezechias for the people in the time of Sennacherib: and many for many.

⁴¹Even so now, seeing corruption is grown up, and wickedness increased, and the righteous have prayed for the ungodly: wherefore shall it not be so now also?

⁴²He answered me, and said, This present life is not the end where much glory doth abide; therefore have they prayed for the weak.

⁴³But the day of doom shall be the end of this time, and the beginning of the immortality for to come, wherein corruption is past, ⁴⁴Intemperance is at an end, infidelity is cut off, righteousness is grown, and truth is sprung up.

⁴⁵Then shall no man be able to save him that is destroyed, nor to oppress him that hath gotten the victory.

⁴⁶I answered then and said, This is my first and last saying, that it had been better not to have given the earth unto Adam: or else, when it was given him, to have restrained him from sinning.

⁴⁷For what profit is it for men now in this present time to live in heaviness, and after death to look for punishment?

⁴⁸O thou Adam, what hast thou done? for though it was thou that sinned, thou art not fallen alone, but we all that come of thee.

2nd Esdras

⁴⁹For what profit is it unto us, if there be promised us an immortal time, whereas we have done the works that bring death?

⁵⁰And that there is promised us an everlasting hope, whereas ourselves being most wicked are made vain?

⁵¹And that there are laid up for us dwellings of health and safety, whereas we have lived wickedly?

⁵²And that the glory of the most High is kept to defend them which have led a wary life, whereas we have walked in the most wicked ways of all?

⁵³And that there should be shewed a paradise, whose fruit endureth for ever, wherein is security and medicine, since we shall not enter into it?

⁵⁴(For we have walked in unpleasant places.)

⁵⁵And that the faces of them which have used abstinence shall shine above the stars, whereas our faces shall be blacker than darkness?

⁵⁶For while we lived and committed iniquity, we considered not that we should begin to suffer for it after death.

⁵⁷Then answered he me, and said, This is the condition of the battle, which man that is born upon the earth shall fight;

⁵⁸That, if he be overcome, he shall suffer as thou hast said: but if he get the victory, he shall receive the thing that I say.

⁵⁹For this is the life whereof Moses spake unto the people while he lived, saying, Choose thee life, that thou mayest live.

⁶⁰Nevertheless they believed not him, nor yet the prophets after him, no nor me which have spoken unto them, ⁶¹That there should not be such heaviness in their destruction, as shall be joy over them that are persuaded to salvation.

⁶²I answered then, and said, I know, Lord, that the most High is called merciful, in that he hath mercy upon them which are not yet come into the world,

⁶³And upon those also that turn to his law;

⁶⁴And that he is patient, and long suffereth those that have sinned, as his creatures;

⁶⁵And that he is bountiful, for he is ready to give where it needeth;

⁶⁶And that he is of great mercy, for he multiplieth more and more mercies to them that are present, and that are past, and also to them which are to come.

⁶⁷For if he shall not multiply his mercies, the world would not continue with them that inherit therein.

⁶⁸And he pardoneth; for if he did not so of his goodness, that they which have committed iniquities might be eased of them, the ten thousandth part of men should not remain living.

⁶⁹And being judge, if he should not forgive them that are cured with his word, and put out the multitude of contentions,

2nd Esdras

⁷⁰There should be very few left peradventure in an innumerable multitude.

CHAPTER 8

¹And he answered me, saying, The most High hath made this world for many, but the world to come for few.

²I will tell thee a similitude, Esdras; As when thou askest the earth, it shall say unto thee, that it giveth much mould whereof earthen vessels are made, but little dust that gold cometh of: even so is the course of this present world.

³There be many created, but few shall be saved.

⁴So answered I and said, Swallow then down, O my soul, understanding, and devour wisdom.

⁵For thou hast agreed to give ear, and art willing to prophesy: for thou hast no longer space than only to live.

⁶O Lord, if thou suffer not thy servant, that we may pray before thee, and thou give us seed unto our heart, and culture to our understanding, that there may come fruit of it; how shall each man live that is corrupt, who beareth the place of a man?

⁷For thou art alone, and we all one workmanship of thine hands, like as thou hast said.

⁸For when the body is fashioned now in the mother's womb, and thou givest it members, thy creature is preserved in fire and water, and nine months doth thy workmanship endure thy creature which is created in her.

⁹But that which keepeth and is kept shall both be preserved: and when the time cometh, the womb preserved delivereth up the things that grew in it.

¹⁰For thou hast commanded out of the parts of the body, that is to say, out of the breasts, milk to be given, which is the fruit of the breasts, ¹¹That the thing which is fashioned may be nourished for a time, till thou disposest it to thy mercy.

¹²Thou broughtest it up with thy righteousness, and nurturedst it in thy law, and reformedst it with thy judgment.

¹³And thou shalt mortify it as thy creature, and quicken it as thy work.

¹⁴If therefore thou shalt destroy him which with so great labour was fashioned, it is an easy thing to be ordained by thy commandment, that the thing which was made might be preserved.

¹⁵Now therefore, Lord, I will speak; touching man in general, thou knowest best; but touching thy people, for whose sake I am sorry;

¹⁶And for thine inheritance, for whose cause I mourn; and for Israel, for whom I am heavy; and for Jacob, for whose sake I am troubled;

¹⁷Therefore will I begin to pray before thee for myself and for them: for I see the falls of us that dwell in the land.

¹⁸But I have heard the swiftness of the judge which is to come.

¹⁹Therefore hear my voice, and understand my words, and I shall

2nd Esdras

Speak before thee. This is the beginning of the words of Esdras, before he was taken up: and I said, ²⁰O Lord, thou that dwellest in everlastingness which beholdest from above things in the heaven and in the air;

²¹Whose throne is inestimable; whose glory may not be comprehended; before whom the hosts of angels stand with trembling, ²²Whose service is conversant in wind and fire; whose word is true, and sayings constant; whose commandment is strong, and ordinance fearful;

²³Whose look drieth up the depths, and indignation maketh the mountains to melt away; which the truth witnesseth:

²⁴O hear the prayer of thy servant, and give ear to the petition of thy creature.

²⁵For while I live I will speak, and so long as I have understanding I will answer.

²⁶O look not upon the sins of thy people; but on them which serve thee in truth.

²⁷Regard not the wicked inventions of the heathen, but the desire of those that keep thy testimonies in afflictions.

²⁸Think not upon those that have walked feignedly before thee: but remember them, which according to thy will have known thy fear.

²⁹Let it not be thy will to destroy them which have lived like beasts; but to look upon them that have clearly taught thy law.

³⁰Take thou no indignation at them which are deemed worse than beasts; but love them that always put their trust in thy righteousness and glory.

³¹For we and our fathers do languish of such diseases: but because of us sinners thou shalt be called merciful.

³²For if thou hast a desire to have mercy upon us, thou shalt be called merciful, to us namely, that have no works of righteousness.

³³For the just, which have many good works laid up with thee, shall out of their own deeds receive reward.

³⁴For what is man, that thou shouldest take displeasure at him? or what is a corruptible generation, that thou shouldest be so bitter toward it?

³⁵For in truth there is no man among them that be born, but he hath dealt wickedly; and among the faithful there is none which hath not done amiss.

³⁶For in this, O Lord, thy righteousness and thy goodness shall be declared, if thou be merciful unto them which have not the confidence of good works.

³⁷Then answered he me, and said, Some things hast thou spoken aright, and according unto thy words it shall be.

³⁸For indeed I will not think on the disposition of them which have sinned before death, before judgment, before destruction:

³⁹But I will rejoice over the disposition of the righteous, and I will remember also their pilgrimage, and the salvation, and the reward, that they shall have.

2nd Esdras

⁴⁰Like as I have spoken now, so shall it come to pass.

⁴¹For as the husbandman soweth much seed upon the ground, and planteth many trees, and yet the thing that is sown good in his season cometh not up, neither doth all that is planted take root: even so is it of them that are sown in the world; they shall not all be saved.

⁴²I answered then and said, If I have found grace, let me speak.

⁴³Like as the husbandman's seed perisheth, if it come not up, and receive not thy rain in due season; or if there come too much rain, and corrupt it:

⁴⁴Even so perisheth man also, which is formed with thy hands, and is called thine own image, because thou art like unto him, for whose sake thou hast made all things, and likened him unto the husbandman's seed.

⁴⁵Be not wroth with us but spare thy people, and have mercy upon thine own inheritance: for thou art merciful unto thy creature.

⁴⁶Then answered he me, and said, Things present are for the present, and things to cometh for such as be to come.

⁴⁷For thou comest far short that thou shouldest be able to love my creature more than I: but I have oftentimes drawn nigh unto thee, and unto it, but never to the unrighteous.

⁴⁸In this also thou art marvellous before the most High:

⁴⁹In that thou hast humbled thyself, as it becometh thee, and hast not judged thyself worthy to be much glorified among the righteous.

⁵⁰For many great miseries shall be done to them that in the latter time shall dwell in the world, because they have walked in great pride.

⁵¹But understand thou for thyself, and seek out the glory for such as be like thee.

⁵²For unto you is paradise opened, the tree of life is planted, the time to come is prepared, plenteousness is made ready, a city is builded, and rest is allowed, yea, perfect goodness and wisdom.

⁵³The root of evil is sealed up from you, weakness and the moth is hid from you, and corruption is fled into hell to be forgotten:

⁵⁴Sorrows are passed, and in the end is shewed the treasure of immortality.

⁵⁵And therefore ask thou no more questions concerning the multitude of them that perish.

⁵⁶For when they had taken liberty, they despised the most High, thought scorn of his law, and forsook his ways.

⁵⁷Moreover they have trodden down his righteous,

⁵⁸And said in their heart, that there is no God; yea, and that knowing they must die.

⁵⁹For as the things aforesaid shalt receive you, so thirst and pain are prepared for them: for it was not his will that men should come to nought:

⁶⁰But they which be created have defiled the name of him that made them, and were unthankful unto him which prepared life for them.

⁶¹And therefore is my judgment now at hand.

⁶²These things have I not shewed unto all men, but unto thee, and a few like thee. Then answered I and said, ⁶³Behold, O Lord, now hast thou shewed me the multitude of the wonders, which thou wilt begin to do in the last times: but at what time, thou hast not shewed me.

CHAPTER 9

¹He answered me then, and said, Measure thou the time diligently in itself: and when thou seest part of the signs past, which I have told thee before, ²Then shalt thou understand, that it is the very same time, wherein the Highest will begin to visit the world which he made.

³Therefore when there shall be seen earthquakes and uproars of the people in the world:

⁴Then shalt thou well understand, that the most High spake of those things from the days that were before thee, even from the beginning.

⁵For like as all that is made in the world hath a beginning and an end, and the end is manifest:

⁶Even so the times also of the Highest have plain beginnings in wonder and powerful works, and endings in effects and signs.

⁷And every one that shall be saved, and shall be able to escape by his works, and by faith, whereby ye have believed,

⁸Shall be preserved from the said perils, and shall see my salvation in my land, and within my borders: for I have sanctified them for me from the beginning.

⁹Then shall they be in pitiful case, which now have abused my ways: and they that have cast them away despitefully shall dwell in torments.

¹⁰For such as in their life have received benefits, and have not known me;

¹¹And they that have loathed my law, while they had yet liberty, and, when as yet place of repentance was open unto them, understood not, but despised it;

¹²The same must know it after death by pain.

¹³And therefore be thou not curious how the ungodly shall be punished, and when: but enquire how the righteous shall be saved, whose the world is, and for whom the world is created.

¹⁴Then answered I and said,

¹⁵I have said before, and now do speak, and will speak it also hereafter, that there be many more of them which perish, than of them which shall be saved:

¹⁶Like as a wave is greater than a drop.

2nd Esdras

¹⁷And he answered me, saying, Like as the field is, so is also the seed; as the flowers be, such are the colours also; such as the workman is, such also is the work; and as the husbandman is himself, so is his husbandry also: for it was the time of the world.

¹⁸And now when I prepared the world, which was not yet made, even for them to dwell in that now live, no man spake against me.

¹⁹For then every one obeyed: but now the manners of them which are created in this world that is made are corrupted by a perpetual seed, and by a law which is unsearchable rid themselves.

²⁰So I considered the world, and, behold, there was peril because of the devices that were come into it.

²¹And I saw, and spared it greatly, and have kept me a grape of the cluster, and a plant of a great people.

²²Let the multitude perish then, which was born in vain; and let my grape be kept, and my plant; for with great labour have I made it perfect.

²³Nevertheless, if thou wilt cease yet seven days more, (but thou shalt not fast in them, ²⁴But go into a field of flowers, where no house is builded, and eat only the flowers of the field; taste no flesh, drink no wine, but eat flowers only;)

²⁵And pray unto the Highest continually, then will I come and talk with thee.

²⁶So I went my way into the field which is called Ardath, like as he commanded me; and there I sat among the flowers, and did eat of the herbs of the field, and the meat of the same satisfied me.

²⁷After seven days I sat upon the grass, and my heart was vexed within me, like as before:

²⁸And I opened my mouth, and began to talk before the most High, and said, ²⁹O Lord, thou that shewest thyself unto us, thou wast shewed unto our fathers in the wilderness, in a place where no man treadeth, in a barren place, when they came out of Egypt.

³⁰And thou spakest saying, Hear me, O Israel; and mark my words, thou seed of Jacob.

³¹For, behold, I sow my law in you, and it shall bring fruit in you, and ye shall be honoured in it for ever.

³²But our fathers, which received the law, kept it not, and observed not thy ordinances: and though the fruit of thy law did not perish, neither could it, for it was thine; ³³Yet they that received it perished, because they kept not the thing that was sown in them.

³⁴And, lo, it is a custom, when the ground hath received seed, or the sea a ship, or any vessel meat or drink, that, that being perished wherein it was sown or cast into,

³⁵That thing also which was sown, or cast therein, or received, doth perish, and remaineth not with us: but with us it hath not happened so.

2nd Esdras

³⁶For we that have received the law perish by sin, and our heart also which received it

³⁷Notwithstanding the law perisheth not, but remaineth in his force.

³⁸And when I spake these things in my heart, I looked back with mine eyes, and upon the right side I saw a woman, and, behold, she mourned and wept with a loud voice, and was much grieved in heart, and her clothes were rent, and she had ashes upon her head.

³⁹Then let I my thoughts go that I was in, and turned me unto her, ⁴⁰And said unto her, Wherefore weepest thou? why art thou so grieved in thy mind?

⁴¹And she said unto me, Sir, let me alone, that I may bewail myself, and add unto my sorrow, for I am sore vexed in my mind, and brought very low.

⁴²And I said unto her, What aileth thee? tell me.

⁴³She said unto me, I thy servant have been barren, and had no child, though I had an husband thirty years, ⁴⁴And those thirty years I did nothing else day and night, and every hour, but make my, prayer to the Highest.

⁴⁵After thirty years God heard me thine handmaid, looked upon my misery, considered my trouble, and gave me a son: and I was very glad of him, so was my husband also, and all my neighbours: and we gave great honour unto the Almighty.

⁴⁶And I nourished him with great travail.

⁴⁷So when he grew up, and came to the time that he should have a wife, I made a feast.

CHAPTER 10

¹And it so came to pass, that when my son was entered into his wedding chamber, he fell down, and died.

²Then we all overthrew the lights, and all my neighbours rose up to comfort me: so I took my rest unto the second day at night.

⁴And I do now purpose not to return into the city, but here to stay, and neither to eat nor drink, but continually to mourn and to fast until I die.

⁵Then left I the meditations wherein I was, and spake to her in anger, saying, ⁶Thou foolish woman above all other, seest thou not our mourning, and what happeneth unto us?

⁷How that Sion our mother is full of all heaviness, and much humbled, mourning very sore?

⁸And now, seeing we all mourn and are sad, for we are all in heaviness, art thou grieved for one son?

⁹For ask the earth, and she shall tell thee, that it is she which ought to mourn for the fall of so many that grow upon her.

2nd Esdras

¹⁰For out of her came all at the first, and out of her shall all others come, and, behold, they walk almost all into destruction, and a multitude of them is utterly rooted out.

¹¹Who then should make more mourning than she, that hath lost so great a multitude; and not thou, which art sorry but for one?

¹²But if thou sayest unto me, My lamentation is not like the earth's, because I have lost the fruit of my womb, which I brought forth with pains, and bare with sorrows;

¹³But the earth not so: for the multitude present in it according to the course of the earth is gone, as it came:

¹⁴Then say I unto thee, Like as thou hast brought forth with labour; even so the earth also hath given her fruit, namely, man, ever since the beginning unto him that made her.

¹⁵Now therefore keep thy sorrow to thyself, and bear with a good courage that which hath befallen thee.

¹⁶For if thou shalt acknowledge the determination of God to be just, thou shalt both receive thy son in time, and shalt be commended among women.

¹⁷Go thy way then into the city to thine husband.

¹⁸And she said unto me, That will I not do: I will not go into the city, but here will I die.

¹⁹So I proceeded to speak further unto her, and said,

²⁰Do not so, but be counselled. by me: for how many are the adversities of Sion? be comforted in regard of the sorrow of Jerusalem.

²¹For thou seest that our sanctuary is laid waste, our altar broken down, our temple destroyed;

²²Our psaltery is laid on the ground, our song is put to silence, our rejoicing is at an end, the light of our candlestick is put out, the ark of our covenant is spoiled, our holy things are defiled, and the name that is called upon us is almost profaned: our children are put to shame, our priests are burnt, our Levites are gone into captivity, our virgins are defiled, and our wives ravished; our righteous men carried away, our little ones destroyed, our young men are brought in bondage, and our strong men are become weak;

²³And, which is the greatest of all, the seal of Sion hath now lost her honour; for she is delivered into the hands of them that hate us.

²⁴And therefore shake off thy great heaviness, and put away the multitude of sorrows, that the Mighty may be merciful unto thee again, and the Highest shall give thee rest and ease from thy labour.

²⁵And it came to pass while I was talking with her, behold, her face upon a sudden shined exceedingly, and her countenance glistened, so that I was afraid of her, and mused what it might be.

²⁶And, behold, suddenly she made a great cry very fearful: so that the earth shook at the noise of the woman.

2nd Esdras

²⁷And I looked, and, behold, the woman appeared unto me no more, but there was a city builded, and a large place shewed itself from the foundations: then was I afraid, and cried with a loud voice, and said, ²⁸Where is Uriel the angel, who came unto me at the first? for he hath caused me to fall into many trances, and mine end is turned into corruption, and my prayer to rebuke.

²⁹And as I was speaking these words behold, he came unto me, and looked upon me.

³⁰And, lo, I lay as one that had been dead, and mine understanding was taken from me: and he took me by the right hand, and comforted me, and set me upon my feet, and said unto me, ³¹What aileth thee? and why art thou so disquieted? and why is thine understanding troubled, and the thoughts of thine heart?

³²And I said, Because thou hast forsaken me, and yet I did according to thy words, and I went into the field, and, lo, I have seen, and yet see, that I am not able to express.

³³And he said unto me, Stand up manfully, and I will advise thee.

³⁴Then said I, Speak on, my lord, in me; only forsake me not, lest I die frustrate of my hope.

³⁵For I have seen that I knew not, and hear that I do not know.

³⁶Or is my sense deceived, or my soul in a dream?

³⁷Now therefore I beseech thee that thou wilt shew thy servant of this vision.

³⁸He answered me then, and said, Hear me, and I shall inform thee, and tell thee wherefore thou art afraid: for the Highest will reveal many secret things unto thee.

³⁹He hath seen that thy way is right: for that thou sorrowest continually for thy people, and makest great lamentation for Sion.

⁴⁰This therefore is the meaning of the vision which thou lately sawest:

⁴¹Thou sawest a woman mourning, and thou beganest to comfort her:

⁴²But now seest thou the likeness of the woman no more, but there appeared unto thee a city builded.

⁴³And whereas she told thee of the death of her son, this is the solution:

⁴⁴This woman, whom thou sawest is Sion: and whereas she said unto thee, even she whom thou seest as a city builded, ⁴⁵Whereas, I say, she said unto thee, that she hath been thirty years barren: those are the thirty years wherein there was no offering made in her.

⁴⁶But after thirty years Solomon builded the city and offered offerings: and then bare the barren a son.

⁴⁷And whereas she told thee that she nourished him with labour: that was the dwelling in Jerusalem.

⁴⁸But whereas she said unto thee, That my son coming into his marriage chamber happened to have a fail, and died: this was the destruction that came to Jerusalem.

2nd Esdras

⁴⁹And, behold, thou sawest her likeness, and because she mourned for her son, thou beganest to comfort her: and of these things which have chanced, these are to be opened unto thee.

⁵⁰For now the most High seeth that thou art grieved unfeignedly, and sufferest from thy whole heart for her, so hath he shewed thee the brightness of her glory, and the comeliness of her beauty:

⁵¹And therefore I bade thee remain in the field where no house was builded:

⁵²For I knew that the Highest would shew this unto thee.

⁵³Therefore I commanded thee to go into the field, where no foundation of any building was.

⁵⁴For in the place wherein the Highest beginneth to shew his city, there can no man's building be able to stand.

⁵⁵And therefore fear not, let not thine heart be affrighted, but go thy way in, and see the beauty and greatness of the building, as much as thine eyes be able to see:

⁵⁶And then shalt thou hear as much as thine ears may comprehend.

⁵⁷For thou art blessed above many other, and art called with the Highest; and so are but few.

⁵⁸But to morrow at night thou shalt remain here;

⁵⁹And so shall the Highest shew thee visions of the high things, which the most High will do unto them that dwell upon the earth in the last days. So I slept that night and another, like as he commanded me.

CHAPTER 11

¹Then saw I a dream, and, behold, there came up from the sea an eagle, which had twelve feathered wings, and three heads.

²And I saw, and, behold, she spread her wings over all the earth, and all the winds of the air blew on her, and were gathered together.

³And I beheld, and out of her feathers there grew other contrary feathers; and they became little feathers and small.

⁴But her heads were at rest: the head in the midst was greater than the other, yet rested it with the residue.

⁵Moreover I beheld, and, lo, the eagle flew with her feathers, and reigned upon earth, and over them that dwelt therein.

⁶And I saw that all things under heaven were subject unto her, and no man spake against her, no, not one creature upon earth.

⁷And I beheld, and, lo, the eagle rose upon her talons, and spake to her feathers, saying,

⁸Watch not all at once: sleep every one in his own place, and watch by course:

⁹But let the heads be preserved for the last.

2nd Esdras

¹⁰And I beheld, and, lo, the voice went not out of her heads, but from the midst of her body.

¹¹And I numbered her contrary feathers, and, behold, there were eight of them.

¹²And I looked, and, behold, on the right side there arose one feather, and reigned over all the earth;

¹³And so it was, that when it reigned, the end of it came, and the place thereof appeared no more: so the next following stood up. and reigned, and had a great time;

¹⁴And it happened, that when it reigned, the end of it came also, like as the first, so that it appeared no more.

¹⁵Then came there a voice unto it, and said,

¹⁶Hear thou that hast borne rule over the earth so long: this I say unto thee, before thou beginnest to appear no more, ¹⁷There shall none after thee attain unto thy time, neither unto the half thereof.

¹⁸Then arose the third, and reigned as the other before, and appeared no more also.

¹⁹So went it with all the residue one after another, as that every one reigned, and then appeared no more.

²⁰Then I beheld, and, lo, in process of time the feathers that followed stood up upon the right side, that they might rule also; and some of them ruled, but within a while they appeared no more:

²¹For some of them were set up, but ruled not.

²²After this I looked, and, behold, the twelve feathers appeared no more, nor the two little feathers:

²³And there was no more upon the eagle's body, but three heads that rested, and six little wings.

²⁴Then saw I also that two little feathers divided themselves from the six, and remained under the head that was upon the right side: for the four continued in their place.

²⁵And I beheld, and, lo, the feathers that were under the wing thought to set up themselves and to have the rule.

²⁶And I beheld, and, lo, there was one set up, but shortly it appeared no more.

²⁷And the second was sooner away than the first.

²⁸And I beheld, and, lo, the two that remained thought also in themselves to reign:

²⁹And when they so thought, behold, there awaked one of the heads that were at rest, namely, it that was in the midst; for that was greater than the two other heads.

³⁰And then I saw that the two other heads were joined with it.

³¹And, behold, the head was turned with them that were with it, and did eat up the two feathers under the wing that would have reigned.

³²But this head put the whole earth in fear, and bare rule in it over all those that dwelt upon the earth with much oppression; and it had the governance of the world more than all the wings that had been.

³³And after this I beheld, and, lo, the head that was in the midst suddenly appeared no more, like as the wings.

³⁴But there remained the two heads, which also in like sort ruled upon the earth, and over those that dwelt therein.

³⁵And I beheld, and, lo, the head upon the right side devoured it that was upon the left side.

³⁶Then I heard a voice, which said unto me, Look before thee, and consider the thing that thou seest.

³⁷And I beheld, and lo, as it were a roaring lion chased out of the wood: and I saw that he sent out a man's voice unto the eagle, and said,

³⁸Hear thou, I will talk with thee, and the Highest shall say unto thee, ³⁹Art not thou it that remainest of the four beasts, whom I made to reign in my world, that the end of their times might come through them?

⁴⁰And the fourth came, and overcame all the beasts that were past, and had power over the world with great fearfulness, and over the whole compass of the earth with much wicked oppression; and so long time dwelt he upon the earth with deceit.

⁴¹For the earth hast thou not judged with truth.

⁴²For thou hast afflicted the meek, thou hast hurt the peaceable, thou hast loved liars, and destroyed the dwellings of them that brought forth fruit, and hast cast down the walls of such as did thee no harm.

⁴³Therefore is thy wrongful dealing come up unto the Highest, and thy pride unto the Mighty.

⁴⁴The Highest also hath looked upon the proud times, and, behold, they are ended, and his abominations are fulfilled.

⁴⁵And therefore appear no more, thou eagle, nor thy horrible wings, nor thy wicked feathers nor thy malicious heads, nor thy hurtful claws, nor all thy vain body:

⁴⁶That all the earth may be refreshed, and may return, being delivered from thy violence, and that she may hope for the judgment and mercy of him that made her.

CHAPTER 12

¹And it came to pass, whiles the lion spake these words unto the eagle, I saw,

²And, behold, the head that remained and the four wings appeared no more, and the two went unto it and set themselves up to reign, and their kingdom was small, and full of uproar.

³And I saw, and, behold, they appeared no more, and the whole body of the eagle was burnt so that the earth was in great fear: then awaked I out of the trouble and trance of my mind, and from great fear, and said unto my spirit, ⁴Lo, this hast thou done unto me, in that thou searchest out the ways of the Highest.

2nd Esdras

⁵Lo, yet am I weary in my mind, and very weak in my spirit; and little strength is there in me, for the great fear wherewith I was afflicted this night.

⁶Therefore will I now beseech the Highest, that he will comfort me unto the end.

⁷And I said, Lord that bearest rule, if I have found grace before thy sight, and if I am justified with thee before many others, and if my prayer indeed be come up before thy face;

⁸Comfort me then, and shew me thy servant the interpretation and plain difference of this fearful vision, that thou mayest perfectly comfort my soul.

⁹For thou hast judged me worthy to shew me the last times.

¹⁰And he said unto me, This is the interpretation of the vision:

¹¹The eagle, whom thou sawest come up from the sea, is the kingdom which was seen in the vision of thy brother Daniel.

¹²But it was not expounded unto him, therefore now I declare it unto thee.

¹³Behold, the days will come, that there shall rise up a kingdom upon earth, and it shall be feared above all the kingdoms that were before it.

¹⁴In the same shall twelve kings reign, one after another:

¹⁵Whereof the second shall begin to reign, and shall have more time than any of the twelve.

¹⁶And this do the twelve wings signify, which thou sawest.

¹⁷As for the voice which thou heardest speak, and that thou sawest not to go out from the heads but from the midst of the body thereof, this is the interpretation:

¹⁸That after the time of that kingdom there shall arise great strivings, and it shall stand in peril of failing: nevertheless it shall not then fall, but shall be restored again to his beginning.

¹⁹And whereas thou sawest the eight small under feathers sticking to her wings, this is the interpretation:

²⁰That in him there shall arise eight kings, whose times shall be but small, and their years swift.

²¹And two of them shall perish, the middle time approaching: four shall be kept until their end begin to approach: but two shall be kept unto the end.

²²And whereas thou sawest three heads resting, this is the interpretation:

²³In his last days shall the most High raise up three kingdoms, and renew many things therein, and they shall have the dominion of the earth, ²⁴And of those that dwell therein, with much oppression, above all those that were before them: therefore are they called the heads of the eagle.

²⁵For these are they that shall accomplish his wickedness, and that shall finish his last end.

²⁶And whereas thou sawest that the great head appeared no more, it signifieth that one of them shall die upon his bed, and yet with pain.

2nd Esdras

²⁷For the two that remain shall be slain with the sword.

²⁸For the sword of the one shall devour the other: but at the last shall he fall through the sword himself.

²⁹And whereas thou sawest two feathers under the wings passing over the head that is on the right side;

³⁰It signifieth that these are they, whom the Highest hath kept unto their end: this is the small kingdom and full of trouble, as thou sawest.

³¹And the lion, whom thou sawest rising up out of the wood, and roaring, and speaking to the eagle, and rebuking her for her unrighteousness with all the words which thou hast heard;

³²This is the anointed, which the Highest hath kept for them and for their wickedness unto the end: he shall reprove them, and shall upbraid them with their cruelty.

³³For he shall set them before him alive in judgment, and shall rebuke them, and correct them.

³⁴For the rest of my people shall he deliver with mercy, those that have been pressed upon my borders, and he shall make them joyful until the coming of the day of judgment, whereof I have spoken unto thee from the the beginning.

³⁵This is the dream that thou sawest, and these are the interpretations.

³⁶Thou only hast been meet to know this secret of the Highest.

³⁷Therefore write all these things that thou hast seen in a book, and hide them:

³⁸And teach them to the wise of the people, whose hearts thou knowest may comprehend and keep these secrets.

³⁹But wait thou here thyself yet seven days more, that it may be shewed thee, whatsoever it pleaseth the Highest to declare unto thee. And with that he went his way.

⁴⁰And it came to pass, when all the people saw that the seven days were past, and I not come again into the city, they gathered them all together, from the least unto the greatest, and came unto me, and said, ⁴¹What have we offended thee? and what evil have we done against thee, that thou forsakest us, and sittest here in this place?

⁴²For of all the prophets thou only art left us, as a cluster of the vintage, and as a candle in a dark place, and as a haven or ship preserved from the tempest.

⁴³Are not the evils which are come to us sufficient?

⁴⁴If thou shalt forsake us, how much better had it been for us, if we also had been burned in the midst of Sion?

⁴⁵For we are not better than they that died there. And they wept with a loud voice. Then answered I them, and said, ⁴⁶Be of good comfort, O Israel; and be not heavy, thou house of Jacob:

2nd Esdras

⁴⁷For the Highest hath you in remembrance, and the Mighty hath not forgotten you in temptation.

⁴⁸As for me, I have not forsaken you, neither am I departed from you: but am come into this place, to pray for the desolation of Sion, and that I might seek mercy for the low estate of your sanctuary.

⁴⁹And now go your way home every man, and after these days will I come unto you.

⁵⁰So the people went their way into the city, like as I commanded them:

⁵¹But I remained still in the field seven days, as the angel commanded me; and did eat only in those days of the flowers of the field, and had my meat of the herbs

CHAPTER 13

¹And it came to pass after seven days, I dreamed a dream by night:

²And, lo, there arose a wind from the sea, that it moved all the waves thereof.

³And I beheld, and, lo, that man waxed strong with the thousands of heaven: and when he turned his countenance to look, all the things trembled that were seen under him.

⁴And whensoever the voice went out of his mouth, all they burned that heard his voice, like as the earth faileth when it feeleth the fire.

⁵And after this I beheld, and, lo, there was gathered together a multitude of men, out of number, from the four winds of the heaven, to subdue the man that came out of the sea

⁶But I beheld, and, lo, he had graved himself a great mountain, and flew up upon it.

⁷But I would have seen the region or place whereout the hill was graven, and I could not.

⁸And after this I beheld, and, lo, all they which were gathered together to subdue him were sore afraid, and yet durst fight.

⁹And, lo, as he saw the violence of the multitude that came, he neither lifted up his hand, nor held sword, nor any instrument of war: ¹⁰But only I saw that he sent out of his mouth as it had been a blast of fire, and out of his lips a flaming breath, and out of his tongue he cast out sparks and tempests.

¹¹And they were all mixed together; the blast of fire, the flaming breath, and the great tempest; and fell with violence upon the multitude which was prepared to fight, and burned them up every one, so that upon a sudden of an innumerable multitude nothing was to be perceived, but only dust and smell of smoke: when I saw this I was afraid.

¹²Afterward saw I the same man come down from the mountain, and call unto him another peaceable Multitude.

¹³And there came much people unto him, whereof some were glad, some were sorry, and some of them were bound, and other some brought of them that were offered: then was I sick through great fear, and I awaked, and said,

2nd Esdras

¹⁴Thou hast shewed thy servant these wonders from the beginning, and hast counted me worthy that thou shouldst receive my prayer:

¹⁵Shew me now yet the interpretation of this dream.

¹⁶For as I conceive in mine understanding, woe unto them that shall be left in those days and much more woe unto them that are not left behind!

¹⁷For they that were not left were in heaviness.

¹⁸Now understand I the things that are laid up in the latter days, which shall happen unto them, and to those that are left behind.

¹⁹Therefore are they come into great perils and many necessities, like as these dreams declare.

²⁰Yet is it easier for him that is in danger to come into these things, than to pass away as a cloud out of the world, and not to see the things that happen in the last days. And he answered unto me, and said, ²¹The interpretation of the vision shall I shew thee, and I will open unto thee the thing that thou hast required.

²²Whereas thou hast spoken of them that are left behind, this is the interpretation:

²³He that shall endure the peril in that time hath kept himself: they that be fallen into danger are such as have works, and faith toward the Almighty.

²⁴Know this therefore, that they which be left behind are more blessed than they that be dead.

²⁵This is the meaning of the vision: Whereas thou sawest a man coming up from the midst of the sea:

²⁶The same is he whom God the Highest hath kept a great season, which by his own self shall deliver his creature: and he shall order them that are left behind.

²⁷And whereas thou sawest, that out of his mouth there came as a blast of wind, and fire, and storm;

²⁸And that he held neither sword, nor any instrument of war, but that the rushing in of him destroyed the whole multitude that came to subdue him; this is the interpretation:

²⁹Behold, the days come, when the most High will begin to deliver them that are upon the earth.

³⁰And he shall come to the astonishment of them that dwell on the earth.

³¹And one shall undertake to fight against another, one city against another, one place against another, one people against another, and one realm against another.

³²And the time shall be when these things shall come to pass, and the signs shall happen which I shewed thee before, and then shall my Son be declared, whom thou sawest as a man ascending.

³³And when all the people hear his voice, every man shall in their own land leave the battle they have one against another.

2nd Esdras

³⁴And an innumerable multitude shall be gathered together, as thou sawest them, willing to come, and to overcome him by fighting.

³⁵But he shall stand upon the top of the mount Sion.

³⁶And Sion shall come, and shall be shewed to all men, being prepared and builded, like as thou sawest the hill graven without hands.

³⁷And this my Son shall rebuke the wicked inventions of those nations, which for their wicked life are fallen into the tempest;

³⁸And shall lay before them their evil thoughts, and the torments wherewith they shall begin to be tormented, which are like unto a flame: and he shall destroy them without labour by the law which is like unto me.

³⁹And whereas thou sawest that he gathered another peaceable multitude unto him;

⁴⁰Those are the ten tribes, which were carried away prisoners out of their own land in the time of Osea the king, whom Salmanasar the king of Assyria led away captive, and he carried them over the waters, and so came they into another land.

⁴¹But they took this counsel among themselves, that they would leave the multitude of the heathen, and go forth into a further country, where never mankind dwelt, ⁴²That they might there keep their statutes, which they never kept in their own land.

⁴³And they entered into Euphrates by the narrow places of the river.

⁴⁴For the most High then shewed signs for them, and held still the flood, till they were passed over.

⁴⁵For through that country there was a great way to go, namely, of a year and a half: and the same region is called Arsareth.

⁴⁶Then dwelt they there until the latter time; and now when they shall begin to come, ⁴⁷The Highest shall stay the springs of the stream again, that they may go through: therefore sawest thou the multitude with peace.

⁴⁸But those that be left behind of thy people are they that are found within my borders.

⁴⁹Now when he destroyeth the multitude of the nations that are gathered together, he shall defend his people that remain.

⁵⁰And then shall he shew them great wonders.

⁵¹Then said I, O Lord that bearest rule, shew me this: Wherefore have I seen the man coming up from the midst of the sea?

⁵²And he said unto me, Like as thou canst neither seek out nor know the things that are in the deep of the sea: even so can no man upon earth see my Son, or those that be with him, but in the day time.

2nd Esdras

⁵³This is the interpretation of the dream which thou sawest, and whereby thou only art here lightened.

⁵⁴For thou hast forsaken thine own way, and applied thy diligence unto my law, and sought it.

⁵⁵Thy life hast thou ordered in wisdom, and hast called understanding thy mother.

⁵⁶And therefore have I shewed thee the treasures of the Highest: after other three days I will speak other things unto thee, and declare unto thee mighty and wondrous things.

⁵⁷Then went I forth into the field, giving praise and thanks greatly unto the most High because of his wonders which he did in time;

⁵⁸And because he governeth the same, and such things as fall in their seasons: and there I sat three days.

CHAPTER 14

¹And it came to pass upon the third day, I sat under an oak, and, behold, there came a voice out of a bush over against me, and said, Esdras, Esdras.

²And I said, Here am I, Lord And I stood up upon my feet.

³Then said he unto me, In the bush I did manifestly reveal myself unto Moses, and talked with him, when my people served in Egypt:

⁴And I sent him and led my people out of Egypt, and brought him up to the mount of where I held him by me a long season,

⁵And told him many wondrous things, and shewed him the secrets of the times, and the end; and commanded him, saying,

⁶These words shalt thou declare, and these shalt thou hide.

⁷And now I say unto thee,

⁸That thou lay up in thy heart the signs that I have shewed, and the dreams that thou hast seen, and the interpretations which thou hast heard:

⁹For thou shalt be taken away from all, and from henceforth thou shalt remain with my Son, and with such as be like thee, until the times be ended.

¹⁰For the world hath lost his youth, and the times begin to wax old.

¹¹For the world is divided into twelve parts, and the ten parts of it are gone already, and half of a tenth part:

¹²And there remaineth that which is after the half of the tenth part.

¹³Now therefore set thine house in order, and reprove thy people, comfort such of them as be in trouble, and now renounce corruption, ¹⁴Let go from thee mortal thoughts, cast away the burdens of man, put off now the weak nature, ¹⁵And set aside the thoughts that are most heavy unto thee, and haste thee to flee from these times.

¹⁶For yet greater evils than those which thou hast seen happen shall be done hereafter.

¹⁷For look how much the world shall be weaker through age, so much the more shall evils increase upon them that dwell therein.

¹⁸For the time is fled far away, and leasing is hard at hand: for now hasteth the vision to come, which thou hast seen.

2nd Esdras

¹⁹Then answered I before thee, and said,

²⁰Behold, Lord, I will go, as thou hast commanded me, and reprove the people which are present: but they that shall be born afterward, who shall admonish them? thus the world is set in darkness, and they that dwell therein are without light.

²¹For thy law is burnt, therefore no man knoweth the things that are done of thee, or the work that shall begin.

²²But if I have found grace before thee, send the Holy Ghost into me, and I shall write all that hath been done in the world since the beginning, which were written in thy law, that men may find thy path, and that they which will live in the latter days may live.

²³And he answered me, saying, Go thy way, gather the people together, and say unto them, that they seek thee not for forty days.

²⁴But look thou prepare thee many box trees, and take with thee Sarea, Dabria, Selemia, Ecanus, and Asiel, these five which are ready to write swiftly;

²⁵And come hither, and I shall light a candle of understanding in thine heart, which shall not be put out, till the things be performed which thou shalt begin to write.

²⁶And when thou hast done, some things shalt thou publish, and some things shalt thou shew secretly to the wise: to morrow this hour shalt thou begin to write.

²⁷Then went I forth, as he commanded, and gathered all the people together, and said, ²⁸Hear these words, O Israel.

²⁹Our fathers at the beginning were strangers in Egypt, from whence they were delivered:

³⁰And received the law of life, which they kept not, which ye also have transgressed after them.

³¹Then was the land, even the land of Sion, parted among you by lot: but your fathers, and ye yourselves, have done unrighteousness, and have not kept the ways which the Highest commanded you.

³²And forasmuch as he is a righteous judge, he took from you in time the thing that he had given you.

³³And now are ye here, and your brethren among you.

³⁴Therefore if so be that ye will subdue your own understanding, and reform your hearts, ye shall be kept alive and after death ye shall obtain mercy.

³⁵For after death shall the judgment come, when we shall live again: and then shall the names of the righteous be manifest, and the works of the ungodly shall be declared.

³⁶Let no man therefore come unto me now, nor seek after me these forty days.

³⁷So I took the five men, as he commanded me, and we went into the field, and remained there.

2nd Esdras

³⁸And the next day, behold, a voice called me, saying, Esdras, open thy mouth, and drink that I give thee to drink.

³⁹Then opened I my mouth, and, behold, he reached me a full cup, which was full as it were with water, but the colour of it was like fire.

⁴⁰And I took it, and drank: and when I had drunk of it, my heart uttered understanding, and wisdom grew in my breast, for my spirit strengthened my memory:

⁴¹And my mouth was opened, and shut no more.

⁴²The Highest gave understanding unto the five men, and they wrote the wonderful visions of the night that were told, which they knew not: and they sat forty days, and they wrote in the day, and at night they ate bread.

⁴³As for me. I spake in the day, and I held not my tongue by night.

⁴⁴In forty days they wrote two hundred and four books.

⁴⁵And it came to pass, when the forty days were filled, that the Highest spake, saying, The first that thou hast written publish openly, that the worthy and unworthy may read it:

⁴⁶But keep the seventy last, that thou mayest deliver them only to such as be wise among the people:

⁴⁷For in them is the spring of understanding, the fountain of wisdom, and the stream of knowledge.

⁴⁸And I did so.

CHAPTER 15

¹Behold, speak thou in the ears of my people the words of prophecy, which I will put in thy mouth, saith the Lord:

²And cause them to be written in paper: for they are faithful and true.

³Fear not the imaginations against thee, let not the incredulity of them trouble thee, that speak against thee.

⁴For all the unfaithful shall die in their unfaithfulness.

⁵Behold, saith the Lord, I will bring plagues upon the world; the sword, famine, death, and destruction.

⁶For wickedness hath exceedingly polluted the whole earth, and their hurtful works are fulfilled.

⁷Therefore saith the Lord,

⁸I will hold my tongue no more as touching their wickedness, which they profanely commit, neither will I suffer them in those things, in which they wickedly exercise themselves: behold, the innocent and righteous blood crieth unto me, and the souls of the just complain continually.

⁹And therefore, saith the Lord, I will surely avenge them, and receive unto me all the innocent blood from among them.

¹⁰Behold, my people is led as a flock to the slaughter: I will not suffer them now to dwell in the land of Egypt:

¹¹But I will bring them with a mighty hand and a stretched out arm, and smite Egypt with plagues, as before, and will destroy all the land thereof.

2nd Esdras

¹²Egypt shall mourn, and the foundation of it shall be smitten with the plague and punishment that God shall bring upon it.

¹³They that till the ground shall mourn: for their seeds shall fail through the blasting and hail, and with a fearful constellation.

¹⁴Woe to the world and them that dwell therein!

¹⁵For the sword and their destruction draweth nigh, and one people shall stand up and fight against another, and swords in their hands.

¹⁶For there shall be sedition among men, and invading one another; they shall not regard their kings nor princes, and the course of their actions shall stand in their power.

¹⁷A man shall desire to go into a city, and shall not be able.

¹⁸For because of their pride the cities shall be troubled, the houses shall be destroyed, and men shall be afraid.

¹⁹A man shall have no pity upon his neighbour, but shall destroy their houses with the sword, and spoil their goods, because of the lack of bread, and for great tribulation.

²⁰Behold, saith God, I will call together all the kings of the earth to reverence me, which are from the rising of the sun, from the south, from the east, and Libanus; to turn themselves one against another, and repay the things that they have done to them.

²¹Like as they do yet this day unto my chosen, so will I do also, and recompense in their bosom. Thus saith the Lord God;

²²My right hand shall not spare the sinners, and my sword shall not cease over them that shed innocent blood upon the earth.

²³The fire is gone forth from his wrath, and hath consumed the foundations of the earth, and the sinners, like the straw that is kindled.

²⁴Woe to them that sin, and keep not my commandments! saith the Lord.

²⁵I will not spare them: go your way, ye children, from the power, defile not my sanctuary.

²⁶For the Lord knoweth all them that sin against him, and therefore delivereth he them unto death and destruction.

²⁷For now are the plagues come upon the whole earth and ye shall remain in them: for God shall not deliver you, because ye have sinned against him.

²⁸Behold an horrible vision, and the appearance thereof from the east:

²⁹Where the nations of the dragons of Arabia shall come out with many chariots, and the multitude of them shall be carried as the wind upon earth, that all they which hear them may fear and tremble.

³⁰Also the Carmanians raging in wrath shall go forth as the wild boars of the wood, and with great power shall they come, and join battle with them, and shall waste a portion of the land of the Assyrians.

³¹And then shall the dragons have the upper hand, remembering their nature; and if they shall turn themselves, conspiring together in great power to persecute them, ³²Then these shall be troubled bled, and keep silence through their power, and shall flee.

³³And from the land of the Assyrians shall the enemy besiege them, and consume some of them, and in their host shall be fear and dread, and strife among their kings.

³⁴Behold clouds from the east and from the north unto the south, and they are very horrible to look upon, full of wrath and storm.

³⁵They shall smite one upon another, and they shall smite down a great multitude of stars upon the earth, even their own star; and blood shall be from the sword unto the belly, ³⁶And dung of men unto the camel's hough.

³⁷And there shall be great fearfulness and trembling upon earth: and they that see the wrath shall be afraid, and trembling shall come upon them.

³⁸And then shall there come great storms from the south, and from the north, and another part from the west.

³⁹And strong winds shall arise from the east, and shall open it; and the cloud which he raised up in wrath, and the star stirred to cause fear toward the east and west wind, shall be destroyed.

⁴⁰The great and mighty clouds shall be puffed up full of wrath, and the star, that they may make all the earth afraid, and them that dwell therein; and they shall pour out over every high and eminent place an horrible star, ⁴¹Fire, and hail, and flying swords, and many waters, that all fields may be full, and all rivers, with the abundance of great waters.

⁴²And they shall break down the cities and walls, mountains and hills, trees of the wood, and grass of the meadows, and their corn.

⁴³And they shall go stedfastly unto Babylon, and make her afraid.

⁴⁴They shall come to her, and besiege her, the star and all wrath shall they pour out upon her: then shall the dust and smoke go up unto the heaven, and all they that be about her shall bewail her.

⁴⁵And they that remain under her shall do service unto them that have put her in fear.

⁴⁶And thou, Asia, that art partaker of the hope of Babylon, and art the glory of her person:

⁴⁷Woe be unto thee, thou wretch, because thou hast made thyself like unto her; and hast decked thy daughters in whoredom, that they might please and glory in thy lovers, which have always desired to commit whoredom with thee.

⁴⁸Thou hast followed her that is hated in all her works and inventions: therefore saith God,

2nd Esdras

⁴⁹I will send plagues upon thee; widowhood, poverty, famine, sword, and pestilence, to waste thy houses with destruction and death.

⁵⁰And the glory of thy Power shall be dried up as a flower, the heat shall arise that is sent over thee.

⁵¹Thou shalt be weakened as a poor woman with stripes, and as one chastised with wounds, so that the mighty and lovers shall not be able to receive thee.

⁵²Would I with jealousy have so proceeded against thee, saith the Lord, ⁵³If thou hadst not always slain my chosen, exalting the stroke of thine hands, and saying over their dead, when thou wast drunken, ⁵⁴Set forth the beauty of thy countenance?

⁵⁵The reward of thy whoredom shall be in thy bosom, therefore shalt thou receive recompence.

⁵⁶Like as thou hast done unto my chosen, saith the Lord, even so shall God do unto thee, and shall deliver thee into mischief ⁵⁷Thy children shall die of hunger, and thou shalt fall through the sword: thy cities shall be broken down, and all thine shall perish with the sword in the field.

⁵⁸They that be in the mountains shall die of hunger, and eat their own flesh, and drink their own blood, for very hunger of bread, and thirst of water.

⁵⁹Thou as unhappy shalt come through the sea, and receive plagues again.

⁶⁰And in the passage they shall rush on the idle city, and shall destroy some portion of thy land, and consume part of thy glory, and shall return to Babylon that was destroyed.

⁶¹And thou shalt be cast down by them as stubble, and they shall be unto thee as fire;

⁶²And shall consume thee, and thy cities, thy land, and thy mountains; all thy woods and thy fruitful trees shall they burn up with fire.

⁶³Thy children shall they carry away captive, and, look, what thou hast, they shall spoil it, and mar the beauty of thy face.

CHAPTER 16

¹Woe be unto thee, Babylon, and Asia! woe be unto thee, Egypt and Syria!

²Gird up yourselves with cloths of sack and hair, bewail your children, and be sorry; for your destruction is at hand.

³A sword is sent upon you, and who may turn it back?

⁴A fire is sent among you, and who may quench it?

⁵Plagues are sent unto you, and what is he that may drive them away?

⁶May any man drive away an hungry lion in the wood? or may any one quench the fire in stubble, when it hath begun to burn?

⁷May one turn again the arrow that is shot of a strong archer?

⁸The mighty Lord sendeth the plagues and who is he that can drive them away?

2nd Esdras

⁹A fire shall go forth from his wrath, and who is he that may quench it?

¹⁰He shall cast lightnings, and who shall not fear? he shall thunder, and who shall not be afraid?

¹¹The Lord shall threaten, and who shall not be utterly beaten to powder at his presence?

¹²The earth quaketh, and the foundations thereof; the sea ariseth up with waves from the deep, and the waves of it are troubled, and the fishes thereof also, before the Lord, and before the glory of his power:

¹³For strong is his right hand that bendeth the bow, his arrows that he shooteth are sharp, and shall not miss, when they begin to be shot into the ends of the world.

¹⁴Behold, the plagues are sent, and shall not return again, until they come upon the earth.

¹⁵The fire is kindled, and shall not be put out, till it consume the foundation of the earth.

¹⁶Like as an arrow which is shot of a mighty archer returneth not backward: even so the plagues that shall be sent upon earth shall not return again.

¹⁷Woe is me! woe is me! who will deliver me in those days?

¹⁸The beginning of sorrows and great mournings; the beginning of famine and great death; the beginning of wars, and the powers shall stand in fear; the beginning of evils! what shall I do when these evils shall come?

¹⁹Behold, famine and plague, tribulation and anguish, are sent as scourges for amendment.

²⁰But for all these things they shall not turn from their wickedness, nor be always mindful of the scourges.

²¹Behold, victuals shall be so good cheap upon earth, that they shall think themselves to be in good case, and even then shall evils grow upon earth, sword, famine, and great confusion.

²²For many of them that dwell upon earth shall perish of famine; and the other, that escape the hunger, shall the sword destroy.

²³And the dead shall be cast out as dung, and there shall be no man to comfort them: for the earth shall be wasted, and the cities shall be cast down.

²⁴There shall be no man left to till the earth, and to sow it ²⁵The trees shall give fruit, and who shall gather them?

²⁶The grapes shall ripen, and who shall tread them? for all places shall be desolate of men:

²⁷So that one man shall desire to see another, and to hear his voice.

²⁸For of a city there shall be ten left, and two of the field, which shall hide themselves in the thick groves, and in the clefts of the rocks.

²⁹As in an orchard of Olives upon every tree there are left three or four olives;

³⁰Or as when a vineyard is gathered, there are left some clusters of them that diligently seek through the vineyard:

2nd Esdras

³¹Even so in those days there shall be three or four left by them that search their houses with the sword.

³²And the earth shall be laid waste, and the fields thereof shall wax old, and her ways and all her paths shall grow full of thorns, because no man shall travel therethrough.

³³The virgins shall mourn, having no bridegrooms; the women shall mourn, having no husbands; their daughters shall mourn, having no helpers.

³⁴In the wars shall their bridegrooms be destroyed, and their husbands shall perish of famine.

³⁵Hear now these things and understand them, ye servants of the Lord.

³⁶Behold, the word of the Lord, receive it: believe not the gods of whom the Lord spake.

³⁷Behold, the plagues draw nigh, and are not slack.

³⁸As when a woman with child in the ninth month bringeth forth her son, with two or three hours of her birth great pains compass her womb, which pains, when the child cometh forth, they slack not a moment:

³⁹Even so shall not the plagues be slack to come upon the earth, and the world shall mourn, and sorrows shall come upon it on every side.

⁴⁰O my people, hear my word: make you ready to thy battle, and in those evils be even as pilgrims upon the earth.

⁴¹He that selleth, let him be as he that fleeth away: and he that buyeth, as one that will lose:

⁴²He that occupieth merchandise, as he that hath no profit by it: and he that buildeth, as he that shall not dwell therein:

⁴³He that soweth, as if he should not reap: so also he that planteth the vineyard, as he that shall not gather the grapes:

⁴⁴They that marry, as they that shall get no children; and they that marry not, as the widowers.

⁴⁵And therefore they that labour labour in vain:

⁴⁶For strangers shall reap their fruits, and spoil their goods, overthrow their houses, and take their children captives, for in captivity and famine shall they get children.

⁴⁷And they that occupy their merchandise with robbery, the more they deck their cities, their houses, their possessions, and their own persons:

⁴⁸The more will I be angry with them for their sin, saith the Lord.

⁴⁹Like as a whore envieth a right honest and virtuous woman:

⁵⁰So shall righteousness hate iniquity, when she decketh herself, and shall accuse her to her face, when he cometh that shall defend him that diligently searcheth out every sin upon earth.

⁵¹And therefore be ye not like thereunto, nor to the works thereof.

2nd Esdras

⁵²For yet a little, and iniquity shall be taken away out of the earth, and righteousness shall reign among you.

⁵³Let not the sinner say that he hath not sinned: for God shall burn coals of fire upon his head, which saith before the Lord God and his glory, I have not sinned.

⁵⁴Behold, the Lord knoweth all the works of men, their imaginations, their thoughts, and their hearts:

⁵⁵Which spake but the word, Let the earth be made; and it was made: Let the heaven be made; and it was created.

⁵⁶In his word were the stars made, and he knoweth the number of them.

⁵⁷He searcheth the deep, and the treasures thereof; he hath measured the sea, and what it containeth.

⁵⁸He hath shut the sea in the midst of the waters, and with his word hath he hanged the earth upon the waters.

⁵⁹He spreadeth out the heavens like a vault; upon the waters hath he founded it.

⁶⁰In the desert hath he made springs of water, and pools upon the tops of the mountains, that the floods might pour down from the high rocks to water the earth.

⁶¹He made man, and put his heart in the midst of the body, and gave him breath, life, and understanding.

⁶²Yea and the Spirit of Almighty God, which made all things, and searcheth out all hidden things in the secrets of the earth, ⁶³Surely he knoweth your inventions, and what ye think in your hearts, even them that sin, and would hide their sin.

⁶⁴Therefore hath the Lord exactly searched out all your works, and he will put you all to shame.

⁶⁵And when your sins are brought forth, ye shall be ashamed before men, and your own sins shall be your accusers in that day.

⁶⁶What will ye do? or how will ye hide your sins before God and his angels?

⁶⁷Behold, God himself is the judge, fear him: leave off from your sins, and forget your iniquities, to meddle no more with them for ever: so shall God lead you forth, and deliver you from all trouble.

⁶⁸For, behold, the burning wrath of a great multitude is kindled over you, and they shall take away certain of you, and feed you, being idle, with things offered unto idols.

⁶⁹And they that consent unto them shall be had in derision and in reproach, and trodden under foot.

⁷⁰For there shall be in every place, and in the next cities, a great insurrection upon those that fear the Lord.

⁷¹They shall be like mad men, sparing none, but still spoiling and destroying those that fear the Lord.

⁷²For they shall waste and take away their goods, and cast them out of their houses.

2nd Esdras

⁷³Then shall they be known, who are my chosen; and they shall be tried as the gold in the fire.

⁷⁴Hear, O ye my beloved, saith the Lord: behold, the days of trouble are at hand, but I will deliver you from the same.

⁷⁵Be ye not afraid neither doubt; for God is your guide,

⁷⁶And the guide of them who keep my commandments and precepts, saith the Lord God: let not your sins weigh you down, and let not your iniquities lift up themselves.

⁷⁷Woe be unto them that are bound with their sins, and covered with their iniquities like as a field is covered over with bushes, and the path thereof covered with thorns, that no man may travel through!

⁷⁸It is left undressed, and is cast into the fire to be consumed therewith.

Tobit

CHAPTER 1

¹The book of the words of Tobit, son of Tobiel, the son of Ananiel, the son of Aduel, the son of Gabael, of the seed of Asael, of the tribe of Nephthali;

²Who in the time of Enemessar king of the Assyrians was led captive out of Thisbe, which is at the right hand of that city, which is called properly Nephthali in Galilee above Aser.

³I Tobit have walked all the days of my life in the ways of truth and justice, and I did many almsdeeds to my brethren, and my nation, who came with me to Nineve, into the land of the Assyrians.

⁴And when I was in mine own country, in the land of Israel being but young, all the tribe of Nephthali my father fell from the house of Jerusalem, which was chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, that all the tribes should sacrifice there, where the temple of the habitation of the most High was consecrated and built for all ages.

⁵Now all the tribes which together revolted, and the house of my father Nephthali, sacrificed unto the heifer Baal.

⁶But I alone went often to Jerusalem at the feasts, as it was ordained unto all the people of Israel by an everlasting decree, having the firstfruits and tenths of increase, with that which was first shorn; and them gave I at the altar to the priests the children of Aaron.

⁷The first tenth part of all increase I gave to the sons of Aaron, who ministered at Jerusalem: another tenth part I sold away, and went, and spent it every year at Jerusalem:

⁸And the third I gave unto them to whom it was meet, as Debora my father's mother had commanded me, because I was left an orphan by my father.

⁹Furthermore, when I was come to the age of a man, I married Anna of mine own kindred, and of her I begat Tobias.

¹⁰And when we were carried away captives to Nineve, all my brethren and those that were of my kindred did eat of the bread of the Gentiles.

¹¹But I kept myself from eating;

¹²Because I remembered God with all my heart.

¹³And the most High gave me grace and favour before Enemessar, so that I was his purveyor.

¹⁴And I went into Media, and left in trust with Gabael, the brother of Gabrias, at Rages a city of Media ten talents of silver.

¹⁵Now when Enemessar was dead, Sennacherib his son reigned in his stead; whose estate was troubled, that I could not go into Media.

Tobit

CHAPTER 2

¹⁶And in the time of Enemessar I gave many alms to my brethren, and gave my bread to the hungry, ¹⁷And my clothes to the naked: and if I saw any of my nation dead, or cast about the walls of Nineve, I buried him.

¹⁸And if the king Sennacherib had slain any, when he was come, and fled from Judea, I buried them privily; for in his wrath he killed many; but the bodies were not found, when they were sought for of the king.

¹⁹And when one of the Ninevites went and complained of me to the king, that I buried them, and hid myself; understanding that I was sought for to be put to death, I withdrew myself for fear.

²⁰Then all my goods were forcibly taken away, neither was there any thing left me, beside my wife Anna and my son Tobias.

²¹And there passed not five and fifty days, before two of his sons killed him, and they fled into the mountains of Ararath; and Sarchedonus his son reigned in his stead; who appointed over his father's accounts, and over all his affairs, Achiacharus my brother Anael's son.

²²And Achiacharus intreating for me, I returned to Nineve. Now Achiacharus was cupbearer, and keeper of the signet, and steward, and overseer of the accounts: and Sarchedonus appointed him next unto him: and he was my brother's son.

¹Now when I was come home again, and my wife Anna was restored unto me, with my son Tobias, in the feast of Pentecost, which is the holy feast of the seven weeks, there was a good dinner prepared me, in the which I sat down to eat.

²And when I saw abundance of meat, I said to my son, Go and bring what poor man soever thou shalt find out of our brethren, who is mindful of the Lord; and, lo, I tarry for thee.

³But he came again, and said, Father, one of our nation is strangled, and is cast out in the marketplace.

⁴Then before I had tasted of any meat, I started up, and took him up into a room until the going down of the sun.

⁵Then I returned, and washed myself, and ate my meat in heaviness, ⁶Remembering that prophecy of Amos, as he said, Your feasts shall be turned into mourning, and all your mirth into lamentation.

⁷Therefore I wept: and after the going down of the sun I went and made a grave, and buried him.

⁸But my neighbours mocked me, and said, This man is not yet afraid to be put to death for this matter: who fled away; and yet, lo, he burieth the dead again.

⁹The same night also I returned from the burial, and slept by the wall of my courtyard, being polluted and my face was uncovered:

Tobit

¹⁰And I knew not that there were sparrows in the wall, and mine eyes being open, the sparrows muted warm dung into mine eyes, and a whiteness came in mine eyes: and I went to the physicians, but they helped me not: moreover Achiacharus did nourish me, until I went into Elymais.

¹¹And my wife Anna did take women's works to do.

¹²And when she had sent them home to the owners, they paid her wages, and gave her also besides a kid.

¹³And when it was in my house, and began to cry, I said unto her, From whence is this kid? is it not stolen? render it to the owners; for it is not lawful to eat any thing that is stolen.

¹⁴But she replied upon me, It was given for a gift more than the wages. Howbeit I did not believe her, but bade her render it to the owners: and I was abashed at her. But she replied upon me, Where are thine alms and thy righteous deeds? behold, thou and all thy works are known.

CHAPTER 3

¹Then I being grieved did weep, and in my sorrow prayed, saying,

²O Lord, thou art just, and all thy works and all thy ways are mercy and truth, and thou judgest truly and justly for ever.

³Remember me, and look on me, punish me not for my sins and ignorances, and the sins of my fathers, who have sinned before thee:

⁴For they obeyed not thy commandments: wherefore thou hast delivered us for a spoil, and unto captivity, and unto death, and for a proverb of reproach to all the nations among whom we are dispersed.

⁵And now thy judgments are many and true: deal with me according to my sins and my fathers': because we have not kept thy commandments, neither have walked in truth before thee.

⁶Now therefore deal with me as seemeth best unto thee, and command my spirit to be taken from me, that I may be dissolved, and become earth: for it is profitable for me to die rather than to live, because I have heard false reproaches, and have much sorrow: command therefore that I may now be delivered out of this distress, and go into the everlasting place: turn not thy face away from me.

⁷It came to pass the same day, that in Ecbatane a city of Media Sara the daughter of Raguel was also reproached by her father's maids;

⁸Because that she had been married to seven husbands, whom Asmodeus the evil spirit had killed, before they had lain with her. Dost thou not know, said they, that thou hast strangled thine husbands? thou hast had already seven husbands, neither wast thou named after any of them.

⁹Wherefore dost thou beat us for them? if they be dead, go thy ways after them, let us never see of thee either son or daughter.

¹⁰When she heard these things, she was very sorrowful, so that she thought to have strangled herself; and she said, I am the only daughter of my father, and if I do this, it shall be a reproach unto him, and I shall bring his old age with sorrow unto the grave.

¹¹Then she prayed toward the window, and said, Blessed art thou, O Lord my God, and thine holy and glorious name is blessed and honourable for ever: let all thy works praise thee for ever.

¹²And now, O Lord, I set I mine eyes and my face toward thee, ¹³And say, Take me out of the earth, that I may hear no more the reproach.

¹⁴Thou knowest, Lord, that I am pure from all sin with man, ¹⁵And that I never polluted my name, nor the name of my father, in the land of my captivity: I am the only daughter of my father, neither hath he any child to be his heir, neither any near kinsman, nor any son of his alive, to whom I may keep myself for a wife: my seven husbands are already dead; and why should I live? but if it please not thee that I should die, command some regard to be had of me, and pity taken of me, that I hear no more reproach.

¹⁶So the prayers of them both were heard before the majesty of the great God.

¹⁷And Raphael was sent to heal them both, that is, to scale away the whiteness of Tobit's eyes, and to give Sara the daughter of Raguel for a wife to Tobias the son of Tobit; and to bind Asmodeus the evil spirit; because she belonged to Tobias by right of inheritance. The selfsame time came Tobit home, and entered into his house, and Sara the daughter of Raguel came down from her upper chamber.

CHAPTER 4

¹In that day Tobit remembered the money which he had committed to Gabael in Rages of Media, ²And said with himself, I have wished for death; wherefore do I not call for my son Tobias that I may signify to him of the money before I die?

³And when he had called him, he said, My son, when I am dead, bury me; and despise not thy mother, but honour her all the days of thy life, and do that which shall please her, and grieve her not.

⁴Remember, my son, that she saw many dangers for thee, when thou wast in her womb: and when she is dead, bury her by me in one grave.

⁵My son, be mindful of the Lord our God all thy days, and let not thy will be set to sin, or to transgress his commandments: do uprightly all thy life long, and follow not the ways of unrighteousness.

⁶For if thou deal truly, thy doings shall prosperously succeed to thee, and to all them that live justly.

⁷Give alms of thy substance; and when thou givest alms, let not thine eye be envious, neither turn thy face from any poor, and the face of God shall not be turned away from thee.

⁸If thou hast abundance give alms accordingly: if thou have but a little,

Tobit

be not afraid to give according to that little:

⁹For thou layest up a good treasure for thyself against the day of necessity.

¹⁰Because that alms do deliver from death, and suffereth not to come into darkness.

¹¹For alms is a good gift unto all that give it in the sight of the most High.

¹²Beware of all whoredom, my son, and chiefly take a wife of the seed of thy fathers, and take not a strange woman to wife, which is not of thy father's tribe: for we are the children of the prophets, Noe, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: remember, my son, that our fathers from the beginning, even that they all married wives of their own kindred, and were blessed in their children, and their seed shall inherit the land.

¹³Now therefore, my son, love thy brethren, and despise not in thy heart thy brethren, the sons and daughters of thy people, in not taking a wife of them: for in pride is destruction and much trouble, and in lewdness is decay and great want: for lewdness is the mother of famine.

¹⁴Let not the wages of any man, which hath wrought for thee, tarry with thee, but give him it out of hand: for if thou serve God, he will also repay thee: be circumspect my son, in all things thou doest, and be wise in all thy conversation.

¹⁵Do that to no man which thou hatest: drink not wine to make thee drunken: neither let drunkenness go with thee in thy journey.

¹⁶Give of thy bread to the hungry, and of thy garments to them that are naked; and according to thine abundance give alms: and let not thine eye be envious, when thou givest alms.

¹⁷Pour out thy bread on the burial of the just, but give nothing to the wicked.

¹⁸Ask counsel of all that are wise, and despise not any counsel that is profitable.

¹⁹Bless the Lord thy God always, and desire of him that thy ways may be directed, and that all thy paths and counsels may prosper: for every nation hath not counsel; but the Lord himself giveth all good things, and he humbleth whom he will, as he will; now therefore, my son, remember my commandments, neither let them be put out of thy mind.

²⁰And now I signify this to thee that I committed ten talents to Gabael the son of Gabrias at Rages in Media.

²¹And fear not, my son, that we are made poor: for thou hast much wealth, if thou fear God, and depart from all sin, and do that which is pleasing in his sight.

CHAPTER 5

¹Tobias then answered and said, Father, I will do all things which thou hast commanded me:

²But how can I receive the money, seeing I know him not?

³Then he gave him the handwriting, and said unto him, Seek thee a man which may go with thee, whiles I yet live, and I will give him wages: and go and receive the money.

⁴Therefore when he went to seek a man, he found Raphael that was an angel.

⁵But he knew not; and he said unto him, Canst thou go with me to Rages? and knowest thou those places well?

⁶To whom the angel said, I will go with thee, and I know the way well: for I have lodged with our brother Gabael.

⁷Then Tobias said unto him, Tarry for me, till I tell my father.

⁸Then he said unto him, Go and tarry not. So he went in and said to his father, Behold, I have found one which will go with me. Then he said, Call him unto me, that I may know of what tribe he is, and whether he be a trusty man to go with thee.

⁹So he called him, and he came in, and they saluted one another.

¹⁰Then Tobit said unto him, Brother, shew me of what tribe and family thou art.

¹¹To whom he said, Dost thou seek for a tribe or family, or an hired man to go with thy son? Then Tobit said unto him, I would know, brother, thy kindred and name.

¹²Then he said, I am Azarias, the son of Ananias the great, and of thy brethren.

¹³Then Tobit said, Thou art welcome, brother; be not now angry with me, because I have enquired to know thy tribe and thy family; for thou art my brother, of an honest and good stock: for I know Ananias and Jonathas, sons of that great Samaias, as we went together to Jerusalem to worship, and offered the firstborn, and the tenths of the fruits; and they were not seduced with the error of our brethren: my brother, thou art of a good stock.

¹⁴But tell me, what wages shall I give thee? wilt thou a drachm a day, and things necessary, as to mine own son?

¹⁵Yea, moreover, if ye return safe, I will add something to thy wages.

¹⁶So they were well pleased. Then said he to Tobias, Prepare thyself for the journey, and God send you a good journey. And when his son had prepared all things far the journey, his father said, Go thou with this man, and God, which dwelleth in heaven, prosper your journey, and the angel of God keep you company. So they went forth both, and the young man's dog with them.

¹⁷But Anna his mother wept, and said to Tobit, Why hast thou sent away our son? is he not the staff of our hand, in going in and out before us?

¹⁸Be not greedy to add money to money: but let it be as refuse in respect of our child.

¹⁹For that which the Lord hath given us to live with doth suffice us.

²⁰Then said Tobit to her, Take no care, my sister; he shall return in safety, and thine eyes shall see him.

Tobit

²¹For the good angel will keep him company, and his journey shall be prosperous, and he shall return safe.

²²Then she made an end of weeping.

CHAPTER 6

¹And as they went on their journey, they came in the evening to the river Tigris, and they lodged there.

²And when the young man went down to wash himself, a fish leaped out of the river, and would have devoured him.

³Then the angel said unto him, Take the fish. And the young man laid hold of the fish, and drew it to land.

⁴To whom the angel said, Open the fish, and take the heart and the liver and the gall, and put them up safely.

⁵So the young man did as the angel commanded him; and when they had roasted the fish, they did eat it: then they both went on their way, till they drew near to Ecbatane.

⁶Then the young man said to the angel, Brother Azarias, to what use is the heart and the liver and the gall of the fish?

⁷And he said unto him, Touching the heart and the liver, if a devil or an evil spirit trouble any, we must make a smoke thereof before the man or the woman, and the party shall be no more vexed.

⁸As for the gall, it is good to anoint a man that hath whiteness in his eyes, and he shall be healed.

⁹And when they were come near to Rages,

¹⁰The angel said to the young man, Brother, to day we shall lodge with Raguel, who is thy cousin; he also hath one only daughter, named Sara; I will speak for her, that she may be given thee for a wife.

¹¹For to thee doth the right of her appertain, seeing thou only art of her kindred.

¹²And the maid is fair and wise: now therefore hear me, and I will speak to her father; and when we return from Rages we will celebrate the marriage: for I know that Raguel cannot marry her to another according to the law of Moses, but he shall be guilty of death, because the right of inheritance doth rather appertain to thee than to any other.

¹³Then the young man answered the angel, I have heard, brother Azarias that this maid hath been given to seven men, who all died in the marriage chamber.

¹⁴And now I am the only son of my father, and I am afraid, lest if I go in unto her, I die, as the other before: for a wicked spirit loveth her, which hurteth no body, but those which come unto her; wherefore I also fear lest I die, and bring my father's and my mother's life because of me to the grave with sorrow: for they have no other son to bury them.

¹⁵Then the angel said unto him, Dost thou not remember the precepts which thy father gave thee, that thou shouldst marry a wife of thine own kindred? wherefore hear me, O my brother; for she shall be given thee to wife; and make thou no reckoning of the evil spirit; for this same night shall she be given thee in marriage.

¹⁶And when thou shalt come into the marriage chamber, thou shalt take the ashes of perfume, and shalt lay upon them some of the heart and liver of the fish, and shalt make a smoke with it:

¹⁷And the devil shall smell it, and flee away, and never come again any more: but when thou shalt come to her, rise up both of you, and pray to God which is merciful, who will have pity on you, and save you: fear not, for she is appointed unto thee from the beginning; and thou shalt preserve her, and she shall go with thee. Moreover I suppose that she shall bear thee children. Now when Tobias had heard these things, he loved her, and his heart was effectually joined to her.

CHAPTER 7

¹And when they were come to Ecbatane, they came to the house of Raguel, and Sara met them: and after they had saluted one another, she brought them into the house.

²Then said Raguel to Edna his wife, How like is this young man to Tobit my cousin!

³And Raguel asked them, From whence are ye, brethren? To whom they said, We are of the sons of Nephthalim, which are captives in Nineve.

⁴Then he said to them, Do ye know Tobit our kinsman? And they said, We know him. Then said he, Is he in good health?

⁵And they said, He is both alive, and in good health: and Tobias said, He is my father.

⁶Then Raguel leaped up, and kissed him, and wept, ⁷And blessed him, and said unto him, Thou art the son of an honest and good man. But when he had heard that Tobit was blind, he was sorrowful, and wept.

⁸And likewise Edna his wife and Sara his daughter wept. Moreover they entertained them cheerfully; and after that they had killed a ram of the flock, they set store of meat on the table. Then said Tobias to Raphael, Brother Azarias, speak of those things of which thou didst talk in the way, and let this business be dispatched.

⁹So he communicated the matter with Raguel: and Raguel said to Tobias, Eat and drink, and make merry:

¹⁰For it is meet that thou shouldest marry my daughter: nevertheless I will declare unto thee the truth.

¹¹I have given my daughter in marriage to seven men, who died that night they came in unto her: nevertheless for the present be merry. But Tobias said, I will eat nothing here, till we agree and swear one to another.

¹²Raguel said, Then take her from henceforth according to the manner, for thou art her cousin, and she is thine, and the merciful God give you good success in all things.

¹³Then he called his daughter Sara, and she came to her father, and he took her by the hand, and gave her to be wife to Tobias, saying, Behold, take her after the law of Moses, and lead her away to thy father. And he blessed them;

¹⁴And called Edna his wife, and took paper, and did write an instrument of covenants, and sealed it.

¹⁵Then they began to eat.

¹⁶After Raguel called his wife Edna, and said unto her, Sister, prepare another chamber, and bring her in thither.

¹⁷Which when she had done as he had bidden her, she brought her thither: and she wept, and she received the tears of her daughter, and said unto her, ¹⁸Be of good comfort, my daughter; the Lord of heaven and earth give thee joy for this thy sorrow: be of good comfort, my daughter.

CHAPTER 8

¹And when they had supped, they brought Tobias in unto her.

²And as he went, he remembered the words of Raphael, and took the ashes of the perfumes, and put the heart and the liver of the fish thereupon, and made a smoke therewith.

³The which smell when the evil spirit had smelled, he fled into the utmost parts of Egypt, and the angel bound him.

⁴And after that they were both shut in together, Tobias rose out of the bed, and said, Sister, arise, and let us pray that God would have pity on us.

⁵Then began Tobias to say, Blessed art thou, O God of our fathers, and blessed is thy holy and glorious name for ever; let the heavens bless thee, and all thy creatures.

⁶Thou madest Adam, and gavest him Eve his wife for an helper and stay: of them came mankind: thou hast said, It is not good that man should be alone; let us make unto him an aid like unto himself.

⁷And now, O Lord, I take not this my sister for lush but uprightly: therefore mercifully ordain that we may become aged together.

⁸And she said with him, Amen.

⁹So they slept both that night. And Raguel arose, and went and made a grave, ¹⁰Saying, I fear lest he also be dead.

¹¹But when Raguel was come into his house,

¹²He said unto his wife Edna. Send one of the maids, and let her see whether he be alive: if he be not, that we may bury him, and no man know it.

¹³So the maid opened the door, and went in, and found them both asleep, ¹⁴And came forth, and told them that he was alive.

¹⁵Then Raguel praised God, and said, O God, thou art worthy to be praised with all pure and holy praise; therefore let thy saints praise thee with all thy creatures; and let all thine angels and thine elect praise thee for ever.

¹⁶Thou art to be praised, for thou hast made me joyful; and that is not come to me which I suspected; but thou hast dealt with us according to thy great mercy.

¹⁷Thou art to be praised because thou hast had mercy of two that were the only begotten children of their fathers: grant them mercy, O Lord, and finish their life in health with joy and mercy.

¹⁸Then Raguel bade his servants to fill the grave.

¹⁹And he kept the wedding feast fourteen days.

²⁰For before the days of the marriage were finished, Raguel had said unto him by an oath, that he should not depart till the fourteen days of the marriage were expired;

²¹And then he should take the half of his goods, and go in safety to his father; and should have the rest when I and my wife be dead.

CHAPTER 9

¹Then Tobias called Raphael, and said unto him,

²Brother Azarias, take with thee a servant, and two camels, and go to Rages of Media to Gabael, and bring me the money, and bring him to the wedding.

³For Raguel hath sworn that I shall not depart.

⁴But my father counteth the days; and if I tarry long, he will be very sorry.

⁵So Raphael went out, and lodged with Gabael, and gave him the handwriting: who brought forth bags which were sealed up, and gave them to him.

⁶And early in the morning they went forth both together, and came to the wedding: and Tobias blessed his wife.

CHAPTER 10

¹Now Tobit his father counted every day: and when the days of the journey were expired, and they came not,

²Then Tobit said, Are they detained? or is Gabael dead, and there is no man to give him the money?

³Therefore he was very sorry.

⁴Then his wife said unto him, My son is dead, seeing he stayeth long; and she began to wail him, and said, ⁵Now I care for nothing, my son, since I have let thee go, the light of mine eyes.

⁶To whom Tobit said, Hold thy peace, take no care, for he is safe.

⁷But she said, Hold thy peace, and deceive me not; my son is dead. And she went out every day into the way which they went, and did eat no meat on the daytime, and ceased not whole nights to bewail her son Tobias, until the fourteen days of the wedding were expired, which Raguel had sworn that he should spend there. Then Tobias said to Raguel, Let me go, for my father and my mother look no more to see me.

Tobit

⁸But his father in law said unto him, Tarry with me, and I will send to thy father, and they shall declare unto him how things go with thee.

⁹But Tobias said, No; but let me go to my father.

¹⁰Then Raguel arose, and gave him Sara his wife, and half his goods, servants, and cattle, and money:

¹¹And he blessed them, and sent them away, saying, The God of heaven give you a prosperous journey, my children.

¹²And he said to his daughter, Honour thy father and thy mother in law, which are now thy parents, that I may hear good report of thee. And he kissed her. Edna also said to Tobias, The Lord of heaven restore thee, my dear brother, and grant that I may see thy children of my daughter Sara before I die, that I may rejoice before the Lord: behold, I commit my daughter unto thee of special trust; where are do not entreat her evil.

CHAPTER 11

¹After these things Tobias went his way, praising God that he had given him a prosperous journey, and blessed Raguel and Edna his wife, and went on his way till they drew near unto Nineve.

²Then Raphael said to Tobias, Thou knowest, brother, how thou didst leave thy father:

³Let us haste before thy wife, and prepare the house.

⁴And take in thine hand the gall of the fish. So they went their way, and the dog went after them.

⁵Now Anna sat looking about toward the way for her son.

⁶And when she espied him coming, she said to his father, Behold, thy son cometh, and the man that went with him.

⁷Then said Raphael, I know, Tobias, that thy father will open his eyes.

⁸Therefore anoint thou his eyes with the gall, and being pricked therewith, he shall rub, and the whiteness shall fall away, and he shall see thee.

⁹Then Anna ran forth, and fell upon the neck of her son, and said unto him, Seeing I have seen thee, my son, from henceforth I am content to die. And they wept both.

¹⁰Tobit also went forth toward the door, and stumbled: but his son ran unto him, ¹¹And took hold of his father: and he strake of the gall on his fathers' eyes, saying, Be of good hope, my father.

¹²And when his eyes began to smart, he rubbed them;

¹³And the whiteness pilled away from the corners of his eyes: and when he saw his son, he fell upon his neck.

¹⁴And he wept, and said, Blessed art thou, O God, and blessed is thy name for ever; and blessed are all thine holy angels: ¹⁵For thou hast scourged, and hast taken pity on me: for, behold, I see my son Tobias. And his son went in rejoicing, and told his father the great things that had happened to him in Media.

¹⁶Then Tobit went out to meet his daughter in law at the gate of Nineve, rejoicing and praising God: and they which saw him go marvelled, because he had received his sight.

¹⁷But Tobias gave thanks before them, because God had mercy on him. And when he came near to Sara his daughter in law, he blessed her, saying, Thou art welcome, daughter: God be blessed, which hath brought thee unto us, and blessed be thy father and thy mother. And there was joy among all his brethren which were at Nineve.

¹⁸And Achiacharus, and Nasbas his brother's son, came:

¹⁹And Tobias' wedding was kept seven days with great joy.

CHAPTER 12

¹Then Tobit called his son Tobias, and said unto him, My son, see that the man have his wages, which went with thee, and thou must give him more.

²And Tobias said unto him, O father, it is no harm to me to give him half of those things which I have brought:

³For he hath brought me again to thee in safety, and made whole my wife, and brought me the money, and likewise healed thee.

⁴Then the old man said, It is due unto him.

⁵So he called the angel, and he said unto him, Take half of all that ye have brought and go away in safety.

⁶Then he took them both apart, and said unto them, Bless God, praise him, and magnify him, and praise him for the things which he hath done unto you in the sight of all that live. It is good to praise God, and exalt his name, and honourably to shew forth the works of God; therefore be not slack to praise him.

⁷It is good to keep close the secret of a king, but it is honourable to reveal the works of God. Do that which is good, and no evil shall touch you.

⁸Prayer is good with fasting and alms and righteousness. A little with righteousness is better than much with unrighteousness. It is better to give alms than to lay up gold:

⁹For alms doth deliver from death, and shall purge away all sin. Those that exercise alms and righteousness shall be filled with life:

¹⁰But they that sin are enemies to their own life.

¹¹Surely I will keep close nothing from you. For I said, It was good to keep close the secret of a king, but that it was honourable to reveal the works of God.

¹²Now therefore, when thou didst pray, and Sara thy daughter in law, I did bring the remembrance of your prayers before the Holy One: and when thou didst bury the dead, I was with thee likewise.

¹³And when thou didst not delay to rise up, and leave thy dinner, to go and cover the dead, thy good deed was not hid from me: but I was with thee.

Tobit

¹⁴And now God hath sent me to heal thee and Sara thy daughter in law.

¹⁵I am Raphael, one of the seven holy angels, which present the prayers of the saints, and which go in and out before the glory of the Holy One.

¹⁶Then they were both troubled, and fell upon their faces: for they feared.

¹⁷But he said unto them, Fear not, for it shall go well with you; praise God therefore.

¹⁸For not of any favour of mine, but by the will of our God I came; wherefore praise him for ever.

¹⁹All these days I did appear unto you; but I did neither eat nor drink, but ye did see a vision.

²⁰Now therefore give God thanks: for I go up to him that sent me; but write all things which are done in a book.

²¹And when they arose, they saw him no more.

²²Then they confessed the great and wonderful works of God, and how the angel of the Lord had appeared unto them

CHAPTER 13

¹Then Tobit wrote a prayer of rejoicing, and said, Blessed be God that liveth for ever, and blessed be his kingdom.

²For he doth scourge, and hath mercy: he leadeth down to hell, and bringeth up again: neither is there any that can avoid his hand.

³Confess him before the Gentiles, ye children of Israel: for he hath scattered us among them.

⁴There declare his greatness, and extol him before all the living: for he is our Lord, and he is the God our Father for ever.

⁵And he will scourge us for our iniquities, and will have mercy again, and will gather us out of all nations, among whom he hath scattered us.

⁶If ye turn to him with your whole heart, and with your whole mind, and deal uprightly before him, then will he turn unto you, and will not hide his face from you. Therefore see what he will do with you, and confess him with your whole mouth, and praise the Lord of might, and extol the everlasting King. In the land of my captivity do I praise him, and declare his might and majesty to a sinful nation. O ye sinners, turn and do justice before him: who can tell if he will accept you, and have mercy on you?

⁷I will extol my God, and my soul shall praise the King of heaven, and shall rejoice in his greatness.

⁸Let all men speak, and let all praise him for his righteousness.

⁹O Jerusalem, the holy city, he will scourge thee for thy children's works, and will have mercy again on the sons of the righteous.

¹⁰Give praise to the Lord, for he is good: and praise the everlasting King, that his tabernacle may be builded in thee again with joy, and let him make joyful there in thee those that are captives, and love in thee for ever those that are miserable.

Tobit

¹¹Many nations shall come from far to the name of the Lord God with gifts in their hands, even gifts to the King of heaven; all generations shall praise thee with great joy.

¹²Cursed are all they which hate thee, and blessed shall all be which love thee for ever.

¹³Rejoice and be glad for the children of the just: for they shall be gathered together, and shall bless the Lord of the just.

¹⁴O blessed are they which love thee, for they shall rejoice in thy peace: blessed are they which have been sorrowful for all thy scourges; for they shall rejoice for thee, when they have seen all thy glory, and shall be glad for ever.

¹⁵Let my soul bless God the great King.

¹⁶For Jerusalem shall be built up with sapphires and emeralds, and precious stone: thy walls and towers and battlements with pure gold.

¹⁷And the streets of Jerusalem shall be paved with beryl and carbuncle and stones of Ophir.

¹⁸And all her streets shall say, Alleluia; and they shall praise him, saying, Blessed be God, which hath extolled it for ever.

CHAPTER 14

¹So Tobit made an end of praising God.

²And he was eight and fifty years old when he lost his sight, which was restored to him after eight years: and he gave alms, and he increased in the fear of the Lord God, and praised him.

³And when he was very aged he called his son, and the sons of his son, and said to him, My son, take thy children; for, behold, I am aged, and am ready to depart out of this life.

⁴Go into Media my son, for I surely believe those things which Jonas the prophet spake of Nineve, that it shall be overthrown; and that for a time peace shall rather be in Media; and that our brethren shall lie scattered in the earth from that good land: and Jerusalem shall be desolate, and the house of God in it shall be burned, and shall be desolate for a time;

⁵And that again God will have mercy on them, and bring them again into the land, where they shall build a temple, but not like to the first, until the time of that age be fulfilled; and afterward they shall return from all places of their captivity, and build up Jerusalem gloriously, and the house of God shall be built in it for ever with a glorious building, as the prophets have spoken thereof.

⁶And all nations shall turn, and fear the Lord God truly, and shall bury their idols.

⁷So shall all nations praise the Lord, and his people shall confess God, and the Lord shall exalt his people; and all those which love the Lord God in truth and justice shall rejoice, shewing mercy to our brethren.

⁸And now, my son, depart out of Nineve, because that those things which the prophet Jonas spake shall surely come to pass.

⁹But keep thou the law and the commandments, and shew thyself merciful and just, that it may go well with thee.

¹⁰And bury me decently, and thy mother with me; but tarry no longer at Nineve. Remember, my son, how Aman handled Achiacharus that brought him up, how out of light he brought him into darkness, and how he rewarded him again: yet Achiacharus was saved, but the other had his reward: for he went down into darkness. Manasses gave alms, and escaped the snares of death which they had set for him: but Aman fell into the snare, and perished.

¹¹Wherefore now, my son, consider what alms doeth, and how righteousness doth deliver. When he had said these things, he gave up the ghost in the bed, being an hundred and eight and fifty years old; and he buried him honourably.

¹²And when Anna his mother was dead, he buried her with his father. But Tobias departed with his wife and children to Ecbatane to Raguel his father in law, ¹³Where he became old with honour, and he buried his father and mother in law honourably, and he inherited their substance, and his father Tobit's.

¹⁴And he died at Ecbatane in Media, being an hundred and seven and twenty years old.

¹⁵But before he died he heard of the destruction of Nineve, which was taken by Nabuchodonosor and Assuerus: and before his death he rejoiced over Nineve.

Judith

CHAPTER 1

¹In the twelfth year of the reign of Nabuchodonosor, who reigned in Nineve, the great city; in the days of Arphaxad, which reigned over the Medes in Ecbatane,

²And built in Ecbatane walls round about of stones hewn three cubits broad and six cubits long, and made the height of the wall seventy cubits, and the breadth thereof fifty cubits:

³And set the towers thereof upon the gates of it an hundred cubits high, and the breadth thereof in the foundation threescore cubits:

⁴And he made the gates thereof, even gates that were raised to the height of seventy cubits, and the breadth of them was forty cubits, for the going forth of his mighty armies, and for the setting in array of his footmen:

⁵Even in those days king Nabuchodonosor made war with king Arphaxad in the great plain, which is the plain in the borders of Ragau.

⁶And there came unto him all they that dwelt in the hill country, and all that dwelt by Euphrates, and Tigris and Hydaspes, and the plain of Arioch the king of the Elymeans, and very many nations of the sons of Chelod, assembled themselves to the battle.

⁷Then Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians sent unto all that dwelt in Persia, and to all that dwelt westward, and to those that dwelt in Cilicia, and Damascus, and Libanus, and Antilibanus, and to all that dwelt upon the sea coast, ⁸And to those among the nations that were of Carmel, and Galaad, and the higher Galilee, and the great plain of Esdrelom, ⁹And to all that were in Samaria and the cities thereof, and beyond Jordan unto Jerusalem, and Betane, and Chelus, and Kades, and the river of Egypt, and Taphnes, and Ramesse, and all the land of Gesem, ¹⁰Until ye come beyond Tanis and Memphis, and to all the inhabitants of Egypt, until ye come to the borders of Ethiopia.

¹¹But all the inhabitants of the land made light of the commandment of Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians, neither went they with him to the battle; for they were not afraid of him: yea, he was before them as one man, and they sent away his ambassadors from them without effect, and with disgrace.

¹²Therefore Nabuchodonosor was very angry with all this country, and swore by his throne and kingdom, that he would surely be avenged upon all those coasts of Cilicia, and Damascus, and Syria, and that he would slay with the sword all the inhabitants of the land of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and all Judea, and all that were in Egypt, till ye come to the borders of the two seas.

¹³Then he marched in battle array with his power against king Arphaxad in the seventeenth year, and he prevailed in his battle: for he overthrew all the power of Arphaxad, and all his horsemen, and all his chariots, ¹⁴And became lord of his cities, and came unto Ecbatane, and took the towers, and spoiled the streets thereof, and turned the beauty thereof into shame.

¹⁵He took also Arphaxad in the mountains of Ragau, and smote him through with his darts, and destroyed him utterly that day.

¹⁶So he returned afterward to Nineve, both he and all his company of sundry nations being a very great multitude of men of war, and there he took his ease, and banqueted, both he and his army, an hundred and twenty days.

CHAPTER 2

¹And in the eighteenth year, the two and twentieth day of the first month, there was talk in the house of Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians that he should, as he said, avenge himself on all the earth.

²So he called unto him all his officers, and all his nobles, and communicated with them his secret counsel, and concluded the afflicting of the whole earth out of his own mouth.

³Then they decreed to destroy all flesh, that did not obey the commandment of his mouth.

⁴And when he had ended his counsel, Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians called Holofernes the chief captain of his army, which was next unto him, and said unto him.

⁵Thus saith the great king, the lord of the whole earth, Behold, thou shalt go forth from my presence, and take with thee men that trust in their own strength, of footmen an hundred and twenty thousand; and the number of horses with their riders twelve thousand.

⁶And thou shalt go against all the west country, because they disobeyed my commandment.

⁷And thou shalt declare unto that they prepare for me earth and water: for I will go forth in my wrath against them and will cover the whole face of the earth with the feet of mine army, and I will give them for a spoil unto them:

⁸So that their slain shall fill their valleys and brooks and the river shall be filled with their dead, till it overflow:

⁹And I will lead them captives to the utmost parts of all the earth.

¹⁰Thou therefore shalt go forth. and take beforehand for me all their coasts: and if they will yield themselves unto thee, thou shalt reserve them for me till the day of their punishment.

¹¹But concerning them that rebel, let not thine eye spare them; but put them to the slaughter, and spoil them wheresoever thou goest.

Judith

¹²For as I live, and by the power of my kingdom, whatsoever I have spoken, that will I do by mine hand.

¹³And take thou heed that thou transgress none of the commandments of thy lord, but accomplish them fully, as I have commanded thee, and defer not to do them.

¹⁴Then Holofernes went forth from the presence of his lord, and called ail the governors and captains, and the officers of the army of Assur;

¹⁵And he mustered the chosen men for the battle, as his lord had commanded him, unto an hundred and twenty thousand, and twelve thousand archers on horseback;

¹⁶And he ranged them, as a great army is ordered for the war.

¹⁷And he took camels and asses for their carriages, a very great number; and sheep and oxen and goats without number for their provision:

¹⁸And plenty of victual for every man of the army, and very much gold and silver out of the king's house.

¹⁹Then he went forth and all his power to go before king Nabuchodonosor in the voyage, and to cover all the face of the earth westward with their chariots, and horsemen, and their chosen footmen.

²⁰A great number also sundry countries came with them like locusts, and like the sand of the earth: for the multitude was without number.

²¹And they went forth of Nineve three days' journey toward the plain of Bectileth, and pitched from Bectileth near the mountain which is at the left hand of the upper Cilicia.

²²Then he took all his army, his footmen, and horsemen and chariots, and went from thence into the hill country;

²³And destroyed Phud and Lud, and spoiled all the children of Rassas, and the children of Israel, which were toward the wilderness at the south of the land of the Chellians.

²⁴Then he went over Euphrates, and went through Mesopotamia, and destroyed all the high cities that were upon the river Arbonai, till ye come to the sea.

²⁵And he took the borders of Cilicia, and killed all that resisted him, and came to the borders of Japheth, which were toward the south, over against Arabia.

²⁶He compassed also all the children of Madian, and burned up their tabernacles, and spoiled their sheepcotes.

²⁷Then he went down into the plain of Damascus in the time of wheat harvest, and burnt up all their fields, and destroyed their flocks and herds, also he spoiled their cities, and utterly wasted their countries, and smote all their young men with the edge of the sword.

²⁸Therefore the fear and dread of him fell upon all the inhabitants of the sea coasts, which were in Sidon and

Judith

Tyrus, and them that dwelt in Sur and Ocina, and all that dwelt in Jemnaan; and they that dwelt in Azotus and Ascalon feared him greatly.

CHAPTER 3

¹So they sent ambassadors unto him to treat of peace, saying,

²Behold, we the servants of Nabuchodonosor the great king lie before thee; use us as shall be good in thy sight.

³Behold, our houses, and all our places, and all our fields of wheat, and flocks, and herds, and all the lodges of our tents lie before thy face; use them as it pleaseth thee.

⁴Behold, even our cities and the inhabitants thereof are thy servants; come and deal with them as seemeth good unto thee.

⁵So the men came to Holofernes, and declared unto him after this manner.

⁶Then came he down toward the sea coast, both he and his army, and set garrisons in the high cities, and took out of them chosen men for aid.

⁷So they and all the country round about received them with garlands, with dances, and with timbrels.

⁸Yet he did cast down their frontiers, and cut down their groves: for he had decreed to destroy all the gods of the land, that all nations should worship Nabuchodonosor only, and that all tongues and tribes should call upon him as god.

⁹Also he came over against Esdraelon near unto Judea, over against the great strait of Judea.

¹⁰And he pitched between Geba and Scythopolis, and there he tarried a whole month, that he might gather together all the carriages of his army.

CHAPTER 4

¹Now the children of Israel, that dwelt in Judea, heard all that Holofernes the chief captain of Nabuchodonosor king of the Assyrians had done to the nations, and after what manner he had spoiled all their temples, and brought them to nought.

²Therefore they were exceedingly afraid of him, and were troubled for Jerusalem, and for the temple of the Lord their God:

³For they were newly returned from the captivity, and all the people of Judea were lately gathered together: and the vessels, and the altar, and the house, were sanctified after the profanation.

⁴Therefore they sent into all the coasts of Samaria, and the villages and to Bethoron, and Belmen, and Jericho, and to Choba, and Esora, and to the valley of Salem:

⁵And possessed themselves beforehand of all the tops of the high mountains, and fortified the villages that were in them, and laid up victuals for the provision of war: for their fields were of late reaped.

⁶Also Joacim the high priest, which was in those days in Jerusalem, wrote to them that dwelt in Bethulia, and

Judith

Betomestham, which is over against Esdraelon toward the open country, near to Dothaim, ⁷Charging them to keep the passages of the hill country: for by them there was an entrance into Judea, and it was easy to stop them that would come up, because the passage was straight, for two men at the most.

⁸And the children of Israel did as Joacim the high priest had commanded them, with the ancients of all the people of Israel, which dwelt at Jerusalem.

⁹Then every man of Israel cried to God with great fervency, and with great vehemency did they humble their souls:

¹⁰Both they, and their wives and their children, and their cattle, and every stranger and hireling, and their servants bought with money, put sackcloth upon their loins.

¹¹Thus every man and women, and the little children, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, fell before the temple, and cast ashes upon their heads, and spread out their sackcloth before the face of the Lord: also they put sackcloth about the altar, ¹²And cried to the God of Israel all with one consent earnestly, that he would not give their children for a prey, and their wives for a spoil, and the cities of their inheritance to destruction, and the sanctuary to profanation and reproach, and for the nations to rejoice at.

¹³So God heard their prayers, and looked upon their afflictions: for the people fasted many days in all Judea and Jerusalem before the sanctuary of the Lord Almighty.

¹⁴And Joacim the high priest, and all the priests that stood before the Lord, and they which ministered unto the Lord, had their loins girt with sackcloth, and offered the daily burnt offerings, with the vows and free gifts of the people, ¹⁵And had ashes on their mitres, and cried unto the Lord with all their power, that he would look upon all the house of Israel graciously.

CHAPTER 5

¹Then was it declared to Holofernes, the chief captain of the army of Assur, that the children of Israel had prepared for war, and had shut up the passages of the hill country, and had fortified all the tops of the high hills and had laid impediments in the champaign countries:

²Wherewith he was very angry, and called all the princes of Moab, and the captains of Ammon, and all the governors of the sea coast,

³And he said unto them, Tell me now, ye sons of Chanaan, who this people is, that dwelleth in the hill country, and what are the cities that they inhabit, and what is the multitude of their army, and wherein is their power and strength, and what king is set over them, or captain of their army;

Judith

⁴And why have they determined not to come and meet me, more than all the inhabitants of the west.

⁵Then said Achior, the captain of all the sons of Ammon, Let my lord now hear a word from the mouth of thy servant, and I will declare unto thee the truth concerning this people, which dwelleth near thee, and inhabiteth the hill countries: and there shall no lie come out of the mouth of thy servant.

⁶This people are descended of the Chaldeans:

⁷And they sojourned heretofore in Mesopotamia, because they would not follow the gods of their fathers, which were in the land of Chaldea.

⁸For they left the way of their ancestors, and worshipped the God of heaven, the God whom they knew: so they cast them out from the face of their gods, and they fled into Mesopotamia, and sojourned there many days.

⁹Then their God commanded them to depart from the place where they sojourned, and to go into the land of Chanaan: where they dwelt, and were increased with gold and silver, and with very much cattle.

¹⁰But when a famine covered all the land of Chanaan, they went down into Egypt, and sojourned there, while they were nourished, and became there a great multitude, so that one could not number their nation.

¹¹Therefore the king of Egypt rose up against them, and dealt subtilly with them, and brought them low with labouring in brick, and made them slaves.

¹²Then they cried unto their God, and he smote all the land of Egypt with incurable plagues: so the Egyptians cast them out of their sight.

¹³And God dried the Red sea before them,

¹⁴And brought them to mount Sina, and Cades-Barne, and cast forth all that dwelt in the wilderness.

¹⁵So they dwelt in the land of the Amorites, and they destroyed by their strength all them of Esebon, and passing over Jordan they possessed all the hill country.

¹⁶And they cast forth before them the Chanaanite, the Pherezite, the Jebusite, and the Sychemite, and all the Gergesites, and they dwelt in that country many days.

¹⁷And whilst they sinned not before their God, they prospered, because the God that hateth iniquity was with them.

¹⁸But when they departed from the way which he appointed them, they were destroyed in many battles very sore, and were led captives into a land that was not their's, and the temple of their God was cast to the ground, and their cities were taken by the enemies.

¹⁹But now are they returned to their God, and are come up from the places where they were scattered, and have possessed Jerusalem, where their sanctuary is, and are seated in the hill country; for it was desolate.

Judith

²⁰Now therefore, my lord and governor, if there be any error against this people, and they sin against their God, let us consider that this shall be their ruin, and let us go up, and we shall overcome them.

²¹But if there be no iniquity in their nation, let my lord now pass by, lest their Lord defend them, and their God be for them, and we become a reproach before all the world.

²²And when Achior had finished these sayings, all the people standing round about the tent murmured, and the chief men of Holofernes, and all that dwelt by the sea side, and in Moab, spake that he should kill him.

²³For, say they, we will not be afraid of the face of the children of Israel: for, lo, it is a people that have no strength nor power for a strong battle ²⁴Now therefore, lord Holofernes, we will go up, and they shall be a prey to be devoured of all thine army.

CHAPTER 6

¹And when the tumult of men that were about the council was ceased, Holofernes the chief captain of the army of Assur said unto Achior and all the Moabites before all the company of other nations, ²And who art thou, Achior, and the hirelings of Ephraim, that thou hast prophesied against us as to day, and hast said, that we should not make war with the people of Israel, because their God will defend them? and who is God but Nabuchodonosor?

³He will send his power, and will destroy them from the face of the earth, and their God shall not deliver them: but we his servants will destroy them as one man; for they are not able to sustain the power of our horses.

⁴For with them we will tread them under foot, and their mountains shall be drunken with their blood, and their fields shall be filled with their dead bodies, and their footsteps shall not be able to stand before us, for they shall utterly perish, saith king Nabuchodonosor, lord of all the earth: for he said, None of my words shall be in vain.

⁵And thou, Achior, an hireling of Ammon, which hast spoken these words in the day of thine iniquity, shalt see my face no more from this day, until I take vengeance of this nation that came out of Egypt.

⁶And then shall the sword of mine army, and the multitude of them that serve me, pass through thy sides, and thou shalt fall among their slain, when I return.

⁷Now therefore my servants shall bring thee back into the hill country, and shall set thee in one of the cities of the passages:

⁸And thou shalt not perish, till thou be destroyed with them.

⁹And if thou persuade thyself in thy mind that they shall be taken, let not thy countenance fall: I have spoken it, and none of my words shall be in vain.

¹⁰Then Holofernes commanded his servants, that waited in his tent, to take

Judith

Achior, and bring him to Bethulia, and deliver him into the hands of the children of Israel.

¹¹So his servants took him, and brought him out of the camp into the plain, and they went from the midst of the plain into the hill country, and came unto the fountains that were under Bethulia.

¹²And when the men of the city saw them, they took up their weapons, and went out of the city to the top of the hill: and every man that used a sling kept them from coming up by casting of stones against them.

¹³Nevertheless having gotten privily under the hill, they bound Achior, and cast him down, and left him at the foot of the hill, and returned to their lord.

¹⁴But the Israelites descended from their city, and came unto him, and loosed him, and brought him to Bethulia, and presented him to the governors of the city:

¹⁵Which were in those days Ozias the son of Micha, of the tribe of Simeon, and Chabris the son of Gothoniel, and Charmis the son of Melchiel.

¹⁶And they called together all the ancients of the city, and all their youth ran together, and their women, to the assembly, and they set Achior in the midst of all their people. Then Ozias asked him of that which was done.

¹⁷And he answered and declared unto them the words of the council of Holofernes, and all the words that he had spoken in the midst of the princes of Assur, and whatsoever Holofernes had spoken proudly against the house of Israel.

¹⁸Then the people fell down and worshipped God, and cried unto God. saying, ¹⁹O Lord God of heaven, behold their pride, and pity the low estate of our nation, and look upon the face of those that are sanctified unto thee this day.

²⁰Then they comforted Achior, and praised him greatly.

²¹And Ozias took him out of the assembly unto his house, and made a feast to the elders; and they called on the God of Israel all that night for help.

CHAPTER 7

¹The next day Holofernes commanded all his army, and all his people which were come to take his part, that they should remove their camp against Bethulia, to take aforehand the ascents of the hill country, and to make war against the children of Israel.

²Then their strong men removed their camps in that day, and the army of the men of war was an hundred and seventy thousand footmen, and twelve thousand horsemen, beside the baggage, and other men that were afoot among them, a very great multitude.

³And they camped in the valley near unto Bethulia, by the fountain, and they spread themselves in breadth over Dothaim even to Belmaim, and in length from Bethulia unto Cynamon, which is over against Esdraelon.

⁴Now the children of Israel, when they saw the multitude of them, were greatly troubled, and said every one to his neighbour, Now will these men lick up the face of the earth; for neither the high mountains, nor the valleys, nor the hills, are able to bear their weight.

⁵Then every man took up his weapons of war, and when they had kindled fires upon their towers, they remained and watched all that night.

⁶But in the second day Holofernes brought forth all his horsemen in the sight of the children of Israel which were in Bethulia, ⁷And viewed the passages up to the city, and came to the fountains of their waters, and took them, and set garrisons of men of war over them, and he himself removed toward his people.

⁸Then came unto him all the chief of the children of Esau, and all the governors of the people of Moab, and the captains of the sea coast, and said, ⁹Let our lord now hear a word, that there be not an overthrow in thine army.

¹⁰For this people of the children of Israel do not trust in their spears, but in the height of the mountains wherein they dwell, because it is not easy to come up to the tops of their mountains.

¹¹Now therefore, my lord, fight not against them in battle array, and there shall not so much as one man of thy people perish.

¹²Remain in thy camp, and keep all the men of thine army, and let thy servants get into their hands the fountain of water, which issueth forth of the foot of the mountain:

¹³For all the inhabitants of Bethulia have their water thence; so shall thirst kill them, and they shall give up their city, and we and our people shall go up to the tops of the mountains that are near, and will camp upon them, to watch that none go out of the city.

¹⁴So they and their wives and their children shall be consumed with fire, and before the sword come against them, they shall be overthrown in the streets where they dwell.

¹⁵Thus shalt thou render them an evil reward; because they rebelled, and met not thy person peaceably.

¹⁶And these words pleased Holofernes and all his servants, and he appointed to do as they had spoken.

¹⁷So the camp of the children of Ammon departed, and with them five thousand of the Assyrians, and they pitched in the valley, and took the waters, and the fountains of the waters of the children of Israel.

¹⁸Then the children of Esau went up with the children of Ammon, and camped in the hill country over against Dothaim: and they sent some of them toward the south, and toward the east over against Ekrebel, which is near unto Chusi, that is upon the brook Mochmur; and the rest of the army of the Assyrians camped in the plain, and covered the face of the whole land; and their tents and carriages were pitched to a very great multitude.

¹⁹Then the children of Israel cried unto the Lord their God, because their heart failed, for all their enemies had compassed them round about, and there was no way to escape out from among them.

²⁰Thus all the company of Assur remained about them, both their footmen, chariots, and horsemen, four and thirty days, so that all their vessels of water failed all the inhabitants of Bethulia.

²¹And the cisterns were emptied, and they had not water to drink their fill for one day; for they gave them drink by measure.

²²Therefore their young children were out of heart, and their women and young men fainted for thirst, and fell down in the streets of the city, and by the passages of the gates, and there was no longer any strength in them.

²³Then all the people assembled to Ozias, and to the chief of the city, both young men, and women, and children, and cried with a loud voice, and said before all the elders, ²⁴God be judge between us and you: for ye have done us great injury, in that ye have not required peace of the children of Assur.

²⁵For now we have no helper: but God hath sold us into their hands, that we should be thrown down before them with thirst and great destruction.

²⁶Now therefore call them unto you, and deliver the whole city for a spoil to the people of Holofernes, and to all his army.

²⁷For it is better for us to be made a spoil unto them, than to die for thirst: for we will be his servants, that our souls may live, and not see the death of our infants before our eyes, nor our wives nor our children to die.

²⁸We take to witness against you the heaven and the earth, and our God and Lord of our fathers, which punisheth us according to our sins and the sins of our fathers, that he do not according as we have said this day.

²⁹Then there was great weeping with one consent in the midst of the assembly; and they cried unto the Lord God with a loud voice.

³⁰Then said Ozias to them, Brethren, be of good courage, let us yet endure five days, in the which space the Lord our God may turn his mercy toward us; for he will not forsake us utterly.

³¹And if these days pass, and there come no help unto us, I will do according to your word.

³²And he dispersed the people, every one to their own charge; and they went unto the walls and towers of their city, and sent the women and children into their houses: and they were very low brought in the city.

CHAPTER 8

¹Now at that time Judith heard thereof, which was the daughter of Merari, the son of Ox, the son of Joseph, the son of Ozel, the son of

Judith

Elcia, the son of Ananias, the son of Gedeon, the son of Raphaim, the son of Acitho, the son of Eliu, the son of Eliab, the son of Nathanael, the son of Samael, the son of Salasadal, the son of Israel.

²And Manasses was her husband, of her tribe and kindred, who died in the barley harvest.

³For as he stood overseeing them that bound sheaves in the field, the heat came upon his head, and he fell on his bed, and died in the city of Bethulia: and they buried him with his fathers in the field between Dothaim and Balamo.

⁴So Judith was a widow in her house three years and four months.

⁵And she made her a tent upon the top of her house, and put on sackcloth upon her loins and ware her widow's apparel.

⁶And she fasted all the days of her widowhood, save the eves of the sabbaths, and the sabbaths, and the eves of the new moons, and the new moons and the feasts and solemn days of the house of Israel.

⁷She was also of a goodly countenance, and very beautiful to behold: and her husband Manasses had left her gold, and silver, and menservants and maidservants, and cattle, and lands; and she remained upon them.

⁸And there was none that gave her an ill word; for she feared God greatly.

⁹Now when she heard the evil words of the people against the governor, that they fainted for lack of water; for Judith had heard all the words that Ozias had spoken unto them, and that he had sworn to deliver the city unto the Assyrians after five days;

¹⁰Then she sent her waitingwoman, that had the government of all things that she had, to call Ozias and Chabris and Charmis, the ancients of the city.

¹¹And they came unto her, and she said unto them, Hear me now, O ye governors of the inhabitants of Bethulia: for your words that ye have spoken before the people this day are not right, touching this oath which ye made and pronounced between God and you, and have promised to deliver the city to our enemies, unless within these days the Lord turn to help you.

¹²And now who are ye that have tempted God this day, and stand instead of God among the children of men?

¹³And now try the Lord Almighty, but ye shall never know any thing.

¹⁴For ye cannot find the depth of the heart of man, neither can ye perceive the things that he thinketh: then how can ye search out God, that hath made all these things, and know his mind, or comprehend his purpose? Nay, my brethren, provoke not the Lord our God to anger.

¹⁵For if he will not help us within these five days, he hath power to defend us when he will, even every day, or to destroy us before our enemies.

Judith

¹⁶Do not bind the counsels of the Lord our God: for God is not as man, that he may be threatened; neither is he as the son of man, that he should be wavering.

¹⁷Therefore let us wait for salvation of him, and call upon him to help us, and he will hear our voice, if it please him.

¹⁸For there arose none in our age, neither is there any now in these days neither tribe, nor family, nor people, nor city among us, which worship gods made with hands, as hath been aforetime.

¹⁹For the which cause our fathers were given to the sword, and for a spoil, and had a great fall before our enemies.

²⁰But we know none other god, therefore we trust that he will not despise us, nor any of our nation.

²¹For if we be taken so, all Judea shall lie waste, and our sanctuary shall be spoiled; and he will require the profanation thereof at our mouth.

²²And the slaughter of our brethren, and the captivity of the country, and the desolation of our inheritance, will he turn upon our heads among the Gentiles, wheresoever we shall be in bondage; and we shall be an offence and a reproach to all them that possess us.

²³For our servitude shall not be directed to favour: but the Lord our God shall turn it to dishonour.

²⁴Now therefore, O brethren, let us shew an example to our brethren, because their hearts depend upon us, and the sanctuary, and the house, and the altar, rest upon us.

²⁵Moreover let us give thanks to the Lord our God, which trieth us, even as he did our fathers.

²⁶Remember what things he did to Abraham, and how he tried Isaac, and what happened to Jacob in Mesopotamia of Syria, when he kept the sheep of Laban his mother's brother.

²⁷For he hath not tried us in the fire, as he did them, for the examination of their hearts, neither hath he taken vengeance on us: but the Lord doth scourge them that come near unto him, to admonish them.

²⁸Then said Ozias to her, All that thou hast spoken hast thou spoken with a good heart, and there is none that may gainsay thy words.

²⁹For this is not the first day wherein thy wisdom is manifested; but from the beginning of thy days all the people have known thy understanding, because the disposition of thine heart is good.

³⁰But the people were very thirsty, and compelled us to do unto them as we have spoken, and to bring an oath upon ourselves, which we will not break.

³¹Therefore now pray thou for us, because thou art a godly woman, and the Lord will send us rain to fill our cisterns, and we shall faint no more.

³²Then said Judith unto them, Hear me, and I will do a thing, which shall go throughout all generations to the children of our nation.

Judith

³³Ye shall stand this night in the gate, and I will go forth with my waitingwoman: and within the days that ye have promised to deliver the city to our enemies the Lord will visit Israel by mine hand.

³⁴But enquire not ye of mine act: for I will not declare it unto you, till the things be finished that I do.

³⁵Then said Ozias and the princes unto her, Go in peace, and the Lord God be before thee, to take vengeance on our enemies.

³⁶So they returned from the tent, and went to their wards.

CHAPTER 9

¹Judith fell upon her face, and put ashes upon her head, and uncovered the sackcloth wherewith she was clothed; and about the time that the incense of that evening was offered in Jerusalem in the house of the Lord Judith cried with a loud voice, and said,

²O Lord God of my father Simeon, to whom thou gavest a sword to take vengeance of the strangers, who loosened the girdle of a maid to defile her, and discovered the thigh to her shame, and polluted her virginity to her reproach; for thou saidst, It shall not be so; and yet they did so:

³Wherefore thou gavest their rulers to be slain, so that they dyed their bed in blood, being deceived, and smotest the servants with their lords, and the lords upon their thrones;

⁴And hast given their wives for a prey, and their daughters to be captives, and all their spoils to be divided among thy dear children; which were moved with thy zeal, and abhorred the pollution of their blood, and called upon thee for aid: O God, O my God, hear me also a widow.

⁵For thou hast wrought not only those things, but also the things which fell out before, and which ensued after; thou hast thought upon the things which are now, and which are to come.

⁶Yea, what things thou didst determine were ready at hand, and said, Lo, we are here: for all thy ways are prepared, and thy judgments are in thy foreknowledge.

⁷For, behold, the Assyrians are multiplied in their power; they are exalted with horse and man; they glory in the strength of their footmen; they trust in shield, and spear, and bow, and sling; and know not that thou art the Lord that breakest the battles: the Lord is thy name.

⁸Throw down their strength in thy power, and bring down their force in thy wrath: for they have purposed to defile thy sanctuary, and to pollute the tabernacle where thy glorious name resteth and to cast down with sword the horn of thy altar.

⁹Behold their pride, and send thy wrath upon their heads: give into mine hand, which am a widow, the power that I have conceived.

¹⁰Smite by the deceit of my lips the servant with the prince, and the prince with the servant: break down their stateliness by the hand of a woman.

Judith

¹¹For thy power standeth not in multitude nor thy might in strong men: for thou art a God of the afflicted, an helper of the oppressed, an upholder of the weak, a protector of the forlorn, a saviour of them that are without hope.

¹²I pray thee, I pray thee, O God of my father, and God of the inheritance of Israel, Lord of the heavens and earth, Creator of the waters, king of every creature, hear thou my prayer:

¹³And make my speech and deceit to be their wound and stripe, who have purposed cruel things against thy covenant, and thy hallowed house, and against the top of Sion, and against the house of the possession of thy children.

¹⁴And make every nation and tribe to acknowledge that thou art the God of all power and might, and that there is none other that protecteth the people of Israel but thou.

CHAPTER 10

¹Now after that she had ceased to cry unto the God of Israel, and had made an end of all these words.

²She rose where she had fallen down, and called her maid, and went down into the house in the which she abode in the sabbath days, and in her feast days,

³And pulled off the sackcloth which she had on, and put off the garments of her widowhood, and washed her body all over with water, and anointed herself with precious ointment, and braided the hair of her head, and put on a tire upon it, and put on her garments of gladness, wherewith she was clad during the life of Manasses her husband.

⁴And she took sandals upon her feet, and put about her her bracelets, and her chains, and her rings, and her earrings, and all her ornaments, and decked herself bravely, to allure the eyes of all men that should see her.

⁵Then she gave her maid a bottle of wine, and a cruse of oil, and filled a bag with parched corn, and lumps of figs, and with fine bread; so she folded all these things together, and laid them upon her.

⁶Thus they went forth to the gate of the city of Bethulia, and found standing there Ozias and the ancients of the city, Chabris and Charmis.

⁷And when they saw her, that her countenance was altered, and her apparel was changed, they wondered at her beauty very greatly, and said unto her.

⁸The God, the God of our fathers give thee favour, and accomplish thine enter-prizes to the glory of the children of Israel, and to the exaltation of Jerusalem. Then they worshipped God.

⁹And she said unto them, Command the gates of the city to be opened unto me, that I may go forth to accomplish the things whereof ye have spoken with me. So they commanded the young men to open unto her, as she had spoken.

Judith

¹⁰And when they had done so, Judith went out, she, and her maid with her; and the men of the city looked after her, until she was gone down the mountain, and till she had passed the valley, and could see her no more.

¹¹Thus they went straight forth in the valley: and the first watch of the Assyrians met her,

¹²And took her, and asked her, Of what people art thou? and whence comest thou? and whither goest thou? And she said, I am a woman of the Hebrews, and am fled from them: for they shall be given you to be consumed:

¹³And I am coming before Holofernes the chief captain of your army, to declare words of truth; and I will shew him a way, whereby he shall go, and win all the hill country, without losing the body or life of any one of his men.

¹⁴Now when the men heard her words, and beheld her countenance, they wondered greatly at her beauty, and said unto her,

¹⁵Thou hast saved thy life, in that thou hast hasted to come down to the presence of our lord: now therefore come to his tent, and some of us shall conduct thee, until they have delivered thee to his hands.

¹⁶And when thou standest before him, be not afraid in thine heart, but shew unto him according to thy word; and he will entreat thee well.

¹⁷Then they chose out of them an hundred men to accompany her and her maid; and they brought her to the tent of Holofernes.

¹⁸Then was there a concourse throughout all the camp: for her coming was noised among the tents, and they came about her, as she stood without the tent of Holofernes, till they told him of her.

¹⁹And they wondered at her beauty, and admired the children of Israel because of her, and every one said to his neighbour, Who would despise this people, that have among them such women? surely it is not good that one man of them be left who being let go might deceive the whole earth.

²⁰And they that lay near Holofernes went out, and all his servants and they brought her into the tent.

²¹Now Holofernes rested upon his bed under a canopy, which was woven with purple, and gold, and emeralds, and precious stones.

²²So they shewed him of her; and he came out before his tent with silver lamps going before him.

²³And when Judith was come before him and his servants they all marvelled at the beauty of her countenance; and she fell down upon her face, and did reverence unto him: and his servants took her up.

CHAPTER 11

¹Then said Holofernes unto her, Woman, be of good comfort, fear not in thine heart: for I never hurt any that was willing to serve Nabuchodonosor, the king of all the earth.

Judith

²Now therefore, if thy people that dwelleth in the mountains had not set light by me, I would not have lifted up my spear against them: but they have done these things to themselves.

³But now tell me wherefore thou art fled from them, and art come unto us: for thou art come for safeguard; be of good comfort, thou shalt live this night, and hereafter:

⁴For none shall hurt thee, but entreat thee well, as they do the servants of king Nabuchodonosor my lord.

⁵Then Judith said unto him, Receive the words of thy servant, and suffer thine handmaid to speak in thy presence, and I will declare no lie to my lord this night.

⁶And if thou wilt follow the words of thine handmaid, God will bring the thing perfectly to pass by thee; and my lord shall not fail of his purposes.

⁷As Nabuchodonosor king of all the earth liveth, and as his power liveth, who hath sent thee for the upholding of every living thing: for not only men shall serve him by thee, but also the beasts of the field, and the cattle, and the fowls of the air, shall live by thy power under Nabuchodonosor and all his house.

⁸For we have heard of thy wisdom and thy policies, and it is reported in all the earth, that thou only art excellent in all the kingdom, and mighty in knowledge, and wonderful in feats of war.

⁹Now as concerning the matter, which Achior did speak in thy council, we have heard his words; for the men of Bethulia saved him, and he declared unto them all that he had spoken unto thee.

¹⁰Therefore, O lord and governor, reject not his word; but lay it up in thine heart, for it is true: for our nation shall not be punished, neither can sword prevail against them, except they sin against their God.

¹¹And now, that my lord be not defeated and frustrate of his purpose, even death is now fallen upon them, and their sin hath overtaken them, wherewith they will provoke their God to anger whensoever they shall do that which is not fit to be done:

¹²For their victuals fail them, and all their water is scant, and they have determined to lay hands upon their cattle, and purposed to consume all those things, that God hath forbidden them to eat by his laws:

¹³And are resolved to spend the firstfruits of the the tenths of wine and oil, which they had sanctified, and reserved for the priests that serve in Jerusalem before the face of our God; the which things it is not lawful for any of the people so much as to touch with their hands.

¹⁴For they have sent some to Jerusalem, because they also that dwell there have done the like, to bring them a licence from the senate.

¹⁵Now when they shall bring them word, they will forthwith do it, and they shall be given to thee to be destroyed the same day.

Judith

¹⁶Wherefore I thine handmaid, knowing all this, am fled from their presence; and God hath sent me to work things with thee, whereat all the earth shall be astonished, and whosoever shall hear it.

¹⁷For thy servant is religious, and serveth the God of heaven day and night: now therefore, my lord, I will remain with thee, and thy servant will go out by night into the valley, and I will pray unto God, and he will tell me when they have committed their sins:

¹⁸And I will come and shew it unto thee: then thou shalt go forth with all thine army, and there shall be none of them that shall resist thee.

¹⁹And I will lead thee through the midst of Judea, until thou come before Jerusalem; and I will set thy throne in the midst thereof; and thou shalt drive them as sheep that have no shepherd, and a dog shall not so much as open his mouth at thee: for these things were told me according to my foreknowledge, and they were declared unto me, and I am sent to tell thee.

²⁰Then her words pleased Holofernes and all his servants; and they marvelled at her wisdom, and said, ²¹There is not such a woman from one end of the earth to the other, both for beauty of face, and wisdom of words.

²²Likewise Holofernes said unto her. God hath done well to send thee before the people, that strength might be in our hands and destruction upon them that lightly regard my lord.

²³And now thou art both beautiful in thy countenance, and witty in thy words: surely if thou do as thou hast spoken thy God shall be my God, and thou shalt dwell in the house of king Nabuchodonosor, and shalt be renowned through the whole earth.

CHAPTER 12

¹Then he commanded to bring her in where his plate was set; and bade that they should prepare for her of his own meats, and that she should drink of his own wine.

²And Judith said, I will not eat thereof, lest there be an offence: but provision shall be made for me of the things that I have brought.

³Then Holofernes said unto her, If thy provision should fail, how should we give thee the like? for there be none with us of thy nation.

⁴Then said Judith unto him As thy soul liveth, my lord, thine handmaid shall not spend those things that I have, before the Lord work by mine hand the things that he hath determined.

⁵Then the servants of Holofernes brought her into the tent, and she slept till midnight, and she arose when it was toward the morning watch, ⁶And sent to Holofernes, saying, Let my lord now command that thine handmaid may go forth unto prayer.

⁷Then Holofernes commanded his guard that they should not stay her: thus she abode in the camp three days, and went out in the night into the valley of Bethulia, and washed herself in a fountain of water by the camp.

Judith

⁸And when she came out, she besought the Lord God of Israel to direct her way to the raising up of the children of her people.

⁹So she came in clean, and remained in the tent, until she did eat her meat at evening.

¹⁰And in the fourth day Holofernes made a feast to his own servants only, and called none of the officers to the banquet.

¹¹Then said he to Bagoas the eunuch, who had charge over all that he had, Go now, and persuade this Hebrew woman which is with thee, that she come unto us, and eat and drink with us.

¹²For, lo, it will be a shame for our person, if we shall let such a woman go, not having had her company; for if we draw her not unto us, she will laugh us to scorn.

¹³Then went Bagoas from the presence of Holofernes, and came to her, and he said, Let not this fair damsel fear to come to my lord, and to be honoured in his presence, and drink wine, and be merry with us and be made this day as one of the daughters of the Assyrians, which serve in the house of Nabuchodonosor.

¹⁴Then said Judith unto him, Who am I now, that I should gainsay my lord? surely whatsoever pleaseth him I will do speedily, and it shall be my joy unto the day of my death.

¹⁵So she arose, and decked herself with her apparel and all her woman's attire, and her maid went and laid soft skins on the ground for her over against Holofernes, which she had received of Bagoas for her daily use, that she might sit and eat upon them.

¹⁶Now when Judith came in and sat down, Holofernes his heart was ravished with her, and his mind was moved, and he desired greatly her company; for he waited a time to deceive her, from the day that he had seen her.

¹⁷Then said Holofernes unto her, Drink now, and be merry with us.

¹⁸So Judith said, I will drink now, my lord, because my life is magnified in me this day more than all the days since I was born.

¹⁹Then she took and ate and drank before him what her maid had prepared.

²⁰And Holofernes took great delight in her, and drank more wine than he had drunk at any time in one day since he was born.

CHAPTER 13

¹Now when the evening was come, his servants made haste to depart, and Bagoas shut his tent without, and dismissed the waiters from the presence of his lord; and they went to their beds: for they were all weary, because the feast had been long.

²And Judith was left alone in the tent, and Holofernes lying along upon his bed: for he was filled with wine.

Judith

³Now Judith had commanded her maid to stand without her bedchamber, and to wait for her. coming forth, as she did daily: for she said she would go forth to her prayers, and she spake to Bagoas according to the same purpose.

⁴So all went forth and none was left in the bedchamber, neither little nor great. Then Judith, standing by his bed, said in her heart, O Lord God of all power, look at this present upon the works of mine hands for the exaltation of Jerusalem.

⁵For now is the time to help thine inheritance, and to execute thine enterprizes to the destruction of the enemies which are risen against us.

⁶Then she came to the pillar of the bed, which was at Holofernes' head, and took down his fauchion from thence, ⁷And approached to his bed, and took hold of the hair of his head, and said, Strengthen me, O Lord God of Israel, this day.

⁸And she smote twice upon his neck with all her might, and she took away his head from him.

⁹And tumbled his body down from the bed, and pulled down the canopy from the pillars; and anon after she went forth, and gave Holofernes his head to her maid;

¹⁰And she put it in her bag of meat: so they twain went together according to their custom unto prayer: and when they passed the camp, they compassed the valley, and went up the mountain of Bethulia, and came to the gates thereof.

¹¹Then said Judith afar off, to the watchmen at the gate, Open, open now the gate: God, even our God, is with us, to shew his power yet in Jerusalem, and his forces against the enemy, as he hath even done this day.

¹²Now when the men of her city heard her voice, they made haste to go down to the gate of their city, and they called the elders of the city.

¹³And then they ran all together, both small and great, for it was strange unto them that she was come: so they opened the gate, and received them, and made a fire for a light, and stood round about them.

¹⁴Then she said to them with a loud voice, Praise, praise God, praise God, I say, for he hath not taken away his mercy from the house of Israel, but hath destroyed our enemies by mine hands this night.

¹⁵So she took the head out of the bag, and shewed it, and said unto them, behold the head of Holofernes, the chief captain of the army of Assur, and behold the canopy, wherein he did lie in his drunkenness; and the Lord hath smitten him by the hand of a woman.

¹⁶As the Lord liveth, who hath kept me in my way that I went, my countenance hath deceived him to his destruction, and yet hath he not committed sin with me, to defile and shame me.

Judith

¹⁷Then all the people were wonderfully astonished, and bowed themselves and worshipped God, and said with one accord, Blessed be thou, O our God, which hast this day brought to nought the enemies of thy people.

¹⁸Then said Ozias unto her, O daughter, blessed art thou of the most high God above all the women upon the earth; and blessed be the Lord God, which hath created the heavens and the earth, which hath directed thee to the cutting off of the head of the chief of our enemies.

¹⁹For this thy confidence shall not depart from the heart of men, which remember the power of God for ever.

²⁰And God turn these things to thee for a perpetual praise, to visit thee in good things because thou hast not spared thy life for the affliction of our nation, but hast revenged our ruin, walking a straight way before our God. And all the people said; So be it, so be it.

CHAPTER 14

¹Then said Judith unto them, Hear me now, my brethren, and take this head, and hang it upon the highest place of your walls.

²And so soon as the morning shall appear, and the sun shall come forth upon the earth, take ye every one his weapons, and go forth every valiant man out of the city, and set ye a captain over them, as though ye would go down into the field toward the watch of the Assyrians; but go not down.

³Then they shall take their armour, and shall go into their camp, and raise up the captains of the army of Assur, and shall run to the tent of Holofernes, but shall not find him: then fear shall fall upon them, and they shall flee before your face.

⁴So ye, and all that inhabit the coast of Israel, shall pursue them, and overthrow them as they go.

⁵But before ye do these things, call me Achior the Ammonite, that he may see and know him that despised the house of Israel, and that sent him to us as it were to his death.

⁶Then they called Achior out of the house of Ozias; and when he was come, and saw the head of Holofernes in a man's hand in the assembly of the people, he fell down on his face, and his spirit failed.

⁷But when they had recovered him, he fell at Judith's feet, and reverenced her, and said, Blessed art thou in all the tabernacles of Juda, and in all nations, which hearing thy name shall be astonished.

⁸Now therefore tell me all the things that thou hast done in these days. Then Judith declared unto him in the midst of the people all that she had done, from the day that she went forth until that hour she spake unto them.

⁹And when she had left off speaking, the people shouted with a loud voice, and made a joyful noise in their city.

Judith

¹⁰And when Achior had seen all that the God of Israel had done, he believed in God greatly, and circumcised the flesh of his foreskin, and was joined unto the house of Israel unto this day.

¹¹And as soon as the morning arose, they hanged the head of Holofernes upon the wall, and every man took his weapons, and they went forth by bands unto the straits of the mountain.

¹²But when the Assyrians saw them, they sent to their leaders, which came to their captains and tribunes, and to every one of their rulers.

¹³So they came to Holofernes' tent, and said to him that had the charge of all his things, Waken now our lord: for the slaves have been bold to come down against us to battle, that they may be utterly destroyed.

¹⁴Then went in Bagoas, and knocked at the door of the tent; for he thought that he had slept with Judith.

¹⁵But because none answered, he opened it, and went into the bedchamber, and found him cast upon the floor dead, and his head was taken from him.

¹⁶Therefore he cried with a loud voice, with weeping, and sighing, and a mighty cry, and rent his garments.

¹⁷After he went into the tent where Judith lodged: and when he found her not, he leaped out to the people, and cried, ¹⁸These slaves have dealt treacherously; one woman of the Hebrews hath brought shame upon the house of king Nabuchodonosor: for, behold, Holofernes lieth upon the ground without a head.

¹⁹When the captains of the Assyrians' army heard these words, they rent their coats and their minds were wonderfully troubled, and there was a cry and a very great noise throughout the camp.

CHAPTER 15

¹And when they that were in the tents heard, they were astonished at the thing that was done.

²And fear and trembling fell upon them, so that there was no man that durst abide in the sight of his neighbour, but rushing out all together, they fled into every way of the plain, and of the hill country.

³They also that had camped in the mountains round about Bethulia fled away. Then the children of Israel, every one that was a warrior among them, rushed out upon them.

⁴Then sent Ozias to Betomasthem, and to Bebai, and Chobai, and Cola and to all the coasts of Israel, such as should tell the things that were done, and that all should rush forth upon their enemies to destroy them.

⁵Now when the children of Israel heard it, they all fell upon them with one consent, and slew them unto Chobai: likewise also they that came from Jerusalem, and from all the hill country, (for men had told them what things were done in the camp of their enemies) and they that were in Galaad, and in Galilee, chased them with a great slaughter, until they were past Damascus and the borders thereof.

⁶And the residue that dwelt at Bethulia, fell upon the camp of Assur, and spoiled them, and were greatly enriched.

⁷And the children of Israel that returned from the slaughter had that which remained; and the villages and the cities, that were in the mountains and in the plain, gat many spoils: for the multitude was very great.

⁸Then Joacim the high priest, and the ancients of the children of Israel that dwelt in Jerusalem, came to behold the good things that God had shewed to Israel, and to see Judith, and to salute her.

⁹And when they came unto her, they blessed her with one accord, and said unto her, Thou art the exaltation of Jerusalem, thou art the great glory of Israel, thou art the great rejoicing of our nation:

¹⁰Thou hast done all these things by thine hand: thou hast done much good to Israel, and God is pleased therewith: blessed be thou of the Almighty Lord for evermore. And all the people said, So be it.

¹¹And the people spoiled the camp the space of thirty days: and they gave unto Judith Holofernes his tent, and all his plate, and beds, and vessels, and all his stuff: and she took it and laid it on her mule; and made ready her carts, and laid them thereon.

¹²Then all the women of Israel ran together to see her, and blessed her, and made a dance among them for her: and she took branches in her hand, and gave also to the women that were with her.

¹³And they put a garland of olive upon her and her maid that was with her, and she went before all the people in the dance, leading all the women: and all the men of Israel followed in their armour with garlands, and with songs in their mouths.

CHAPTER 16

¹Then Judith began to sing this thanksgiving in all Israel, and all the people sang after her this song of praise.

²And Judith said, Begin unto my God with timbrels, sing unto my Lord with cymbals: tune unto him a new psalm: exalt him, and call upon his name.

³For God breaketh the battles: for among the camps in the midst of the people he hath delivered me out of the hands of them that persecuted me.

⁴Assur came out of the mountains from the north, he came with ten thousands of his army, the multitude whereof stopped the torrents, and their horsemen have covered the hills.

⁵He bragged that he would burn up my borders, and kill my young men with the sword, and dash the sucking children against the ground, and make mine infants as a prey, and my virgins as a spoil.

⁶But the Almighty Lord hath disappointed them by the hand of a woman.

Judith

⁷For the mighty one did not fall by the young men, neither did the sons of the Titans smite him, nor high giants set upon him: but Judith the daughter of Merari weakened him with the beauty of her countenance.

⁸For she put off the garment of her widowhood for the exaltation of those that were oppressed in Israel, and anointed her face with ointment, and bound her hair in a tire, and took a linen garment to deceive him.

⁹Her sandals ravished his eyes, her beauty took his mind prisoner, and the fauchion passed through his neck.

¹⁰The Persians quaked at her boldness, and the Medes were daunted at her hardiness.

¹¹Then my afflicted shouted for joy, and my weak ones cried aloud; but they were astonished: these lifted up their voices, but they were overthrown.

¹²The sons of the damsels have pierced them through, and wounded them as fugitives' children: they perished by the battle of the Lord.

¹³I will sing unto the Lord a new song: O Lord, thou art great and glorious, wonderful in strength, and invincible.

¹⁴Let all creatures serve thee: for thou spakest, and they were made, thou didst send forth thy spirit, and it created them, and there is none that can resist thy voice.

¹⁵For the mountains shall be moved from their foundations with the waters, the rocks shall melt as wax at thy presence: yet thou art merciful to them that fear thee.

¹⁶For all sacrifice is too little for a sweet savour unto thee, and all the fat is not sufficient for thy burnt offering: but he that feareth the Lord is great at all times.

¹⁷Woe to the nations that rise up against my kindred! the Lord Almighty will take vengeance of them in the day of judgment, in putting fire and worms in their flesh; and they shall feel them, and weep for ever.

¹⁸Now as soon as they entered into Jerusalem, they worshipped the Lord; and as soon as the people were purified, they offered their burnt offerings, and their free offerings, and their gifts.

¹⁹Judith also dedicated all the stuff of Holofernes, which the people had given her, and gave the canopy, which she had taken out of his bedchamber, for a gift unto the Lord.

²⁰So the people continued feasting in Jerusalem before the sanctuary for the space of three months and Judith remained with them.

²¹After this time every one returned to his own inheritance, and Judith went to Bethulia, and remained in her own possession, and was in her time honourable in all the country.

²²And many desired her, but none knew her all the days of her life, after that Manasses her husband was dead, and was gathered to his people.

²³But she increased more and more in honour, and waxed old in her husband's house, being an hundred and five years old, and made her maid free; so she died in Bethulia: and they buried her in the cave of her husband Manasses.

Judith

²⁴And the house of Israel lamented her seven days: and before she died, she did distribute her goods to all them that were nearest of kindred to Manasses her husband, and to them that were the nearest of her kindred.

²⁵And there was none that made the children of Israel any more afraid in the days of Judith, nor a long time after her death.

The Additions to the Book of Esther

CHAPTER 10

⁴Then Mardocheus said, God hath done these things.

⁵For I remember a dream which I saw concerning these matters, and nothing thereof hath failed.

⁶A little fountain became a river, and there was light, and the sun, and much water: this river is Esther, whom the king married, and made queen:

⁷And the two dragons are I and Aman.

⁸And the nations were those that were assembled to destroy the name of the Jews:

⁹And my nation is this Israel, which cried to God, and were saved: for the Lord hath saved his people, and the Lord hath delivered us from all those evils, and God hath wrought signs and great wonders, which have not been done among the Gentiles.

¹⁰Therefore hath he made two lots, one for the people of God, and another for all the Gentiles.

¹¹And these two lots came at the hour, and time, and day of judgment, before God among all nations.

¹²So God remembered his people, and justified his inheritance.

¹³Therefore those days shall be unto them in the month Adar, the fourteenth and fifteenth day of the same month, with an assembly, and joy, and with gladness before God, according to the generations for ever among his people.

CHAPTER 11

¹In the fourth year of the reign of Ptolemeus and Cleopatra, Dositheus, who said he was a priest and Levite, and Ptolemeus his son, brought this epistle of Phurim, which they said was the same, and that Lysimachus the son of Ptolemeus, that was in Jerusalem, had interpreted it.

²In the second year of the reign of Artexerxes the great, in the first day of the month Nisan, Mardocheus the son of Jairus, the son of Semei, the son of Cisai, of the tribe of Benjamin, had a dream;

³Who was a Jew, and dwelt in the city of Susa, a great man, being a servitor in the king's court.

⁴He was also one of the captives, which Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon carried from Jerusalem with Jechonias king of Judea; and this was his dream:

⁵Behold a noise of a tumult, with thunder, and earthquakes, and uproar in the land:

⁶And, behold, two great dragons came forth ready to fight, and their cry was great.

⁷And at their cry all nations were prepared to battle, that they might fight against the righteous people.

Esther

⁸And lo a day of darkness and obscurity, tribulation and anguish, affliction and great uproar, upon earth.

⁹And the whole righteous nation was troubled, fearing their own evils, and were ready to perish.

¹⁰Then they cried unto God, and upon their cry, as it were from a little fountain, was made a great flood, even much water.

¹¹The light and the sun rose up, and the lowly were exalted, and devoured the glorious.

¹²Now when Mardocheus, who had seen this dream, and what God had determined to do, was awake, he bare this dream in mind, and until night by all means was desirous to know it.

CHAPTER 12

¹And Mardocheus took his rest in the court with Gabatha and Tharra, the two eunuchs of the king, and keepers of the palace.

²And he heard their devices, and searched out their purposes, and learned that they were about to lay hands upon Artexerxes the king; and so he certified the king of them.

³Then the king examined the two eunuchs, and after that they had confessed it, they were strangled.

⁴And the king made a record of these things, and Mardocheus also wrote thereof.

⁵So the king commanded, Mardocheus to serve in the court, and for this he rewarded him.

⁶Howbeit Aman the son of Amadathus the Agagite, who was in great honour with the king, sought to molest Mardocheus and his people because of the two eunuchs of the king.

¹The copy of the letters was this: The great king Artexerxes writeth these things to the princes and governours that are under him from India unto Ethiopia in an hundred and seven and twenty provinces.

²After that I became lord over many nations and had dominion over the whole world, not lifted up with presumption of my authority, but carrying myself always with equity and mildness, I purposed to settle my subjects continually in a quiet life, and making my kingdom peaceable, and open for passage to the utmost coasts, to renew peace, which is desired of all men.

³Now when I asked my counsellors how this might be brought to pass, Aman, that excelled in wisdom among us, and was approved for his constant good will and steadfast fidelity, and had the honour of the second place in the kingdom, ⁴Declared unto us, that in all nations throughout the world there was scattered a certain malicious people, that had laws contrary to ail nations, and continually despised the commandments of kings, so as the uniting of our kingdoms, honourably intended by us cannot go forward.

⁵Seeing then we understand that this people alone is continually in opposition unto all men, differing in the strange manner of their laws, and evil affected to our state, working all the mischief they can that our kingdom may not be firmly established:

⁶Therefore have we commanded, that all they that are signified in writing unto you by Aman, who is ordained over the affairs, and is next unto us, shall all, with their wives and children, be utterly destroyed by the sword of their enemies, without all mercy and pity, the fourteenth day of the twelfth month Adar of this present year:

⁷That they, who of old and now also are malicious, may in one day with violence go into the grave, and so ever hereafter cause our affairs to be well settled, and without trouble.

⁸Then Mardocheus thought upon all the works of the Lord, and made his prayer unto him, ⁹Saying, O Lord, Lord, the King Almighty: for the whole world is in thy power, and if thou hast appointed to save Israel, there is no man that can gainsay thee:

¹⁰For thou hast made heaven and earth, and all the wondrous things under the heaven.

¹¹Thou art Lord of all things, and and there is no man that can resist thee, which art the Lord.

¹²Thou knowest all things, and thou knowest, Lord, that it was neither in contempt nor pride, nor for any desire of glory, that I did not bow down to proud Aman.

¹³For I could have been content with good will for the salvation of Israel to kiss the soles of his feet.

¹⁴But I did this, that I might not prefer the glory of man above the glory of God: neither will I worship any but thee, O God, neither will I do it in pride.

¹⁵And now, O Lord God and King, spare thy people: for their eyes are upon us to bring us to nought; yea, they desire to destroy the inheritance, that hath been thine from the beginning.

¹⁶Despise not the portion, which thou hast delivered out of Egypt for thine own self.

¹⁷Hear my prayer, and be merciful unto thine inheritance: turn our sorrow into joy, that we may live, O Lord, and praise thy name: and destroy not the mouths of them that praise thee, O Lord.

¹⁸All Israel in like manner cried most earnestly unto the Lord, because their death was before their eyes.

CHAPTER 14

¹Queen Esther also, being in fear of death, resorted unto the Lord:

²And laid away her glorious apparel, and put on the garments of anguish and mourning: and instead of precious ointments, she covered her head with ashes and dung, and she humbled her body greatly, and all the places of her joy she filled with her torn hair.

³And she prayed unto the Lord God of Israel, saying, O my Lord, thou only art our King: help me, desolate woman, which have no helper but thee:

Esther

⁴For my danger is in mine hand.

⁵From my youth up I have heard in the tribe of my family that thou, O Lord, tookest Israel from among all people, and our fathers from all their predecessors, for a perpetual inheritance, and thou hast performed whatsoever thou didst promise them.

⁶And now we have sinned before thee: therefore hast thou given us into the hands of our enemies, ⁷Because we worshipped their gods: O Lord, thou art righteous.

⁸Nevertheless it satisfieth them not, that we are in bitter captivity: but they have stricken hands with their idols, ⁹That they will abolish the thing that thou with thy mouth hast ordained, and destroy thine inheritance, and stop the mouth of them that praise thee, and quench the glory of thy house, and of thine altar, ¹⁰And open the mouths of the heathen to set forth the praises of the idols, and to magnify a fleshly king for ever.

¹¹O Lord, give not thy sceptre unto them that be nothing, and let them not laugh at our fall; but turn their device upon themselves, and make him an example, that hath begun this against us.

¹²Remember, O Lord, make thyself known in time of our affliction, and give me boldness, O King of the nations, and Lord of all power.

¹³Give me eloquent speech in my mouth before the lion: turn his heart to hate him that fighteth against us, that there may be an end of him, and of all that are likeminded to him:

¹⁴But deliver us with thine hand, and help me that am desolate, and which have no other help but thee.

¹⁵Thou knowest all things, O Lord; thou knowest that I hate the glory of the unrighteous, and abhor the bed of the uncircumcised, and of all the heathen.

¹⁶Thou knowest my necessity: for I abhor the sign of my high estate, which is upon mine head in the days wherein I shew myself, and that I abhor it as a menstruous rag, and that I wear it not when I am private by myself.

¹⁷And that thine handmaid hath not eaten at Aman's table, and that I have not greatly esteemed the king's feast, nor drunk the wine of the drink offerings.

¹⁸Neither had thine handmaid any joy since the day that I was brought hither to this present, but in thee, O Lord God of Abraham.

¹⁹O thou mighty God above all, hear the voice of the forlorn and deliver us out of the hands of the mischievous, and deliver me out of my fear.

CHAPTER 15

¹And upon the third day, when she had ended her prayers, she laid away her mourning garments, and put on her glorious apparel.

Esther

²And being gloriously adorned, after she had called upon God, who is the beholder and saviour of all things, she took two maids with her:

³And upon the one she leaned, as carrying herself daintily;

⁴And the other followed, bearing up her train.

⁵And she was ruddy through the perfection of her beauty, and her countenance was cheerful and very amiable: but her heart was in anguish for fear.

⁶Then having passed through all the doors, she stood before the king, who sat upon his royal throne, and was clothed with all his robes of majesty, all glittering with gold and precious stones; and he was very dreadful.

⁷Then lifting up his countenance that shone with majesty, he looked very fiercely upon her: and the queen fell down, and was pale, and fainted, and bowed herself upon the head of the maid that went before her.

⁸Then God changed the spirit of the king into mildness, who in a fear leaped from his throne, and took her in his arms, till she came to herself again, and comforted her with loving words and said unto her,

⁹Esther, what is the matter? I am thy brother, be of good cheer:

¹⁰Thou shalt not die, though our our commandment be general: come near.

¹¹And so he held up his golden sceptre, and laid it upon her neck, ¹²And embraced her, and said, Speak unto me.

¹³Then said she unto him, I saw thee, my lord, as an angel of God, and my heart was troubled for fear of thy majesty.

¹⁴For wonderful art thou, lord, and thy countenance is full of grace.

¹⁵And as she was speaking, she fell down for faintness.

¹⁶Then the king was troubled, and ail his servants comforted her.

CHAPTER 16

¹The great king Artexerxes unto the princes and governors of an hundred and seven and twenty provinces from India unto Ethiopia, and unto all our faithful subjects, greeting.

²Many, the more often they are honoured with the great bounty of their gracious princes, the more proud they are waxen, ³And endeavour to hurt not our subjects only, but not being able to bear abundance, do take in hand to practise also against those that do them good:

⁴And take not only thankfulness away from among men, but also lifted up with the glorious words of lewd persons, that were never good, they think to escape the justice of God, that seeth all things and hateth evil.

⁵Oftentimes also fair speech of those, that are put in trust to manage their friends' affairs, hath caused many that are in authority to be partakers of innocent blood, and hath enwrapped them in remediless calamities:

Esther

⁶Beguiling with the falsehood and deceit of their lewd disposition the innocency and goodness of princes.

⁷Now ye may see this, as we have declared, not so much by ancient histories, as ye may, if ye search what hath been wickedly done of late through the pestilent behaviour of them that are unworthily placed in authority.

⁸And we must take care for the time to come, that our kingdom may be quiet and peaceable for all men, ⁹Both by changing our purposes, and always judging things that are evident with more equal proceeding.

¹⁰For Aman, a Macedonian, the son of Amadatha, being indeed a stranger from the Persian blood, and far distant from our goodness, and as a stranger received of us, ¹¹Had so far forth obtained the favour that we shew toward every nation, as that he was called our father, and was continually honoured of all the next person unto the king.

¹²But he, not bearing his great dignity, went about to deprive us of our kingdom and life:

¹³Having by manifold and cunning deceits sought of us the destruction, as well of Mardocheus, who saved our life, and continually procured our good, as also of blameless Esther, partaker of our kingdom, with their whole nation.

¹⁴For by these means he thought, finding us destitute of friends to have translated the kingdom of the Persians to the Macedonians.

¹⁵But we find that the Jews, whom this wicked wretch hath delivered to utter destruction, are no evildoers, but live by most just laws:

¹⁶And that they be children of the most high and most mighty, living God, who hath ordered the kingdom both unto us and to our progenitors in the most excellent manner.

¹⁷Wherefore ye shall do well not to put in execution the letters sent unto you by Aman the son of Amadatha.

¹⁸For he that was the worker of these things, is hanged at the gates of Susa with all his family: God, who ruleth all things, speedily rendering vengeance to him according to his deserts.

¹⁹Therefore ye shall publish the copy of this letter in all places, that the Jews may freely live after their own laws.

²⁰And ye shall aid them, that even the same day, being the thirteenth day of the twelfth month Adar, they may be avenged on them, who in the time of their affliction shall set upon them.

²¹For Almighty God hath turned to joy unto them the day, wherein the chosen people should have perished.

²²Ye shall therefore among your solemn feasts keep it an high day with all feasting:

²³That both now and hereafter there may be safety to us and the well affected Persians; but to those which do conspire against us a memorial of destruction.

Esther

²⁴ Therefore every city and country whatsoever, which shall not do according to these things, shall be destroyed without mercy with fire and	sword, and shall be made not only unpassable for men, but also most hateful to wild beasts and fowls for ever.

The Wisdom of Solomon

CHAPTER 1

¹Love righteousness, ye that be judges of the earth: think of the Lord with a good (heart,) and in simplicity of heart seek him.

²For he will be found of them that tempt him not; and sheweth himself unto such as do not distrust him.

³For froward thoughts separate from God: and his power, when it is tried, reproveth the unwise.

⁴For into a malicious soul wisdom shall not enter; nor dwell in the body that is subject unto sin.

⁵For the holy spirit of discipline will flee deceit, and remove from thoughts that are without understanding, and will not abide when unrighteousness cometh in.

⁶For wisdom is a loving spirit; and will not acquit a blasphemer of his words: for God is witness of his reins, and a true beholder of his heart, and a hearer of his tongue.

⁷For the Spirit of the Lord filleth the world: and that which containeth all things hath knowledge of the voice.

⁸Therefore he that speaketh unrighteous things cannot be hid: neither shall vengeance, when it punisheth, pass by him.

⁹For inquisition shall be made into the counsels of the ungodly: and the sound of his words shall come unto the Lord for the manifestation of his wicked deeds.

¹⁰For the ear of jealousy heareth all things: and the noise of murmurings is not hid.

¹¹Therefore beware of murmuring, which is unprofitable; and refrain your tongue from backbiting: for there is no word so secret, that shall go for nought: and the mouth that believeth slayeth the soul.

¹²Seek not death in the error of your life: and pull not upon yourselves destruction with the works of your hands.

¹³For God made not death: neither hath he pleasure in the destruction of the living.

¹⁴For he created all things, that they might have their being: and the generations of the world were healthful; and there is no poison of destruction in them, nor the kingdom of death upon the earth:

¹⁵(For righteousness is immortal:)

¹⁶But ungodly men with their works and words called it to them: for when they thought to have it their friend, they consumed to nought, and made a covenant with it, because they are worthy to take part with it.

CHAPTER 2

¹For the ungodly said, reasoning with themselves, but not aright, Our life is short and tedious, and in the death of a man there is no remedy: neither was there any man known to have returned from the grave.

Wisdom of Solomon

²For we are born at all adventure: and we shall be hereafter as though we had never been: for the breath in our nostrils is as smoke, and a little spark in the moving of our heart:

³Which being extinguished, our body shall be turned into ashes, and our spirit shall vanish as the soft air,

⁴And our name shall be forgotten in time, and no man shall have our works in remembrance, and our life shall pass away as the trace of a cloud, and shall be dispersed as a mist, that is driven away with the beams of the sun, and overcome with the heat thereof.

⁵For our time is a very shadow that passeth away; and after our end there is no returning: for it is fast sealed, so that no man cometh again.

⁶Come on therefore, let us enjoy the good things that are present: and let us speedily use the creatures like as in youth.

⁷Let us fill ourselves with costly wine and ointments: and let no flower of the spring pass by us:

⁸Let us crown ourselves with rosebuds, before they be withered:

⁹Let none of us go without his part of our voluptuousness: let us leave tokens of our joyfulness in every place: for this is our portion, and our lot is this.

¹⁰Let us oppress the poor righteous man, let us not spare the widow, nor reverence the ancient gray hairs of the aged.

¹¹Let our strength be the law of justice: for that which is feeble is found to be nothing worth.

¹²Therefore let us lie in wait for the righteous; because he is not for our turn, and he is clean contrary to our doings: he upbraideth us with our offending the law, and objecteth to our infamy the transgressings of our education.

¹³He professeth to have the knowledge of God: and he calleth himself the child of the Lord.

¹⁴He was made to reprove our thoughts.

¹⁵He is grievous unto us even to behold: for his life is not like other men's, his ways are of another fashion.

¹⁶We are esteemed of him as counterfeits: he abstaineth from our ways as from filthiness: he pronounceth the end of the just to be blessed, and maketh his boast that God is his father.

¹⁷Let us see if his words be true: and let us prove what shall happen in the end of him.

¹⁸For if the just man be the son of God, he will help him, and deliver him from the hand of his enemies.

¹⁹Let us examine him with despitefulness and torture, that we may know his meekness, and prove his patience.

²⁰Let us condemn him with a shameful death: for by his own saying he shall be respected.

Wisdom of Solomon

²¹Such things they did imagine, and were deceived: for their own wickedness hath blinded them.

²²As for the mysteries of God, they knew them not: neither hoped they for the wages of righteousness, nor discerned a reward for blameless souls.

²³For God created man to be immortal, and made him to be an image of his own eternity.

²⁴Nevertheless through envy of the devil came death into the world: and they that do hold of his side do find it.

CHAPTER 3

¹But the souls of the righteous are in the hand of God, and there shall no torment touch them.

²In the sight of the unwise they seemed to die: and their departure is taken for misery, ³And their going from us to be utter destruction: but they are in peace.

⁴For though they be punished in the sight of men, yet is their hope full of immortality.

⁵And having been a little chastised, they shall be greatly rewarded: for God proved them, and found them worthy for himself.

⁶As gold in the furnace hath he tried them, and received them as a burnt offering.

⁷And in the time of their visitation they shall shine, and run to and fro like sparks among the stubble.

⁸They shall judge the nations, and have dominion over the people, and their Lord shall reign for ever.

⁹They that put their trust in him shall understand the truth: and such as be faithful in love shall abide with him: for grace and mercy is to his saints, and he hath care for his elect.

¹⁰But the ungodly shall be punished according to their own imaginations, which have neglected the righteous, and forsaken the Lord.

¹¹For whoso despiseth wisdom and nurture, he is miserable, and their hope is vain, their labours unfruitful, and their works unprofitable:

¹²Their wives are foolish, and their children wicked:

¹³Their offspring is cursed. Wherefore blessed is the barren that is undefiled, which hath not known the sinful bed: she shall have fruit in the visitation of souls.

¹⁴And blessed is the eunuch, which with his hands hath wrought no iniquity, nor imagined wicked things against God: for unto him shall be given the special gift of faith, and an inheritance in the temple of the Lord more acceptable to his mind.

¹⁵For glorious is the fruit of good labours: and the root of wisdom shall never fall away.

¹⁶As for the children of adulterers, they shall not come to their perfection, and the seed of an unrighteous bed shall be rooted out.

¹⁷For though they live long, yet shall they be nothing regarded: and their last age shall be without honour.

Wisdom of Solomon

¹⁸Or, if they die quickly, they have no hope, neither comfort in the day of trial.

¹⁹For horrible is the end of the unrighteous generation.

CHAPTER 4

¹Better it is to have no children, and to have virtue: for the memorial thereof is immortal: because it is known with God, and with men.

²When it is present, men take example at it; and when it is gone, they desire it: it weareth a crown, and triumpheth for ever, having gotten the victory, striving for undefiled rewards.

³But the multiplying brood of the ungodly shall not thrive, nor take deep rooting from bastard slips, nor lay any fast foundation.

⁴For though they flourish in branches for a time; yet standing not last, they shall be shaken with the wind, and through the force of winds they shall be rooted out.

⁵The imperfect branches shall be broken off, their fruit unprofitable, not ripe to eat, yea, meet for nothing.

⁶For children begotten of unlawful beds are witnesses of wickedness against their parents in their trial.

⁷But though the righteous be prevented with death, yet shall he be in rest.

⁸For honourable age is not that which standeth in length of time, nor that is measured by number of years.

⁹But wisdom is the gray hair unto men, and an unspotted life is old age.

¹⁰He pleased God, and was beloved of him: so that living among sinners he was translated.

¹¹Yea speedily was he taken away, lest that wickedness should alter his understanding, or deceit beguile his soul.

¹²For the bewitching of naughtiness doth obscure things that are honest; and the wandering of concupiscence doth undermine the simple mind.

¹³He, being made perfect in a short time, fulfilled a long time:

¹⁴For his soul pleased the Lord: therefore hasted he to take him away from among the wicked.

¹⁵This the people saw, and understood it not, neither laid they up this in their minds, That his grace and mercy is with his saints, and that he hath respect unto his chosen.

¹⁶Thus the righteous that is dead shall condemn the ungodly which are living; and youth that is soon perfected the many years and old age of the unrighteous.

¹⁷For they shall see the end of the wise, and shall not understand what God in his counsel hath decreed of him, and to what end the Lord hath set him in safety.

¹⁸They shall see him, and despise him; but God shall laugh them to scorn: and they shall hereafter be a vile carcase, and a reproach among the dead for evermore.

¹⁹For he shall rend them, and cast them down headlong, that they shall be speechless; and he shall shake them from the foundation; and they shall be utterly laid waste, and be in sorrow; and their memorial shall perish.

Wisdom of Solomon

²⁰And when they cast up the accounts of their sins, they shall come with fear: and their own iniquities shall convince them to their face.

CHAPTER 5

¹Then shall the righteous man stand in great boldness before the face of such as have afflicted him, and made no account of his labours.

²When they see it, they shall be troubled with terrible fear, and shall be amazed at the strangeness of his salvation, so far beyond all that they looked for.

³And they repenting and groaning for anguish of spirit shall say within themselves, This was he, whom we had sometimes in derision, and a proverb of reproach:

⁴We fools accounted his life madness, and his end to be without honour:

⁵How is he numbered among the children of God, and his lot is among the saints!

⁶Therefore have we erred from the way of truth, and the light of righteousness hath not shined unto us, and the sun of righteousness rose not upon us.

⁷We wearied ourselves in the way of wickedness and destruction: yea, we have gone through deserts, where there lay no way: but as for the way of the Lord, we have not known it.

⁸What hath pride profited us? or what good hath riches with our vaunting brought us?

⁹All those things are passed away like a shadow, and as a post that hasted by;

¹⁰And as a ship that passeth over the waves of the water, which when it is gone by, the trace thereof cannot be found, neither the pathway of the keel in the waves;

¹¹Or as when a bird hath flown through the air, there is no token of her way to be found, but the light air being beaten with the stroke of her wings and parted with the violent noise and motion of them, is passed through, and therein afterwards no sign where she went is to be found;

¹²Or like as when an arrow is shot at a mark, it parteth the air, which immediately cometh together again, so that a man cannot know where it went through:

¹³Even so we in like manner, as soon as we were born, began to draw to our end, and had no sign of virtue to shew; but were consumed in our own wickedness.

¹⁴For the hope of the ungodly is like dust that is blown away with the wind; like a thin froth that is driven away with the storm; like as the smoke which is dispersed here and there with a tempest, and passeth away as the remembrance of a guest that tarrieth but a day.

¹⁵But the righteous live for evermore; their reward also is with the

Wisdom of Solomon

Lord, and the care of them is with the most High.

¹⁶Therefore shall they receive a glorious kingdom, and a beautiful crown from the Lord's hand: for with his right hand shall he cover them, and with his arm shall he protect them.

¹⁷He shall take to him his jealousy for complete armour, and make the creature his weapon for the revenge of his enemies.

¹⁸He shall put on righteousness as a breastplate, and true judgment instead of an helmet.

¹⁹He shall take holiness for an invincible shield.

²⁰His severe wrath shall he sharpen for a sword, and the world shall fight with him against the unwise.

²¹Then shall the right aiming thunderbolts go abroad; and from the clouds, as from a well drawn bow, shall they fly to the mark.

²²And hailstones full of wrath shall be cast as out of a stone bow, and the water of the sea shall rage against them, and the floods shall cruelly drown them.

²³Yea, a mighty wind shall stand up against them, and like a storm shall blow them away: thus iniquity shall lay waste the whole earth, and ill dealing shall overthrow the thrones of the mighty.

CHAPTER 6

¹Hear therefore, O ye kings, and understand; learn, ye that be judges of the ends of the earth.

²Give ear, ye that rule the people, and glory in the multitude of nations.

³For power is given you of the Lord, and sovereignty from the Highest, who shall try your works, and search out your counsels.

⁴Because, being ministers of his kingdom, ye have not judged aright, nor kept the law, nor walked after the counsel of God; ⁵Horribly and speedily shall he come upon you: for a sharp judgment shall be to them that be in high places.

⁶For mercy will soon pardon the meanest: but mighty men shall be mightily tormented.

⁷For he which is Lord over all shall fear no man's person, neither shall he stand in awe of any man's greatness: for he hath made the small and great, and careth for all alike.

⁸But a sore trial shall come upon the mighty.

⁹Unto you therefore, O kings, do I speak, that ye may learn wisdom, and not fall away.

¹⁰For they that keep holiness holily shall be judged holy: and they that have learned such things shall find what to answer.

¹¹Wherefore set your affection upon my words; desire them, and ye shall be instructed.

¹²Wisdom is glorious, and never fadeth away: yea, she is easily seen of them that love her, and found of such as seek her.

Wisdom of Solomon

¹³She preventeth them that desire her, in making herself first known unto them.

¹⁴Whoso seeketh her early shall have no great travail: for he shall find her sitting at his doors.

¹⁵To think therefore upon her is perfection of wisdom: and whoso watcheth for her shall quickly be without care.

¹⁶For she goeth about seeking such as are worthy of her, sheweth herself favourably unto them in the ways, and meeteth them in every thought.

¹⁷For the very true beginning of her is the desire of discipline; and the care of discipline is love;

¹⁸And love is the keeping of her laws; and the giving heed unto her laws is the assurance of incorruption;

¹⁹And incorruption maketh us near unto God:

²⁰Therefore the desire of wisdom bringeth to a kingdom.

²¹If your delight be then in thrones and sceptres, O ye kings of the people, honour wisdom, that ye may reign for evermore.

²²As for wisdom, what she is, and how she came up, I will tell you, and will not hide mysteries from you: but will seek her out from the beginning of her nativity, and bring the knowledge of her into light, and will not pass over the truth.

²³Neither will I go with consuming envy; for such a man shall have no fellowship with wisdom.

²⁴But the multitude of the wise is the welfare of the world: and a wise king is the upholding of the people.

²⁵Receive therefore instruction through my words, and it shall do you good.

CHAPTER 7

¹I myself also am a mortal man, like to all, and the offspring of him that was first made of the earth,

²And in my mother's womb was fashioned to be flesh in the time of ten months, being compacted in blood, of the seed of man, and the pleasure that came with sleep.

³And when I was born, I drew in the common air, and fell upon the earth, which is of like nature, and the first voice which I uttered was crying, as all others do.

⁴I was nursed in swaddling clothes, and that with cares.

⁵For there is no king that had any other beginning of birth.

⁶For all men have one entrance into life, and the like going out.

⁷Wherefore I prayed, and understanding was given me: I called upon God, and the spirit of wisdom came to me.

⁸I preferred her before sceptres and thrones, and esteemed riches nothing in comparison of her.

⁹Neither compared I unto her any precious stone, because all gold in respect of her is as a little sand, and silver shall be counted as clay before her.

Wisdom of Solomon

¹⁰I loved her above health and beauty, and chose to have her instead of light: for the light that cometh from her never goeth out.

¹¹All good things together came to me with her, and innumerable riches in her hands.

¹²And I rejoiced in them all, because wisdom goeth before them: and I knew not that she was the mother of them.

¹³I learned diligently, and do communicate her liberally: I do not hide her riches.

¹⁴For she is a treasure unto men that never faileth: which they that use become the friends of God, being commended for the gifts that come from learning.

¹⁵God hath granted me to speak as I would, and to conceive as is meet for the things that are given me: because it is he that leadeth unto wisdom, and directeth the wise.

¹⁶For in his hand are both we and our words; all wisdom also, and knowledge of workmanship.

¹⁷For he hath given me certain knowledge of the things that are, namely, to know how the world was made, and the operation of the elements:

¹⁸The beginning, ending, and midst of the times: the alterations of the turning of the sun, and the change of seasons:

¹⁹The circuits of years, and the positions of stars:

²⁰The natures of living creatures, and the furies of wild beasts: the violence of winds, and the reasonings of men: the diversities of plants and the virtues of roots:

²¹And all such things as are either secret or manifest, them I know.

²²For wisdom, which is the worker of all things, taught me: for in her is an understanding spirit holy, one only, manifold, subtil, lively, clear, undefiled, plain, not subject to hurt, loving the thing that is good quick, which cannot be letted, ready to do good, ²³Kind to man, steadfast, sure, free from care, having all power, overseeing all things, and going through all understanding, pure, and most subtil, spirits.

²⁴For wisdom is more moving than any motion: she passeth and goeth through all things by reason of her pureness.

²⁵For she is the breath of the power of God, and a pure influence flowing from the glory of the Almighty: therefore can no defiled thing fall into her.

²⁶For she is the brightness of the everlasting light, the unspotted mirror of the power of God, and the image of his goodness.

²⁷And being but one, she can do all things: and remaining in herself, she maketh all things new: and in all ages entering into holy souls, she maketh them friends of God, and prophets.

²⁸For God loveth none but him that dwelleth with wisdom.

Wisdom of Solomon

²⁹For she is more beautiful than the sun, and above all the order of stars: being compared with the light, she is found before it.

³⁰For after this cometh night: but vice shall not prevail against wisdom.

CHAPTER 8

¹Wisdom reacheth from one end to another mightily: and sweetly doth she order all things.

²I loved her, and sought her out from my youth, I desired to make her my spouse, and I was a lover of her beauty.

³In that she is conversant with God, she magnifieth her nobility: yea, the Lord of all things himself loved her.

⁴For she is privy to the mysteries of the knowledge of God, and a lover of his works.

⁵If riches be a possession to be desired in this life; what is richer than wisdom, that worketh all things?

⁶And if prudence work; who of all that are is a more cunning workman than she?

⁷And if a man love righteousness her labours are virtues: for she teacheth temperance and prudence, justice and fortitude: which are such things, as en can have nothing more profitable in their life.

⁸If a man desire much experience, she knoweth things of old, and conjectureth aright what is to come: she knoweth the subtilties of speeches, and can expound dark sentences: she foreseeeth signs and wonders, and the events of seasons and times.

⁹Therefore I purposed to take her to me to live with me, knowing that she would be a counsellor of good things, and a comfort in cares and grief.

¹⁰For her sake I shall have estimation among the multitude, and honour with the elders, though I be young.

¹¹I shall be found of a quick conceit in judgment, and shall be admired in the sight of great men.

¹²When I hold my tongue, they shall bide my leisure, and when I speak, they shall give good ear unto me: if I talk much, they shall lay their hands upon their mouth.

¹³Moreover by the means of her I shall obtain immortality, and leave behind me an everlasting memorial to them that come after me.

¹⁴I shall set the people in order, and the nations shall be subject unto me.

¹⁵Horrible tyrants shall be afraid, when they do but hear of me; I shall be found good among the multitude, and valiant in war.

¹⁶After I am come into mine house, I will repose myself with her: for her conversation hath no bitterness; and to live with her hath no sorrow, but mirth and joy.

¹⁷Now when I considered these things in myself, and pondered them in my heart, how that to be allied unto wisdom is immortality;

¹⁸And great pleasure it is to have her friendship; and in the works of her hands are infinite riches; and in the exercise of conference with her,

Wisdom of Solomon

prudence; and in talking with her, a good report; I went about seeking how to take her to me.

¹⁹For I was a witty child, and had a good spirit.

²⁰Yea rather, being good, I came into a body undefiled.

²¹Nevertheless, when I perceived that I could not otherwise obtain her, except God gave her me; and that was a point of wisdom also to know whose gift she was; I prayed unto the Lord, and besought him, and with my whole heart I said,

CHAPTER 9

¹O God of my fathers, and Lord of mercy, who hast made all things with thy word,

²And ordained man through thy wisdom, that he should have dominion over the creatures which thou hast made,

³And order the world according to equity and righteousness, and execute judgment with an upright heart:

⁴Give me wisdom, that sitteth by thy throne; and reject me not from among thy children:

⁵For I thy servant and son of thine handmaid am a feeble person, and of a short time, and too young for the understanding of judgment and laws.

⁶For though a man be never so perfect among the children of men, yet if thy wisdom be not with him, he shall be nothing regarded.

⁷Thou hast chosen me to be a king of thy people, and a judge of thy sons and daughters:

⁸Thou hast commanded me to build a temple upon thy holy mount, and an altar in the city wherein thou dwellest, a resemblance of the holy tabernacle, which thou hast prepared from the beginning.

⁹And wisdom was with thee: which knoweth thy works, and was present when thou madest the world, and knew what was acceptable in thy sight, and right in thy commandments.

¹⁰O send her out of thy holy heavens, and from the throne of thy glory, that being present she may labour with me, that I may know what is pleasing unto thee.

¹¹For she knoweth and understandeth all things, and she shall lead me soberly in my doings, and preserve me in her power.

¹²So shall my works be acceptable, and then shall I judge thy people righteously, and be worthy to sit in my father's seat.

¹³For what man is he that can know the counsel of God? or who can think what the will of the Lord is?

¹⁴For the thoughts of mortal men are miserable, and our devices are but uncertain.

¹⁵For the corruptible body presseth down the soul, and the earthy tabernacle weigheth down the mind that museth upon many things.

¹⁶And hardly do we guess aright at things that are upon earth, and with labour do we find the things that are before us: but the things that are in heaven who hath searched out?

Wisdom of Solomon

¹⁷And thy counsel who hath known, except thou give wisdom, and send thy Holy Spirit from above?

¹⁸For so the ways of them which lived on the earth were reformed, and men were taught the things that are pleasing unto thee, and were saved through wisdom.

CHAPTER 10

¹She preserved the first formed father of the world, that was created alone, and brought him out of his fall, ²And gave him power to rule all things.

³But when the unrighteous went away from her in his anger, he perished also in the fury wherewith he murdered his brother.

⁴For whose cause the earth being drowned with the flood, wisdom again preserved it, and directed the course of the righteous in a piece of wood of small value.

⁵Moreover, the nations in their wicked conspiracy being confounded, she found out the righteous, and preserved him blameless unto God, and kept him strong against his tender compassion toward his son.

⁶When the ungodly perished, she delivered the righteous man, who fled from the fire which fell down upon the five cities.

⁷Of whose wickedness even to this day the waste land that smoketh is a testimony, and plants bearing fruit that never come to ripeness: and a standing pillar of salt is a monument of an unbelieving soul.

⁸For regarding not wisdom, they gat not only this hurt, that they knew not the things which were good; but also left behind them to the world a memorial of their foolishness: so that in the things wherein they offended they could not so much as be hid.

⁹Rut wisdom delivered from pain those that attended upon her.

¹⁰When the righteous fled from his brother's wrath she guided him in right paths, shewed him the kingdom of God, and gave him knowledge of holy things, made him rich in his travels, and multiplied the fruit of his labours.

¹¹In the covetousness of such as oppressed him she stood by him, and made him rich.

¹²She defended him from his enemies, and kept him safe from those that lay in wait, and in a sore conflict she gave him the victory; that he might know that goodness is stronger than all.

¹³When the righteous was sold, she forsook him not, but delivered him from sin: she went down with him into the pit, ¹⁴And left him not in bonds, till she brought him the sceptre of the kingdom, and power against those that oppressed him: as for them that had accused him, she shewed them to be liars, and gave him perpetual glory.

¹⁵She delivered the righteous people and blameless seed from the nation that oppressed them.

Wisdom of Solomon

¹⁶She entered into the soul of the servant of the Lord, and withstood dreadful kings in wonders and signs;

¹⁷Rendered to the righteous a reward of their labours, guided them in a marvellous way, and was unto them for a cover by day, and a light of stars in the night season;

¹⁸Brought them through the Red sea, and led them through much water:

¹⁹But she drowned their enemies, and cast them up out of the bottom of the deep.

²⁰Therefore the righteous spoiled the ungodly, and praised thy holy name, O Lord, and magnified with one accord thine hand, that fought for them.

²¹For wisdom opened the mouth of the dumb, and made the tongues of them that cannot speak eloquent.

CHAPTER 11

¹She prospered their works in the hand of the holy prophet.

²They went through the wilderness that was not inhabited, and pitched tents in places where there lay no way.

³They stood against their enemies, and were avenged of their adversaries.

⁴When they were thirsty, they called upon thee, and water was given them out of the flinty rock, and their thirst was quenched out of the hard stone.

⁵For by what things their enemies were punished, by the same they in their need were benefited.

⁶For instead of of a perpetual running river troubled with foul blood, ⁷For a manifest reproof of that commandment, whereby the infants were slain, thou gavest unto them abundance of water by a means which they hoped not for:

⁸Declaring by that thirst then how thou hadst punished their adversaries.

⁹For when they were tried albeit but in mercy chastised, they knew how the ungodly were judged in wrath and tormented, thirsting in another manner than the just.

¹⁰For these thou didst admonish and try, as a father: but the other, as a severe king, thou didst condemn and punish.

¹¹Whether they were absent or present, they were vexed alike.

¹²For a double grief came upon them, and a groaning for the remembrance of things past.

¹³For when they heard by their own punishments the other to be benefited, they had some feeling of the Lord.

¹⁴For whom they respected with scorn, when he was long before thrown out at the casting forth of the infants, him in the end, when they saw what came to pass, they admired.

¹⁵But for the foolish devices of their wickedness, wherewith being deceived they worshipped serpents void of reason, and vile beasts, thou didst send a multitude of unreasonable beasts upon them for vengeance; ¹⁶That they might know, that wherewithal a man sinneth, by the same also shall he be punished.

¹⁷For thy Almighty hand, that made the world of matter without form,

Wisdom of Solomon

CHAPTER 12

wanted not means to send among them a multitude of bears or fierce lions,

¹⁸Or unknown wild beasts, full of rage, newly created, breathing out either a fiery vapour, or filthy scents of scattered smoke, or shooting horrible sparkles out of their eyes:

¹⁹Whereof not only the harm might dispatch them at once, but also the terrible sight utterly destroy them.

²⁰Yea, and without these might they have fallen down with one blast, being persecuted of vengeance, and scattered abroad through the breath of thy power: but thou hast ordered all things in measure and number and weight.

²¹For thou canst shew thy great strength at all times when thou wilt; and who may withstand the power of thine arm?

²²For the whole world before thee is as a little grain of the balance, yea, as a drop of the morning dew that falleth down upon the earth.

²³But thou hast mercy upon all; for thou canst do all things, and winkest at the sins of men, because they should amend.

²⁴For thou lovest all the things that are, and abhorrest nothing which thou hast made: for never wouldest thou have made any thing, if thou hadst hated it.

²⁵And how could any thing have endured, if it had not been thy will? or been preserved, if not called by thee?

²⁶But thou sparest all: for they are thine, O Lord, thou lover of souls.

¹For thine incorruptible Spirit is in all things.

²Therefore chastenest thou them by little and little that offend, and warnest them by putting them in remembrance wherein they have offended, that leaving their wickedness they may believe on thee, O Lord.

³For it was thy will to destroy by the hands of our fathers both those old inhabitants of thy holy land, ⁴Whom thou hatedst for doing most odious works of witchcrafts, and wicked sacrifices;

⁵And also those merciless murderers of children, and devourers of man's flesh, and the feasts of blood,

⁶With their priests out of the midst of their idolatrous crew, and the parents, that killed with their own hands souls destitute of help:

⁷That the land, which thou esteemedst above all other, might receive a worthy colony of God's children.

⁸Nevertheless even those thou sparedst as men, and didst send wasps, forerunners of thine host, to destroy them by little and little.

⁹Not that thou wast unable to bring the ungodly under the hand of the righteous in battle, or to destroy them at once with cruel beasts, or with one rough word:

¹⁰But executing thy judgments upon them by little and little, thou gavest them place of repentance, not being ignorant that they were a naughty generation, and that their malice was bred in them, and that their cogitation would never be changed.

¹¹For it was a cursed seed from the beginning; neither didst thou for fear of any man give them pardon for those things wherein they sinned.

¹²For who shall say, What hast thou done? or who shall withstand thy judgment? or who shall accuse thee for the nations that perish, whom thou made? or who shall come to stand against thee, to be revenged for the unrighteous men?

¹³For neither is there any God but thou that careth for all, to whom thou mightest shew that thy judgment is not unright.

¹⁴Neither shall king or tyrant be able to set his face against thee for any whom thou hast punished.

¹⁵Forsomuch then as thou art righteous thyself, thou orderest all things righteously: thinking it not agreeable with thy power to condemn him that hath not deserved to be punished.

¹⁶For thy power is the beginning of righteousness, and because thou art the Lord of all, it maketh thee to be gracious unto all.

¹⁷For when men will not believe that thou art of a full power, thou shewest thy strength, and among them that know it thou makest their boldness manifest.

¹⁸But thou, mastering thy power, judgest with equity, and orderest us with great favour: for thou mayest use power when thou wilt.

¹⁹But by such works hast thou taught thy people that the just man should be merciful, and hast made thy children to be of a good hope that thou givest repentance for sins.

²⁰For if thou didst punish the enemies of thy children, and the condemned to death, with such deliberation, giving them time and place, whereby they might be delivered from their malice:

²¹With how great circumspection didst thou judge thine own sons, unto whose fathers thou hast sworn, and made covenants of good promises?

²²Therefore, whereas thou dost chasten us, thou scourgest our enemies a thousand times more, to the intent that, when we judge, we should carefully think of thy goodness, and when we ourselves are judged, we should look for mercy.

²³Wherefore, whereas men have lived dissolutely and unrighteously, thou hast tormented them with their own abominations.

²⁴For they went astray very far in the ways of error, and held them for gods, which even among the beasts of their enemies were despised, being deceived, as children of no understanding.

²⁵Therefore unto them, as to children without the use of reason, thou didst send a judgment to mock them.

Wisdom of Solomon

²⁶But they that would not be reformed by that correction, wherein he dallied with them, shall feel a judgment worthy of God.

²⁷For, look, for what things they grudged, when they were punished, that is, for them whom they thought to be gods; [now] being punished in them, when they saw it, they acknowledged him to be the true God, whom before they denied to know: and therefore came extreme damnation upon them.

¹Surely vain are all men by nature, who are ignorant of God, and could not out of the good things that are seen know him that is: neither by considering the works did they acknowledge the workmaster;

²But deemed either fire, or wind, or the swift air, or the circle of the stars, or the violent water, or the lights of heaven, to be the gods which govern the world.

³With whose beauty if they being delighted took them to be gods; let them know how much better the Lord of them is: for the first author of beauty hath created them.

⁴But if they were astonished at their power and virtue, let them understand by them, how much mightier he is that made them.

⁵For by the greatness and beauty of the creatures proportionably the maker of them is seen.

⁶But yet for this they are the less to be blamed: for they peradventure err, seeking God, and desirous to find him.

⁷For being conversant in his works they search him diligently, and believe their sight: because the things are beautiful that are seen.

⁸Howbeit neither are they to be pardoned.

⁹For if they were able to know so much, that they could aim at the world; how did they not sooner find out the Lord thereof?

¹⁰But miserable are they, and in dead things is their hope, who call them gods, which are the works of men's hands, gold and silver, to shew art in, and resemblances of beasts, or a stone good for nothing, the work of an ancient hand.

¹¹Now a carpenter that felleth timber, after he hath sawn down a tree meet for the purpose, and taken off all the bark skillfully round about, and hath wrought it handsomely, and made a vessel thereof fit for the service of man's life;

¹²And after spending the refuse of his work to dress his meat, hath filled himself;

¹³And taking the very refuse among those which served to no use, being a crooked piece of wood, and full of knots, hath carved it diligently, when he had nothing else to do, and formed it by the skill of his understanding, and fashioned it to the image of a man;

¹⁴Or made it like some vile beast, laying it over with vermilion, and with paint colouring it red, and covering every spot therein;

Wisdom of Solomon

¹⁵And when he had made a convenient room for it, set it in a wall, and made it fast with iron:

¹⁶For he provided for it that it might not fall, knowing that it was unable to help itself; for it is an image, and hath need of help:

¹⁷Then maketh he prayer for his goods, for his wife and children, and is not ashamed to speak to that which hath no life.

¹⁸For health he calleth upon that which is weak: for life prayeth to that which is dead; for aid humbly beseecheth that which hath least means to help: and for a good journey he asketh of that which cannot set a foot forward:

¹⁹And for gaining and getting, and for good success of his hands, asketh ability to do of him, that is most unable to do any thing.

CHAPTER 14

¹Again, one preparing himself to sail, and about to pass through the raging waves, calleth upon a piece of wood more rotten than the vessel that carrieth him.

²For verily desire of gain devised that, and the workman built it by his skill.

³But thy providence, O Father, governeth it: for thou hast made a way in the sea, and a safe path in the waves;

⁴Shewing that thou canst save from all danger: yea, though a man went to sea without art.

⁵Nevertheless thou wouldest not that the works of thy wisdom should be idle, and therefore do men commit their lives to a small piece of wood, and passing the rough sea in a weak vessel are saved.

⁶For in the old time also, when the proud giants perished, the hope of the world governed by thy hand escaped in a weak vessel, and left to all ages a seed of generation.

⁷For blessed is the wood whereby righteousness cometh.

⁸But that which is made with hands is cursed, as well it, as he that made it: he, because he made it; and it, because, being corruptible, it was called god.

⁹For the ungodly and his ungodliness are both alike hateful unto God.

¹⁰For that which is made shall be punished together with him that made it.

¹¹Therefore even upon the idols of the Gentiles shall there be a visitation: because in the creature of God they are become an abomination, and stumblingblocks to the souls of men, and a snare to the feet of the unwise.

¹²For the devising of idols was the beginning of spiritual fornication, and the invention of them the corruption of life.

Wisdom of Solomon

¹³For neither were they from the beginning, neither shall they be for ever.

¹⁴For by the vain glory of men they entered into the world, and therefore shall they come shortly to an end.

¹⁵For a father afflicted with untimely mourning, when he hath made an image of his child soon taken away, now honoured him as a god, which was then a dead man, and delivered to those that were under him ceremonies and sacrifices.

¹⁶Thus in process of time an ungodly custom grown strong was kept as a law, and graven images were worshipped by the commandments of kings.

¹⁷Whom men could not honour in presence, because they dwelt far off, they took the counterfeit of his visage from far, and made an express image of a king whom they honoured, to the end that by this their forwardness they might flatter him that was absent, as if he were present.

¹⁸Also the singular diligence of the artificer did help to set forward the ignorant to more superstition.

¹⁹For he, peradventure willing to please one in authority, forced all his skill to make the resemblance of the best fashion.

²⁰And so the multitude, allured by the grace of the work, took him now for a god, which a little before was but honoured.

²¹And this was an occasion to deceive the world: for men, serving either calamity or tyranny, did ascribe unto stones and stocks the incommunicable name.

²²Moreover this was not enough for them, that they erred in the knowledge of God; but whereas they lived in the great war of ignorance, those so great plagues called they peace.

²³For whilst they slew their children in sacrifices, or used secret ceremonies, or made revellings of strange rites;

²⁴They kept neither lives nor marriages any longer undefiled: but either one slew another traiterously, or grieved him by adultery.

²⁵So that there reigned in all men without exception blood, manslaughter, theft, and dissimulation, corruption, unfaithfulness, tumults, perjury, ²⁶Disquieting of good men, forgetfulness of good turns, defiling of souls, changing of kind, disorder in marriages, adultery, and shameless uncleanness.

²⁷For the worshipping of idols not to be named is the beginning, the cause, and the end, of all evil.

²⁸For either they are mad when they be merry, or prophesy lies, or live unjustly, or else lightly forswear themselves.

²⁹For insomuch as their trust is in idols, which have no life; though they swear falsely, yet they look not to be hurt.

³⁰Howbeit for both causes shall they be justly punished: both because they thought not well of God, giving heed unto idols, and also unjustly swore in deceit, despising holiness.

³¹For it is not the power of them by whom they swear: but it is the just vengeance of sinners, that punisheth always the offence of the ungodly.

CHAPTER 15

¹But thou, O God, art gracious and true, longsuffering, and in mercy ordering all things, ²For if we sin, we are thine, knowing thy power: but we will not sin, knowing that we are counted thine.

³For to know thee is perfect righteousness: yea, to know thy power is the root of immortality.

⁴For neither did the mischievous invention of men deceive us, nor an image spotted with divers colours, the painter's fruitless labour;

⁵The sight whereof enticeth fools to lust after it, and so they desire the form of a dead image, that hath no breath.

⁶Both they that make them, they that desire them, and they that worship them, are lovers of evil things, and are worthy to have such things to trust upon.

⁷For the potter, tempering soft earth, fashioneth every vessel with much labour for our service: yea, of the same clay he maketh both the vessels that serve for clean uses, and likewise also all such as serve to the contrary: but what is the use of either sort, the potter himself is the judge.

⁸And employing his labours lewdly, he maketh a vain god of the same clay, even he which a little before was made of earth himself, and within a little while after returneth to the same, out when his life which was lent him shall be demanded.

⁹Notwithstanding his care is, not that he shall have much labour, nor that his life is short: but striveth to excel goldsmiths and silversmiths, and endeavoureth to do like the workers in brass, and counteth it his glory to make counterfeit things.

¹⁰His heart is ashes, his hope is more vile than earth, and his life of less value than clay:

¹¹Forasmuch as he knew not his Maker, and him that inspired into him an active soul, and breathed in a living spirit.

¹²But they counted our life a pastime, and our time here a market for gain: for, say they, we must be getting every way, though it be by evil means.

¹³For this man, that of earthly matter maketh brittle vessels and graven images, knoweth himself to offend above all others.

¹⁴And all the enemies of thy people, that hold them in subjection, are most foolish, and are more miserable than very babes.

¹⁵For they counted all the idols of the heathen to be gods: which neither have the use of eyes to see, nor noses to draw breath, nor ears to hear, nor fingers of hands to handle; and as for their feet, they are slow to go.

¹⁶For man made them, and he that borrowed his own spirit fashioned them: but no man can make a god like unto himself.

¹⁷For being mortal, he worketh a dead thing with wicked hands: for he himself is better than the things which he worshippeth: whereas he lived once, but they never.

¹⁸Yea, they worshipped those beasts also that are most hateful: for being compared together, some are worse than others.

¹⁹Neither are they beautiful, so much as to be desired in respect of beasts: but they went without the praise of God and his blessing.

CHAPTER 16

¹Therefore by the like were they punished worthily, and by the multitude of beasts tormented.

²Instead of which punishment, dealing graciously with thine own people, thou preparedst for them meat of a strange taste, even quails to stir up their appetite:

³To the end that they, desiring food, might for the ugly sight of the beasts sent among them lothe even that, which they must needs desire; but these, suffering penury for a short space, might be made partakers of a strange taste.

⁴For it was requisite, that upon them exercising tyranny should come penury, which they could not avoid:

but to these it should only be shewed how their enemies were tormented.

⁵For when the horrible fierceness of beasts came upon these, and they perished with the stings of crooked serpents, thy wrath endured not for ever:

⁶But they were troubled for a small season, that they might be admonished, having a sign of salvation, to put them in remembrance of the commandment of thy law.

⁷For he that turned himself toward it was not saved by the thing that he saw, but by thee, that art the Saviour of all.

⁸And in this thou madest thine enemies confess, that it is thou who deliverest from all evil:

⁹For them the bitings of grasshoppers and flies killed, neither was there found any remedy for their life: for they were worthy to be punished by such.

¹⁰But thy sons not the very teeth of venomous dragons overcame: for thy mercy was ever by them, and healed them.

¹¹For they were pricked, that they should remember thy words; and were quickly saved, that not falling into deep forgetfulness, they might be continually mindful of thy goodness.

¹²For it was neither herb, nor mollifying plaister, that restored them to health: but thy word, O Lord, which healeth all things.

¹³For thou hast power of life and death: thou leadest to the gates of hell, and bringest up again.

Wisdom of Solomon

¹⁴A man indeed killeth through his malice: and the spirit, when it is gone forth, returneth not; neither the soul received up cometh again.

¹⁵But it is not possible to escape thine hand.

¹⁶For the ungodly, that denied to know thee, were scourged by the strength of thine arm: with strange rains, hails, and showers, were they persecuted, that they could not avoid, and through fire were they consumed.

¹⁷For, which is most to be wondered at, the fire had more force in the water, that quencheth all things: for the world fighteth for the righteous.

¹⁸For sometime the flame was mitigated, that it might not burn up the beasts that were sent against the ungodly; but themselves might see and perceive that they were persecuted with the judgment of God.

¹⁹And at another time it burneth even in the midst of water above the power of fire, that it might destroy the fruits of an unjust land.

²⁰Instead whereof thou feddest thine own people with angels' food, and didst send them from heaven bread prepared without their labour, able to content every man's delight, and agreeing to every taste.

²¹For thy sustenance declared thy sweetness unto thy children, and serving to the appetite of the eater, tempered itself to every man's liking.

²²But snow and ice endured the fire, and melted not, that they might know that fire burning in the hail, and sparkling in the rain, did destroy the fruits of the enemies.

²³But this again did even forget his own strength, that the righteous might be nourished.

²⁴For the creature that serveth thee, who art the Maker increaseth his strength against the unrighteous for their punishment, and abateth his strength for the benefit of such as put their trust in thee.

²⁵Therefore even then was it altered into all fashions, and was obedient to thy grace, that nourisheth all things, according to the desire of them that had need:

²⁶That thy children, O Lord, whom thou lovest, might know, that it is not the growing of fruits that nourisheth man: but that it is thy word, which preserveth them that put their trust in thee.

²⁷For that which was not destroyed of the fire, being warmed with a little sunbeam, soon melted away:

²⁸That it might be known, that we must prevent the sun to give thee thanks, and at the dayspring pray unto thee.

²⁹For the hope of the unthankful shall melt away as the winter's hoar frost, and shall run away as unprofitable water.

CHAPTER 17

¹For great are thy judgments, and cannot be expressed: therefore unnurtured souls have erred.

²For when unrighteous men thought to oppress the holy nation; they being shut up in their houses, the prisoners of darkness, and fettered with the bonds of a long night, lay [there] exiled from the eternal providence.

³For while they supposed to lie hid in their secret sins, they were scattered under a dark veil of forgetfulness, being horribly astonished, and troubled with [strange] apparitions.

⁴For neither might the corner that held them keep them from fear: but noises [as of waters] falling down sounded about them, and sad visions appeared unto them with heavy countenances.

⁵No power of the fire might give them light: neither could the bright flames of the stars endure to lighten that horrible night.

⁶Only there appeared unto them a fire kindled of itself, very dreadful: for being much terrified, they thought the things which they saw to be worse than the sight they saw not.

⁷As for the illusions of art magick, they were put down, and their vaunting in wisdom was reprov'd with disgrace.

⁸For they, that promised to drive away terrors and troubles from a sick soul, were sick themselves of fear, worthy to be laughed at.

⁹For though no terrible thing did fear them; yet being scared with beasts that passed by, and hissing of serpents, ¹⁰They died for fear, denying that they saw the air, which could of no side be avoided.

¹¹For wickedness, condemned by her own witness, is very timorous, and being pressed with conscience, always forecasteth grievous things.

¹²For fear is nothing else but a betraying of the succours which reason offereth.

¹³And the expectation from within, being less, counteth the ignorance more than the cause which bringeth the torment.

¹⁴But they sleeping the same sleep that night, which was indeed intolerable, and which came upon them out of the bottoms of inevitable hell, ¹⁵Were partly vexed with monstrous apparitions, and partly fainted, their heart failing them: for a sudden fear, and not looked for, came upon them.

¹⁶So then whosoever there fell down was straitly kept, shut up in a prison without iron bars, ¹⁷For whether he were husbandman, or shepherd, or a labourer in the field, he was overtaken, and endured that necessity, which could not be avoided: for they were all bound with one chain of darkness.

¹⁸Whether it were a whistling wind, or a melodious noise of birds among the spreading branches, or a pleasing fall of water running violently, ¹⁹Or a terrible sound of stones cast down, or a running that could not be seen of skipping beasts, or a roaring voice of most savage wild beasts, or a rebounding echo from the hollow mountains; these things made them to swoon for fear.

Wisdom of Solomon

²⁰For the whole world shined with clear light, and none were hindered in their labour:

²¹Over them only was spread an heavy night, an image of that darkness which should afterward receive them: but yet were they unto themselves more grievous than the darkness.

CHAPTER 18

¹Nevertheless thy saints had a very great light, whose voice they hearing, and not seeing their shape, because they also had not suffered the same things, they counted them happy.

²But for that they did not hurt them now, of whom they had been wronged before, they thanked them, and besought them pardon for that they had been enemies.

³Instead whereof thou gavest them a burning pillar of fire, both to be a guide of the unknown journey, and an harmless sun to entertain them honourably.

⁴For they were worthy to be deprived of light and imprisoned in darkness, who had kept thy sons shut up, by whom the uncorrupt light of the law was to be given unto the world.

⁵And when they had determined to slay the babes of the saints, one child being cast forth, and saved, to reprove them, thou tookest away the multitude of their children, and destroyedst them altogether in a mighty water.

⁶Of that night were our fathers certified afore, that assuredly knowing unto what oaths they had given credence, they might afterwards be of good cheer.

⁷So of thy people was accepted both the salvation of the righteous, and destruction of the enemies.

⁸For wherewith thou didst punish our adversaries, by the same thou didst glorify us, whom thou hadst called.

⁹For the righteous children of good men did sacrifice secretly, and with one consent made a holy law, that the saints should be like partakers of the same good and evil, the fathers now singing out the songs of praise.

¹⁰But on the other side there sounded an ill according cry of the enemies, and a lamentable noise was carried abroad for children that were bewailed.

¹¹The master and the servant were punished after one manner; and like as the king, so suffered the common person.

¹²So they all together had innumerable dead with one kind of death; neither were the living sufficient to bury them: for in one moment the noblest offspring of them was destroyed.

¹³For whereas they would not believe any thing by reason of the enchantments; upon the destruction of the firstborn, they acknowledged this people to be the sons of God.

¹⁴For while all things were in quiet silence, and that night was in the midst of her swift course, ¹⁵Thine Almighty word leaped down from heaven out of thy royal throne, as

Wisdom of Solomon

a fierce man of war into the midst of a land of destruction, ¹⁶And brought thine unfeigned commandment as a sharp sword, and standing up filled all things with death; and it touched the heaven, but it stood upon the earth.

¹⁷Then suddenly visions of horrible dreams troubled them sore, and terrors came upon them unlooked for.

¹⁸And one thrown here, and another there, half dead, shewed the cause of his death.

¹⁹For the dreams that troubled them did foreshew this, lest they should perish, and not know why they were afflicted.

²⁰Yea, the tasting of death touched the righteous also, and there was a destruction of the multitude in the wilderness: but the wrath endured not long.

²¹For then the blameless man made haste, and stood forth to defend them; and bringing the shield of his proper ministry, even prayer, and the propitiation of incense, set himself against the wrath, and so brought the calamity to an end, declaring that he was thy servant.

²²So he overcame the destroyer, not with strength of body, nor force of arms, but with a word subdued him that punished, alleging the oaths and covenants made with the fathers.

²³For when the dead were now fallen down by heaps one upon another, standing between, he stayed the wrath, and parted the way to the living.

²⁴For in the long garment was the whole world, and in the four rows of the stones was the glory of the fathers graven, and thy Majesty upon the daidem of his head.

²⁵Unto these the destroyer gave place, and was afraid of them: for it was enough that they only tasted of the wrath.

CHAPTER 19

¹As for the ungodly, wrath came upon them without mercy unto the end: for he knew before what they would do;

²How that having given them leave to depart, and sent them hastily away, they would repent and pursue them.

³For whilst they were yet mourning and making lamentation at the graves of the dead, they added another foolish device, and pursued them as fugitives, whom they had intreated to be gone.

⁴For the destiny, whereof they were worthy, drew them unto this end, and made them forget the things that had already happened, that they might fulfill the punishment which was wanting to their torments:

⁵And that thy people might pass a wonderful way: but they might find a strange death.

⁶For the whole creature in his proper kind was fashioned again anew, serving the peculiar commandments that were given unto them, that thy children might be kept without hurt:

Wisdom of Solomon

⁷As namely, a cloud shadowing the camp; and where water stood before, dry land appeared; and out of the Red sea a way without impediment; and out of the violent stream a green field:

⁸Wherethrough all the people went that were defended with thy hand, seeing thy marvellous strange wonders.

⁹For they went at large like horses, and leaped like lambs, praising thee, O Lord, who hadst delivered them.

¹⁰For they were yet mindful of the things that were done while they sojourned in the strange land, how the ground brought forth flies instead of cattle, and how the river cast up a multitude of frogs instead of fishes.

¹¹But afterwards they saw a new generation of fowls, when, being led with their appetite, they asked delicate meats.

¹²For quails came up unto them from the sea for their contentment.

¹³And punishments came upon the sinners not without former signs by the force of thunders: for they suffered justly according to their own wickedness, insomuch as they used a more hard and hateful behaviour toward strangers.

¹⁴For the Sodomites did not receive those, whom they knew not when they came: but these brought friends into bondage, that had well deserved of them.

¹⁵And not only so, but peradventure some respect shall be had of those,

because they used strangers not friendly:

¹⁶But these very grievously afflicted them, whom they had received with feastings, and were already made partakers of the same laws with them.

¹⁷Therefore even with blindness were these stricken, as those were at the doors of the righteous man: when, being compassed about with horrible great darkness, every one sought the passage of his own doors.

¹⁸For the elements were changed in themselves by a kind of harmony, like as in a psaltery notes change the name of the tune, and yet are always sounds; which may well be perceived by the sight of the things that have been done.

¹⁹For earthly things were turned into watery, and the things, that before swam in the water, now went upon the ground.

²⁰The fire had power in the water, forgetting his own virtue: and the water for-gat his own quenching nature.

²¹On the other side, the flames wasted not the flesh of the corruptible living things, though they walked therein; neither melted they the icy kind of heavenly meat that was of nature apt to melt.

²²For in all things, O Lord, thou didst magnify thy people, and glorify them, neither didst thou lightly regard them: but didst assist them in every time and place.

The Wisdom of Jesus the Son of Sirach

Ecclesiasticus

This Jesus was the son of Sirach, and grandchild to Jesus of the same name with him: this man therefore lived in the latter times, after the people had been led away captive, and called home a again, and almost after all the prophets. Now his grandfather Jesus, as he himself witnesseth, was a man of great diligence and wisdom among the Hebrews, who did not only gather the grave and short sentences of wise men, that had been before him, but himself also uttered some of his own, full of much understanding and wisdom. When as therefore the first Jesus died, leaving this book almost perfected, Sirach his son receiving it after him left it to his own son Jesus, who, having gotten it into his hands, compiled it all orderly into one volume, and called it Wisdom, intitulings it both by his own name, his father's name, and his grandfather's; alluring the hearer by the very name of Wisdom to have a greater love to the study of this book. It containeth therefore wise sayings, dark sentences, and parables, and certain particular ancient godly stories of men that pleased God; also his prayer and song; moreover, what benefits God had vouchsafed his people, and what plagues he had heaped upon their enemies. This Jesus did imitate Solomon, and was no less famous for wisdom and learning, both being indeed a man of great learning, and so reputed also.

The Prologue of the Wisdom of Jesus the son of Sirach

Whereas many and great things have been delivered unto us by the law and the prophets, and by others that have followed their steps, for the which things Israel ought to be commended for learning and wisdom; and whereof not only the readers must needs become skillful themselves, but also they that desire to learn be able to profit them which are without, both by speaking and writing: my grandfather Jesus, when he had much given himself to the reading of the law, and the prophets, and other books of our fathers, and had gotten therein good judgment, was drawn on also himself to write something pertaining to learning and wisdom; to the intent that those which are desirous to learn, and are addicted to these things, might profit much more in living according to the law. Wherefore let me intreat you to read it with favour and attention, and to pardon us, wherein we may seem to come short of some words, which we have laboured to interpret. For the same things uttered in Hebrew, and translated into another tongue, have not the same force in them: and not only these things, but the law itself, and the prophets, and the rest of the books, have no small difference, when they are spoken in their own language. For in the eight and thirtieth year coming into Egypt, when Euergetes was king, and continuing there some time, I found a book of no small learning: therefore I thought it most necessary for me to bestow some diligence and travail to interpret it; using great watchfulness and skill in that space to bring the book to an end, and set it forth for them also, which in a strange country are willing to learn, being prepared before in manners to live after the law.

CHAPTER 1

¹All wisdom cometh from the Lord, and is with him for ever.

²Who can number the sand of the sea, and the drops of rain, and the days of eternity?

³Who can find out the height of heaven, and the breadth of the earth, and the deep, and wisdom?

⁴Wisdom hath been created before all things, and the understanding of prudence from everlasting.

⁵The word of God most high is the fountain of wisdom; and her ways are everlasting commandments.

⁶To whom hath the root of wisdom been revealed? or who hath known her wise counsels?

⁷[Unto whom hath the knowledge of wisdom been made manifest? and who hath understood her great experience?]

⁸There is one wise and greatly to be feared, the Lord sitting upon his throne.

⁹He created her, and saw her, and numbered her, and poured her out upon all his works.

¹⁰She is with all flesh according to his gift, and he hath given her to them that love him.

¹¹The fear of the Lord is honour, and glory, and gladness, and a crown of rejoicing.

¹²The fear of the Lord maketh a merry heart, and giveth joy, and gladness, and a long life.

¹³Whoso feareth the Lord, it shall go well with him at the last, and he shall find favour in the day of his death.

¹⁴To fear the Lord is the beginning of wisdom: and it was created with the faithful in the womb.

¹⁵She hath built an everlasting foundation with men, and she shall continue with their seed.

¹⁶To fear the Lord is fullness of wisdom, and filleth men with her fruits.

¹⁷She filleth all their house with things desirable, and the garners with her increase.

¹⁸The fear of the Lord is a crown of wisdom, making peace and perfect health to flourish; both which are the gifts of God: and it enlargeth their rejoicing that love him.

¹⁹Wisdom raineth down skill and knowledge of understanding standing, and exalteth them to honour that hold her fast.

²⁰The root of wisdom is to fear the Lord, and the branches thereof are long life.

Eccliiasticus

²¹The fear of the Lord driveth away sins: and where it is present, it turneth away wrath.

²²A furious man cannot be justified; for the sway of his fury shall be his destruction.

²³A patient man will bear for a time, and afterward joy shall spring up unto him.

²⁴He will hide his words for a time, and the lips of many shall declare his wisdom.

²⁵The parables of knowledge are in the treasures of wisdom: but godliness is an abomination to a sinner.

²⁶If thou desire wisdom, keep the commandments, and the Lord shall give her unto thee.

²⁷For the fear of the Lord is wisdom and instruction: and faith and meekness are his delight.

²⁸Distrust not the fear of the Lord when thou art poor: and come not unto him with a double heart.

²⁹Be not an hypocrite in the sight of men, and take good heed what thou speakest.

³⁰Exalt not thyself, lest thou fall, and bring dishonour upon thy soul, and so God discover thy secrets, and cast thee down in the midst of the congregation, because thou camest not in truth to the fear of the Lord, but thy heart is full of deceit.

CHAPTER 2

¹My son, if thou come to serve the Lord, prepare thy soul for temptation.

²Set thy heart aright, and constantly endure, and make not haste in time of trouble.

³Cleave unto him, and depart not away, that thou mayest be increased at thy last end.

⁴Whatsoever is brought upon thee take cheerfully, and be patient when thou art changed to a low estate.

⁵For gold is tried in the fire, and acceptable men in the furnace of adversity.

⁶Believe in him, and he will help thee; order thy way aright, and trust in him.

⁷Ye that fear the Lord, wait for his mercy; and go not aside, lest ye fall.

⁸Ye that fear the Lord, believe him; and your reward shall not fail.

⁹Ye that fear the Lord, hope for good, and for everlasting joy and mercy.

¹⁰Look at the generations of old, and see; did ever any trust in the Lord, and was confounded? or did any abide in his fear, and was forsaken? or whom did he ever despise, that called upon him?

¹¹For the Lord is full of compassion and mercy, longsuffering, and very pitiful, and forgiveth sins, and saveth in time of affliction.

¹²Woe be to fearful hearts, and faint hands, and the sinner that goeth two ways!

¹³Woe unto him that is fainthearted! for he believeth not; therefore shall he not be defended.

Eccliiasticus

¹⁴Woe unto you that have lost patience! and what will ye do when the Lord shall visit you?

¹⁵They that fear the Lord will not disobey his Word; and they that love him will keep his ways.

¹⁶They that fear the Lord will seek that which is well, pleasing unto him; and they that love him shall be filled with the law.

¹⁷They that fear the Lord will prepare their hearts, and humble their souls in his sight, ¹⁸Saying, We will fall into the hands of the Lord, and not into the hands of men: for as his majesty is, so is his mercy.

CHAPTER 3

¹Hear me your father, O children, and do thereafter, that ye may be safe.

²For the Lord hath given the father honour over the children, and hath confirmed the authority of the mother over the sons.

³Whoso honoureth his father maketh an atonement for his sins:

⁴And he that honoureth his mother is as one that layeth up treasure.

⁵Whoso honoureth his father shall have joy of his own children; and when he maketh his prayer, he shall be heard.

⁶He that honoureth his father shall have a long life; and he that is obedient unto the Lord shall be a comfort to his mother.

⁷He that feareth the Lord will honour his father, and will do service unto his parents, as to his masters.

⁸Honour thy father and mother both in word and deed, that a blessing may come upon thee from them.

⁹For the blessing of the father establisheth the houses of children; but the curse of the mother rooteth out foundations.

¹⁰Glory not in the dishonour of thy father; for thy father's dishonour is no glory unto thee.

¹¹For the glory of a man is from the honour of his father; and a mother in dis-honour is a reproach to the children.

¹²My son, help thy father in his age, and grieve him not as long as he liveth.

¹³And if his understanding fail, have patience with him; and despise him not when thou art in thy full strength.

¹⁴For the relieving of thy father shall not be forgotten: and instead of sins it shall be added to build thee up.

¹⁵In the day of thine affliction it shall be remembered; thy sins also shall melt away, as the ice in the fair warm weather.

¹⁶He that forsaketh his father is as a blasphemer; and he that angereth his mother is cursed: of God.

¹⁷My son, go on with thy business in meekness; so shalt thou be beloved of him that is approved.

¹⁸The greater thou art, the more humble thyself, and thou shalt find favour before the Lord.

¹⁹Many are in high place, and of renown: but mysteries are revealed unto the meek.

Ecclasticus

CHAPTER 4

²⁰For the power of the Lord is great, and he is honoured of the lowly.

²¹Seek not out things that are too hard for thee, neither search the things that are above thy strength.

²²But what is commanded thee, think thereupon with reverence, for it is not needful for thee to see with thine eyes the things that are in secret.

²³Be not curious in unnecessary matters: for more things are shewed unto thee than men understand.

²⁴For many are deceived by their own vain opinion; and an evil suspicion hath overthrown their judgment.

²⁵Without eyes thou shalt want light: profess not the knowledge therefore that thou hast not.

²⁶A stubborn heart shall fare evil at the last; and he that loveth danger shall perish therein.

²⁷An obstinate heart shall be laden with sorrows; and the wicked man shall heap sin upon sin.

²⁸In the punishment of the proud there is no remedy; for the plant of wickedness hath taken root in him.

²⁹The heart of the prudent will understand a parable; and an attentive ear is the desire of a wise man.

³⁰Water will quench a flaming fire; and alms maketh an atonement for sins.

³¹And he that requiteth good turns is mindful of that which may come hereafter; and when he falleth, he shall find a stay.

¹My son, defraud not the poor of his living, and make not the needy eyes to wait long.

²Make not an hungry soul sorrowful; neither provoke a man in his distress.

³Add not more trouble to an heart that is vexed; and defer not to give to him that is in need.

⁴Reject not the supplication of the afflicted; neither turn away thy face from a poor man.

⁵Turn not away thine eye from the needy, and give him none occasion to curse thee:

⁶For if he curse thee in the bitterness of his soul, his prayer shall be heard of him that made him.

⁷Get thyself the love of the congregation, and bow thy head to a great man.

⁸Let it not grieve thee to bow down thine ear to the poor, and give him a friendly answer with meekness.

⁹Deliver him that suffereth wrong from the hand of the oppressor; and be not fainthearted when thou sittest in judgment.

¹⁰Be as a father unto the fatherless, and instead of an husband unto their mother: so shalt thou be as the son of the most High, and he shall love thee more than thy mother doth.

¹¹Wisdom exalteth her children, and layeth hold of them that seek her.

¹²He that loveth her loveth life; and they that seek to her early shall be filled with joy.

Eccliiasticus

¹³He that holdeth her fast shall inherit glory; and wheresoever she entereth, the Lord will bless.

¹⁴They that serve her shall minister to the Holy One: and them that love her the Lord doth love.

¹⁵Whoso giveth ear unto her shall judge the nations: and he that attendeth unto her shall dwell securely.

¹⁶If a man commit himself unto her, he shall inherit her; and his generation shall hold her in possession.

¹⁷For at the first she will walk with him by crooked ways, and bring fear and dread upon him, and torment him with her discipline, until she may trust his soul, and try him by her laws.

¹⁸Then will she return the straight way unto him, and comfort him, and shew him her secrets.

¹⁹But if he go wrong, she will forsake him, and give him over to his own ruin.

²⁰Observe the opportunity, and beware of evil; and be not ashamed when it concerneth thy soul.

²¹For there is a shame that bringeth sin; and there is a shame which is glory and grace.

²²Accept no person against thy soul, and let not the reverence of any man cause thee to fall.

²³And refrain not to speak, when there is occasion to do good, and hide not thy wisdom in her beauty.

²⁴For by speech wisdom shall be known: and learning by the word of the tongue.

²⁵In no wise speak against the truth; but be abashed of the error of thine ignorance.

²⁶Be not ashamed to confess thy sins; and force not the course of the river.

²⁷Make not thyself an underling to a foolish man; neither accept the person of the mighty.

²⁸Strive for the truth unto death, and the Lord shall fight for thee.

²⁹Be not hasty in thy tongue, and in thy deeds slack and remiss.

³⁰Be not as a lion in thy house, nor frantick among thy servants.

³¹Let not thine hand be stretched out to receive, and shut when thou shouldest repay.

CHAPTER 5

¹Set thy heart upon thy goods; and say not, I have enough for my life.

²Follow not thine own mind and thy strength, to walk in the ways of thy heart:

³And say not, Who shall control me for my works? for the Lord will surely revenge thy pride.

⁴Say not, I have sinned, and what harm hath happened unto me? for the Lord is longsuffering, he will in no wise let thee go.

⁵Concerning propitiation, be not without fear to add sin unto sin:

⁶And say not His mercy is great; he will be pacified for the multitude of my sins: for mercy and wrath come from him, and his indignation resteth upon sinners.

Ecclasticus

⁷Make no tarrying to turn to the Lord, and put not off from day to day: for suddenly shall the wrath of the Lord come forth, and in thy security thou shalt be destroyed, and perish in the day of vengeance.

⁸Set not thine heart upon goods unjustly gotten, for they shall not profit thee in the day of calamity.

⁹Winnow not with every wind, and go not into every way: for so doth the sinner that hath a double tongue.

¹⁰Be stedfast in thy understanding; and let thy word be the same.

¹¹Be swift to hear; and let thy life be sincere; and with patience give answer.

¹²If thou hast understanding, answer thy neighbour; if not, lay thy hand upon thy mouth.

¹³Honour and shame is in talk: and the tongue of man is his fall.

¹⁴Be not called a whisperer, and lie not in wait with thy tongue: for a foul shame is upon the thief, and an evil condemnation upon the double tongue.

¹⁵Be not ignorant of any thing in a great matter or a small.

CHAPTER 6

¹Instead of a friend become not an enemy; for [thereby] thou shalt inherit an ill name, shame, and reproach: even so shall a sinner that hath a double tongue.

²Extol not thyself in the counsel of thine own heart; that thy soul be not torn in pieces as a bull [straying alone.]

³Thou shalt eat up thy leaves, and lose thy fruit, and leave thyself as a dry tree.

⁴A wicked soul shall destroy him that hath it, and shall make him to be laughed to scorn of his enemies.

⁵Sweet language will multiply friends: and a fairspeaking tongue will increase kind greetings.

⁶Be in peace with many: nevertheless have but one counsellor of a thousand.

⁷If thou wouldest get a friend, prove him first and be not hasty to credit him.

⁸For some man is a friend for his own occasion, and will not abide in the day of thy trouble.

⁹And there is a friend, who being turned to enmity, and strife will discover thy reproach.

¹⁰Again, some friend is a companion at the table, and will not continue in the day of thy affliction.

¹¹But in thy prosperity he will be as thyself, and will be bold over thy servants.

¹²If thou be brought low, he will be against thee, and will hide himself from thy face.

¹³Separate thyself from thine enemies, and take heed of thy friends.

¹⁴A faithful friend is a strong defence: and he that hath found such an one hath found a treasure.

¹⁵Nothing doth countervail a faithful friend, and his excellency is invaluable.

Ecclasticus

¹⁶A faithful friend is the medicine of life; and they that fear the Lord shall find him.

¹⁷Whoso feareth the Lord shall direct his friendship aright: for as he is, so shall his neighbour be also.

¹⁸My son, gather instruction from thy youth up: so shalt thou find wisdom till thine old age.

¹⁹Come unto her as one that ploweth and soweth, and wait for her good fruits: for thou shalt not toil much in labouring about her, but thou shalt eat of her fruits right soon.

²⁰She is very unpleasant to the unlearned: he that is without understanding will not remain with her.

²¹She will lie upon him as a mighty stone of trial; and he will cast her from him ere it be long.

²²For wisdom is according to her name, and she is not manifest unto many.

²³Give ear, my son, receive my advice, and refuse not my counsel, ²⁴And put thy feet into her fetters, and thy neck into her chain.

²⁵Bow down thy shoulder, and bear her, and be not grieved with her bonds.

²⁶Come unto her with thy whole heart, and keep her ways with all thy power.

²⁷Search, and seek, and she shall be made known unto thee: and when thou hast got hold of her, let her not go.

²⁸For at the last thou shalt find her rest, and that shall be turned to thy joy.

²⁹Then shall her fetters be a strong defence for thee, and her chains a robe of glory.

³⁰For there is a golden ornament upon her, and her bands are purple lace.

³¹Thou shalt put her on as a robe of honour, and shalt put her about thee as a crown of joy.

³²My son, if thou wilt, thou shalt be taught: and if thou wilt apply thy mind, thou shalt be prudent.

³³If thou love to hear, thou shalt receive understanding: and if thou bow thine ear, thou shalt be wise, ³⁴Stand in the multitude of the elders; and cleave unto him that is wise.

³⁵Be willing to hear every godly discourse; and let not the parables of understanding escape thee.

³⁶And if thou seest a man of understanding, get thee betimes unto him, and let thy foot wear the steps of his door.

³⁷Let thy mind be upon the ordinances of the Lord and meditate continually in his commandments: he shall establish thine heart, and give thee wisdom at thine own desire.

CHAPTER 7

¹Do no evil, so shall no harm come unto thee.

²Depart from the unjust, and iniquity shall turn away from thee.

³My son, sow not upon the furrows of unrighteousness, and thou shalt not reap them sevenfold.

⁴Seek not of the Lord preeminence, neither of the king the seat of honour.

Eccliiasticus

⁵Justify not thyself before the Lord; and boast not of thy wisdom before the king.

⁶Seek not to be judge, being not able to take away iniquity; lest at any time thou fear the person of the mighty, an stumblingblock in the way of thy uprightness.

⁷Offend not against the multitude of a city, and then thou shalt not cast thyself down among the people.

⁸Bind not one sin upon another; for in one thou shalt not be unpunished.

⁹Say not, God will look upon the multitude of my oblations, and when I offer to the most high God, he will accept it.

¹⁰Be not fainthearted when thou makest thy prayer, and neglect not to give alms.

¹¹Laugh no man to scorn in the bitterness of his soul: for there is one which humbleth and exalteth.

¹²Devise not a lie against thy brother; neither do the like to thy friend.

¹³Use not to make any manner of lie: for the custom thereof is not good.

¹⁴Use not many words in a multitude of elders, and make not much babbling when thou prayest.

¹⁵Hate not laborious work, neither husbandry, which the most High hath ordained.

¹⁶Number not thyself among the multitude of sinners, but remember that wrath will not tarry long.

¹⁷Humble thyself greatly: for the vengeance of the ungodly is fire and worms.

¹⁸Change not a friend for any good by no means; neither a faithful brother for the gold of Ophir.

¹⁹Forego not a wise and good woman: for her grace is above gold.

²⁰Whereas thy servant worketh truly, entreat him not evil. nor the hireling that bestoweth himself wholly for thee.

²¹Let thy soul love a good servant, and defraud him not of liberty.

²²Hast thou cattle? have an eye to them: and if they be for thy profit, keep them with thee.

²³Hast thou children? instruct them, and bow down their neck from their youth.

²⁴Hast thou daughters? have a care of their body, and shew not thyself cheerful toward them.

²⁵Marry thy daughter, and so shalt thou have performed a weighty matter: but give her to a man of understanding.

²⁶Hast thou a wife after thy mind? forsake her not: but give not thyself over to a light woman.

²⁷Honour thy father with thy whole heart, and forget not the sorrows of thy mother.

²⁸Remember that thou wast begotten of them; and how canst thou recompense them the things that they have done for thee?

²⁹Fear the Lord with all thy soul, and reverence his priests.

Ecclasticus

³⁰Love him that made thee with all thy strength, and forsake not his ministers.

³¹Fear the Lord, and honor the priest; and give him his portion, as it is commanded thee; the firstfruits, and the trespass offering, and the gift of the shoulders, and the sacrifice of sanctification, and the firstfruits of the holy things.

³²And stretch thine hand unto the poor, that thy blessing may be perfected.

³³A gift hath grace in the sight of every man living; and for the dead detain it not.

³⁴Fail not to be with them that weep, and mourn with them that mourn.

³⁵Be not slow to visit the sick: for that shall make thee to be beloved.

³⁶Whatsoever thou takest in hand, remember the end, and thou shalt never do amiss.

CHAPTER 8

¹Strive not with a mighty man' lest thou fall into his hands.

²Be not at variance with a rich man, lest he overweigh thee: for gold hath destroyed many, and perverted the hearts of kings.

³Strive not with a man that is full of tongue, and heap not wood upon his fire.

⁴Jest not with a rude man, lest thy ancestors be disgraced.

⁵Reproach not a man that turneth from sin, but remember that we are all worthy of punishment.

⁶Dishonour not a man in his old age: for even some of us wax old.

⁷Rejoice not over thy greatest enemy being dead, but remember that we die all.

⁸Despise not the discourse of the wise, but acquaint thyself with their proverbs: for of them thou shalt learn instruction, and how to serve great men with ease.

⁹Miss not the discourse of the elders: for they also learned of their fathers, and of them thou shalt learn understanding, and to give answer as need requireth.

¹⁰Kindle not the coals of a sinner, lest thou be burnt with the flame of his fire.

¹¹Rise not up [in anger] at the presence of an injurious person, lest he lie in wait to entrap thee in thy words ¹²Lend not unto him that is mightier than thyself; for if thou lendest him, count it but lost.

¹³Be not surety above thy power: for if thou be surety, take care to pay it.

¹⁴Go not to law with a judge; for they will judge for him according to his honour.

¹⁵Travel not by the way with a bold fellow, lest he become grievous unto thee: for he will do according to his own will, and thou shalt perish with him through his folly.

¹⁶Strive not with an angry man, and go not with him into a solitary place: for blood is as nothing in his sight, and where there is no help, he will overthrow thee.

Ecclasticus

¹⁷Consult not with a fool; for he cannot keep counsel.

¹⁸Do no secret thing before a stranger; for thou knowest not what he will bring forth.

¹⁹Open not thine heart to every man, lest he requite thee with a shrewd turn.

CHAPTER 9

¹Be not jealous over the wife of thy bosom, and teach her not an evil lesson against thyself.

²Give not thy soul unto a woman to set her foot upon thy substance.

³Meet not with an harlot, lest thou fall into her snares.

⁴Use not much the company of a woman that is a singer, lest thou be taken with her attempts.

⁵Gaze not on a maid, that thou fall not by those things that are precious in her.

⁶Give not thy soul unto harlots, that thou lose not thine inheritance.

⁷Look not round about thee in the streets of the city, neither wander thou in the solitary place thereof.

⁸Turn away thine eye from a beautiful woman, and look not upon another's beauty; for many have been deceived by the beauty of a woman; for herewith love is kindled as a fire.

⁹Sit not at all with another man's wife, nor sit down with her in thine arms, and spend not thy money with her at the wine; lest thine heart incline unto her, and so through thy desire thou fall into destruction.

¹⁰Forsake not an old friend; for the new is not comparable to him: a new friend is as new wine; when it is old, thou shalt drink it with pleasure.

¹¹Envy not the glory of a sinner: for thou knowest not what shall be his end.

¹²Delight not in the thing that the ungodly have pleasure in; but remember they shall not go unpunished unto their grave.

¹³Keep thee far from the man that hath power to kill; so shalt thou not doubt the fear of death: and if thou come unto him, make no fault, lest he take away thy life presently: remember that thou goest in the midst of snares, and that thou walkest upon the battlements of the city.

¹⁴As near as thou canst, guess at thy neighbour, and consult with the wise.

¹⁵Let thy talk be with the wise, and all thy communication in the law of the most High.

¹⁶And let just men eat and drink with thee; and let thy glorying be in the fear of the Lord.

¹⁷For the hand of the artificer the work shall be commended: and the wise ruler of the people for his speech.

¹⁸A man of an ill tongue is dangerous in his city; and he that is rash in his talk shall be hated.

CHAPTER 10

¹A wise judge will instruct his people; and the government of a prudent man is well ordered.

²As the judge of the people is himself, so are his officers; and what manner of man the ruler of the city is, such are all they that dwell therein.

Eccliiasticus

³An unwise king destroyeth his people; but through the prudence of them which are in authority the city shall be inhabited.

⁴The power of the earth is in the hand of the Lord, and in due time he will set over it one that is profitable.

⁵In the hand of God is the prosperity of man: and upon the person of the scribe shall he lay his honour.

⁶Bear not hatred to thy neighbour for every wrong; and do nothing at all by injurious practices.

⁷Pride is hateful before God and man: and by both doth one commit iniquity.

⁸Because of unrighteous dealings, injuries, and riches got by deceit, the kingdom is translated from one people to another.

⁹Why is earth and ashes proud? There is not a more wicked thing than a covetous man: for such an one setteth his own soul to sale; because while he liveth he casteth away his bowels.

¹⁰The physician cutteth off a long disease; and he that is to day a king to morrow shall die.

¹¹For when a man is dead, he shall inherit creeping things, beasts, and worms.

¹²The beginning of pride is when one departeth from God, and his heart is turned away from his Maker.

¹³For pride is the beginning of sin, and he that hath it shall pour out abomination: and therefore the Lord brought upon them strange calamities, and overthrew them utterly.

¹⁴The Lord hath cast down the thrones of proud princes, and set up the meek in their stead.

¹⁵The Lord hath plucked up the roots of the proud nations, and planted the lowly in their place.

¹⁶The Lord overthrew countries of the heathen, and destroyed them to the foundations of the earth.

¹⁷He took some of them away, and destroyed them, and hath made their memorial to cease from the earth.

¹⁸Pride was not made for men, nor furious anger for them that are born of a woman.

¹⁹They that fear the Lord are a sure seed, and they that love him an honourable plant: they that regard not the law are a dishonourable seed; they that transgress the commandments are a deceivable seed.

²⁰Among brethren he that is chief is honorable; so are they that fear the Lord in his eyes.

²¹The fear of the Lord goeth before the obtaining of authority: but roughness and pride is the losing thereof.

²²Whether he be rich, noble, or poor, their glory is the fear of the Lord.

²³It is not meet to despise the poor man that hath understanding; neither is it convenient to magnify a sinful man.

²⁴Great men, and judges, and potentates, shall be honoured; yet is there none of them greater than he that feareth the Lord.

Eccliiasticus

²⁵Unto the servant that is wise shall they that are free do service: and he that hath knowledge will not grudge when he is reformed.

²⁶Be not overwise in doing thy business; and boast not thyself in the time of thy distress.

²⁷Better is he that laboureth, and aboundeth in all things, than he that boasteth himself, and wanteth bread.

²⁸My son, glorify thy soul in meekness, and give it honour according to the dignity thereof.

²⁹Who will justify him that sinneth against his own soul? and who will honour him that dishonoureth his own life?

³⁰The poor man is honoured for his skill, and the rich man is honoured for his riches.

³¹He that is honoured in poverty, how much more in riches? and he that is dis-honourable in riches, how much more in poverty?

CHAPTER 11

¹Wisdom lifteth up the head of him that is of low degree, and maketh him to sit among great men.

²Commend not a man for his beauty; neither abhor a man for his outward appearance.

³The bee is little among such as fly; but her fruit is the chief of sweet things.

⁴Boast not of thy clothing and raiment, and exalt not thyself in the day of honour: for the works of the Lord are wonderful, and his works among men are hidden.

⁵Many kings have sat down upon the ground; and one that was never thought of hath worn the crown.

⁶Many mighty men have been greatly disgraced; and the honourable delivered into other men's hands.

⁷Blame not before thou hast examined the truth: understand first, and then rebuke.

⁸Answer not before thou hast heard the cause: neither interrupt men in the midst of their talk.

⁹Strive not in a matter that concerneth thee not; and sit not in judgment with sinners.

¹⁰My son, meddle not with many matters: for if thou meddle much, thou shalt not be innocent; and if thou follow after, thou shalt not obtain, neither shalt thou escape by fleeing.

¹¹There is one that laboureth, and taketh pains, and maketh haste, and is so much the more behind.

¹²Again, there is another that is slow, and hath need of help, wanting ability, and full of poverty; yet the eye of the Lord looked upon him for good, and set him up from his low estate,

¹³And lifted up his head from misery; so that many that saw from him is peace over all the ¹⁴Prosperity and adversity, life and death, poverty and riches, come of the Lord.

¹⁵Wisdom, knowledge, and understanding of the law, are of the Lord: love, and the way of good works, are from him.

Ecclasticus

¹⁶Error and darkness had their beginning together with sinners: and evil shall wax old with them that glory therein.

¹⁷The gift of the Lord remaineth with the ungodly, and his favour bringeth prosperity for ever.

¹⁸There is that waxeth rich by his wariness and pinching, and this his the portion of his reward:

¹⁹Whereas he saith, I have found rest, and now will eat continually of my goods; and yet he knoweth not what time shall come upon him, and that he must leave those things to others, and die.

²⁰Be stedfast in thy covenant, and be conversant therein, and wax old in thy work.

²¹Marvel not at the works of sinners; but trust in the Lord, and abide in thy labour: for it is an easy thing in the sight of the Lord on the sudden to make a poor man rich.

²²The blessing of the Lord is in the reward of the godly, and suddenly he maketh his blessing flourish.

²³Say not, What profit is there of my service? and what good things shall I have hereafter?

²⁴Again, say not, I have enough, and possess many things, and what evil shall I have hereafter?

²⁵In the day of prosperity there is a forgetfulness of affliction: and in the day of affliction there is no more remembrance of prosperity.

²⁶For it is an easy thing unto the Lord in the day of death to reward a man according to his ways.

²⁷The affliction of an hour maketh a man forget pleasure: and in his end his deeds shall be discovered.

²⁸Judge none blessed before his death: for a man shall be known in his children.

²⁹Bring not every man into thine house: for the deceitful man hath many trains.

³⁰Like as a partridge taken [and kept] in a cage, so is the heart of the proud; and like as a spy, watcheth he for thy fall:

³¹For he lieth in wait, and turneth good into evil, and in things worthy praise will lay blame upon thee.

³²Of a spark of fire a heap of coals is kindled: and a sinful man layeth wait for blood.

³³Take heed of a mischievous man, for he worketh wickedness; lest he bring upon thee a perpetual blot.

³⁴Receive a stranger into thine house, and he will disturb thee, and turn thee out of thine own.

CHAPTER 12

¹When thou wilt do good know to whom thou doest it; so shalt thou be thanked for thy benefits.

²Do good to the godly man, and thou shalt find a recompence; and if not from him, yet from the most High.

³There can no good come to him that is always occupied in evil, nor to him that giveth no alms.

Ecclasticus

⁴Give to the godly man, and help not a sinner.

⁵Do well unto him that is lowly, but give not to the ungodly: hold back thy bread, and give it not unto him, lest he overmaster thee thereby: for [else] thou shalt receive twice as much evil for all the good thou shalt have done unto him.

⁶For the most High hateth sinners, and will repay vengeance unto the ungodly, and keepeth them against the mighty day of their punishment.

⁷Give unto the good, and help not the sinner.

⁸A friend cannot be known in prosperity: and an enemy cannot be hidden in adversity.

⁹In the prosperity of a man enemies will be grieved: but in his adversity even a friend will depart.

¹⁰Never trust thine enemy: for like as iron rusteth, so is his wickedness.

¹¹Though he humble himself, and go crouching, yet take good heed and beware of him, and thou shalt be unto him as if thou hadst wiped a lookingglass, and thou shalt know that his rust hath not been altogether wiped away.

¹²Set him not by thee, lest, when he hath overthrown thee, he stand up in thy place; neither let him sit at thy right hand, lest he seek to take thy seat, and thou at the last remember my words, and be pricked therewith.

¹³Who will pity a charmer that is bitten with a serpent, or any such as come nigh wild beasts?

¹⁴So one that goeth to a sinner, and is defiled with him in his sins, who will pity?

¹⁵For a while he will abide with thee, but if thou begin to fall, he will not tarry.

¹⁶An enemy speaketh sweetly with his lips, but in his heart he imagineth how to throw thee into a pit: he will weep with his eyes, but if he find opportunity, he will not be satisfied with blood.

¹⁷If adversity come upon thee, thou shalt find him there first; and though he pretend to help thee, yet shall he undermine thee.

¹⁸He will shake his head, and clap his hands, and whisper much, and change his countenance.

¹He that toucheth pitch shall be defiled therewith; and he that hath fellowship with a proud man shall be like unto him.

²Burden not thyself above thy power while thou livest; and have no fellowship with one that is mightier and richer than thyself: for how agree the kettle and the earthen pot together? for if the one be smitten against the other, it shall be broken.

³The rich man hath done wrong, and yet he threateneth withal: the poor is wronged, and he must intreat also.

⁴If thou be for his profit, he will use thee: but if thou have nothing, he will forsake thee.

Ecclasticus

⁵If thou have any thing, he will live with thee: yea, he will make thee bare, and will not be sorry for it.

⁶If he have need of thee, he will deceive thee, and smile upon thee, and put thee in hope; he will speak thee fair, and say, What wantest thou?

⁷And he will shame thee by his meats, until he have drawn thee dry twice or thrice, and at the last he will laugh thee to scorn afterward, when he seeth thee, he will forsake thee, and shake his head at thee.

⁸Beware that thou be not deceived and brought down in thy jollity.

⁹If thou be invited of a mighty man, withdraw thyself, and so much the more will he invite thee.

¹⁰Press thou not upon him, lest thou be put back; stand not far off, lest thou be forgotten.

¹¹Affect not to be made equal unto him in talk, and believe not his many words: for with much communication will he tempt thee, and smiling upon thee will get out thy secrets:

¹²But cruelly he will lay up thy words, and will not spare to do thee hurt, and to put thee in prison.

¹³Observe, and take good heed, for thou walkest in peril of thy overthrowing: when thou hearest these things, awake in thy sleep.

¹⁴Love the Lord all thy life, and call upon him for thy salvation.

¹⁵Every beast loveth his like, and every man loveth his neighbor.

¹⁶All flesh consorteth according to kind, and a man will cleave to his like.

¹⁷What fellowship hath the wolf with the lamb? so the sinner with the godly.

¹⁸What agreement is there between the hyena and a dog? and what peace between the rich and the poor?

¹⁹As the wild ass is the lion's prey in the wilderness: so the rich eat up the poor.

²⁰As the proud hate humility: so doth the rich abhor the poor.

²¹A rich man beginning to fall is held up of his friends: but a poor man being down is thrust away by his friends.

²²When a rich man is fallen, he hath many helpers: he speaketh things not to be spoken, and yet men justify him: the poor man slipped, and yet they rebuked him too; he spake wisely, and could have no place.

²³When a rich man speaketh, every man holdeth his tongue, and, look, what he saith, they extol it to the clouds: but if the poor man speak, they say, What fellow is this? and if he stumble, they will help to overthrow him.

²⁴Riches are good unto him that hath no sin, and poverty is evil in the mouth of the ungodly.

²⁵The heart of a man changeth his countenance, whether it be for good or evil: and a merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance.

²⁶A cheerful countenance is a token of a heart that is in prosperity; and the finding out of parables is a wearisome labour of the mind.

Eccliiasticus

CHAPTER 14

¹Blessed is the man that hath not slipped with his mouth, and is not pricked with the multitude of sins.

²Blessed is he whose conscience hath not condemned him, and who is not fallen from his hope in the Lord.

³Riches are not comely for a niggard: and what should an envious man do with money?

⁴He that gathereth by defrauding his own soul gathereth for others, that shall spend his goods riotously.

⁵He that is evil to himself, to whom will he be good? he shall not take pleasure in his goods.

⁶There is none worse than he that envieth himself; and this is a recompence of his wickedness.

⁷And if he doeth good, he doeth it unwillingly; and at the last he will declare his wickedness.

⁸The envious man hath a wicked eye; he turneth away his face, and despiseth men.

⁹A covetous man's eye is not satisfied with his portion; and the iniquity of the wicked drieth up his soul.

¹⁰A wicked eye envieth [his] bread, and he is a niggard at his table.

¹¹My son, according to thy ability do good to thyself, and give the Lord his due offering.

¹²Remember that death will not be long in coming, and that the covenant of the grave is not shewed unto thee.

¹³Do good unto thy friend before thou die, and according to thy ability stretch out thy hand and give to him.

¹⁴Defraud not thyself of the good day, and let not the part of a good desire overpass thee.

¹⁵Shalt thou not leave thy travails unto another? and thy labours to be divided by lot?

¹⁶Give, and take, and sanctify thy soul; for there is no seeking of dainties in the grave.

¹⁷All flesh waxeth old as a garment: for the covenant from the beginning is, Thou shalt die the death.

¹⁸As of the green leaves on a thick tree, some fall, and some grow; so is the generation of flesh and blood, one cometh to an end, and another is born.

¹⁹Every work rotteth and consumeth away, and the worker thereof shall go withal.

²⁰Blessed is the man that doth meditate good things in wisdom, and that reasoneth of holy things by his understanding.

²¹He that considereth her ways in his heart shall also have understanding in her secrets.

²²Go after her as one that traceth, and lie in wait in her ways.

²³He that prieth in at her windows shall also hearken at her doors.

²⁴He that doth lodge near her house shall also fasten a pin in her walls.

²⁵He shall pitch his tent nigh unto her, and shall lodge in a lodging where good things are.

Ecclasticus

²⁶He shall set his children under her shelter, and shall lodge under her branches.

²⁷By her he shall be covered from heat, and in her glory shall he dwell.

CHAPTER 15

¹He that feareth the Lord will do good, and he that hath the knowledge of the law shall obtain her.

²And as a mother shall she meet him, and receive him as a wife married of a virgin.

³With the bread of understanding shall she feed him, and give him the water of wisdom to drink.

⁴He shall be stayed upon her, and shall not be moved; and shall rely upon her, and shall not be confounded.

⁵She shall exalt him above his neighbours, and in the midst of the congregation shall she open his mouth.

⁶He shall find joy and a crown of gladness, and she shall cause him to inherit an everlasting name.

⁷But foolish men shall not attain unto her, and sinners shall not see her.

⁸For she is far from pride, and men that are liars cannot remember her.

⁹Praise is not seemly in the mouth of a sinner, for it was not sent him of the Lord.

¹⁰For praise shall be uttered in wisdom, and the Lord will prosper it.

¹¹Say not thou, It is through the Lord that I fell away: for thou oughtest not to do the things that he hateth.

¹²Say not thou, He hath caused me to err: for he hath no need of the sinful man.

¹³The Lord hateth all abomination; and they that fear God love it not.

¹⁴He himself made man from the beginning, and left him in the hand of his counsel;

¹⁵If thou wilt, to keep the commandments, and to perform acceptable faithfulness.

¹⁶He hath set fire and water before thee: stretch forth thy hand unto whether thou wilt.

¹⁷Before man is life and death; and whether him liketh shall be given him.

¹⁸For the wisdom of the Lord is great, and he is mighty in power, and beholdeth all things:

¹⁹And his eyes are upon them that fear him, and he knoweth every work of man.

²⁰He hath commanded no man to do wickedly, neither hath he given any man licence to sin.

CHAPTER 16

¹Desire not a multitude of unprofitable children, neither delight in ungodly sons.

²Though they multiply, rejoice not in them, except the fear of the Lord be with them.

³Trust not thou in their life, neither respect their multitude: for one that is just is better than a thousand; and better it is to die without children, than to have them that are ungodly.

⁴For by one that hath understanding shall the city be replenished: but the kindred of the wicked shall speedily become desolate.

Eccliiasticus

⁵Many such things have I seen with mine eyes, and mine ear hath heard greater things than these.

⁶In the congregation of the ungodly shall a fire be kindled; and in a rebellious nation wrath is set on fire.

⁷He was not pacified toward the old giants, who fell away in the strength of their foolishness.

⁸Neither spared he the place where Lot sojourned, but abhorred them for their pride.

⁹He pitied not the people of perdition, who were taken away in their sins:

¹⁰Nor the six hundred thousand footmen, who were gathered together in the hardness of their hearts.

¹¹And if there be one stiffnecked among the people, it is marvel if he escape unpunished: for mercy and wrath are with him; he is mighty to forgive, and to pour out displeasure.

¹²As his mercy is great, so is his correction also: he judgeth a man according to his works

¹³The sinner shall not escape with his spoils: and the patience of the godly shall not be frustrate.

¹⁴Make way for every work of mercy: for every man shall find according to his works.

¹⁵The Lord hardened Pharaoh, that he should not know him, that his powerful works might be known to the world.

¹⁶His mercy is manifest to every creature; and he hath separated his light from the darkness with an adamant.

¹⁷Say not thou, I will hide myself from the Lord: shall any remember me from above? I shall not be remembered among so many people: for what is my soul among such an infinite number of creatures?

¹⁸Behold, the heaven, and the heaven of heavens, the deep, and the earth, and all that therein is, shall be moved when he shall visit.

¹⁹The mountains also and foundations of the earth be shaken with trembling, when the Lord looketh upon them.

²⁰No heart can think upon these things worthily: and who is able to conceive his ways?

²¹It is a tempest which no man can see: for the most part of his works are hid.

²²Who can declare the works of his justice? or who can endure them? for his covenant is afar off, and the trial of all things is in the end.

²³He that wanteth understanding will think upon vain things: and a foolish man erring imagineth follies.

²⁴by son, hearken unto me, and learn knowledge, and mark my words with thy heart.

²⁵I will shew forth doctrine in weight, and declare his knowledge exactly.

²⁶The works of the Lord are done in judgment from the beginning: and from the time he made them he disposed the parts thereof.

Ecclasticus

²⁷He garnished his works for ever, and in his hand are the chief of them unto all generations: they neither labour, nor are weary, nor cease from their works.

²⁸None of them hindereth another, and they shall never disobey his word.

²⁹After this the Lord looked upon the earth, and filled it with his blessings.

³⁰With all manner of living things hath he covered the face thereof; and they shall return into it again.

CHAPTER 17

¹The Lord created man of the earth, and turned him into it again.

²He gave them few days, and a short time, and power also over the things therein.

³He endued them with strength by themselves, and made them according to his image, ⁴And put the fear of man upon all flesh, and gave him dominion over beasts and fowls.

⁵They received the use of the five operations of the Lord, and in the sixth place he imparted them understanding, and in the seventh speech, an interpreter of the cogitations thereof.]

⁶Counsel, and a tongue, and eyes, ears, and a heart, gave he them to understand.

⁷Withal he filled them with the knowledge of understanding, and shewed them good and evil.

⁸He set his eye upon their hearts, that he might shew them the greatness of his works.

⁹He gave them to glory in his marvellous acts for ever, that they might declare his works with understanding.

¹⁰And the elect shall praise his holy name.

¹¹Beside this he gave them knowledge, and the law of life for an heritage.

¹²He made an everlasting covenant with them, and shewed them his judgments.

¹³Their eyes saw the majesty of his glory, and their ears heard his glorious voice.

¹⁴And he said unto them, Beware of all unrighteousness; and he gave every man commandment concerning his neighbour.

¹⁵Their ways are ever before him, and shall not be hid from his eyes.

¹⁶Every man from his youth is given to evil; neither could they make to themselves fleshy hearts for stony.

¹⁷For in the division of the nations of the whole earth he set a ruler over every people; but Israel is the Lord's portion:

¹⁸Whom, being his firstborn, he nourisheth with discipline, and giving him the light of his love doth not forsake him.

¹⁹Therefore all their works are as the sun before him, and his eyes are continually upon their ways.

²⁰None of their unrighteous deeds are hid from him, but all their sins are before the Lord

Ecclasticus

²¹But the Lord being gracious and knowing his workmanship, neither left nor forsook them, but spared them.

²²The alms of a man is as a signet with him, and he will keep the good deeds of man as the apple of the eye, and give repentance to his sons and daughters.

²³Afterwards he will rise up and reward them, and render their recompence upon their heads.

²⁴But unto them that repent, he granted them return, and comforted those that failed in patience.

²⁵Return unto the Lord, and forsake thy sins, make thy prayer before his face, and offend less.

²⁶Turn again to the most High, and turn away from iniquity: for he will lead thee out of darkness into the light of health, and hate thou abomination vehemently.

²⁷Who shall praise the most High in the grave, instead of them which live and give thanks?

²⁸Thanksgiving perisheth from the dead, as from one that is not: the living and sound in heart shall praise the Lord.

²⁹How great is the lovingkindness of the Lord our God, and his compassion unto such as turn unto him in holiness!

³⁰For all things cannot be in men, because the son of man is not immortal.

³¹What is brighter than the sun? yet the light thereof faileth; and flesh and blood will imagine evil.

³²He vieweth the power of the height of heaven; and all men are but earth and ashes.

CHAPTER 18

¹He that liveth for ever Hath created all things in general.

²The Lord only is righteous, and there is none other but he,

³Who governeth the world with the palm of his hand, and all things obey his will: for he is the King of all, by his power dividing holy things among them from profane.

⁴To whom hath he given power to declare his works? and who shall find out his noble acts?

⁵Who shall number the strength of his majesty? and who shall also tell out his mercies?

⁶As for the wondrous works of the Lord, there may nothing be taken from them, neither may any thing be put unto them, neither can the ground of them be found out.

⁷When a man hath done, then he beginneth; and when he leaveth off, then he shall be doubtful.

⁸What is man, and whereto serveth he? what is his good, and what is his evil?

⁹The number of a man's days at the most are an hundred years.

¹⁰As a drop of water unto the sea, and a gravelstone in comparison of the sand; so are a thousand years to the days of eternity.

¹¹Therefore is God patient with them, and poureth forth his mercy upon them.

Eccliiasticus

¹²He saw and perceived their end to be evil; therefore he multiplied his compassion.

¹³The mercy of man is toward his neighbour; but the mercy of the Lord is upon all flesh: he reproveth, and nutureth, and teacheth and bringeth again, as a shepherd his flock.

¹⁴He hath mercy on them that receive discipline, and that diligently seek after his judgments.

¹⁵My son, blemish not thy good deeds, neither use uncomfortable words when thou givest any thing.

¹⁶Shall not the dew assuage the heat? so is a word better than a gift.

¹⁷Lo, is not a word better than a gift? but both are with a gracious man.

¹⁸A fool will upbraid churlishly, and a gift of the envious consumeth the eyes.

¹⁹Learn before thou speak, and use physick or ever thou be sick.

²⁰Before judgment examine thyself, and in the day of visitation thou shalt find mercy.

²¹Humble thyself before thou be sick, and in the time of sins shew repentance.

²²Let nothing hinder thee to pay thy vow in due time, and defer not until death to be justified.

²³Before thou prayest, prepare thyself; and be not as one that tempteth the Lord.

²⁴Think upon the wrath that shall be at the end, and the time of vengeance, when he shall turn away his face.

²⁵When thou hast enough, remember the time of hunger: and when thou art rich, think upon poverty and need.

²⁶From the morning until the evening the time is changed, and all things are soon done before the Lord.

²⁷A wise man will fear in every thing, and in the day of sinning he will beware of offence: but a fool will not observe time.

²⁸Every man of understanding knoweth wisdom, and will give praise unto him that found her.

²⁹They that were of understanding in sayings became also wise themselves, and poured forth exquisite parables.

³⁰Go not after thy lusts, but refrain thyself from thine appetites.

³¹If thou givest thy soul the desires that please her, she will make thee a laughingstock to thine enemies that malign thee.

³²Take not pleasure in much good cheer, neither be tied to the expence thereof.

³³Be not made a beggar by banqueting upon borrowing, when thou hast nothing in thy purse: for thou shalt lie in wait for thine own life, and be talked on.

CHAPTER 19

¹A labouring man that A is given to drunkenness shall not be rich: and he that contemneth small things shall fall by little and little.

²Wine and women will make men of understanding to fall away: and he that cleaveth to harlots will become impudent.

Ecclasticus

³Moths and worms shall have him to heritage, and a bold man shall be taken away.

⁴He that is hasty to give credit is light-minded; and he that sinneth shall offend against his own soul.

⁵Whoso taketh pleasure in wickedness shall be condemned: but he that resisteth pleasures crowneth his life.

⁶He that can rule his tongue shall live without strife; and he that hateth babbling shall have less evil.

⁷Rehearse not unto another that which is told unto thee, and thou shalt fare never the worse.

⁸Whether it be to friend or foe, talk not of other men's lives; and if thou canst without offence, reveal them not.

⁹For he heard and observed thee, and when time cometh he will hate thee.

¹⁰If thou hast heard a word, let it die with thee; and be bold, it will not burst thee.

¹¹A fool travaileth with a word, as a woman in labour of a child.

¹²As an arrow that sticketh in a man's thigh, so is a word within a fool's belly.

¹³Admonish a friend, it may be he hath not done it: and if he have done it, that he do it no more.

¹⁴Admonish thy friend, it may be he hath not said it: and if he have, that he speak it not again.

¹⁵Admonish a friend: for many times it is a slander, and believe not every tale.

¹⁶There is one that slippeth in his speech, but not from his heart; and who is he that hath not offended with his tongue?

¹⁷Admonish thy neighbour before thou threaten him; and not being angry, give place to the law of the most High.

¹⁸The fear of the Lord is the first step to be accepted [of him,] and wisdom obtaineth his love.

¹⁹The knowledge of the commandments of the Lord is the doctrine of life: and they that do things that please him shall receive the fruit of the tree of immortality.

²⁰The fear of the Lord is all wisdom; and in all wisdom is the performance of the law, and the knowledge of his omnipotency.

²¹If a servant say to his master, I will not do as it pleaseth thee; though afterward he do it, he angereth him that nourisheth him.

²²The knowledge of wickedness is not wisdom, neither at any time the counsel of sinners prudence.

²³There is a wickedness, and the same an abomination; and there is a fool wanting in wisdom.

²⁴He that hath small understanding, and feareth God, is better than one that hath much wisdom, and transgresseth the law of the most High.

²⁵There is an exquisite subtilty, and the same is unjust; and there is one that turneth aside to make judgment appear; and there is a wise man that justifieth in judgment.

Eccliiasticus

²⁶There is a wicked man that hangeth down his head sadly; but inwardly he is full of deceit, ²⁷Casting down his countenance, and making as if he heard not: where he is not known, he will do thee a mischief before thou be aware.

²⁸And if for want of power he be hindered from sinning, yet when he findeth opportunity he will do evil.

²⁹A man may be known by his look, and one that hath understanding by his countenance, when thou meetest him.

³⁰A man's attire, and excessive laughter, and gait, shew what he is.

CHAPTER 20

¹There is a reproof that is not comely: again, some man holdeth his tongue, and he is wise.

²It is much better to reprove, than to be angry secretly: and he that confesseth his fault shall be preserved from hurt.

³How good is it, when thou art reproved, to shew repentance! for so shalt thou escape wilful sin.

⁴As is the lust of an eunuch to deflower a virgin; so is he that executeth judgment with violence.

⁵There is one that keepeth silence, and is found wise: and another by much babbling becometh hateful.

⁶Some man holdeth his tongue, because he hath not to answer: and some keepeth silence, knowing his time.

⁷A wise man will hold his tongue till he see opportunity: but a babbler and a fool will regard no time.

⁸He that useth many words shall be abhorred; and he that taketh to himself authority therein shall be hated.

⁹There is a sinner that hath good success in evil things; and there is a gain that turneth to loss.

¹⁰There is a gift that shall not profit thee; and there is a gift whose recompence is double.

¹¹There is an abasement because of glory; and there is that lifteth up his head from a low estate.

¹²There is that buyeth much for a little, and repayeth it sevenfold.

¹³A wise man by his words maketh him beloved: but the graces of fools shall be poured out.

¹⁴The gift of a fool shall do thee no good when thou hast it; neither yet of the envious for his necessity: for he looketh to receive many things for one.

¹⁵He giveth little, and upbraideth much; he openeth his mouth like a crier; to day he lendeth, and to morrow will he ask it again: such an one is to be hated of God and man.

¹⁶The fool saith, I have no friends, I have no thank for all my good deeds, and they that eat my bread speak evil of me.

¹⁷How oft, and of how many shall he be laughed to scorn! for he knoweth not aright what it is to have; and it is all one unto him as if he had it not.

¹⁸To slip upon a pavement is better than to slip with the tongue: so the fall of the wicked shall come speedily.

¹⁹An unseasonable tale will always be in the mouth of the unwise.

Ecclasticus

²⁰A wise sentence shall be rejected when it cometh out of a fool's mouth; for he will not speak it in due season.

²¹There is that is hindered from sinning through want: and when he taketh rest, he shall not be troubled.

²²There is that destroyeth his own soul through bashfulness, and by accepting of persons overthroweth himself.

²³There is that for bashfulness promiseth to his friend, and maketh him his enemy for nothing.

²⁴A lie is a foul blot in a man, yet it is continually in the mouth of the untaught.

²⁵A thief is better than a man that is accustomed to lie: but they both shall have destruction to heritage.

²⁶The disposition of a liar is dishonourable, and his shame is ever with him.

²⁷A wise man shall promote himself to honour with his words: and he that hath understanding will please great men.

²⁸He that tilleth his land shall increase his heap: and he that pleaseth great men shall get pardon for iniquity.

²⁹Presents and gifts blind the eyes of the wise, and stop up his mouth that he cannot reprove.

³⁰Wisdom that is hid, and treasure that is hoarded up, what profit is in them both?

³¹Better is he that hideth his folly than a man that hideth his wisdom.

³²Necessary patience in seeking the Lord is better than he that leadeth his life without a guide.

CHAPTER 21

¹My son, hast thou sinned? do so no more, but ask pardon for thy former sins.

²Flee from sin as from the face of a serpent: for if thou comest too near it, it will bite thee: the teeth thereof are as the teeth of a lion, slaying the souls of men.

³All iniquity is as a two edged sword, the wounds whereof cannot be healed.

⁴To terrify and do wrong will waste riches: thus the house of proud men shall be made desolate.

⁵A prayer out of a poor man's mouth reacheth to the ears of God, and his judgment cometh speedily.

⁶He that hateth to be reprovèd is in the way of sinners: but he that feareth the Lord will repent from his heart.

⁷An eloquent man is known far and near; but a man of understanding knoweth when he slippeth.

⁸He that buildeth his house with other men's money is like one that gathereth himself stones for the tomb of his burial.

⁹The congregation of the wicked is like tow wrapped together: and the end of them is a flame of fire to destroy them.

¹⁰The way of sinners is made plain with stones, but at the end thereof is the pit of hell.

Eccliiasticus

¹¹He that keepeth the law of the Lord getteth the understanding thereof: and the perfection of the fear of the Lord is wisdom.

¹²He that is not wise will not be taught: but there is a wisdom which multiplieth bitterness.

¹³The knowledge of a wise man shall abound like a flood: and his counsel is like a pure fountain of life.

¹⁴The inner parts of a fool are like a broken vessel, and he will hold no knowledge as long as he liveth.

¹⁵If a skilful man hear a wise word, he will commend it, and add unto it: but as soon as one of no understanding heareth it, it displeaseth him, and he casteth it behind his back.

¹⁶The talking of a fool is like a burden in the way: but grace shall be found in the lips of the wise.

¹⁷They enquire at the mouth of the wise man in the congregation, and they shall ponder his words in their heart.

¹⁸As is a house that is destroyed, so is wisdom to a fool: and the knowledge of the unwise is as talk without sense.

¹⁹Doctrine unto fools is as fetters on the feet, and like manacles on the right hand.

²⁰A fool lifteth up his voice with laughter; but a wise man doth scarce smile a little.

²¹Learning is unto a wise man as an ornament of gold, and like a bracelet upon his right arm.

²²A foolish man's foot is soon in his [neighbour's] house: but a man of experience is ashamed of him.

²³A fool will peep in at the door into the house: but he that is well nurtured will stand without.

²⁴It is the rudeness of a man to hearken at the door: but a wise man will be grieved with the disgrace.

²⁵The lips of talkers will be telling such things as pertain not unto them: but the words of such as have understanding are weighed in the balance.

²⁶The heart of fools is in their mouth: but the mouth of the wise is in their heart.

²⁷When the ungodly curseth Satan, he curseth his own soul.

²⁸A whisperer defileth his own soul, and is hated wheresoever he dwelleth.

CHAPTER 22

¹A slothful man is compared to a filthy stone, and every one will hiss him out to his disgrace.

²A slothful man is compared to the filth of a dunghill: every man that takes it up will shake his hand.

³An evilnurtured man is the dishonour of his father that begat him: and a [foolish] daughter is born to his loss.

⁴A wise daughter shall bring an inheritance to her husband: but she that liveth dishonestly is her father's heaviness.

⁵She that is bold dishonoureth both her father and her husband, but they both shall despise her.

Eccliiasticus

⁶A tale out of season [is as] musick in mourning: but stripes and correction of wisdom are never out of time.

⁷Whoso teacheth a fool is as one that glueth a potsherd together, and as he that waketh one from a sound sleep.

⁸He that telleth a tale to a fool speaketh to one in a slumber: when he hath told his tale, he will say, What is the matter?

⁹If children live honestly, and have wherewithal, they shall cover the baseness of their parents.

¹⁰But children, being haughty, through disdain and want of nurture do stain the nobility of their kindred.

¹¹Weep for the dead, for he hath lost the light: and weep for the fool, for he wanteth understanding: make little weeping for the dead, for he is at rest: but the life of the fool is worse than death.

¹²Seven days do men mourn for him that is dead; but for a fool and an ungodly man all the days of his life.

¹³Talk not much with a fool, and go not to him that hath no understanding: beware of him, lest thou have trouble, and thou shalt never be defiled with his fooleries: depart from him, and thou shalt find rest, and never be disquieted with madness.

¹⁴What is heavier than lead? and what is the name thereof, but a fool?

¹⁵Sand, and salt, and a mass of iron, is easier to bear, than a man without understanding.

¹⁶As timber girt and bound together in a building cannot be loosed with shaking: so the heart that is stablished by advised counsel shall fear at no time.

¹⁷A heart settled upon a thought of understanding is as a fair plaistering on the wall of a gallery.

¹⁸Pales set on an high place will never stand against the wind: so a fearful heart in the imagination of a fool cannot stand against any fear.

¹⁹He that pricketh the eye will make tears to fall: and he that pricketh the heart maketh it to shew her knowledge.

²⁰Whoso casteth a stone at the birds frayeth them away: and he that upbraideth his friend breaketh friendship.

²¹Though thou drewest a sword at thy friend, yet despair not: for there may be a returning [to favour.]

²²If thou hast opened thy mouth against thy friend, fear not; for there may be a reconciliation: except for upbraiding, or pride, or disclosing of secrets, or a treacherous wound: for for these things every friend will depart.

²³Be faithful to thy neighbour in his poverty, that thou mayest rejoice in his prosperity: abide stedfast unto him in the time of his trouble, that thou mayest be heir with him in his heritage: for a mean estate is not always to be contemned: nor the rich that is foolish to be had in admiration.

²⁴As the vapour and smoke of a furnace goeth before the fire; so reviling before blood.

Ecclasticus

²⁵I will not be ashamed to defend a friend; neither will I hide myself from him.

²⁶And if any evil happen unto me by him, every one that heareth it will beware of him.

²⁷Who shall set a watch before my mouth, and a seal of wisdom upon my lips, that I fall not suddenly by them, and that my tongue destroy me not?

CHAPTER 23

¹O Lord, Father and Governor of all my whole life, leave me not to their counsels, and let me not fall by them.

²Who will set scourges over my thoughts, and the discipline of wisdom over mine heart? that they spare me not for mine ignorances, and it pass not by my sins:

³Lest mine ignorances increase, and my sins abound to my destruction, and I fall before mine adversaries, and mine enemy rejoice over me, whose hope is far from thy mercy.

⁴O Lord, Father and God of my life, give me not a proud look, but turn away from thy servants always a haughty mind.

⁵Turn away from me vain hopes and concupiscence, and thou shalt hold him up that is desirous always to serve thee.

⁶Let not the greediness of the belly nor lust of the flesh take hold of me; and give not over me thy servant into an impudent mind.

⁷Hear, O ye children, the discipline of the mouth: he that keepeth it shall never be taken in his lips.

⁸The sinner shall be left in his foolishness: both the evil speaker and the proud shall fall thereby.

⁹Accustom not thy mouth to swearing; neither use thyself to the naming of the Holy One.

¹⁰For as a servant that is continually beaten shall not be without a blue mark: so he that sweareth and nameth God continually shall not be faultless.

¹¹A man that useth much swearing shall be filled with iniquity, and the plague shall never depart from his house: if he shall offend, his sin shall be upon him: and if he acknowledge not his sin, he maketh a double offence: and if he swear in vain, he shall not be innocent, but his house shall be full of calamities.

¹²There is a word that is clothed about with death: God grant that it be not found in the heritage of Jacob; for all such things shall be far from the godly, and they shall not wallow in their sins.

¹³Use not thy mouth to intemperate swearing, for therein is the word of sin.

¹⁴Remember thy father and thy mother, when thou sittest among great men. Be not forgetful before them, and so thou by thy custom become a fool, and wish that thou hadst not been born, and curse they day of thy nativity.

¹⁵The man that is accustomed to opprobrious words will never be reformed all the days of his life.

Eccliiasticus

¹⁶Two sorts of men multiply sin, and the third will bring wrath: a hot mind is as a burning fire, it will never be quenched till it be consumed: a fornicator in the body of his flesh will never cease till he hath kindled a fire.

¹⁷All bread is sweet to a whoremonger, he will not leave off till he die.

¹⁸A man that breaketh wedlock, saying thus in his heart, Who seeth me? I am compassed about with darkness, the walls cover me, and no body seeth me; what need I to fear? the most High will not remember my sins:

¹⁹Such a man only feareth the eyes of men, and knoweth not that the eyes of the Lord are ten thousand times brighter than the sun, beholding all the ways of men, and considering the most secret parts.

²⁰He knew all things ere ever they were created; so also after they were perfected he looked upon them all.

²¹This man shall be punished in the streets of the city, and where he suspecteth not he shall be taken.

²²Thus shall it go also with the wife that leaveth her husband, and bringeth in an heir by another.

²³For first, she hath disobeyed the law of the most High; and secondly, she hath trespassed against her own husband; and thirdly, she hath played the whore in adultery, and brought children by another man.

²⁴She shall be brought out into the congregation, and inquisition shall be made of her children.

²⁵Her children shall not take root, and her branches shall bring forth no fruit.

²⁶She shall leave her memory to be cursed, and her reproach shall not be blotted out.

²⁷And they that remain shall know that there is nothing better than the fear of the Lord, and that there is nothing sweeter than to take heed unto the commandments of the Lord.

²⁸It is great glory to follow the Lord, and to be received of him is long life.

CHAPTER 24

¹Wisdom shall praise herself, and shall glory in the midst of her people.

²In the congregation of the most High shall she open her mouth, and triumph before his power.

³I came out of the mouth of the most High, and covered the earth as a cloud.

⁴I dwelt in high places, and my throne is in a cloudy pillar.

⁵I alone compassed the circuit of heaven, and walked in the bottom of the deep.

⁶In the waves of the sea and in all the earth, and in every people and nation, I got a possession.

⁷With all these I sought rest: and in whose inheritance shall I abide?

⁸So the Creator of all things gave me a commandment, and he that made me caused my tabernacle to rest, and said, Let thy dwelling be in Jacob, and thine inheritance in Israel.

Eccliiasticus

⁹He created me from the beginning before the world, and I shall never fail.

¹⁰In the holy tabernacle I served before him; and so was I established in Sion.

¹¹Likewise in the beloved city he gave me rest, and in Jerusalem was my power.

¹²And I took root in an honourable people, even in the portion of the Lord's inheritance.

¹³I was exalted like a cedar in Libanus, and as a cypress tree upon the mountains of Hermon.

¹⁴I was exalted like a palm tree in Engaddi, and as a rose plant in Jericho, as a fair olive tree in a pleasant field, and grew up as a plane tree by the water.

¹⁵I gave a sweet smell like cinnamon and aspalathus, and I yielded a pleasant odour like the best myrrh, as galbanum, and onyx, and sweet storax, and as the fume of frankincense in the tabernacle.

¹⁶As the turpentine tree I stretched out my branches, and my branches are the branches of honour and grace.

¹⁷As the vine brought I forth pleasant savour, and my flowers are the fruit of honour and riches.

¹⁸I am the mother of fair love, and fear, and knowledge, and holy hope: I therefore, being eternal, am given to all my children which are named of him.

¹⁹Come unto me, all ye that be desirous of me, and fill yourselves with my fruits.

²⁰For my memorial is sweeter than honey, and mine inheritance than the honeycomb.

²¹They that eat me shall yet be hungry, and they that drink me shall yet be thirsty.

²²He that obeyeth me shall never be confounded, and they that work by me shall not do amiss.

²³All these things are the book of the covenant of the most high God, even the law which Moses commanded for an heritage unto the congregations of Jacob.

²⁴Faint not to be strong in the Lord; that he may confirm you, cleave unto him: for the Lord Almighty is God alone, and beside him there is no other Saviour.

²⁵He filleth all things with his wisdom, as Phison and as Tigris in the time of the new fruits.

²⁶He maketh the understanding to abound like Euphrates, and as Jordan in the time of the harvest.

²⁷He maketh the doctrine of knowledge appear as the light, and as Geon in the time of vintage.

²⁸The first man knew her not perfectly: no more shall the last find her out.

²⁹For her thoughts are more than the sea, and her counsels profounder than the great deep.

³⁰I also came out as a brook from a river, and as a conduit into a garden.

³¹I said, I will water my best garden, and will water abundantly my garden bed: and, lo, my brook became a river, and my river became a sea.

³²I will yet make doctrine to shine as the morning, and will send forth her light afar off.

³³I will yet pour out doctrine as prophecy, and leave it to all ages for ever.

³⁴Behold that I have not laboured for myself only, but for all them that seek wisdom.

CHAPTER 25

¹In three things I was beautified, and stood up beautiful both before God and men: the unity of brethren, the love of neighbours, a man and a wife that agree together.

²Three sorts of men my soul hateth, and I am greatly offended at their life: a poor man that is proud, a rich man that is a liar, and an old adulterer that doateth.

³If thou hast gathered nothing in thy youth, how canst thou find any thing in thine age?

⁴O how comely a thing is judgment for gray hairs, and for ancient men to know counsel!

⁵O how comely is the wisdom of old men, and understanding and counsel to men of honour.

⁶Much experience is the crown of old men, and the fear of God is their glory.

⁷There be nine things which I have judged in mine heart to be happy, and the tenth I will utter with my tongue: A man that hath joy of his children; and he that liveth to see the fall of his enemy:

⁸Well is him that dwelleth with a wife of understanding, and that hath not slipped with his tongue, and that hath not served a man more unworthy than himself:

⁹Well is him that hath found prudence, and he that speaketh in the ears of them that will hear:

¹⁰O how great is he that findeth wisdom! yet is there none above him that feareth the Lord.

¹¹But the love of the Lord passeth all things for illumination: he that holdeth it, whereto shall he be likened?

¹²The fear of the Lord is the beginning of his love: and faith is the beginning of cleaving unto him.

¹³[Give me] any plague, but the plague of the heart: and any wickedness, but the wickedness of a woman:

¹⁴And any affliction, but the affliction from them that hate me: and any revenge, but the revenge of enemies.

¹⁵There is no head above the head of a serpent; and there is no wrath above the wrath of an enemy.

¹⁶I had rather dwell with a lion and a dragon, than to keep house with a wicked woman.

¹⁷The wickedness of a woman changeth her face, and darkeneth her countenance like sackcloth.

¹⁸Her husband shall sit among his neighbours; and when he heareth it shall sigh bitterly.

Eccliiasticus

¹⁹All wickedness is but little to the wickedness of a woman: let the portion of a sinner fall upon her.

²⁰As the climbing up a sandy way is to the feet of the aged, so is a wife full of words to a quiet man.

²¹Stumble not at the beauty of a woman, and desire her not for pleasure.

²²A woman, if she maintain her husband, is full of anger, impudence, and much reproach.

²³A wicked woman abateth the courage, maketh an heavy countenance and a wounded heart: a woman that will not comfort her husband in distress maketh weak hands and feeble knees.

²⁴Of the woman came the beginning of sin, and through her we all die.

²⁵Give the water no passage; neither a wicked woman liberty to gad abroad.

²⁶If she go not as thou wouldest have her, cut her off from thy flesh, and give her a bill of divorce, and let her go.

CHAPTER 26

¹Blessed is the man that hath a virtuous wife, for the number of his days shall be double.

²A virtuous woman rejoiceth her husband, and he shall fulfill the years of his life in peace.

³A good wife is a good portion, which shall be given in the portion of them that fear the Lord.

⁴Whether a man be rich or poor, if he have a good heart toward the Lord, he shall at all times rejoice with a cheerful countenance.

⁵There be three things that mine heart feareth; and for the fourth I was sore afraid: the slander of a city, the gathering together of an unruly multitude, and a false accusation: all these are worse than death.

⁶But a grief of heart and sorrow is a woman that is jealous over another woman, and a scourge of the tongue which communicateth with all.

⁷An evil wife is a yoke shaken to and fro: he that hath hold of her is as though he held a scorpion.

⁸A drunken woman and a gadder abroad causeth great anger, and she will not cover her own shame.

⁹The whoredom of a woman may be known in her haughty looks and eyelids.

¹⁰If thy daughter be shameless, keep her in straitly, lest she abuse herself through overmuch liberty.

¹¹Watch over an impudent eye: and marvel not if she trespass against thee.

¹²She will open her mouth, as a thirsty traveller when he hath found a fountain, and drink of every water near her: by every hedge will she sit down, and open her quiver against every arrow.

¹³The grace of a wife delighteth her husband, and her discretion will fatten his bones.

¹⁴A silent and loving woman is a gift of the Lord; and there is nothing so much worth as a mind well instructed.

Eccliiasticus

¹⁵ A shamefaced and faithful woman is a double grace, and her continent mind cannot be valued.

¹⁶ As the sun when it ariseth in the high heaven; so is the beauty of a good wife in the ordering of her house.

¹⁷ As the clear light is upon the holy candlestick; so is the beauty of the face in ripe age.

¹⁸ As the golden pillars are upon the sockets of silver; so are the fair feet with a constant heart.

¹⁹ My son, keep the flower of thine age sound; and give not thy strength to strangers.

²⁰ When thou hast gotten a fruitful possession through all the field, sow it with thine own seed, trusting in the goodness of thy stock.

²¹ So thy race which thou leavest shall be magnified, having the confidence of their good descent.

²² An harlot shall be accounted as spittle; but a married woman is a tower against death to her husband.

²³ A wicked woman is given as a portion to a wicked man: but a godly woman is given to him that feareth the Lord.

²⁴ A dishonest woman contemneth shame: but an honest woman will reverence her husband.

²⁵ A shameless woman shall be counted as a dog; but she that is shamefaced will fear the Lord.

²⁶ A woman that honoureth her husband shall be judged wise of all; but she that dishonoureth him in her pride shall be counted ungodly of all.

²⁷ A loud crying woman and a scold shall be sought out to drive away the enemies.

²⁸ There be two things that grieve my heart; and the third maketh me angry: a man of war that suffereth poverty; and men of understanding that are not set by; and one that returneth from righteousness to sin; the Lord prepareth such an one for the sword.

²⁹ A merchant shall hardly keep himself from doing wrong; and an huckster shall not be freed from sin.

CHAPTER 27

¹ Many have sinned for a small matter; and he that seeketh for abundance will turn his eyes away.

² As a nail sticketh fast between the joinings of the stones; so doth sin stick close between buying and selling.

³ Unless a man hold himself diligently in the fear of the Lord, his house shall soon be overthrown.

⁴ As when one sifteth with a sieve, the refuse remaineth; so the filth of man in his talk.

⁵ The furnace proveth the potter's vessels; so the trial of man is in his reasoning.

⁶ The fruit declareth if the tree have been dressed; so is the utterance of a conceit in the heart of man.

⁷ Praise no man before thou hearest him speak; for this is the trial of men.

⁸ If thou followest righteousness, thou shalt obtain her, and put her on, as a glorious long robe.

Eccliiasticus

⁹The birds will resort unto their like; so will truth return unto them that practise in her.

¹⁰As the lion lieth in wait for the prey; so sin for them that work iniquity.

¹¹The discourse of a godly man is always with wisdom; but a fool changeth as the moon.

¹²If thou be among the indiscreet, observe the time; but be continually among men of understanding.

¹³The discourse of fools is irksome, and their sport is the wantonness of sin.

¹⁴The talk of him that sweareth much maketh the hair stand upright; and their brawls make one stop his ears.

¹⁵The strife of the proud is bloodshed-ding, and their revilings are grievous to the ear.

¹⁶Whoso discovereth secrets loseth his credit; and shall never find friend to his mind.

¹⁷Love thy friend, and be faithful unto him: but if thou betrayest his secrets, follow no more after him.

¹⁸For as a man hath destroyed his enemy; so hast thou lost the love of thy neighbor.

¹⁹As one that letteth a bird go out of his hand, so hast thou let thy neighbour go, and shalt not get him again

²⁰Follow after him no more, for he is too far off; he is as a roe escaped out of the snare.

²¹As for a wound, it may be bound up; and after reviling there may be reconciliation: but he that betrayeth secrets is without hope.

²²He that winketh with the eyes worketh evil: and he that knoweth him will depart from him.

²³When thou art present, he will speak sweetly, and will admire thy words: but at the last he will writhe his mouth, and slander thy sayings.

²⁴I have hated many things, but nothing like him; for the Lord will hate him.

²⁵Whoso casteth a stone on high casteth it on his own head; and a deceitful stroke shall make wounds.

²⁶Whoso diggeth a pit shall fall therein: and he that setteth a trap shall be taken therein.

²⁷He that worketh mischief, it shall fall upon him, and he shall not know whence it cometh.

²⁸Mockery and reproach are from the proud; but vengeance, as a lion, shall lie in wait for them.

²⁹They that rejoice at the fall of the righteous shall be taken in the snare; and anguish shall consume them before they die.

³⁰Malice and wrath, even these are abominations; and the sinful man shall have them both.

CHAPTER 28

¹He that revengeth shall find vengeance from the Lord, and he will surely keep his sins [in remembrance.]

²Forgive thy neighbour the hurt that he hath done unto thee, so shall thy sins also be forgiven when thou prayest.

³One man beareth hatred against another, and doth he seek pardon from the Lord?

⁴He sheweth no mercy to a man, which is like himself: and doth he ask forgiveness of his own sins?

⁵If he that is but flesh nourish hatred, who will intreat for pardon of his sins?

⁶Remember thy end, and let enmity cease; [remember] corruption and death, and abide in the commandments.

⁷Remember the commandments, and bear no malice to thy neighbour: [remember] the covenant of the Highest, and wink at ignorance.

⁸Abstain from strife, and thou shalt diminish thy sins: for a furious man will kindle strife, ⁹A sinful man disquieteth friends, and maketh debate among them that be at peace.

¹⁰As the matter of the fire is, so it burneth: and as a man's strength is, so is his wrath; and according to his riches his anger riseth; and the stronger they are which contend, the more they will be inflamed.

¹¹An hasty contention kindleth a fire: and an hasty fighting sheddeth blood.

¹²If thou blow the spark, it shall burn: if thou spit upon it, it shall be quenched: and both these come out of thy mouth.

¹³Curse the whisperer and double-tongued: for such have destroyed many that were at peace.

¹⁴A backbiting tongue hath disquieted many, and driven them from nation to nation: strong cities hath it pulled down, and overthrown the houses of great men.

¹⁵A backbiting tongue hath cast out virtuous women, and deprived them of their labours.

¹⁶Whoso hearkeneth unto it shall never find rest, and never dwell quietly.

¹⁷The stroke of the whip maketh marks in the flesh: but the stroke of the tongue breaketh the bones.

¹⁸Many have fallen by the edge of the sword: but not so many as have fallen by the tongue.

¹⁹Well is he that is defended through the venom thereof; who hath not drawn the yoke thereof, nor hath been bound in her bands.

²⁰For the yoke thereof is a yoke of iron, and the bands thereof are bands of brass.

²¹The death thereof is an evil death, the grave were better than it.

²²It shall not have rule over them that fear God, neither shall they be burned with the flame thereof.

²³Such as forsake the Lord shall fall into it; and it shall burn in them, and not be quenched; it shall be sent upon them as a lion, and devour them as a leopard.

Ecclasticus

²⁴Look that thou hedge thy possession about with thorns, and bind up thy silver and gold, ²⁵And weigh thy words in a balance, and make a door and bar for thy mouth.

²⁶Beware thou slide not by it, lest thou fall before him that lieth in wait.

CHAPTER 29

¹He that is merciful will lend unto his neighbour; and he that strengtheneth his hand keepeth the commandments.

²Lend to thy neighbour in time of his need, and pay thou thy neighbour again in due season.

³Keep thy word, and deal faithfully with him, and thou shalt always find the thing that is necessary for thee.

⁴Many, when a thing was lent them, reckoned it to be found, and put them to trouble that helped them.

⁵Till he hath received, he will kiss a man's hand; and for his neighbour's money he will speak submissly: but when he should repay, he will prolong the time, and return words of grief, and complain of the time.

⁶If he prevail, he shall hardly receive the half, and he will count as if he had found it: if not, he hath deprived him of his money, and he hath gotten him an enemy without cause: he payeth him with cursings and railings; and for honour he will pay him disgrace.

⁷Many therefore have refused to lend for other men's ill dealing, fearing to be defrauded.

⁸Yet have thou patience with a man in poor estate, and delay not to shew him mercy.

⁹Help the poor for the commandment's sake, and turn him not away because of his poverty.

¹⁰Lose thy money for thy brother and thy friend, and let it not rust under a stone to be lost.

¹¹Lay up thy treasure according to the commandments of the most High, and it shall bring thee more profit than gold.

¹²Shut up alms in thy storehouses: and it shall deliver thee from all affliction.

¹³It shall fight for thee against thine enemies better than a mighty shield and strong spear.

¹⁴An honest man is surety for his neighbour: but he that is impudent will forsake him.

¹⁵Forget not the friendship of thy surety, for he hath given his life for thee.

¹⁶A sinner will overthrow the good estate of his surety:

¹⁷And he that is of an unthankful mind will leave him [in danger] that delivered him.

¹⁸Suretiship hath undone many of good estate, and shaken them as a wave of the sea: mighty men hath it driven from their houses, so that they wandered among strange nations.

¹⁹A wicked man transgressing the commandments of the Lord shall fall into suretiship: and he that undertaketh and followeth other men's business for gain shall fall into suits.

²⁰Help thy neighbour according to thy power, and beware that thou thyself fall not into the same.

²¹The chief thing for life is water, and bread, and clothing, and an house to cover shame.

²²Better is the life of a poor man in a mean cottage, than delicate fare in another man's house.

²³Be it little or much, hold thee contented, that thou hear not the reproach of thy house.

²⁴For it is a miserable life to go from house to house: for where thou art a stranger, thou darest not open thy mouth.

²⁵Thou shalt entertain, and feast, and have no thanks: moreover thou shalt hear bitter words:

²⁶Come, thou stranger, and furnish a table, and feed me of that thou hast ready.

²⁷Give place, thou stranger, to an honourable man; my brother cometh to be lodged, and I have need of mine house.

²⁸These things are grievous to a man of understanding; the upbraiding of house-room, and reproaching of the lender.

CHAPTER 30

¹He that loveth his son causeth him oft to feel the rod, that he may have joy of him in the end.

²He that chastiseth his son shall have joy in him, and shall rejoice of him among his acquaintance.

³He that teacheth his son grieveth the enemy: and before his friends he shall rejoice of him.

⁴Though his father die, yet he is as though he were not dead: for he hath left one behind him that is like himself.

⁵While he lived, he saw and rejoiced in him: and when he died, he was not sorrowful.

⁶He left behind him an avenger against his enemies, and one that shall requite kindness to his friends.

⁷He that maketh too much of his son shall bind up his wounds; and his bowels will be troubled at every cry.

⁸An horse not broken becometh headstrong: and a child left to himself will be wilful.

⁹Cocker thy child, and he shall make thee afraid: play with him, and he will bring thee to heaviness.

¹⁰Laugh not with him, lest thou have sorrow with him, and lest thou gnash thy teeth in the end.

¹¹Give him no liberty in his youth, and wink not at his follies.

¹²Bow down his neck while he is young, and beat him on the sides while he is a child, lest he wax stubborn, and be disobedient unto thee, and so bring sorrow to thine heart.

¹³Chastise thy son, and hold him to labour, lest his lewd behaviour be an offence unto thee.

¹⁴Better is the poor, being sound and strong of constitution, than a rich man that is afflicted in his body.

Eccliiasticus

¹⁵Health and good estate of body are above all gold, and a strong body above infinite wealth.

¹⁶There is no riches above a sound body, and no joy above the joy of the heart.

¹⁷Death is better than a bitter life or continual sickness.

¹⁸Delicates poured upon a mouth shut up are as messes of meat set upon a grave.

¹⁹What good doeth the offering unto an idol? for neither can it eat nor smell: so is he that is persecuted of the Lord.

²⁰He seeth with his eyes and groaneth, as an eunuch that embraceth a virgin and sigheth.

²¹Give not over thy mind to heaviness, and afflict not thyself in thine own counsel.

²²The gladness of the heart is the life of man, and the joyfulness of a man prolongeth his days.

²³Love thine own soul, and comfort thy heart, remove sorrow far from thee: for sorrow hath killed many, and there is no profit therein.

²⁴Envy and wrath shorten the life, and carefulness bringeth age before the time.

²⁵A cheerful and good heart will have a care of his meat and diet.

CHAPTER 31

¹Watching for riches consumeth the flesh, and the care thereof driveth away sleep.

²Watching care will not let a man slumber, as a sore disease breaketh sleep, ³The rich hath great labour in gathering riches together; and when he resteth, he is filled with his delicates.

⁴The poor laboureth in his poor estate; and when he leaveth off, he is still needy.

⁵He that loveth gold shall not be justified, and he that followeth corruption shall have enough thereof.

⁶Gold hath been the ruin of many, and their destruction was present.

⁷It is a stumblingblock unto them that sacrifice unto it, and every fool shall be taken therewith.

⁸Blessed is the rich that is found without blemish, and hath not gone after gold.

⁹Who is he? and we will call him blessed: for wonderful things hath he done among his people.

¹⁰Who hath been tried thereby, and found perfect? then let him glory. Who might offend, and hath not offended? or done evil, and hath not done it?

¹¹His goods shall be established, and the congregation shall declare his alms.

¹²If thou sit at a bountiful table, be not greedy upon it, and say not, There is much meat on it.

¹³Remember that a wicked eye is an evil thing: and what is created more wicked than an eye? therefore it weepeth upon every occasion.

Eccliiasticus

¹⁴Stretch not thine hand whithersoever it looketh, and thrust it not with him into the dish.

¹⁵Judge not thy neighbour by thyself: and be discreet in every point.

¹⁶Eat as it becometh a man, those things which are set before thee; and devour note, lest thou be hated.

¹⁷Leave off first for manners' sake; and be not unsatiable, lest thou offend.

¹⁸When thou sittest among many, reach not thine hand out first of all.

¹⁹A very little is sufficient for a man well nurtured, and he fetcheth not his wind short upon his bed.

²⁰Sound sleep cometh of moderate eating: he riseth early, and his wits are with him: but the pain of watching, and choler, and pangs of the belly, are with an unsatiable man.

²¹And if thou hast been forced to eat, arise, go forth, vomit, and thou shalt have rest.

²²My son, hear me, and despise me not, and at the last thou shalt find as I told thee: in all thy works be quick, so shall there no sickness come unto thee.

²³Whoso is liberal of his meat, men shall speak well of him; and the report of his good housekeeping will be believed.

²⁴But against him that is a niggard of his meat the whole city shall murmur; and the testimonies of his niggardness shall not be doubted of.

²⁵Shew not thy valiantness in wine; for wine hath destroyed many.

²⁶The furnace proveth the edge by dipping: so doth wine the hearts of the proud by drunkenness.

²⁷Wine is as good as life to a man, if it be drunk moderately: what life is then to a man that is without wine? for it was made to make men glad.

²⁸Wine measurably drunk and in season bringeth gladness of the heart, and cheerfulness of the mind:

²⁹But wine drunken with excess maketh bitterness of the mind, with brawling and quarrelling.

³⁰Drunkenness increaseth the rage of a fool till he offend: it diminisheth strength, and maketh wounds.

³¹Rebuke not thy neighbour at the wine, and despise him not in his mirth: give him no spiteful words, and press not upon him with urging him [to drink.]

CHAPTER 32

¹If thou be made the master [of a feast,] lift not thyself up, but be among them as one of the rest; take diligent care for them, and so sit down.

²And when thou hast done all thy office, take thy place, that thou mayest be merry with them, and receive a crown for thy well ordering of the feast.

³Speak, thou that art the elder, for it becometh thee, but with sound judgment; and hinder not musick.

⁴Pour not out words where there is a musician, and shew not forth wisdom out of time.

Eccliiasticus

⁵A concert of musick in a banquet of wine is as a signet of carbuncle set in gold.

⁶As a signet of an emerald set in a work of gold, so is the melody of musick with pleasant wine.

⁷Speak, young man, if there be need of thee: and yet scarcely when thou art twice asked.

⁸Let thy speech be short, comprehending much in few words; be as one that knoweth and yet holdeth his tongue.

⁹If thou be among great men, make not thyself equal with them; and when ancient men are in place, use not many words.

¹⁰Before the thunder goeth lightning; and before a shamefaced man shall go favour.

¹¹Rise up betimes, and be not the last; but get thee home without delay.

¹²There take thy pastime, and do what thou wilt: but sin not by proud speech.

¹³And for these things bless him that made thee, and hath replenished thee with his good things.

¹⁴Whoso feareth the Lord will receive his discipline; and they that seek him early shall find favour.

¹⁵He that seeketh the law shall be filled therewith: but the hypocrite will be offended thereat.

¹⁶They that fear the Lord shall find judgment, and shall kindle justice as a light.

¹⁷A sinful man will not be reproved, but findeth an excuse according to his will.

¹⁸A man of counsel will be considerate; but a strange and proud man is not daunted with fear, even when of himself he hath done without counsel.

¹⁹Do nothing without advice; and when thou hast once done, repent not.

²⁰Go not in a way wherein thou mayest fall, and stumble not among the stones.

²¹Be not confident in a plain way.

²²And beware of thine own children.

²³In every good work trust thy own soul; for this is the keeping of the commandments.

²⁴He that believeth in the Lord taketh heed to the commandment; and he that trusteth in him shall fare never the worse.

CHAPTER 33

¹There shall no evil happen unto him that feareth the Lord; but in temptation even again he will deliver him.

²A wise man hateth not the law; but he that is an hypocrite therein is as a ship in a storm.

³A man of understanding trusteth in the law; and the law is faithful unto him, as an oracle.

⁴Prepare what to say, and so thou shalt be heard: and bind up instruction, and then make answer.

⁵The heart of the foolish is like a cartwheel; and his thoughts are like a rolling axletree.

Ecclasticus

⁶A stallion horse is as a mocking friend, he neigheth under every one that sitteth upon him.

⁷Why doth one day excel another, when as all the light of every day in the year is of the sun?

⁸By the knowledge of the Lord they were distinguished: and he altered seasons and feasts.

⁹Some of them hath he made high days, and hallowed them, and some of them hath he made ordinary days.

¹⁰And all men are from the ground, and Adam was created of earth:

¹¹In much knowledge the Lord hath divided them, and made their ways diverse.

¹²Some of them hath he blessed and exalted and some of them he sanctified, and set near himself: but some of them hath he cursed and brought low, and turned out of their places.

¹³As the clay is in the potter's hand, to fashion it at his pleasure: so man is in the hand of him that made him, to render to them as liketh him best.

¹⁴Good is set against evil, and life against death: so is the godly against the sinner, and the sinner against the godly.

¹⁵So look upon all the works of the most High; and there are two and two, one against another.

¹⁶I awaked up last of all, as one that gathereth after the grapegatherers: by the blessing of the Lord I profited, and tred my winepress like a gatherer of grapes.

¹⁷Consider that I laboured not for myself only, but for all them that seek learning.

¹⁸Hear me, O ye great men of the people, and hearken with your ears, ye rulers of the congregation.

¹⁹Give not thy son and wife, thy brother and friend, power over thee while thou livest, and give not thy goods to another: lest it repent thee, and thou intreat for the same again.

²⁰As long as thou livest and hast breath in thee, give not thyself over to any.

²¹For better it is that thy children should seek to thee, than that thou shouldest stand to their courtesy.

²²In all thy works keep to thyself the preeminence; leave not a stain in thine honour.

²³At the time when thou shalt end thy days, and finish thy life, distribute thine inheritance.

²⁴Fodder, a wand, and burdens, are for the ass; and bread, correction, and work, for a servant. .

²⁵If thou set thy servant to labour, thou shalt find rest: but if thou let him go idle, he shall seek liberty.

²⁶A yoke and a collar do bow the neck: so are tortures and torments for an evil servant.

²⁷Send him to labour, that he be not idle; for idleness teacheth much evil.

²⁸Set him to work, as is fit for him: if he be not obedient, put on more heavy fetters.

²⁹But be not excessive toward any; and without discretion do nothing.

Eccliiasticus

³⁰If thou have a servant, let him be unto thee as thyself, because thou hast bought him with a price.

³¹If thou have a servant, entreat him as a brother: for thou hast need of him, as of thine own soul: if thou entreat him evil, and he run from thee, which way wilt thou go to seek him?

CHAPTER 34

¹The hopes of a man void of understanding are vain and false: and dreams lift up fools.

²Whoso regardeth dreams is like him that catcheth at a shadow, and followeth after the wind.

³The vision of dreams is the resemblance of one thing to another, even as the likeness of a face to a face.

⁴Of an unclean thing what can be cleansed? and from that thing which is false what truth can come?

⁵Divinations, and soothsayings, and dreams, are vain: and the heart fancieth, as a woman's heart in travail.

⁶If they be not sent from the most High in thy visitation, set not thy heart upon them.

⁷For dreams have deceived many, and they have failed that put their trust in them.

⁸The law shall be found perfect without lies: and wisdom is perfection to a faithful mouth.

⁹A man that hath travelled knoweth many things; and he that hath much experience will declare wisdom.

¹⁰He that hath no experience knoweth little: but he that hath travelled is full of prudence.

¹¹When I travelled, I saw many things; and I understand more than I can express.

¹²I was oftentimes in danger of death: yet I was delivered because of these things.

¹³The spirit of those that fear the Lord shall live; for their hope is in him that saveth them.

¹⁴Whoso feareth the Lord shall not fear nor be afraid; for he is his hope.

¹⁵Blessed is the soul of him that feareth the Lord: to whom doth he look? and who is his strength?

¹⁶For the eyes of the Lord are upon them that love him, he is their mighty protection and strong stay, a defence from heat, and a cover from the sun at noon, a preservation from stumbling, and an help from falling.

¹⁷He raiseth up the soul, and lighteneth the eyes: he giveth health, life, and blessing.

¹⁸He that sacrificeth of a thing wrongfully gotten, his offering is ridiculous; and the gifts of unjust men are not accepted.

¹⁹The most High is not pleased with the offerings of the wicked; neither is he pacified for sin by the multitude of sacrifices.

²⁰Whoso bringeth an offering of the goods of the poor doeth as one that killeth the son before his father's eyes.

²¹The bread of the needy is their life: he that defraudeth him thereof is a man of blood.

²²He that taketh away his neighbour's living slayeth him; and he that defraudeth the labourer of his hire is a bloodshedder.

²³When one buildeth, and another pulleth down, what profit have they then but labour?

²⁴When one prayeth, and another curseth, whose voice will the Lord hear?

²⁵He that washeth himself after the touching of a dead body, if he touch it again, what availeth his washing?

²⁶So is it with a man that fasteth for his sins, and goeth again, and doeth the same: who will hear his prayer? or what doth his humbling profit him.

CHAPTER 35

¹He that keepeth the law bringeth offerings enough: he that taketh heed to the commandment offereth a peace offering.

²He that requiteth a goodturn offereth fine flour; and he that giveth alms sacrificeth praise.

³To depart from wickedness is a thing pleasing to the Lord; and to forsake unrighteousness is a propitiation.

⁴Thou shalt not appear empty before the Lord.

⁵For all these things [are to be done] because of the commandment.

⁶The offering of the righteous maketh the altar fat, and the sweet savour thereof is before the most High.

⁷The sacrifice of a just man is acceptable. and the memorial thereof shall never be forgotten.

⁸Give the Lord his honour with a good eye, and diminish not the firstfruits of thine hands.

⁹In all thy gifts shew a cheerful countenance, and dedicate thy tithes with gladness.

¹⁰Give unto the most High according as he hath enriched thee; and as thou hast gotten, give with a cheerful eye.

¹¹For the Lord recompenseth, and will give thee seven times as much.

¹²Do not think to corrupt with gifts; for such he will not receive: and trust not to unrighteous sacrifices; for the Lord is judge, and with him is no respect of persons.

¹³He will not accept any person against a poor man, but will hear the prayer of the oppressed.

¹⁴He will not despise the supplication of the fatherless; nor the widow, when she poureth out her complaint.

¹⁵Do not the tears run down the widow's cheeks? and is not her cry against him that causeth them to fall?

¹⁶He that serveth the Lord shall be accepted with favour, and his prayer shall reach unto the clouds.

¹⁷The prayer of the humble pierceth the clouds: and till it come nigh, he will not be comforted; and will not depart, till the most High shall behold to judge righteously, and execute judgment.

¹⁸For the Lord will not be slack, neither will the Mighty be patient toward them, till he have smitten in sunder the loins of the unmerciful, and repayed vengeance to the heathen; till he have taken away the multitude of the proud, and broken the sceptre of the unrighteous;

¹⁹Till he have rendered to every man according to his deeds, and to the works of men according to their devices; till he have judged the cause of his people, and made them to rejoice in his mercy.

²⁰Mercy is seasonable in the time of affliction, as clouds of rain in the time of drought.

CHAPTER 36

¹Have mercy upon us, O Lord God of all, and behold us:

²And send thy fear upon all the nations that seek not after thee.

³Lift up thy hand against the strange nations, and let them see thy power.

⁴As thou wast sanctified in us before them: so be thou magnified among them before us.

⁵And let them know thee, as we have known thee, that there is no God but only thou, O God.

⁶Shew new signs, and make other strange wonders: glorify thy hand and thy right arm, that they may set forth thy wondrous works.

⁷Raise up indignation, and pour out wrath: take away the adversary, and destroy the enemy.

⁸Sake the time short, remember the covenant, and let them declare thy wonderful works.

⁹Let him that escapeth be consumed by the rage of the fire; and let them perish that oppress the people.

¹⁰Smite in sunder the heads of the rulers of the heathen, that say, There is none other but we.

¹¹Gather all the tribes of Jacob together, and inherit thou them, as from the beginning.

¹²O Lord, have mercy upon the people that is called by thy name, and upon Israel, whom thou hast named thy firstborn.

¹³O be merciful unto Jerusalem, thy holy city, the place of thy rest.

¹⁴Fill Sion with thine unspeakable oracles, and thy people with thy glory:

¹⁵Give testimony unto those that thou hast possessed from the beginning, and raise up prophets that have been in thy name.

¹⁶Reward them that wait for thee, and let thy prophets be found faithful.

¹⁷O Lord, hear the prayer of thy servants, according to the blessing of Aaron over thy people, that all they which dwell upon the earth may know that thou art the Lord, the eternal God.

¹⁸The belly devoureth all meats, yet is one meat better than another.

¹⁹As the palate tasteth divers kinds of venison: so doth an heart of understanding false speeches.

²⁰A froward heart causeth heaviness: but a man of experience will recompense him.

²¹A woman will receive every man, yet is one daughter better than another.

²²The beauty of a woman cheereth the countenance, and a man loveth nothing better.

Ecclasticus

²³If there be kindness, meekness, and comfort, in her tongue, then is not her husband like other men.

²⁴He that getteth a wife beginneth a possession, a help like unto himself, and a pillar of rest.

²⁵Where no hedge is, there the possession is spoiled: and he that hath no wife] a man that hath no house, and lodgeth wheresoever the night taketh him?

CHAPTER 37

¹Every friend saith, I am his friend also: but there is a friend, which is only a friend in name.

²Is it not a grief unto death, when a companion and friend is turned to an enemy?

³O wicked imagination, whence camest thou in to cover the earth with deceit?

⁴There is a companion, which rejoiceth in the prosperity of a friend, but in the time of trouble will be against him.

⁵There is a companion, which helpeth his friend for the belly, and taketh up the buckler against the enemy.

⁶Forget not thy friend in thy mind, and be not unmindful of him in thy riches.

⁷Every counsellor extolleth counsel; but there is some that counselleth for himself.

⁸Beware of a counsellor, and know before what need he hath; for he will counsel for himself; lest he cast the lot upon thee, ⁹And say unto thee, Thy way is good: and afterward he stand on the other side, to see what shall befall thee.

¹⁰Consult not with one that suspecteth thee: and hide thy counsel from such as envy thee.

¹¹Neither consult with a woman touching her of whom she is jealous; neither with a coward in matters of war; nor with a merchant concerning exchange; nor with a buyer of selling; nor with an envious man of thankfulness; nor with an unmerciful man touching kindness; nor with the slothful for any work; nor with an hireling for a year of finishing work; nor with an idle servant of much business: hearken not unto these in any matter of counsel.

¹²But be continually with a godly man, whom thou knowest to keep the commandments of the Lord, whose mind is according to thy mind, and will sorrow with thee, if thou shalt miscarry.

¹³And let the counsel of thine own heart stand: for there is no man more faithful unto thee than it.

¹⁴For a man's mind is sometime wont to tell him more than seven watchmen, that sit above in an high tower.

¹⁵And above all this pray to the most High, that he will direct thy way in truth.

¹⁶Let reason go before every enterprize, and counsel before every action.

Eccliiasticus

¹⁷The countenance is a sign of changing of the heart.

¹⁸Four manner of things appear: good and evil, life and death: but the tongue ruleth over them continually.

¹⁹There is one that is wise and teacheth many, and yet is unprofitable to himself.

²⁰There is one that sheweth wisdom in words, and is hated: he shall be destitute of all food.

²¹For grace is not given, him from the Lord, because he is deprived of all wisdom.

²²Another is wise to himself; and the fruits of understanding are commendable in his mouth.

²³A wise man instructeth his people; and the fruits of his understanding fail not.

²⁴A wise man shall be filled with blessing; and all they that see him shall count him happy.

²⁵The days of the life of man may be numbered: but the days of Israel are innumerable.

²⁶A wise man shall inherit glory among his people, and his name shall be perpetual.

²⁷My son, prove thy soul in thy life, and see what is evil for it, and give not that unto it.

²⁸For all things are not profitable for all men, neither hath every soul pleasure in every thing.

²⁹Be not unsatiable in any dainty thing, nor too greedy upon meats:

³⁰For excess of meats bringeth sickness, and surfeiting will turn into choler.

³¹By surfeiting have many perished; but he that taketh heed prolongeth his life.

CHAPTER 38

¹Honour a physician with the honour due unto him for the uses which ye may have of him: for the Lord hath created him.

²For of the most High cometh healing, and he shall receive honour of the king.

³The skill of the physician shall lift up his head: and in the sight of great men he shall be in admiration.

⁴The Lord hath created medicines out of the earth; and he that is wise will not abhor them.

⁵Was not the water made sweet with wood, that the virtue thereof might be known?

⁶And he hath given men skill, that he might be honoured in his marvellous works.

⁷With such doth he heal [men,] and taketh away their pains.

⁸Of such doth the apothecary make a confection; and of his works there is no end; and from him is peace over all the earth, ⁹My son, in thy sickness be not negligent: but pray unto the Lord, and he will make thee whole.

¹⁰Leave off from sin, and order thine hands aright, and cleanse thy heart from all wickedness.

Ecclasticus

¹¹Give a sweet savour, and a memorial of fine flour; and make a fat offering, as not being.

¹²Then give place to the physician, for the Lord hath created him: let him not go from thee, for thou hast need of him.

¹³There is a time when in their hands there is good success.

¹⁴For they shall also pray unto the Lord, that he would prosper that, which they give for ease and remedy to prolong life.

¹⁵He that sinneth before his Maker, let him fall into the hand of the physician.

¹⁶My son, let tears fall down over the dead, and begin to lament, as if thou hadst suffered great harm thyself; and then cover his body according to the custom, and neglect not his burial.

¹⁷Weep bitterly, and make great moan, and use lamentation, as he is worthy, and that a day or two, lest thou be evil spoken of: and then comfort thyself for thy heaviness.

¹⁸For of heaviness cometh death, and the heaviness of the heart breaketh strength.

¹⁹In affliction also sorrow remaineth: and the life of the poor is the curse of the heart.

²⁰Take no heaviness to heart: drive it away, and member the last end.

²¹Forget it not, for there is no turning again: thou shalt not do him good, but hurt thyself.

²²Remember my judgment: for thine also shall be so; yesterday for me, and to day for thee.

²³When the dead is at rest, let his remembrance rest; and be comforted for him, when his Spirit is departed from him.

²⁴The wisdom of a learned man cometh by opportunity of leisure: and he that hath little business shall become wise.

²⁵How can he get wisdom that holdeth the plough, and that glorieth in the goad, that driveth oxen, and is occupied in their labours, and whose talk is of bullocks?

²⁶He giveth his mind to make furrows; and is diligent to give the kine fodder.

²⁷So every carpenter and workmaster, that laboureth night and day: and they that cut and grave seals, and are diligent to make great variety, and give themselves to counterfeit imagery, and watch to finish a work:

²⁸The smith also sitting by the anvil, and considering the iron work, the vapour of the fire wasteth his flesh, and he fighteth with the heat of the furnace: the noise of the hammer and the anvil is ever in his ears, and his eyes look still upon the pattern of the thing that he maketh; he setteth his mind to finish his work, and watcheth to polish it perfectly:

²⁹So doth the potter sitting at his work, and turning the wheel about with his feet, who is always carefully set at his work, and maketh all his work by number;

³⁰He fashioneth the clay with his arm, and boweth down his strength before his feet; he applieth himself to lead it over; and he is diligent to make clean the furnace:

³¹All these trust to their hands: and every one is wise in his work.

³²Without these cannot a city be inhabited: and they shall not dwell where they will, nor go up and down:

³³They shall not be sought for in publick counsel, nor sit high in the congregation: they shall not sit on the judges' seat, nor understand the sentence of judgment: they cannot declare justice and judgment; and they shall not be found where parables are spoken.

³⁴But they will maintain the state of the world, and [all] their desire is in the work of their craft.

CHAPTER 39

¹But he that giveth his mind to the law of the most High, and is occupied in the meditation thereof, will seek out the wisdom of all the ancient, and be occupied in prophecies.

²He will keep the sayings of the renowned men: and where subtil parables are, he will be there also.

³He will seek out the secrets of grave sentences, and be conversant in dark parables.

⁴He shall serve among great men, and appear before princes: he will travel through strange countries; for he hath tried the good and the evil among men.

⁵He will give his heart to resort early to the Lord that made him, and will pray before the most High, and will open his mouth in prayer, and make supplication for his sins.

⁶When the great Lord will, he shall be filled with the spirit of understanding: he shall pour out wise sentences, and give thanks unto the Lord in his prayer.

⁷He shall direct his counsel and knowledge, and in his secrets shall he meditate.

⁸He shall shew forth that which he hath learned, and shall glory in the law of the covenant of the Lord.

⁹Many shall commend his understanding; and so long as the world endureth, it shall not be blotted out; his memorial shall not depart away, and his name shall live from generation to generation.

¹⁰Nations shall shew forth his wisdom, and the congregation shall declare his praise.

¹¹If he die, he shall leave a greater name than a thousand: and if he live, he shall increase it.

¹²Yet have I more to say, which I have thought upon; for I am filled as the moon at the full.

¹³Hearken unto me, ye holy children, and bud forth as a rose growing by the brook of the field:

¹⁴And give ye a sweet savour as frankincense, and flourish as a lily,

Ecclasticus

send forth a smell, and sing a song of praise, bless the Lord in all his works.

¹⁵Magnify his name, and shew forth his praise with the songs of your lips, and with harps, and in praising him ye shall say after this manner:

¹⁶All the works of the Lord are exceeding good, and whatsoever he commandeth shall be accomplished in due season.

¹⁷And none may say, What is this? wherefore is that? for at time convenient they shall all be sought out: at his commandment the waters stood as an heap, and at the words of his mouth the receptacles of waters.

¹⁸At his commandment is done whatsoever pleaseth him; and none can hinder, when he will save.

¹⁹The works of all flesh are before him, and nothing can be hid from his eyes.

²⁰He seeth from everlasting to everlasting; and there is nothing wonderful before him.

²¹A man need not to say, What is this? wherefore is that? for he hath made all things for their uses.

²²His blessing covered the dry land as a river, and watered it as a flood.

²³As he hath turned the waters into saltness: so shall the heathen inherit his wrath.

²⁴As his ways are plain unto the holy; so are they stumblingblocks unto the wicked.

²⁵For the good are good things created from the beginning: so evil things for sinners.

²⁶The principal things for the whole use of man's life are water, fire, iron, and salt, flour of wheat, honey, milk, and the blood of the grape, and oil, and clothing.

²⁷All these things are for good to the godly: so to the sinners they are turned into evil.

²⁸There be spirits that are created for vengeance, which in their fury lay on sore strokes; in the time of destruction they pour out their force, and appease the wrath of him that made them.

²⁹Fire, and hail, and famine, and death, all these were created for vengeance;

³⁰Teeth of wild beasts, and scorpions, serpents, and the sword punishing the wicked to destruction.

³¹They shall rejoice in his commandment, and they shall be ready upon earth, when need is; and when their time is come, they shall not transgress his word.

³²Therefore from the beginning I was resolved, and thought upon these things, and have left them in writing.

³³All the works of the Lord are good: and he will give every needful thing in due season.

³⁴So that a man cannot say, This is worse than that: for in time they shall all be well approved.

³⁵And therefore praise ye the Lord with the whole heart and mouth, and bless the name of the Lord.

CHAPTER 40

¹Great travail is created for every man, and an heavy yoke is upon the sons of Adam, from the day that they go out of their mother's womb, till the day that they return to the mother of all things.

²Their imagination of things to come, and the day of death, [trouble] their thoughts, and [cause] fear of heart;

³From him that sitteth on a throne of glory, unto him that is humbled in earth and ashes;

⁴From him that weareth purple and a crown, unto him that is clothed with a linen frock.

⁵Wrath, and envy, trouble, and unquietness, fear of death, and anger, and strife, and in the time of rest upon his bed his night sleep, do change his knowledge.

⁶A little or nothing is his rest, and afterward he is in his sleep, as in a day of keeping watch, troubled in the vision of his heart, as if he were escaped out of a battle.

⁷When all is safe, he awaketh, and marvelleth that the fear was nothing.

⁸[Such things happen] unto all flesh, both man and beast, and that is sevenfold more upon sinners.

⁹Death, and bloodshed, strife, and sword, calamities, famine, tribulation, and the scourge;

¹⁰These things are created for the wicked, and for their sakes came the flood.

¹¹All things that are of the earth shall turn to the earth again: and that which is of the waters doth return into the sea.

¹²All bribery and injustice shall be blotted out: but true dealing shall endure for ever.

¹³The goods of the unjust shall be dried up like a river, and shall vanish with noise, like a great thunder in rain.

¹⁴While he openeth his hand he shall rejoice: so shall transgressors come to nought.

¹⁵The children of the ungodly shall not bring forth many branches: but are as unclean roots upon a hard rock.

¹⁶The weed growing upon every water and bank of a river shall be pulled up before all grass.

¹⁷Bountifulness is as a most fruitful garden, and mercifulness endureth for ever.

¹⁸To labour, and to be content with that a man hath, is a sweet life: but he that findeth a treasure is above them both.

¹⁹Children and the building of a city continue a man's name: but a blameless wife is counted above them both.

²⁰Wine and musick rejoice the heart: but the love of wisdom is above them both.

²¹The pipe and the psaltery make sweet melody: but a pleasant tongue is above them both.

²²Thine eye desireth favour and beauty: but more than both corn while it is green.

²³A friend and companion never meet amiss: but above both is a wife with her husband.

Eccliiasticus

²⁴Brethren and help are against time of trouble: but alms shall deliver more than them both.

²⁵Gold and silver make the foot stand sure: but counsel is esteemed above them both.

²⁶Riches and strength lift up the heart: but the fear of the Lord is above them both: there is no want in the fear of the Lord, and it needeth not to seek help.

²⁷The fear of the Lord is a fruitful garden, and covereth him above all glory.

²⁸My son, lead not a beggar's life; for better it is to die than to beg.

²⁹The life of him that dependeth on another man's table is not to be counted for a life; for he polluteth himself with other men's meat: but a wise man well nurtured will beware thereof.

³⁰Begging is sweet in the mouth of the shameless: but in his belly there shall burn a fire.

CHAPTER 41

¹O death, how bitter is the remembrance of thee to a man that liveth at rest in his possessions, unto the man that hath nothing to vex him, and that hath prosperity in all things: yea, unto him that is yet able to receive meat!

²O death, acceptable is thy sentence unto the needy, and unto him whose strength faileth, that is now in the last age, and is vexed with all things, and to him that despaireth, and hath lost patience!

³Fear not the sentence of death, remember them that have been before thee, and that come after; for this is the sentence of the Lord over all flesh.

⁴And why art thou against the pleasure of the most High? there is no inquisition in the grave, whether thou have lived ten, or an hundred, or a thousand years.

⁵The children of sinners are abominable children, and they that are conversant in the dwelling of the ungodly.

⁶The inheritance of sinners' children shall perish, and their posterity shall have a perpetual reproach.

⁷The children will complain of an ungodly father, because they shall be reproached for his sake.

⁸Woe be unto you, ungodly men, which have forsaken the law of the most high God! for if ye increase, it shall be to your destruction:

⁹And if ye be born, ye shall be born to a curse: and if ye die, a curse shall be your portion.

¹⁰All that are of the earth shall turn to earth again: so the ungodly shall go from a curse to destruction.

¹¹The mourning of men is about their bodies: but an ill name of sinners shall be blotted out.

¹²Have regard to thy name; for that shall continue with thee above a thousand great treasures of gold.

¹³A good life hath but few days: but a good name endureth for ever.

¹⁴My children, keep discipline in peace: for wisdom that is hid, and a treasure that is not seen, what profit is in them both?

Eccliiasticus

¹⁵A man that hideth his foolishness is better than a man that hideth his wisdom.

¹⁶Therefore be shamefaced according to my word: for it is not good to retain all shamefacedness; neither is it altogether approved in every thing.

¹⁷Be ashamed of whoredom before father and mother: and of a lie before a prince and a mighty man;

¹⁸Of an offence before a judge and ruler; of iniquity before a congregation and people; of unjust dealing before thy partner and friend;

¹⁹And of theft in regard of the place where thou sojournest, and in regard of the truth of God and his covenant; and to lean with thine elbow upon the meat; and of scorning to give and take;

²⁰And of silence before them that salute thee; and to look upon an harlot;

²¹And to turn away thy face from thy kinsman; or to take away a portion or a gift; or to gaze upon another man's wife.

²²Or to be overbusy with his maid, and come not near her bed; or of upbraiding speeches before friends; and after thou hast given, upbraid not;

²³Or of iterating and speaking again that which thou hast heard; and of revealing of secrets.

²⁴So shalt thou be truly shamefaced and find favour before all men.

CHAPTER 42

¹Of these things be not thou ashamed, and accept no person to sin thereby:

²Of the law of the most High, and his covenant; and of judgment to justify the ungodly;

³Of reckoning with thy partners and travellers; or of the gift of the heritage of friends;

⁴Of exactness of balance and weights; or of getting much or little;

⁵And of merchants' indifferent selling; of much correction of children; and to make the side of an evil servant to bleed.

⁶Sure keeping is good, where an evil wife is; and shut up, where many hands are.

⁷Deliver all things in number and weight; and put all in writing that thou givest out, or receivest in.

⁸Be not ashamed to inform the unwise and foolish, and the extreme aged that contendeth with those that are young: thus shalt thou be truly learned, and approved of all men living.

⁹The father waketh for the daughter, when no man knoweth; and the care for her taketh away sleep: when she is young, lest she pass away the flower of her age; and being married, lest she should be hated:

¹⁰In her virginity, lest she should be defiled and gotten with child in her father's house; and having an husband, lest she should misbehave herself; and when she is married, lest she should be barren.

¹¹Keep a sure watch over a shameless daughter, lest she make thee a laughingstock to thine enemies, and a byword in the city, and a reproach among the people, and make thee ashamed before the multitude.

¹²Behold not every body's beauty, and sit not in the midst of women.

¹³For from garments cometh a moth, and from women wickedness.

¹⁴Better is the churlishness of a man than a courteous woman, a woman, I say, which bringeth shame and reproach.

¹⁵I will now remember the works of the Lord, and declare the things that I have seen: In the words of the Lord are his works.

¹⁶The sun that giveth light looketh upon all things, and the work thereof is full of the glory of the Lord.

¹⁷The Lord hath not given power to the saints to declare all his marvellous works, which the Almighty Lord firmly settled, that whatsoever is might be established for his glory.

¹⁸He seeketh out the deep, and the heart, and considereth their crafty devices: for the Lord knoweth all that may be known, and he beholdeth the signs of the world.

¹⁹He declareth the things that are past, and for to come, and revealeth the steps of hidden things.

²⁰No thought escapeth him, neither any word is hidden from him.

²¹He hath garnished the excellent works of his wisdom, and he is from everlasting to everlasting: unto him may nothing be added, neither can he be diminished, and he hath no need of any counsellor.

²²Oh how desirable are all his works! and that a man may see even to a spark.

²³All these things live and remain for ever for all uses, and they are all obedient.

²⁴All things are double one against another: and he hath made nothing imperfect.

²⁵One thing establisheth the good or another: and who shall be filled with beholding his glory?

CHAPTER 43

¹The pride of the height, the clear firmament, the beauty of heaven, with his glorious shew;

²The sun when it appeareth, declaring at his rising a marvellous instrument, the work of the most High:

³At noon it parcheth the country, and who can abide the burning heat thereof?

⁴A man blowing a furnace is in works of heat, but the sun burneth the mountains three times more; breathing out fiery vapours, and sending forth bright beams, it dimmeth the eyes.

⁵Great is the Lord that made it; and at his commandment runneth hastily.

⁶He made the moon also to serve in her season for a declaration of times, and a sign of the world.

Eccliiasticus

⁷From the moon is the sign of feasts, a light that decreaseth in her perfection.

⁸The month is called after her name, increasing wonderfully in her changing, being an instrument of the armies above, shining in the firmament of heaven;

⁹The beauty of heaven, the glory of the stars, an ornament giving light in the highest places of the Lord.

¹⁰At the commandment of the Holy One they will stand in their order, and never faint in their watches.

¹¹Look upon the rainbow, and praise him that made it; very beautiful it is in the brightness thereof.

¹²It compasseth the heaven about with a glorious circle, and the hands of the most High have bended it.

¹³By his commandment he maketh the snow to fall apace, and sendeth swiftly the lightnings of his judgment.

¹⁴Through this the treasures are opened: and clouds fly forth as fowls.

¹⁵By his great power he maketh the clouds firm, and the hailstones are broken small.

¹⁶At his sight the mountains are shaken, and at his will the south wind bloweth.

¹⁷The noise of the thunder maketh the earth to tremble: so doth the northern storm and the whirlwind: as birds flying he scattereth the snow, and the falling down thereof is as the lighting of grasshoppers:

¹⁸The eye marvelleth at the beauty of the whiteness thereof, and the heart is astonished at the raining of it.

¹⁹The hoarfrost also as salt he poureth on the earth, and being congealed, it lieth on the top of sharp stakes.

²⁰When the cold north wind bloweth, and the water is congealed into ice, it abideth upon every gathering together of water, and clotheth the water as with a breastplate.

²¹It devoureth the mountains, and burneth the wilderness, and consumeth the grass as fire.

²²A present remedy of all is a mist coming speedily, a dew coming after heat refresheth.

²³By his counsel he appeaseth the deep, and planteth islands therein.

²⁴They that sail on the sea tell of the danger thereof; and when we hear it with our ears, we marvel thereat.

²⁵For therein be strange and wondrous works, variety of all kinds of beasts and whales created.

²⁶By him the end of them hath prosperous success, and by his word all things consist.

²⁷We may speak much, and yet come short: wherefore in sum, he is all.

²⁸How shall we be able to magnify him? for he is great above all his works.

²⁹The Lord is terrible and very great, and marvellous is his power.

Eccliiasticus

³⁰When ye glorify the Lord, exalt him as much as ye can; for even yet will he far exceed: and when ye exalt him, put forth all your strength, and be not weary; for ye can never go far enough.

³¹Who hath seen him, that he might tell us? and who can magnify him as he is?

³²There are yet hid greater things than these be, for we have seen but a few of his works.

³³For the Lord hath made all things; and to the godly hath he given wisdom.

CHAPTER 44

¹Let us now praise famous men, and our fathers that begat us.

²The Lord hath wrought great glory by them through his great power from the beginning.

³Such as did bear rule in their kingdoms, men renowned for their power, giving counsel by their understanding, and declaring prophecies:

⁴Leaders of the people by their counsels, and by their knowledge of learning meet for the people, wise and eloquent are their instructions:

⁵Such as found out musical tunes, and recited verses in writing:

⁶Rich men furnished with ability, living peaceably in their habitations:

⁷All these were honoured in their generations, and were the glory of their times.

⁸There be of them, that have left a name behind them, that their praises might be reported.

⁹And some there be, which have no memorial; who are perished, as though they had never been; and are become as though they had never been born; and their children after them.

¹⁰But these were merciful men, whose righteousness hath not been forgotten.

¹¹With their seed shall continually remain a good inheritance, and their children are within the covenant.

¹²Their seed standeth fast, and their children for their sakes.

¹³Their seed shall remain for ever, and their glory shall not be blotted out.

¹⁴Their bodies are buried in peace; but their name liveth for evermore.

¹⁵The people will tell of their wisdom, and the congregation will shew forth their praise.

¹⁶Enoch pleased the Lord, and was translated, being an example of repentance to all generations.

¹⁷Noah was found perfect and righteous; in the time of wrath he was taken in exchange [for the world;] therefore was he left as a remnant unto the earth, when the flood came.

¹⁸An everlasting covenant was made with him, that all flesh should perish no more by the flood.

¹⁹Abraham was a great father of many people: in glory was there none like unto him;

²⁰Who kept the law of the most High, and was in covenant with him:

Ecclasticus

he established the covenant in his flesh; and when he was proved, he was found faithful.

²¹Therefore he assured him by an oath, that he would bless the nations in his seed, and that he would multiply him as the dust of the earth, and exalt his seed as the stars, and cause them to inherit from sea to sea, and from the river unto the utmost part of the land.

²²With Isaac did he establish likewise [for Abraham his father's sake] the blessing of all men, and the covenant, And made it rest upon the head of Jacob. He acknowledged him in his blessing, and gave him an heritage, and divided his portions; among the twelve tribes did he part them.

CHAPTER 45

¹And he brought out of him a merciful man, which found favour in the sight of all flesh, even Moses, beloved of God and men, whose memorial is blessed.

²He made him like to the glorious saints, and magnified him, so that his enemies stood in fear of him.

³By his words he caused the wonders to cease, and he made him glorious in the sight of kings, and gave him a commandment for his people, and shewed him part of his glory.

⁴He sanctified him in his faithfulness and meekness, and chose him out of all men.

⁵He made him to hear his voice, and brought him into the dark cloud, and gave him commandments before his face, even the law of life and knowledge, that he might teach Jacob his covenants, and Israel his judgments.

⁶He exalted Aaron, an holy man like unto him, even his brother, of the tribe of Levi.

⁷An everlasting covenant he made with him and gave him the priesthood among the people; he beautified him with comely ornaments, and clothed him with a robe of glory.

⁸He put upon him perfect glory; and strengthened him with rich garments, with breeches, with a long robe, and the ephod.

⁹And he compassed him with pomegranates, and with many golden bells round about, that as he went there might be a sound, and a noise made that might be heard in the temple, for a memorial to the children of his people;

¹⁰With an holy garment, with gold, and blue silk, and purple, the work of the embroiderer, with a breastplate of judgment, and with Urim and Thummim;

¹¹With twisted scarlet, the work of the cunning workman, with precious stones graven like seals, and set in gold, the work of the jeweller, with a writing engraved for a memorial, after the number of the tribes of Israel.

¹²He set a crown of gold upon the mitre, wherein was engraved Holiness, an ornament of honour, a costly work, the desires of the eyes, goodly and beautiful.

Eccliiasticus

¹³Before him there were none such, neither did ever any stranger put them on, but only his children and his children's children perpetually.

¹⁴Their sacrifices shall be wholly consumed every day twice continually.

¹⁵Moses consecrated him, and anointed him with holy oil: this was appointed unto him by an everlasting covenant, and to his seed, so long as the heavens should remain, that they should minister unto him, and execute the office of the priesthood, and bless the people in his name.

¹⁶He chose him out of all men living to offer sacrifices to the Lord, incense, and a sweet savour, for a memorial, to make reconciliation for his people.

¹⁷He gave unto him his commandments, and authority in the statutes of judgments, that he should teach Jacob the testimonies, and inform Israel in his laws.

¹⁸Strangers conspired together against him, and maligned him in the wilderness, even the men that were of Dathan's and Abiron's side, and the congregation of Core, with fury and wrath.

¹⁹This the Lord saw, and it displeased him, and in his wrathful indignation were they consumed: he did wonders upon them, to consume them with the fiery flame.

²⁰But he made Aaron more honourable, and gave him an heritage, and divided unto him the firstfruits of the increase; especially he prepared bread in abundance:

²¹For they eat of the sacrifices of the Lord, which he gave unto him and his seed.

²²Howbeit in the land of the people he had no inheritance, neither had he any portion among the people: for the Lord himself is his portion and inheritance.

²³The third in glory is Phinees the son of Eleazar, because he had zeal in the fear of the Lord, and stood up with good courage of heart: when the people were turned back, and made reconciliation for Israel.

²⁴Therefore was there a covenant of peace made with him, that he should be the chief of the sanctuary and of his people, and that he and his posterity should have the dignity of the priesthood for ever:

²⁵According to the covenant made with David son of Jesse, of the tribe of Juda, that the inheritance of the king should be to his posterity alone: so the inheritance of Aaron should also be unto his seed.

²⁶God give you wisdom in your heart to judge his people in righteousness, that their good things be not abolished, and that their glory may endure for ever.

CHAPTER 46

¹Jesus the son a Nave was valiant in the wars, and was the successor of Moses in prophecies, who according to his name was made great for the saving of the elect of God, and taking vengeance of the enemies that rose up against them, that he might set Israel in their inheritance.

Ecclasticus

²How great glory gat he, when he did lift up his hands, and stretched out his sword against the cities!

³Who before him so stood to it? for the Lord himself brought his enemies unto him.

⁴Did not the sun go back by his means? and was not one day as long as two?

⁵He called upon the most high Lord, when the enemies pressed upon him on every side; and the great Lord heard him.

⁶And with hailstones of mighty power he made the battle to fall violently upon the nations, and in the descent [of Bethhoron] he destroyed them that resisted, that the nations might know all their strength, because he fought in the sight of the Lord, and he followed the Mighty One.

⁷In the time of Moses also he did a work of mercy, he and Caleb the son of Jephunne, in that they withstood the congregation, and withheld the people from sin, and appeased the wicked murmuring.

⁸And of six hundred thousand people on foot, they two were preserved to bring them in to the heritage, even unto the land that floweth with milk and honey.

⁹The Lord gave strength also unto Caleb, which remained with him unto his old age: so that he entered upon the high places of the land, and his seed obtained it for an heritage:

¹⁰That all the children of Israel might see that it is good to follow the Lord.

¹¹And concerning the judges, every one by name, whose heart went not a whoring, nor departed from the Lord, let their memory be blessed.

¹²Let their bones flourish out of their place, and let the name of them that were honoured be continued upon their children.

¹³Samuel, the prophet of the Lord, beloved of his Lord, established a kingdom, and anointed princes over his people.

¹⁴By the law of the Lord he judged the congregation, and the Lord had respect unto Jacob.

¹⁵By his faithfulness he was found a true prophet, and by his word he was known to be faithful in vision.

¹⁶He called upon the mighty Lord, when his enemies pressed upon him on every side, when he offered the sucking lamb.

¹⁷And the Lord thundered from heaven, and with a great noise made his voice to be heard.

¹⁸And he destroyed the rulers of the Tyrians, and all the princes of the Philistines.

¹⁹And before his long sleep he made protestations in the sight of the Lord and his anointed, I have not taken any man's goods, so much as a shoe: and no man did accuse him.

²⁰And after his death he prophesied, and shewed the king his end, and lifted up his voice from the earth in prophecy, to blot out the wickedness of the people.

CHAPTER 47

¹And after him rose up Nathan to prophesy in the time of David.

²As is the fat taken away from the peace offering, so was David chosen out of the children of Israel.

³He played with lions as with kids, and with bears as with lambs.

⁴Slew he not a giant, when he was yet but young? and did he not take away reproach from the people, when he lifted up his hand with the stone in the sling, and beat down the boasting of Goliath?

⁵For he called upon the most high Lord; and he gave him strength in his right hand to slay that mighty warrior, and set up the horn of his people.

⁶So the people honoured him with ten thousands, and praised him in the blessings of the Lord, in that he gave him a crown of glory.

⁷For he destroyed the enemies on every side, and brought to nought the Philistines his adversaries, and brake their horn in sunder unto this day.

⁸In all his works he praised the Holy One most high with words of glory; with his whole heart he sung songs, and loved him that made him.

⁹He set singers also before the altar, that by their voices they might make sweet melody, and daily sing praises in their songs.

¹⁰He beautified their feasts, and set in order the solemn times until the end, that they might praise his holy name, and that the temple might sound from morning.

¹¹The Lord took away his sins, and exalted his horn for ever: he gave him a covenant of kings, and a throne of glory in Israel.

¹²After him rose up a wise son, and for his sake he dwelt at large.

¹³Solomon reigned in a peaceable time, and was honoured; for God made all quiet round about him, that he might build an house in his name, and prepare his sanctuary for ever.

¹⁴How wise wast thou in thy youth and, as a flood, filled with understanding!

¹⁵Thy soul covered the whole earth, and thou filledst it with dark parables.

¹⁶Thy name went far unto the islands; and for thy peace thou wast beloved.

¹⁷The countries marvelled at thee for thy songs, and proverbs, and parables, and interpretations.

¹⁸By the name of the Lord God, which is called the Lord God of Israel, thou didst gather gold as tin and didst multiply silver as lead.

¹⁹Thou didst bow thy loins unto women, and by thy body thou wast brought into subjection.

²⁰Thou didst stain thy honour, and pollute thy seed: so that thou broughtest wrath upon thy children, and wast grieved for thy folly.

²¹So the kingdom was divided, and out of Ephraim ruled a rebellious kingdom.

Eccliiasticus

²²But the Lord will never leave off his mercy, neither shall any of his works perish, neither will he abolish the posterity of his elect, and the seed of him that loveth him he will not take away: wherefore he gave a remnant unto Jacob, and out of him a root unto David.

²³Thus rested Solomon with his fathers, and of his seed he left behind him Roboam, even the foolishness of the people, and one that had no understanding, who turned away the people through his counsel. There was also Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin, and shewed Ephraim the way of sin:

²⁴And their sins were multiplied exceedingly, that they were driven out of the land.

²⁵For they sought out all wickedness, till the vengeance came upon them.

CHAPTER 48

¹Then stood up Elias the prophet as fire, and his word burned like a lamp.

²He brought a sore famine upon them, and by his zeal he diminished their number.

³By the word of the Lord he shut up the heaven, and also three times brought down fire.

⁴O Elias, how wast thou honoured in thy wondrous deeds! and who may glory like unto thee!

⁵Who didst raise up a dead man from death, and his soul from the place of the dead, by the word of the most High:

⁶Who broughtest kings to destruction, and honorable men from their bed:

⁷Who heardest the rebuke of the Lord in Sinai, and in Horeb the judgment of vengeance:

⁸Who annointedst kings to take revenge, and prophets to succeed after him:

⁹Who was taken up in a whirlwind of fire, and in a chariot of fiery horses:

¹⁰Who wast ordained for reproofs in their times, to pacify the wrath of the Lord's judgment, before it brake forth into fury, and to turn the heart of the father unto the son, and to restore the tribes of Jacob.

¹¹Blessed are they that saw thee, and slept in love; for we shall surely live.

¹²Elias it was, who was covered with a whirlwind: and Eliseus was filled with his spirit: whilst he lived, he was not moved with the presence of any prince, neither could any bring him into subjection.

¹³No word could overcome him; and after his death his body prophesied.

¹⁴He did wonders in his life, and at his death were his works marvellous.

¹⁵For all this the people repented not, neither departed they from their sins, till they were spoiled and carried out of their land, and were scattered through all the earth: yet there remained a small people, and a ruler in the house of David:

¹⁶Of whom some did that which was pleasing to God, and some multiplied sins.

Ecclasticus

¹⁷Ezekias fortified his city, and brought in water into the midst thereof: he digged the hard rock with iron, and made wells for waters.

¹⁸In his time Sennacherib came up, and sent Rabsaces, and lifted up his hand against Sion, and boasted proudly.

¹⁹Then trembled their hearts and hands, and they were in pain, as women in travail.

²⁰But they called upon the Lord which is merciful, and stretched out their hands toward him: and immediately the Holy One heard them out of heaven, and delivered them by the ministry of Esay.

²¹He smote the host of the Assyrians, and his angel destroyed them.

²²For Ezekias had done the thing that pleased the Lord, and was strong in the ways of David his father, as Esay the prophet, who was great and faithful in his vision, had commanded him.

²³In his time the sun went backward, and he lengthened the king's life.

²⁴He saw by an excellent spirit what should come to pass at the last, and he comforted them that mourned in Sion.

²⁵He shewed what should come to pass for ever, and secret things or ever they came.

CHAPTER 49

¹The remembrance of Josias is like the composition of the perfume that is made by the art of the apothecary: it is sweet as honey in all mouths, and as musick at a banquet of wine.

²He behaved himself uprightly in the conversion of the people, and took away the abominations of iniquity.

³He directed his heart unto the Lord, and in the time of the ungodly he established the worship of God.

⁴All, except David and Ezekias and Josias, were defective: for they forsook the law of the most High, even the kings of Juda failed.

⁵Therefore he gave their power unto others, and their glory to a strange nation.

⁶They burnt the chosen city of the sanctuary, and made the streets desolate, according to the prophecy of Jeremias.

⁷For they entreated him evil, who nevertheless was a prophet, sanctified in his mother's womb, that he might root out, and afflict, and destroy; and that he might build up also, and plant.

⁸It was Ezekiel who saw the glorious vision, which was shewed him upon the chariot of the cherubims.

⁹For he made mention of the enemies under the figure of the rain, and directed them that went right.

¹⁰And of the twelve prophets let the memorial be blessed, and let their bones flourish again out of their place: for they comforted Jacob, and delivered them by assured hope.

¹¹How shall we magnify Zorobabel? even he was as a signet on the right hand:

Ecclasticus

¹²So was Jesus the son of Josedec: who in their time builded the house, and set up an holy temple to the Lord, which was prepared for everlasting glory.

¹³And among the elect was Neemias, whose renown is great, who raised up for us the walls that were fallen, and set up the gates and the bars, and raised up our ruins again.

¹⁴But upon the earth was no man created like Enoch; for he was taken from the earth.

¹⁵Neither was there a young man born like Joseph, a governor of his brethren, a stay of the people, whose bones were regarded of the Lord.

¹⁶Sem and Seth were in great honour among men, and so was Adam above every living thing in creation.

CHAPTER 50

¹Simon the high priest, the son of Onias, who in his life repaired the house again, and in his days fortified the temple:

²And by him was built from the foundation the double height, the high fortress of the wall about the temple:

³In his days the cistern to receive water, being in compass as the sea, was covered with plates of brass:

⁴He took care of the temple that it should not fall, and fortified the city against besieging: ⁵How was he honoured in the midst of the people in his coming out of the sanctuary!

⁶He was as the morning star in the midst of a cloud, and as the moon at the full:

⁷As the sun shining upon the temple of the most High, and as the rainbow giving light in the bright clouds:

⁸And as the flower of roses in the spring of the year, as lilies by the rivers of waters, and as the branches of the frankincense tree in the time of summer:

⁹As fire and incense in the censer, and as a vessel of beaten gold set with all manner of precious stones:

¹⁰And as a fair olive tree budding forth fruit, and as a cypress tree which groweth up to the clouds.

¹¹When he put on the robe of honour, and was clothed with the perfection of glory, when he went up to the holy altar, he made the garment of holiness honourable.

¹²When he took the portions out of the priests' hands, he himself stood by the hearth of the altar, compassed about, as a young cedar in Libanus; and as palm trees compassed they him round about.

¹³So were all the sons of Aaron in their glory, and the oblations of the Lord in their hands, before all the congregation of Israel.

¹⁴And finishing the service at the altar, that he might adorn the offering of the most high Almighty, ¹⁵He stretched out his hand to the cup, and poured of the blood of the grape, he poured out at the foot of the altar a sweetsmelling savour unto the most high King of all.

¹⁶Then shouted the sons of Aaron, and sounded the silver trumpets, and made a great noise to be heard, for a remembrance before the most High.

¹⁷Then all the people together hasted, and fell down to the earth upon their faces to worship their Lord God Almighty, the most High.

¹⁸The singers also sang praises with their voices, with great variety of sounds was there made sweet melody.

¹⁹And the people besought the Lord, the most High, by prayer before him that is merciful, till the solemnity of the Lord was ended, and they had finished his service.

²⁰Then he went down, and lifted up his hands over the whole congregation of the children of Israel, to give the blessing of the Lord with his lips, and to rejoice in his name.

²¹And they bowed themselves down to worship the second time, that they might receive a blessing from the most High.

²²Now therefore bless ye the God of all, which only doeth wondrous things every where, which exalteth our days from the womb, and dealeth with us according to his mercy.

²³He grant us joyfulness of heart, and that peace may be in our days in Israel for ever:

²⁴That he would confirm his mercy with us, and deliver us at his time!

²⁵There be two manner of nations which my heart abhorreth, and the third is no nation:

²⁶They that sit upon the mountain of Samaria, and they that dwell among the Philistines, and that foolish people that dwell in Sichem.

²⁷Jesus the son of Sirach of Jerusalem hath written in this book the instruction of understanding and knowledge, who out of his heart poured forth wisdom.

²⁸Blessed is he that shall be exercised in these things; and he that layeth them up in his heart shall become wise.

²⁹For if he do them, he shall be strong to all things: for the light of the Lord leadeth him, who giveth wisdom to the godly. Blessed be the name of the Lord for ever. Amen, Amen.

CHAPTER 51

¹I will thank thee, O Lord and King, and praise thee, O God my Saviour: I do give praise unto thy name:

²For thou art my defender and helper, and has preserved my body from destruction, and from the snare of the slanderous tongue, and from the lips that forge lies, and has been mine helper against mine adversaries:

³And hast delivered me, according to the multitude of they mercies and greatness of thy name, from the teeth of them that were ready to devour me, and out of the hands of such as sought after my life, and from the manifold afflictions which I had;

⁴From the choking of fire on every side, and from the midst of the fire which I kindled not;

⁵From the depth of the belly of hell, from an unclean tongue, and from lying words.

Eccliiasticus

⁶By an accusation to the king from an unrighteous tongue my soul drew near even unto death, my life was near to the hell beneath.

⁷They compassed me on every side, and there was no man to help me: I looked for the succour of men, but there was none.

⁸Then thought I upon thy mercy, O Lord, and upon thy acts of old, how thou deliverest such as wait for thee, and savest them out of the hands of the enemies.

⁹Then lifted I up my supplications from the earth, and prayed for deliverance from death.

¹⁰I called upon the Lord, the Father of my Lord, that he would not leave me in the days of my trouble, and in the time of the proud, when there was no help.

¹¹I will praise thy name continually, and will sing praises with thanksgiving; and so my prayer was heard:

¹²For thou savedst me from destruction, and deliveredst me from the evil time: therefore will I give thanks, and praise thee, and bless thy name, O Lord.

¹³When I was yet young, or ever I went abroad, I desired wisdom openly in my prayer.

¹⁴I prayed for her before the temple, and will seek her out even to the end.

¹⁵Even from the flower till the grape was ripe hath my heart delighted in her: my foot went the right way, from my youth up sought I after her.

¹⁶I bowed down mine ear a little, and received her, and gat much learning.

¹⁷I profited therein, therefore will I ascribe glory unto him that giveth me wisdom.

¹⁸For I purposed to do after her, and earnestly I followed that which is good; so shall I not be confounded.

¹⁹My soul hath wrestled with her, and in my doings I was exact: I stretched forth my hands to the heaven above, and bewailed my ignorances of her.

²⁰I directed my soul unto her, and I found her in pureness: I have had my heart joined with her from the beginning, therefore shall I not be forsaken.

²¹My heart was troubled in seeking her: therefore have I gotten a good possession.

²²The Lord hath given me a tongue for my reward, and I will praise him therewith.

²³Draw near unto me, ye unlearned, and dwell in the house of learning.

²⁴Wherefore are ye slow, and what say ye to these things, seeing your souls are very thirsty?

²⁵I opened my mouth, and said, Buy her for yourselves without money.

²⁶Put your neck under the yoke, and let your soul receive instruction: she is hard at hand to find.

²⁷Behold with your eyes, how that I have but little labour, and have gotten unto me much rest.

Eccliasticus

²⁸Get learning with a great sum of money, and get much gold by her.

²⁹Let your soul rejoice in his mercy, and be not ashamed of his praise.

³⁰Work your work betimes, and in his time he will give you your reward.

Baruch,

With the Epistle of Jeremiah

CHAPTER 1

¹And these are the words of the book, which Baruch the son of Nerias, the son of Maasias, the son of Sedecias, the son of Asadiah, the son of Chelcias, wrote in Babylon, ²In the fifth year, and in the seventh day of the month, what time as the Chaldeans took Jerusalem, and burnt it with fire.

³And Baruch did read the words of this book in the hearing of Jechonias the son of Joachim king of Juda, and in the ears of all the people that came to hear the book, ⁴And in the hearing of the nobles, and of the king's sons, and in the hearing of the elders, and of all the people, from the lowest unto the highest, even of all them that dwelt at Babylon by the river Sud.

⁵Whereupon they wept, fasted, and prayed before the Lord.

⁶They made also a collection of money according to every man's power:

⁷And they sent it to Jerusalem unto Joachim the high priest, the son of Chelcias, son of Salom, and to the priests, and to all the people which were found with him at Jerusalem,

⁸At the same time when he received the vessels of the house of the Lord, that were carried out of the temple, to return them into the land of Juda, the tenth day of the month Sivan, namely, silver vessels, which Sedecias the son of Josias king of Juda had made, ⁹After that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon had carried away Jechonias, and the princes, and the captives, and the mighty men, and the people of the land, from Jerusalem, and brought them unto Babylon.

¹⁰And they said, Behold, we have sent you money to buy you burnt offerings, and sin offerings, and incense, and prepare ye manna, and offer upon the altar of the Lord our God;

¹¹And pray for the life of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and for the life of Balthasar his son, that their days may be upon earth as the days of heaven:

¹²And the Lord will give us strength, and lighten our eyes, and we shall live under the shadow of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and under the shadow of Balthasar his son, and we shall serve them many days, and find favour in their sight.

¹³Pray for us also unto the Lord our God, for we have sinned against the Lord our God; and unto this day the fury of the Lord and his wrath is not turned from us.

¹⁴And ye shall read this book which we have sent unto you, to make confession in the house of the Lord, upon the feasts and solemn days.

Baruch

CHAPTER 2

¹⁵And ye shall say, To the Lord our God belongeth righteousness, but unto us the confusion of faces, as it is come to pass this day, unto them of Juda, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem,

¹⁶And to our kings, and to our princes, and to our priests, and to our prophets, and to our fathers:

¹⁷For we have sinned before the Lord,

¹⁸And disobeyed him, and have not hearkened unto the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in the commandments that he gave us openly:

¹⁹Since the day that the Lord brought our forefathers out of the land of Egypt, unto this present day, we have been disobedient unto the Lord our God, and we have been negligent in not hearing his voice.

²⁰Wherefore the evils cleaved unto us, and the curse, which the Lord appointed by Moses his servant at the time that he brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, to give us a land that floweth with milk and honey, like as it is to see this day.

²¹Nevertheless we have not hearkened unto the voice of the Lord our God, according unto all the words of the prophets, whom he sent unto us:

²²But every man followed the imagination of his own wicked heart, to serve strange gods, and to do evil in the sight of the Lord our God.

¹Therefore the Lord hath made good his word, which he pronounced against us, and against our judges that judged Israel, and against our kings, and against our princes, and against the men of Israel and Juda, ²To bring upon us great plagues, such as never happened under the whole heaven, as it came to pass in Jerusalem, according to the things that were written in the law of Moses;

³That a man should eat the flesh of his own son, and the flesh of his own daughter.

⁴Moreover he hath delivered them to be in subjection to all the kingdoms that are round about us, to be as a reproach and desolation among all the people round about, where the Lord hath scattered them.

⁵Thus we were cast down, and not exalted, because we have sinned against the Lord our God, and have not been obedient unto his voice.

⁶To the Lord our God appertaineth righteousness: but unto us and to our fathers open shame, as appeareth this day.

⁷For all these plagues are come upon us, which the Lord hath pronounced against us ⁸Yet have we not prayed before the Lord, that we might turn every one from the imaginations of his wicked heart.

⁹Wherefore the Lord watched over us for evil, and the Lord hath brought it upon us: for the Lord is righteous in all his works which he hath commanded us.

¹⁰Yet we have not hearkened unto his voice, to walk in the commandments of the Lord, that he hath set before us.

¹¹And now, O Lord God of Israel, that hast brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and high arm, and with signs, and with wonders, and with great power, and hast gotten thyself a name, as appeareth this day:

¹²O Lord our God, we have sinned, we have done ungodly, we have dealt unrighteously in all thine ordinances.

¹³Let thy wrath turn from us: for we are but a few left among the heathen, where thou hast scattered us.

¹⁴Hear our prayers, O Lord, and our petitions, and deliver us for thine own sake, and give us favour in the sight of them which have led us away:

¹⁵That all the earth may know that thou art the Lord our God, because Israel and his posterity is called by thy name.

¹⁶O Lord, look down from thine holy house, and consider us: bow down thine ear, O Lord, to hear us.

¹⁷Open thine eyes, and behold; for the dead that are in the graves, whose souls are taken from their bodies, will give unto the Lord neither praise nor righteousness:

¹⁸But the soul that is greatly vexed, which goeth stooping and feeble, and the eyes that fail, and the hungry soul, will give thee praise and righteousness, O Lord.

¹⁹Therefore we do not make our humble supplication before thee, O Lord our God, for the righteousness of our fathers, and of our kings.

²⁰For thou hast sent out thy wrath and indignation upon us, as thou hast spoken by thy servants the prophets, saying, ²¹Thus saith the Lord, Bow down your shoulders to serve the king of Babylon: so shall ye remain in the land that I gave unto your fathers.

²²But if ye will not hear the voice of the Lord, to serve the king of Babylon, ²³I will cause to cease out of the cites of Judah, and from without Jerusalem, the voice of mirth, and the voice of joy, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride: and the whole land shall be desolate of inhabitants.

²⁴But we would not hearken unto thy voice, to serve the king of Babylon: therefore hast thou made good the words that thou spakest by thy servants the prophets, namely, that the bones of our kings, and the bones of our fathers, should be taken out of their place.

²⁵And, lo, they are cast out to the heat of the day, and to the frost of the night, and they died in great miseries by famine, by sword, and by pestilence.

²⁶And the house which is called by thy name hast thou laid waste, as it is to be seen this day, for the wickedness of the house of Israel and the house of Juda.

Baruch

²⁷O Lord our God, thou hast dealt with us after all thy goodness, and according to all that great mercy of thine,

²⁸As thou spakest by thy servant Moses in the day when thou didst command him to write the law before the children of Israel, saying, ²⁹If ye will not hear my voice, surely this very great multitude shall be turned into a small number among the nations, where I will scatter them.

³⁰For I knew that they would not hear me, because it is a stiffnecked people: but in the land of their captivities they shall remember themselves.

³¹And shall know that I am the Lord their God: for I will give them an heart, and ears to hear:

³²And they shall praise me in the land of their captivity, and think upon my name, ³³And return from their stiff neck, and from their wicked deeds: for they shall remember the way of their fathers, which sinned before the Lord.

³⁴And I will bring them again into the land which I promised with an oath unto their fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and they shall be lords of it: and I will increase them, and they shall not be diminished.

³⁵And I will make an everlasting covenant with them to be their God, and they shall be my people: and I will no more drive my people of Israel out of the land that I have given them.

CHAPTER 3

¹O Lord Almighty, God of Israel, the soul in anguish the troubled spirit, crieth unto thee.

²Hear, O Lord, and have mercy; for thou art merciful: and have pity upon us, because we have sinned before thee.

³For thou endurest for ever, and we perish utterly.

⁴O Lord Almighty, thou God of Israel, hear now the prayers of the dead Israelites, and of their children, which have sinned before thee, and not hearkened unto the voice of thee their God: for the which cause these plagues cleave unto us.

⁵Remember not the iniquities of our forefathers: but think upon thy power and thy name now at this time.

⁶For thou art the Lord our God, and thee, O Lord, will we praise.

⁷And for this cause thou hast put thy fear in our hearts, to the intent that we should call upon thy name, and praise thee in our captivity: for we have called to mind all the iniquity of our forefathers, that sinned before thee.

⁸Behold, we are yet this day in our captivity, where thou hast scattered us, for a reproach and a curse, and to be subject to payments, according to all the iniquities of our fathers, which departed from the Lord our God.

⁹Hear, Israel, the commandments of life: give ear to understand wisdom.

Baruch

¹⁰How happeneth it Israel, that thou art in thine enemies' land, that thou art waxen old in a strange country, that thou art defiled with the dead, ¹¹That thou art counted with them that go down into the grave?

¹²Thou hast forsaken the fountain of wisdom.

¹³For if thou hadst walked in the way of God, thou shouldest have dwelled in peace for ever.

¹⁴Learn where is wisdom, where is strength, where is understanding; that thou mayest know also where is length of days, and life, where is the light of the eyes, and peace.

¹⁵Who hath found out her place? or who hath come into her treasures?

¹⁶Where are the princes of the heathen become, and such as ruled the beasts upon the earth;

¹⁷They that had their pastime with the fowls of the air, and they that hoarded up silver and gold, wherein men trust, and made no end of their getting?

¹⁸For they that wrought in silver, and were so careful, and whose works are unsearchable, ¹⁹They are vanished and gone down to the grave, and others are come up in their steads.

²⁰Young men have seen light, and dwelt upon the earth: but the way of knowledge have they not known, ²¹Nor understood the paths thereof, nor laid hold of it: their children were far off from that way.

²²It hath not been heard of in Chanaan, neither hath it been seen in Theman.

²³The Agarenes that seek wisdom upon earth, the merchants of Meran and of Theman, the authors of fables, and searchers out of understanding; none of these have known the way of wisdom, or remember her paths.

²⁴O Israel, how great is the house of God! and how large is the place of his possession!

²⁵Great, and hath none end; high, and unmeasurable.

²⁶There were the giants famous from the beginning, that were of so great stature, and so expert in war.

²⁷Those did not the Lord choose, neither gave he the way of knowledge unto them:

²⁸But they were destroyed, because they had no wisdom, and perished through their own foolishness.

²⁹Who hath gone up into heaven, and taken her, and brought her down from the clouds?

³⁰Who hath gone over the sea, and found her, and will bring her for pure gold?

³¹No man knoweth her way, nor thinketh of her path.

³²But he that knoweth all things knoweth her, and hath found her out with his understanding: he that prepared the earth for evermore hath filled it with four-footed beasts:

³³He that sendeth forth light, and it goeth, calleth it again, and it obeyeth him with fear.

Baruch

³⁴The stars shined in their watches, and rejoiced: when he calleth them, they say, Here we be; and so with cheerfulness they shewed light unto him that made them.

³⁵This is our God, and there shall none other be accounted of in comparison of him

³⁶He hath found out all the way of knowledge, and hath given it unto Jacob his servant, and to Israel his beloved.

³⁷Afterward did he shew himself upon earth, and conversed with men.

CHAPTER 4

¹This is the book of the commandments of God, and the law that endureth for ever: all they that keep it shall come to life; but such as leave it shall die.

²Turn thee, O Jacob, and take hold of it: walk in the presence of the light thereof, that thou mayest be illuminated.

³Give not thine honour to another, nor the things that are profitable unto thee to a strange nation.

⁴O Israel, happy are we: for things that are pleasing to God are made known unto us.

⁵Be of good cheer, my people, the memorial of Israel.

⁶Ye were sold to the nations, not for [your] destruction: but because ye moved God to wrath, ye were delivered unto the enemies.

⁷For ye provoked him that made you by sacrificing unto devils, and not to God.

⁸Ye have forgotten the everlasting God, that brought you up; and ye have grieved Jerusalem, that nursed you.

⁹For when she saw the wrath of God coming upon you, she said, Hearken, O ye that dwell about Sion: God hath brought upon me great mourning;

¹⁰For I saw the captivity of my sons and daughters, which the Everlasting brought upon them.

¹¹With joy did I nourish them; but sent them away with weeping and mourning.

¹²Let no man rejoice over me, a widow, and forsaken of many, who for the sins of my children am left desolate; because they departed from the law of God.

¹³They knew not his statutes, nor walked in the ways of his commandments, nor trod in the paths of discipline in his righteousness.

¹⁴Let them that dwell about Sion come, and remember ye the captivity of my sons and daughters, which the Everlasting hath brought upon them.

¹⁵For he hath brought a nation upon them from far, a shameless nation, and of a strange language, who neither revered old man, nor pitied child.

¹⁶These have carried away the dear beloved children of the widow, and left her that was alone desolate without daughters.

¹⁷But what can I help you?

¹⁸For he that brought these plagues upon you will deliver you from the hands of your enemies.

Baruch

¹⁹Go your way, O my children, go your way: for I am left desolate.

²⁰I have put off the clothing of peace, and put upon me the sackcloth of my prayer: I will cry unto the Everlasting in my days.

²¹Be of good cheer, O my children, cry unto the Lord, and he will deliver you from the power and hand of the enemies.

²²For my hope is in the Everlasting, that he will save you; and joy is come unto me from the Holy One, because of the mercy which shall soon come unto you from the Everlasting our Saviour.

²³For I sent you out with mourning and weeping: but God will give you to me again with joy and gladness for ever.

²⁴Like as now the neighbours of Sion have seen your captivity: so shall they see shortly your salvation from our God which shall come upon you with great glory, and brightness of the Everlasting.

²⁵My children, suffer patiently the wrath that is come upon you from God: for thine enemy hath persecuted thee; but shortly thou shalt see his destruction, and shalt tread upon his neck.

²⁶My delicate ones have gone rough ways, and were taken away as a flock caught of the enemies.

²⁷Be of good comfort, O my children, and cry unto God: for ye shall be remembered of him that brought these things upon you.

²⁸For as it was your mind to go astray from God: so, being returned, seek him ten times more.

²⁹For he that hath brought these plagues upon you shall bring you everlasting joy with your salvation.

³⁰Take a good heart, O Jerusalem: for he that gave thee that name will comfort thee.

³¹Miserable are they that afflicted thee, and rejoiced at thy fall.

³²Miserable are the cities which thy children served: miserable is she that received thy sons.

³³For as she rejoiced at thy ruin, and was glad of thy fall: so shall she be grieved for her own desolation.

³⁴For I will take away the rejoicing of her great multitude, and her pride shall be turned into mourning.

³⁵For fire shall come upon her from the Everlasting, long to endure; and she shall be inhabited of devils for a great time.

³⁶O Jerusalem, look about thee toward the east, and behold the joy that cometh unto thee from God.

³⁷Lo, thy sons come, whom thou sentest away, they come gathered together from the east to the west by the word of the Holy One, rejoicing in the glory of God.

CHAPTER 5

¹Put off, O Jerusalem, the garment of mourning and affliction, and put on the comeliness of the glory that cometh from God for ever.

²Cast about thee a double garment of the righteousness which cometh from God; and set a diadem on thine head of the glory of the Everlasting.

Baruch

³For God will shew thy brightness unto every country under heaven.

⁴For thy name shall be called of God for ever The peace of righteousness, and The glory of God's worship.

⁵Arise, O Jerusalem, and stand on high, and look about toward the east, and behold thy children gathered from the west unto the east by the word of the Holy One, rejoicing in the remembrance of God.

⁶For they departed from thee on foot, and were led away of their enemies: but God bringeth them unto thee exalted with glory, as children of the kingdom.

⁷For God hath appointed that every high hill, and banks of long continuance, should be cast down, and valleys filled up, to make even the ground, that Israel may go safely in the glory of God, ⁸Moreover even the woods and every sweetsmelling tree shall overshadow Israel by the commandment of God.

⁹For God shall lead Israel with joy in the light of his glory with the mercy and righteousness that cometh from him.

THE EPISTLE OF JEREMY CHAPTER 6

¹A copy of an epistle, which Jeremy sent unto them which were to be led captives into Babylon by the king of the Babylonians, to certify them, as it was commanded him of God.

Because of the sins which ye have committed before God, ye shall be led away captives into Babylon by Nabuchodonosor king of the Babylonians.

²So when ye be come unto Babylon, ye shall remain there many years, and for a long season, namely, seven generations: and after that I will bring you away peaceably from thence.

³Now shall ye see in Babylon gods of silver, and of gold, and of wood, borne upon shoulders, which cause the nations to fear.

⁴Beware therefore that ye in no wise be like to strangers, neither be ye and of them, when ye see the multitude before them and behind them, worshipping them.

⁵But say ye in your hearts, O Lord, we must worship thee.

⁶For mine angel is with you, and I myself caring for your souls.

⁷As for their tongue, it is polished by the workman, and they themselves are gilded and laid over with silver; yet are they but false, and cannot speak.

⁸And taking gold, as it were for a virgin that loveth to go gay, they make crowns for the heads of their gods.

⁹Sometimes also the priests convey from their gods gold and silver, and bestow it upon themselves.

¹⁰Yea, they will give thereof to the common harlots, and deck them as men with garments, [being] gods of silver, and gods of gold, and wood.

Baruch

¹¹Yet cannot these gods save themselves from rust and moth, though they be covered with purple raiment.

¹²They wipe their faces because of the dust of the temple, when there is much upon them.

¹³And he that cannot put to death one that offendeth him holdeth a sceptre, as though he were a judge of the country.

¹⁴He hath also in his right hand a dagger and an ax: but cannot deliver himself from war and thieves.

¹⁵Whereby they are known not to be gods: therefore fear them not.

¹⁶For like as a vessel that a man useth is nothing worth when it is broken; even so it is with their gods: when they be set up in the temple, their eyes be full of dust through the feet of them that come in.

¹⁷And as the doors are made sure on every side upon him that offendeth the king, as being committed to suffer death: even so the priests make fast their temples with doors, with locks, and bars, lest their gods be spoiled with robbers.

¹⁸They light them candles, yea, more than for themselves, whereof they cannot see one.

¹⁹They are as one of the beams of the temple, yet they say their hearts are gnawed upon by things creeping out of the earth; and when they eat them and their clothes, they feel it not.

²⁰Their faces are blacked through the smoke that cometh out of the temple.

²¹Upon their bodies and heads sit bats, swallows, and birds, and the cats also.

²²By this ye may know that they are no gods: therefore fear them not.

²³Notwithstanding the gold that is about them to make them beautiful, except they wipe off the rust, they will not shine: for neither when they were molten did they feel it.

²⁴The things wherein there is no breath are bought for a most high price.

²⁵They are borne upon shoulders, having no feet whereby they declare unto men that they be nothing worth.

²⁶They also that serve them are ashamed: for if they fall to the ground at any time, they cannot rise up again of themselves: neither, if one set them upright, can they move of themselves: neither, if they be bowed down, can they make themselves straight: but they set gifts before them as unto dead men.

²⁷As for the things that are sacrificed unto them, their priests sell and abuse; in like manner their wives lay up part thereof in salt; but unto the poor and impotent they give nothing of it.

²⁸Menstruous women and women in childbed eat their sacrifices: by these things ye may know that they are no gods: fear them not.

²⁹For how can they be called gods? because women set meat before the gods of silver, gold, and wood.

³⁰And the priests sit in their temples, having their clothes rent, and their heads and beards shaven, and nothing upon their heads.

³¹They roar and cry before their gods, as men do at the feast when one is dead.

³²The priests also take off their garments, and clothe their wives and children.

³³Whether it be evil that one doeth unto them, or good, they are not able to recompense it: they can neither set up a king, nor put him down.

³⁴In like manner, they can neither give riches nor money: though a man make a vow unto them, and keep it not, they will not require it.

³⁵They can save no man from death, neither deliver the weak from the mighty.

³⁶They cannot restore a blind man to his sight, nor help any man in his distress.

³⁷They can shew no mercy to the widow, nor do good to the fatherless.

³⁸Their gods of wood, and which are overlaid with gold and silver, are like the stones that be hewn out of the mountain: they that worship them shall be confounded.

³⁹How should a man then think and say that they are gods, when even the Chaldeans themselves dishonour them?

⁴⁰Who if they shall see one dumb that cannot speak, they bring him, and intreat Bel that he may speak, as though he were able to understand.

⁴¹Yet they cannot understand this themselves, and leave them: for they have no knowledge.

⁴²The women also with cords about them, sitting in the ways, burn bran for perfume: but if any of them, drawn by some that passeth by, lie with him, she reproacheth her fellow, that she was not thought as worthy as herself, nor her cord broken.

⁴³Whatsoever is done among them is false: how may it then be thought or said that they are gods?

⁴⁴They are made of carpenters and goldsmiths: they can be nothing else than the workmen will have them to be.

⁴⁵And they themselves that made them can never continue long; how should then the things that are made of them be gods?

⁴⁶For they left lies and reproaches to them that come after.

⁴⁷For when there cometh any war or plague upon them, the priests consult with themselves, where they may be hidden with them.

⁴⁸How then cannot men perceive that they be no gods, which can neither save themselves from war, nor from plague?

⁴⁹For seeing they be but of wood, and overlaid with silver and gold, it shall be known hereafter that they are false:

⁵⁰And it shall manifestly appear to all nations and kings that they are no gods, but the works of men's hands, and that there is no work of God in them.

Baruch

⁵¹Who then may not know that they are no gods?

⁵²For neither can they set up a king in the land, nor give rain unto men.

⁵³Neither can they judge their own cause, nor redress a wrong, being unable: for they are as crows between heaven and earth.

⁵⁴Whereupon when fire falleth upon the house of gods of wood, or laid over with gold or silver, their priests will flee away, and escape; but they themselves shall be burned asunder like beams.

⁵⁵Moreover they cannot withstand any king or enemies: how can it then be thought or said that they be gods?

⁵⁶Neither are those gods of wood, and laid over with silver or gold, able to escape either from thieves or robbers.

⁵⁷Whose gold, and silver, and garments wherewith they are clothed, they that are strong take, and go away withal: neither are they able to help themselves.

⁵⁸Therefore it is better to be a king that sheweth his power, or else a profitable vessel in an house, which the owner shall have use of, than such false gods; or to be a door in an house, to keep such things therein, than such false gods. or a pillar of wood in a palace, than such false gods.

⁵⁹For sun, moon, and stars, being bright and sent to do their offices, are obedient.

⁶⁰In like manner the lightning when it breaketh forth is easy to be seen; and after the same manner the wind bloweth in every country.

⁶¹And when God commandeth the clouds to go over the whole world, they do as they are bidden.

⁶²And the fire sent from above to consume hills and woods doeth as it is commanded: but these are like unto them neither in shew nor power.

⁶³Wherefore it is neither to be supposed nor said that they are gods, seeing, they are able neither to judge causes, nor to do good unto men.

⁶⁴Knowing therefore that they are no gods, fear them not,

⁶⁵For they can neither curse nor bless kings:

⁶⁶Neither can they shew signs in the heavens among the heathen, nor shine as the sun, nor give light as the moon.

⁶⁷The beasts are better than they: for they can get under a cover and help themselves.

⁶⁸It is then by no means manifest unto us that they are gods: therefore fear them not.

⁶⁹For as a scarecrow in a garden of cucumbers keepeth nothing: so are their gods of wood, and laid over with silver and gold.

⁷⁰And likewise their gods of wood, and laid over with silver and gold, are like to a white thorn in an orchard, that every bird sitteth upon; as also to a dead body, that is east into the dark.

⁷¹And ye shall know them to be no gods by the bright purple that rotteth

Baruch

upon them: and they themselves afterward shall be eaten, and shall be a reproach in the country.

⁷²Better therefore is the just man that hath none idols: for he shall be far from reproach.

The Song of the Three Holy Children

¹And they walked in the midst of the fire, praising God, and blessing the Lord.

²Then Azarias stood up, and prayed on this manner; and opening his mouth in the midst of the fire said, ³Blessed art thou, O Lord God of our fathers: thy name is worthy to be praised and glorified for evermore:

⁴For thou art righteous in all the things that thou hast done to us: yea, true are all thy works, thy ways are right, and all thy judgments truth.

⁵In all the things that thou hast brought upon us, and upon the holy city of our fathers, even Jerusalem, thou hast executed true judgment: for according to truth and judgment didst thou bring all these things upon us because of our sins.

⁶For we have sinned and committed iniquity, departing from thee.

⁷In all things have we trespassed, and not obeyed thy commandments, nor kept them, neither done as thou hast commanded us, that it might go well with us.

⁸Wherefore all that thou hast brought upon us, and every thing that thou hast done to us, thou hast done in true judgment.

⁹And thou didst deliver us into the hands of lawless enemies, most hateful forsakers of God, and to an unjust king, and the most wicked in all the world.

¹⁰And now we cannot open our mouths, we are become a shame and reproach to thy servants; and to them that worship thee.

¹¹Yet deliver us not up wholly, for thy name's sake, neither disannul thou thy covenant:

¹²And cause not thy mercy to depart from us, for thy beloved Abraham's sake, for thy servant Issac's sake, and for thy holy Israel's sake;

¹³To whom thou hast spoken and promised, that thou wouldest multiply their seed as the stars of heaven, and as the sand that lieth upon the seashore.

¹⁴For we, O Lord, are become less than any nation, and be kept under this day in all the world because of our sins.

¹⁵Neither is there at this time prince, or prophet, or leader, or burnt offering, or sacrifice, or oblation, or incense, or place to sacrifice before thee, and to find mercy.

¹⁶Nevertheless in a contrite heart and an humble spirit let us be accepted.

¹⁷Like as in the burnt offerings of rams and bullocks, and like as in ten thousands of fat lambs: so let our sacrifice be in thy sight this day, and grant that we may wholly go after thee: for they shall not be confounded that put their trust in thee.

¹⁸And now we follow thee with all our heart, we fear thee, and seek thy face.

¹⁹Put us not to shame: but deal with us after thy lovingkindness, and according to the multitude of thy mercies.

²⁰Deliver us also according to thy marvellous works, and give glory to thy name, O Lord: and let all them that do thy servants hurt be ashamed;

²¹And let them be confounded in all their power and might, and let their strength be broken;

²²And let them know that thou art God, the only God, and glorious over the whole world.

²³And the king's servants, that put them in, ceased not to make the oven hot with rosin, pitch, tow, and small wood;

²⁴So that the flame streamed forth above the furnace forty and nine cubits.

²⁵And it passed through, and burned those Chaldeans it found about the furnace.

²⁶But the angel of the Lord came down into the oven together with Azarias and his fellows, and smote the flame of the fire out of the oven;

²⁷And made the midst of the furnace as it had been a moist whistling wind, so that the fire touched them not at all, neither hurt nor troubled them.

²⁸Then the three, as out of one mouth, praised, glorified, and blessed, God in the furnace, saying, ²⁹Blessed art thou, O Lord God of our fathers: and to be praised and exalted above all for ever.

³⁰And blessed is thy glorious and holy name: and to be praised and exalted above all for ever.

³¹Blessed art thou in the temple of thine holy glory: and to be praised and glorified above all for ever.

³²Blessed art thou that beholdest the depths, and sittest upon the cherubims: and to be praised and exalted above all for ever.

³³Blessed art thou on the glorious throne of thy kingdom: and to be praised and glorified above all for ever.

³⁴Blessed art thou in the firmament of heaven: and above ail to be praised and glorified for ever.

³⁵O all ye works of the Lord, bless ye the Lord : praise and exalt him above all for ever, ³⁶O ye heavens, bless ye the Lord : praise and exalt him above all for ever.

³⁷O ye angels of the Lord, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

³⁸O all ye waters that be above the heaven, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

³⁹O all ye powers of the Lord, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

⁵⁵O ye mountains, bless ye the Lord: Praise and exalt him above all for ever.

⁵⁶O ye seas and rivers, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

⁵⁷O ye whales, and all that move in the waters, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

⁵⁸O all ye fowls of the air, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

⁵⁹O all ye beasts and cattle, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

⁶⁰O ye children of men, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

⁶¹O Israel, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

⁶²O ye priests of the Lord, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

⁶³O ye servants of the Lord, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

⁶⁴O ye spirits and souls of the righteous, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

⁶⁵O ye holy and humble men of heart, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

⁶⁶O Ananias, Azarias, and Misael, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever: for he hath delivered us from hell, and saved us from the hand of death, and delivered us out of the midst of the furnace and burning flame: even out of the midst of the fire hath he delivered us.

⁶⁷O give thanks unto the Lord, because he is gracious: for his mercy endureth for ever.

⁶⁸O all ye that worship the Lord, bless the God of gods, praise him, and give him thanks: for his mercy endureth for ever.

The History of Susanna

¹There dwelt a man in Babylon, called Joacim:

²And he took a wife, whose name was Susanna, the daughter of Chelcias, a very fair woman, and one that feared the Lord.

³Her parents also were righteous, and taught their daughter according to the law of Moses.

⁴Now Joacim was a great rich man, and had a fair garden joining unto his house: and to him resorted the Jews; because he was more honourable than all others.

⁵The same year were appointed two of the ancients of the people to be judges, such as the Lord spake of, that wickedness came from Babylon from ancient judges, who seemed to govern the people.

⁶These kept much at Joacim's house: and all that had any suits in law came unto them.

⁷Now when the people departed away at noon, Susanna went into her husband's garden to walk.

⁸And the two elders saw her going in every day, and walking; so that their lust was inflamed toward her.

⁹And they perverted their own mind, and turned away their eyes, that they might not look unto heaven, nor remember just judgments.

¹⁰And albeit they both were wounded with her love, yet durst not one shew another his grief.

¹¹For they were ashamed to declare their lust, that they desired to have to do with her.

¹²Yet they watched diligently from day to day to see her.

¹³And the one said to the other, Let us now go home: for it is dinner time.

¹⁴So when they were gone out, they parted the one from the other, and turning back again they came to the same place; and after that they had asked one another the cause, they acknowledged their lust: then appointed they a time both together, when they might find her alone.

¹⁵And it fell out, as they watched a fit time, she went in as before with two maids only, and she was desirous to wash herself in the garden: for it was hot.

¹⁶And there was no body there save the two elders, that had hid themselves, and watched her.

¹⁷Then she said to her maids, Bring me oil and washing balls, and shut the garden doors, that I may wash me.

¹⁸And they did as she bade them, and shut the garden doors, and went out themselves at privy doors to fetch the things that she had commanded them: but they saw not the elders, because they were hid.

¹⁹Now when the maids were gone forth, the two elders rose up, and ran unto her, saying,

The History of Susanna

²⁰Behold, the garden doors are shut, that no man can see us, and we are in love with thee; therefore consent unto us, and lie with us.

²¹If thou wilt not, we will bear witness against thee, that a young man was with thee: and therefore thou didst send away thy maids from thee.

²²Then Susanna sighed, and said, I am straitened on every side: for if I do this thing, it is death unto me: and if I do it not I cannot escape your hands.

²³It is better for me to fall into your hands, and not do it, than to sin in the sight of the Lord.

²⁴With that Susanna cried with a loud voice: and the two elders cried out against her.

²⁵Then ran the one, and opened the garden door.

²⁶So when the servants of the house heard the cry in the garden, they rushed in at the privy door, to see what was done unto her.

²⁷But when the elders had declared their matter, the servants were greatly ashamed: for there was never such a report made of Susanna.

²⁸And it came to pass the next day, when the people were assembled to her husband Joacim, the two elders came also full of mischievous imagination against Susanna to put her to death;

²⁹And said before the people, Send for Susanna, the daughter of Chelcias, Joacim's wife. And so they sent.

³⁰So she came with her father and mother, her children, and all her kindred.

³¹Now Susanna was a very delicate woman, and beauteous to behold.

³²And these wicked men commanded to uncover her face, (for she was covered) that they might be filled with her beauty.

³³Therefore her friends and all that saw her wept.

³⁴Then the two elders stood up in the midst of the people, and laid their hands upon her head.

³⁵And she weeping looked up toward heaven: for her heart trusted in the Lord.

³⁶And the elders said, As we walked in the garden alone, this woman came in with two maids, and shut the garden doors, and sent the maids away.

³⁷Then a young man, who there was hid, came unto her, and lay with her.

³⁸Then we that stood in a corner of the garden, seeing this wickedness, ran unto them.

³⁹And when we saw them together, the man we could not hold: for he was stronger than we, and opened the door, and leaped out.

⁴⁰But having taken this woman, we asked who the young man was, but she would not tell us: these things do we testify.

⁴¹Then the assembly believed them as those that were the elders and judges of the people: so they condemned her to death.

The History of Susanna

⁴²Then Susanna cried out with a loud voice, and said, O everlasting God, that knowest the secrets, and knowest all things before they be:

⁴³Thou knowest that they have borne false witness against me, and, behold, I must die; whereas I never did such things as these men have maliciously invented against me.

⁴⁴And the Lord heard her voice.

⁴⁵Therefore when she was led to be put to death, the Lord raised up the holy spirit of a young youth whose name was Daniel:

⁴⁶Who cried with a loud voice, I am clear from the blood of this woman.

⁴⁷Then all the people turned them toward him, and said, What mean these words that thou hast spoken?

⁴⁸So he standing in the midst of them said, Are ye such fools, ye sons of Israel, that without examination or knowledge of the truth ye have condemned a daughter of Israel?

⁴⁹Return again to the place of judgment: for they have borne false witness against her.

⁵⁰Wherefore all the people turned again in haste, and the elders said unto him, Come, sit down among us, and shew it us, seeing God hath given thee the honour of an elder.

⁵¹Then said Daniel unto them, Put these two aside one far from another, and I will examine them.

⁵²So when they were put asunder one from another, he called one of them, and said unto him, O thou that art waxen old in wickedness, now thy sins which thou hast committed aforetime are come to light.

⁵³For thou hast pronounced false judgment and hast condemned the innocent and hast let the guilty go free; albeit the Lord saith, The innocent and righteous shalt thou not slay.

⁵⁴Now then, if thou hast seen her, tell me, Under what tree sawest thou them companying together? Who answered, Under a mas-tick tree.

⁵⁵And Daniel said, Very well; thou hast lied against thine own head; for even now the angel of God hath received the sentence of God to cut thee in two.

⁵⁶So he put him aside, and commanded to bring the other, and said unto him, O thou seed of Chanaan, and not of Juda, beauty hath deceived thee, and lust hath perverted thine heart.

⁵⁷Thus have ye dealt with the daughters of Israel, and they for fear companied with you: but the daughter of Juda would not abide your wickedness.

⁵⁸Now therefore tell me, Under what tree didst thou take them companying together? Who answered, Under an holm tree.

⁵⁹Then said Daniel unto him, Well; thou hast also lied against thine own head: for the angel of God waiteth with the sword to cut thee in two, that he may destroy you.

⁶⁰With that all the assembly cried out with a loud voice, and praised

The History of Susanna

God, who saveth them that trust in him.

⁶¹And they arose against the two elders, for Daniel had convicted them of false witness by their own mouth:

⁶²And according to the law of Moses they did unto them in such sort as they maliciously intended to do to their neighbour: and they put them to death.

Thus the innocent blood was saved the same day.

⁶³Therefore Chelcias and his wife praised God for their daughter Susanna, with Joacim her husband, and all the kindred, because there was no dishonesty found in her.

⁶⁴From that day forth was Daniel had in great reputation in the sight of the people.

The History of the Destruction of Bel and the Dragon

¹And king Astyages was gathered to his fathers, and Cyrus of Persia received his kingdom.

²And Daniel conversed with the king, and was honoured above all his friends.

³Now the Babylons had an idol, called Bel, and there were spent upon him every day twelve great measures of fine flour, and forty sheep, and six vessels of wine.

⁴And the king worshipped it and went daily to adore it: but Daniel worshipped his own God. And the king said unto him, Why dost not thou worship Bel?

⁵Who answered and said, Because I may not worship idols made with hands, but the living God, who hath created the heaven and the earth, and hath sovereignty over all flesh.

⁶Then said the king unto him, Thinkest thou not that Bel is a living God? seest thou not how much he eateth and drinketh every day?

⁷Then Daniel smiled, and said, O king, be not deceived: for this is but clay within, and brass without, and did never eat or drink any thing.

⁸So the king was wroth, and called for his priests, and said unto them, If ye tell me not who this is that devoureth these expences, ye shall die.

⁹But if ye can certify me that Bel devoureth them, then Daniel shall die:

for he hath spoken blasphemy against Bel. And Daniel said unto the king, Let it be according to thy word.

¹⁰Now the priests of Bel were threescore and ten, beside their wives and children. And the king went with Daniel into the temple of Bel.

¹¹So Bel's priests said, Lo, we go out: but thou, O king, set on the meat, and make ready the wine, and shut the door fast and seal it with thine own signet;

¹²And to morrow when thou comest in, if thou findest not that Bel hath eaten up all, we will suffer death: or else Daniel, that speaketh falsely against us.

¹³And they little regarded it: for under the table they had made a privy entrance, whereby they entered in continually, and consumed those things.

¹⁴So when they were gone forth, the king set meats before Bel. Now Daniel had commanded his servants to bring ashes, and those they strewed throughout all the temple in the presence of the king alone: then went they out, and shut the door, and sealed it with the king's signet, and so departed.

¹⁵Now in the night came the priests with their wives and children, as they were wont to do, and did eat and drinck up all.

Bel and the Dragon

¹⁶In the morning betime the king arose, and Daniel with him.

¹⁷And the king said, Daniel, are the seals whole? And he said, Yea, O king, they be whole.

¹⁸And as soon as he had opened the dour, the king looked upon the table, and cried with a loud voice, Great art thou, O Bel, and with thee is no deceit at all.

¹⁹Then laughed Daniel, and held the king that he should not go in, and said, Behold now the pavement, and mark well whose footsteps are these.

²⁰And the king said, I see the footsteps of men, women, and children. And then the king was angry, ²¹And took the priests with their wives and children, who shewed him the privy doors, where they came in, and consumed such things as were upon the table.

²²Therefore the king slew them, and delivered Bel into Daniel's power, who destroyed him and his temple.

²³And in that same place there was a great dragon, which they of Babylon worshipped.

²⁴And the king said unto Daniel, Wilt thou also say that this is of brass? lo, he liveth, he eateth and drinketh; thou canst not say that he is no living god: therefore worship him.

²⁵Then said Daniel unto the king, I will worship the Lord my God: for he is the living God.

²⁶But give me leave, O king, and I shall slay this dragon without sword or staff. The king said, I give thee leave.

²⁷Then Daniel took pitch, and fat, and hair, and did seethe them together, and made lumps thereof: this he put in the dragon's mouth, and so the dragon burst in sunder : and Daniel said, Lo, these are the gods ye worship.

²⁸When they of Babylon heard that, they took great indignation, and conspired against the king, saying, The king is become a Jew, and he hath destroyed Bel, he hath slain the dragon, and put the priests to death.

²⁹So they came to the king, and said, Deliver us Daniel, or else we will destroy thee and thine house.

³⁰Now when the king saw that they pressed him sore, being constrained, he delivered Daniel unto them:

³¹Who cast him into the lions' den: where he was six days.

³²And in the den there were seven lions, and they had given them every day two carcases, and two sheep: which then were not given to them, to the intent they might devour Daniel.

³³Now there was in Jewry a prophet, called Habbacuc, who had made pottage, and had broken bread in a bowl, and was going into the field, for to bring it to the reapers.

³⁴But the angel of the Lord said unto Habbacuc, Go, carry the dinner that thou hast into Babylon unto Daniel, who is in the lions' den.

³⁵And Habbacuc said, Lord, I never saw Babylon; neither do I know where the den is.

³⁶Then the angel of the Lord took him by the crown, and bare him by the hair of his head, and through the vehemency of his spirit set him in Babylon over the den.

Bel and the Dragon

³⁷And Habbacuc cried, saying, O Daniel, Daniel, take the dinner which God hath sent thee.

³⁸And Daniel said, Thou hast remembered me, O God: neither hast thou forsaken them that seek thee and love thee.

³⁹So Daniel arose, and did eat: and the angel of the Lord set Habbacuc in his own place again immediately.

⁴⁰Upon the seventh day the king went to bewail Daniel: and when he came to the den, he looked in, and behold, Daniel was sitting.

⁴¹Then cried the king with a loud voice, saying, Great art Lord God of Daniel, and there is none other beside thee.

⁴²And he drew him out, and cast those that were the cause of his destruction into the den: and they were devoured in a moment before his face.

The Prayer of Manasses

King of Judah

O Lord, Almighty God of our fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and of their righteous seed; who hast made heaven and earth, with all the ornament thereof; who hast bound the sea by the word of thy commandment; who hast shut up the deep, and sealed it by thy terrible and glorious name; whom all men fear, and tremble before thy power; for the majesty of thy glory cannot be borne, and thine angry threatening toward sinners is importable: but thy merciful promise is unmeasurable and unsearchable; for thou art the most high Lord, of great compassion, longsuffering, very merciful, and repentest of the evils of men. Thou, O Lord, according to thy great goodness hast promised repentance and forgiveness to them that have sinned against thee: and of thine infinite mercies hast appointed repentance unto sinners, that they may be saved. Thou therefore, O Lord, that art the God of the just, hast not appointed repentance to the just, as to Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, which have not sinned against thee; but thou hast appointed repentance unto me that am a sinner: for I have sinned above the number of the sands of the sea. My transgressions, O Lord, are multiplied:

my transgressions are multiplied, and I am not worthy to behold and see the height of heaven for the multitude of mine iniquities. I am bowed down with many iron bands, that I cannot life up mine head, neither have any release: for I have provoked thy wrath, and done evil before thee: I did not thy will, neither kept I thy commandments: I have set up abominations, and have multiplied offences. Now therefore I bow the knee of mine heart, beseeching thee of grace. I have sinned, O Lord, I have sinned, and I acknowledge mine iniquities: wherefore, I humbly beseech thee, forgive me, O Lord, forgive me, and destroy me not with mine iniquities. Be not angry with me for ever, by reserving evil for me; neither condemn me to the lower parts of the earth. For thou art the God, even the God of them that repent; and in me thou wilt shew all thy goodness: for thou wilt save me, that am unworthy, according to thy great mercy. Therefore I will praise thee for ever all the days of my life: for all the powers of the heavens do praise thee, and thine is the glory for ever and ever. Amen.

The First Book of the Maccabees

CHAPTER 1

¹And it happened, after that Alexander son of Philip, the Macedonian, who came out of the land of Chettiim, had smitten Darius king of the Persians and Medes, that he reigned in his stead, the first over Greece,

²And made many wars, and won many strong holds, and slew the kings of the earth,

³And went through to the ends of the earth, and took spoils of many nations, insomuch that the earth was quiet before him; whereupon he was exalted and his heart was lifted up.

⁴And he gathered a mighty strong host and ruled over countries, and nations, and kings, who became tributaries unto him.

⁵And after these things he fell sick, and perceived that he should die.

⁶Wherefore he called his servants, such as were honourable, and had been brought up with him from his youth, and parted his kingdom among them, while he was yet alive.

⁷So Alexander reigned twelve years, and then died.

⁸And his servants bare rule every one in his place.

⁹And after his death they all put crowns upon themselves; so did their sons after them many years: and evils were multiplied in the earth.

¹⁰And there came out of them a wicked root Antiochus surnamed Epiphanes, son of Antiochus the king, who had been an hostage at Rome, and he reigned in the hundred and thirty and seventh year of the kingdom of the Greeks.

¹¹In those days went there out of Israel wicked men, who persuaded many, saying, Let us go and make a covenant with the heathen that are round about us: for since we departed from them we have had much sorrow.

¹²So this device pleased them well.

¹³Then certain of the people were so forward herein, that they went to the king, who gave them licence to do after the ordinances of the heathen:

¹⁴Whereupon they built a place of exercise at Jerusalem according to the customs of the heathen:

¹⁵And made themselves uncircumcised, and forsook the holy covenant, and joined themselves to the heathen, and were sold to do mischief.

¹⁶Now when the kingdom was established before Antiochus, he thought to reign over Egypt that he might have the dominion of two realms.

¹⁷Wherefore he entered into Egypt with a great multitude, with chariots, and elephants, and horsemen, and a great navy,

1 Maccabees

¹⁸And made war against Ptolemee king of Egypt: but Ptolemee was afraid of him, and fled; and many were wounded to death.

¹⁹Thus they got the strong cities in the land of Egypt and he took the spoils thereof.

²⁰And after that Antiochus had smitten Egypt, he returned again in the hundred forty and third year, and went up against Israel and Jerusalem with a great multitude,

²¹And entered proudly into the sanctuary, and took away the golden altar, and the candlestick of light, and all the vessels thereof, ²²And the table of the shewbread, and the pouring vessels, and the vials, and the censers of gold, and the veil, and the crown, and the golden ornaments that were before the temple, all which he pulled off.

²³He took also the silver and the gold, and the precious vessels: also he took the hidden treasures which he found.

²⁴And when he had taken all away, he went into his own land, having made a great massacre, and spoken very proudly.

²⁵Therefore there was a great mourning in Israel, in every place where they were;

²⁶So that the princes and elders mourned, the virgins and young men were made feeble, and the beauty of women was changed.

²⁷Every bridegroom took up lamentation, and she that sat in the marriage chamber was in heaviness, ²⁸The land also was moved for the inhabitants thereof, and all the house of Jacob was covered with confusion.

²⁹And after two years fully expired the king sent his chief collector of tribute unto the cities of Juda, who came unto Jerusalem with a great multitude, ³⁰And spake peaceable words unto them, but all was deceit: for when they had given him credence, he fell suddenly upon the city, and smote it very sore, and destroyed much people of Israel.

³¹And when he had taken the spoils of the city, he set it on fire, and pulled down the houses and walls thereof on every side.

³²But the women and children took they captive, and possessed the cattle.

³³Then builded they the city of David with a great and strong wall, and with mighty towers, and made it a strong hold for them.

³⁴And they put therein a sinful nation, wicked men, and fortified themselves therein.

³⁵They stored it also with armour and victuals, and when they had gathered together the spoils of Jerusalem, they laid them up there, and so they became a sore snare:

³⁶For it was a place to lie in wait against the sanctuary, and an evil adversary to Israel.

1 Maccabees

³⁷Thus they shed innocent blood on every side of the sanctuary, and defiled it:

³⁸Insomuch that the inhabitants of Jerusalem fled because of them: whereupon the city was made an habitation of strangers, and became strange to those that were born in her; and her own children left her.

³⁹Her sanctuary was laid waste like a wilderness, her feasts were turned into mourning, her sabbaths into reproach her honour into contempt.

⁴⁰As had been her glory, so was her dis-honour increased, and her excellency was turned into mourning.

⁴¹Moreover king Antiochus wrote to his whole kingdom, that all should be one people, ⁴²And every one should leave his laws: so all the heathen agreed according to the commandment of the king.

⁴³Yea, many also of the Israelites consented to his religion, and sacrificed unto idols, and profaned the sabbath.

⁴⁴For the king had sent letters by messengers unto Jerusalem and the cities of Juda that they should follow the strange laws of the land, ⁴⁵And forbid burnt offerings, and sacrifice, and drink offerings, in the temple; and that they should profane the sabbaths and festival days:

⁴⁶And pollute the sanctuary and holy people:

⁴⁷Set up altars, and groves, and chapels of idols, and sacrifice swine's flesh, and unclean beasts:

⁴⁸That they should also leave their children uncircumcised, and make their souls abominable with all manner of uncleanness and profanation:

⁴⁹To the end they might forget the law, and change all the ordinances.

⁵⁰And whosoever would not do according to the commandment of the king, he said, he should die.

⁵¹In the selfsame manner wrote he to his whole kingdom, and appointed overseers over all the people, commanding the cities of Juda to sacrifice, city by city.

⁵²Then many of the people were gathered unto them, to wit every one that forsook the law; and so they committed evils in the land;

⁵³And drove the Israelites into secret places, even wheresoever they could flee for succour.

⁵⁴Now the fifteenth day of the month Casleu, in the hundred forty and fifth year, they set up the abomination of desolation upon the altar, and builded idol altars throughout the cities of Juda on every side;

⁵⁵And burnt incense at the doors of their houses, and in the streets.

⁵⁶And when they had rent in pieces the books of the law which they found, they burnt them with fire.

⁵⁷And whosoever was found with any the book of the testament, or if any committed to the law, the king's commandment was, that they should put him to death.

1 Maccabees

⁵⁸Thus did they by their authority unto the Israelites every month, to as many as were found in the cities.

⁵⁹Now the five and twentieth day of the month they did sacrifice upon the idol altar, which was upon the altar of God.

⁶⁰At which time according to the commandment they put to death certain women, that had caused their children to be circumcised.

⁶¹And they hanged the infants about their necks, and rifled their houses, and slew them that had circumcised them.

⁶²Howbeit many in Israel were fully resolved and confirmed in themselves not to eat any unclean thing.

⁶³Wherefore the rather to die, that they might not be defiled with meats, and that they might not profane the holy covenant: so then they died.

⁶⁴And there was very great wrath upon Israel.

CHAPTER 2

¹In those days arose Mattathias the son of John, the son of Simeon, a priest of the sons of Joarib, from Jerusalem, and dwelt in Modin.

²And he had five sons, Joannan, called Caddis:

³Simon; called Thassi:

⁴Judas, who was called Maccabeus:

⁵Eleazar, called Avaran: and Jonathan, whose surname was Apphus.

⁶And when he saw the blasphemies that were committed in Juda and Jerusalem, ⁷He said, Woe is me! wherefore was I born to see this misery of my people, and of the holy city, and to dwell there, when it was delivered into the hand of the enemy, and the sanctuary into the hand of strangers?

⁸Her temple is become as a man without glory.

⁹Her glorious vessels are carried away into captivity, her infants are slain in the streets, her young men with the sword of the enemy.

¹⁰What nation hath not had a part in her kingdom and gotten of her spoils?

¹¹All her ornaments are taken away; of a free woman she is become a bondslave.

¹²And, behold, our sanctuary, even our beauty and our glory, is laid waste, and the Gentiles have profaned it.

¹³To what end therefore shall we live any longer?

¹⁴Then Mattathias and his sons rent their clothes, and put on sackcloth, and mourned very sore.

¹⁵In the mean while the king's officers, such as compelled the people to revolt, came into the city Modin, to make them sacrifice.

¹⁶And when many of Israel came unto them, Mattathias also and his sons came together.

¹⁷Then answered the king's officers, and said to Mattathias on this wise, Thou art a ruler, and an honourable and great man in this city, and strengthened with sons and brethren:

¹⁸Now therefore come thou first, and fulfil the king's commandment, like as all the heathen have done, yea, and the men of Juda also, and such as remain at Jerusalem: so shalt thou and thy house be in the number of the king's friends, and thou and thy children shall be honoured with silver and gold, and many rewards.

¹⁹Then Mattathias answered and spake with a loud voice, Though all the nations that are under the king's dominion obey him, and fall away every one from the religion of their fathers, and give consent to his commandments:

²⁰Yet will I and my sons and my brethren walk in the covenant of our fathers.

²¹God forbid that we should forsake the law and the ordinances.

²²We will not hearken to the king's words, to go from our religion, either on the right hand, or the left.

²³Now when he had left speaking these words, there came one of the Jews in the sight of all to sacrifice on the altar which was at Modin, according to the king's commandment.

²⁴Which thing when Mattathias saw, he was inflamed with zeal, and his reins trembled, neither could he forbear to shew his anger according to judgment: wherefore he ran, and slew him upon the altar.

²⁵Also the king's commissioner, who compelled men to sacrifice, he killed at that time, and the altar he pulled down.

²⁶Thus dealt he zealously for the law of God like as Phinees did unto Zambri the son of Salom.

²⁷And Mattathias cried throughout the city with a loud voice, saying, Whosoever is zealous of the law, and maintaineth the covenant, let him follow me.

²⁸So he and his sons fled into the mountains, and left all that ever they had in the city.

²⁹Then many that sought after justice and judgment went down into the wilderness, to dwell there:

³⁰Both they, and their children, and their wives; and their cattle; because afflictions increased sore upon them.

³¹Now when it was told the king's servants, and the host that was at Jerusalem, in the city of David, that certain men, who had broken the king's commandment, were gone down into the secret places in the wilderness, ³²They pursued after them a great number, and having overtaken them, they camped against them, and made war against them on the sabbath day.

³³And they said unto them, Let that which ye have done hitherto suffice; come forth, and do according to the commandment of the king, and ye shall live.

³⁴But they said, We will not come forth, neither will we do the king's commandment, to profane the sabbath day.

1 Maccabees

³⁵So then they gave them the battle with all speed.

³⁶Howbeit they answered them not, neither cast they a stone at them, nor stopped the places where they lay hid;

³⁷But said, Let us die all in our innocency: heaven and earth will testify for us, that ye put us to death wrongfully.

³⁸So they rose up against them in battle on the sabbath, and they slew them, with their wives and children and their cattle, to the number of a thousand people.

³⁹Now when Mattathias and his friends understood hereof, they mourned for them right sore.

⁴⁰And one of them said to another, If we all do as our brethren have done, and fight not for our lives and laws against the heathen, they will now quickly root us out of the earth.

⁴¹At that time therefore they decreed, saying, Whosoever shall come to make battle with us on the sabbath day, we will fight against him; neither will we die all, as our brethren that were murdered in the secret places.

⁴²Then came there unto him a company of Assideans who were mighty men of Israel, even all such as were voluntarily devoted unto the law.

⁴³Also all they that fled for persecution joined themselves unto them, and were a stay unto them.

⁴⁴So they joined their forces, and smote sinful men in their anger, and wicked men in their wrath: but the rest fled to the heathen for succour.

⁴⁵Then Mattathias and his friends went round about, and pulled down the altars:

⁴⁶And what children soever they found within the coast of Israel uncircumcised, those they circumcised valiantly.

⁴⁷They pursued also after the proud men, and the work prospered in their hand.

⁴⁸So they recovered the law out of the hand of the Gentiles, and out of the hand of kings, neither suffered they the sinner to triumph.

⁴⁹Now when the time drew near that Mattathias should die, he said unto his sons, Now hath pride and rebuke gotten strength, and the time of destruction, and the wrath of indignation:

⁵⁰Now therefore, my sons, be ye zealous for the law, and give your lives for the covenant of your fathers.

⁵¹Call to remembrance what acts our fathers did in their time; so shall ye receive great honour and an everlasting name.

⁵²Was not Abraham found faithful in temptation, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness?

⁵³Joseph in the time of his distress kept the commandment and was made lord of Egypt.

⁵⁴Phinees our father in being zealous and fervent obtained the covenant of an everlasting priesthood.

1 Maccabees

⁵⁵Jesus for fulfilling the word was made a judge in Israel.

⁵⁶Caleb for bearing witness before the congregation received the heritage of the land.

⁵⁷David for being merciful possessed the throne of an everlasting kingdom.

⁵⁸Elias for being zealous and fervent for the law was taken up into heaven.

⁵⁹Ananias, Azarias, and Misael, by believing were saved out of the flame.

⁶⁰Daniel for his innocency was delivered from the mouth of lions.

⁶¹And thus consider ye throughout all ages, that none that put their trust in him shall be overcome.

⁶²Fear not then the words of a sinful man: for his glory shall be dung and worms.

⁶³To day he shall be lifted up and to morrow he shall not be found, because he is returned into his dust, and his thought is come to nothing.

⁶⁴Wherefore, ye my sons, be valiant and shew yourselves men in the behalf of the law; for by it shall ye obtain glory.

⁶⁵And behold, I know that your brother Simon is a man of counsel, give ear unto him alway: he shall be a father unto you.

⁶⁶As for Judas Maccabeus, he hath been mighty and strong, even from his youth up: let him be your captain, and fight the battle of the people.

⁶⁷Take also unto you all those that observe the law, and avenge ye the wrong of your people.

⁶⁸Recompense fully the heathen, and take heed to the commandments of the law.

⁶⁹So he blessed them, and was gathered to his fathers.

⁷⁰And he died in the hundred forty and sixth year, and his sons buried him in the sepulchres of his fathers at Modin, and all Israel made great lamentation for him.

CHAPTER 3

¹Then his son Judas, called Maccabeus, rose up in his stead.

²And all his brethren helped him, and so did all they that held with his father, and they fought with cheerfulness the battle of Israel.

³So he gat his people great honour, and put on a breastplate as a giant, and girt his warlike harness about him, and he made battles, protecting the host with his sword.

⁴In his acts he was like a lion, and like a lion's whelp roaring for his prey.

⁵For He pursued the wicked, and sought them out, and burnt up those that vexed his people.

⁶Wherefore the wicked shrunk for fear of him, and all the workers of iniquity were troubled, because salvation prospered in his hand.

⁷He grieved also many kings, and made Jacob glad with his acts, and his memorial is blessed for ever.

⁸Moreover he went through the cities of Juda, destroying the ungodly out of them, and turning away wrath from Israel:

1 Maccabees

⁹So that he was renowned unto the utmost part of the earth, and he received unto him such as were ready to perish.

¹⁰Then Apollonius gathered the Gentiles together, and a great host out of Samaria, to fight against Israel.

¹¹Which thing when Judas perceived, he went forth to meet him, and so he smote him, and slew him: many also fell down slain, but the rest fled.

¹²Wherefore Judas took their spoils, and Apollonius' sword also, and therewith he fought all his life long.

¹³Now when Seron, a prince of the army of Syria, heard say that Judas had gathered unto him a multitude and company of the faithful to go out with him to war;

¹⁴He said, I will get me a name and honour in the kingdom; for I will go fight with Judas and them that are with him, who despise the king's commandment.

¹⁵So he made him ready to go up, and there went with him a mighty host of the ungodly to help him, and to be avenged of the children of Israel.

¹⁶And when he came near to the going up of Bethhoron, Judas went forth to meet him with a small company:

¹⁷Who, when they saw the host coming to meet them, said unto Judas, How shall we be able, being so few, to fight against so great a multitude and so strong, seeing we are ready to faint with fasting all this day?

¹⁸Unto whom Judas answered, It is no hard matter for many to be shut up in the hands of a few; and with the God of heaven it is all one, to deliver with a great multitude, or a small company:

¹⁹For the victory of battle standeth not in the multitude of an host; but strength cometh from heaven.

²⁰They come against us in much pride and iniquity to destroy us, and our wives and children, and to spoil us:

²¹But we fight for our lives and our laws.

²²Wherefore the Lord himself will overthrow them before our face: and as for you, be ye not afraid of them.

²³Now as soon as he had left off speaking, he leapt suddenly upon them, and so Seron and his host was overthrown before him.

²⁴And they pursued them from the going down of Bethhoron unto the plain, where were slain about eight hundred men of them; and the residue fled into the land of the Philistines.

²⁵Then began the fear of Judas and his brethren, and an exceeding great dread, to fall upon the nations round about them:

²⁶Insomuch as his fame came unto the king, and all nations talked of the battles of Judas.

²⁷Now when king Antiochus heard these things, he was full of indignation: wherefore he sent and gathered together all the forces of his realm, even a very strong army.

1 Maccabees

²⁸He opened also his treasure, and gave his soldiers pay for a year, commanding them to be ready whensoever he should need them.

²⁹Nevertheless, when he saw that the money of his treasures failed and that the tributes in the country were small, because of the dissension and plague, which he had brought upon the land in taking away the laws which had been of old time;

³⁰He feared that he should not be able to bear the charges any longer, nor to have such gifts to give so liberally as he did before: for he had abounded above the kings that were before him.

³¹Wherefore, being greatly perplexed in his mind, he determined to go into Persia, there to take the tributes of the countries, and to gather much money.

³²So he left Lysias, a nobleman, and one of the blood royal, to oversee the affairs of the king from the river Euphrates unto the borders of Egypt:

³³And to bring up his son Antiochus, until he came again.

³⁴Moreover he delivered unto him the half of his forces, and the elephants, and gave him charge of all things that he would have done, as also concerning them that dwelt in Juda and Jerusalem:

³⁵To wit, that he should send an army against them, to destroy and root out the strength of Israel, and the remnant of Jerusalem, and to take away their memorial from that place;

³⁶And that he should place strangers in all their quarters, and divide their land by lot.

³⁷So the king took the half of the forces that remained, and departed from Antioch, his royal city, the hundred forty and seventh year; and having passed the river Euphrates, he went through the high countries.

³⁸Then Lysias chose Ptolemee the son of Dorymenes, Nicanor, and Gorgias, mighty men of the king's friends:

³⁹And with them he sent forty thousand footmen, and seven thousand horsemen, to go into the land of Juda, and to destroy it, as the king commanded.

⁴⁰So they went forth with all their power, and came and pitched by Emmaus in the plain country.

⁴¹And the merchants of the country, hearing the fame of them, took silver and gold very much, with servants, and came into the camp to buy the children of Israel for slaves: a power also of Syria and of the land of the Philistines joined themselves unto them.

⁴²Now when Judas and his brethren saw that miseries were multiplied, and that the forces did encamp themselves in their borders: for they knew how the king had given commandment to destroy the people, and utterly abolish them;

⁴³They said one to another, Let us restore the decayed fortune of our people, and let us fight for our people and the sanctuary.

1 Maccabees

⁴⁴Then was the congregation gathered together, that they might be ready for battle, and that they might pray, and ask mercy and compassion.

⁴⁵Now Jerusalem lay void as a wilderness, there was none of her children that went in or out: the sanctuary also was trodden down, and aliens kept the strong hold; the heathen had their habitation in that place; and joy was taken from Jacob, and the pipe with the harp ceased.

⁴⁶Wherefore the Israelites assembled themselves together, and came to Maspha, over against Jerusalem; for in Maspha was the place where they prayed aforetime in Israel.

⁴⁷Then they fasted that day, and put on sackcloth, and cast ashes upon their heads, and rent their clothes, ⁴⁸And laid open the book of the law, wherein the heathen had sought to paint the likeness of their images.

⁴⁹They brought also the priests' garments, and the firstfruits, and the tithes: and the Nazarites they stirred up, who had accomplished their days.

⁵⁰Then cried they with a loud voice toward heaven, saying, What shall we do with these, and whither shall we carry them away?

⁵¹For thy sanctuary is trodden down and profaned, and thy priests are in heaviness, and brought low.

⁵²And lo, the heathen are assembled together against us to destroy us: what things they imagine against us, thou knowest.

⁵³How shall we be able to stand against them, except thou, O God, be our help?

⁵⁴Then sounded they with trumpets, and cried with a loud voice.

⁵⁵And after this Judas ordained captains over the people, even captains over thousands, and over hundreds, and over fifties, and over tens.

⁵⁶But as for such as were building houses, or had betrothed wives, or were planting vineyards, or were fearful, those he commanded that they should return, every man to his own house, according to the law.

⁵⁷So the camp removed, and pitched upon the south side of Emmaus.

⁵⁸And Judas said, arm yourselves, and be valiant men, and see that ye be in readiness against the morning, that ye may fight with these nations, that are assembled together against us to destroy us and our sanctuary:

⁵⁹For it is better for us to die in battle, than to behold the calamities of our people and our sanctuary.

⁶⁰Nevertheless, as the will of God is in heaven, so let him do.

CHAPTER 4

¹Then took Gorgias five thousand footmen, and a thousand of the best horsemen, and removed out of the camp by night;

²To the end he might rush in upon the camp of the Jews, and smite them suddenly. And the men of the fortress were his guides.

1 Maccabees

³Now when Judas heard thereof he himself removed, and the valiant men with him, that he might smite the king's army which was at Emmaus, ⁴While as yet the forces were dispersed from the camp.

⁵In the mean season came Gorgias by night into the camp of Judas: and when he found no man there, he sought them in the mountains: for said he, These fellows flee from us ⁶But as soon as it was day, Judas shewed himself in the plain with three thousand men, who nevertheless had neither armour nor swords to their minds.

⁷And they saw the camp of the heathen, that it was strong and well harnessed, and compassed round about with horsemen; and these were expert of war.

⁸Then said Judas to the men that were with him, Fear ye not their multitude, neither be ye afraid of their assault.

⁹Remember how our fathers were delivered in the Red sea, when Pharaoh pursued them with an army.

¹⁰Now therefore let us cry unto heaven, if peradventure the Lord will have mercy upon us, and remember the covenant of our fathers, and destroy this host before our face this day:

¹¹That so all the heathen may know that there is one who delivereth and saveth Israel.

¹²Then the strangers lifted up their eyes, and saw them coming over against them.

¹³Wherefore they went out of the camp to battle; but they that were with Judas sounded their trumpets.

¹⁴So they joined battle, and the heathen being discomfited fled into the plain.

¹⁵Howbeit all the hindmost of them were slain with the sword: for they pursued them unto Gazera, and unto the plains of Idumea, and Azotus, and Jamnia, so that there were slain of them upon a three thousand men.

¹⁶This done, Judas returned again with his host from pursuing them,

¹⁷And said to the people, Be not greedy of the spoil inasmuch as there is a battle before us, ¹⁸And Gorgias and his host are here by us in the mountain: but stand ye now against our enemies, and overcome them, and after this ye may boldly take the spoils.

¹⁹As Judas was yet speaking these words, there appeared a part of them looking out of the mountain:

²⁰Who when they perceived that the Jews had put their host to flight and were burning the tents; for the smoke that was seen declared what was done:

²¹When therefore they perceived these things, they were sore afraid, and seeing also the host of Judas in the plain ready to fight, ²²They fled every one into the land of strangers.

1 Maccabees

²³Then Judas returned to spoil the tents, where they got much gold, and silver, and blue silk, and purple of the sea, and great riches.

²⁴After this they went home, and sung a song of thanksgiving, and praised the Lord in heaven: because it is good, because his mercy endureth forever.

²⁵Thus Israel had a great deliverance that day.

²⁶Now all the strangers that had escaped came and told Lysias what had happened:

²⁷Who, when he heard thereof, was confounded and discouraged, because neither such things as he would were done unto Israel, nor such things as the king commanded him were come to pass.

²⁸The next year therefore following Lysias gathered together threescore thousand choice men of foot, and five thousand horsemen, that he might subdue them.

²⁹So they came into Idumea, and pitched their tents at Bethsura, and Judas met them with ten thousand men.

³⁰And when he saw that mighty army, he prayed and said, Blessed art thou, O Saviour of Israel, who didst quell the violence of the mighty man by the hand of thy servant David, and gavest the host of strangers into the hands of Jonathan the son of Saul, and his armourbearer;

³¹Shut up this army in the hand of thy people Israel, and let them be confounded in their power and horsemen:

³²Make them to be of no courage, and cause the boldness of their strength to fall away, and let them quake at their destruction:

³³Cast them down with the sword of them that love thee, and let all those that know thy name praise thee with thanksgiving.

³⁴So they joined battle; and there were slain of the host of Lysias about five thousand men, even before them were they slain.

³⁵Now when Lysias saw his army put to flight, and the manliness of Judas' soldiers, and how they were ready either to live or die valiantly, he went into Antiochia, and gathered together a company of strangers, and having made his army greater than it was, he purposed to come again into Judea.

³⁶Then said Judas and his brethren, Behold, our enemies are discomfited: let us go up to cleanse and dedicate the sanctuary.

³⁷Upon this all the host assembled themselves together, and went up into mount Sion.

³⁸And when they saw the sanctuary desolate, and the altar profaned, and the gates burned up, and shrubs growing in the courts as in a forest, or in one of the mountains, yea, and the priests' chambers pulled down;

³⁹They rent their clothes, and made great lamentation, and cast ashes upon their heads,

1 Maccabees

⁴⁰And fell down flat to the ground upon their faces, and blew an alarm with the trumpets, and cried toward heaven.

⁴¹Then Judas appointed certain men to fight against those that were in the fortress, until he had cleansed the sanctuary.

⁴²So he chose priests of blameless conversation, such as had pleasure in the law: ⁴³Who cleansed the sanctuary, and bare out the defiled stones into an unclean place.

⁴⁴And when as they consulted what to do with the altar of burnt offerings, which was profaned;

⁴⁵They thought it best to pull it down, lest it should be a reproach to them, because the heathen had defiled it: wherefore they pulled it down, ⁴⁶And laid up the stones in the mountain of the temple in a convenient place, until there should come a prophet to shew what should be done with them.

⁴⁷Then they took whole stones according to the law, and built a new altar according to the former;

⁴⁸And made up the sanctuary, and the things that were within the temple, and hallowed the courts.

⁴⁹They made also new holy vessels, and into the temple they brought the candlestick, and the altar of burnt offerings, and of incense, and the table.

⁵⁰And upon the altar they burned incense, and the lamps that were upon the candlestick they lighted, that they might give light in the temple.

⁵¹Furthermore they set the loaves upon the table, and spread out the veils, and finished all the works which they had begun to make.

⁵²Now on the five and twentieth day of the ninth month, which is called the month Casleu, in the hundred forty and eighth year, they rose up betimes in the morning, ⁵³And offered sacrifice according to the law upon the new altar of burnt offerings, which they had made.

⁵⁴Look, at what time and what day the heathen had profaned it, even in that was it dedicated with songs, and citherns, and harps, and cymbals.

⁵⁵Then all the people fell upon their faces, worshipping and praising the God of heaven, who had given them good success.

⁵⁶And so they kept the dedication of the altar eight days and offered burnt offerings with gladness, and sacrificed the sacrifice of deliverance and praise.

⁵⁷They decked also the forefront of the temple with crowns of gold, and with shields; and the gates and the chambers they renewed, and hanged doors upon them.

⁵⁸Thus was there very great gladness among the people, for that the reproach of the heathen was put away.

⁵⁹Moreover Judas and his brethren with the whole congregation of Israel ordained, that the days of the dedication of the altar should be kept in their season from year to year by the space of eight days, from the five and twentieth day of the month Casleu, with mirth and gladness.

⁶⁰At that time also they builded up the mount Sion with high walls and strong towers round about, lest the Gentiles should come and tread it down as they had done before.

⁶¹And they set there a garrison to keep it, and fortified Bethsura to preserve it; that the people might have a defence against Idumea.

CHAPTER 5

¹Now when the nations round about heard that the altar was built and the sanctuary renewed as before, it displeased them very much.

²Wherefore they thought to destroy the generation of Jacob that was among them, and thereupon they began to slay and destroy the people.

³Then Judas fought against the children of Esau in Idumea at Arabattine, because they besieged Gael: and he gave them a great overthrow, and abated their courage, and took their spoils.

⁴Also he remembered the injury of the children of Bean, who had been a snare and an offence unto the people, in that they lay in wait for them in the ways.

⁵He shut them up therefore in the towers, and encamped against them, and destroyed them utterly, and burned the towers of that place with fire, and all that were therein.

⁶Afterward he passed over to the children of Ammon, where he found a mighty power, and much people, with Timotheus their captain.

⁷So he fought many battles with them, till at length they were discomfited before him; and he smote them.

⁸And when he had taken Jazar, with the towns belonging thereto, he returned into Judea.

⁹Then the heathen that were at Galaad assembled themselves together against the Israelites that were in their quarters, to destroy them; but they fled to the fortress of Dathema.

¹⁰And sent letters unto Judas and his brethren, The heathen that are round about us are assembled together against us to destroy us:

¹¹And they are preparing to come and take the fortress whereunto we are fled, Timotheus being captain of their host.

¹²Come now therefore, and deliver us from their hands, for many of us are slain:

¹³Yea, all our brethren that were in the places of Tobie are put to death: their wives and their children also they have carried away captives, and borne away their stuff; and they have destroyed there about a thousand men.

¹⁴While these letters were yet reading, behold, there came other messengers from Galilee with their clothes rent, who reported on this wise,

¹⁵And said, They of Ptolemais, and of Tyrus, and Sidon, and all Galilee of the Gentiles, are assembled together against us to consume us.

1 Maccabees

¹⁶Now when Judas and the people heard these words, there assembled a great congregation together, to consult what they should do for their brethren, that were in trouble, and assaulted of them.

¹⁷Then said Judas unto Simon his brother, Choose thee out men, and go and deliver thy brethren that are in Galilee, for I and Jonathan my brother will go into the country of Galaad.

¹⁸So he left Joseph the son of Zacharias, and Azarias, captains of the people, with the remnant of the host in Judea to keep it.

¹⁹Unto whom he gave commandment, saying, Take ye the charge of this people, and see that ye make not war against the heathen until the time that we come again.

²⁰Now unto Simon were given three thousand men to go into Galilee, and unto Judas eight thousand men for the country of Galaad.

²¹Then went Simon into Galilee, where he fought many battles with the heathen, so that the heathen were discomfited by him.

²²And he pursued them unto the gate of Ptolemais; and there were slain of the heathen about three thousand men, whose spoils he took.

²³And those that were in Galilee, and in Arbattis, with their wives and their children, and all that they had, took he away with him, and brought them into Judea with great joy.

²⁴Judas Maccabeus also and his brother Jonathan went over Jordan, and travelled three days' journey in the wilderness, ²⁵Where they met with the Nabathites, who came unto them in a peaceable manner, and told them every thing that had happened to their brethren in the land of Galaad:

²⁶And how that many of them were shut up in Bosora, and Bosor, and Alema, Casphor, Maked, and Carnaim; all these cities are strong and great:

²⁷And that they were shut up in the rest of the cities of the country of Galaad, and that against to morrow they had appointed to bring their host against the forts, and to take them, and to destroy them all in one day.

²⁸Hereupon Judas and his host turned suddenly by the way of the wilderness unto Bosora; and when he had won the city, he slew all the males with the edge of the sword, and took all their spoils, and burned the city with fire, ²⁹From whence he removed by night, and went till he came to the fortress.

³⁰And betimes in the morning they looked up, and, behold, there was an innumerable people bearing ladders and other engines of war, to take the fortress: for they assaulted them.

³¹When Judas therefore saw that the battle was begun, and that the cry of the city went up to heaven, with trumpets, and a great sound,

1 Maccabees

³²He said unto his host, Fight this day for your brethren.

³³So he went forth behind them in three companies, who sounded their trumpets, and cried with prayer.

³⁴Then the host of Timotheus, knowing that it was Maccabeus, fled from him: wherefore he smote them with a great slaughter; so that there were killed of them that day about eight thousand men.

³⁵This done, Judas turned aside to Maspha; and after he had assaulted it he took and slew all the males therein, and received the spoils thereof and and burnt it with fire.

³⁶From thence went he, and took Casphon, Maged, Bosor, and the other cities of the country of Galaad.

³⁷After these things gathered Timotheus another host and encamped against Raphon beyond the brook.

³⁸So Judas sent men to espy the host, who brought him word, saying, All the heathen that be round about us are assembled unto them, even a very great host.

³⁹He hath also hired the Arabians to help them and they have pitched their tents beyond the brook, ready to come and fight against thee. Upon this Judas went to meet them.

⁴⁰Then Timotheus said unto the captains of his host, When Judas and his host come near the brook, if he pass over first unto us, we shall not be able to withstand him; for he will mightily prevail against us:

⁴¹But if he be afraid, and camp beyond the river, we shall go over unto him, and prevail against him.

⁴²Now when Judas came near the brook, he caused the scribes of the people to remain by the brook: unto whom he gave commandment, saying, Suffer no man to remain in the camp, but let all come to the battle.

⁴³So he went first over unto them, and all the people after him: then all the heathen, being discomfited before him, cast away their weapons, and fled unto the temple that was at Carnaim.

⁴⁴But they took the city, and burned the temple with all that were therein. Thus was Carnaim subdued, neither could they stand any longer before Judas.

⁴⁵Then Judas gathered together all the Israelites that were in the country of Galaad, from the least unto the greatest, even their wives, and their children, and their stuff, a very great host, to the end they might come into the land of Judea.

⁴⁶Now when they came unto Ephron, (this was a great city in the way as they should go, very well fortified) they could not turn from it, either on the right hand or the left, but must needs pass through the midst of it.

⁴⁷Then they of the city shut them out, and stopped up the gates with stones.

⁴⁸Whereupon Judas sent unto them in peaceable manner, saying, Let us pass through your land to go into our own country, and none shall do you any hurt; we will only pass through on foot: howbeit they would not open unto him.

⁴⁹Wherefore Judas commanded a proclamation to be made throughout the host, that every man should pitch his tent in the place where he was.

⁵⁰So the soldiers pitched, and assaulted the city all that day and all that night, till at the length the city was delivered into his hands:

⁵¹Who then slew all the males with the edge of the sword, and rased the city, and took the spoils thereof, and passed through the city over them that were slain.

⁵²After this went they over Jordan into the great plain before Bethsan.

⁵³And Judas gathered together those that came behind, and exhorted the people all the way through, till they came into the land of Judea.

⁵⁴So they went up to mount Sion with joy and gladness, where they offered burnt offerings, because not one of them were slain until they had returned in peace.

⁵⁵Now what time as Judas and Jonathan were in the land of Galaad, and Simon his brother in Galilee before Ptolemais, ⁵⁶Joseph the son of Zacharias, and Azarias, captains of the garrisons, heard of the valiant acts and warlike deeds which they had done.

⁵⁷Wherefore they said, Let us also get us a name, and go fight against the heathen that are round about us.

⁵⁸So when they had given charge unto the garrison that was with them, they went toward Jamnia.

⁵⁹Then came Gorgias and his men out of the city to fight against them.

⁶⁰And so it was, that Joseph and Azaras were put to flight, and pursued unto the borders of Judea: and there were slain that day of the people of Israel about two thousand men.

⁶¹Thus was there a great overthrow among the children of Israel, because they were not obedient unto Judas and his brethren, but thought to do some valiant act.

⁶²Moreover these men came not of the seed of those, by whose hand deliverance was given unto Israel.

⁶³Howbeit the man Judas and his brethren were greatly renowned in the sight of all Israel, and of all the heathen, wheresoever their name was heard of;

⁶⁴Insomuch as the the people assembled unto them with joyful acclamations.

⁶⁵Afterward went Judas forth with his brethren, and fought against the children of Esau in the land toward the south, where he smote Hebron, and the towns thereof, and pulled down the fortress of it, and burned the towers thereof round about.

⁶⁶From thence he removed to go into the land of the Philistines, and passed through Samaria.

⁶⁷At that time certain priests, desirous to shew their valour, were slain in battle, for that they went out to fight unadvisedly.

1 Maccabees

⁶⁸So Judas turned to Azotus in the land of the Philistines, and when he had pulled down their altars, and burned their carved images with fire, and spoiled their cities, he returned into the land of Judea.

CHAPTER 6

¹About that time king Antiochus travelling through the high countries heard say, that Elymais in the country of Persia was a city greatly renowned for riches, silver, and gold;

²And that there was in it a very rich temple, wherein were coverings of gold, and breastplates, and shields, which Alexander, son of Philip, the Macedonian king, who reigned first among the Grecians, had left there.

³Wherefore he came and sought to take the city, and to spoil it; but he was not able, because they of the city, having had warning thereof, ⁴Rose up against him in battle: so he fled, and departed thence with great heaviness, and returned to Babylon.

⁵Moreover there came one who brought him tidings into Persia, that the armies, which went against the land of Judea, were put to flight:

⁶And that Lysias, who went forth first with a great power was driven away of the Jews; and that they were made strong by the armour, and power, and store of spoils, which they had gotten of the armies, whom they had destroyed:

⁷Also that they had pulled down the abomination, which he had set up upon the altar in Jerusalem, and that they had compassed about the sanctuary with high walls, as before, and his city Bethsura.

⁸Now when the king heard these words, he was astonished and sore moved: whereupon he laid him down upon his bed, and fell sick for grief, because it had not befallen him as he looked for.

⁹And there he continued many days: for his grief was ever more and more, and he made account that he should die.

¹⁰Wherefore he called for all his friends, and said unto them, The sleep is gone from mine eyes, and my heart faileth for very care.

¹¹And I thought with myself, Into what tribulation am I come, and how great a flood of misery is it, wherein now I am! for I was bountiful and beloved in my power.

¹²But now I remember the evils that I did at Jerusalem, and that I took all the vessels of gold and silver that were therein, and sent to destroy the inhabitants of Judea without a cause.

¹³I perceive therefore that for this cause these troubles are come upon me, and, behold, I perish through great grief in a strange land.

¹⁴Then called he for Philip, one of his friends, who he made ruler over all his realm, ¹⁵And gave him the crown, and his robe, and his signet, to the end he should bring up his son Antiochus, and nourish him up for the kingdom.

1 Maccabees

¹⁶So king Antiochus died there in the hundred forty and ninth year.

¹⁷Now when Lysias knew that the king was dead, he set up Antiochus his son, whom he had brought up being young, to reign in his stead, and his name he called Eupator.

¹⁸About this time they that were in the tower shut up the Israelites round about the sanctuary, and sought always their hurt, and the strengthening of the heathen.

¹⁹Wherefore Judas, purposing to destroy them, called all the people together to besiege them.

²⁰So they came together, and besieged them in the hundred and fiftieth year, and he made mounts for shot against them, and other engines.

²¹Howbeit certain of them that were besieged got forth, unto whom some ungodly men of Israel joined themselves:

²²And they went unto the king, and said, How long will it be ere thou execute judgment, and avenge our brethren?

²³We have been willing to serve thy father, and to do as he would have us, and to obey his commandments;

²⁴For which cause they of our nation besiege the tower, and are alienated from us: moreover as many of us as they could light on they slew, and spoiled our inheritance.

²⁵Neither have they stretched out their hand against us only, but also against their borders.

²⁶And, behold, this day are they besieging the tower at Jerusalem, to take it: the sanctuary also and Bethsura have they fortified.

²⁷Wherefore if thou dost not prevent them quickly, they will do the greater things than these, neither shalt thou be able to rule them.

²⁸Now when the king heard this, he was angry, and gathered together all his friends, and the captains of his army, and those that had charge of the horse.

²⁹There came also unto him from other kingdoms, and from isles of the sea, bands of hired soldiers.

³⁰So that the number of his army was an hundred thousand footmen, and twenty thousand horsemen, and two and thirty elephants exercised in battle.

³¹These went through Idumea, and pitched against Bethsura, which they assaulted many days, making engines of war; but they of Bethsura came out, and burned them with fire, and fought valiantly.

³²Upon this Judas removed from the tower, and pitched in Bathzacharias, over against the king's camp.

³³Then the king rising very early marched fiercely with his host toward Bathzacharias, where his armies made them ready to battle, and sounded the trumpets.

³⁴And to the end they might provoke the elephants to fight, they shewed them the blood of grapes and mulberries.

1 Maccabees

³⁵Moreover they divided the beasts among the armies, and for every elephant they appointed a thousand men, armed with coats of mail, and with helmets of brass on their heads; and beside this, for every beast were ordained five hundred horsemen of the best.

³⁶These were ready at every occasion: wheresoever the beast was, and whithersoever the beast went, they went also, neither departed they from him.

³⁷And upon the beasts were there strong towers of wood, which covered every one of them, and were girt fast unto them with devices: there were also upon every one two and thirty strong men, that fought upon them, beside the Indian that ruled him.

³⁸As for the remnant of the horsemen, they set them on this side and that side at the two parts of the host giving them signs what to do, and being harnessed all over amidst the ranks.

³⁹Now when the sun shone upon the shields of gold and brass, the mountains glistened therewith, and shined like lamps of fire.

⁴⁰So part of the king's army being spread upon the high mountains, and part on the valleys below, they marched on safely and in order.

⁴¹Wherefore all that heard the noise of their multitude, and the marching of the company, and the rattling of the harness, were moved: for the army was very great and mighty.

⁴²Then Judas and his host drew near, and entered into battle, and there were slain of the king's army six hundred men.

⁴³Eleazar also, surnamed Savaran, perceiving that one of the beasts, armed with royal harness, was higher than all the rest, and supposing that the king was upon him,

⁴⁴Put himself in jeopardy, to the end he might deliver his people, and get him a perpetual name:

⁴⁵Wherefore he ran upon him courageously through the midst of the battle, slaying on the right hand and on the left, so that they were divided from him on both sides.

⁴⁶Which done, he crept under the elephant, and thrust him under, and slew him: whereupon the elephant fell down upon him, and there he died.

⁴⁷Howbeit the rest of the Jews seeing the strength of the king, and the violence of his forces, turned away from them.

⁴⁸Then the king's army went up to Jerusalem to meet them, and the king pitched his tents against Judea, and against mount Sion.

⁴⁹But with them that were in Bethsura he made peace: for they came out of the city, because they had no victuals there to endure the siege, it being a year of rest to the land.

⁵⁰So the king took Bethsura, and set a garrison there to keep it.

1 Maccabees

⁵¹As for the sanctuary, he besieged it many days: and set there artillery with engines and instruments to cast fire and stones, and pieces to cast darts and slings.

⁵²Whereupon they also made engines against their engines, and held them battle a long season.

⁵³Yet at the last, their vessels being without victuals, (for that it was the seventh year, and they in Judea that were delivered from the Gentiles, had eaten up the residue of the store;)

⁵⁴There were but a few left in the sanctuary, because the famine did so prevail against them, that they were fain to disperse themselves, every man to his own place.

⁵⁵At that time Lysias heard say, that Philip, whom Antiochus the king, whiles he lived, had appointed to bring up his son Antiochus, that he might be king, ⁵⁶Was returned out of Persia and Media, and the king's host also that went with him, and that he sought to take unto him the ruling of the affairs.

⁵⁷Wherefore he went in all haste, and said to the king and the captains of the host and the company, We decay daily, and our victuals are but small, and the place we lay siege unto is strong, and the affairs of the kingdom lie upon us:

⁵⁸Now therefore let us be friends with these men, and make peace with them, and with all their nation;

⁵⁹And covenant with them, that they shall live after their laws, as they did before: for they are therefore displeased, and have done all these things, because we abolished their laws.

⁶⁰So the king and the princes were content: wherefore he sent unto them to make peace; and they accepted thereof.

⁶¹Also the king and the princes made an oath unto them: whereupon they went out of the strong hold.

⁶²Then the king entered into mount Sion; but when he saw the strength of the place, he broke his oath that he had made, and gave commandment to pull down the wall round about.

⁶³Afterward departed he in all haste, and returned unto Antiochia, where he found Philip to be master of the city: so he fought against him, and took the city by force.

CHAPTER 7

¹In the hundred and one and fiftieth year Demetrius the son of Seleucus departed from Rome, and came up with a few men unto a city of the sea coast, and reigned there.

²And as he entered into the palace of his ancestors, so it was, that his forces had taken Antiochus and Lysias, to bring them unto him.

³Wherefore, when he knew it, he said, Let me not see their faces.

⁴So his host slew them. Now when Demetrius was set upon the throne of his kingdom, ⁵There came unto him all the wicked and ungodly men of Israel, having

1 Maccabees

Alcimus, who was desirous to be high priest, for their captain:

⁶And they accused the people to the king, saying, Judas and his brethren have slain all thy friends, and driven us out of our own land.

⁷Now therefore send some man whom thou trustest, and let him go and see what havock he hath made among us, and in the king's land, and let him punish them with all them that aid them.

⁸Then the king chose Bacchides, a friend of the king, who ruled beyond the flood, and was a great man in the kingdom, and faithful to the king, ⁹And him he sent with that wicked Alcimus, whom he made high priest, and commanded that he should take vengeance of the children of Israel.

¹⁰So they departed, and came with a great power into the land of Judea, where they sent messengers to Judas and his brethren with peaceable words deceitfully.

¹¹But they gave no heed to their words; for they saw that they were come with a great power.

¹²Then did there assemble unto Alcimus and Bacchides a company of scribes, to require justice.

¹³Now the Assideans were the first among the children of Israel that sought peace of them:

¹⁴For said they, One that is a priest of the seed of Aaron is come with this army, and he will do us no wrong.

¹⁵So he spake unto them, peaceably, and sware unto them, saying, we will procure the harm neither of you nor your friends.

¹⁶Whereupon they believed him: howbeit he took of them threescore men, and slew them in one day, according to the words which he wrote, ¹⁷The flesh of thy saints have they cast out, and their blood have they shed round about Jerusalem, and there was none to bury them.

¹⁸Wherefore the fear and dread of them fell upon all the people, who said, There is neither truth nor righteousness in them; for they have broken the covenant and oath that they made.

¹⁹After this, removed Bacchides from Jerusalem, and pitched his tents in Bezeth, where he sent and took many of the men that had forsaken him, and certain of the people also, and when he had slain them, he cast them into the great pit.

²⁰Then committed he the country to Alcimus, and left with him a power to aid him: so Bacchides went to the king.

²¹But Alcimus contended for the high priesthood.

²²And unto him resorted all such as troubled the people, who, after they had gotten the land of Juda into their power, did much hurt in Israel.

²³Now when Judas saw all the mischief that Alcimus and his company had done among the Israelites, even above the heathen,

1 Maccabees

²⁴He went out into all the coasts of Judea round about, and took vengeance of them that had revolted from him, so that they durst no more go forth into the country.

²⁵On the other side, when Alcimus saw that Judas and his company had gotten the upper hand, and knew that he was not able to abide their force, he went again to the king, and said all the worst of them that he could.

²⁶Then the king sent Nicanor, one of his honourable princes, a man that bare deadly hate unto Israel, with commandment to destroy the people.

²⁷So Nicanor came to Jerusalem with a great force; and sent unto Judas and his brethren deceitfully with friendly words, saying, ²⁸Let there be no battle between me and you; I will come with a few men, that I may see you in peace.

²⁹He came therefore to Judas, and they saluted one another peaceably. Howbeit the enemies were prepared to take away Judas by violence.

³⁰Which thing after it was known to Judas, to wit, that he came unto him with deceit, he was sore afraid of him, and would see his face no more.

³¹Nicanor also, when he saw that his counsel was discovered, went out to fight against Judas beside Capharsalama:

³²Where there were slain of Nicanor's side about five thousand men, and the rest fled into the city of David.

³³After this went Nicanor up to mount Sion, and there came out of the sanctuary certain of the priests and certain of the elders of the people, to salute him peaceably, and to shew him the burnt sacrifice that was offered for the king.

³⁴But he mocked them, and laughed at them, and abused them shamefully, and spake proudly, ³⁵And sware in his wrath, saying, Unless Judas and his host be now delivered into my hands, if ever I come again in safety, I will burn up this house: and with that he went out in a great rage.

³⁶Then the priests entered in, and stood before the altar and the temple, weeping, and saying,

³⁷Thou, O Lord, didst choose this house to be called by thy name, and to be a house of prayer and petition for thy people:

³⁸Be avenged of this man and his host, and let them fall by the sword: remember their blasphemies, and suffer them not to continue any longer.

³⁹So Nicanor went out of Jerusalem, and pitched his tents in Beththoron, where an host out of Syria met him.

⁴⁰But Judas pitched in Adasa with three thousand men, and there he prayed, saying, ⁴¹O Lord, when they that were sent from the king of the Assyrians blasphemed, thine angel went out, and smote an hundred fourscore and five thousand of them.

1 Maccabees

CHAPTER 8

⁴²Even so destroy thou this host before us this day, that the rest may know that he hath spoken blasphemously against thy sanctuary, and judge thou him according to his wickedness.

⁴³So the thirteenth day of the month Adar the hosts joined battle: but Nicanor's host was discomfited, and he himself was first slain in the battle.

⁴⁴Now when Nicanor's host saw that he was slain, they cast away their weapons, and fled.

⁴⁵Then they pursued after them a day's journey, from Adasa unto Gazera, sounding an alarm after them with their trumpets.

⁴⁶Whereupon they came forth out of all the towns of Judea round about, and closed them in; so that they, turning back upon them that pursued them, were all slain with the sword, and not one of them was left.

⁴⁷Afterwards they took the spoils, and the prey, and smote off Nicanors head, and his right hand, which he stretched out so proudly, and brought them away, and hanged them up toward Jerusalem.

⁴⁸For this cause the people rejoiced greatly, and they kept that day a day of great gladness.

⁴⁹Moreover they ordained to keep yearly this day, being the thirteenth of Adar.

⁵⁰Thus the land of Juda was in rest a little while.

¹Now Judas had heard of the the Romans, that they were mighty and valiant men, and such as would lovingly accept all that joined themselves unto them, and make a league of amity with all that came unto them;

²And that they were men of great valour. It was told him also of their wars and noble acts which they had done among the Galatians, and how they had conquered them, and brought them under tribute;

³And what they had done in the country of Spain, for the winning of the mines of the silver and gold which is there;

⁴And that by their policy and patience they had conquered all the place, though it were very far from them; and the kings also that came against them from the uttermost part of the earth, till they had discomfited them, and given them a great overthrow, so that the rest did give them tribute every year:

⁵Beside this, how they had discomfited in battle Philip, and Perseus, king of the Citims, with others that lifted up themselves against them, and had overcome them:

⁶How also Antiochus the great king of Asia, that came against them in battle, having an hundred and twenty elephants, with horsemen, and chariots, and a very great army, was discomfited by them;

1 Maccabees

⁷And how they took him alive, and covenanted that he and such as reigned after him should pay a great tribute, and give hostages, and that which was agreed upon,

⁸And the country of India, and Media and Lydia and of the goodliest countries, which they took of him, and gave to king Eumenes: ⁹Moreover how the Grecians had determined to come and destroy them;

¹⁰And that they, having knowledge thereof sent against them a certain captain, and fighting with them slew many of them, and carried away captives their wives and their children, and spoiled them, and took possession of their lands, and pulled down their strong holds, and brought them to be their servants unto this day:

¹¹It was told him besides, how they destroyed and brought under their dominion all other kingdoms and isles that at any time resisted them;

¹²But with their friends and such as relied upon them they kept amity: and that they had conquered kingdoms both far and nigh, insomuch as all that heard of their name were afraid of them:

¹³Also that, whom they would help to a kingdom, those reign; and whom again they would, they displace: finally, that they were greatly exalted:

¹⁴Yet for all this none of them wore a crown or was clothed in purple, to be magnified thereby:

¹⁵Moreover how they had made for themselves a senate house, wherein three hundred and twenty men sat in council daily, consulting alway for the people, to the end they might be well ordered:

¹⁶And that they committed their government to one man every year, who ruled over all their country, and that all were obedient to that one, and that there was neither envy nor emulation among them.

¹⁷In consideration of these things, Judas chose Eupolemus the son of John, the son of Accos, and Jason the son of Eleazar, and sent them to Rome, to make a league of amity and confederacy with them, ¹⁸And to intreat them that they would take the yoke from them; for they saw that the kingdom of the Grecians did oppress Israel with servitude.

¹⁹They went therefore to Rome, which was a very great journey, and came into the senate, where they spake and said.

²⁰Judas Maccabeus with his brethren, and the people of the Jews, have sent us unto you, to make a confederacy and peace with you, and that we might be registered your confederates and friends.

²¹So that matter pleased the Romans well.

²²And this is the copy of the epistle which the senate wrote back again in tables of brass, and sent to Jerusalem, that there they might have by them a memorial of peace and confederacy:

1 Maccabees

²³Good success be to the Romans, and to the people of the Jews, by sea and by land for ever: the sword also and enemy be far from them,

²⁴If there come first any war upon the Romans or any of their confederates throughout all their dominion,

²⁵The people of the Jews shall help them, as the time shall be appointed, with all their heart:

²⁶Neither shall they give any thing unto them that make war upon them, or aid them with victuals, weapons, money, or ships, as it hath seemed good unto the Romans; but they shall keep their covenants without taking any thing therefore.

²⁷In the same manner also, if war come first upon the nation of the Jews, the Romans shall help them with all their heart, according as the time shall be appointed them:

²⁸Neither shall victuals be given to them that take part against them, or weapons, or money, or ships, as it hath seemed good to the Romans; but they shall keep their covenants, and that without deceit.

²⁹According to these articles did the Romans make a covenant with the people of the Jews.

³⁰Howbeit if hereafter the one party or the other shall think to meet to add or diminish any thing, they may do it at their pleasures, and whatsoever they shall add or take away shall be ratified.

³¹And as touching the evils that Demetrius doeth to the Jews, we have written unto him, saying, Wherefore thou made thy yoke heavy upon our friends and confederates the Jews?

³²If therefore they complain any more against thee, we will do them justice, and fight with thee by sea and by land.

CHAPTER 9

¹Furthermore, when Demetrius heard the Nicanor and his host were slain in battle, he sent Bacchides and Alcimus into the land of Judea the second time, and with them the chief strength of his host: ²Who went forth by the way that leadeth to Galgala, and pitched their tents before Masaloth, which is in Arbela, and after they had won it, they slew much people.

³Also the first month of the hundred fifty and second year they encamped before Jerusalem:

⁴From whence they removed, and went to Berea, with twenty thousand footmen and two thousand horsemen.

⁵Now Judas had pitched his tents at Eleasa, and three thousand chosen men with him:

⁶Who seeing the multitude of the other army to be so great were sore afraid; whereupon many conveyed themselves out of the host, insomuch as abode of them no more but eight hundred men.

⁷When Judas therefore saw that his host slipt away, and that the battle pressed upon him, he was sore troubled in mind, and much distressed, for that he had no time to gather them together.

1 Maccabees

⁸Nevertheless unto them that remained he said, Let us arise and go up against our enemies, if peradventure we may be able to fight with them.

⁹But they dehorted him, saying, We shall never be able: let us now rather save our lives, and hereafter we will return with our brethren, and fight against them: for we are but few.

¹⁰Then Judas said, God forbid that I should do this thing, and flee away from them: if our time be come, let us die manfully for our brethren, and let us not stain our honour.

¹¹With that the host of Bacchides removed out of their tents, and stood over against them, their horsemen being divided into two troops, and their slingers and archers going before the host and they that marched in the forward were all mighty men.

¹²As for Bacchides, he was in the right wing: so the host drew near on the two parts, and sounded their trumpets.

¹³They also of Judas' side, even they sounded their trumpets also, so that the earth shook at the noise of the armies, and the battle continued from morning till night.

¹⁴Now when Judas perceived that Bacchides and the strength of his army were on the right side, he took with him all the hardy men, ¹⁵Who discomfited the right wing, and pursued them unto the mount Azotus.

¹⁶But when they of the left wing saw that they of the right wing were discomfited, they followed upon Judas and those that were with him hard at the heels from behind:

¹⁷Whereupon there was a sore battle, insomuch as many were slain on both parts.

¹⁸Judas also was killed, and the remnant fled.

¹⁹Then Jonathan and Simon took Judas their brother, and buried him in the sepulchre of his fathers in Modin.

²⁰Moreover they bewailed him, and all Israel made great lamentation for him, and mourned many days, saying, ²¹How is the valiant man fallen, that delivered Israel!

²²As for the other things concerning Judas and his wars, and the noble acts which he did, and his greatness, they are not written: for they were very many.

²³Now after the death of Judas the wicked began to put forth their heads in all the coasts of Israel, and there arose up all such as wrought iniquity.

²⁴In those days also was there a very great famine, by reason whereof the country revolted, and went with them.

²⁵Then Bacchides chose the wicked men, and made them lords of the country.

²⁶And they made enquiry and search for Judas' friends, and brought them unto Bacchides, who took vengeance of them, and used them despitefully.

²⁷So was there a great affliction in Israel, the like whereof was not since the time that a prophet was not seen among them.

1 Maccabees

²⁸For this cause all Judas' friends came together, and said unto Jonathan, ²⁹Since thy brother Judas died, we have no man like him to go forth against our enemies, and Bacchides, and against them of our nation that are adversaries to us.

³⁰Now therefore we have chosen thee this day to be our prince and captain in his stead, that thou mayest fight our battles.

³¹Upon this Jonathan took the governance upon him at that time, and rose up instead of his brother Judas.

³²But when Bacchides gat knowledge thereof, he sought for to slay him

³³Then Jonathan, and Simon his brother, and all that were with him, perceiving that, fled into the wilderness of Thecoe, and pitched their tents by the water of the pool Asphar.

³⁴Which when Bacchides understood, he came near to Jordan with all his host upon the sabbath day.

³⁵Now Jonathan had sent his brother John, a captain of the people, to pray his friends the Nabathites, that they might leave with them their carriage, which was much.

³⁶But the children of Jambri came out of Medaba, and took John, and all that he had, and went their way with it.

³⁷After this came word to Jonathan and Simon his brother, that the children of Jambri made a great marriage, and were bringing the bride from Nadabatha with a great train, as being the daughter of one of the great princes of Chanaan.

³⁸Therefore they remembered John their brother, and went up, and hid themselves under the covert of the mountain:

³⁹Where they lifted up their eyes, and looked, and, behold, there was much ado and great carriage: and the bridegroom came forth, and his friends and brethren, to meet them with drums, and instruments of mu-sick, and many weapons.

⁴⁰Then Jonathan and they that were with him rose up against them from the place where they lay in ambush, and made a slaughter of them in such sort, as many fell down dead, and the remnant fled into the mountain, and they took all their spoils.

⁴¹Thus was the marriage turned into mourning, and the noise of their melody into lamentation.

⁴²So when they had avenged fully the blood of their brother, they turned again to the marsh of Jordan.

⁴³Now when Bacchides heard hereof, he came on the sabbath day unto the banks of Jordan with a great power.

⁴⁴Then Jonathan said to his company, Let us go up now and fight for our lives, for it standeth not with us to day, as in time past:

⁴⁵For, behold, the battle is before us and behind us, and the water of Jordan on this side and that side, the marsh likewise and wood, neither is there place for us to turn aside.

1 Maccabees

⁴⁶Wherefore cry ye now unto heaven, that ye may be delivered from the hand of your enemies.

⁴⁷With that they joined battle, and Jonathan stretched forth his hand to smite Bacchides, but he turned back from him.

⁴⁸Then Jonathan and they that were with him leapt into Jordan, and swam over unto the other bank: howbeit the other passed not over Jordan unto them.

⁴⁹So there were slain of Bacchides' side that day about a thousand men.

⁵⁰Afterward returned Bacchides to Jerusalem and repaired the strong cities in Judea; the fort in Jericho, and Emmaus, and Bethhoron, and Bethel, and Thamnatha, Pharathoni, and Taphon, these did he strengthen with high walls, with gates and with bars.

⁵¹And in them he set a garrison, that they might work malice upon Israel.

⁵²He fortified also the city Bethsura, and Gazera, and the tower, and put forces in them, and provision of victuals.

⁵³Besides, he took the chief men's sons in the country for hostages, and put them into the tower at Jerusalem to be kept.

⁵⁴Moreover in the hundred fifty and third year, in the second month, Alcimus commanded that the wall of the inner court of the sanctuary should be pulled down; he pulled down also the works of the prophets ⁵⁵And as he began to pull down, even at that time was Alcimus plagued, and his enterprizes hindered: for his mouth was stopped, and he was taken with a palsy, so that he could no more speak any thing, nor give order concerning his house.

⁵⁶So Alcimus died at that time with great torment.

⁵⁷Now when Bacchides saw that Alcimus was dead, he returned to the king: whereupon the land of Judea was in rest two years.

⁵⁸Then all the ungodly men held a council, saying, Behold, Jonathan and his company are at ease, and dwell without care: now therefore we will bring Bacchides hither, who shall take them all in one night.

⁵⁹So they went and consulted with him.

⁶⁰Then removed he, and came with a great host, and sent letters privily to his adherents in Judea, that they should take Jonathan and those that were with him: howbeit they could not, because their counsel was known unto them.

⁶¹Wherefore they took of the men of the country, that were authors of that mischief, about fifty persons, and slew them.

⁶²Afterward Jonathan, and Simon, and they that were with him, got them away to Bethbasi, which is in the wilderness, and they repaired the decays thereof, and made it strong.

⁶³Which thing when Bacchides knew, he gathered together all his host, and sent word to them that were of Judea.

1 Maccabees

⁶⁴Then went he and laid siege against Bethbasi; and they fought against it a long season and made engines of war.

⁶⁵But Jonathan left his brother Simon in the city, and went forth himself into the country, and with a certain number went he forth.

⁶⁶And he smote Odonarkes and his brethren, and the children of Phasiron in their tent.

⁶⁷And when he began to smite them, and came up with his forces, Simon and his company went out of the city, and burned up the engines of war, ⁶⁸And fought against Bacchides, who was discomfited by them, and they afflicted him sore: for his counsel and travail was in vain.

⁶⁹Wherefore he was very wroth at the wicked men that gave him counsel to come into the country, inasmuch as he slew many of them, and purposed to return into his own country.

⁷⁰Whereof when Jonathan had knowledge, he sent ambassadors unto him, to the end he should make peace with him, and deliver them the prisoners.

⁷¹Which thing he accepted, and did according to his demands, and sware unto him that he would never do him harm all the days of his life.

⁷²When therefore he had restored unto him the prisoners that he had taken afore-time out of the land of Judea, he returned and went his way into his own land, neither came he any more into their borders.

⁷³Thus the sword ceased from Israel: but Jonathan dwelt at Machmas, and began to govern the people; and he destroyed the ungodly men out of Israel.

CHAPTER 10

¹In the hundred and sixtieth year Alexander, the son of Antiochus surnamed Epiphanes, went up and took Ptolemais: for the people had received him, by means whereof he reigned there, ²Now when king Demetrius heard thereof, he gathered together an exceeding great host, and went forth against him to fight.

³Moreover Demetrius sent letters unto Jonathan with loving words, so as he magnified him.

⁴For said he, Let us first make peace with him, before he join with Alexander against us:

⁵Else he will remember all the evils that we have done against him, and against his brethren and his people.

⁶Wherefore he gave him authority to gather together an host, and to provide weapons, that he might aid him in battle: he commanded also that the hostages that were in the tower should be delivered him.

⁷Then came Jonathan to Jerusalem, and read the letters in the audience of all the people, and of them that were in the tower:

1 Maccabees

⁸Who were sore afraid, when they heard that the king had given him authority to gather together an host.

⁹Whereupon they of the tower delivered their hostages unto Jonathan, and he delivered them unto their parents.

¹⁰This done, Jonathan settled himself in Jerusalem, and began to build and repair the city.

¹¹And he commanded the workmen to build the walls and the mount Sion and about with square stones for fortification; and they did so.

¹²Then the strangers, that were in the fortresses which Bacchides had built, fled away;

¹³Insomuch as every man left his place, and went into his own country.

¹⁴Only at Bethsura certain of those that had forsaken the law and the commandments remained still: for it was their place of refuge.

¹⁵Now when king Alexander had heard what promises Demetrius had sent unto Jonathan: when also it was told him of the battles and noble acts which he and his brethren had done, and of the pains that they had endured, ¹⁶He said, Shall we find such another man? now therefore we will make him our friend and confederate.

¹⁷Upon this he wrote a letter, and sent it unto him, according to these words, saying,

¹⁸King Alexander to his brother Jonathan sendeth greeting:

¹⁹We have heard of thee, that thou art a man of great power, and meet to be our friend.

²⁰Wherefore now this day we ordain thee to be the high priest of thy nation, and to be called the king's friend; (and therewithal he sent him a purple robe and a crown of gold:) and require thee to take our part, and keep friendship with us.

²¹So in the seventh month of the hundred and sixtieth year, at the feast of the tabernacles, Jonathan put on the holy robe, and gathered together forces, and provided much armour.

²²Whereof when Demetrius heard, he was very sorry, and said, ²³What have we done, that Alexander hath prevented us in making amity with the Jews to strengthen himself?

²⁴I also will write unto them words of encouragement, and promise them dignities and gifts, that I may have their aid.

²⁵He sent unto them therefore to this effect: King Demetrius unto the people of the Jews sendeth greeting:

²⁶Whereas ye have kept covenants with us, and continued in our friendship, not joining yourselves with our enemies, we have heard hereof, and are glad.

²⁷Wherefore now continue ye still to be faithful unto us, and we will well recompense you for the things ye do in our behalf, ²⁸And will grant you many immunities, and give you rewards.

1 Maccabees

²⁹And now do I free you, and for your sake I release all the Jews, from tributes, and from the customs of salt, and from crown taxes, ³⁰And from that which appertaineth unto me to receive for the third part or the seed, and the half of the fruit of the trees, I release it from this day forth, so that they shall not be taken of the land of Judea, nor of the three governments which are added thereunto out of the country of Samaria and Galilee, from this day forth for evermore.

³¹Let Jerusalem also be holy and free, with the borders thereof, both from tenths and tributes.

³²And as for the tower which is at Jerusalem, I yield up authority over it, and give the high priest, that he may set in it such men as he shall choose to keep it.

³³Moreover I freely set at liberty every one of the Jews, that were carried captives out of the land of Judea into any part of my kingdom, and I will that all my officers remit the tributes even of their cattle.

³⁴Furthermore I will that all the feasts, and sabbaths, and new moons, and solemn days, and the three days before the feast, and the three days after the feast shall be all of immunity and freedom for all the Jews in my realm.

³⁵Also no man shall have authority to meddle with or to molest any of them in any matter.

³⁶I will further, that there be enrolled among the king's forces about thirty thousand men of the Jews, unto whom pay shall be given, as belongeth to all king's forces.

³⁷And of them some shall be placed in the king's strong holds, of whom also some shall be set over the affairs of the kingdom, which are of trust: and I will that their overseers and governors be of themselves, and that they live after their own laws, even as the king hath commanded in the land of Judea.

³⁸And concerning the three governments that are added to Judea from the country of Samaria, let them be joined with Judea, that they may be reckoned to be under one, nor bound to obey other authority than the high priest's.

³⁹As for Ptolemais, and the land pertaining thereto, I give it as a free gift to the sanctuary at Jerusalem for the necessary expences of the sanctuary.

⁴⁰Moreover I give every year fifteen thousand shekels of silver out of the king's accounts from the places appertaining.

⁴¹And all the overplus, which the officers payed not in as in former time, from henceforth shall be given toward the works of the temple.

⁴²And beside this, the five thousand shekels of silver, which they took from the uses of the temple out of the accounts year by year, even those things shall be released, because they appertain to the priests that minister.

⁴³And whosoever they be that flee unto the temple at Jerusalem, or be within the liberties hereof, being indebted unto the king, or for any other matter, let them be at liberty, and all that they have in my realm.

⁴⁴For the building also and repairing of the works of the sanctuary expences shall be given of the king's accounts.

⁴⁵Yea, and for the building of the walls of Jerusalem, and the fortifying thereof round about, expences shall be given out of the king's accounts, as also for the building of the walls in Judea.

⁴⁶Now when Jonathan and the people heard these words, they gave no credit unto them, nor received them, because they remembered the great evil that he had done in Israel; for he had afflicted them very sore.

⁴⁷But with Alexander they were well pleased, because he was the first that entreated of true peace with them, and they were confederate with him always.

⁴⁸Then gathered king Alexander great forces, and camped over against Demetrius.

⁴⁹And after the two kings had joined battle, Demetrius' host fled: but Alexander followed after him, and prevailed against them.

⁵⁰And he continued the battle very sore until the sun went down: and that day was Demetrius slain.

⁵¹Afterward Alexander sent ambassadors to Ptolemee king of Egypt with a message to this effect:

⁵²Forasmuch as I am come again to my realm, and am set in the throne of my progenitors, and have gotten the dominion, and overthrown Demetrius, and recovered our country;

⁵³For after I had joined battle with him, both he and his host was discomfited by us, so that we sit in the throne of his kingdom:

⁵⁴Now therefore let us make a league of amity together, and give me now thy daughter to wife: and I will be thy son in law, and will give both thee and her as according to thy dignity.

⁵⁵Then Ptolemee the king gave answer, saying, Happy be the day wherein thou didst return into the land of thy fathers, and satest in the throne of their kingdom.

⁵⁶And now will I do to thee, as thou hast written: meet me therefore at Ptolemais, that we may see one another; for I will marry my daughter to thee according to thy desire.

⁵⁷So Ptolemee went out of Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, and they came unto Ptolemais in the hundred threescore and second year:

⁵⁸Where king Alexander meeting him, he gave unto him his daughter Cleopatra, and celebrated her marriage at Ptolemais with great glory, as the manner of kings is.

⁵⁹Now king Alexander had written unto Jonathan, that he should come and meet him.

1 Maccabees

⁶⁰Who thereupon went honourably to Ptolemais, where he met the two kings, and gave them and their friends silver and gold, and many presents, and found favour in their sight.

⁶¹At that time certain pestilent fellows of Israel, men of a wicked life, assembled themselves against him, to accuse him: but the king would not hear them.

⁶²Yea more than that, the king commanded to take off his garments, and clothe him in purple: and they did so.

⁶³And he made him sit by himself, and said into his princes, Go with him into the midst of the city, and make proclamation, that no man complain against him of any matter, and that no man trouble him for any manner of cause.

⁶⁴Now when his accusers saw that he was honored according to the proclamation, and clothed in purple, they fled all away.

⁶⁵So the king honoured him, and wrote him among his chief friends, and made him a duke, and partaker of his dominion.

⁶⁶Afterward Jonathan returned to Jerusalem with peace and gladness.

⁶⁷Furthermore in the; hundred threescore and fifth year came Demetrius son of Demetrius out of Crete into the land of his fathers:

⁶⁸Whereof when king Alexander heard tell, he was right sorry, and returned into Antioch.

⁶⁹Then Demetrius made Apollonius the governor of Celosyria his general, who gathered together a great host, and camped in Jamnia, and sent unto Jonathan the high priest, saying, ⁷⁰Thou alone liftest up thyself against us, and I am laughed to scorn for thy sake, and reproached: and why dost thou vaunt thy power against us in the mountains?

⁷¹Now therefore, if thou trustest in thine own strength, come down to us into the plain field, and there let us try the matter together: for with me is the power of the cities.

⁷²Ask and learn who I am, and the rest that take our part, and they shall tell thee that thy foot is not able to to flight in their own land.

⁷³Wherefore now thou shalt not be able to abide the horsemen and so great a power in the plain, where is neither stone nor flint, nor place to flee unto.

⁷⁴So when Jonathan heard these words of Apollonius, he was moved in his mind, and choosing ten thousand men he went out of Jerusalem, where Simon his brother met him for to help him.

⁷⁵And he pitched his tents against Joppa: but; they of Joppa shut him out of the city, because Apollonius had a garrison there.

⁷⁶Then Jonathan laid siege unto it: whereupon they of the city let him in for fear: and so Jonathan won Joppa.

⁷⁷Whereof when Apollonius heard, he took three thousand horsemen, with a great host of footmen, and went to Azotus as one that journeyed, and therewithal drew him forth into the plain. because he had a great number of horsemen, in whom he put his trust.

1 Maccabees

⁷⁸Then Jonathan followed after him to Azotus, where the armies joined battle.

⁷⁹Now Apollonius had left a thousand horsemen in ambush.

⁸⁰And Jonathan knew that there was an ambushment behind him; for they had compassed in his host, and cast darts at the people, from morning till evening.

⁸¹But the people stood still, as Jonathan had commanded them: and so the enemies' horses were tired.

⁸²Then brought Simon forth his host, and set them against the footmen, (for the horsemen were spent) who were discomfited by him, and fled.

⁸³The horsemen also, being scattered in the field, fled to Azotus, and went into Bethdagon, their idol's temple, for safety.

⁸⁴But Jonathan set fire on Azotus, and the cities round about it, and took their spoils; and the temple of Dagon, with them that were fled into it, he burned with fire.

⁸⁵Thus there were burned and slain with the sword well nigh eight thousand men.

⁸⁶And from thence Jonathan removed his host, and camped against Ascalon, where the men of the city came forth, and met him with great pomp.

⁸⁷After this returned Jonathan and his host unto Jerusalem, having any spoils.

⁸⁸Now when king Alexander heard these things, he honoured Jonathan yet more.

⁸⁹And sent him a buckle of gold, as the use is to be given to such as are of the king's blood: he gave him also Accaron with the borders thereof in possession.

CHAPTER 11

¹And the king of Egypt gathered together a great host, like the sand that lieth upon the sea shore, and many ships, and went about through deceit to get Alexander's kingdom, and join it to his own.

²Whereupon he took his journey into Spain in peaceable manner, so as they of the cities opened unto him, and met him: for king Alexander had commanded them so to do, because he was his brother in law.

³Now as Ptolemee entered into the cities, he set in every one of them a garrison of soldiers to keep it.

⁴And when he came near to Azotus, they shewed him the temple of Dagon that was burnt, and Azotus and the suburbs thereof that were destroyed, and the bodies that were cast abroad and them that he had burnt in the battle; for they had made heaps of them by the way where he should pass.

⁵Also they told the king whatsoever Jonathan had done, to the intent he might blame him: but the king held his peace.

1 Maccabees

⁶Then Jonathan met the king with great pomp at Joppa, where they saluted one another, and lodged.

⁷Afterward Jonathan, when he had gone with the king to the river called Eleutherus, returned again to Jerusalem.

⁸King Ptolemee therefore, having gotten the dominion of the cities by the sea unto Seleucia upon the sea coast, imagined wicked counsels against Alexander.

⁹Whereupon he sent ambassadors unto king Demetrius, saying, Come, let us make a league betwixt us, and I will give thee my daughter whom Alexander hath, and thou shalt reign in thy father's kingdom:

¹⁰For I repent that I gave my daughter unto him, for he sought to slay me.

¹¹Thus did he slander him, because he was desirous of his kingdom.

¹²Wherefore he took his daughter from him, and gave her to Demetrius, and forsook Alexander, so that their hatred was openly known.

¹³Then Ptolemee entered into Antioch, where he set two crowns upon his head, the crown of Asia, and of Egypt.

¹⁴In the mean season was king Alexander in Cilicia, because those that dwelt in those parts had revolted from him.

¹⁵But when Alexander heard of this, he came to war against him: whereupon king Ptolemee brought forth his host, and met him with a mighty power, and put him to flight.

¹⁶So Alexander fled into Arabia there to be defended; but king Ptolemee was exalted:

¹⁷For Zabdiel the Arabian took off Alexander's head, and sent it unto Ptolemee.

¹⁸King Ptolemee also died the third day after, and they that were in the strong holds were slain one of another.

¹⁹By this means Demetrius reigned in the hundred threescore and seventh year.

²⁰At the same time Jonathan gathered together them that were in Judea to take the tower that was in Jerusalem: and he made many engines of war against it.

²¹Then came ungodly persons, who hated their own people, went unto the king, and told him that Jonathan besieged the tower, ²²Whereof when he heard, he was angry, and immediately removing, he came to Ptolemais, and wrote unto Jonathan, that he should not lay siege to the tower, but come and speak with him at Ptolemais in great haste.

²³Nevertheless Jonathan, when he heard this, commanded to besiege it still: and he chose certain of the elders of Israel and the priests, and put himself in peril;

²⁴And took silver and gold, and raiment, and divers presents besides, and went to Ptolemais unto the king, where he found favour in his sight.

1 Maccabees

²⁵And though certain ungodly men of the people had made complaints against him,

²⁶Yet the king entreated him as his predecessors had done before, and promoted him in the sight of all his friends, ²⁷And confirmed him in the high priesthood, and in all the honours that he had before, and gave him preeminence among his chief friends.

²⁸Then Jonathan desired the king, that he would make Judea free from tribute, as also the three governments, with the country of Samaria; and he promised him three hundred talents.

²⁹So the king consented, and wrote letters unto Jonathan of all these things after this manner:

³⁰King Demetrius unto his brother Jonathan, and unto the nation of the Jews, sendeth greeting:

³¹We send you here a copy of the letter which we did write unto our cousin Lasthenes concerning you, that ye might see it.

³²King Demetrius unto his father Lasthenes sendeth greeting:

³³We are determined to do good to the people of the Jews, who are our friends, and keep covenants with us, because of their good will toward us.

³⁴Wherefore we have ratified unto them the borders of Judea, with the three governments of Apherema and Lydda and Ramathem, that are added unto Judea from the country of Samaria, and all things appertaining unto them, for all such as do sacrifice in Jerusalem, instead of the payments which the king received of them yearly aforetime out of the fruits of the earth and of trees.

³⁵And as for other things that belong unto us, of the tithes and customs pertaining unto us, as also the salt pits, and the crown taxes, which are due unto us, we discharge them of them all for their relief.

³⁶And nothing hereof shall be revoked from this time forth for ever.

³⁷Now therefore see that thou make a copy of these things, and let it be delivered unto Jonathan, and set upon the holy mount in a conspicuous place.

³⁸After this, when king Demetrius saw that the land was quiet before him, and that no resistance was made against him, he sent away all his forces, every one to his own place, except certain bands of strangers, whom he had gathered from the isles of the heathen: wherefore all the forces of his fathers hated him.

³⁹Moreover there was one Tryphon, that had been of Alexander's part afore, who, seeing that all the host murmured against Demetrius, went to Simalcue the Arabian that brought up Antiochus the young son of Alexander, ⁴⁰And lay sore upon him to deliver him this young Antiochus, that he might reign in his father's stead: he told him therefore all that Demetrius had done, and how his men of war were at enmity with him, and there he remained a long season.

1 Maccabees

⁴¹In the mean time Jonathan sent unto king Demetrius, that he would cast those of the tower out of Jerusalem, and those also in the fortresses: for they fought against Israel.

⁴²So Demetrius sent unto Jonathan, saying, I will not only do this for thee and thy people, but I will greatly honour thee and thy nation, if opportunity serve.

⁴³Now therefore thou shalt do well, if thou send me men to help me; for all my forces are gone from me.

⁴⁴Upon this Jonathan sent him three thousand strong men unto Antioch: and when they came to the king, the king was very glad of their coming.

⁴⁵Howbeit they that were of the city gathered themselves together into the midst of the city, to the number of an hundred and twenty thousand men, and would have slain the king.

⁴⁶Wherefore the king fled into the court, but they of the city kept the passages of the city, and began to fight.

⁴⁷Then the king called to the Jews for help, who came unto him all at once, and dispersing themselves through the city slew that day in the city to the number of an hundred thousand.

⁴⁸Also they set fire on the city, and gat many spoils that day, and delivered the king.

⁴⁹So when they of the city saw that the Jews had got the city as they would, their courage was abated:

wherefore they made supplication to the king, and cried, saying,

⁵⁰Grant us peace, and let the Jews cease from assaulting us and the city.

⁵¹With that they cast away their weapons, and made peace; and the Jews were honoured in the sight of the king, and in the sight of all that were in his realm; and they returned to Jerusalem, having great spoils.

⁵²So king Demetrius sat on the throne of his kingdom, and the land was quiet before him.

⁵³Nevertheless he dissembled in all that ever he spake, and estranged himself from Jonathan, neither rewarded he him according to the benefits which he had received of him, but troubled him very sore.

⁵⁴After this returned Tryphon, and with him the young child Antiochus, who reigned, and was crowned.

⁵⁵Then there gathered unto him all the men of war, whom Demetrius had put away, and they fought against Demetrius, who turned his back and fled.

⁵⁶Moreover Tryphon took the elephants, and won Antioch.

⁵⁷At that time young Antiochus wrote unto Jonathan, saying, I confirm thee in the high priesthood, and appoint thee ruler over the four governments, and to be one of the king's friends.

⁵⁸Upon this he sent him golden vessels to be served in, and gave him leave to drink in gold, and to be clothed in purple, and to wear a golden buckle.

1 Maccabees

⁵⁹His brother Simon also he made captain from the place called The ladder of Tyrus unto the borders of Egypt.

⁶⁰Then Jonathan went forth, and passed through the cities beyond the water, and all the forces of Syria gathered themselves unto him for to help him: and when he came to Ascalon, they of the city met him honourably.

⁶¹From whence he went to Gaza, but they of Gaza shut him out; wherefore he laid siege unto it, and burned the suburbs thereof with fire, and spoiled them.

⁶²Afterward, when they of Gaza made supplication unto Jonathan, he made peace with them, and took the sons of their chief men for hostages, and sent them to Jerusalem, and passed through the country unto Damascus.

⁶³Now when Jonathan heard that Demetrius' princes were come to Cades, which is in Galilee, with a great power, purposing to remove him out of the country, ⁶⁴He went to meet them, and left Simon his brother in the country.

⁶⁵Then Simon encamped against Bethsura and fought against it a long season, and shut it up:

⁶⁶But they desired to have peace with him, which he granted them, and then put them out from thence, and took the city, and set a garrison in it.

⁶⁷As for Jonathan and his host, they pitched at the water of Gennesar, from whence betimes in the morning they gat them to the plain of Nasor.

⁶⁸And, behold, the host of strangers met them in the plain, who, having laid men in ambush for him in the mountains, came themselves over against him.

⁶⁹So when they that lay in ambush rose out of their places and joined battle, all that were of Jonathan's side fled;

⁷⁰Insomuch as there was not one of them left, except Mattathias the son of Absalom, and Judas the son of Calphi, the captains of the host.

⁷¹Then Jonathan rent his clothes, and cast earth upon his head, and prayed.

⁷²Afterwards turning again to battle, he put them to flight, and so they ran away.

⁷³Now when his own men that were fled saw this, they turned again unto him, and with him pursued them to Cades, even unto their own tents, and there they camped.

⁷⁴So there were slain of the heathen that day about three thousand men: but Jonathan returned to Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 12

¹Now when Jonathan saw that time served him, he chose certain men, and sent them to Rome, for to confirm and renew the friendship that they had with them.

1 Maccabees

²He sent letters also to the Lacedemonians, and to other places, for the same purpose.

³So they went unto Rome, and entered into the senate, and said, Jonathan the high priest, and the people of the Jews, sent us unto you, to the end ye should renew the friendship, which ye had with them, and league, as in former time.

⁴Upon this the Romans gave them letters unto the governors of every place that they should bring them into the land of Judea peaceably.

⁵And this is the copy of the letters which Jonathan wrote to the Lacedemonians:

⁶Jonathan the high priest, and the elders of the nation, and the priests, and the other of the Jews, unto the Lacedemonians their brethren send greeting:

⁷There were letters sent in times past unto Onias the high priest from Darius, who reigned then among you, to signify that ye are our brethren, as the copy here underwritten doth specify.

⁸At which time Onias entreated the ambassador that was sent honourably, and received the letters, wherein declaration was made of the league and friendship.

⁹Therefore we also, albeit we need none of these things, that we have the holy books of scripture in our hands to comfort us, ¹⁰Have nevertheless attempted to send unto you for the renewing of brotherhood and friendship, lest we should become strangers unto you altogether: for there is a long time passed since ye sent unto us.

¹¹We therefore at all times without ceasing, both in our feasts, and other convenient days, do remember you in the sacrifices which we offer, and in our prayers, as reason is, and as it becometh us to think upon our brethren:

¹²And we are right glad of your honour.

¹³As for ourselves, we have had great troubles and wars on every side, forsomuch as the kings that are round about us have fought against us.

¹⁴Howbeit we would not be troublesome unto you, nor to others of our confederates and friends, in these wars:

¹⁵For we have help from heaven that succoureth us, so as we are delivered from our enemies, and our enemies are brought under foot.

¹⁶For this cause we chose Numenius the son of Antiochus, and Antipater he son of Jason, and sent them unto the Romans, to renew the amity that we had with them, and the former league.

¹⁷We commanded them also to go unto you, and to salute and to deliver you our letters concerning the renewing of our brotherhood.

¹⁸Wherefore now ye shall do well to give us an answer thereto.

¹⁹And this is the copy of the letters which Oniases sent.

²⁰Areus king of the Lacedemonians to Onias the high priest, greeting:

1 Maccabees

²¹It is found in writing, that the Lacedemonians and Jews are brethren, and that they are of the stock of Abraham:

²²Now therefore, since this is come to our knowledge, ye shall do well to write unto us of your prosperity.

²³We do write back again to you, that your cattle and goods are our's, and our's are your's We do command therefore our ambassadors to make report unto you on this wise.

²⁴Now when Jonathan heard that Demebius' princes were come to fight against him with a greater host than afore, ²⁵He removed from Jerusalem, and met them in the land of Amathis: for he gave them no respite to enter his country.

²⁶He sent spies also unto their tents, who came again, and told him that they were appointed to come upon them in the night season.

²⁷Wherefore so soon as the sun was down, Jonathan commanded his men to watch, and to be in arms, that all the night long they might be ready to fight: also he sent forth centinels round about the host.

²⁸But when the adversaries heard that Jonathan and his men were ready for battle, they feared, and trembled in their hearts, and they kindled fires in their camp.

²⁹Howbeit Jonathan and his company knew it not till the morning: for they saw the lights burning.

³⁰Then Jonathan pursued after them, but overtook them not: for they were gone over the river Eleutherus.

³¹Wherefore Jonathan turned to the Arabians, who were called Zabadeans, and smote them, and took their spoils.

³²And removing thence, he came to Damascus, and so passed through all the country, ³³Simon also went forth, and passed through the country unto Ascalon, and the holds there adjoining, from whence he turned aside to Joppa, and won it.

³⁴For he had heard that they would deliver the hold unto them that took Demetrius' part; wherefore he set a garrison there to keep it.

³⁵After this came Jonathan home again, and calling the elders of the people together, he consulted with them about building strong holds in Judea, ³⁶And making the walls of Jerusalem higher, and raising a great mount between the tower and the city, for to separate it from the city, that so it might be alone, that men might neither sell nor buy in it.

³⁷Upon this they came together to build up the city, forasmuch as part of the wall toward the brook on the east side was fallen down, and they repaired that which was called Capphenatha.

³⁸Simon also set up Adida in Sephela, and made it strong with gates and bars.

³⁹Now Tryphon went about to get the kingdom of Asia, and to kill

1 Maccabees

Antiochus the king, that he might set the crown upon his own head.

⁴⁰Howbeit he was afraid that Jonathan would not suffer him, and that he would fight against him; wherefore he sought a way how to take Jonathan, that he might kill him. So he removed, and came to Bethsan.

⁴¹Then Jonathan went out to meet him with forty thousand men chosen for the battle, and came to Bethsan.

⁴²Now when Tryphon saw Jonathan came with so great a force, he durst not stretch his hand against him; ⁴³But received him honourably, and commended him unto all his friends, and gave him gifts, and commanded his men of war to be as obedient unto him, as to himself.

⁴⁴Unto Jonathan also he said, Why hast thou brought all this people to so great trouble, seeing there is no war betwixt us?

⁴⁵Therefore send them now home again, and choose a few men to wait on thee, and come thou with me to Ptolemais, for I will give it thee, and the rest of the strong holds and forces, and all that have any charge: as for me, I will return and depart: for this is the cause of my coming.

⁴⁶So Jonathan believing him did as he bade him, and sent away his host, who went into the land of Judea.

⁴⁷And with himself he retained but three thousand men, of whom he sent two thousand into Galilee, and one thousand went with him.

⁴⁸Now as soon as Jonathan entered into Ptolemais, they of Ptolemais shut the gates and took him, and all them that came with him they slew with the sword.

⁴⁹Then sent Tryphon an host of footmen and horsemen into Galilee, and into the great plain, to destroy all Jonathan's company.

⁵⁰But when they knew that Jonathan and they that were with him were taken and slain, they encouraged one another; and went close together, prepared to fight.

⁵¹They therefore that followed upon them, perceiving that they were ready to fight for their lives, turned back again.

⁵²Whereupon they all came into the land of Judea peaceably, and there they bewailed Jonathan, and them that were with him, and they were sore afraid; wherefore all Israel made great lamentation.

⁵³Then all the heathen that were round about then sought to destroy them: for said they, They have no captain, nor any to help them: now therefore let us make war upon them, and take away their memorial from among men.

CHAPTER 13

¹Now when Simon heard that Tryphon had gathered together a great host to invade the land of Judea, and destroy it,

²And saw that the people was in great trembling and fear, he went up to

1 Maccabees

Jerusalem, and gathered the people together,

³And gave them exhortation, saying, Ye yourselves know what great things I, and my brethren, and my father's house, have done for the laws and the sanctuary, the battles also and troubles which we have seen.

⁴By reason whereof all my brethren are slain for Israel's sake, and I am left alone.

⁵Now therefore be it far from me, that I should spare mine own life in any time of trouble: for I am no better than my brethren.

⁶Doubtless I will avenge my nation, and the sanctuary, and our wives, and our children: for all the heathen are gathered to destroy us of very malice.

⁷Now as soon as the people heard these words, their spirit revived.

⁸And they answered with a loud voice, saying, Thou shalt be our leader instead of Judas and Jonathan thy brother.

⁹Fight thou our battles, and whatsoever, thou commandest us, that will we do.

¹⁰So then he gathered together all the men of war, and made haste to finish the walls of Jerusalem, and he fortified it round about.

¹¹Also he sent Jonathan the son of Absalom, and with him a great power, to Joppa: who casting out them that were therein remained there in it.

¹²So Tryphon removed from Ptolemaus with a great power to invade the land of Judea, and Jonathan was with him in ward.

¹³But Simon pitched his tents at Adida, over against the plain.

¹⁴Now when Tryphon knew that Simon was risen up instead of his brother Jonathan, and meant to join battle with him, he sent messengers unto him, saying, ¹⁵Whereas we have Jonathan thy brother in hold, it is for money that he is owing unto the king's treasure, concerning the business that was committed unto him.

¹⁶Wherefore now send an hundred talents of silver, and two of his sons for hostages, that when he is at liberty he may not revolt from us, and we will let him go.

¹⁷Hereupon Simon, albeit he perceived that they spake deceitfully unto him yet sent he the money and the children, lest peradventure he should procure to himself great hatred of the people:

¹⁸Who might have said, Because I sent him not the money and the children, therefore is Jonathan dead.

¹⁹So he sent them the children and the hundred talents: howbeit Tryphon dissembled neither would he let Jonathan go.

²⁰And after this came Tryphon to invade the land, and destroy it, going round about by the way that leadeth unto Adora: but Simon and his host marched against him in every place, wheresoever he went.

1 Maccabees

²¹Now they that were in the tower sent messengers unto Tryphon, to the end that he should hasten his coming unto them by the wilderness, and send them victuals.

²²Wherefore Tryphon made ready all his horsemen to come that night: but there fell a very great snow, by reason whereof he came not. So he departed, and came into the country of Galaad.

²³And when he came near to Bascama he slew Jonathan, who was buried there.

²⁴Afterward Tryphon returned and went into his own land.

²⁵Then sent Simon, and took the bones of Jonathan his brother, and buried them in Modin, the city of his fathers.

²⁶And all Israel made great lamentation for him, and bewailed him many days.

²⁷Simon also built a monument upon the sepulchre of his father and his brethren, and raised it aloft to the sight, with hewn stone behind and before.

²⁸Moreover he set up seven pyramids, one against another, for his father, and his mother, and his four brethren.

²⁹And in these he made cunning devices, about the which he set great pillars, and upon the pillars he made all their armour for a perpetual memory, and by the armour ships carved, that they might be seen of all that sail on the sea.

³⁰This is the sepulchre which he made at Modin, and it standeth yet unto this day.

³¹Now Tryphon dealt deceitfully with the young king Antiochus, and slew him.

³²And he reigned in his stead, and crowned himself king of Asia, and brought a great calamity upon the land.

³³Then Simon built up the strong holds in Judea, and fenced them about with high towers, and great walls, and gates, and bars, and laid up victuals therein.

³⁴Moreover Simon chose men, and sent to king Demetrius, to the end he should give the land an immunity, because all that Tryphon did was to spoil.

³⁵Unto whom king Demetrius answered and wrote after this manner:

³⁶King Demetrius unto Simon the high priest, and friend of kings, as also unto the elders and nation of the Jews, sendeth greeting:

³⁷The golden crown, and the scarlet robe, which ye sent unto us, we have received: and we are ready to make a stedfast peace with you, yea, and to write unto our officers, to confirm the immunities which we have granted.

³⁸And whatsoever covenants we have made with you shall stand; and the strong holds, which ye have builded, shall be your own.

³⁹As for any oversight or fault committed unto this day, we forgive it, and the crown tax also, which ye owe us: and if there were any other tribute paid in Jerusalem, it shall no more be paid.

1 Maccabees

⁴⁰And look who are meet among you to be in our court, let then be enrolled, and let there be peace betwixt us.

⁴¹Thus the yoke of the heathen was taken away from Israel in the hundred and seventieth year.

⁴²Then the people of Israel began to write in their instruments and contracts, In the first year of Simon the high priest, the governor and leader of the Jews.

⁴³In those days Simon camped against Gaza and besieged it round about; he made also an engine of war, and set it by the city, and battered a certain tower, and took it.

⁴⁴And they that were in the engine leaped into the city; whereupon there was a great uproar in the city:

⁴⁵Insomuch as the people of the city rent their clothes, and climbed upon the walls with their wives and children, and cried with a loud voice, beseeching Simon to grant them peace.

⁴⁶And they said, Deal not with us according to our wickedness, but according to thy mercy.

⁴⁷So Simon was appeased toward them, and fought no more against them, but put them out of the city, and cleansed the houses wherein the idols were, and so entered into it with songs and thanksgiving.

⁴⁸Yea, he put all uncleanness out of it, and placed such men there as would keep the law, and made it stronger than it was before, and built therein a dwellingplace for himself.

⁴⁹They also of the tower in Jerusalem were kept so strait, that they could neither come forth, nor go into the country, nor buy, nor sell: wherefore they were in great distress for want of victuals, and a great number of them perished through famine.

⁵⁰Then cried they to Simon, beseeching him to be at one with them: which thing he granted them; and when he had put them out from thence, he cleansed the tower from pollutions:

⁵¹And entered into it the three and twentieth day of the second month in the hundred seventy and first year, with thanksgiving, and branches of palm trees, and with harps, and cymbals, and with viols, and hymns, and songs: because there was destroyed a great enemy out of Israel.

⁵²He ordained also that that day should be kept every year with gladness. Moreover the hill of the temple that was by the tower he made stronger than it was, and there he dwelt himself with his company.

⁵³And when Simon saw that John his son was a valiant man, he made him captain of all the hosts; and he dwelt in Gazera.

CHAPTER 14

¹Now in the hundred threescore and twelfth year king Demetrius gathered his forces together, and went into Media to get him help to fight against Tryphone.

1 Maccabees

²But when Arsaces, the king of Persia and Media, heard that Demetrius was entered within his borders, he sent one of his princes to take him alive:

³Who went and smote the host of Demetrius, and took him, and brought him to Arsaces, by whom he was put in ward.

⁴As for the land of Judea, that was quiet all the days of Simon; for he sought the good of his nation in such wise, as that evermore his authority and honour pleased them well.

⁵And as he was honourable in all his acts, so in this, that he took Joppa for an haven, and made an entrance to the isles of the sea,

⁶And enlarged the bounds of his nation, and recovered the country, ⁷And gathered together a great number of captives, and had the dominion of Gazera, and Bethsura, and the tower, out of the which he took all uncleanness, neither was there any that resisted him.

⁸Then did they till their ground in peace, and the earth gave her increase, and the trees of the field their fruit.

⁹The ancient men sat all in the streets, communing together of good things, and the young men put on glorious and warlike apparel.

¹⁰He provided victuals for the cities, and set in them all manner of munition, so that his honourable name was renowned unto the end of the world.

¹¹He made peace in the land, and Israel rejoiced with great joy:

¹²For every man sat under his vine and his fig tree, and there was none to fray them:

¹³Neither was there any left in the land to fight against them: yea, the kings themselves were overthrown in those days.

¹⁴Moreover he strengthened all those of his people that were brought low: the law he searched out; and every contemner of the law and wicked person he took away.

¹⁵He beautified the sanctuary, and multiplied vessels of the temple.

¹⁶Now when it was heard at Rome, and as far as Sparta, that Jonathan was dead, they were very sorry.

¹⁷But as soon as they heard that his brother Simon was made high priest in his stead, and ruled the country, and the cities therein:

¹⁸They wrote unto him in tables of brass, to renew the friendship and league which they had made with Judas and Jonathan his brethren:

¹⁹Which writings were read before the congregation at Jerusalem.

²⁰And this is the copy of the letters that the Lacedemonians sent; The rulers of the Lacedemonians, with the city, unto Simon the high priest, and the elders, and priests, and residue of the people of the Jews, our brethren, send greeting:

²¹The ambassadors that were sent unto our people certified us of your glory and honour: wherefore we were glad of their coming,

1 Maccabees

²²And did register the things that they spake in the council of the people in this manner; Numenius son of Antiochus, and Antipater son of Jason, the Jews' ambassadors, came unto us to renew the friendship they had with us.

²³And it pleased the people to entertain the men honourably, and to put the copy of their ambassage in publick records, to the end the people of the Lacedemonians might have a memorial thereof: furthermore we have written a copy thereof unto Simon the high priest.

²⁴After this Simon sent Numenius to Rome with a great shield of gold of a thousand pound weight to confirm the league with them.

²⁵Whereof when the people heard, they said, What thanks shall we give to Simon and his sons?

²⁶For he and his brethren and the house of his father have established Israel, and chased away in fight their enemies from them, and confirmed their liberty.

²⁷So then they wrote it in tables of brass, which they set upon pillars in mount Sion: and this is the copy of the writing; The eighteenth day of the month Elul, in the hundred threescore and twelfth year, being the third year of Simon the high priest,

²⁸At Saramel in the great congregation of the priests, and people, and rulers of the nation, and elders of the country, were these things notified unto us.

²⁹Forasmuch as oftentimes there have been wars in the country, wherein for the maintenance of their sanctuary, and the law, Simon the son of Mattathias, of the posterity of Jarib, together with his brethren, put themselves in jeopardy, and resisting the enemies of their nation did their nation great honour:

³⁰(For after that Jonathan, having gathered his nation together, and been their high priest, was added to his people,

³¹Their enemies prepared to invade their country, that they might destroy it, and lay hands on the sanctuary:

³²At which time Simon rose up, and fought for his nation, and spent much of his own substance, and armed the valiant men of his nation and gave them wages,

³³And fortified the cities of Judea, together with Bethsura, that lieth upon the borders of Judea, where the armour of the enemies had been before; but he set a garrison of Jews there:

³⁴Moreover he fortified Joppa, which lieth upon the sea, and Gazera, that bordereth upon Azotus, where the enemies had dwelt before: but he placed Jews there, and furnished them with all things convenient for the reparation thereof.)

³⁵The people therefore sang the acts of Simon, and unto what glory he thought to bring his nation, made him their governor and chief priest, because he had done all these things, and for the justice and faith which he kept to his nation, and for that he sought by all means to exalt his people.

1 Maccabees

³⁶For in his time things prospered in his hands, so that the heathen were taken out of their country, and they also that were in the city of David in Jerusalem, who had made themselves a tower, out of which they issued, and polluted all about the sanctuary, and did much hurt in the holy place:

³⁷But he placed Jews therein. and fortified it for the safety of the country and the city, and raised up the walls of Jerusalem.

³⁸King Demetrius also confirmed him in the high priesthood according to those things, ³⁹And made him one of his friends, and honoured him with great honour.

⁴⁰For he had heard say, that the Romans had called the Jews their friends and confederates and brethren; and that they had entertained the ambassadors of Simon honourably;

⁴¹Also that the Jews and priests were well pleased that Simon should be their governor and high priest for ever, until there should arise a faithful prophet;

⁴²Moreover that he should be their captain, and should take charge of the sanctuary, to set them over their works, and over the country, and over the armour, and over the fortresses, that, I say, he should take charge of the sanctuary;

⁴³Beside this, that he should be obeyed of every man, and that all the writings in the country should be made in his name, and that he should be clothed in purple, and wear gold:

⁴⁴Also that it should be lawful for none of the people or priests to break any of these things, or to gainsay his words, or to gather an assembly in the country without him, or to be clothed in purple, or wear a buckle of gold;

⁴⁵And whosoever should do otherwise, or break any of these things, he should be punished.

⁴⁶Thus it liked all the people to deal with Simon, and to do as hath been said.

⁴⁷Then Simon accepted hereof, and was well pleased to be high priest, and captain and governor of the Jews and priests, and to defend them all.

⁴⁸So they commanded that this writing should be put in tables of brass, and that they should be set up within the compass of the sanctuary in a conspicuous place;

⁴⁹Also that the copies thereof should be laid up in the treasury, to the end that Simon and his sons might have them.

CHAPTER 15

¹Moreover Antiochus son of Demetrius the king sent letters from the isles of the sea unto Simon the priest and prince of the Jews, and to all the people;

²The contents whereof were these: King Antiochus to Simon the high priest and prince of his nation, and to the people of the Jews, greeting:

1 Maccabees

³Forasmuch as certain pestilent men have usurped the kingdom of our fathers, and my purpose is to challenge it again, that I may restore it to the old estate, and to that end have gathered a multitude of foreign soldiers together, and prepared ships of war;

⁴My meaning also being to go through the country, that I may be avenged of them that have destroyed it, and made many cities in the kingdom desolate:

⁵Now therefore I confirm unto thee all the oblations which the kings before me granted thee, and whatsoever gifts besides they granted.

⁶I give thee leave also to coin money for thy country with thine own stamp.

⁷And as concerning Jerusalem and the sanctuary, let them be free; and all the armour that thou hast made, and fortresses that thou hast built, and keepest in thine hands, let them remain unto thee.

⁸And if anything be, or shall be, owing to the king, let it be forgiven thee from this time forth for evermore.

⁹Furthermore, when we have obtained our kingdom, we will honour thee, and thy nation, and thy temple, with great honour, so that your honour shall be known throughout the world.

¹⁰In the hundred threescore and fourteenth year went Antiochus into the land of his fathers: at which time all the forces came together unto him, so that few were left with Tryphon.

¹¹Wherefore being pursued by king Antiochus, he fled unto Dora, which lieth by the sea side:

¹²For he saw that troubles came upon him all at once, and that his forces had forsaken him.

¹³Then camped Antiochus against Dora, having with him an hundred and twenty thousand men of war, and eight thousand horsemen.

¹⁴And when he had compassed the city round about, and joined ships close to the town on the sea side, he vexed the city by land and by sea, neither suffered he any to go out or in.

¹⁵In the mean season came Numenius and his company from Rome, having letters to the kings and countries; wherein were written these things:

¹⁶Lucius, consul of the Romans unto king Ptolemee, greeting:

¹⁷The Jews' ambassadors, our friends and confederates, came unto us to renew the old friendship and league, being sent from Simon the high priest, and from the people of the Jews:

¹⁸And they brought a shield of gold of a thousand pound.

¹⁹We thought it good therefore to write unto the kings and countries, that they should do them no harm, nor fight against them, their cities, or countries, nor yet aid their enemies against them.

²⁰It seemed also good to us to receive the shield of them.

1 Maccabees

²¹If therefore there be any pestilent fellows, that have fled from their country unto you, deliver them unto Simon the high priest, that he may punish them according to their own law.

²²The same things wrote he likewise unto Demetrius the king, and Attalus, to Ariarathes, and Arsaces, ²³And to all the countries and to Sampsames, and the Lacedemonians, and to Delus, and Myndus, and Sicyon, and Caria, and Samos, and Pamphylia, and Lycia, and Halicarnassus, and Rhodus, and Aradus, and Cos, and Side, and Aradus, and Gortyna, and Cnidus, and Cyprus, and Cyrene.

²⁴And the copy hereof they wrote to Simon the high priest.

²⁵So Antiochus the king camped against Dora the second day, assaulting it continually, and making engines, by which means he shut up Tryphon, that he could neither go out nor in.

²⁶At that time Simon sent him two thousand chosen men to aid him; silver also, and gold, and much armour.

²⁷Nevertheless he would not receive them, but brake all the covenants which he had made with him afore, and became strange unto him.

²⁸Furthermore he sent unto him Athenobius, one of his friends, to commune with him, and say, Ye withhold Joppa and Gazera; with the tower that is in Jerusalem, which are cities of my realm.

²⁹The borders thereof ye have wasted, and done great hurt in the land, and got the dominion of many places within my kingdom.

³⁰Now therefore deliver the cities which ye have taken, and the tributes of the places, whereof ye have gotten dominion without the borders of Judea:

³¹Or else give me for them five hundred talents of silver; and for the harm that ye have done, and the tributes of the cities, other five hundred talents: if not, we will come and fight against you

³²So Athenobius the king's friend came to Jerusalem: and when he saw the glory of Simon, and the cupboard of gold and silver plate, and his great attendance, he was astonished, and told him the king's message.

³³Then answered Simon, and said unto him, We have neither taken other men's land, nor holden that which appertaineth to others, but the inheritance of our fathers, which our enemies had wrongfully in possession a certain time.

³⁴Wherefore we, having opportunity, hold the inheritance of our fathers.

³⁵And whereas thou demandest Joppa and Gazera, albeit they did great harm unto the people in our country, yet will we give thee an hundred talents for them. Hereunto Athenobius answered him not a word;

³⁶But returned in a rage to the king, and made report unto him of these speeches, and of the glory of Simon, and of all that he had seen: whereupon the king was exceeding wroth.

1 Maccabees

³⁷In the mean time fled Tryphon by ship unto Orthosias.

³⁸Then the king made Cendebeus captain of the sea coast, and gave him an host of footmen and horsemen, ³⁹And commanded him to remove his host toward Judea; also he commanded him to build up Cedron, and to fortify the gates, and to war against the people; but as for the king himself, he pursued Tryphon.

⁴⁰So Cendebeus came to Jamnia and began to provoke the people and to invade Judea, and to take the people prisoners, and slay them.

⁴¹And when he had built up Cedrou, he set horsemen there, and an host of footmen, to the end that issuing out they might make outroads upon the ways of Judea, as the king had commanded him.

CHAPTER 16

¹Then came up John from Gazera, and told Simon his father what Cendebeus had done.

²Wherefore Simon called his two eldest sons, Judas and John, and said unto them, I, and my brethren, and my father's house, have ever from my youth unto this day fought against the enemies of Israel; and things have prospered so well in our hands, that we have delivered Israel oftentimes.

³But now I am old, and ye, by God's mercy, are of a sufficient age: be ye instead of me and my brother, and go and fight for our nation, and the help from heaven be with you.

⁴So he chose out of the country twenty thousand men of war with horsemen, who went out against Cendebeus, and rested that night at Modin.

⁵And when as they rose in the morning, and went into the plain, behold, a mighty great host both of footmen and horsemen came against them: howbeit there was a water brook betwixt them.

⁶So he and his people pitched over against them: and when he saw that the people were afraid to go over the water brook, he went first over himself, and then the men seeing him passed through after him.

⁷That done, he divided his men, and set the horsemen in the midst of the footmen: for the enemies' horsemen were very many.

⁸Then sounded they with the holy trumpets: whereupon Cendebeus and his host were put to flight, so that many of them were slain, and the remnant gat them to the strong hold.

⁹At that time was Judas John's brother wounded; but John still followed after them, until he came to Cedron, which Cendebeus had built.

¹⁰So they fled even unto the towers in the fields of Azotus; wherefore he burned it with fire: so that there were slain of them about two thousand men. Afterward he returned into the land of Judea in peace.

1 Maccabees

¹¹Moreover in the plain of Jericho was Ptolemeus the son of Abubus made captain, and he had abundance of silver and gold:

¹²For he was the high priest's son in law.

¹³Wherefore his heart being lifted up, he thought to get the country to himself, and thereupon consulted deceitfully against Simon and his sons to destroy them.

¹⁴Now Simon was visiting the cities that were in the country, and taking care for the good ordering of them; at which time he came down himself to Jericho with his sons, Mattathias and Judas, in the hundred threescore and seventeenth year, in the eleventh month, called Sabat:

¹⁵Where the son of Abubus receiving them deceitfully into a little hold, called Docus, which he had built, made them a great banquet: howbeit he had hid men there.

¹⁶So when Simon and his sons had drunk largely, Ptolemee and his men rose up, and took their weapons, and came upon Simon into the banqueting place, and slew him, and his two sons, and certain of his servants.

¹⁷In which doing he committed a great treachery, and recompensed evil for good.

¹⁸Then Ptolemee wrote these things, and sent to the king, that he should send him an host to aid him, and he would deliver him the country and cities.

¹⁹He sent others also to Gazera to kill John: and unto the tribunes he sent letters to come unto him, that he might give them silver, and gold, and rewards.

²⁰And others he sent to take Jerusalem, and the mountain of the temple.

²¹Now one had run afore to Gazera and told John that his father and brethren were slain, and, quoth he, Ptolemee hath sent to slay thee also.

²²Hereof when he heard, he was sore astonished: so he laid hands on them that were come to destroy him, and slew them; for he knew that they sought to make him away.

²³As concerning the rest of the acts of John, and his wars, and worthy deeds which he did, and the building of the walls which he made, and his doings, ²⁴Behold, these are written in the chronicles of his priesthood, from the time he was made high priest after his father.

The Second Book of the Maccabees

CHAPTER 1

¹The brethren, the Jews that be at Jerusalem and in the land of Judea, wish unto the brethren, the Jews that are throughout Egypt health and peace:

²God be gracious unto you, and remember his covenant that he made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, his faithful servants;

³And give you all an heart to serve him, and to do his will, with a good courage and a willing mind;

⁴And open your hearts in his law and commandments, and send you peace, ⁵And hear your prayers, and be at one with you, and never forsake you in time of trouble.

⁶And now we be here praying for you.

⁷What time as Demetrius reigned, in the hundred threescore and ninth year, we the Jews wrote unto you in the extremity of trouble that came upon us in those years, from the time that Jason and his company revolted from the holy land and kingdom, ⁸And burned the porch, and shed innocent blood: then we prayed unto the Lord, and were heard; we offered also sacrifices and fine flour, and lighted the lamps, and set forth the loaves.

⁹And now see that ye keep the feast of tabernacles in the month Casleu.

¹⁰In the hundred fourscore and eighth year, the people that were at Jerusalem and in Judea, and the council, and Judas, sent greeting and health unto Aristobulus, king Ptolemeus' master, who was of the stock of the anointed priests, and to the Jews that were in Egypt:

¹¹Insomuch as God hath delivered us from great perils, we thank him highly, as having been in battle against a king.

¹²For he cast them out that fought within the holy city.

¹³For when the leader was come into Persia, and the army with him that seemed invincible, they were slain in the temple of Nanea by the deceit of Nanea's priests.

¹⁴For Antiochus, as though he would marry her, came into the place, and his friends that were with him, to receive money in name of a dowry.

¹⁵Which when the priests of Nanea had set forth, and he was entered with a small company into the compass of the temple, they shut the temple as soon as Antiochus was come in:

¹⁶And opening a privy door of the roof, they threw stones like thunderbolts, and struck down the captain, hewed them in pieces, smote off their heads and cast them to those that were without.

2 Maccabees

¹⁷Blessed be our God in all things, who hath delivered up the ungodly.

¹⁸Therefore whereas we are now purposed to keep the purification of the temple upon the five and twentieth day of the month Casleu, we thought it necessary to certify you thereof, that ye also might keep it, as the feast of the tabernacles, and of the fire, which was given us when Neemias offered sacrifice, after that he had builded the temple and the altar.

¹⁹For when our fathers were led into Persia, the priests that were then devout took the fire of the altar privily, and hid it in an hollow place of a pit without water, where they kept it sure, so that the place was unknown to all men.

²⁰Now after many years, when it pleased God, Neemias, being sent from the king of Persia, did send of the posterity of those priests that had hid it to the fire: but when they told us they found no fire, but thick water;

²¹Then commanded he them to draw it up, and to bring it; and when the sacrifices were laid on, Neemias commanded the priests to sprinkle the wood and the things laid thereupon with the water.

²²When this was done, and the time came that the sun shone, which afore was hid in the cloud, there was a great fire kindled, so that every man marvelled.

²³And the priests made a prayer whilst the sacrifice was consuming, I say, both the priests, and all the rest, Jonathan beginning, and the rest answering thereunto, as Neemias did.

²⁴And the prayer was after this manner; O Lord, Lord God, Creator of all things, who art fearful and strong, and righteous, and merciful, and the only and gracious King, ²⁵The only giver of all things, the only just, almighty, and everlasting, thou that deliverest Israel from all trouble, and didst choose the fathers, and sanctify them:

²⁶Receive the sacrifice for thy whole people Israel, and preserve thine own portion, and sanctify it.

²⁷Gather those together that are scattered from us, deliver them that serve among the heathen, look upon them that are despised and abhorred, and let the heathen know that thou art our God.

²⁸Punish them that oppress us, and with pride do us wrong.

²⁹Plant thy people again in thy holy place, as Moses hath spoken.

³⁰And the priests sung psalms of thanksgiving.

³¹Now when the sacrifice was consumed, Neemias commanded the water that was left to be poured on the great stones.

³²When this was done, there was kindled a flame: but it was consumed by the light that shined from the altar.

³³So when this matter was known, it was told the king of Persia, that in the place, where the priests that were led away had hid the fire, there appeared water, and that Neemias had purified the sacrifices therewith.

2 Maccabees

³⁴Then the king, inclosing the place, made it holy, after he had tried the matter.

³⁵And the king took many gifts, and bestowed thereof on those whom he would gratify.

³⁶And Neemias called this thing Naphthar, which is as much as to say, a cleansing: but many men call it Nephi.

CHAPTER 2

¹It is also found in the records, that Jeremy the prophet commanded them that were carried away to take of the fire, as it hath been signified:

²And how that the prophet, having given them the law, charged them not to forget the commandments of the Lord, and that they should not err in their minds, when they see images of silver and gold, with their ornaments.

³And with other such speeches exhorted he them, that the law should not depart from their hearts.

⁴It was also contained in the same writing, that the prophet, being warned of God, commanded the tabernacle and the ark to go with him, as he went forth into the mountain, where Moses climbed up, and saw the heritage of God.

⁵And when Jeremy came thither, he found an hollow cave, wherein he laid the tabernacle, and the ark, and the altar of incense, and so stopped the door.

⁶And some of those that followed him came to mark the way, but they could not find it.

⁷Which when Jeremy perceived, he blamed them, saying, As for that place, it shall be unknown until the time that God gather his people again together, and receive them unto mercy.

⁸Then shall the Lord shew them these things, and the glory of the Lord shall appear, and the cloud also, as it was shewed under Moses, and as when Solomon desired that the place might be honourably sanctified.

⁹It was also declared, that he being wise offered the sacrifice of dedication, and of the finishing of the temple.

¹⁰And as when Moses prayed unto the Lord, the fire came down from heaven, and consumed the sacrifices: even so prayed Solomon also, and the fire came down from heaven, and consumed the burnt offerings.

¹¹And Moses said, Because the sin offering was not to be eaten, it was consumed.

¹²So Solomon kept those eight days.

¹³The same things also were reported in the writings and commentaries of Neemias; and how he founding a library gathered together the acts of the kings, and the prophets, and of David, and the epistles of the kings concerning the holy gifts.

¹⁴In like manner also Judas gathered together all those things that were lost by reason of the war we had, and they remain with us, ¹⁵Wherefore if ye have need thereof, send some to fetch them unto you.

2 Maccabees

¹⁶Whereas we then are about to celebrate the purification, we have written unto you, and ye shall do well, if ye keep the same days.

¹⁷We hope also, that the God, that delivered all his people, and gave them all an heritage, and the kingdom, and the priesthood, and the sanctuary, ¹⁸As he promised in the law, will shortly have mercy upon us, and gather us together out of every land under heaven into the holy place: for he hath delivered us out of great troubles, and hath purified the place.

¹⁹Now as concerning Judas Maccabeus, and his brethren, and the purification of the great temple, and the dedication of the altar,

²⁰And the wars against Antiochus Epiphanes, and Eupator his son,

²¹And the manifest signs that came from heaven unto those that behaved themselves manfully to their honour for Judaism: so that, being but a few, they overcame the whole country, and chased barbarous multitudes,

²²And recovered again the temple renowned all the world over, and freed the city, and upheld the laws which were going down, the Lord being gracious unto them with all favour:

²³All these things, I say, being declared by Jason of Cyrene in five books, we will assay to abridge in one volume.

²⁴For considering the infinite number, and the difficulty which they find that desire to look into the narrations of the story, for the variety of the matter, ²⁵We have been careful, that they that will read may have delight, and that they that are desirous to commit to memory might have ease, and that all into whose hands it comes might have profit.

²⁶Therefore to us, that have taken upon us this painful labour of abridging, it was not easy, but a matter of sweat and watching;

²⁷Even as it is no ease unto him that prepareth a banquet, and seeketh the benefit of others: yet for the pleasuring of many we will undertake gladly this great pains;

²⁸Leaving to the author the exact handling of every particular, and labouring to follow the rules of an abridgement.

²⁹For as the master builder of a new house must care for the whole building; but he that undertaketh to set it out, and paint it, must seek out fit things for the adorning thereof: even so I think it is with us.

³⁰To stand upon every point, and go over things at large, and to be curious in particulars, belongeth to the first author of the story:

³¹But to use brevity, and avoid much labouring of the work, is to be granted to him that will make an abridgment.

³²Here then will we begin the story: only adding thus much to that which hath been said, that it is a foolish thing to make a long prologue, and to be short in the story itself.

2 Maccabees

CHAPTER 3

¹Now when the holy city was inhabited with all peace, and the laws were kept very well, because of the godliness of Onias the high priest, and his hatred of wickedness,

²It came to pass that even the kings themselves did honour the place, and magnify the temple with their best gifts;

³Insomuch that Seleucus of Asia of his own revenues bare all the costs belonging to the service of the sacrifices.

⁴But one Simon of the tribe of Benjamin, who was made governor of the temple, fell out with the high priest about disorder in the city.

⁵And when he could not overcome Onias, he gat him to Apollonius the son of Thraseas, who then was governor of Celosyria and Phenice, ⁶And told him that the treasury in Jerusalem was full of infinite sums of money, so that the multitude of their riches, which did not pertain to the account of the sacrifices, was innumerable, and that it was possible to bring all into the king's hand.

⁷Now when Apollonius came to the king, and had shewed him of the money whereof he was told, the king chose out Heliodorus his treasurer, and sent him with a commandment to bring him the foresaid money.

⁸So forthwith Heliodorus took his journey; under a colour of visiting the cities of Celosyria and Phenice, but indeed to fulfil the king's purpose.

⁹And when he was come to Jerusalem, and had been courteously received of the high priest of the city, he told him what intelligence was given of the money, and declared wherefore he came, and asked if these things were so indeed.

¹⁰Then the high priest told him that there was such money laid up for the relief of widows and fatherless children:

¹¹And that some of it belonged to Hircanus son of Tobias, a man of great dignity, and not as that wicked Simon had misinformed: the sum whereof in all was four hundred talents of silver, and two hundred of gold:

¹²And that it was altogether impossible that such wrongs should be done unto them, that had committed it to the holiness of the place, and to the majesty and inviolable sanctity of the temple, honoured over all the world.

¹³But Heliodorus, because of the king's commandment given him, said, That in any wise it must be brought into the king's treasury.

¹⁴So at the day which he appointed he entered in to order this matter: wherefore there was no small agony throughout the whole city.

¹⁵But the priests, prostrating themselves before the altar in their priests' vestments, called unto heaven upon him that made a law concerning things given to he kept, that they should safely be preserved for such as had committed them to be kept.

¹⁶Then whoso had looked the high priest in the face, it would have wounded his heart: for his countenance and the changing of his colour declared the inward agony of his mind.

¹⁷For the man was so compassed with fear and horror of the body, that it was manifest to them that looked upon him, what sorrow he had now in his heart.

¹⁸Others ran flocking out of their houses to the general supplication, because the place was like to come into contempt.

¹⁹And the women, girt with sackcloth under their breasts, abounded in the streets, and the virgins that were kept in ran, some to the gates, and some to the walls, and others looked out of the windows.

²⁰And all, holding their hands toward heaven, made supplication.

²¹Then it would have pitied a man to see the falling down of the multitude of all sorts, and the fear of the high priest being in such an agony.

²²They then called upon the Almighty Lord to keep the things committed of trust safe and sure for those that had committed them.

²³Nevertheless Heliodorus executed that which was decreed.

²⁴Now as he was there present himself with his guard about the treasury, the Lord of spirits, and the Prince of all power, caused a great apparition, so that all that presumed to come in with him were astonished at the power of God, and fainted, and were sore afraid.

²⁵For there appeared unto them an horse with a terrible rider upon him, and adorned with a very fair covering, and he ran fiercely, and smote at Heliodorus with his forefeet, and it seemed that he that sat upon the horse had complete harness of gold.

²⁶Moreover two other young men appeared before him, notable in strength, excellent in beauty, and comely in apparel, who stood by him on either side; and scourged him continually, and gave him many sore stripes.

²⁷And Heliodorus fell suddenly unto the ground, and was compassed with great darkness: but they that were with him took him up, and put him into a litter.

²⁸Thus him, that lately came with a great train and with all his guard into the said treasury, they carried out, being unable to help himself with his weapons: and manifestly they acknowledged the power of God.

²⁹For he by the hand of God was cast down, and lay speechless without all hope of life.

³⁰But they praised the Lord, that had miraculously honoured his own place: for the temple; which a little afore was full of fear and trouble, when the Almighty Lord appeared, was filled with joy and gladness.

2 Maccabees

³¹Then straightways certain of Heliodorus' friends prayed Onias, that he would call upon the most High to grant him his life, who lay ready to give up the ghost.

³²So the high priest, suspecting lest the king should misconceive that some treachery had been done to Heliodorus by the Jews, offered a sacrifice for the health of the man.

³³Now as the high priest was making an atonement, the same young men in the same clothing appeared and stood beside Heliodorus, saying, Give Onias the high priest great thanks, insomuch as for his sake the Lord hath granted thee life:

³⁴And seeing that thou hast been scourged from heaven, declare unto all men the mighty power of God. And when they had spoken these words, they appeared no more.

³⁵So Heliodorus, after he had offered sacrifice unto the Lord, and made great vows unto him that had saved his life, and saluted Onias, returned with his host to the king.

³⁶Then testified he to all men the works of the great God, which he had seen with his eyes.

³⁷And when the king Heliodorus, who might be a fit man to be sent yet once again to Jerusalem, he said, ³⁸If thou hast any enemy or traitor, send him thither, and thou shalt receive him well scourged, if he escape with his life: for in that place, no doubt; there is an especial power of God.

³⁹For he that dwelleth in heaven hath his eye on that place, and defendeth it; and he beateth and destroyeth them that come to hurt it.

⁴⁰And the things concerning Heliodorus, and the keeping of the treasury, fell out on this sort.

CHAPTER 4

¹This Simon now, of whom we spake afore, having been a betrayer of the money, and of his country, slandered Onias, as if he ha terrified Heliodorus, and been the worker of these evils.

²Thus was he bold to call him a traitor, that had deserved well of the city, and tendered his own nation, and was so zealous of the laws.

³But when their hatred went so far, that by one of Simon's faction murders were committed,

⁴Onias seeing the danger of this contention, and that Apollonius, as being the governor of Celosyria and Phenice, did rage, and increase Simon's malice, ⁵He went to the king, not to be an accuser of his countrymen, but seeking the good of all, both publick and private:

⁶For he saw that it was impossible that the state should continue quiet, and Simon leave his folly, unless the king did look thereunto.

⁷But after the death of Seleucus, when Antiochus, called Epiphanes, took the kingdom, Jason the brother of Onias laboured underhand to be high priest,

2 Maccabees

⁸Promising unto the king by intercession three hundred and threescore talents of silver, and of another revenue eighty talents:

⁹Beside this, he promised to assign an hundred and fifty more, if he might have licence to set him up a place for exercise, and for the training up of youth in the fashions of the heathen, and to write them of Jerusalem by the name of Antiochians.

¹⁰Which when the king had granted, and he had gotten into his hand the rule he forthwith brought his own nation to Greekish fashion.

¹¹And the royal privileges granted of special favour to the Jews by the means of John the father of Eupolemus, who went ambassador to Rome for amity and aid, he took away; and putting down the governments which were according to the law, he brought up new customs against the law:

¹²For he built gladly a place of exercise under the tower itself, and brought the chief young men under his subjection, and made them wear a hat.

¹³Now such was the height of Greek fashions, and increase of heathenish manners, through the exceeding profaneness of Jason, that ungodly wretch, and no high priest;

¹⁴That the priests had no courage to serve any more at the altar, but despising the temple, and neglecting the sacrifices, hastened to be partakers of the unlawful allowance in the place of exercise, after the game of Discus called them forth;

¹⁵Not setting by the honours of their fathers, but liking the glory of the Grecians best of all.

¹⁶By reason whereof sore calamity came upon them: for they had them to be their enemies and avengers, whose custom they followed so earnestly, and unto whom they desired to be like in all things.

¹⁷For it is not a light thing to do wickedly against the laws of God: but the time following shall declare these things.

¹⁸Now when the game that was used every faith year was kept at Tyrus, the king being present, ¹⁹This ungracious Jason sent special messengers from Jerusalem, who were Antiochians, to carry three hundred drachms of silver to the sacrifice of Hercules, which even the bearers thereof thought fit not to bestow upon the sacrifice, because it was not convenient, but to be reserved for other charges.

²⁰This money then, in regard of the sender, was appointed to Hercules' sacrifice; but because of the bearers thereof, it was employed to the making of gallies.

²¹Now when Apollonius the son of Menestheus was sent into Egypt for the coronation of king Ptolemeus Philometor, Antiochus, understanding him not to be well affected to his affairs, provided for his own safety:

2 Maccabees

whereupon he came to Joppa, and from thence to Jerusalem:

²²Where he was honourably received of Jason, and of the city, and was brought in with torch alight, and with great shoutings: and so afterward went with his host unto Phenice.

²³Three years afterward Jason sent Menelans, the aforesaid Simon's brother, to bear the money unto the king, and to put him in mind of certain necessary matters.

²⁴But he being brought to the presence of the king, when he had magnified him for the glorious appearance of his power, got the priesthood to himself, offering more than Jason by three hundred talents of silver.

²⁵So he came with the king's mandate, bringing nothing worthy the high priesthood, but having the fury of a cruel tyrant, and the rage of a savage beast.

²⁶Then Jason, who had undermined his own brother, being undermined by another, was compelled to flee into the country of the Ammonites.

²⁷So Menelans got the principality: but as for the money that he had promised unto the king, he took no good order for it, albeit Sostratis the ruler of the castle required it:

²⁸For unto him appertained the gathering of the customs. Wherefore they were both called before the king.

priesthood; and Sostratus left Crates, who was governor of the Cyprians.

³⁰While those things were in doing, they of Tarsus and Mallos made insurrection, because they were given to the king's concubine, called Antiochus.

³¹Then came the king in all haste to appease matters, leaving Andronicus, a man in authority, for his deputy.

³²Now Menelans, supposing that he had gotten a convenient time, stole certain vessels of gold out of the temple, and gave some of them to Andronicus, and some he sold into Tyrus and the cities round about.

³³Which when Onias knew of a surety, he reproved him, and withdrew himself into a sanctuary at Daphne, that lieth by Antiochia.

³⁴Wherefore Menelans, taking Andronicus apart, prayed, him to get Onias into his hands; who being persuaded thereunto, and coming to Onias in deceit, gave him his right hand with oaths; and though he were suspected by him, yet persuaded he him to come forth of the sanctuary: whom forthwith he shut up without regard of justice.

³⁵For the which cause not only the Jews, but many also of other nations, took great indignation, and were much grieved for the unjust murder of the man.

³⁶And when the king was come again from the places about Cilicia, the Jews that were in the city, and certain of the Greeks that abhorred the fact also, complained because Onias was slain without cause.

2 Maccabees

³⁷Therefore Antiochus was heartily sorry, and moved to pity, and wept, because of the sober and modest behaviour of him that was dead.

³⁸And being kindled with anger, forthwith he took away Andronicus his purple, and rent off his clothes, and leading him through the whole city unto that very place, where he had committed impiety against Onias, there slew he the cursed murderer. Thus the Lord rewarded him his punishment, as he had deserved.

³⁹Now when many sacrileges had been committed in the city by Lysimachus with the consent of Menelans, and the fruit thereof was spread abroad, the multitude gathered themselves together against Lysimachus, many vessels of gold being already carried away.

⁴⁰Whereupon the common people rising, and being filled with rage, Lysimachus armed about three thousand men, and began first to offer violence; one Auranus being the leader, a man far gone in years, and no less in folly.

⁴¹They then seeing the attempt of Lysimachus, some of them caught stones, some clubs, others taking handfuls of dust, that was next at hand, cast them all together upon Lysimachus, and those that set upon them.

⁴²Thus many of them they wounded, and some they struck to the ground, and all of them they forced to flee: but as for the churchrobber himself, him they killed beside the treasury.

⁴³Of these matters therefore there was an accusation laid against Menelans.

⁴⁴Now when the king came to Tyrus, three men that were sent from the senate pleaded the cause before him:

⁴⁵But Menelans, being now convicted, promised Ptolemee the son of Dorymenes to give him much money, if he would pacify the king toward him.

⁴⁶Whereupon Ptolemee taking the king aside into a certain gallery, as it were to take the air, brought him to be of another mind:

⁴⁷Insomuch that he discharged Menelans from the accusations, who notwithstanding was cause of all the mischief: and those poor men, who, if they had told their cause, yea, before the Scythians, should have been judged innocent, them he condemned to death.

⁴⁸Thus they that followed the matter for the city, and for the people, and for the holy vessels, did soon suffer unjust punishment.

⁴⁹Wherefore even they of Tyrus, moved with hatred of that wicked deed, caused them to be honourably buried.

⁵⁰And so through the covetousness of them that were of power Menelans remained still in authority, increasing in malice, and being a great traitor to the citizens.

2 Maccabees

CHAPTER 5

¹About the same time Antiochus prepared his second voyage into Egypt:

²And then it happened, that through all the city, for the space almost of forty days, there were seen horsemen running in the air, in cloth of gold, and armed with lances, like a band of soldiers, ³And troops of horsemen in array, encountering and running one against another, with shaking of shields, and multitude of pikes, and drawing of swords, and casting of darts, and glittering of golden ornaments, and harness of all sorts.

⁴Wherefore every man prayed that that apparition might turn to good.

⁵Now when there was gone forth a false rumour, as though Antiochus had been dead, Jason took at the least a thousand men, and suddenly made an assault upon the city; and they that were upon the walls being put back, and the city at length taken, Menelans fled into the castle:

⁶But Jason slew his own citizens without mercy, not considering that to get the day of them of his own nation would be a most unhappy day for him; but thinking they had been his enemies, and not his countrymen, whom he conquered.

⁷Howbeit for all this he obtained not the principality, but at the last received shame for the reward of his treason, and fled again into the country of the Ammonites.

⁸In the end therefore he had an unhappy return, being accused before Aretas the king of the Arabians, fleeing from city to city, pursued of all men, hated as a forsaker of the laws, and being had in abomination as an open enemy of his country and countrymen, he was cast out into Egypt.

⁹Thus he that had driven many out of their country perished in a strange land, retiring to the Lacedemonians, and thinking there to find succour by reason of his kindred:

¹⁰And he that had cast out many unburied had none to mourn for him, nor any solemn funerals at all, nor sepulchre with his fathers.

¹¹Now when this that was done came to the king's ear, he thought that Judea had revolted: whereupon removing out of Egypt in a furious mind, he took the city by force of arms, ¹²And commanded his men of war not to spare such as they met, and to slay such as went up upon the houses.

¹³Thus there was killing of young and old, making away of men, women, and children, slaying of virgins and infants.

¹⁴And there were destroyed within the space of three whole days fourscore thousand, whereof forty thousand were slain in the conflict; and no fewer sold than slain.

¹⁵Yet was he not content with this, but presumed to go into the most holy temple of all the world; Menelans, that traitor to the laws, and to his own country, being his guide:

2 Maccabees

¹⁶And taking the holy vessels with polluted hands, and with profane hands pulling down the things that were dedicated by other kings to the augmentation and glory and honour of the place, he gave them away.

¹⁷And so haughty was Antiochus in mind, that he considered not that the Lord was angry for a while for the sins of them that dwelt in the city, and therefore his eye was not upon the place.

¹⁸For had they not been formerly wrapped in many sins, this man, as soon as he had come, had forthwith been scourged, and put back from his presumption, as Heliodorus was, whom Seleucus the king sent to view the treasury.

¹⁹Nevertheless God did not choose the people for the place's sake, but the place far the people's sake.

²⁰And therefore the place itself, that was partaker with them of the adversity that happened to the nation, did afterward communicate in the benefits sent from the Lord: and as it was forsaken in the wrath of the Almighty, so again, the great Lord being reconciled, it was set up with all glory.

²¹So when Antiochus had carried out of the temple a thousand and eight hundred talents, he departed in all haste unto Antiochia, weening in his pride to make the land navigable, and the sea passable by foot: such was the haughtiness of his mind.

²²And he left governors to vex the nation: at Jerusalem, Philip, for his country a Phrygian, and for manners more barbarous than he that set him there;

²³And at Garizim, Andronicus; and besides, Menelans, who worse than all the rest bare an heavy hand over the citizens, having a malicious mind against his countrymen the Jews.

²⁴He sent also that detestable ringleader Apollonius with an army of two and twenty thousand, commanding him to slay all those that were in their best age, and to sell the women and the younger sort:

²⁵Who coming to Jerusalem, and pretending peace, did forbear till the holy day of the sabbath, when taking the Jews keeping holy day, he commanded his men to arm themselves.

²⁶And so he slew all them that were gone to the celebrating of the sabbath, and running through the city with weapons slew great multitudes.

²⁷But Judas Maccabeus with nine others, or thereabout, withdrew himself into the wilderness, and lived in the mountains after the manner of beasts, with his company, who fed on herbs continually, lest they should be partakers of the pollution.

CHAPTER 6

¹Not long after this the king sent an old man of Athens to compel the Jews

2 Maccabees

to depart from the laws of their fathers, and not to live after the laws of God:

²And to pollute also the temple in Jerusalem, and to call it the temple of Jupiter Olympius; and that in Garizim, of Jupiter the Defender of strangers, as they did desire that dwelt in the place.

³The coming in of this mischief was sore and grievous to the people:

⁴For the temple was filled with riot and revelling by the Gentiles, who dallied with harlots, and had to do with women within the circuit of the holy places, and besides that brought in things that were not lawful.

⁵The altar also was filled with profane things, which the law forbiddeth.

⁶Neither was it lawful for a man to keep sabbath days or ancient fasts, or to profess himself at all to be a Jew.

⁷And in the day of the king's birth every month they were brought by bitter constraint to eat of the sacrifices; and when the fast of Bacchus was kept, the Jews were compelled to go in procession to Bacchus, carrying ivy.

⁸Moreover there went out a decree to the neighbour cities of the heathen, by the suggestion of Ptolemee, against the Jews, that they should observe the same fashions, and be partakers of their sacrifices:

⁹And whoso would not conform themselves to the manners of the Gentiles should be put to death. Then might a man have seen the present misery.

¹⁰For there were two women brought, who had circumcised their children; whom when they had openly led round about the city, the babes hanging at their breasts, they cast them down headlong from the wall.

¹¹And others, that had run together into caves near by, to keep the sabbath day secretly, being discovered by Philip, were all burnt together, because they made a conscience to help themselves for the honour of the most sacred day.

¹²Now I beseech those that read this book, that they be not discouraged for these calamities, but that they judge those punishments not to be for destruction, but for a chastening of our nation.

¹³For it is a token of his great goodness, when wicked doers are not suffered any long time, but forthwith punished.

¹⁴For not as with other nations, whom the Lord patiently forbearerth to punish, till they be come to the fulness of their sins, so dealeth he with us, ¹⁵Lest that, being come to the height of sin, afterwards he should take vengeance of us.

¹⁶And therefore he never withdraweth his mercy from us: and though he punish with adversity, yet doth he never forsake his people.

¹⁷But let this that we at spoken be for a warning unto us. And now will we come to the declaring of the matter in a few words.

2 Maccabees

¹⁸Eleazar, one of the principal scribes, an aged man, and of a well favoured countenance, was constrained to open his mouth, and to eat swine's flesh.

¹⁹But he, choosing rather to die gloriously, than to live stained with such an abomination, spit it forth, and came of his own accord to the torment, ²⁰As it behoved them to come, that are resolute to stand out against such things, as are not lawful for love of life to be tasted.

²¹But they that had the charge of that wicked feast, for the old acquaintance they had with the man, taking him aside, besought him to bring flesh of his own provision, such as was lawful for him to use, and make as if he did eat of the flesh taken from the sacrifice commanded by the king;

²²That in so doing he might be delivered from death, and for the old friendship with them find favour.

²³But he began to consider discreetly, and as became his age, and the excellency of his ancient years, and the honour of his gray head, whereon was come, and his most honest education from a child, or rather the holy law made and given by God: therefore he answered accordingly, and willed them straightways to send him to the grave.

²⁴For it becometh not our age, said he, in any wise to dissemble, whereby many young persons might think that Eleazar, being fourscore years old and ten, were now gone to a strange religion;

²⁵And so they through mine hypocrisy, and desire to live a little time and a moment longer, should be deceived by me, and I get a stain to mine old age, and make it abominable.

²⁶For though for the present time I should be delivered from the punishment of men: yet should I not escape the hand of the Almighty, neither alive, nor dead.

²⁷Wherefore now, manfully changing this life, I will shew myself such an one as mine age requireth, ²⁸And leave a notable example to such as be young to die willingly and courageously for the honourable and holy laws. And when he had said these words, immediately he went to the torment:

²⁹They that led him changing the good will they bare him a little before into hatred, because the foresaid speeches proceeded, as they thought, from a desperate mind.

³⁰But when he was ready to die with stripes, he groaned, and said, It is manifest unto the Lord, that hath the holy knowledge, that whereas I might have been delivered from death, I now endure sore pains in body by being beaten: but in soul am well content to suffer these things, because I fear him.

³¹And thus this man died, leaving his death for an example of a noble courage, and a memorial of virtue, not only unto young men, but unto all his nation.

2 Maccabees

CHAPTER 7

It came to pass also, that seven brethren with their mother were taken, and compelled by the king against the law to taste swine's flesh, and were tormented with scourges and whips.

²But one of them that spake first said thus, What wouldest thou ask or learn of us? we are ready to die, rather than to transgress the laws of our fathers.

³Then the king, being in a rage, commanded pans and caldrons to be made hot: ⁴Which forthwith being heated, he commanded to cut out the tongue of him that spake first, and to cut off the utmost parts of his body, the rest of his brethren and his mother looking on.

⁵Now when he was thus maimed in all his members, he commanded him being yet alive to be brought to the fire, and to be fried in the pan: and as the vapour of the pan was for a good space dispersed, they exhorted one another with the mother to die manfully, saying thus,

⁶The Lord God looketh upon us, and in truth hath comfort in us, as Moses in his song, which witnessed to their faces, declared, saying, And he shall be comforted in his servants.

⁷So when the first was dead after this number, they brought the second to make him a mocking stock: and when they had pulled off the skin of his head with the hair, they asked him, Wilt thou eat, before thou be punished throughout every member of thy body?

⁸But he answered in his own language, and said, No. Wherefore he also received the next torment in order, as the former did.

⁹And when he was at the last gasp, he said, Thou like a fury takest us out of this present life, but the King of the world shall raise us up, who have died for his laws, unto everlasting life.

¹⁰After him was the third made a mocking stock: and when he was required, he put out his tongue, and that right soon, holding forth his hands manfully.

¹¹And said courageously, These I had from heaven; and for his laws I despise them; and from him I hope to receive them again.

¹²Insomuch that the king, and they that were with him, marvelled at the young man's courage, for that he nothing regarded the pains.

¹³Now when this man was dead also, they tormented and mangled the fourth in like manner.

¹⁴So when he was ready to die he said thus, It is good, being put to death by men, to look for hope from God to be raised up again by him: as for thee, thou shalt have no resurrection to life.

¹⁵Afterward they brought the fifth also, and mangled him.

¹⁶Then looked he unto the king, and said, Thou hast power over men, thou art corruptible, thou doest what thou wilt; yet think not that our nation is forsaken of God; ¹⁷But abide a while, and behold his great power, how he will torment thee and thy seed.

2 Maccabees

¹⁸After him also they brought the sixth, who being ready to die said, Be not deceived without cause: for we suffer these things for ourselves, having sinned against our God: therefore marvellous things are done unto us.

¹⁹But think not thou, that takest in hand to strive against God, that thou shalt escape unpunished.

²⁰But the mother was marvellous above all, and worthy of honourable memory: for when she saw her seven sons slain within the space of one day, she bare it with a good courage, because of the hope that she had in the Lord.

²¹Yea, she exhorted every one of them in her own language, filled with courageous spirits; and stirring up her womanish thoughts with a manly stomach, she said unto them,

²²I cannot tell how ye came into my womb: for I neither gave you breath nor life, neither was it I that formed the members of every one of you;

²³But doubtless the Creator of the world, who formed the generation of man, and found out the beginning of all things, will also of his own mercy give you breath and life again, as ye now regard not your own selves for his laws' sake.

²⁴Now Antiochus, thinking himself despised, and suspecting it to be a reproachful speech, whilst the youngest was yet alive, did not only exhort him by words, but also assured him with oaths, that he would make him both a rich and a happy man, if he would turn from the laws of his fathers; and that also he would take him for his friend, and trust him with affairs.

²⁵But when the young man would in no case hearken unto him, the king called his mother, and exhorted her that she would counsel the young man to save his life.

²⁶And when he had exhorted her with many words, she promised him that she would counsel her son.

²⁷But she bowing herself toward him, laughing the cruel tyrant to scorn, spake in her country language on this manner; O my son, have pity upon me that bare thee nine months in my womb, and gave thee such three years, and nourished thee, and brought thee up unto this age, and endured the troubles of education.

²⁸I beseech thee, my son, look upon the heaven and the earth, and all that is therein, and consider that God made them of things that were not; and so was mankind made likewise.

²⁹Fear not this tormentor, but, being worthy of thy brethren, take thy death that I may receive thee again in mercy with thy brethren.

³⁰Whiles she was yet speaking these words, the young man said, Whom wait ye for? I will not obey the king's commandment: but I will obey the commandment of the law that was given unto our fathers by Moses.

2 Maccabees

³¹And thou, that hast been the author of all mischief against the Hebrews, shalt not escape the hands of God.

³²For we suffer because of our sins.

³³And though the living Lord be angry with us a little while for our chastening and correction, yet shall he be at one again with his servants.

³⁴But thou, O godless man, and of all other most wicked, be not lifted up without a cause, nor puffed up with uncertain hopes, lifting up thy hand against the servants of God:

³⁵For thou hast not yet escaped the judgment of Almighty God, who seeth all things.

³⁶For our brethren, who now have suffered a short pain, are dead under God's covenant of everlasting life: but thou, through the judgment of God, shalt receive just punishment for thy pride.

³⁷But I, as my brethren, offer up my body and life for the laws of our fathers, beseeching God that he would speedily be merciful unto our nation; and that thou by torments and plagues mayest confess, that he alone is God;

³⁸And that in me and my brethren the wrath of the Almighty, which is justly brought upon our nation, may cease.

³⁹Than the king' being in a rage, handed him worse than all the rest, and took it grievously that he was mocked.

⁴⁰So this man died undefiled, and put his whole trust in the Lord.

⁴¹Last of all after the sons the mother died.

⁴²Let this be enough now to have spoken concerning the idolatrous feasts, and the extreme tortures.

CHAPTER 8

¹Then Judas Maccabeus, and they that were with him, went privily into the towns, and called their kinsfolks together, and took unto them all such as continued in the Jews' religion, and assembled about six thousand men.

²And they called upon the Lord, that he would look upon the people that was trodden down of all; and also pity the temple profaned of ungodly men;

³And that he would have compassion upon the city, sore defaced, and ready to be made even with the ground; and hear the blood that cried unto him,

⁴And remember the wicked slaughter of harmless infants, and the blasphemies committed against his name; and that he would shew his hatred against the wicked.

⁵Now when Maccabeis had his company about him, he could not be withstood by the heathen: for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercy.

⁶Therefore he came at unawares, and burnt up towns and cities, and got into his hands the most commodious places, and overcame and put to flight no small number of his enemies.

⁷But specially took he advantage of the night for such privy attempts, insomuch that the fruit of his holiness was spread every where.

2 Maccabees

⁸So when Philip saw that this man increased by little and little, and that things prospered with him still more and more, he wrote unto Ptolemeus, the governor of Celosyria and Phenice, to yield more aid to the king's affairs.

¹⁰So Nicanor undertook to make so much money of the captive Jews, as should defray the tribute of two thousand talents, which the king was to pay to the Romans.

¹¹Wherefore immediately he sent to the cities upon the sea coast, proclaiming a sale of the captive Jews, and promising that they should have fourscore and ten bodies for one talent, not expecting the vengeance that was to follow upon him from the Almighty God.

¹²Now when word was brought unto Judas of Nicanor's coming, and he had imparted unto those that were with him that the army was at hand, ¹³They that were fearful, and distrusted the justice of God, fled, and conveyed themselves away.

¹⁴Others sold all that they had left, and withal besought the Lord to deliver them, sold by the wicked Nicanor before they met together:

¹⁵And if not for their own sakes, yet for the covenants he had made with their fathers, and for his holy and glorious name's sake, by which they were called.

¹⁶So Maccabeus called his men together unto the number of six thousand, and exhorted them not to be stricken with terror of the enemy, nor to fear the great multitude of the heathen, who came wrongly against them; but to fight manfully,

¹⁷And to set before their eyes the injury that they had unjustly done to the holy place, and the cruel handling of the city, whereof they made a mockery, and also the taking away of the government of their forefathers:

¹⁸For they, said he, trust in their weapons and boldness; but our confidence is in the Almighty who at a beck can cast down both them that come against us, and also all the world.

¹⁹Moreover, he recounted unto them what helps their forefathers had found, and how they were delivered, when under Sennacherib an hundred fourscore and five thousand perished.

²⁰And he told them of the battle that they had in Babylon with the Galatians, how they came but eight thousand in all to the business, with four thousand Macedonians, and that the Macedonians being perplexed, the eight thousand destroyed an hundred and twenty thousand because of the help that they had from heaven, and so received a great booty.

2 Maccabees

²¹Thus when he had made them bold with these words, and ready to die for the law and the country, he divided his army into four parts;

²²And joined with himself his own brethren, leaders of each band, to wit Simon, and Joseph, and Jonathan, giving each one fifteen hundred men.

²³Also he appointed Eleazar to read the holy book: and when he had given them this watchword, The help of God; himself leading the first band, ²⁴And by the help of the Almighty they slew above nine thousand of their enemies, and wounded and maimed the most part of Nicanor's host, and so put all to flight; ²⁵And took their money that came to buy them, and pursued them far: but lacking time they returned:

²⁶For it was the day before the sabbath, and therefore they would no longer pursue them.

²⁷So when they had gathered their armour together, and spoiled their enemies, they occupied themselves about the sabbath, yielding exceeding praise and thanks to the Lord, who had preserved them unto that day, which was the beginning of mercy distilling upon them.

²⁸And after the sabbath, when they had given part of the spoils to the maimed, and the widows, and orphans, the residue they divided among themselves and their servants.

²⁹When this was done, and they had made a common supplication, they besought the merciful Lord to be reconciled with his servants for ever.

³⁰Moreover of those that were with Timotheus and Bacchides, who fought against them, they slew above twenty thousand, and very easily got high and strong holds, and divided among themselves many spoils more, and made the maimed, orphans, widows, yea, and the aged also, equal in spoils with themselves.

³¹And when they had gathered their armour together, they laid them up all carefully in convenient places, and the remnant of the spoils they brought to Jerusalem.

³²They slew also Philarches, that wicked person, who was with Timotheus, and had annoyed the Jews many ways.

³³Furthermore at such time as they kept the feast for the victory in their country they burnt Callisthenes, that had set fire upon the holy gates, who had fled into a little house; and so he received a reward meet for his wickedness.

³⁴As for that most ungracious Nicanor, who had brought a thousand merchants to buy the Jews, ³⁵He was through the help of the Lord brought down by them, of whom he made least account; and putting off his glorious apparel, and discharging his company, he came like a fugitive servant through the midland unto Antioch having very great dishonour, for that his host was destroyed.

2 Maccabees

³⁶Thus he, that took upon him to make good to the Romans their tribute by means of captives in Jerusalem, told abroad, that the Jews had God to fight for them, and therefore they could not be hurt, because they followed the laws that he gave them.

CHAPTER 9

¹About that time came Antiochus with dis-honour out of the country of Persia

²For he had entered the city called Persepolis, and went about to rob the temple, and to hold the city; whereupon the multitude running to defend themselves with their weapons put them to flight; and so it happened, that Antiochus being put to flight of the inhabitants returned with shame.

³Now when he came to Ecbatane, news was brought him what had happened unto Nicanor and Timotheus.

⁴Then swelling with anger. he thought to avenge upon the Jews the disgrace done unto him by those that made him flee. Therefore commanded he his chariotman to drive without ceasing, and to dispatch the journey, the judgment of God now following him. For he had spoken proudly in this sort, That he would come to Jerusalem and make it a common burying place of the Jews.

⁵But the Lord Almighty, the God of Isreal, smote him with an incurable and invisible plague: or as soon as he had spoken these words, a pain of the bowels that was remediless came upon him, and sore torments of the inner parts;

⁶And that most justly: for he had tormented other men's bowels with many and strange torments.

⁸And thus he that a little afore thought he might command the waves of the sea, (so proud was he beyond the condition of man) and weigh the high mountains in a balance, was now cast on the ground, and carried in an horselitter, shewing forth unto all the manifest power of God.

⁹So that the worms rose up out of the body of this wicked man, and whiles he lived in sorrow and pain, his flesh fell away, and the filthiness of his smell was noisome to all his army.

¹⁰And the man, that thought a little afore he could reach to the stars of heaven, no man could endure to carry for his intolerable stink.

¹¹Here therefore, being plagued, he began to leave off his great pride, and to come to the knowledge of himself by the scourge of God, his pain increasing every moment.

¹²And when he himself could not abide his own smell, he said these words, It is meet to be subject unto

2 Maccabees

God, and that a man that is mortal should not proudly think of himself if he were God.

¹³This wicked person vowed also unto the Lord, who now no more would have mercy upon him, saying thus,

¹⁴That the holy city (to the which he was going in haste to lay it even with the ground, and to make it a common buryingplace,) he would set at liberty:

¹⁵And as touching the Jews, whom he had judged not worthy so much as to be buried, but to be cast out with their children to be devoured of the fowls and wild beasts, he would make them all equals to the citizens of Athens:

¹⁶And the holy temple, which before he had spoiled, he would garnish with goodly gifts, and restore all the holy vessels with many more, and out of his own revenue defray the charges belonging to the sacrifices:

¹⁷Yea, and that also he would become a Jew himself, and go through all the world that was inhabited, and declare the power of God.

¹⁸But for all this his pains would not cease: for the just judgment of God was come upon him: therefore despairing of his health, he wrote unto the Jews the letter underwritten, containing the form of a supplication, after this manner:

¹⁹Antiochus, king and governor, to the good Jews his citizens wisheth much joy, health, and prosperity:

²⁰If ye and your children fare well, and your affairs be to your contentment, I give very great thanks to God, having my hope in heaven.

²¹As for me, I was weak, or else I would have remembered kindly your honour and good will returning out of Persia, and being taken with a grievous disease, I thought it necessary to care for the common safety of all:

²²Not distrusting mine health, but having great hope to escape this sickness.

²³But considering that even my father, at what time he led an army into the high countries, appointed a successor, ²⁴To the end that, if any thing fell out contrary to expectation, or if any tidings were brought that were grievous, they of the land, knowing to whom the state was left, might not be troubled:

²⁵Again, considering how that the princes that are borderers and neighbours unto my kingdom wait for opportunities, and expect what shall be the event. I have appointed my son Antiochus king, whom I often committed and commended unto many of you, when I went up into the high provinces; to whom I have written as followeth:

²⁶Therefore I pray and request you to remember the benefits that I have done unto you generally, and in special, and that every man will be still faithful to me and my son.

²⁷For I am persuaded that he understanding my mind will favourably and graciously yield to your desires.

2 Maccabees

²⁸Thus the murderer and blasphemer having suffered most grievously, as he entreated other men, so died he a miserable death in a strange country in the mountains.

²⁹And Philip, that was brought up with him, carried away his body, who also fearing the son of Antiochus went into Egypt to Ptolemeus Philometor.

CHAPTER 10

¹Now Maccabeus and his company, the Lord guiding them, recovered the temple and the city:

²But the altars which the heathen had built in the open street, and also the chapels, they pulled down.

³And having cleansed the temple they made another altar, and striking stones they took fire out of them, and offered a sacrifice after two years, and set forth incense, and lights, and shewbread.

⁴When that was done, they fell flat down, and besought the Lord that they might come no more into such troubles; but if they sinned any more against him, that he himself would chasten them with mercy, and that they might not be delivered unto the blasphemous and barbarous nations.

⁵Now upon the same day that the strangers profaned the temple, on the very same day it was cleansed again, even the five and twentieth day of the same month, which is Casleu.

⁶And they kept the eight days with gladness, as in the feast of the tabernacles, remembering that not long afore they had held the feast of the tabernacles, when as they wandered in the mountains and dens like beasts.

⁷Therefore they bare branches, and fair boughs, and palms also, and sang psalms unto him that had given them good success in cleansing his place.

⁸They ordained also by a common statute and decree, That every year those days should be kept of the whole nation of the Jews.

⁹And this was the end of Antiochus, called Epiphanes.

¹⁰Now will we declare the acts of Antiochus Eupator, who was the son of this wicked man, gathering briefly the calamities of the wars.

¹¹So when he was come to the crown, he set one Lysias over the affairs of his realm, and appointed him his chief governor of Celosyria and Phenice.

¹²For Ptolemeus, that was called Macron, choosing rather to do justice unto the Jews for the wrong that had been done unto them, endeavoured to continue peace with them.

¹³Whereupon being accused of the king's friends before Eupator, and called traitor at every word because he had left Cyprus, that Philometor had committed unto him, and departed to Antiochus Epiphanes, and seeing that he was in no honourable place, he was so discouraged, that he poisoned himself and died.

¹⁴But when Gorgias was governor of the holds, he hired soldiers, and nourished war continually with the Jews:

2 Maccabees

¹⁵And therewithall the Idumeans, having gotten into their hands the most commodious holds, kept the Jews occupied, and receiving those that were banished from Jerusalem, they went about to nourish war.

¹⁶Then they that were with Maccabeus made supplication, and besought God that he would be their helper; and so they ran with violence upon the strong holds of the Idumeans, ¹⁷And assaulting them strongly, they won the holds, and kept off all that fought upon the wall, and slew all that fell into their hands, and killed no fewer than twenty thousand.

¹⁸And because certain, who were no less than nine thousand, were fled together into two very strong castles, having all manner of things convenient to sustain the siege, ¹⁹Maccabeus left Simon and Joseph, and Zaccheus also, and them that were with him, who were enough to besiege them, and departed himself unto those places which more needed his help.

²⁰Now they that were with Simon, being led with covetousness, were persuaded for money through certain of those that were in the castle, and took seventy thousand drachms, and let some of them escape.

²¹But when it was told Maccabeus what was done, he called the governors of the people together, and accused those men, that they had sold their brethren for money, and set their enemies free to fight against them.

²²So he slew those that were found traitors, and immediately took the two castles.

²³And having good success with his weapons in all things he took in hand, he slew in the two holds more than twenty thousand.

²⁴Now Timotheus, whom the Jews had overcome before, when he had gathered a great multitude of foreign forces, and horses out of Asia not a few, came as though he would take Jewry by force of arms.

²⁵But when he drew near, they that were with Maccabeus turned themselves to pray unto God, and sprinkled earth upon their heads, and girded their loins with sackcloth, ²⁶And fell down at the foot of the altar, and besought him to be merciful to them, and to be an enemy to their enemies, and an adversary to their adversaries, as the law declareth.

²⁷So after the prayer they took their weapons, and went on further from the city: and when they drew near to their enemies, they kept by themselves.

²⁸Now the sun being newly risen, they joined both together; the one part having together with their virtue their refuge also unto the Lord for a pledge of their success and victory: the other side making their rage leader of their battle

²⁹But when the battle waxed strong, there appeared unto the enemies from heaven five comely men upon horses,

2 Maccabees

with bridles of gold, and two of them led the Jews,

³⁰And took Maccabeus betwixt them, and covered him on every side weapons, and kept him safe, but shot arrows and lightnings against the enemies: so that being confounded with blindness, and full of trouble, they were killed.

³¹And there were slain of footmen twenty thousand and five hundred, and six hundred horsemen.

³²As for Timotheus himself, he fled into a very strong hold, called Gawra, where Chereas was governor.

³³But they that were with Maccabeus laid siege against the fortress courageously four days.

³⁴And they that were within, trusting to the strength of the place, blasphemed exceedingly, and uttered wicked words.

³⁵Nevertheless upon the fifth day early twenty young men of Maccabeus' company, inflamed with anger because of the blasphemies, assaulted the wall manly, and with a fierce courage killed all that they met withal.

³⁶Others likewise ascending after them, whiles they were busied with them that were within, burnt the towers, and kindling fires burnt the blasphemers alive; and others broke open the gates, and, having received in the rest of the army, took the city, ³⁷And killed Timotheus, that was hid in a certain pit, and Chereas his brother, with Apollophanes.

³⁸When this was done, they praised the Lord with psalms and thanksgiving, who had done so great things for Israel, and given them the victory.

CHAPTER 11

¹Not long after the, Lysias the king's protector and cousin, who also managed the affairs, took sore displeasure for the things that were done.

²And when he had gathered about fourscore thousand with all the horsemen, he came against the Jews, thinking to make the city an habitation of the Gentiles, ³And to make a gain of the temple, as of the other chapels of the heathen, and to set the high priesthood to sale every year:

⁴Not at all considering the power of God but puffed up with his ten thousands of footmen, and his thousands of horsemen, and his fourscore elephants.

⁵So he came to Judea, and drew near to Bethsura, which was a strong town, but distant from Jerusalem about five furlongs, and he laid sore siege unto it.

⁶Now when they that were with Maccabeus heard that he besieged the holds, they and all the people with lamentation and tears besought the Lord that he would send a good angel to deliver Israel.

⁷Then Maccabeus himself first of all took weapons, exhorting the other that they would jeopard themselves together with him to help their brethren: so they went forth together with a willing mind.

2 Maccabees

⁸And as they were at Jerusalem, there appeared before them on horseback one in white clothing, shaking his armour of gold.

¹⁰Thus they marched forward in their armour, having an helper from heaven: for the Lord was merciful unto them ¹¹And giving a charge upon their enemies like lions, they slew eleven thousand footmen, and sixteen hundred horsemen, and put all the other to flight.

¹²Many of them also being wounded escaped naked; and Lysias himself fled away shamefully, and so escaped.

¹³Who, as he was a man of understanding, casting with himself what loss he had had, and considering that the Hebrews could not be overcome, because the Almighty God helped them, he sent unto them, ¹⁴And persuaded them to agree to all reasonable conditions, and promised that he would persuade the king that he must needs be a friend unto them.

¹⁵Then Maccabeus consented to all that Lysias desired, being careful of the common good; and whatsoever Maccabeus wrote unto Lysias concerning the Jews, the king granted it.

¹⁶For there were letters written unto the Jews from Lysias to this effect: Lysias unto the people of the Jews sendeth greeting:

¹⁷John and Absalom, who were sent from you, delivered me the petition subscribed, and made request for the performance of the contents thereof.

¹⁸Therefore what things soever were meet to be reported to the king, I have declared them, and he hath granted as much as might be.

¹⁹And if then ye will keep yourselves loyal to the state, hereafter also will I endeavour to be a means of your good.

²⁰But of the particulars I have given order both to these and the other that came from me, to commune with you.

²¹Fare ye well. The hundred and eight and fortieth year, the four and twentieth day of the month Dioscorinthius.

²²Now the king's letter contained these words: King Antiochus unto his brother Lysias sendeth greeting:

²³Since our father is translated unto the gods, our will is, that they that are in our realm live quietly, that every one may attend upon his own affairs.

²⁴We understand also that the Jews would not consent to our father, for to be brought unto the custom of the Gentiles, but had rather keep their own manner of living: for the which cause they require of us, that we should suffer them to live after their own laws.

2 Maccabees

²⁵Wherefore our mind is, that this nation shall be in rest, and we have determined to restore them their temple, that they may live according to the customs of their forefathers.

²⁶Thou shalt do well therefore to send unto them, and grant them peace, that when they are certified of our mind, they may be of good comfort, and ever go cheerfully about their own affairs.

²⁷And the letter of the king unto the nation of the Jews was after this manner: King Antiochus sendeth greeting unto the council, and the rest of the Jews:

²⁸If ye fare well, we have our desire; we are also in good health.

²⁹Menelans declared unto us, that your desire was to return home, and to follow your own business:

³⁰Wherefore they that will depart shall have safe conduct till the thirtieth day of Xanthicus with security.

³¹And the Jews shall use their own kind of meats and laws, as before; and none of them any manner of ways shall be molested for things ignorantly done.

³²I have sent also Menelans, that he may comfort you.

³³Fare ye well. In the hundred forty and eighth year, and the fifteenth day of the month Xanthicus.

³⁴The Romans also sent unto them a letter containing these words: Quintus Memmius and Titus Manlius, ambassadors of the Romans, send greeting unto the people of the Jews.

³⁵Whatsoever Lysias the king's cousin hath granted, therewith we also are well pleased.

³⁶But touching such things as he judged to be referred to the king, after ye have advised thereof, send one forthwith, that we may declare as it is convenient for you: for we are now going to Antioch.

³⁷Therefore send some with speed, that we may know what is your mind.

³⁸Farewell. This hundred and eight and fortieth year, the fifteenth day of the month Xanthicus.

CHAPTER 12

¹When these covenants were made, Lysias went unto the king, and the Jews were about their husbandry.

²But of the governours of several places, Timotheus, and Apollonius the son of Genneus, also Hieronymus, and Demophon, and beside them Nicanor the governor of Cyprus, would not suffer them to be quiet and live in peace.

³The men of Joppa also did such an ungodly deed: they prayed the Jews that dwelt among them to go with their wives and children into the boats which they had prepared, as though they had meant them no hurt.

⁴Who accepted of it according to the common decree of the city, as being desirous to live in peace, and suspecting nothing: but when they were gone forth into the deep, they drowned no less than two hundred of them.

2 Maccabees

⁵When Judas heard of this cruelty done unto his countrymen, he commanded those that were with him to make them ready.

⁶And calling upon God the righteous Judge, he came against those murderers of his brethren, and burnt the haven by night, and set the boats on fire, and those that fled thither he slew.

⁷And when the town was shut up, he went backward, as if he would return to root out all them of the city of Joppa.

⁸But when he heard that the Jamnites were minded to do in like manner unto the Jews that dwelt among them, ⁹He came upon the Jamnites also by night, and set fire on the haven and the navy, so that the light of the fire was seen at Jerusalem two hundred and forty furlongs off.

¹⁰Now when they were gone from thence nine furlongs in their journey toward Timotheus, no fewer than five thousand men on foot and five hundred horsemen of the Arabians set upon him.

¹¹Whereupon there was a very sore battle; but Judas' side by the help of God got the victory; so that the Nomades of Arabia, being overcome, besought Judas for peace, promising both to give him cattle, and to pleasure him otherwise.

¹²Then Judas, thinking indeed that they would be profitable in many things, granted them peace: whereupon they shook hands, and so they departed to their tents.

¹³He went also about to make a bridge to a certain strong city, which was fenced about with walls, and inhabited by people of divers countries; and the name of it was Caspis.

¹⁴But they that were within it put such trust in the strength of the walls and provision of victuals, that they behaved themselves rudely toward them that were with Judas, railing and blaspheming, and uttering such words as were not to be spoken.

¹⁵Wherefore Judas with his company, calling upon the great Lord of the world, who without rams or engines of war did cast down Jericho in the time of Joshua, gave a fierce assault against the walls, ¹⁶And took the city by the will of God, and made unspeakable slaughters, insomuch that a lake two furlongs broad near adjoining thereunto, being filled full, was seen running with blood.

¹⁷Then departed they from thence seven hundred and fifty furlongs, and came to Characa unto the Jews that are called Tubieni.

¹⁸But as for Timotheus, they found him not in the places: for before he had dispatched any thing, he departed from thence, having left a very strong garrison in a certain hold.

¹⁹Howbeit Dositheus and Sosipater, who were of Maccabeus' captains, went forth, and slew those that

²⁰And Maccabeus ranged his army by bands, and set them over the bands, and went against Timotheus, who had about him an hundred and twenty thousand men of foot, and two thousand and five hundred horsemen.

²¹Now when Timotheus had knowledge of Judas' coming, he sent the women and children and the other baggage unto a fortress called Carnion: for the town was hard to besiege, and uneasy to come unto, by reason of the straitness of all the places.

²²But when Judas his first band came in sight, the enemies, being smitten with fear and terror through the appearing of him who seeth all things, fled amain, one running into this way, another that way, so as that they were often hurt of their own men, and wounded with the points of their own swords.

²³Judas also was very earnest in pursuing them, killing those wicked wretches, of whom he slew about thirty thousand men.

²⁴Moreover Timotheus himself fell into the hands of Dositheus and Sosipater, whom he besought with much craft to let him go with his life, because he had many of the Jews' parents, and the brethren of some of them, who, if they put him to death, should not be regarded.

²⁵So when he had assured them with many words that he would restore them without hurt, according to the agreement, they let him go for the saving of his brethren.

²⁶Then Maccabeus marched forth to Carnion, and to the temple of Atargatis, and there he slew five and twenty thousand persons.

²⁷And after he had put to flight and destroyed them, Judas removed the host toward Ephron, a strong city, wherein Lysias abode, and a great multitude of divers nations, and the strong young men kept the walls, and defended them mightily: wherein also was great provision of engines and darts.

²⁸But when Judas and his company had called upon Almighty God, who with his power breaketh the strength of his enemies, they won the city, and slew twenty and five thousand of them that were within,

²⁹From thence they departed to Scythopolis, which lieth six hundred furlongs from Jerusalem,

³⁰But when the Jews that dwelt there had testified that the Scythopolitans dealt lovingly with them, and entreated them kindly in the time of their adversity;

³¹They gave them thanks, desiring them to be friendly still unto them: and so they came to Jerusalem, the feast of the weeks approaching.

³²And after the feast, called Pentecost, they went forth against Gorgias the governor of Idumea, ³³Who came out with three thousand men of foot and four hundred horsemen.

2 Maccabees

³⁴And it happened that in their fighting together a few of the Jews were slain.

³⁵At which time Dositheus, one of Bacenor's company, who was on horseback, and a strong man, was still upon Gorgias, and taking hold of his coat drew him by force; and when he would have taken that cursed man alive, a horseman of Thracia coming upon him smote off his shoulder, so that Gorgias fled unto Marisa.

³⁶Now when they that were with Gorgias had fought long, and were weary, Judas called upon the Lord, that he would shew himself to be their helper and leader of the battle.

³⁷And with that he began in his own language, and sung psalms with a loud voice, and rushing unawares upon Gorgias' men, he put them to flight.

³⁸So Judas gathered his host, and came into the city of Odollam, And when the seventh day came, they purified themselves, as the custom was, and kept the sabbath in the same place.

³⁹And upon the day following, as the use had been, Judas and his company came to take up the bodies of them that were slain, and to bury them with their kinsmen in their fathers' graves.

⁴⁰Now under the coats of every one that was slain they found things consecrated to the idols of the Jamnites, which is forbidden the Jews by the law. Then every man saw that this was the cause wherefore they were slain.

⁴¹All men therefore praising the Lord, the righteous Judge, who had opened the things that were hid, ⁴²Betook themselves unto prayer, and besought him that the sin committed might wholly be put out of remembrance. Besides, that noble Judas exhorted the people to keep themselves from sin, forso much as they saw before their eyes the things that came to pass for the sins of those that were slain.

⁴³And when he had made a gathering throughout the company to the sum of two thousand drachms of silver, he sent it to Jerusalem to offer a sin offering, doing therein very well and honestly, in that he was mindful of the resurrection:

⁴⁴For if he had not hoped that they that were slain should have risen again, it had been superfluous and vain to pray for the dead.

⁴⁵And also in that he perceived that there was great favour laid up for those that died godly, it was an holy and good thought. Whereupon he made a reconciliation for the dead, that they might be delivered from sin.

CHAPTER 13

¹In the hundred forty and ninth year it was told Judas, that Antiochus Eupator was coming with a great power into Judea, ²And with him Lysias his protector, and ruler of his affairs, having either of them a Grecian power of footmen, an hundred and ten thousand, and horsemen five thousand and three hundred, and elephants two and twenty, and three hundred chariots armed with hooks.

³Menelans also joined himself with them, and with great dissimulation encouraged Antiochus, not for the safeguard of the country, but because he thought to have been made governor.

⁴But the King of kings moved Antiochus' mind against this wicked wretch, and Lysias informed the king that this man was the cause of all mischief, so that the king commanded to bring him unto Berea, and to put him to death, as the manner is in that place.

⁵Now there was in that place a tower of fifty cubits high, full of ashes, and it had a round instrument which on every side hanged down into the ashes.

⁶And whosoever was condemned of sacrilege, or had committed any other grievous crime, there did all men thrust him unto death.

⁷Such a death it happened that wicked man to die, not having so much as burial in the earth; and that most justly:

⁸For inasmuch as he had committed many sins about the altar, whose fire and ashes were holy, he received his death in ashes.

⁹Now the king came with a barbarous and haughty mind to do far worse to the Jews, than had been done in his father's time.

¹⁰Which things when Judas perceived, he commanded the multitude to call upon the Lord night and day, that if ever at any other time, he would now also help them, being at the point to be put from their law, from their country, and from the holy temple:

¹¹And that he would not suffer the people, that had even now been but a little refreshed, to be in subjection to the blasphemous nations.

¹²So when they had all done this together, and besought the merciful Lord with weeping and fasting, and lying flat upon the ground three days long, Judas, having exhorted them, commanded they should be in a readiness.

¹³And Judas, being apart with the elders, determined, before the king's host should enter into Judea, and get the city, to go forth and try the matter in fight by the help of the Lord.

¹⁴So when he had committed all to the Creator of the world, and exhorted his soldiers to fight manfully, even unto death, for the laws, the temple, the city, the country, and the commonwealth, he camped by Modin:

¹⁵And having given the watchword to them that were about him, Victory is of God; with the most valiant and choice young men he went in into the king's tent by night, and slew in the camp about four thousand men, and the chiefest of the elephants, with all that were upon him.

¹⁶And at last they filled the camp with fear and tumult, and departed with good success.

2 Maccabees

¹⁷This was done in the break of the day, because the protection of the Lord did help him.

¹⁸Now when the king had taken a taste of the manliness of the Jews, he went about to take the holds by policy,

¹⁹And marched toward Bethsura, which was a strong hold of the Jews: but he was put to flight, failed, and lost of his men:

²⁰For Judas had conveyed unto them that were in it such things as were necessary.

²¹But Rhodocus, who was in the Jews' host, disclosed the secrets to the enemies; therefore he was sought out, and when they had gotten him, they put him in prison.

²²The king treated with them in Bethsum the second time, gave his hand, took their's, departed, fought with Judas, was overcome;

²³Heard that Philip, who was left over the affairs in Antioch, was desperately bent, confounded, intreated the Jews, submitted himself, and sware to all equal conditions, agreed with them, and offered sacrifice, honoured the temple, and dealt kindly with the place,

²⁴And accepted well of Maccabeus, made him principal governor from Ptolemais unto the Gerrhenians;

²⁵Came to Ptolemais: the people there were grieved for the covenants; for they stormed, because they would make their covenants void:

²⁶Lysias went up to the judgment seat, said as much as could be in defence of the cause, persuaded, pacified, made them well affected, returned to Antioch. Thus it went touching the king's coming and departing.

CHAPTER 14

¹After three years was Judas informed, that Demetrius the son of Seleucus, having entered by the haven of Tripolis with a great power and navy, ²Had taken the country, and killed Antiochus, and Lysias his protector.

³Now one Alcimus, who had been high priest, and had defiled himself wilfully in the times of their mingling with the Gentiles, seeing that by no means he could save himself, nor have any more access to the holy altar, ⁴Came to king Demetrius in the hundred and one and fiftieth year, presenting unto him a crown of gold, and a palm, and also of the boughs which were used solemnly in the temple: and so that day he held his peace.

⁵Howbeit having gotten opportunity to further his foolish enterprize, and being called into counsel by Demetrius, and asked how the Jews stood affected, and what they intended, he answered thereunto:

⁶Those of the Jews that he called Assideans, whose captain is Judas Maccabeus, nourish war and are seditious, and will not let the rest be in peace.

2 Maccabees

⁷Therefore I, being deprived of mine ancestors' honour, I mean the high priesthood, am now come hither:

⁸First, verily for the unfeigned care I have of things pertaining to the king; and secondly, even for that I intend the good of mine own countrymen: for all our nation is in no small misery through the unadvised dealing of them aforesaid.

⁹Wherefore, O king, seeing knowest all these things, be careful for the country, and our nation, which is pressed on every side, according to the clemency that thou readily shewest unto all.

¹⁰For as long as Judas liveth, it is not possible that the state should be quiet.

¹¹This was no sooner spoken of him, but others of the king's friends, being maliciously set against Judas, did more incense Demetrius.

¹²And forthwith calling Nicanor, who had been master of the elephants, and making him governor over Judea, he sent him forth, ¹³Commanding him to slay Judas, and to scatter them that were with him, and to make Alcimus high priest of the great temple.

¹⁴Then the heathen, that had fled out of Judea from Judas, came to Nicanor by flocks, thinking the harm and calamities of the Jews to be their welfare.

¹⁵Now when the Jews heard of Nicanor's coming, and that the heathen were up against them, they cast earth upon their heads, and made supplication to him that had established his people for ever, and who always helpeth his portion with manifestation of his presence.

¹⁶So at the commandment of the captain they removed straightways from thence, and came near unto them at the town of Dessau.

¹⁷Now Simon, Judas' brother, had joined battle with Nicanor, but was somewhat discomfited through the sudden silence of his enemies.

¹⁸Nevertheless Nicanor, hearing of the manliness of them that were with Judas, and the courageousness that they had to fight for their country, durst not try the matter by the sword.

¹⁹Wherefore he sent Posidonius, and Theodotus, and Mattathias, to make peace.

²⁰So when they had taken long advisement thereupon, and the captain had made the multitude acquainted therewith, and it appeared that they were all of one mind, they consented to the covenants,

²¹And appointed a day to meet in together by themselves: and when the day came, and stools were set for either of them, ²²Ludas placed armed men ready in convenient places, lest some treachery should be suddenly practised by the enemies: so they made a peaceable conference.

²³Now Nicanor abode in Jerusalem, and did no hurt, but sent away the people that came flocking unto him.

2 Maccabees

²⁴And he would not willingly have Judas out of his sight: for he love the man from his heart

²⁵He prayed him also to take a wife, and to beget children: so he married, was quiet, and took part of this life.

²⁶But Alcimus, perceiving the love that was betwixt them, and considering the covenants that were made, came to Demetrius, and told him that Nicanor was not well affected toward the state; for that he had ordained Judas, a traitor to his realm, to be the king's successor.

²⁷Then the king being in a rage, and provoked with the accusations of the most wicked man, wrote to Nicanor, signifying that he was much displeased with the covenants, and commanding him that he should send Maccabeus prisoner in all haste unto Antioch.

²⁸When this came to Nicanor's hearing, he was much confounded in himself, and took it grievously that he should make void the articles which were agreed upon, the man being in no fault.

²⁹But because there was no dealing against the king, he watched his time to accomplish this thing by policy.

³⁰Notwithstanding, when Maccabeus saw that Nicanor began to be churlish unto him, and that he entreated him more roughly than he was wont, perceiving that such sour behaviour came not of good, he gathered together not a few of his men, and withdrew himself from Nicanor.

³¹But the other, knowing that he was notably prevented by Judas' policy, came into the great and holy temple, and commanded the priests, that were offering their usual sacrifices, to deliver him the man.

³²And when they swore that they could not tell where the man was whom he sought, ³³He stretched out his right hand toward the temple, and made an oath in this manner: If ye will not deliver me Judas as a prisoner, I will lay this temple of God even with the ground, and I will break down the altar, and erect a notable temple unto Bacchus.

³⁴After these words he departed. Then the priests lifted up their hands toward heaven, and besought him that was ever a defender of their nation, saying in this manner;

³⁵Thou, O Lord of all things, who hast need of nothing, wast pleased that the temple of thine habitation should be among us:

³⁶Therefore now, O holy Lord of all holiness, keep this house ever undefiled, which lately was cleansed, and stop every unrighteous mouth.

³⁷Now was there accused unto Nicanor one Razis, one of the elders of Jerusalem, a lover of his countrymen, and a man of very good report, who for his kindness was called a father of the Jews.

³⁸For in the former times, when they mingled not themselves with the Gentiles, he had been accused of Judaism, and did boldly jeopard his body and life with all vehemency for the religion of the Jews.

2 Maccabees

³⁹So Nicanor, willing to declare the hate that he bare unto the Jews, sent above five hundred men of war to take him:

⁴⁰For he thought by taking him to do the Jews much hurt.

⁴¹Now when the multitude would have taken the tower, and violently broken into the outer door, and bade that fire should be brought to burn it, he being ready to be taken on every side fell upon his sword;

⁴²Choosing rather to die manfully, than to come into the hands of the wicked, to be abused otherwise than beseemed his noble birth:

⁴³But missing his stroke through haste, the multitude also rushing within the doors, he ran boldly up to the wall, and cast himself down manfully among the thickest of them.

⁴⁴But they quickly giving back, and a space being made, he fell down into the midst of the void place.

⁴⁵Nevertheless, while there was yet breath within him, being inflamed with anger, he rose up; and though his blood gushed out like spouts of water, and his wounds were grievous, yet he ran through the midst of the throng; and standing upon a steep rock, ⁴⁶When as his blood was now quite gone, he plucked out his bowels, and taking them in both his hands, he cast them upon the throng, and calling upon the Lord of life and spirit to restore him those again, he thus died.

CHAPTER 15

¹But Nicanor, hearing that Judas and his company were in the strong places about Samaria, resolved without any danger to set upon them on the sabbath day.

²Nevertheless the Jews that were compelled to go with him said, O destroy not so cruelly and barbarously, but give honour to that day, which he, that seeth all things, hath honoured with holiness above all other days.

³Then the most ungracious wretch demanded, if there were a Mighty one in heaven, that had commanded the sabbath day to be kept.

⁴And when they said, There is in heaven a living Lord, and mighty, who commanded the seventh day to be kept:

⁵Then said the other, And I also am mighty upon earth, and I command to take arms, and to do the king's business. Yet he obtained not to have his wicked will done.

⁶So Nicanor in exceeding pride and haughtiness determined to set up a publick monument of his victory over Judas and them that were with him.

⁷But Maccabeus had ever sure confidence that the Lord would help him:

⁸Wherefore he exhorted his people not to fear the coming of the heathen against them, but to remember the help which in former times they had received from heaven, and now to expect the victory and aid, which should come unto them from the Almighty.

2 Maccabees

⁹And so comforting them out of the law and the prophets, and withal putting them in mind of the battles that they won afore, he made them more cheerful.

¹⁰And when he had stirred up their minds, he gave them their charge, shewing them therewithall the falsehood of the heathen, and the breach of oaths.

¹¹Thus he armed every one of them, not so much with defence of shields and spears, as with comfortable and good words: and beside that, he told them a dream worthy to be believed, as if it had been so indeed, which did not a little rejoyce them.

¹²And this was his vision: That Onias, who had been high priest, a virtuous and a good man, reverend in conversation, gentle in condition, well spoken also, and exercised from a child in all points of virtue, holding up his hands prayed for the whole body of the Jews.

¹³This done, in like manner there appeared a man with gray hairs, and exceeding glorious, who was of a wonderful and excellent majesty.

¹⁴Then Onias answered, saying, This is a lover of the brethren, who prayeth much for the people, and for the holy city, to wit, Jeremias the prophet of God.

¹⁵Whereupon Jeremias holding forth his right hand gave to Judas a sword of gold, and in giving it spake thus, ¹⁶Take this holy sword, a gift from God, with the which thou shalt wound the adversaries.

¹⁷Thus being well comforted by the words of Judas, which were very good, and able to stir them up to valour, and to encourage the hearts of the young men, they determined not to pitch camp, but courageously to set upon them, and manfully to try the matter by conflict, because the city and the sanctuary and the temple were in danger.

¹⁸For the care that they took for their wives, and their children, their brethren, and folks, was in least account with them: but the greatest and principal fear was for the holy temple.

¹⁹Also they that were in the city took not the least care, being troubled for the conflict abroad.

²⁰And now, when as all looked what should be the trial, and the enemies were already come near, and the army was set in array, and the beasts conveniently placed, and the horsemen set in wings, ²¹Maccabeus seeing the coming of the multitude, and the divers preparations of armour, and the fierceness of the beasts, stretched out his hands toward heaven, and called upon the Lord that worketh wonders, knowing that victory cometh not by arms, but even as it seemeth good to him, he giveth it to such as are worthy:

²²Therefore in his prayer he said after this manner; O Lord, thou didst send thine angel in the time of Ezekias king of Judea, and didst slay in the host of Sennacherib an hundred fourscore and five thousand:

2 Maccabees

²³Wherefore now also, O Lord of heaven, send a good angel before us for a fear and dread unto them;

²⁴And through the might of thine arm let those be stricken with terror, that come against thy holy people to blaspheme. And he ended thus.

²⁵Then Nicanor and they that were with him came forward with trumpets and songs.

²⁶But Judas and his company encountered the enemies with invocation and prayer.

²⁷So that fighting with their hands, and praying unto God with their hearts, they slew no less than thirty and five thousand men: for through the appearance of God they were greatly cheered.

²⁸Now when the battle was done, returning again with joy, they knew that Nicanor lay dead in his harness.

²⁹Then they made a great shout and a noise, praising the Almighty in their own language.

³⁰And Judas, who was ever the chief defender of the citizens both in body and mind, and who continued his love toward his countrymen all his life, commanded to strike off Nicanor's head, and his hand with his shoulder, and bring them to Jerusalem.

³¹So when he was there, and called them of his nation together, and set the priests before the altar, he sent for them that were of the tower, ³²And shewed them vile Nicanor's head, and the hand of that blasphemer, which with proud brags he had stretched out against the holy temple of the Almighty.

³³And when he had cut out the tongue of that ungodly Nicanor, he commanded that they should give it by pieces unto the fowls, and hang up the reward of his madness before the temple.

³⁴So every man praised toward the heaven the glorious Lord, saying, Blessed be he that hath kept his own place undefiled.

³⁵He hanged also Nicanor's head upon the tower, an evident and manifest sign unto all of the help of the Lord.

³⁶And they ordained all with a common decree in no case to let that day pass without solemnity, but to celebrate the thirtieth day of the twelfth month, which in the Syrian tongue is called Adar, the day before Mardocheus' day.

³⁷Thus went it with Nicanor: and from that time forth the Hebrews had the city in their power. And here will I make an end.

³⁸And if I have done well, and as is fitting the story, it is that which I desired: but if slenderly and meanly, it is that which I could attain unto.

CHAPTER 1

¹Now Philopater, on learning from those who came back that Antiochus had made himself master of the places which belonged to himself, sent orders to all his footmen and horsemen, took with him his sister Arsinoe, and marched out as far as the parts of Raphia, where Antiochus and his forces encamped.

²And one Theodotus, intending to carry out his design, took with him the bravest of the armed men who had been before committed to his trust by Ptolemy, and got through at night to the tent of Ptolemy, to kill him on his own responsibility, and so to end the war.

³But Dositheus, called the son of Drimulus, by birth a Jew, afterward a renegade from the laws and observances of his country, conveyed Ptolemy away, and made an obscure person lie down in his stead in the tent. It befell this man to receive the fate which was meant for the other.

⁴A fierce battle then took place; and the men of Antiochus prevailing, Arsinoe continually went up and down the ranks, and with dishevelled hair, with tears and entreaties, begged the soldiers to fight manfully for themselves, their children, and wives; and promised that if they proved conquerors, she would give them two minae of gold apiece.

⁵It thus fell out that their enemies were defeated in hand-to-hand encounter, and that many of them were taken prisoners.

⁶Having vanquished this attempt, the king then decided to proceed to the neighbouring cities, and encourage them.

⁷By doing this, and by making donations to their temples, he inspired his subjects with confidence.

⁸The Jews sent some of their council and of their elders to him. The greetings, guest-gifts, and congratulations of the past, bestowed by them, filled him with the greater eagerness to visit their city.

⁹Having arrived at Jerusalem, sacrificed, and offered thank-offerings to the Greatest God, and done whatever else was suitable to the sanctity of the place, and entered the inner court, ¹⁰he was so struck with the magnificence of the place, and so wondered at the orderly arrangements of the temple, that he considered entering the sanctuary itself.

¹¹And when they told him that this was not permissible, none of the nation, no, nor even the priests in general, but only the supreme high priest of all, and he only once in a year, being allowed to go in, he would by no means give way.

¹²Then they read the law to him; but he persisted in obtruding himself, exclaiming, that he ought to be allowed: and saying Be it that they were deprived of this honour, I ought not to be.

¹³And he put the question, Why, when he entered all the temples, none of the priests who were present forbade him?

¹⁴He was thoroughly answered by some one, That he did wrong to boast of this.

¹⁵Well; since I have done this, said he, be the cause what it may, shall I not enter with or without your consent?

¹⁶And when the priests fell down in their sacred vestments imploring the Greatest God to come and help in time of need, and to avert the violence of the fierce aggressor, and when they filled the temple with lamentations and tears, ¹⁷then those who had been left behind in the city were scared, and rushed forth, uncertain of the event.

¹⁸Virgins, who had been shut up within their chambers, came out with their mothers, scattering dust and ashes on their heads, and filling the streets with outcries.

¹⁹Women, but recently separated off, left their bridal chambers, left the reserve that befitted them, and ran about the city in a disorderly manner.

²⁰New-born babes were deserted by the mothers or nurses who waited upon them; some here, some there, in houses, or in fields; these now, with an ardour which could not be checked, swarmed into the Most High temple.

²¹Various were the prayers offered up by those who assembled in this place, on account of the unholy attempt of the king.

²²Along with these there were some of the citizens who took courage, and would not submit to his obstinacy, and his intention of carrying out his purpose.

²³Calling out to arms, and to die bravely in defence of the law of their fathers, they created a great uproar in the place, and were with difficulty brought back by the aged and the elders to the station of prayer which they had occupied before.

²⁴During this time the multitude kept on praying.

²⁵The elders who surrounded the king strove in many ways to divert his haughty mind from the design which he had formed.

²⁶He, in his hardened mood, insensible to all persuasion, was going onwards with the view of carrying out this design.

²⁷Yet even his own officers, when they saw this, joined the Jews in an appeal to Him who has all power, to aid in the present crisis, and not wink at such overweening lawlessness.

²⁸Such was the frequency and the vehemence of the cry of the assembled crowd, that an indescribable noise ensued.

3 Maccabees

²⁹Not the men only, but the very walls and floor seemed to sound forth; all things preferring dissolution rather than to see the place defiled.

CHAPTER 2

¹Now was it that the high priest Simon bowed his knees over against the holy place, and spread out his hands in reverent form, and uttered the following supplication:

²O Lord, Lord, King of the heavens, and Ruler of the whole creation, Holy among the holy, sole Governor, Almighty, give ear to us who are oppressed by a wicked and profane one, who exulteth in his confidence and strength.

³It is thou, the Creator of all, the Lord of the universe, who art a righteous Governor, and judgest all who act with pride and insolence.

⁴It was thou who didst destroy the former workers of unrighteousness, among whom were the giants, who trusted in their strength and hardihood, by covering them with a measureless flood.

⁵It was thou who didst make the Sodomites, those workers of exceeding iniquity, men notorious for their vices, an example to after generations, when thou didst cover them with fire and brimstone.

⁶Thou didst make known thy power when thou causedst the bold Pharaoh, the enslaver of thy people, to pass through the ordeal of many and diverse inflictions.

⁷And thou rolledst the depths of the sea over him, when he made pursuit with chariots, and with a multitude of followers, and gavest a safe passage to those who put their trust in thee, the Lord of the whole creation.

⁸These saw and felt the works of thine hands, and praised thee the Almighty.

⁹Thou, O King, when thou createdst the illimitable and measureless earth, didst choose out this city: thou didst make this place sacred to thy name, albeit thou needest nothing: thou didst glorify it with thine illustrious presence, after constructing it to the glory of thy great and honourable name.

¹⁰And thou didst promise, out of love to the people of Israel, that should we fall away from thee, and become afflicted, and then come to this house and pray, thou wouldest hear our prayer.

¹¹Verily thou art faithful and true.

¹²And when thou didst often aid our fathers when hard pressed, and in low estate, and deliveredst them out of gret dangers, ¹³see now, holy King, how through our many and great sins we are borne down, and made subject to our enemies, and are become weak and powerless.

¹⁴We being in this low condition, this bold and profane man seeks to dishonour this thine holy place, consecrated out of the earth to the name of thy Majesty.

3 Maccabees

¹⁵Thy dwelling place, the heaven of heavens, is indeed unapproachable to men.

¹⁶But since it seemed good to thee to exhibit thy glory among thy people Israel, thou didst sanctify this place.

¹⁷Punish us not by means of the uncleanness of their men, nor chastise us by means of their profanity; lest the lawless ones should boast in their rage, and exult in exuberant pride of speech, and say, ¹⁸We have trampled upon the holy house, as idolatrous houses are trampled upon.

¹⁹Blot out our iniquities, and do away with our errors, and shew forth thy compassion in this hour.

²⁰Let thy mercies quickly go before us. Grant us peace, that the cast down and broken hearted may praise thee with their mouth.

²¹At that time God, who seeth all things, who is beyond all Holy among the holy, heard that prayer, so suitable; and scourged the man greatly uplifted with scorn and insolence.

²²Shaking him to and fro as a reed is shaken with the wind, he cast him upon the pavement, powerless, with limbs paralyzed; by a righteous judgment deprived of the faculty of speech.

²³His friends and bodyguards, beholding the swift recompense which had suddenly overtaken him, struck with exceeding terror, and fearing that he would die, speedily removed him.

²⁴When in course of time he had come to himself, this severe check caused no repentance within him, but he departed with bitter threatenings.

²⁵He proceeded to Egypt, grew worse in wickedness through his beforementioned companions in wine, who were lost to all goodness;

²⁶and not satisfied with countless acts of impiety, his audacity so increased that he raised evil reports there, and many of his friends, watching his purpose attentively, joined in furthering his will.

²⁷His purpose was to indict a public stigma upon our race; wherefore he erected a pillar at the tower-porch, and caused the following inscription to be engraved upon it:

²⁸That entrance to their own temple was to be refused to all those who would not sacrifice; that all the Jews were to be registered among the common people; that those who resisted were to be forcibly seized and put to death;

²⁹that those who were thus registered, were to be marked on their persons by the ivy-leaf symbol of Dionysus, and to be set apart with these limited rights.

³⁰To do away with the appearance of hating them all, he had it written underneath, that if any of them should elect to enter the community of those initiated in the rites, these should have equal rights with the Alexandrians.

3 Maccabees

³¹Some of those who were over the city, therefore, abhorring any approach to the city of piety, unhesitatingly gave in to the king, and expected to derive some great honour from a future connection with him.

³²A nobler spirit, however, prompted the majority to cling to their religious observances, and by paying money that they might live unmolested, these sought to escape the registration:

³³cheerfully looking forward to future aid, they abhorred their own apostates, considering them to be national foes, and debarring them from the common usages of social intercourse.

CHAPTER 3

¹On discovering this, so incensed was the wicked king, that he no longer confined his rage to the Jews in Alexandria. Laying his hand more heavily upon those who lived in the country, he gave orders that they should be quickly collected into one place, and most cruelly deprived of their lives.

²While this was going on, an invidious rumour was uttered abroad by men who had banded together to injure the Jewish race. The purport of their charge was, that the Jews kept them away from the ordinances of the law.

³Now, while the Jews always maintained a feeling of un-swerving loyalty towards the kings, yet, as they worshipped God, and observed his law, they made certain distinctions, and avoided certain things. Hence some persons held them in odium; although, as they adorned their conversation with works of righteousness, they had established themselves in the good opinion of the world.

⁶What all the rest of mankind said, was, however, made of no account by the foreigners;

⁷who said much of the exclusiveness of the Jews with regard to their worship and meats; they alleged that they were men unsociable, hostile to the king's interests, refusing to associate with him or his troops. By this way of speaking, they brought much odium upon them.

⁸Nor was this unexpected uproar and sudden conflux of people unobserved by the Greeks who lived in the city, concerning men who had never harmed them: yet to aid them was not in their power, since all was oppression around; but they encouraged them in their troubles, and expected a favourable turn of affairs:

⁹He who knoweth all things, will not, [said they,] disregard so great a people.

¹⁰Some of the neighbors, friends, and fellow dealers of the Jews, even called them secretly to an interview, pledged them their assistance, and promised to do their very utmost for them.

¹¹Now the king, elated with his prosperous fortune, and not regarding the superior power of God, but thinking to persevere in his present purpose, wrote the following letter to the prejudice of the Jews.

3 Maccabees

¹²King Ptolemy Philopater, to the commanders and soldiers in Egypt, and in all places, health and happiness!

¹³I am right well; and so, too, are my affairs.

¹⁴Since our Asiatic campaign, the particulars of which ye know, and which by the aid of the gods, not lightly given, and by our own vigour, has been brought to a successful issue according to our expectation, ¹⁵we resolved, not with strength of spear, but with gentleness and much humanity, as it were to nurse the inhabitants of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, and to be their willing benefactors.

¹⁶So, having bestowed considerable sums of money upon the temples of the several cities, we proceeded even as far as Jerusalem; and went up to honour the temple of these wretched beings who never cease from their folly.

¹⁷To outward appearance they received us willingly; but belied that appearance by their deeds. When we were eager to enter their temple, and to honour it with the most beautiful and exquisite gifts, ¹⁸they were so carried away by their old arrogance, as to forbid us the entrance; while we, out of our forbearance toward all men, refrained from exercising our power upon them.

¹⁹And thus, exhibiting their enmity against us, they alone among the nations lift up their heads against kings and benefactors, as men unwilling to submit to any thing reasonable.

²⁰We then, having endeavoured to make allowance for the madness of these persons, and on our victorious return treating all people in Egypt courteously, acted in a manner which was befitting.

²¹Accordingly, bearing no ill-will against their kinsmen [at Jerusalem,] but rather remembering our connection with them, and the numerous matters with sincere heart from a remote period entrusted to them, we wished to venture a total alteration of their state, by bestowing upon them the rights of citizens of Alexandria, and to admit them to the everlasting rites of our solemnities.

²²All this, however, they have taken in a very different spirit. With their innate malignity, they have spurned the fair offer; and constantly inclining to evil, ²³have rejected the inestimable rights. Not only so, but by using speech, and by refraining from speech, they abhor the few among them who are heartily disposed towards us; ever deeming that their ignoble course of procedure will force us to do away with our reform.

²⁴Having then, received certain proofs that these [Jews] bear us every sort of ill-will, we must look forward to the possibility of some sudden tumult among ourselves, when these impious men may turn traitors and barbarous enemies.

²⁵As soon, therefore, as the contents of this letter become known to you, in that same hour we order those [Jews] who dwell among you, with wives and children, to be sent to us, vilified and abused, in chains of iron, to undergo a death, cruel and ignominious, suitable to men disaffected.

²⁶For by the punishment of them in one body we perceive that we have found the only means of establishing our affairs for the future on a firm and satisfactory basis.

²⁷Whosoever shall shield a Jew, whether it be old man, child, or suckling, shall with his whole house be tortured to death.

²⁸Whoever shall inform against the [Jews,] besides receiving the property of the person charged, shall be presented with two thousand drachmae from the royal treasury, shall be made free, and shall be crowned.

²⁹Whatever place shall shelter a Jew, shall, when he is hunted forth, be put under the ban of fire, and be for ever rendered useless to every living being for all time to come.

³⁰Such was the purport of the king's letter.

CHAPTER 4

¹Wherever this decree was received, the people kept up a revelry of joy and shouting; as if their long-pent-up, hardened hatred, were now to shew itself openly.

²The Jews suffered great throes of sorrow, and wept much; while their hearts, all things around being lamentable, were set on fire as they bewailed the sudden destruction which was decreed against them.

³What home, or city, or place at all inhabited, or what streets were there, which their condition did not fill with wailing and lamentation?

⁴They were sent out unanimously by the generals in the several cities, with such stern and pitiless feeling, that the exceptional nature of the infliction moved even some of their enemies. These, influenced by sentiments of common humanity, and reflecting upon the uncertain issue of life, shed tears at this their miserable expulsion.

⁵A multitude of aged hoary-haired old men, were driven along with halting bending feet, urged onward by the impulse of a violent, shameless force to quick speed.

⁶Girls who had entered the bridal chamber quite lately, to enjoy the partnership of marriage, exchanged pleasure for misery; and with dust scattered upon their myrrh-anointed heads, were hurried along unveiled; and, in the midst of outlandish insults, set up with one accord a lamentable cry in lieu of the marriage hymn.

⁷Bound, and exposed to public gaze, they were hurried violently on board ship.

⁸The husbands of these, in the prime of their youthful vigour, instead of crowns wore halters round their necks;

3 Maccabees

instead of feasting and youthful jollity, spent the rest of their nuptial days in wailings, and saw only the grave at hand.

⁹They were dragged along by unyielding chains, like wild beasts: of these, some had their necks thrust into the benches of the rowers; while the feet of others were enclosed in hard fetters.

¹⁰The planks of the deck above them barred out the light, and shut out the day on every side, so that they might be treated like traitors during the whole voyage.

¹¹They were conveyed accordingly in this vessel, and at the end of it arrived at Schedia. The king had ordered them to be cast into the vast hippodrome, which was built in front of the city. This place was well adapted by its situation to expose them to the gaze of all comers into the city, and of those who went from the city into the country. Thus they could hold no communication with his forces; nay, were deemed unworthy of any civilized accommodation.

¹²When this was done, the king, hearing that their brethren in the city often went out and lamented the melancholy distress of these victims, ¹³was full of rage, and commanded that they should be carefully subjected to the same (and not one whit milder) treatment.

¹⁴The whole nation was now to be registered. Every individual was to be specified by name; not for that hard servitude of labour which we have a little before mentioned, but that he might expose them to the before-mentioned tortures; and finally, in the short space of a day, might extirpate them by his cruelties ¹⁵The registering of these men was carried on cruelly, zealously, assiduously, from the rising of the sun to its going down, and was not brought to an end in forty days.

¹⁶The king was filled with great and constant joy, and celebrated banquets before the temple idols. His erring heart, far from the truth, and his profane mouth, gave glory to idols, deaf and incapable of speaking or aiding, and uttered unworthy speech against the Greatest God.

¹⁷At the end of the above-mentioned interval of time, the registrars brought word to the king that the multitude of the Jews was too great for registration, ¹⁸inasmuch as there were many still left in the land, of whom some were in inhabited houses, and others were scattered about in various places; so that all the commanders in Egypt were insufficient for the work.

¹⁹The king threatened them, and charged them with taking bribes, in order to contrive the escape of the Jews: but was clearly convinced of the truth of what had been said.

²⁰They said, and proved, that paper and pens had failed them for the carrying out of their purpose.

²¹Now this was an active interference of the unconquerable

3 Maccabees

Providence which assisted the Jews from heaven.

CHAPTER 5

¹Then he called Hermon, who had charge of the elephants. Full of rage, altogether fixed in his furious design, ²he commanded him, with a quantity of unmixed wine and handfuls of incense [infused] to drug the elephants early on the following day. These five hundred elephants were, when infuriated by the copious draughts of frankincense, to be led up to the execution of death upon the Jews.

³The king, after issuing these orders, went to his feasting, and gathered together all those of his friends and of the army who hated the Jews the most.

⁴The master of the elephants, Hermon, fulfilled his commission punctually.

⁵The underlings appointed for the purpose went out about eventide and bound the hands of the miserable victims, and took other precautions for their security at night, thinking that the whole race would perish together.

⁶The heathen believed the Jews to be destitute of all protection; for chains fettered them about.

⁷they invoked the Almighty Lord, and ceaselessly besought with tears their merciful God and Father, Ruler of all, Lord of every power, ⁸to overthrow the evil purpose which was gone out against them, and to deliver them by extraordinary manifestation from that death which was in store for them.

⁹Their litany so earnest went up to heaven.

¹⁰Then Hermon, who had filled his merciless elephants with copious draughts of mingled wine and frankincense, came early to the palace to certify the kind thereof.

¹¹He, however, who has sent his good creature sleep from all time by night or by day thus gratifying whom he wills, diffused a portion thereof now upon the king.

¹²By this sweet and profound influence of the Lord he was held fast, and thus his unjust purpose was quite frustrated, and his unflinching resolve greatly falsified.

¹³But the Jews, having escaped the hour which had been fixed, praised their holy God, and again prayed him who is easily reconciled to display the power of his powerful hand to the overweening Gentiles.

¹⁴The middle of the tenth hour had well nigh arrived, when the master-bidder, seeing the guests who were bidden collected, came and shook the king.

¹⁵He gained his attention with difficulty, and hinting that the mealtime was getting past, talked the matter over with him.

¹⁶The kind listened to this, and then turning aside to his potations, commanded the guests to sit down before him.

¹⁷This done, he asked them to enjoy themselves, and to indulge in mirth at this somewhat late hour of the banquet.

3 Maccabees

¹⁸Conversation grew on, and the king sent for Hermon, and enquired of him, with fierce denunciations, why the Jews had been allowed to outlive that day.

¹⁹Hermon explained that he had done his bidding over night; and in this he was confirmed by his friends.

²⁰The king, then, with a barbarity exceeding that of Phalaris, said, That they might thank his sleep of that day. Lose no time, and get ready the elephants against tomorrow, as you did before, for the destruction of these accursed Jews.

²¹When the king said this, the company present were glad, and approved; and then each man went to his own home.

²²Nor did they employ the night in sleep, so much as in contriving cruel mockeries for those deemed miserable.

²³The morning cock had just crowed, and Hermon, having harnessed the brutes, was stimulating them in the great colonnade.

²⁴The city crowds were collected together to see the hideous spectacle, and waited impatiently for the dawn.

²⁵The Jews, breathless with momentary suspense, stretched forth their hands, and prayed the Greatest God, in mournful strains, again to help them speedily.

²⁶The sun's rays were not yet shed abroad, and the king was waiting for his friends, when Hermon came to him, calling him out, and saying, That his desires could now be realized.

²⁷The king, receiving him, was astonished at his unwonted exit; and, overwhelmed with a spirit of oblivion about everything, enquired the object of this earnest preparation.

²⁸But this was the wroking of that Almighty God who had made him forget all his purpose.

²⁹Hermon, and all his friends, pointed out the preparation of the animals. they are ready, O king, according to your own strict injunction.

³⁰The king was filled with fierce anger at these words; for, by the Providence of God regarding these things, his mind had become entirely confused. He looked hard at Hermon, and threatened him as follows:

³¹Your parents, or your children, were they here, to these wild beasts a large repast they should have furnished; not these innocent Jews, who me and my forefathers loyally have served.

³²Had it not been for familiar friendship, and the claims of your office, your life should have gone for theirs.

³³Hermon, being threatened in this unexpected and alarming manner, was troubled in visage, and depressed in countenance.

³⁴The friends, too, stole out one by one, and dismissed the assembled multitudes to their respective occupations.

3 Maccabees

³⁵The Jews, having heard of these events, praised the glorious God and King of kings, because they had obtained this help, too, from him.

³⁶Now the king arranged another banquet after the same manner, and proclaimed an invitation to mirth.

²⁷And he summoned Hermon to his presence, and said, with threats, How often, O wretch, must I repeat my orders to thee about these same persons?

²⁸Once more, arm the elephants against the morrow for the extermination of the Jews.

³⁹His kinsmen, who were reclining with him, wondered at his instability, and thus expressed themselves:

⁴⁰O king, how long dost thou make trial of us, as of men bereft of reason? This is the third time that thou hast ordered their destruction. When the thing is to be done, thou changest thy mind, and recallest thy instructions.

⁴¹For this cause the feeling of expectation causes tumult in the city: it swarms with factions; and is continually on the point of being plundered.

⁴²The king, just like another Phalaris, a prey to thoughtlessness, made no account of the changes which his own mind had undergone, issuing in the deliverance of the Jews. He swore a fruitless oath, and determined forthwith to send them to hades, crushed by the knees and feet of the elephants.

⁴³He would also invade Judea, and level its towns with fire and the sword; and destroy that temple which the heathen might not enter, and prevent sacrifices ever after being offered up there.

⁴⁴Joyfully his friends broke up, together with his kinsmen; and, trusting in his determination, arranged their forces in guard at the most convenient places of the city.

⁴⁵And the master of the elephants urged the beasts into an almost maniacal state, drenched them with incense and wine, and decked them with frightful instruments.

⁴⁶About early morning, when the city was now filled with an immense number of people at the hippodrome, he entered the palace, and called the king to the business in hand.

⁴⁷The king's heart teemed with impious rage; and he rushed forth with the mass, along with the elephants. With feelings unsoftened, and eyes pitiless, he longed to gaze at the hard and wretched doom of the abovementioned [Jews].

⁴⁸But the [Jews,] when the elephants went out at the gate, followed by the armed force; and when they saw the dust raised by the throng, and heard the loud cries of the crowd, ⁴⁹thought that they had come to the last moment of their lives, to the end of what they had tremblingly expected. They gave way, therefore, to lamentations and moans: they kissed each other: those nearest of kin to each other hung about one another's necks: fathers about their sons, mother their daughters: other women held their infants to their breasts, which drew what seemed their last milk.

⁵⁰Nevertheless, when they reflected upon the succour before granted them from heaven, they prostrated themselves with one accord; removed even the sucking children from the breasts, and ⁵¹sent up an exceeding great cry entreating the Lord of all power to reveal himself, and have mercy upon those who now lay at the gates of hades.

CHAPTER 6

¹And Eleazar, an illustrious priest of the country, who had attained to length of day, and whose life had been adorned with virtue, caused the presbyters who were about him to cease to cry out to the holy God, and prayed thus:

²O king, mighty in power, most high, Almighty God, who regulates the whole creation with thy tender mercy, ³look upon the seed of Abraham, upon the children of the sanctified Jacob, thy sanctified inheritance, O Father, now being wrongfully destroyed as strangers in a strange land.

⁴Thou destroyedst Pharaoh, with his hosts of chariots, when that lord of this same Egypt was uplifted with lawless hardihood and loud-sounding tongue. Shedding the beams of thy mercy upon the race of Israel, thou didst overwhelm him with his proud army.

⁵When Sennacherim, the grievous king of the Assyrians, glorying in his countless hosts, had subdued the whole land with his spear, and was lifting himself against thine holy city, with boastings grievous to be endured, thou, O Lord, didst demolish him and didst shew forth thy might to many nations.

⁶When the three friends in the land of Babylon of their own will exposed their lives to the fire rather than serve vain things, thou didst send a dewy coolness through the fiery furnace, and bring the fire upon all their adversaries.

⁷It was thou who, when Daniel was hurled, through slander and envy, as a prey to lions down below, didst bring him back against unhurt to light.

⁸When Jonah was pining away in the belly of the sea-bred monster, thou didst look upon him, O Father, and recover him to the sight of his own.

⁹And now, thou who hatest insolence; thou who dost abound in mercy; thou who art the protector of all things; appear quickly to those of the race of Israel, who are insulted by abhorred, lawless gentiles.

¹⁰If our life has during our exile been stained with iniquity, deliver us from the hand of the enemy, and destroy us, O Lord, by the death which thou preferrest.

¹¹Let not the vain-minded congratulate vain idols at the destruction of thy beloved, saying, Neither did their god deliver them.

3 Maccabees

¹²Thou, who art All-powerful and Almighty, O Eternal One, behold! have mercy upon us who are being withdrawn from life, like traitors, by the unreasoning insolence of lawless men.

¹³Let the heathen cower before thine invincible might today, O glorious One, who hast all power to save the race of Jacob.

¹⁴The whole band of infants and their parents with tears beseech thee.

¹⁵Let it be shewn to all the nations that thou art with us, O Lord, and hast not turned thy face away from us; but as thou saidst that thou wouldst not forget them even in the land of their enemies, so do thou fulfil this saying, O Lord.

¹⁶Now, at the time that Eleazar had ended his prayer, the king came along to the hippodrome, with the wild beasts, and with his tumultuous power.

¹⁷When the Jews saw this, they uttered a loud cry to heaven, so that the adjacent valleys resounded, and caused an irrepressible lamentation throughout the army.

¹⁸Then the all-glorious, all-powerful, and true God, displayed his holy countenance, and opened the gates of heaven, from which two angels, dreadful of form, came down and were visible to all but the Jews.

¹⁹And they stood opposite, and filled the enemies' host with confusion and cowardice; and bound them with immoveable fetters.

²⁰And a cold shudder came over the person of the king, and oblivion paralysed the vehemence of his spirit.

²¹They turned back the animals upon the armed forces which followed them; and the animals trod them down, and destroyed them.

²²The king's wrath was converted into compassion; and he wept at his own machinations.

²³For when he heard the cry, and saw them all on the verge of destruction, with tears he angrily threatened his friends, saying,

²⁴Ye have governed badly; and have exceeded tyrants in cruelty; and me your benefactor ye have laboured to deprive at once of my dominion and my life, by secretly devising measures injurious to the kingdom.

²⁵Who has gathered here, unreasonably removing each from his home, those who, in fidelity to us, had held the fortresses of the country?

²⁶Who has thus consigned to unmerited punishments those who in good will towards us from the beginning have in all things surpassed all nations, and who often have engaged in the most dangerous undertakings?

²⁷Loose, loose the unjust bonds; send them to their homes in peace, and deprecate what has been done.

²⁸Release the sons of the almighty living God of heaven, who from our ancestors' times until now has granted a glorious and uninterrupted prosperity to our affairs.

3 Maccabees

²⁹These things he said; and they, released the same moment, having now escaped death, praised God their holy Saviour.

³⁰The king then departed to the city, and called his financier to him, and bade him provide a seven days' quantity of wine and other materials for feasting for the Jews. He decided that they should keep a gladsome festival of deliverance in the very place in which they expected to meet with their destruction.

³¹Then they who were before despised and nigh unto hades, yea, rather advanced into it, partook of the cup of salvation, instead of a grievous and lamentable death. Full of exultation, they parted out the place intended for their fall and burial into banqueting booths.

³²Ceasing their miserable strain of woe, they took up the subject of their fatherland, hymning in praise God their wonder-working Saviour. All groans, all wailing, were laid aside: they formed dances in token of serene joy.

³³So, also, the king collected a number of guests for the occasion, and returned unceasing thanks with much magnificence for the unexpected deliverance afforded him.

³⁴Those who had marked them out as for death and for carrion, and had registered them with joy, howled aloud, and were clothed with shame, and had the fire of their rage ingloriously put out.

³⁵But the Jews, as we just said, instituted a dance, and then gave themselves up to feasting, glad thanksgivings, and psalms.

³⁶They made a public ordinance to commemorate these things for generations to come, as long as they should be sojourners. They thus established these days as days of mirth, not for the purpose of drinking or luxury, but because God had saved them.

³⁷They requested the king to send them back to their homes.

³⁸They were being enrolled from the twenty-fifth of Pachon to the fourth of Epiphi, a period of forty days: the measures taken for their destruction lasted from the fifth of Epiphi till the seventh, that is, three days.

³⁹The Ruler over all did during this time manifest forth his mercy gloriously, and did deliver them all together unharmed.

⁴⁰They feasted upon the king's provision up to the fourteenth day, and then asked to be sent away.

⁴¹The king commended them, and wrote the subjoined letter, of magnanimous import for them, to the commanders of every city.

CHAPTER 7

¹King Ptolemy Philopator to the commanders throughout Egypt, and to all who are set over affairs, joy and strength.

3 Maccabees

²We, too, and our children are well; and God has directed our affairs as we wish.

³Certain of our friends did of malice vehemently urge us to punish the Jews of our realm in a body, with the infliction of a monstrous punishment.

⁴They pretended that our affairs would never be in a good state till this took place. Such, they said, was the hatred borne by the Jews to all other people.

⁵They brought them fettered in grievous chains as slaves, nay, as traitors. Without enquiry or examination they endeavoured to annihilate them. They buckled themselves with a savage cruelty, worse than Scythian custom.

⁶For this cause we severely threatened them; yet, with the clemency which we are wont to extend to all men, we at length permitted them to live. Finding that the God of heaven cast a shield of protection over the Jews so as to preserve them, and that he fought for them as a father always fights for his sons;

⁷and taking into consideration their constancy and fidelity towards us and towards our ancestors, we have, as we ought, acquitted them of every sort of charge.

⁸And we have dismissed them to their several homes; bidding all men everywhere to do them no wrong, or unrighteously revile them about the past.

⁹For know ye, that should we conceive any evil design, or in any way aggrieve them, we shall ever have as our opposite, not man, but the highest God, the ruler of all might. From Him there will be no escape, as the avenger of such deeds. Fare ye well.

¹⁰When they had received this letter, they were not forward to depart immediately. They petitioned the king to be allowed to inflict fitting punishment upon those of their race who had willingly transgressed the holy god, and the law of God.

¹¹They alleged that men who had for their bellies' sake transgressed the ordinances of God, would never be faithful to the interests of the king.

¹²The king admitted the truth of this reasoning, and commended them. Full power was given them, without warrant or special commission, to destroy those who had transgressed the law of God boldly in every part of the king's dominions.

¹³Their priests, then, as it was meet, saluted him with good wishes, and all the people echoed with the Hallelujah. They then joyfully departed.

¹⁴Then they punished and destroyed with ignominy every polluted Jew that fell in their way;

¹⁵slaying thus, in that day, above three hundred men, and esteeming this destruction of the wicked a season of joy.

¹⁶They themselves having held fast their God unto death, and having enjoyed a full deliverance, departed from the city garlanded with sweet-flowered wreaths of every kind. Uttering exclamations of joy, with songs of praise, and melodious hymns they thanked the God of their fathers, the eternal Saviour of Israel.

¹⁷Having arrived at Ptolemais, called from the specialty of that district Rose-bearing, where the fleet, in accordance with the general wish, waited for them seven days, ¹⁸they partook of a banquet of deliverance, for the king generously granted them severally the means of securing a return home.

¹⁹They were accordingly brought back in peace, while they gave the greatest terror. For the greatest God wrought with perfectness wonders for their salvation.

utterance to becoming thanks; and they determined to keep these days during their sojourn as days of joyfulness.

²⁰These they registered as sacred upon a pillar, when they had dedicated the place of their festivity to be one of prayer. They departed unharmed, free, abundant in joy, preserved by the king's command, by land, by sea, and by river, each to his own home.

²¹They had more weight than before among their enemies; and were honoured and feared, and no one in any way robbed them of their goods.

²²Every man received back his own, according to inventory; those who had obtained their goods, giving them up with ²³Blessed be the Redeemer of Israel unto everlasting. Amen.

The Fourth Book of the Maccabees

CHAPTER 1

¹As I am going to demonstrate a most philosophical proposition, namely, that religious reasoning is absolute master of the passions, I would willingly advise you to give the utmost heed to philosophy.

²For reason is necessary to every one as a step to science: and more especially does it embrace the praise of prudence, the highest virtue.

³If, then, reasoning appears to hold the mastery over the passions which stand in the way of temperance, such as gluttony and lust, ⁴it surely also and manifestly has the rule over the affections which are contrary to justice, such as malice; and of those which are hindrances to manliness, as wrath, and pain, and fear.

⁵How, then, is it, perhaps some may say, that reasoning, if it rule the affections, is not also master of forgetfulness and ignorance? They attempt a ridiculous argument.

⁶For reasoning does not rule over its own affections, but over such as are contrary to justice, and manliness and temperance, and prudence; and yet over these, so as to withstand, without destroying them.

⁷I might prove to you, from many other considerations, that religious reasoning is sole master of the passions;

⁸but I shall prove it with the greatest force from the fortitude of Eleazar, and seven brethren, and their mother, who suffered death in defence of virtue.

⁹For all these, contemning pains even unto death, by this contempt, demonstrated that reasoning has command over the passions.

¹⁰For their virtues, then, it is right that I should commend those men who died with their mother at this time in behalf of rectitude; and for their honours, I may count them happy.

¹¹For they, winning admiration not only from men in general, but even from the persecutors, for their manliness and endurance, became the means of the destruction of the tyranny against their nation, having conquered the tyrant by their endurance, so that by them their country was purified.

¹²But we may now at once enter upon the question, having commenced, as is our wont, with laying down the doctrine, and so proceed to the account of these persons, giving glory to the all wise God.

¹³The question, therefore, is, whether reasoning be absolute master of the passions.

¹⁴Let us determine, then, What is reasoning? and what passion? and how many forms of the passions? and whether reasoning bears sway over all of these?

4 Maccabees

¹⁵Reasoning is, then, intellect accompanied by a life of rectitude, putting foremost the consideration of wisdom.

¹⁶And wisdom is a knowledge of divine and human things, and of their causes.

¹⁷And this is contained in the education of the law; by means of which we learn divine things reverently, and human things profitably.

¹⁸And the forms of wisdom are prudence, and justice, and manliness, and temperance.

¹⁹The leading one of these is prudence; by whose means, indeed, it is that reasoning bears rule over the passions.

²⁰Of the passions, pleasure and pain are the two most comprehensive; and they also by nature refer to the soul.

²¹And there are many attendant affections surrounding pleasure and pain.

²²Before pleasure is lust; and after pleasure, joy.

²³And before pain is fear; and after pain is sorrow.

²⁴Wrath is an affection, common to pleasure and to pain, if any one will pay attention when it comes upon him.

²⁵And there exists in pleasure a malicious disposition, which is the most multiform of all the affections.

²⁶In the soul it is arrogance, and love of money, and vaingloriousness, and contention, and faithlessness, and the evil eye.

²⁷In the body it is greediness and gormandizing, and solitary gluttony.

²⁸As pleasure and pain are, therefore, two growth of the body and the soul, so there are many offshoots of these passions.

²⁹And reasoning, the universal husbandman, purging, and pruning these severally, and binding round, and watering, and transplanting, in every way improves the materials of the morals and affections.

³⁰For reasoning is the leader of the virtues, but it is the sole ruler of the passions. Observe then first, through the very things which stand in the way of temperance, that reasoning is absolute ruler of the passions.

³¹Now temperance consists of a command over the lusts.

³²But of the lusts, some belong to the soul, others to the body: and over each of these classes the reasoning appears to bear sway.

³³For whence is it, otherwise, that when urged on to forbidden meats, we reject the gratification which would ensue from them? Is it not because reasoning is able to command the appetites? I believe so.

³⁴Hence it is, then, that when lusting after water-animals and birds, and fourfooted beasts, and all kinds of food which are forbidden us by the law, we withhold ourselves through the mastery of reasoning.

³⁵For the affections of our appetites are resisted by the temperate understanding, and bent back again, and all the impulses of the body are reined in by reasoning.

CHAPTER 2

¹And what wonder? if the lusts of the soul, after participation with what is beautiful, are frustrated, ²on this ground, therefore, the temperate Joseph is praised in that by reasoning, he subdued, on reflection, the indulgence of sense.

³For, although young, and ripe for sexual intercourse, he abrogated by reasoning the stimulus of his passions.

⁴And it is not merely the stimulus of sensual indulgence, but that of every desire, that reasoning is able to master.

⁵For instance, the law says, Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor anything that belongs to thy neighbour.

⁶Now, then, since it is the law which has forbidden us to desire, I shall much the more easily persuade you, that reasoning is able to govern our lusts, just as it does the affections which are impediments to justice.

⁷Since in what way is a solitary eater, and a glutton, and a drunkard reclaimed, unless it be clear that reasoning is lord of the passions?

⁸A man, therefore, who regulates his course by the law, even if he be a lover of money, straightway puts force upon his own disposition; lending to the needy without interest, and cancelling the debt of the incoming sabbath.

⁹And should a man be parsimonious, he is ruled by the law acting through reasoning; so that he does not glean his harvest crops, nor vintage: and in reference to other points we may perceive that it is reasoning that conquers his passions.

¹⁰For the law conquers even affection toward parents, not surrendering virtue on their account.

¹¹And it prevails over marriage love, condemning it when transgressing law.

¹²And it lords it over the love of parents toward their children, for they punish them for vice; and it domineers over the intimacy of friends, reproving them when wicked.

¹³And think it not a strange assertion that reasoning can in behalf of the law conquer even enmity.

¹⁴It alloweth not to cut down the cultivated herbage of an enemy, but preserveth it from the destroyers, and collecteth their fallen ruins.

¹⁵And reason appears to be master of the more violent passions, as love of empire and empty boasting, and slander.

¹⁶For the temperate understanding repels all these malignant passions, as it does wrath: for it masters even this.

¹⁷Thus Moses, when angered against Dathan and Abiram, did nothing to them in wrath, but regulated his anger by reasoning.

¹⁸For the temperate mind is able, as I said, to be superior to the passions, and to transfer some, and destroy others.

4 Maccabees

¹⁹For why, else, does our most wise father Jacob blame Simeon and Levi for having irrationally slain the whole race of the Shechemites, saying, Cursed be their anger.

²⁰For if reasoning did not possess the power of subduing angry affections, he would not have spoken thus.

²¹For at the time when God created man, He implanted within him his passions and moral nature.

²²And at that time He enthroned above all the holy leader mind, through the medium of the senses.

²³And He gave a law to this mind, by living according to which it will maintain a temperate, and just, and good, and manly reign.

²⁴How, then, a man may say, if reasoning be master of the passions, has it no control over forgetfulness and ignorance?

CHAPTER 3

¹The argument is exceedingly ridiculous: for reasoning does not appear to bear sway over its own affections, but over those of the body, ²in such a way as that any one of you may not be able to root out desire, but reasoning will enable you to avoid being enslaved to it.

³One may not be able to root out anger from the soul, but it is possible to withstand anger.

⁴Any one of you may not be able to eradicate malice, but reasoning has force to work with you to prevent you yielding to malice.

⁵For reasoning is not an eradicator, but an antagonist of the passions.

⁶And this may be more clearly comprehended from the thirst of king David.

⁷For after David had been attacking the Philistines the whole day, he with the soldiers of his nation slew many of them;

⁸then when evening came, sweating and very weary, he came to the royal tent, about which the entire host of our ancestors was encamped.

⁹Now all the rest of them were at supper;

¹⁰but the king, being very much athirst, although he had numerous springs, could not by their means quench his thirst;

¹¹but a certain irrational longing for the water in the enemy's camp grew stronger and fiercer upon him, and consumed him with languish.

¹²Wherefore his body-guards being troubled at this longing of the king, two valiant young soldiers, reverencing the desire of the king, put on their panoplies, and taking a pitcher, got over the ramparts of the enemies:

¹³and unperceived by the guardians of the gate, they went throughout the whole camp of the enemy in quest.

¹⁴And having boldly discovered the fountain, they filled out of it the draught for the king.

4 Maccabees

¹⁵But he, though parched with thirst, reasoned that a draught reputed of equal value to blood, would be terribly dangerous to his soul.

¹⁶Wherefore, setting up reasoning in opposition to his desire, he poured out the draught to God.

¹⁷For the temperate mind has power to conquer the pressure of the passions, and to quench the fires of excitement, ¹⁸and to wrestle down the pains of the body, however excessive; and, through the excellency of reasoning, to abominate all the assaults of the passions.

¹⁹But the occasion now invites us to give an illustration of temperate reasoning from history.

²⁰For at a time when our fathers were in possession of undisturbed peace through obedience to the law, and were prosperous, so that Seleucus Nicanor, the king of Asia, both assigned them money for divine service, and accepted their form of government, ²¹then certain persons, bringing in new things contrary to the general unanimity, in various ways fell into calamities.

CHAPTER 4

¹For a certain man named Simon, who was in opposition to Onias, who once held the high priesthood for life, and was an honourable and good man, after that by slandering him in every way, he could not injure him with the people, went away as an exile, with the intention of betraying his country.

²Whence coming to Apollonius, the military governor of Syria, and Phoenicia, and Cilicia, he said, ³Having good will to the king's affairs, I am come to inform thee that infinite private wealth is laid up in the treasures of Jerusalem which do not belong to the temple, but pertain to king Seleucus.

⁴Apollonius, acquainting himself with the particulars of this, praised Simon for his care of the king's interests, and going up to Seleucus informed him of the treasure;

⁵and getting authority about it, and quickly advancing into our country with the accursed Simon and a very heavy force, ⁶he said that he came with the commands of the king that he should take the private money of the treasure.

⁷And the nation, indignant at this proclamation, and replying to the effect that it was extremely unfair that those who had committed deposits to the sacred treasury should be deprived of them, resisted as well as they could.

⁸But Appolonius went away with threats into the temple.

⁹And the priests, with the women and children, having supplicated God to throw his shield over the holy, despised place,

¹⁰and Appolonius going up with his armed force to the seizure of the treasure,—there appeared from heaven angels riding on horseback, all radiant in armour, filling them with much fear and trembling.

4 Maccabees

¹¹And Apollonius fell half dead upon the court which is open to all nations, and extended his hands to heaven, and implored the Hebrews, with tears, to pray for him, and propitiate the heavenly host.

¹²For he said that he had sinned, so as to be consequently worthy of death; and that if he were saved, he would celebrate to all men the blessedness of the holy place.

¹³Onias the high priest, induced by these words, although for other reasons anxious that king Seleucus should not suppose that Apollonius was slain by human device and not by Divine punishment, prayed for him;

¹⁴and he being thus unexpectedly saved, departed to manifest to the king what had happened to him.

¹⁵But on the death of Seleucus the king, his son Antiochus Epiphanes succeeds to the kingdom: a man of haughty pride and terrible.

¹⁶Who having deposed Onias from the high priesthood, appointed his brother Jason to be high priest:

¹⁷who had made a covenant, if he would give him this authority, to pay yearly three thousand six hundred and sixty talents.

¹⁸And he committed to him the high priesthood and rulership over the nation.

¹⁹And he both changed the manner of living of the people, and perverted their civil customs into all lawlessness.

²⁰So that he not only erected a gymnasium on the very citadel of our country, [but neglected] the guardianship of the temple.

²¹At which Divine vengeance being grieved, instigated Antiochus himself against them.

²²For being at war with Ptolemy in Egypt, he heard that on a report of his death being spread abroad, the inhabitants of Jerusalem had exceedingly rejoiced, and he quickly marched against them.

²³And having subdued them, he established a decree that if any of them lived according to the laws of his country he should die.

²⁴And when he could by no means destroy by his decrees the obedience to the law of the nation, but saw all his threats and punishments without effect, ²⁵for even women, because they continued to circumcise their children, were flung down a precipice along with them, knowing beforehand of the punishment.

²⁶When, therefore, his decrees were disregarded by the people, he himself compelled by means of tortures every one of this race, by tasting forbidden meats, to abjure the Jewish religion.

CHAPTER 5

¹The tyrant Antiochus, therefore, sitting in public state with his assessors upon a certain lofty place, with his armed troops standing in a circle around him, commanded his spearbearers to seize every one of the

4 Maccabees

Hebrews, and to compel them to taste swine's flesh, and things offered to idols.

³And should any of them be unwilling to eat the accursed food, they were to be tortured on the wheel, and so killed.

⁴And when many had been seized, a foremost man of the assembly, a Hebrew, by name Eleazar, a priest by family, by profession a lawyer, and advanced in years, and for this reason known to many of the king's followers, was brought near to him.

⁵And Antiochus seeing him, said,

⁶I would counsel thee, old man, before thy tortures begin, to tasted the swine's flesh, and save your life; for I feel respect for your age and hoary head, which since you have had so long, you appear to me to be no philosopher in retaining the superstition of the Jews.

⁷For wherefore, since nature has conferred upon you the most excellent flesh of this animal, do you loathe it?

⁸It seems senseless not to enjoy what is pleasant, yet not disgraceful; and from notions of sinfulness, to reject the boons of nature.

⁹And you will be acting, I think, still more senselessly, if you follow vain conceits about the truth.

¹⁰And you will, moreover, be despising me to your own punishment.

¹¹Will you not awake from your trifling philosophy? and give up the folly of your notions; and, regaining understanding worthy of your age, search into the truth of an expedient course?

¹²and, reverencing my kindly admonition, have pity upon your own years?

¹³For, bear in mind, that if there be any power which watches over this religion of yours, it will pardon you for all transgressions of the law which you commit through compulsion.

¹⁴While the tyrant incited him in this manner to the unlawful eating of flesh, Eleazar begged permission to speak.

¹⁵And having received power to speak, he began thus to deliver himself:

¹⁶We, O Antiochus, who are persuaded that we live under a divine law, consider no compulsion to be so forcible as obedience to that law;

¹⁷wherefore we consider that we ought not in any point to transgress the law.

¹⁸And indeed, were our law (as you suppose) not truly divine, and if we wrongly think it divine, we should have no right even in that case to destroy our sense of religion.

¹⁹think not eating the unclean, then, a trifling offense.

²⁰For transgression of the law, whether in small or great matters, is of equal moment;

²¹for in either case the law is equally slighted.

²²But thou deridest our philosophy, as though we lived irrationally in it.

4 Maccabees

²³Yet it instructs us in temperance, so that we are superior to all pleasures and lusts; and it exercises us in manliness, so that we cheerfully undergo every grievance.

²⁴And it instructs us in justice, so that in all our dealings we render what is due; and it teaches us piety, so that we worship the one only God becomingly.

²⁵Wherefore it is that we eat not the unclean; for believing that the law was established by God, we are convinced that the Creator of the world, in giving his laws, sympathises with our nature.

²⁶Those things which are convenient to our souls, he has directed us to eat; but those which are repugnant to them, he has interdicted.

²⁷But, tyrant-like, thou not only forcest us to break the law, but also to eat, that thou mayest ridicule us as we thus profanely eat:

²⁸but thou shalt not have this cause of laughter against me;

²⁹nor will I transgress the sacred oaths of my forefathers to keep the law.

³⁰No, not if you pluck out my eyes, and consume my entrails.

³¹I am not so old, and void of manliness, but that my rational powers are youthful in defence of my religion.

³²Now then; prepare your wheels, and kindle a fiercer flame.

³³I will not so compassionate my old age, as on my account to break the law of my country.

³⁴I will not belie thee, O law, my instructor! or forsake thee, O beloved self-control!

³⁵I will not put thee to shame, O philosopher Reason; or deny thee, O honoured priesthood, and science of the law.

³⁶Mouth! thou shalt not pollute my old age, nor the full stature of a perfect life.

³⁷My fathers shall receive me pure, not having quailed before your compulsion, though unto death.

³⁸For over the ungodly thou shalt tyrannize; but thou shalt not lord it over my thoughts about religion, either by thine arguments, or through deeds.

CHAPTER 6

¹When Eleazar had in this manner answered the exhortations of the tyrant, the spearbearers came up, and rudely haled Eleazar to the instruments of torture.

²And first, they stripped the old man, adorned as he was with the comeliness of piety.

³Then tying back his arms and hands, they disdainfully used him with stripes;

⁴a herald opposite crying out, Obey the commands of the king.

⁵But Eleazar, the high-minded and truly noble, as one tortured in a dream, regarded it not all.

⁶But raising his eyes on high to heaven, the old man's flesh was stripped off by the scourges, and his blood streamed down, and his sides were pierced through.

4 Maccabees

⁷And falling upon the ground, from his body having no power to support the pains, he yet kept his reasoning upright and unbending.

⁸then one of the harsh spearbearers leaped upon his belly as he was falling, to force him upright.

⁹But he endured the pains, and despised the cruelty, and persevered through the indignities;

¹⁰and like a noble athlete, the old man, when struck, vanquished his torturers.

¹¹His countenance sweating, and he panting for breath, he was admired by the very torturers for his courage.

¹²Wherefore, partly in pity for his old age,

¹³partly from the sympathy of acquaintance, and partly in admiration of his endurance, some of the attendants of the king said, Why do you unreasonably destroy yourself, O Eleazar, with these miseries?

¹⁵We will bring you some meat cooked by yourself, and do you save yourself by pretending that you have eaten swine's flesh.

¹⁶And Eleazar, as though the advice more painfully tortured him, cried out, ¹⁷Let not us who are children of Abraham be so evil advised as by giving way to make use of an unbecoming pretence;

¹⁸for it were irrational, if having lived up to old age in all truth, and having scrupulously guarded our character for it, we should now turn back, ¹⁹and ourselves should become a pattern of impiety to the young, as being an example of pollution eating.

²⁰It would be disgraceful if we should live on some short time, and that scorned by all men for cowardice, ²¹and be condemned by the tyrant for unmanliness, by not contending to the death for our divine law.

²²Wherefore do you, O children of Abraham, die nobly for your religion.

²³Ye spearbearers of the tyrant, why do ye linger?

²⁴Beholding him so high-minded against misery, and not changing at their pity, they led him to the fire:

²⁵then with their wickedly-contrived instruments they burnt him on the fire, and poured stinking fluids down into his nostrils.

²⁶And he being at length burnt down to the bones, and about to expire, raised his eyes Godward, and said, ²⁷Thou knowest, O God, that when I might have been saved, I am slain for the sake of the law by tortures of fire.

²⁸Be merciful to thy people, and be satisfied with the punishment of me on their account.

²⁹Let my blood be a purification for them, and take my life in recompense for theirs.

³⁰Thus speaking, the holy man departed, noble in his torments, and even to the agonies of death resisted in his reasoning for the sake of the law.

³¹Confessedly, therefore, religious reasoning is master of the passions.

4 Maccabees

³²For had the passions been superior to reasoning, I would have given them the witness of this mastery.

³³But now, since reasoning conquered the passions, we befittingly awarded it the authority of first place.

³⁴And it is but fair that we should allow, that the power belongs to reasoning, since it masters external miseries.

³⁵Ridiculous would it be were it not so; and I prove that reasoning has not only mastered pains, but that it is also superior to the pleasures, and withstands them.

CHAPTER 7

¹The reasoning of our father Eleazar, like a first-rate pilot, steering the vessel of piety in the sea of passions,

²and flouted by the threats of the tyrant, and overwhelmed with the breakers of torture,

³in no way shifted the rudder of piety till it sailed into the harbour of victory over death.

⁴Not so has ever a city, when besieged, held out against many and various machines, as did that holy man, when his pious soul was tried with the fiery trial of tortures and rackings, move his besiegers through the religious reasoning that shielded him.

⁵For father Eleazar, projecting his disposition, broke the raging waves of the passions as with a jutting promontory.

⁶O priest worthy of the priesthood! thou didst not pollute thy sacred teeth; nor make thine appetite, which had always embraced the clean and lawful, a partaker of profanity.

⁷O harmonizer with the law, and sage devoted to a divine life!

⁸Of such a character ought those to be who perform the duties of the law at the risk of their own blood, and defend it with generous sweat by sufferings even unto death.

⁹Thou, father, hast gloriously established our right government by thy endurance; and making of much account our service past, prevented its destruction, and, by thy deeds, hast made credible the words of philosophy.

¹⁰O aged man of more power than tortures, elder more vigorous than fire, greatest king over the passions, Eleazar!

¹¹For as father Aaron, armed with a censer, hastening through the consuming fire, vanquished the flame-bearing angel, ¹²so, Eleazar, the descendant of Aaron, wasted away by the fire, did not give up his reasoning.

¹³And, what is most wonderful, though an old man, though the labours of his body were now spent, and his fibres were relaxed, and his sinews worn out, he recovered youth.

¹⁴By the spirit of reasoning, and the reasoning of Isaac, he rendered powerless the many-headed instrument.

4 Maccabees

¹⁵O blessed old age, and reverend hoar head, and life obedient to the law, which the faithful seal of death perfected.

¹⁶O If, then, an old man, through religion, despised tortures even unto death, confessedly religious reasoning is ruler of the passions.

¹⁷But perhaps some might say, It is not all who conquer passions, as all do not possess wise reasoning.

¹⁸But they who have meditated upon religion with their whole heart, these alone can master the passions of the flesh;

¹⁹they who believe that to God they die not; for, as our forefathers, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, they live to God.

²⁰This circumstance, then, is by no means an objection, that some who have weak reasoning, are governed by their passions:

²¹since what person, walking religiously by the whole rule of philosophy, and believing in God, ²²and knowing that it is a blessed thing to endure all kinds of hardships for virtue, would not, for the sake of religion, master his passion?

²³For the wise and brave man only is lord over his passions.

²⁴Whence it is, that even boys, imbued with the philosophy of religious reasoning, have conquered still more bitter tortures:

²⁵for when the tyrant was manifestly vanquished in his first attempt, in being unable to force the old man to eat the unclean thing,-

CHAPTER 8

¹Then, indeed, vehemently swayed with passion, he commanded to bring others of the adult Hebrews, and if they would eat of the unclean thing, to let them go when they had eaten; but if they objected, to torment them more grievously.

²The tyrant having given this charge, seven brethren were brought into his presence, along with their aged mother, handsome, and modest, and well-born, and altogether comely.

³Whom, when the tyrant beheld, encircling their mother as in a dance, he was pleased at them; and being struck with their becoming and ingenuous mien, smiled upon them, and calling them near, said:

⁴O youths, with favourable feelings, I admire the beauty of each of you; and greatly honouring so numerous a band of brethren, I not only counsel you not to share the madness of the old man who has been tortured before, ⁵but I do beg you to yield, and to enjoy my friendship; for I possess the power, not only of punishing those who disobey my commands, but of doing good to those who obey them.

⁶Put confidence in me, then, and you shall receive places of authority in my government, if you forsake your national ordinance, ⁷and, conforming to the Greek mode of life, alter your rule, and revel in youth's delights.

4 Maccabees

⁸For if you provoke me by your disobedience, you will compel me to destroy you, every one, with terrible punishments by tortures.

⁹Have mercy, then, upon your own selves, whom I, although an enemy, compassionate for your age and comeliness.

¹⁰Will you not reason upon this--that if you disobey, there will be nothing left for you but to die in tortures?

¹¹Thus speaking, he ordered the instruments of torture to be brought forward, that very fear might prevail upon them to eat unclean meat.

¹²And when the spearman brought forward the wheels, and the racks, and the hooks, and catapeltae, and caldrons, pans, and finger-racks, and iron hands and wedges, and bellows, the tyrant continue:

¹³Fear, young men, and the righteousness which ye worship will be merciful to you if you err from compulsion.

¹⁴Now they having listened to these words of persuasion, and seeing the fearful instruments, not only were not afraid, but even answered the arguments of the tyrant, and through their good reasoning destroyed his power.

¹⁵Now let us consider the matter: had any of them been weak-spirited and cowardly among them, what reasonings would they have employed but these?

¹⁶O wretched that we are, and exceeding senseless! when the king exhorts us, and calls us to his bounty, should we not obey him?

¹⁷Why do we cheer ourselves with vain counsels, and venture upon a disobedience bringing death?

¹⁸Shall we not fear, O brethren, the instruments of torture and weigh the threatenings of torment and shun this vain-glory and destructive pride?

¹⁹Let us have compassion upon our age and relent over the years of our mother.

²⁰And let us bear in mind that we shall be dying as rebels.

²¹And Divine Justice will pardon us if we fear the king through necessity.

²²Why withdraw ourselves from a most sweet life, and deprive ourselves of this pleasant world?

²³Let us not oppose necessity, nor seek vain-glory by our own excruciation.

²⁴The law itself is not forward to put us to death, if we dread torture.

²⁵Whence has such angry zeal taken root in us, and such fatal obstinacy approved itself to us, when we might live unmolested by the king?

²⁶But nothing of this kind did the young men say or think when about to be tortured.

²⁷For they were well aware of the sufferings, and masters of the pains. So that as soon as the tyrant had ceased counseling them to eat the unclean, they altogether with one voice, as from the same heart said:

CHAPTER 9

4 Maccabees

¹Why delayest thou, O tyrant? for we are readier to die than to transgress the injunctions of our fathers.

²And we should be disgracing our fathers if we did not obey the law, and take knowledge for our guide.

³O tyrant, counsellor of law-breaking, do not, hating us as thou dost, pity us more than we pity ourselves.

⁴For we account escape to be worse than death.

⁵And you think to scare us, by threatening us with death by tortures, as though thou hadst learned nothing by the death of Eleazar.

⁶But if aged men of the Hebrews have died in the cause of religion after enduring torture, more rightly should we younger men die, scorning your cruel tortures, which our aged instructor overcame.

⁷Make the attempt, then, O tyrant; and if thou puttest us to death for our religion, think not that thou harmest us by torturing us.

⁸For we through this ill-treatment and endurance shall bear off the rewards of virtue.

⁹But thou, for the wicked and despotic slaughter of us, shalt, from the Divine vengeance, endure eternal torture by fire.

¹⁰When they had thus spoken, the tyrant was not only exasperated against them as being refractory, but enraged with them as being ungrateful.

¹¹So that, at his bidding, the torturers brought forth the eldest of them, and tearing through his tunic, bound his hands and arms on each side with thongs.

¹²And when they had laboured hard without effect in scourging him, they hurled him upon the wheel.

¹³And the noble youth, extended upon this, became dislocated.

¹⁴And with every member disjointed, he exclaimed in expostulation, ¹⁵O most accursed tyrant, and enemy of heavenly justice, and cruel-hearted, I am no murderer, nor sacrilegious man, whom thou thus ill-usest; but a defender of the Divine law.

¹⁶And when the spearmen said, Consent to eat, that you may be released from your tortures,--

¹⁷he answered, Not so powerful, O accursed ministers, is your wheel, as to stifle my reasoning; cut my limbs, and burn my flesh, and twist my joints.

¹⁸For through all my torments I will convince you that the children of the Hebrews are alone unconquered in behalf of virtue.

¹⁹While he was saying this, they heaped up fuel, and setting fire to it, strained him upon the wheel still more.

²⁰And the wheel was defiled all over with blood, and the hot ashes were quenched by the droppings of gore, and pieces of flesh were scattered about the axles of the machine.

²¹And although the framework of his bones was now destroyed the high-minded and Abrahamic youth did not groan.

4 Maccabees

²²But, as though transformed by fire into immortality, he nobly endured the rackings, saying

²³Imitate me, O brethren, nor ever desert your station, nor abjure my brotherhood in courage: fight the holy and honourable fight of religion;

²⁴by which means our just and paternal Providence, becoming merciful to the nation, will punish the pestilent tyrant.

²⁵And saying this, the revered youth abruptly closed his life.

²⁶And when all admired his courageous soul, the spearmen brought forward him who was second in point of age, and having put on iron hands, bound him with pointed hooks to the catapelt.

²⁷And when, on enquiring whether he would eat before he was tortured, they heard his noble sentiment, ²⁸after they with the iron hands had violently dragged all the flesh from the neck to the chin, the panther-like beasts tore off the very skin of his head: but he, bearing with firmness this misery, said,

²⁹How sweet is every form of death for the religion of our fathers! and he said to the tyrant, ³⁰Thinkest thou not, most cruel of all tyrants, that thou art now tortured more than I, finding thine overweening conception of tyranny conquered by our patience in behalf of our religion?

³¹For I lighten my suffering by the pleasures which are connected with virtue.

³²But thou art tortured with threatenings for impiety; and thou shalt not escape, most corrupt tyrant, the vengeance of Divine wrath.

CHAPTER 10

¹Now this one, having endured this praiseworthy death, the third was brought along, and exhorted by many to taste and save his life.

²But he cried out and said, Know ye not, that the father of those who are dead, begat me also; and that the same mother bare me; and that I was brought up in the same tenets?

³I abjure not the noble relationship of my brethren.

⁴Now then, whatever instrument of vengeance ye have, apply it to my body, for ye are not able to touch, even if ye wish it, my soul.

⁵But they, highly incensed at his boldness of speech, dislocated his hands and feet with racking engines, and wrenching them from their sockets, dismembered him.

⁶And they dragged round his fingers, and his arms, and his legs, and his ankles.

⁷And not being able by any means to strangle him, they tore off his skin, together with the extreme tips of his fingers, flayed him, and then haled him to the wheel;

⁸around which his vertebral joints were loosened, and he saw his own flesh torn to shreds, and streams of blood flowing from his entrails.

⁹And when about to die, he said,

4 Maccabees

¹⁰We, O accursed tyrant, suffer this for the sake of Divine education and virtue.

¹¹But thou, for thine impiety and blood-shedding, shalt endure indissoluble torments.

¹²And thus having died worthily of his brethren, they dragged forward the fourth, saying, ¹³Do not thou share the madness of thy brethren: but give regard to the king, and save thyself.

¹⁴But he said to them, You have not a fire so scorching as to make me play the coward.

¹⁵By the blessed death of my brethren, and the eternal punishment of the tyrant, and the glorious life of the pious, I will not repudiate the noble brotherhood.

¹⁶Invent, O tyrant, tortures; that you may learn, even through them, that I am the brother of those tormented before.

¹⁷When he had said this, the blood-thirsty, and murderous, and unhallowed Antiochus ordered his tongue to be cut out.

¹⁸But he said, Even if you take away the organ of speech, yet God hears the silent.

¹⁹Behold, my tongue is extended, cut it off; for not for that halt thou extirpate our reasoning.

²⁰Gladly do we lose our limbs in behalf of God.

²¹But God shall speedily find you, since you cut off the tongue, the instrument of divine melody.

CHAPTER 11

¹And when he had died, disfigured in his torments, the fifth leaped forward, and said, ²I intend not, O tyrant, to get excused from the torment which is in behalf of virtue.

³But I have come of mine own accord, that by the death of me, you may owe heavenly vengeance a punishment for more crimes.

⁴O thou hater of virtue and of men, what have we done that thou thus revellest in our blood?

⁵Does it seem evil to thee that we worship the Founder of all things, and live according to his surpassing law?

⁶But this is worthy of honours, not torments;

⁷hadst thou been capable of the higher feelings of men, and possessed the hope of salvation from God.

⁸Behold now, being alien from God, thou makest war against those who are religious toward God.

⁹As he said this, the spearbearers bound him, and drew him to the catapelt:

¹⁰to which binding him at his knees, and fastening them with iron fetters, they bent down his loins upon the wedge of the wheel; and his body was then dismembered, scorpion-fashion.

¹¹With his breath thus confined, and his body strangled, he said, ¹²A great favour thou bestowest upon us, O tyrant, by enabling us to manifest our adherence to the law by means of nobler sufferings.

4 Maccabees

¹³He also being dead, the sixth, quite a youth, was brought out; and on the tyrant asking him whether he would eat and be delivered, he said,

¹⁴I am indeed younger than my brothers, but in understanding I am as old;

¹⁵for having been born and reared unto the same end, we are bound to die also in behalf of the same cause.

¹⁶So that if ye think proper to torment us for not eating the unclean;-- torment!

¹⁷As he said this, they brought him to the wheel.

¹⁸Extended upon which, with limbs racked and dislocated, he was gradually roasted from beneath.

¹⁹And having heated sharp spits, they approached them to his back; and having transfixed his sides, they burned away his entrails.

²⁰And he, while tormented, said, O period good and holy, in which, for the sake of religion, we brethren have been called to the contest of pain, and have not been conquered.

²¹For religious understanding, O tyrant, is unconquered.

²²Armed with upright virtue, I also shall depart with my brethren.

²³I, too, bearing with me a great avenger, O deviser of tortures, and enemy of the truly pious.

²⁴We six youths have destroyed thy tyranny.

²⁵For is not your inability to overrule our reasoning, and to compel us to eat the unclean, thy destruction?

²⁶Your fire is cold to us, your catapelts are painless, and your violence harmless.

²⁷For the guards not of a tyrant but of a divine law are our defenders: through this we keep our reasoning unconquered.

CHAPTER 12

¹When he, too, had undergone blessed martyrdom, and died in the caldron into which he had been thrown, the seventh, the youngest of all, came forward:

²whom the tyrant pitying, though he had been dreadfully reproached by his brethren,

³seeing him already encompassed with chains, had him brought nearer, and endeavoured to counsel him, saying, ⁴Thou seest the end of the madness of thy brethren: for they have died to torture through disobedience; and you, if disobedient, having been miserably tormented, will yourself perish prematurely.

⁵But if you obey, you shall be my friend, and have a charge over the affairs of the kingdom.

⁶And having thus exhorted him, he sent for the mother of the boy; that, by condoling with her for the loss of so many sons, he might incline her, through the hope of safety, to render the survivor obedient.

⁷And he, after his mother had urged him on in the Hebrew tongue, (as we shall soon relate) saith,

4 Maccabees

⁸Release me that I may speak to the king and all his friends.

⁹And they, rejoicing exceedingly at the promise of the youth, quickly let him go.

¹⁰And he, running up to the pans, said,

¹¹Impious tyrant, and most blasphemous man, wert thou not ashamed, having received prosperity and a kingdom from God, to slay His servants, and to rack the doers of godliness?

¹²Wherefore the divine vengeance is reserving thee for eternal fire and torments, which shall cling to thee for all time.

¹³Wert thou not ashamed, man as thou art, yet most savage, to cut out the tongues of men of like feeling and origin, and having thus abused to torture them?

¹⁴But they, bravely dying, fulfilled their religion towards God.

¹⁵But thou shalt groan according to thy deserts for having slain without cause the champions of virtue.

¹⁶Wherefore, he continued, I myself, being about to die, ¹⁷will not forsake my brethren.

¹⁸And I call upon the God of my fathers to be merciful to my race.

¹⁹But thee, both living and dead, he will punish.

²⁰Thus having prayed, he hurled himself into the pans; and so expired.

CHAPTER 13

¹If then, the seven brethren despised troubles even unto death, it is confessed on all sides that righteous reasoning is absolute master over the passions.

²For just as if, had they as slaves to the passions, eaten of the unholy, we should have said that they had been conquered by the;

³now it is not so: but by means of the reasoning which is praised by God, they mastered their passions.

⁴And it is impossible to overlook the leadership of reflection: for it gained the victory over both passions and troubles.

⁵How, then, can we avoid according to these men mastery of passion through right reasoning, since they drew not back from the pains of fire?

⁶For just as by means of towers projecting in front of harbours men break the threatening waves, and thus assure a still course to vessels entering port, ⁷so that seven-towered right-reasoning of the young men, securing the harbour of religion, conquered the intermperance of passions.

⁸For having arranged a holy choir of piety, they encouraged one another, saying, ⁹Brothers, may we die brotherly for the law. Let us imitate the three young men in Assyria who despised the equally afflicting furnace.

¹⁰Let us not be cowards in the manifestation of piety.

¹¹And one said, Courage, brother; and another, Nobly endure.

4 Maccabees

¹²And another, Remember of what stock ye are; and by the hand of our father Isaac endured to be slain for the sake of piety.

¹³And one and all, looking on each other serene and confident, said, Let us sacrifice with all our heart our souls to God who gave them, and employ our bodies for the keeping of the law.

¹⁴Let us not fear him who thinketh he killeth;

¹⁵for great is the trial of soul and danger of eternal torment laid up for those who transgress the commandment of God.

¹⁶Let us arm ourselves, therefore, in the abnegation of the divine reasoning.

¹⁷If we suffer thus, Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob will receive us, and all the fathers will commend us.

¹⁸And as each one of the brethren was haled away, the rest exclaimed, Disgrace us not, O brother, nor falsify those who died before you.

¹⁹Now you are not ignorant of the charm of brotherhood, which the Divine and all wise Providence hath imparted through fathers to children, and hath engendered through the mother's womb.

²⁰In which these brothers having remained an equal time, and having been formed for the same period, and been increased by the same blood, and having been perfected through the same principle of life,

²¹and having been brought forth at equal intervals, and having sucked milk from the same fountains, hence their brotherly souls are reared up lovingly together;

²²and increase the more powerfully by reason of this simultaneous rearing, and by daily intercourse, and by other education, and exercise in the law of God.

²³Brotherly love being thus sympathetically constituted, the seven brethren had a more sympathetic mutual harmony.

²⁴For being educated in the same law, and practising the same virtues, and reared up in a just course of life, they increased this harmony with each other.

²⁵For a like ardour for what is right and honourable increased their fellow-feeling towards each other.

²⁶For it acting along with religion, made their brotherly feeling more desirable to them.

²⁷And yet, although nature and intercourse and virtuous morals increased their brotherly love those who were left endured to behold their brethren, who were illused for their religion, tortured even unto death.

CHAPTER 14

¹And more that this, they even urged them on to this ill-treatment; so that they not only despised pains themselves, but they even got the better of their affections of brotherly love.

²O reasonings more royal than a king, and freer than freemen!

³Sacred and harmonious concert of the seven brethren as concerning piety!

4 Maccabees

⁴None of the seven youths turned cowardly, or shrank back from death.

⁵But all of them, as though running the road to immortality, hastened on to death through tortures.

⁶For just as hands and feet are moved sympathetically with the directions of the soul, so those holy youths agreed unto death for religion's sake, as through the immortal soul of religion.

⁷O holy seven of harmonious brethren! for as the seven days of creation, about religion, ⁸so the youths, circling around the number seven, annulled the fear of torments.

⁹We now shudder at the recital of the affliction of those young men; but they not only beheld, and not only heard the immediate execution of the threat, but undergoing it, persevered; and that through the pains of fire.

¹⁰And what could be more painful? for the power of fire, being sharp and quick, speedily dissolved their bodies.

¹¹And think it not wonderful that reasoning bore rule over those men in their torments, when even a woman's mind despised more manifold pains.

¹²For the mother of those seven youths endured the rackings of each of her children.

¹³And consider how comprehensive is the love of offspring, which draws every one to sympathy of affection, ¹⁴where irrational animals possess a similar sympathy and love for their offspring with men.

¹⁵The tame birds frequenting the roofs of our houses, defend their fledglings.

¹⁶Others build their nests, and hatch their young, in the tops of mountains and in the precipices of valleys, and the holes and tops of trees, and keep off the intruder.

¹⁷And if not able to do this, they fly circling round them in agony of affection, calling out in their own note, and save their offspring in whatever manner they are able.

¹⁸But why should we point attention to the sympathy toward children shewn by irrational animals?

¹⁹The very bees, at the season of honey-making, attack all who approach; and pierce with their sting, as with a sword, those who draw near their hive, and repel them even unto death.

²⁰But sympathy with her children did not turn aside the mother of the young men, who had a spirit kindred with that of Abraham.

CHAPTER 15

¹O reasoning of the sons, lord over the passions, and religion more desirable to a mother than progeny!

²The mother, when two things were set before her, religion and the safety of her seven sons for a time, on the conditional promise of a tyrant, ³rather elected the religion which according to God preserves to eternal life.

⁴O in what way can I describe ethically the affections of parents toward their children, the resemblance of soul and of form engrafted into the small type of a child in a wonderful manner, especially through the greater sympathy of mothers with the feelings of those born of them!

4 Maccabees

⁵for by how much mothers are by nature weak in disposition and prolific in offspring, by so much the fonder they are of children.

⁶And of all mothers the mother of the seven was the fondest of children, who in seven childbirths had deeply engendered love toward them;

⁷and through her many pains undergone in connection with each one, was compelled to feel sympathy with them;

⁸yet, through fear of God, who neglected the temporary salvation of her children.

⁹Not but that, on account of the excellent disposition to the law, her maternal affection toward them was increased.

¹⁰For they were both just and temperate, and manly, and high-minded, and fond of their brethren, and so fond of their mother that even unto death they obeyed her by observing the law.

¹¹And yet, though there were so many circumstances connected with love of children to draw on a mother to sympathy, in the case of none of them were the various tortures able to pervert her principle.

¹²But she inclined each one separately and all together to death for religion.

¹³O holy nature and parental feeling, and reward of bringing up children, and unconquerable maternal affection!

¹⁴At the racking and roasting of each one of them, the observant mother was prevented by religion from changing.

¹⁵She beheld her children's flesh dissolving around the fire; and their extremities quivering on the ground, and the flesh of their heads dropped forwards down to their beards, like masks.

¹⁶O thou mother, who wast tried at this time with bitterer pangs than those of parturition!

¹⁷O thou only woman who hast brought forth perfect holiness!

¹⁸Thy first-born, expiring, turned thee not; nor the second, looking miserable in his torments; nor the third, breathing out his soul.

¹⁹Nor when thou didst behold the eyes of each of them looking sternly upon their tortures, and their nostrils foreboding death, didst thou weep!

²⁰When thou didst see children's flesh heaped upon children's flesh that had been torn off, heads decapitated upon heads, dead falling upon the dead, and a choir of children turned through torture into a burying ground, thou lamentedst not.

²¹Not so do siren melodies, or songs of swans, attract the hearers to listening, O voices of children calling upon your mother in the midst of torments!

4 Maccabees

²²With what and what manner of torments was the mother herself tortured, as her sons were undergoing the wheel and the fires!

²³But religious reasoning, having strengthened her courage in the midst of sufferings, enabled her to forego, for the time, parental love.

²⁴Although beholding the destruction of seven children, the noble mother, after one embrace, stripped off [her feelings] through faith in God.

²⁵For just as in a council-room, beholding in her own soul vehement counsellors, nature and parentage and love of her children, and the racking of her children, ²⁶she holding two votes, one for the death, the other for the preservation of her children, ²⁷did not lean to that which would have saved her children for the safety of a brief space.

²⁸But this daughter of Abraham remembered his holy fortitude.

²⁹O holy mother of a nation avenger of the law, and defender of religion, and prime bearer in the battle of the affections!

³⁰O thou nobler in endurance than males, and more manly than men in patience!

³¹For as the ark of Noah, bearing the world in the world-filling flood, bore up against the waves, ³²so thou, the guardian of the law, when surrounded on every side by the flood of passions, and straitened by violent storms which were the torments of thy children, didst bear up nobly against the storms against religion.

CHAPTER 16

¹If, then, even a woman, and that an aged one, and the mother of seven children, endured to see her children's torments even unto death, confessedly religious reasoning is master even of the passions.

²I have proved, then, that not only men have obtained the mastery of their passions, but also that a woman despised the greatest torments.

³And not so fierce were the lions round Daniel, nor the furnace of Misael burning with most vehement fires as that natural love of children burned within her, when she beheld her seven sons tortured.

⁴But with the reasoning of religion the mother quenched passions so great and powerful.

⁵For we must consider also this: that, had the woman been faint hearted, as being their other, she would have lamented over them; and perhaps might have spoken thus:

⁶Ah! wretched I, and many times miserable; who having born seven sons, have become the mother of none.

⁷O seven useless childbirths, and seven profitless periods of labour, and fruitless givings of suck, and miserable nursings at the breast.

4 Maccabees

⁸Vainly, for your sakes, O sons, have I endured many pangs, and the more difficult anxieties of rearing.

⁹Alas, of my children, some of you unmarried, and some who have married to no profit, I shall not see your children, nor be felicitated as a grandmother.

¹⁰Ah, that I who had many and fair children, should be a lone widow full of sorrows!

¹¹Nor, should I die, shall I have a son to bury me. But with such a lament is this the holy and God-fearing mother bewailed none of them.

¹²Nor did she divert any of them from death, nor grieve for them as for the dead.

¹³But as one possessed with an adamant mind, and as one bringing forth again her full number of sons to immortality, she rather with supplication exhorted them to death in behalf of religion.

¹⁴O woman, soldier of God for religion, thou, aged and a female, hast conquered through endurance even a tyrant; and though but weak, hast been found more powerful in deeds and words.

¹⁵For when thou wast seized along with thy children, thou stoodest looking upon Eleazar in torments, and saidst to thy sons in the Hebrew tongue, ¹⁶O sons, noble is the contest; to which you being called as a witness for the nation, strive zealously for the laws of your country.

¹⁷For it were disgraceful that this old man should endure pains for the sake of righteousness, and that you who are younger should be afraid of the tortures.

¹⁸Remember that through God ye obtained existence, and have enjoyed it.

¹⁹And on this second account ye ought to bear every affliction because of God.

²⁰For whom also our father Abraham was forward to sacrifice Isaac our progenitor, and shuddered not at the sight of his own paternal hand descending down with the sword upon him.

²¹And the righteous Daniel was cast unto the lions; and Ananias, and Azarias, and Misael, were slung out into a furnace of fire; yet they endured through God.

²²You, then, having the same faith towards God, be not troubled.

²³For it is unreasonable that they who know religion should not stand up against troubles.

²⁴With these arguments, the mother of seven, exhorting each of her sons, over-persuaded them from transgressing the commandment of God.

²⁵And they saw this, too, that they who die for God, live to God; as Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the patriarchs.

CHAPTER 17

¹And some of the spearbearers said, that when she herself was about to be seized for the purpose of being put to death, she threw herself upon the pile, rather than they should touch her person.

4 Maccabees

²O thou mother, who together with seven children didst destroy the violence of the tyrant, and render void his wicked intentions, and exhibit the nobleness of faith!

³For thou, as an house bravely built upon the pillar of thy children, didst bear without swaying, the shock of tortures.

⁴Be of good cheer, therefore, O holy-minded mother! holding the firm [substance of the] hope of your steadfastness with God.

⁵Not so gracious does the moon appear with the stars in heaven, as thou art established honourable before God, and fixed in the firmament with thy sons who thou didst illuminate with religion to the stars.

⁶For thy bearing of children was after the fashion of a child of Abraham.

⁷And, were it lawful for us to paint as on a tablet the religion of thy story, the spectators would not shudder at beholding the mother of seven children enduring for the sake of religion various tortures even unto death.

⁸And it had been a worth thing to have inscribed upon the tomb itself these words as a memorial to those of the nation,

⁹Here an aged priest, and an aged woman, and seven sons, are buried through the violence of a tyrant, who wished to destroy the polity of the Hebrews.

¹⁰These also avenged their nation, looking unto God, and enduring torments unto death.

¹¹For it was truly a divine contest which was carried through by them.

¹²For at that time virtue presided over the contest, approving the victory through endurance, namely, immortality, eternal life.

¹³Eleazar was the first to contend: and the mother of the seven children entered the contest; and the brethren contended.

¹⁴The tyrant was the opposite; and the world and living men were the spectators.

¹⁵And reverence for God conquered, and crowned her own athletes.

¹⁶Who did not admire those champions of true legislation? who were not astonished?

¹⁷The tyrant himself, and all their council, admired their endurance;

¹⁸through which, also, they now stand beside the divine throne, and live a blessed life.

¹⁹For Moses saith, And all the saints are under thine hands.

²⁰These, therefore, having been sanctified through God, have been honoured not only with this honour, but that also by their means the enemy did not overcome our nation;

²¹and that the tyrant was punished, and their country purified.

²²For they became the atonement for the sin of the nation; and the Divine

4 Maccabees

Providence saved Israel, aforetime afflicted, by the blood of those pious ones, and the propitiatory death.

²³For the tyrant Antiochus, looking to their manly virtue, and to their endurance in torture, proclaimed that endurance as an example to his soldiers.

²⁴And they proved to be to him noble and brave for land battles and for sieges; and he conquered and stormed the towns of all his enemies.

CHAPTER 18

¹O Israelitish children, descendants of the seed of Abraham, obey this law, and in every way be religious.

²Knowing that religious reasoning is lord of the passions, and those not only inward but outward.

³When those persons giving up their bodies to pains for the sake of religion, were not only admired by men, but were deemed worthy of a divine portion.

⁴And the nation through them obtained peace, and having renewed the observance of the law in their country, drove the enemy out of the land.

⁵And the tyrant Antiochus was both punished upon earth, and is punished now he is dead; for when he was quite unable to compel the Israelites to adopt foreign customs, and to desert the manner of life of their fathers, ⁶then, departing from Jerusalem, he made war against the Persians.

⁷And the righteous mother of the seven children spake also as follows to her offspring: I was a pure virgin, and went not beyond my father's house; but I took care of the built-up rib.

⁸No destroyer of the desert, or ravisher of the plain, injured me; nor did the destructive, deceitful snake, make spoil of my chaste virginity; and I remained with my husband during the period of my prime.

⁹And these my children, having arrive at maturity, their father died: blessed was he! for having sought out a life of fertility in children, he was not grieved with a period of loss of children.

¹⁰And he used to teach you, when yet with you, the law and the prophets.

¹¹He used to read to you the slaying of Abel by Cain, and the offering up of Isaac, and the imprisonment of Joseph.

¹²And he used to tell you of the zealous Phinehas; and informed you of Ananias and Azarias, and Misael in the fire.

¹³And he used to glorify Daniel, who was in the den of lions, and pronounce him blessed.

¹⁴And he used to put you in mind of the scripture of Esaias, which saith, Even if thou pass through the fire, it shall not burn thee.

¹⁵He chanted to you David, the hymn-writer, who saith, Many are the afflictions of the just.

¹⁶He declared the proverbs of Solomon, who saith, He is a tree of life to all those who do His will.

¹⁷He used to verify Ezekiel, who said, Shall these dry bones live?

¹⁸For he did not forget the song which Moses taught, proclaiming, I will kill, and I will make to live.

¹⁹This is our life, and the length of our days.

²⁰O that bitter, and yet not bitter, day when the bitter tyrant of the Greeks, quenching fire with fire in his cruel caldrons, brought with boiling rage the seven sons of the daughter of Abraham to the catapelt, and to all his torments!

²¹He pierced the balls of their eyes, and cut out their tongues, and put them to death with varied tortures.

²²Wherefore divine retribution pursued and will pursue the pestilent wretch.

²³But the children of Abraham, with their victorious mother, are assembled together to the choir of their fathers; having received pure and immortal souls from God.

²⁴To whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.
